The O'Donnell Index

O. D. CARTER Editor W. H. RITZENTHALER Bus. Mgr. $1.50 PER YEAR—IN ADVANCE

Advertising Rates on Application. Entered as second class matter September 28, 1923, at the post office at O'Donnell, Texas, under the Act of March 3, 1879.

An example of the fine co-operation on the part of the business men of O'Donnell was the way in which they all with one accord agreed to establish a certain definite closing time.

The benefits to be derived from this action are many and varied. First, the days are so long during these months that employers and employees may have time for rest and recreation at the close of the warm day.

Another progressive measure in conjunction with the establishment of a closing hour was the decision of the meat markets to remain closed on Sunday mornings.

A prominent business man, referring to the evening closing time, said: "There ought to be a federal law prohibiting any merchant from opening up before 8 a. m. or closing after 6 p. m. with a penalty of twelve months imprisonment at hard labor for violation."

THE GREATEST NEWSPAPER

There are some publications in the larger cities which "admit" that they are the world's "greatest newspapers," said G. S. Crane, of Campbell-Ewald Company, not long ago. "The greatest newspaper in California is not published in New York City. Chicago has none that compares with it."

"The greatest newspaper in North America is issued in 11,500 editions, fifty-two times a week, published in 11,000 separate newspaper offices in 8,000 different towns and villages throughout the United States."

NEWSPAPER BY RADIO

Another amazing radio feat was recorded a few days ago when the entire front page of a San Francisco newspaper was transmitted on the air to Schenectady, N. Y., 2,500 miles away.

Radio engineers predict that some day this means of disseminating news may become common, and that the pages of newspapers may be displayed on a screen in the home by means of an attachment to the family radio.

THE LONDON PARLEY

As this is written it appears that the London conference on naval limitation has not been a very great success. Perhaps it has done no harm, but it is difficult to see in its work any very large measure of accomplishment.

It also appears from the result of the recent Republican primary in Illinois that the American people are still adverse to mixing very much in international politics.

The responsiveness of American opinions seem to be that our best security lies in a friendly attitude toward the rest of the world, while maintaining our own independence of action in matters of foreign policy.

At London all the old manifestations of national jealousy and distrust croaked out anew. Delegates from each nation have been looking out for their own country's interests as they had a right to do.

Histroy has amply proved that written treaties and agreements are of little value unless they are backed up by the power to prevent war. The statesmen who happen to be at the head of the various nations, as well as the citizens themselves, have within themselves the power to have peace or war.

ECLIPSE OF THE SUN TO BE VISIBLE APRIL 28

Those who enjoy watching an eclipse should have their smoked glasses ready for Monday, April 28, when the only eclipse of the sun to be visible in America this year will occur.

It will be total in parts of California, Oregon, Nevada, Idaho and Montana, and nearly so in other portions of the western United States. The rest of the country it will be seen as a partial eclipse.

BREACH OF CONTRACT

A certain breeder of dairy cattle in one of the southern states is distinguished for two things—the excellent quality of his cattle and his relentless insistence on his hired hands keeping busy.

"I know it! I know it!" railed the dairyman. "You don't want a steady job, you no-account rascal!" "Yassuh, boss, Ah does" protested the dorky, "but you's been layin' me off six hours even 'n'ight."

TRANSATLANTIC TELEPHONY PROGRESSES

Transatlantic telephony calls during 1929 increased about 60 per cent over 1928, due to the marked improvement made in efficiency during the year and to the extension and addition of transmission facilities.

MISSIONARY TELLS OF "MAKE-BELIEVE" CHINA AND SENDS PICTURE OF THEIR GOD OF WEALTH

C. P. O. Box No. 1234, Shanghai, China, Jan. 30, 1930.

Dear Editor, Here comes a letter from this land of "make-believe." This is the Chinese New Year, but the government would make believe it is abolished and forbids its celebration. But it IS Chinese New Year. Firecrackers boom as the old people in their best "go-to-meetin'" greet their friends with "Kong-hsi-dai!"

South's Cotton Income

In 1923, 10,000,000 bales of cotton brought $1,600,000,000. In 1926, 18,000,000 bales of cotton brought $982,000,000.

Southern farmers planted 37,123,000 acres to cotton in 1923 and 48,730 acres in 1926. It is plain that a gain of 11,507,000 acres in cotton brought Southern farmers a loss of $618,000,000 in actual cash, while they made the world a present of the 1930 crop.

The acreage must be reduced. What are you going to do about it?

I suffered something awful for five years with kidney trouble. Also stomach disorders. I tried everything in the way of medicine I could hear of and the M. D.'s giving all the aid they knew but without results. I decided to try chiropractic, and all others had no faith, but found it didn't take faith as I had thought. Having to get up from 5 to 10 times a night with my kidneys, after the first few adjustments I truthfully say I had been done more good than all the medicine did. DADDY'S EVENING FAIRY TALE

Mary Graham Donner
COMPOSER OF "DADDY'S EVENING FAIRY TALE"

MORE SONGS

All of the instruments in the music were given Minna a concert. The Piano stool had just been singing a jolly, funny little song. After the Piano stool had finished and had given an extra twisting spasm instead of a bow, it was time for Minna's song. She had been one of the first to have a song, and she had thought this one up while they were making the final arrangements for the concert.

She was thankful she was in the act of making up songs, for that made it easier now.

Then everything was made so simple by these jolly, good-natured songs.

She had thought of the long-suffering Piano of whom the Bass Viol had spoken, and she had made up her song as an apology to dear Mother Piano, upon whom she had also sometimes made mistakes.

She played her own accompaniment, though she had more difficulty with her own song than with any of the others.

This was her song:
 "Oh! terrible I make mistakes—
 What am I going to do?
 What a mess of my music it makes—
 What am I going to do?
 The sharp and the flats get mixed up when I play,
 And my own clumsy fingers just get in my way."
 "Oh! terrible I make mistakes—
 What am I going to do?"

to get up and how many times after her song. Then the Music Director waited for Minna to place it on top of the piano, and after making a brief speech explaining that it was a very little mechanical thing, and she made no pretense at being a great artist, this song was sung in regular vaudeville fashion:

I play a little old time tune,
 I'm really very cute,
 But you must wind me up unless
 You'd rather I stayed mute.

I play a second tune as well,
 And if you're feeling dreary,
 Be sure you wind me all you can
 Before I get too weary!

And now came the greatest surprise of all. Straight out of the exercise books marched the scales.

What funny, rambling-looking creatures they were, but it appeared it was as yet time for either scales or exercises, so they went back again, talking to themselves as they went, their voices going up and down as they went.

During the interruption the Saxophone and Violin both went over to Minna to praise her for the way she was playing.

And then the Bass Viol announced an interruption, during which everybody chatted just as quickly and as much as they could—as though they had been kept quiet for as long a time as possible and now were bursting with conversation.

But soon the Metronome was allowed to call out:

"Con-tin-ue!"

And the concert was continued once more. Minna was very glad of this, and now the Piccolo came over to turn her music, for he said he was not going to sing this evening.

It was a splendid concert!

NEW INSURANCE RATE HERE NOW IN EFFECT, GOOD FIRE RECORDS GET REDUCTIONS

Statements showing that the fire loss ratio of O'Donnell for the years 1927, 1928 and 1929 is .175 have been filed with, checked and approved by the Fire Insurance Department, according to the specific schedule just received by the city officials and insurance men here. This record, the schedule points out, entitles O'Donnell to a credit of 15 per cent which local agents are to deduct from the final premium on all policies written on or after March 1, 1930, to February 28, 1931, only, and covering property located within the corporate limits of O'Donnell.

Policies effective prior to March 1, 1930, are not effected by the credit unless a change in hazard of the individual risk occurs on or after that date, and the rate on such risk is revised by printed supplement.

It is noted that this reduction is effective to February 28, 1931, only, so it behooves the people of this city to take every reasonable precaution in order to maintain this fine fire record.

MAYOR E. M. WILDER RETURNS HOME AFTER ENJOYING REAL VACATION

Catches All The Fish In Marion County and Visits Old Time Friends Back East

Mayor E. M. Wilder, who has been back in East and North Texas for over a month, returned to O'Donnell Thursday last week. While away Mr. Wilder visited relatives and friends at his old home town of Jefferson, Marion County, Dallas, Fort Worth, Waco, Austin, Houston, Lufkin and Nacogdoches. Those who contemplate fishing trips this summer had better stay out of Marion County, for the mayor spent most of his time catching all the fish there.

While in Dallas, Mr. Wilder called on his old friend, F. F. Florence, president of the Republic National Bank, who stated that in his opinion business conditions in Texas are improving. Mr. Florence thinks that with the planting of crops and general activities over the state, money is getting easier, collections better and confidence restored.

Friends of O'Donnell's popular mayor are glad to see him back and looking so well. He says he is feeling like his old self again. It will be remembered that Mr. Wilder recently passed through a serious illness, but one would not judge from his present looks that he had ever been sick.

The Buck Passer

"I'd be mighty glad to see you win that trip or the cash; it's a wonderful prize. But, really, you'll have to see my wife about a subscription; I let her attend to all that sort of things."
In matters of business or amusement THE BUCK PASSER spends hundreds of dollars without a word to his wife—but—in the case where he does not want to put out and put off he always passes the buck to his better half. He is quite a man, in his own estimation, and if you want to know how much hair is on his chest, just mention anything that will cost him money, and he will beat it for his wife's skirts, just as a little chicken scurries to its mother's wings.

The $1 Philanthropist

"Sure, I'll take a subscription to The Index and an Advertising Card also, to help you out. I always believe in boosting a community proposition and then, too, I always like to help my friends in anything that comes along."
"Your father was one of my best friends. He did me a good turn once years ago, and I've always remembered it. I'm the one that returns a kindness. The Index has shown me a lot of favors. I always appreciate that sort of thing."
"So you know that I am glad to help you. Hope that you win the first prize. Sure, write me up."
"O—TEN DOLLARS, did you say? Oh, my Lord, NO! About all I can stand today is $1.00."

Dutiful Discourager

"I'd like to help you the best in the world—but—it won't do any good. There's no use working for one of those prizes when they give them to their friends anyway. I stand by my friends and try to keep them from doing anything that would get their hopes up and then disappoint them in the end."
The Dutiful Discourager goes around throwing cold water on the hopes of his friends, whatever they happen to be doing. In the course of a year he saves $20 or more, so you see, it pays in the long run. If it costs one of his friends $1,000 in the Index Travel Club, that's their hard luck—not his.

The Ready Promiser

"Sure, I'll help you out as much as I can. I think that I owe them for sending me The Index for the last few years. Come around and see me a little later, and I'll give you a subscription and buy an Advertising Card also."
Three days later: "Yes, I told you to come back, but really, I'm awfully busy today and you'll have to excuse me."
Two weeks later: "Did you say that this was the third time that you have come back to get that subscription that I promised you? Well, I didn't tell you to come back today, did I? You people must think I haven't anything to do but talk to you about subscriptions. If you keep on worrying me I won't buy any at all."

The Foreign Advancer

"I certainly wish that I could help you win, but I am paid too far in advance now with other newspapers. I couldn't think of it. I just don't want to get my papers too far in advance. I might move away or die before they run out."
Yet the FOREIGN ADVANCER never buys one gallon of gas, or a postage stamp or a single egg at a time. He pays his insurance premiums, his railroad fare and a number of other things in advance to please himself—but—he won't pay for his community newspaper in advance (and sometimes not, at all) to please or help a friend win a prize worth five hundred times the subscription.

The Friend

"I'm mighty glad to see you working for The Index because I am a friend of theirs and want to see the paper go into ever home in this trade territory. I'm so sorry I can't give you a subscription, but you see, I get the paper for nothing, and you certainly wouldn't expect me to pay for it when I get it free."
According to our records quite a number of those who are such good friends of the paper have been getting it for nothing for the past three or four years. An examination of the books of other Lynn County business men would probably show that they are friends of the merchants, too, and get a large share of their good and clothes for nothing, also.

Kind-Hearted Kidder

"Now, what would you do with the money if you won it, anyhow? It would be too much money for you to have at no time—and it might go to your head. You would never forgive me after it had cost you the afterward regrets. A good looking girl can get all the money in the world that she wants without working hard for it, etc."
The Kind-Hearted Kidder has quite a reputation for himself as a home made humorist. He kids 'em from the cradle to the grave. He has a way with the women, and he gets away with it. Yes, sir, he'll tell you so himself. Everybody takes it good-naturedly though, because he received a blow on the head when quite a boy.

The Modern Samson

"Give you a subscription to The Index? Not on your life. After what they said in the paper about my friends and that editorial about the Clean-Up Day—I wouldn't have it as a free gift."
The Modern Samson believes in punishing the man who differs with him in opinion, even if he has to punish himself and a dozen innocent persons at the same time. He wears a personal grudge like a rose in his lapel, and is just as proud of it, too. Like the ancient Samson of Biblical fame, smiting the Philistines, he uses the jawbone of an ass—usually his own.

The I. Noah

"I. Noah girl who worked in one of them subscription campaigns once and all she got was a cheap wrist watch. And she worked hard, too, and it didn't do no good. And here, I Noah woman who won a car and she said it cost her more than it was worth."
I. Noah is personally acquainted with something sad or something bad about everything in life. He is a calamity howler, a joykiller, whenever his pocketbook is in danger. He would not put out a thin dime to see the Statue of Liberty ride a bicycle.

The Amateur Librarian

"I'd certainly like to see you win the cash. It's a fine price—but—you know that I am getting more papers now than I have time to read. My wife is taking all of the women's magazines. I just stopped my News the other day because I never had time to look at it."
The Amateur Librarian must have his home stacked full of useless literature now published in New York, Cincinnati and Washington, which, according to his own confession, he never has time to read, and consequently must use it for building fire. He saves quite a lot in his coal bill this way. Coal costs $15 and newspaper $90 a ton F. O. B. O'Donnell.

The Chronic Bankrupt

"I wish that I could help you. I like The Index. It's a good paper, and I wish that I could take it, but I just ain't able. There are so many things coming up that I have to pay, and money's scarce. Times aren't so good. I wish I could afford to help you, but I just haven't gotten the money."
The Chronic Bankrupt frequently spends ten times as much on chewing tobacco as his home paper would cost him. And he takes a trip to New York or Atlantic City that costs him more than a dozen ten-year subscriptions to the Index. If he had a dollar for every lie that he told about the state of his pocketbook, he'd be a millionaire.

The Last Timer

"If there's anybody in the Club that I would like to see win, it is YOU, for your husband and father give us quite a bit of business in the course of the year. But the last time that they had a subscription drive in O'Donnell, I swore off, and I said to myself, 'Never again!'"
Why the LAST TIMER swears off usually remains a deep, dark mystery. He's one of those men who are hard to understand, who cultivate the air of knowing a lot more than they care to say. They swear off a lot of promises. And that these mysterious contracts that they make with themselves might cost one of their friends a nice prize does not worry them.

SCHOOL NEWS

All the teachers and students of the grade school are deep in the important business of rehearsing for the operetta. Reports indicate that this will be one of the most brilliant of the commencement exercises. A high mark has been set in the past years, but those in charge of the "Day in Flowerdom" think that this operetta is the prettiest of them all. The primary teachers ask that the readers pardon the brevity or the lack of reports from a few rooms this week and remember that the children and the teachers are working for your pleasure.

Miss Millwee's Room
Our room and Mrs. Street's room had an Easter egg hunt last Friday afternoon. We all got plenty of exercise chasing the Easter bunnies. We are glad to have Paul Edwards and Doris Lawler back in school again. We sent Easter greetings to Eunice Ollon, one of our classmates who is ill in a Lubbock hospital. We hope to have her back again soon.

Mrs. Edwards' Room
Honor Roll: Cecene McKee, Scottie St. Clair, Ruby Rathiff, Willie Hanes, Lemetta Robinson, Robert Campbell, Champion Echols, Louise Bean, Wilma Jane Phillips, Estelle Stultemier, Ioma Page, Jack McIlroy, Billie E. McCorn, Fannette Bullard, Leta Merle Koeninger, Maurice Payne, Mack C. Bradley, Gwendolyn Hodges, Oswald Ballow, Viola Culp. We had a picnic and an Easter egg hunt Thursday afternoon. Our room mother, Mrs. Bradley, went with us. We played games and all had a good time.

Miss Harville's Room
Last Friday afternoon our room had an Easter egg hunt. Mrs. Willis added much to the pleasure of the day with her gift of a beautiful Easter lily. Saturday afternoon our room went to a party given by Ruth Williams and Lois Howard at Ruth's home. We played games until time to go to a nearby pasture where we hunted eggs. After the eggs were all found we went to the Howard home where we were served delicious ice cream cones. Everybody had a lovely time.

Miss Jordan's Room
Honor Roll: Jack Clements, Weldon Street, Dean Schooler, Aris Thompson, Lena Mae Russell, Homer Parker, Deloris Bell, Lendon Russell, Aleene Gates, Jennie V. Debusk, Joe Burkett, Billie Marie Ash, Wallace Cook, Darus Sunrow, Sibylle Hayes. Everyone in the high fourth made 100 per cent on the spelling exam. Last Friday afternoon the fourth grade went on a picnic and Easter egg hunt. Our visitors were our room mother, Mrs. Street, and Roy Parker. Vernon Culp found twenty-four eggs, the greatest number found by the boys, and Jennie V. Debusk found nine, the greatest number found by the girls. They were given a beautiful basket filled with eggs as their prizes. After the hunt we played ball until the picnic lunch was spread, and then we all enjoyed the sandwiches, fruit and cookies. After we had eaten our room mother gave us a rabbit and a balloon. We all had a delightful time and enjoyed our visitors as well.

Miss Gary's Room
Our contest ended last Thursday with each side having an average of 82. We celebrated by going on an Easter egg hunt near our room mother's home. After a lively ball game and the hunt, lemonade and cookies were served. We enjoyed the visit of Mrs. Ables and Mrs. Scott. We hope they will come again and bring other mothers with them. These pupils are standard in multiplication: Willie Mae McDaniell, Beatrice James, Wynelle Scott, Audrey Pettv, Garland Curtis, Floyd Heathington, Mary Louise Inman and Christine Ables.

Miss Gates' Room
We have finished the examinations for the eighth month of school, and the following pupils made the honor roll: Mildred Goddard, Norma Ruth Vermillion, Velva Johnson and Ruby Bradford. Bennie McCarley of T-Bar has been visiting our room this week. We are very glad to have her.

Our room has joined the "Health Guards Club." The health honor roll is as follows: Bobbie Carroll, Mildred Goddard, Mae Caddell, Mae Frost, Norma Ruth Vermillion, Bill Clements, Leo Schooler, Velva Johnson, Donald Street, Ruby Bradford, Merle Miles, Frances Foster, G. H. Brewer, Frances Stokes. You should visit our room and see the bouquets of roses. Their yellow and red beauty makes us realize that spring is really here.

Miss Hancock's Room
Our room has entered into a heated contest this week which will end next Friday. We are selecting from our room the best looking, best all-round and most popular girls in every subject determines the votes cast. If a pupil makes 100 per cent in arithmetic he may win a boy and for his candidate. The contestants are as follows: Best looking girl, Dortha Payne, Grace Hasley; best all round girl, Mary Hamilton, Dorothy Walls; most popular girl, Modene McLaughlin, Margaret Vermillion; best looking boy, Harold Gibson and W. Gardin; best all round boy, Robert Gary, Vernon Cook; most popular boy, Earle Guye, Ira Page.

Our room mother, Mrs. Vermillion, and Miss Hancock gave us an Easter egg hunt last Friday. Mary Hamilton and Harold Gibson found the most eggs. After the hunt we were served delicious sandwiches, cookies and pop. Several games were enjoyed, and we returned home tired but happy because of our good time. The health and history clubs are making term posters instead of writing term themes. Some good work has been done. Just two more weeks of real work and we are trying not to let it be said of us: "Lost: Yesterday, somewhere between sunrise and sunset, two golden hours set with sixty diamond minutes. No reward is offered, for they are gone forever."

Mrs. Gilbreath's Room
Our Easter egg hunt was a great success. About three hundred eggs were left for us to find. Glen Payne was lucky enough to find the golden egg. Geneva Bean found the greatest number of eggs, and both were given prizes. Our room is decorated this week with our health and history posters. We are very proud of our posters because Mrs. Gilbreath had to give some "A" plus this time. Our room sister, Miss Terry, called on us last week and after an afternoon of lively entertainment she served us sacks of popcorn, each having a prize. We think we have the best room teacher of them all.

Mrs. Gooch's Room
The close of school is drawing near, and we are glad to announce that Lawrence Tredway and Veda Shumake will be our valedictorian and salutatorian. We had a pleasant picnic last Friday afternoon, leaving just after four o'clock and returning about eight-thirty. We played ball while our room mother, Mrs. George Shumake, and Mrs. Gooch had the Easter eggs. Our room is preparing to put on a play, "The Merry Red", during commencement week. We are striving to do our best and hope to make a success.

MANY AILMENTS YIELD QUICKLY TO NEW KONJOLA

Manager of East Side Stone Yard Eagerly Praises Merits of New Medicine

MR. JAMES A. COX

"Stomach trouble, disordered kidneys and constipation over a period of six months, had placed me in a badly run-down condition," said Mr. James A. Cox, 630 Mathewson street, Wichita. "Gas and bloating followed even the simplest meals. Kidney weakness gave me frightful back pains and I was subject to frequent bladder actions. I was restless and found it difficult to sleep for any length of time. I had no appetite and was weak and listless. For two weeks I was utterly unable to work and it was during this time that Konjola was recommended to me by my friends.

"My appetite increased from the very day I began taking Konjola. My stomach gradually began to function as it should, and the back pains left me. Today I eat heartily without any discomfort whatever and am free from bloating. My kidneys are in excellent condition, and I am entirely free from constipation. My general health is better than it has been in a long time. I owe all this to Konjola."

It is logical to believe that what Konjola has done for others, it will do for you—for everyone. This is especially true if Konjola is given a fair trial. Six to eight weeks is recommended as a fair trial in stubborn cases. Konjola is sold in O'Donnell, Texas, at Whitsett Drug Co., and by all the best druggists in all towns throughout this entire section. —Adv.

FIRST INDEX BROUGHT IN BY BEN MOORE

A Few Items Picked From the First Issue of the Index in 1923 Bring Memories

Many people will remember the first issue of the O'Donnell Index, as well as names appearing in that issue. The paper consisted of four pages, all hand-set, and had a liberal advertising patronage. Prentiss A. Womble was editor.

Here are a few items of news published in O'Donnell's first newspaper six and a half years ago: At a meeting of the Chamber of Commerce Tuesday morning C. A. Doak was asked to take the president's chair in the absence of Mr. Mansell.

Doc Beach made a business trip to Slaton Thursday. Miss Lucille Hardberger left Monday for Abilene where she will attend Simmons College.

R. L. Waggoner and C. E. Williams were in Lubbock on business Tuesday. Messrs. Hatchett, Stephens and Brewer of Tahoka were O'Donnell visitors Tuesday. Miss Ethel Singleton left Sunday for Fort Worth where she will attend Texas Woman's College.

An advertisement: High class work and courteous treatment. R. O. Miles, Prop.

Another ad: Plenty of free air and water. Highway Garage. Others who had ads in this first issue of the Index were: White House Cafe, Hart Mercantile Co., First State Bank, Singleton's Store, Higginbotham-Bartlett Co., Campbell & Miles, Jeff Musick, O'Donnell Filling Station, Fritz Drug Store, O'Donnell Mercantile Co., Keny & Whitbanks, Lee Walker, J. N. Schooler & Co., Walters' Filling Station, Mansell Bros., Hardware, Jones Dry Goods, Jim Burnette, J. W. Boyle & Son, Russell's Garage, Wimberly & Fugh, and Ernest Cooper.

Another bridge story from New York: Miss Daisy Tunick held 13 spades; bid 8 spades; got set one. Fortunately for Daisy, her partner was unpaired, but he used violent language and the game broke up.

Italy's first juvenile court was recently established in Rome.

A NEW WAY

A golfer was considerably annoyed by the actions of a very slow player in front. And it happened that the latter was the owner of a pair of bow legs. Finally his patience exhausted, the victim drove "what" the deliberate player in front, and his ball passed neatly between the widespread bow legs.

This breach of etiquette enraged the gentleman with the arched eyebrows, and he marched quickly and sternly to the offender. "Do you call that golf, sir?" stormed. "No," answered the other, stammering. "But don't you think it was darned good croquet?"

The derrick is named for an English hangman named derrick and was first applied to scaffolds built by him in the 17th century.

The Chevrolet Motor Company just completed a new plant at Tampton, N. Y., which has a daily capacity of 900 cars.
