We Americans think we are very efficient. In fact, we are absolute-

Helen Wills, good California girl, is now Mrs. Frederick S. Moody, Jr. He is a Californian also. That wedding interests Americans, all fond of Helen Wills and proud of her. It also interests eugenists, who believe that a super-race could be built up by proper marriage selection.

Fortunately, they are wrong about that.

A super-race is being produced, not as basis of breeding horses or dogs, but produced by intense afmore than anything else decides the qualities of the child. For other details read the first chapter of "Tristam Shandy."

"Fly, Red Eagle of the Tyrol," is the name of a German play. Italy wants a scene changed in which a youth of German blood tells how Italian gendarmes shot his mother.

Germany will oblige: the play will be toned down.

The incident is interesting be-cause applause that greets the play and its patriotic utterances shows how easily a new war could start, once the nations get their breath.

hard to realize the possibility of drifting downstream in order to travel upstream, yet at one place in the world it is possible to set off downstream in a cance and end 45 miles farther upstream without apparently turning back. This was done by an Indian on a stretch of the Mississippi known as the Grenville bends, consisting of ny loops and curves continually doubling one on another. The Indian started at one of the lower bends and floated until he came to a narrow neck separating him from the next loop upstream. A "carry' of a few hundred feet brought him to a higher reach of the river. The operation was repeated again and again - floating down, carrying over, floating down, and carrying by floating down stream 16 miles and carrying his canoe a short distance on foot, he was 45 miles farther upstream than when he started.

First Food Preservatives

It is claimed that Nicholas Appert, a Frenchman born in 1750 at Chalons-sur-Marne, was the first to preserve food through sterilization by heat. Food had previously been preserved by the use of spices or the salt method, but Appert proved to the world the loss of food value by the old method and how the method he proposed not only re-tained food value, but also was more attractive and palatable. He experimented with meat, fish, and all sorts of vegetables and delighting in the different binations and forms in which the could be preserved.

S LOWLY, almost reverently, Nora Carney set the Christmas can-Carney set the Christmas can-dle in the window, whispering a prayer as she looked out into the cold, still night. Bravely the little flame gleamed out into the darkness; a beckoning light to any wan-derer that might be seeking shel-

"Mother won't you tell us the story of Christmas again?" little Michael asked. "Tell us about the coming of the Christ Child, andand the reason they light the Christmas candle in Ireland?"

Nora Carney had been born in reland. Now, her home was in Ireland. the midst of a great western prairie, but, as her children gathered around her, she told them the story of the coming of the Christ Child and the reason for the lighting of the Christmas candle as her mother used to tell it to her long ago, around a glowing peat fire in faraway Ireland.

"You know, children," she began, "when Jesus came here there was no place for Him. Joseph and Mary were so tired and so weary after the long journey into Bethlehem, but every place they sought a shelter they got the same answer, "no room." People took little interest them because they were poor; so they had to go out to that dark, cold cave, and there the little Christ Child was born. Angels were singing their songs of joy and welcome for Him over the hills of Judea, but in Bethlehem they sought a shelter in vain."

"I wish our house had been there, mother; we-we would have let them in," little Mary interrupted, Mrs. Carney stopped to stroke the curly head with her workworn hand, then went on: "In Ire-land there is a beautiful legend that very often Mary, with the little Christ Child in ber arms, comes back to earth on Christmas eve, and wanders around seeking a shelter for herself and Jesus. And lest she might seek a place in vain, a Christmas candle is placed in every home to guide her."

"Oh, children," she went on, her voice taking on a radiant note, "It is a beautiful sight to look out on Christmas eve and see every and valley in Ireland dotted with little golden lights; the whole counlooks like one big Christmas

She stopped a few moments as memory carried her back over the years and she was looking on the scene once more; then, at the insistence of the children, went on: "This was how the beautiful custom of lighting the Christmas candle started and it has been kept up through the years."

"But - but-" prac practical-minded Jimmie interrupted: "They-the mother and child don't really come back-do they?"

"I-I don't know for sure, Jimmie, but I do know that very often others that the Christ Child loves are needing aid or shelter. Some times it is only a kind word, or a bit of encouragement, maybe, but if we give it, and give it cheerfully at Christmas, we are really doing it for Him and—and giving Him the shelter that they refused in Bethlehem long ago. You know the words He sald when He was here: "Inasmuch as ye do it unto the least of these, ye do it unto Silence fell upon the room after the story was finished. Even prac tical-minded Jimmle asked no other question. All the children seemed be looking toward the little candle that was shining so bravely in the window. Now, after the story that they had listened to, it was no ordinary candle that they were looking at; it had grown to be something sacred, something swers. inspiring.

And in the years to come, matter where the Carney children might be scattered over the earth, always the lighting of the Christ-mas candle would bring back the memory of this hour, and for all of them it would always be a symbol of the love and desire to help others at Christn a for His sake. ## Relics of "Boom" Days on Death Valley Trail Stovepipe well is a hole in the sand on the east side of Death val-ley at the foot of Death valley buttes, writes Burke Lee in the Saturday Evening Post. When treighters were making regular trips across the valley during the mining boom, men and stock got water at Stovepipe well. The well was hard to find until some one thrust a short plece of stovepipe into the sand to mark it. Very thirsty men got water at the Stovepipe well is a point of interest to the tourists. They take pictures there. Sometimes they taste the water.

Across the road from the well is the Bottle dugout. Two-thirds of the dugout is underground. In hot weather the valley is cooler be-low the surface. The Bottle dug-out is a curiosity. It was a saloon in the days of the freighters. The freighters crossing the valley on the old Bullfrog trail stopped at Stovepipe well and helped to empty the bottles that went into the walls of the Bottle dugout.

Land Transference

From 3000 B. C. down to the Christian era the form of documents transferring land remained practically the same. First came a description of the land, its size and exact location; then the names of the seller and the buyer and a statement that the land in question had been sold. Usually the price was paid at once, but there are cases when the purchase was made on credit-this credit being a promise to pay written in the contract or made before witnesses. At the end of the contract was a note to the effect that the participants have corroborated the purchase by oath (similar to our oaths before notaries for legal papers); then followed the signatures and the names of witnesses.

Invented Monkey-Wrench

It is supposed that the word "monkey" in monkey-wrench is a corruption of the proper name Moncke. There is a tradition that wrenches with moving jaws adjust-able by a screw first were made by a London blacksmith named Charles Moncke, and that the implements originally were called Moncke wrenches. Owing to popular ignorance as to the origin of the word, it was cosrupted into monkey.

Ancieut Pictish Tower

Little remains to identify th early race of people that occupied the British isles prior to the com-ing of the Germanic tribes and the beginning of things historical. Some evidences of their civilization are found, however, and among them this Pictish tower, or castle, on the small island of Mousa in the Shet-land group. It is about 40 feet high and 158 feet in circumference at the base.

Christmas on a Battleship

By HAROLD COOK

NICE old lady who had no relatives, but who did have plenty of money, wanted to spread Christmas happiness where she thought there would be none. She therefore prepared fifty beau-tiful packages all nicely wrapped in white tissue paper and nicely tied with red ribbon. In the packages were razor blades and bars of chocolate candy and bags of peanuts, cigarettes, talcum powder, shaving cream and other things she thought would be acceptable to Uncle Sam's sailors.

On Christmas afternoon she had the packages piled into the back of her car and her chauffeur drove her to the navy yard. A handsome sailor was detailed to show her around, and what she saw was an education to a woman who believed that all sailors are half-starved paupers who earn but thirty dole was immediately conducted to the flagship. It was beautifully trimmed for the holiday. Christmas trees were everywhere-on the stern, on the bow, on the towers, and even at the ends of the gangplanks leading to the ship. And one whole deck had been divided into little booths by the different divisions of sailors, and decorated like Greenwich Village dance balls for a festive celebration. Dim lights, fireplaces, radio music, and girls and children were everywhere. The sailors were dancing and having a fine time. The children wandered unrestricted and wideeyed on all parts of the ship. They were orphans from the city, whom the sailors had entertained for dinner. And here is a list of the good things that the orphans and the sailors had to eat:

Celery, pickles and olives, roast turkey with giblet gravy, oyster dressing and cranberry sauce, baked spiced ham with green peas and asparagus tips, candled sweet potatoes and boiled onlons and mashed potatoes. Lettuce and to-mato salad, mince and pumpkin ple, mixed nuts, oranges and caudies, pound cake and ice cream bread and butter and coffee.

Besides this splendid dinner, the sailors had given each orphan a Christmas package of toys, the men of one division had added a dollar bill to each package they gave out, so that the child could buy what he wanted for himself ff Santa Claus had not given it.

The good old woman was delight-She asked her guide to find some sallors who had not received any presents, and soon forty-nine of them, mostly orphans themselves, were gathered around her to receive gifts. Thus these care-free sallors who had so generously given of their little to make others, younger orphans happy, each received for himself the kind of present that he could enjoy most on the ship. But the kind old lady was reserving the loveliest package of all for some special case. She was just beginning to wonder if there were one such when her guide took her into the sick ward. About twelve sailors were lying there in bed with books and boxes and even flowers They looked around. The old lady asked the athappy. The old lady asked the at-tendant if they had all had a happy Christmas, and he replied, "Yes, madam, all but one." He pointed to the far end of the room where there was a beautiful, smiling black-haired boy lying in a bed He seemed happy in just watching the other boys enjoy their presents but he had not received a single gift bimself, as he was an orphan Two little children whom he had especially befriended were stand-ing by his bed talking with him The old lady moved down toward him and handed him her loveline him and handed him her loveliast package with a cheery "Merry Christmas!" Tears of gratitude and joy welled to the boy's eyes and the old lady bestened from the room to spane him the embarrass ment of thanking her for the gift. Her eyes ware moist, too, with tears of the happingst Christmas day that she had ever had.

furnish us with sufficient quantities of Vitamine C if we are to enjoy a full measure of vigor and good health. When children are irritable, if they show a lack of stamina, or if their growth is retarded, one or all of these unfortunate conditions may be due to nothing more than lack of this precious vitamine. Children suffering from all of these symptoms of malnutrition have been cured by supplying them with foods in which the vitamine is contained in large proportions. Onlons are rich sources of Vita mine C, especially when eaten raw When cooked they retain a considerable proportion of their Vitamine C content, differing in this respect from many other vegetables in which the vitamine is less stable, and, therefore, is lost in cooking. Onions are inexpensive, and can be prepared in so many different ways that there is no reason why you and your family should not consistently profit by their dietetic value, without ever complaining of the monotony of their appearance on the table. Betty ran the comb through the wavy hair of the dummy thought-fully and applied a hair curler. Resolutely sile shapped the rub-ber band into place. Betty was a stranger. Her room was comfortable, her salary sufficient, but com-panionship she had not found. Holiday planning was entirely apart from her. She decided with the snap of that rubber band that there would be a place in the Christmas cheer-somewhere-for

Gertrude noticed the change in Betty. "She's getting human," she whispered, then, "What's his name, Sunshine?" she teased, approaching that familiarity which appertains to those they like. "You'd be sur-prised," Betty laughed.

On the street car she found her inspiration. "Masquerade Ice Car-nival," the handbill read, "North River at Beaver Bend, Benefit for Crippled Children, Christmas eve

Christmas eve found her radiant and happy, enjoying her favorite sport. Masked, she did not seem alone. Suddenly they began chang-ing partners. Betty found herself skating first with one man then another. They enjoyed her easy glide and graceful turns. A kiltie-clad Scotchman seemed always ready to take her hand when another let it go. "Aren't you tired?" he asked;
"let's have lunch." It had not occurred to her to be tired—her skates were Cinderella slippers. skates were Cinderella slippers. The Scotchman's request was like the midnight bell. This stranger must not know she was alone, and to accept his invitation would be to invite discovery. "I must find my friends," she prevaricated, skating swiftly away. Having obtained her wrap from the checkroom she found a sleigh "for hire" instead of a pumpkin charlot and sped home over the crispy snow.

Betty chided and excused herself for her unfinished fun and the sudden dismissal of her delightful skating partner; "I didn't dare. I couldn't bear to have him know I came alone." Happy reflections filled her Christmas day. Next morning in the store girts putting their stock in order. "Well. Sunshine, did he come?" asked Ger-trude, folding the covercloth. "Of

Then won't you go with me to the lee rink tonight? I love to skate with you, Betty. I do enjoy skating. Then perhaps you'll tell me why you ran away."

Betty laughed happily and promised.

Back to the main floor they went, forgetful of the badly needed head. "Where's the new doll, Sunshine?" said Hattle. "There wasn't any—that is—that would do." Betty was thinking more of skating than of marcelling dummles that day and soon another girl had the demon-

Children Like this Safe Prescription

Coughs and Sore Throat Relieved Almost Instantly

Stop children's coughs and sore throats before these ailments lead to dangerous ills. Thoxine, a doctor's prescription, now assures relief within 15 minutes to children as well as adults without the danger in the use of patent medicines containing harmful drugs.

Thoxine works on a different principle, goes direct to the source of trouble and relieves the irritation which causes the coughing and sore throat. Ideal for children because it is safe and does not have the usual "nasty-medicine" taste. No gargling. Just ask for Thoxine put up ready for use in 35c., 60c. and $1.00 bottles. Money back if not relieved. Sold by Holmes Drug Co. and all other good Drug Stores.

Planning For the Year Most of the Chambers of Commerce have arranged definite plans of work for the next year, having laid out the things they expect to accomplish, rather than undertake work at haphazard as it may appear important. Since they first begun more systematic eforts the results have been far better than they were under the old hit-ormiss system. Brownwood, for instance, has 12 planks in the platfrom of its chamber of commerce for 1930. One of these is "an all weather, all the way" highway, through Brownwood from Fort Worth to Del Rio. Another is the extension of the Frisco railroad from Brady to Del Rio. Just think of the help Brownwood is going
