A Patriotic Fourth Means A Safe And Sane Observance

AUSTIN, July 1—Fourth of July will mean more to American liberty if workers on the home front will observe it by patriotic driving, the Texas Safety Association said today.

Automobile traffic over the long holiday week-end will be almost as heavy as other years, the association predicted, and unless motorists do something about it, so will the traffic toll.

Suggestions offered by the association include:

Drive under forty miles an hour. Patriotically observe all traffic rules and signals.

For patriotism's sake—don't drink before driving.

The result will be uninterrupted war production which since Pearl Harbor has been endangered by the traffic deaths of 17,000 Americans.

Last year 28 Texans were killed in traffic accidents over the Fourth of July holiday period.

Funeral Rites Held For Mrs. Wilson

Funeral services for Mrs. S. L. Wilson, 26, daughter of Lee Miller and a former resident here who passed away last week in Winslow, Ariz., were held Monday in Clovis, New Mexico.

Mrs. Wilson died in a hospital after sustaining burns when she, her husband and the landlord of the house they were to rent entered the place and struck a match, not knowing that the gas had been turned on a short time prior. According to relatives, no stoves had been installed when the connections were made. Mr. Wilson and the landlord both suffered severe burns in trying to rescue Mrs. Wilson.

The couple were moving from Clovis to Winslow where Mr. Wilson was to be employed. Relatives attending the funeral were Mr. and Mrs. Waldo McLaurin, Mr. and Mrs. Billy Cathey and Billy Jean, Mrs. Matt Cathey, Mrs. Henry Cathey, Mrs. Cathey Morrison, Mrs. Gerald Hancock, Mr. and Mrs. Sid Cathey, Jack Glenn Cathey, James Cathey.

Mrs. S. M. Minton returned Wednesday from a visit in Lubbock.

One hundred and sixty-six years have passed since the Declaration of Independence of these United States set forth all the principles of government by which those who moulded our Liberty believed a people could live in security and contentment. Those principles still stand. We are fighting for them now as hard as we ever fought for them. We—together with the United Nations—must and shall bring Liberty for all, for always, out of our ultimate victory.

Rain Falls Here Thursday Morning

A rain, totaling around an inch, fell in the O'Donnell territory early Thursday morning.

The moisture came at a time, and fell slowly enough, to prove of great benefit to growing crops and gardens.

FOR SALE—Austra White chickens. Have 250 laying hens. Located 10 miles NW of O'Donnell, one mile north of Wells. Mrs. C. L. Tyler, Rt. 3, O'Donnell.

Fire Destroys Old Landmark Here

Fire, thought to have originated in the attic, destroyed one of the older houses in O'Donnell Friday night about 8:30 p. m.

Occupied at the time, the dwelling once housed the telephone office. It was moved originally from Tahoka and placed upon a site in northeast part of town.

Mrs. Alvis Tredway and Gay Beverly of Amarillo are visiting relatives here.

Judge Reed Unable To Meet Voters

Judge Louis E. Reed is unable to make a personal campaign for reelection as District Judge, he reports, because of his assignment to active duty with the United States Army since January 12, 1942. Judge Reed kept up his Reserve Corps Commission by studies and successful passage of regular examinations for more than twenty years as a side line with his practice of law and other legal activities. He holds the commission now of Lieutenant Colonel, and is stationed at Fort Sill, Oklahoma.

Judge Reed, with the aid of the continuous docket he helped inaugurate in this district, left the dockets well cleared and court has continued as provided by law which provides for a Judge in the absence of the regularly elected official.

He wants to get this war over with and is not asking for a leave of absence or furlough to come home for campaigning for that reason. His campaign is thus left to his friends who are invited to read his message.

Mrs. Reed returned Friday from Fort Sill, Oklahoma, where she had been with her husband for several months, and called at the News office in company with J. E. Burton, court reporter for the 106th judicial district, who came from Lubbock to accept this position about six weeks ago.

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH

The First Baptist Church will begin a Revival Thursday night, July 16th, with Evangelist Jesse Yelvington and his music director leading in the revival.

Dr. Yelvington has been a pastor most of his ministerial life, having resigned recently in San Antonio to take up the evangelistic work with the Baptist General Convention of Texas. He has been very successful in his revivals. One pastor whom he has helped at least three times says he has no clap-trap hold your hand conversions. He preaches the simple gospel message and depends upon the Holy Spirit to convict and convert.

We extend to all our Christian friends and those who are not Christians a special urgent invitation to come to the revival.

TENT CITY BUILT AT LUBBOCK GLIDER SCHOOL

SOUTH PLAINS ARMY FLYING SCHOOL, Lubbock, July 1—A tent city has mushroomed into one of the few advanced Army glider training schools here on the site of the old Lubbock Municipal airport, north of town, under the command of Col. James W. Andrew.

Enlisted men, coming from the No. 1 flying school in Lubbock, the twin-engine base west of this community, made their appearance here this week. Gliders are expected momentarily while instructors have been assigned, tow planes are on hand and Col. Norman B. Olsen, director of training, expects to have his students well on their way by the middle of July.

West Texas has played a big part in the enlistment of the 200 glider pilots needed in Class B training, men without any previous flying experience. From Lubbock alone the Class B quota has been filled twice. Number of Class A students, those with experience, is not limited.

Students will come to the South Plains school from pre-glider schools. These men will have had dead stick training in light planes and will be ready for actual gliding. Power planes are used to tow the light gliders, from which they cut loose from the rope and "play for the thermal currents" to reach altitude and the game of soaring.

The Army has gone "all out" for the glider training since the advent of the successes in Europe and Asia. The Germans and Russians are known to have carried from 50 to 100 men including equipment, from one glider to five behind power planes across the enemy's lines.

"Gliding" as one student said, "has something to show!" (meaning there's a thrill in stacking your cards against Nature's hand of heat waves.)

Mr. and Mrs. Dallas Vaughn and Mrs. J. R. Miller were business visitors in Lubbock Tuesday.

Charles Guy Was Rotary Speaker

Charles Guy, publisher of the Lubbock Avalanche-Journal, was guest speaker at the Rotary Club here on last Tuesday and spoke upon his recent visit to Washington.

He was accompanied here by Roy Furr, grocer, and retiring president of the Lubbock club.

Club members, most of whom read Mr. Guy's column, had heard of some of his experiences, but had their eyes opened to many things happening in the capital city which are not usually printed. Red tape and "politics" as usual are doing their part in hampering our war effort, Mr. Guy explained.

Waldo McLaurin, newly elected president who succeeds Fletcher Johnson, will assume office next week when the "bean eaters" convene. A program has been arranged.

YOUNG COUPLE MARRIED

Miss Marjorie Buchanan, daughter of Mrs. Fred Buchanan, and Louis Clark were married at the Methodist parsonage last Saturday night by the Rev. H. H. Hollowell.

They were accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Cletus Cox.

REV. CRAWFORD TO CHILlicothe

The Rev. J. H. Crawford, Mrs. Crawford and two sons, Wayne and Marvin, of Seminole, left this week for their new home in Chillicothe.

Before going to Seminole the Crawfords lived here where he was pastor of the M. E. Church.

ATTENDED FUNERAL

Mr. and Mrs. William G. Forgy and daughter, Cynthia Rae, were in Chillicothe Tuesday to attend the funeral services for Mr. Forgy's only sister, Mrs. Samuel H. Crossley, who passed away Sunday.

Joe Kirkpatrick and Charlie Wells were business visitors in Amarillo last week end.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

Fresh Nazi Offensive Forces Red Army To Yield Key Ground Back of Kharkov; Rommel Drive Perils All Middle East; U. S. Names Leader for European Zone

(EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper.) Released by Western Newspaper Union.

The strategic importance of the Aleutian islands, off Southwest Alaska, is indicated by the above map. From Kiska, near the western end of the chain, to Tokyo the distance is less than 2,000 miles. Dutch Harbor lies 2,400 miles northwest of San Francisco. Jap landings in the fog-blanketed Aleutians have focused America's attention on that area.

RUSSIAN WAR: Nazis Pay Dearly

Marshal Timoshenko's Red army had sustained blow after blow on the Kharkov front as General von Bock's Nazi hordes tried a breakthrough to swing around Rostov, gateway to the Caucasus oil fields.

Stubbly resisting German forces numerically and mechanically superior to them, the Russians had been compelled to fall back to new lines. Here they had withstood heavy attacks of tanks, infantry and planes.

A Russian communique acknowledged the loss of the railway junction city of Kupiansk, 60 miles southeast of Kharkov.

The Reds were following a strategy that had served them well in last year's bloody campaigns—of fighting fiercely until forced to fall back, then withdrawing slowly to strongly prepared positions. Meanwhile they were taking an enormous toll in Nazi dead and slowing down Hitler's timetable.

Meanwhile, Britain brought additional aid to the Nazis with a world record raid on the German port city of Bremen. More than 1,000 planes raided Bremen, leaving it in flames. A British communique reported the loss of 52 planes.

TAX BILL: Biggest on Record

The average income taxpayer faced the prospect of paying about twice as much as he is now paying when the new federal revenue bill becomes operative.

As approved by the house ways and means committee, the new bill would provide a gross revenue estimated at $5,924,000,000—the largest tax ever collected in United States history. At that, it was a billion and a half short of the treasury department's original request for new levies to help finance war outlays.

Surprising to many fiscal experts was the house committee's action in striking out a provision making it mandatory for husbands and wives to file joint income tax returns.

The average wage-earner would be affected three ways under the new tax measure. The bill provides a normal income rate increase of from 4 to 6 per cent; exemptions for single men would be reduced from $750 to $500 and for married men from $1,500 to $1,200; surtaxes would be increased from 6 to 12 per cent on the first $1,000 of net taxable income.

U. S. INCOME: To Hit 117 Billion

Marriner S. Eccles, chairman of the Federal Reserve board told the nation that a new all-time record of 117 billion dollars for the annual national income would be reached during the war years.

Mr. Eccles warned Americans that this tremendous spending power will be far in excess of the consumer goods available to the buying public. Strict curtailment of all but necessary purchases, greater personal savings and steady buying of government war bonds, he said, will stop inflation.

The 1942 national income will be about 110 billion dollars, he said in a radio address. This will be about 30 billion more than it was in 1939.

HIGHLIGHTS . . . in the week's news

PRAGUE: The Nazi information service announced that 26 more Czechs had been shot in reprisal for the killing of Reinhard ("The Hangman") Heydrich.

WASHINGTON: The house ways and means committee voted to direct the post office department to increase third class mail rates to the point where the service pays for itself.

EUROPEAN FRONT: U. S. Takes Steps

A further step in the program to make the fighting efforts of the United States and Britain more effective and to pave the way for the second front was taken when the war department announced the establishment of a "European theater of operations for United States forces."

Director of this European theater was Maj. Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, recently assistant chief of staff of the war department general staff, who had already arrived in London when the announcement of his appointment was made.

Laconic was the statement issued by the new commanding general in which he said that "formal establishment of a European theater is a logical step in co-ordinating the efforts of Great Britain and the United States."

EGYPT: Tank Steeplechase

Sidi Barrani had fallen and Salum had been abandoned as the British strove by fierce rearguard actions to slow down the rush of Marshal Rommel's victory-flushed tank armies in engagements on which the fate of Egypt and Suez depended.

The serious plight of the British had been apparent following the surprise surrender of Tobruk in nearby Libya. Foxy General Rommel lost no time in following up his advantage by slicing into Egypt.

General Ritchie's battered forces had not made a stand at the Egyptian border because of the danger of encirclement, but had withdrawn to Mersa Matruh, 157 miles east of the Libyan frontier.

The British had been in possession of Sidi Barrani since December 11, 1940, when they drove out Italian troops which had occupied the town less than three months before and then launched a drive which swept 400 miles across the Libyan desert.

FAMILY MEN: Deferred by Draft

The departure of many a married draft inductee for training camp was halted when President Roosevelt signed legislation authorizing deferment of family men until the supply of single men is exhausted. This marked the first time in American military history that the policy of so preserving established families had been fixed by law.

Draft headquarters announced that married men with children would be the last to be called into service, but emphasized that they could count on no permanent deferment. The deferment clause applied only to men married before December 8, 1941.

Financial assistance to dependents of service men was provided in the measure, with the government furnishing the bulk of the monthly allowance check and the service men the balance. The allotments would go to army men up to and including the grade of line sergeants and navy men including third class petty officers.

Allowances include $50 a month for a childless wife of a service man, $62 for a wife with one child and $72 for a wife with two children.

ROME: Improvement in the health of Pope Pius was reported in a dispatch by the Vatican City press. Although the pope is giving no audiences, he is receiving his immediate collaborators, the dispatch disclosed. Doctors attending the pontiff were hopeful he could go to St. Peter's on the eve of St. Peter's day for the traditional visit to the apostle's tomb.

First Under-Water Photos of Life-Saving

A demonstration of life-saving is shown above, photographed for the first time under water, as staged by members of Boston chapter of the Red Cross. At left, three swimmers enact role of "victim," untrained rescuer and trained rescuer. Victim grabs would-be rescuer about neck; would-be rescuer gets panicky, grabs victim. Trained rescuer drops down on both and breaks their grips, prying both apart as shown in first and second photos. Right: Rescuer flexes knees for spring that will shoot both to surface.

Keep 'Em Loaded and Keep 'Em Flying

At an army air depot somewhere in the western part of the U. S., huge transport planes, "the flying box-cars" of the army air force, ship freight on wings to foreign battle fronts. At left the loading crew is transferring freight to waiting "flying box car." Inset: Poised for flight are these air freight planes, to any air field in case of an emergency call.

War Heroes—and Symbol of Their Purpose

Thirteen British and American war heroes visit Independence hall, Philadelphia, Pa., after being given a rousing welcome in New York. They are shown grouped around the Liberty Bell—the bell which is the symbol of that freedom in whose cause they performed their heroic deeds. The heroes then went to Washington to visit President Roosevelt.

Plead for Lives

Stark terror written on their haggard, unshaven faces, these five Frenchmen, accused by the Nazis of being saboteurs, cringe pitifully on their knees somewhere in Occupied France. Their fate? We leave that to your imagination.

Messerschmitt Flies Over U. S.

The first German Messerschmitt plane ever to fly in the U. S. took part in the Air Cavalcade—a joint army force and treasury department tour to boost sale of war bonds. The itinerary included 18 cities. The plane (shown above) was shot down over England. Included in the Cavalcade was a British Spitfire, famous fighter plane.

Swell Falla

"Falla," the nation's No. 1 Scottie, owned by President Roosevelt, did his share in the national scrap rubber salvage campaign by rounding up balls, rubber bones and other gadgets dear to the heart of a pup, and donated them to the drive.

GASOLATIONISTS!

According to a Washington report over 600 men have lost their lives at sea—in an effort to deliver gasoline for pleasure driving in the Eastern States. This means that the gas shortage is no longer a question of burning gasoline. It is now a matter of burning conscience.

Some people and certain newspapers continue to grumble about their loss of gas. But our armed forces have yet to protest their loss of blood. There are so-called Americans complaining today that they may have to walk. There are other Americans, casualties in battle, praying that some day they may be able to walk again.

The measure of their heroism is the measure of the gas slacker's cowardice. The gas slacker has his constitutional rights mixed up with his driver's license. He thinks that 10 million Americans are ready to stand behind a gun so that he can sit behind a wheel. It never occurred to him that cheating an ambulance out of its gasoline is as rotten as cheating the wounded out of their bandages.

To the Gasolationists, America is only a road map. But for a man who doesn't need it, a full gas tank means an empty heart.

The Story Tellers:

Hehehch: Mefoofsky's little boy, Max Jr., fell in with some toughs on the block who taught him the Nazi salute. He came home parading all over the house, doing it, yelling, "Hi, Hitler!" Mefoofsky's shocked entreaties were of no avail. In desperation he called in Dr. Schmetrick.

"Nu, doctor?" was Mefoofsky's frantic cry. "Do you tink ve'll have to hamputate?"

Include Him Out! A favorite Goldwyn story isn't a one-line snapper, to hear a Liberty editor tell it. It's a yarn that throws a spotlight on the famed producer.

Mr. Goldwyn sent for Edward Chodorov to discuss writing a picture. He was shown a script. He told Goldwyn he didn't think it would make a good flicker. Of course, Goldwyn didn't hire him. The story was "Woman Chases Man" and was one of Goldwyn's few failures.

Several years later, Goldwyn needed a writer. The new story editor suggested Eddie Chodorov. Goldwyn hit the ceiling. "Never mention that name to me," he thundered. "I won't have him around. He was connected with one of my worst flops!"

The Dep't of Justice is working over-time probing backgrounds of a crowd of candidates for various Federal benches. . . . Admiral Kimmel, suspended following the Pearl Harbor disaster, was cheered by 200 of his Annapolis college-mates at a Washington dinner recently. . . . Reader's Digest, which advertises a million circ, has 5.

New York Heartbeat:

The Big Parade: Eve Curie, chin cupped in hand, studying the Hudson from a Claremont Inn ringside table. . . . Jeanne Cagney, Jimmy's kid sister, a refreshing breeze. . . . Lieut. J. Bryan, 3rd, of the Curtis mags, and his bride doing the midtown before shoving off to a naval indoctrination school. . . . Dean Murphy, the mimic of FDR and other well-knowns, treating the Loew's Staters to his art.

Memos of a Midnighter: Lord Mountbatten, while here, dwelled at the Lowell Hotel under the name of Major Phillips. . . . Billy Conn's chums say he needs a fight, too, to pay income taxes of $11,000. . . . Add to the Fergoodnessakes Dept. Brig. Gen'l Hale's punch line about Midway: "The Navy found the enemy—and the Army, Navy and Marines gave 'em hell!" was edited by some radio stations to: "—gave 'em the works!" . . . The Hays Office changed the movie title: "The Magnificent Jerk" to "The Magnificent Dope," and what happens? In the film, the word jerk is heard three times.

Polo Grounds Vignette: Johnny Long and Bob Chester relay it. . . . Both stood, of course, when the National Anthem prefaced the game. . . . Directly in front of them stood a bloke wearing his sombrero. . . . Bob tapped him lightly on the shoulder and said: "How about your military?" . . . "Oh, I forgot," was the reply, "I'm so sensitive about being bald." . . . "You're in good company," said Johnny, "so's the American Eagle!"

How is the war going? On the neutral exchanges in Switzerland the Nazi mark has taken a terrific dive—dropped 20 per cent in the last two wks. And to our whiners about inflation: The U. S. $ has gone up correspondingly in Zurich. . . . Hanson Baldwin, naval expert, believes the war will last seven years. One important exec (not FDR) believes that by 1945 Germany will again belong to the Germans—and that Hitler will belong to the historians. . . . H. L. Mencken's next book will be reminiscences of his mag days.

FDR Says Keep On Advertising; Gives Reasons

NEW YORK—President Roosevelt said recently that "the desire for liberty and freedom can be strengthened by reiteration of their benefits" through advertising.

In a message to the thirty-eighth annual convention of the Advertising Federation of America, the President said:

"It is obvious that there are many changes going on in your field. For the duration there will be a diminution in product advertising, but this does not mean an end of advertising."

"There are many messages which should be given the public through the use of advertising space. The desire for liberty and freedom can be strengthened by reiteration of their benefits."

"If the members of your organization will, wherever possible, assist in the war program and continue the splendid spirit of co-operation which they have shown during the past year, advertising will have a worthwhile and patriotic place in the nation's total war effort."

As an example, a family of five members who can 160 quarts of fruit in a year might use 40 pounds of sugar in the canning and if preserves etc. are made up they would be entitled to 5 pounds more making a maximum amount in one year for the whole family of 45 pounds of sugar for these purposes, which is an average of 9 pounds of sugar for

SADDLE and RIDE

By ERNEST HAYCOX

W-N-U Release

The sound of Hack Breathitt's gun pounded between the walls of the street.

THE STORY SO FAR: Clay Morgan decided to play a lone hand against Herendeen, a rancher bent on running the cattle country his own way. The two men have been enemies for two years, having first fought over Clay's 'Camel' horse, who died during the fight. She should have married Herendeen's son, but she married Morgan. Morgan is a solitary figure, devoted to his nine-year-old daughter, Jan. Although two women, Catherine and Ann McGarragh, are in love with him, they know he cannot forget his former friends, only Hack Breathitt has not gone over to Herendeen's side. Gurd Grant, Catherine's lover, hesitated about joining Herendeen, but became Morgan's sworn enemy when he discovered that Catherine had been to his ranch. Hack Breathitt, camping with Pete Borders, a rustler being watched by Herendeen's men. Now Clay has just learned that Herendeen Valley is to be auctioned at Sage City, 190 miles away. Morgan and Herendeen will be bidding for the valley, and he is determined to get it. Meanwhile Hack Breathitt has encountered Herendeen's men.

Now continue with the story.

CHAPTER VII

Hack Breathitt held himself in the shadows by the courthouse and saw McGee and Liard Conleave the Long Grade saloon. Two of them immediately slipped, McGee turning toward Old while Connor traveled to Gentry's stable. More Three Pines drifted from the saloon, moving toward the dance hall. Instead of going up the stairs they turned down the black alley between the Odd Fellows Hall and the adjoining saddle bank. Meanwhile Clay Morgan rode down Stage Street with Har-Stewart, these two going into bank. A light flashed on Jesse appeared from the darkness, once crossing to the bank and going through the window. Lige Mrs. White left the dance hall passed Hack, on the way to the bank. Hack heard Lige say in his courteous voice: "I'll have a talk or two with the boys, then I go home." Presently Lige reappeared from the hotel, passed the bank and followed the Burnt Ranch road, disappearing toward Mrs. Ben's house. Hack clucked his tongue in disapproval, saw Morgan get out of the bank, and went at toward his partner.

"Stayin' around, Clay?" "No," said Morgan, "I'm riding." He saw the glitter of Hack's belt buckle. "What's up?" "Nothin'. Nothin' at all." Morgan said: "Don't let anybody see you into the wrong stall, Hack," and turned across the street on his horse. Morgan stepped into the saddle; he kicked his feet into stirrups, sat there a moment looking ahead of him, and went out War Pass at a long-reaching gallop. Hack thought, "I ought to be in him." Liard Connor appeared at the bank corner, exactly opposite point he had disappeared from a few minutes before; whereupon Hack Breathitt crossed Stage Street, passed the hotel and ducked into an alley. He threshed around broken boxes and tin cans and piles behind Shevlin's pool hall, and a wide sweep of this completely black area and came into street again near Old Town.

At this same moment McGee stepped from the shadows of the blacksmith shop. He had his head down, watching the up-street direction, but whipped around when he heard the strike of Breathitt's boots. Two stood here, face to face half the street between them. Hack didn't say anything. He held ground, showing McGee his left eye, malicious grin. McGee looked up both hands and caught the lapel of his coat, which was his only way of showing Hack he didn't want to draw, and afterwards he stepped the street toward the saloon. Connor was near the door of the Long Grade; he saw McGee—and started down to join him. Breathitt's laughter was a soft ripple in his throat. He crossed the street and circled the blacksmith shop at a short, jumpy run. He trotted around the Odd Fellows' building into a small vacant lot adjoining Gentry's saloon. The dancing lights fell on the street and, lighting the side of the wall, Hack and Liard Connor stepped from Gentry's. Hack was softly laughing again, at Connor's back. He said: "Strong way, Liard," and watched Connor jerk around.

Connor said: "All right—all right." But he wasn't talking to Breathitt. Bones McGee broke out the shadows near the bank. Somebody kicked out a window in the dance hall, the glass splattering around Breathitt. McGee had quit advancing. Liard Connor, no longer in motion, said again, "All right," and dropped his hands.

They had him hipped. Drawing, he had his one single moment's grace—McGee on his left or Connor in front of him; knowing Connor was the tougher man, he threw shot that way. Connor's head went up and—and was drowned out by Bones McGee's quick-following fire. Connor fell on the walk and pulled himself to his knees; his gun had dropped to the walk and now he crawled forward, trying to reach it, and fell in with his arm stretched out and full length, fingers touching the gun's butt.

Hack Breathitt felt McGee's shots breathe by. He snapped an answer across the street, meanwhile plunging past the open mouth of Gentry's toward his horse. The shadows sheltered him and McGee's shots crushed through the soft wood of the stable wall, wide of their mark. Men's boots pounded down the Odd Fellows' stairway; somewhere a woman screamed. Breathitt was on his horse, racing along the Burnt Ranch road, when, looking back, he saw four Herendeen men rush from the side of the courthouse. McGee was in front of him, but fading back from Breathitt's fire, into the shallow alleyway beside the bank. Low-bent, Breathitt went by him, pounding the pony with his spurs. There was a short following fire and afterwards, in the safe darkness beyond town, Breathitt's Indian yell sailed up. He was a fugitive then, and knew it; and this was his way of telling them so.

Morgan took the desert road as soon as he left War Pass, heading northeast into the open flats. At midnight, from a summit point he looked down upon the breaks of the Crooked River, whose rounded peaks and shale pinnacles and bare ravines lay tangled and disheveled in the moonlight. From this elevation he saw one lone light buried in a far pocket, which was the location of Vane Walrad's ranch, and went downgrade into the river canyon.

Beyond one of the morning, he sighted a close row of poplar trees beyond the stream. He passed over a swaying cable bridge, the gelding's feet booming up enormous echoes from the planking. Before he saw the house definitely he began calling: "Hello there—hello, Walrad!"

There was a yard behind the poplars and the blurred skeletal outline of corrals and wagons and hayracks, and a house almost hidden by the trees. A door slammed. He passed through the poplars to reach a front porch, and held his seat here until Walrad's voice came at him, sleepy and uncharitable. "Well, who is it?"

"Clay Morgan. I'm riding straight through to Sage City, Vane. My horse is going bad."

"Morgan?" said the man, and was still. Morgan heard a pair of horses stirring in the adjoining corral. One of them softly whinnied, and then the rancher said with a reviving cordiality, "Sure, Clay."

"I'll be back to pick up my horse in two days."

Moonlight put a silver, phosphorescent glow to the road's dust. Pulling in for a walk, Morgan looked at his watch and found it to be half-past two; one hour later with the moonlight changing and day not far away, he knew his horse was done. Nor could he see the shadow of ranch or house ahead. He let the pony drop to a walk and in this time-eating way covered the next half-hour. The road climbed to a long roll of land, tipped over the crest and point into a shallow meadow, through which a creek ran with a pale glowing. There was a box elder grove here. Coming to the water he let his horse drink; and heard a rustling in the low tree branches. A tall white horse, followed by three others, came out of the covert and stopped.

He roped the white horse, saddled it, and left his worn out pony to graze.

Ten hours out of War Pass found him threading the pine timber. Here and there a woodcutter's road led away, and occasionally he saw cattle grazing.

At noon the country changed again, the pines dropping behind and a canyon taking him down a rocky draw. Shortly thereafter a desert of scab rock and sage, smoky with fall's heat and fall's distant brush fires, unrolled before him. Nowhere did he see a break—either the shape of a ranch, or a town, or a moving object. He had his moment of tremendous disappointment; and then, completely clearing the canyon, he discovered, on his right, a chuck wagon and a half-dozen riders seated around it.

He pulled over at once, but remained in the saddle until the wagon boss said: "Get off and pitch in." He stepped stiffly from the saddle, found a tin plate and cup at the tail gate of the chuck wagon and helped himself to the pan of short ribs and Dutch-oven bread by the fire. He crouched here, drinking down two hot strong cups of coffee without delay, before touching the solid food. The mark of the long ride was on him and on the big jaded horse, and Morgan knew that the crew, sprawled idly under the sun, saw all this and were making their guesses. A man on the run, they would be thinking. He finished his meal and tapered a cigarette and lay back on the ground, propped up by an elbow. This food hit him like a shot of whisky. It took the heaviness out of his muscles, it made him cheerful. But he was increasingly pushed by the sense of wasting time. He said: "Which way to Sage City?"

The wagon boss drawled: "There's a trail about five miles over yonder. Keep on it. I hear old man Lowry ain't in good health."

Morgan thought about that. The brand on the big white horse was Running L. Maybe that was what the puncher was talking about.

He said: "Never met him. I've been on the trail since last night at nine o'clock, from War Pass. I swapped horses at Crooked River, and roped this one off the grasslands. What I need is a fresh horse for the ride into Sage City. I'll be back this way day after tomorrow."

"Not a bad ride," said the wagon boss idly, and let the silence come on.

The wagon boss had made up his mind. He said: "No, not a bad ride at all. Take that strawberry."

Morgan rose at once. His upper legs had gone stiff; he stamped his feet on the ground and limped over to the white horse. He put his gear on the strawberry and hit the saddle.

At three thirty, with eighteen hours of steady riding behind him, he came upon a main break in the road. One fork led into the southeast, the other swung toward the north. It was now within a half hour of the land office deadline; paused at this junction, scanning the forward haze with an anxious eye, he made out no kind of a blur on the horizon. This land ran straight into the cloudy mists, flat as a board. A few fresh prints showed either road; they were alike, these roads, as to the wear and tear of usage, and nothing gave him a hunch except that the northern fork seemed to head more nearly toward the spot he thought Sage City ought to be.

And so he took it, but two miles later this road brought up before the burnt ruin of a ranch house.

He wheeled around, backtracked to the junction and followed the other route. Wagon tracks came from the desert and dropped into the road, a wavering wheel-and-hoof pattern coming out of nowhere and leading apparently nowhere. It was then four o'clock and he thought he had lost his race. Twenty minutes later the desert marched to a rim that fell downward three hundred feet into a valley. The road descended a sharp grade. At the bottom of the grade, straddling the silver streak of a shallow river, lay Sage City, its gray housetops and dusty streets making a toy town's pattern from this elevation. He set the tiring pony into its last run, came down the grade and crossed a wooden bridge. He saw the half-empty street, the false-fronted buildings and the once-white spire of a courthouse sitting athwart the far end of the street. When he reached the courthouse and stepped down, a pair of men came out of the door.

Morgan said: "Land office in there?"

They nodded. He passed into a shadowed hall, heard voices through a half-closed doorway, and pushed that door before him. There was a man standing by a desk; this man was saying: "Seventy-eight hundred. That's the bid. Another bid, gentlemen? Another bid?"

There were only four other men in the room. One of them, standing by the room's side-wall with his face turned from Morgan at the moment, was Charley Hillhouse.

Charley Hillhouse said: "Eight thousand," and came about and discovered Morgan.

My Week

by Eleanor Roosevelt

'GERMANY WITH TEARS'

There is a book everybody should read called "Germany With Tears" by Peter F. Wiener. It is a collection of letters. The first one is written by a student in England, now in the army, writing to his German professor at the university. It tells him that his education unfitted him to deal with German people as they actually are and was a purely sentimental and unrealistic approach to international relations. The professor pleads guilty and tries to make amends by telling the truth in this series of letters.

The appalling things to me are the quotations which go back to the time of Bismarck and Frederick the Great, and have nothing to do with Hitler. But it is better to have these things out in the open. All the people of any nation, no matter how they have been conditioned, are never identical. But if you know what the conditioning has been, you can judge the general results and prepare yourself for the time that it will take and the methods which will have to be used to develop a new mentality and new characteristics in Hitler's Germans.

LIDICE WILL LIVE

In the morning paper one day I read that, not satisfied with wiping out the village of Lidice, the Germans have gone further and killed 34 more people in the cities of Prague and Bruenn "in reprisal." It does not seem to cross their minds that they are imprinting the name of this village on the minds of the people of the world. None of us will ever forget a little village named Lidice. Reprisals of this kind only bring more reprisals, so that it is an unending spiral of murder.

How curious is the German mentality, that does not realize in giving a dramatic incident of this kind to the world it has stimulated imaginations to the point where, I am sure before long, there will be a play written about this tragic village, there will be a book in which this name will be immortalized. It will appear in current songs. People will paint scenes from memory or imagination. What the Germans thought to do away with forever, will be remembered the world over and lead perhaps to a better understanding of the type of people we will have to deal with when this war is over in Central Europe.

UNITED NATIONS HEROES

Next morning, the President and I greeted the British and American boys, whom the treasury department is sponsoring on a trip around the country. The secretary of the treasury came back from the country to be with them and the British ambassador joined us on the porch. I don't believe they enjoyed the photographing any more than they have enjoyed some of their experiences.

However, they must be a great inspiration to some of the people who greet them in different parts of the country. These boys are a symbol of the unity which exists between Britain and us in the fight for freedom. I hope that, before long, we shall have added to their number boys from China and Russia, because in this fight no one carries the burden alone.

It is a joint burden and will continue to be in the future. Such honors as we pay individual heroes are really only a symbol of what is due to heroic youth throughout the world. We should not only honor the representatives of the nations which are fighting together today, but also those who represent the other united nations, for they continue to fight in every way which is possible in spite of the occupation of their home territory.

As one reads of the many merchant ships which have been sunk, I wonder if there should not be some special medal of honor for the men who man these ships. In some cases they run even greater risks than the boys in the regular army and navy. When we realize that, over and over again, they land from one torpedoed ship and as soon as they recover from wounds or exposure, they start out on another trip; we can hardly fail to pay homage for supreme courage.

That night we saw a moving picture, "Mrs. Miniver." Because everybody had spoken so highly of it, I was rather prepared for disappointment. Instead, it is better than I imagined possible—a sermon, and a charming and beautiful one.

WASHINGTON ORGANIST

After lunch one day I went right to the cathedral to hear the young organist, Mr. Paul Calloway, who has been so successful in training a chorus of war workers, in addition to his work at the cathedral. He is a delicate looking young man. Since he has lately been drafted, he will be in the service before long. I only hope that his gift of music will give as much pleasure there as it has to the people of the city of Washington. He played a very lovely short program from Bach.

NEW IDEAS FOR HOME-MAKERS

By RUTH WYETH SPEARS

WOMEN today are not the first to discover a war-time shortage of floor coverings. The glowing Oriental rugs of the Colonial mansion ceased to be imported during the Revolution; and the simple hooked rug made from old clothing began to be developed. Then, as now, scroll borders around a flower motif were popular. The posies were designed according to individual taste but scroll patterns went the rounds of neighbors who traced the patterns on the burlap or canvas rug foundation. Today wax crayon is generally used for tracing. You will find it easy to make a cut-out pattern by first ruling paper into one-inch squares and then copying the curves in the sketch.

NOTE: If you wish to make a scroll pattern be sure to clip this diagram and save it as it is not in any of the booklets which Mrs. Spears has prepared for readers; however, Book 5 contains two designs and directions for making original designs. To get a copy, send your order to:

One Truck Driver Who Could Follow Instructions

Business being cut by priorities, the boss of the trucking company found it necessary to lay off one truck driver. But that driver was both big and tough. So the boss decided to fire him by mail.

And the following day the driver didn't show up. Four days went by and then he was back.

"Didn't you get my letter?" asked the surprised boss.

"I did."

"Well, didn't you read it?"

"Sure. First I read it inside and then I read it outside. Inside it said that I was fired. On the outside it said, 'Return in five days to the Consolidated Trucking company.' So, here I am."

Married Men Given Deferment

After all the married men originally selected for induction into the armed forces on July 7 had been eliminated by the Lynn County Selective Service Board, by far the largest group yet selected for induction at any one time is scheduled to leave next Tuesday.

There may be two or three persons among the selectees who are married but if so they have married since December 7, 1941, and therefore under the law they are placed in the same category as single men.

The married men who have been deferred temporarily in accordance with instructions from Washington, are placed in two categories, first, married men who have no dependents except a wife, and second, married men who have children or a wife and children.

Just how soon the Government may begin to call men from these two categories for training has not yet been determined.

Those who have been notified by the Lynn County board to appear for induction next Tuesday, July 7, are as follows:

The number preceding each name is that man's order number.

liberally enough perhaps, at least some of them had, but others have shown little interest in the drive. The citizens generally do not seem to be "sold" on the U. S. O. work.

This doubtless, is due to the fact that they have not been informed as to the exact nature and scope of U. S. O. work and do not realize the importance of clean entertainment and wholesome recreation for the boys in the armed forces. Furthermore, there are some activities connected with the work which a great many good people can not quite approve, though most of the boys in the training camps seem to appreciate the work being done by the U. S. O.

Certain it is that on the whole the entertainment and recreation furnished by the U. S. O. is not only wholesome in itself but keeps many of the boys who might be inclined to go astray out of low dives and other questionable places.

It is to be hoped that the people of the county will yet rally to the support of this work.

Carl Griffing is the treasurer for the U. S. O. Funds and Chairman R. P. Weathers requests that any who have not contributed and desire to do so shall see him. His office is with that of the County Superintendent in the courthouse.

● A District Judge should resign before making the race for Chief Justice.

● Your support will be appreciated.

To The Voters of the 106th Judicial District

The successful prosecution of the war is far more important than the election of any Judge. As much as I desire to come home, I feel it my solemn obligation to help in the great task of making forever secure our liberties. Consequently, it is improbable that I will be able to see you.

I seek re-election on my record and the Democratic custom of a second elective term. Few Judges have tried as many cases, nor as long and difficult ones, as I, during my term. Few cases were appealed, and of these, most were affirmed. I have tried to make Court efficient and reduce the expenses, and in this connection state that I have not and will not receive a dime of my salary from the State of Texas during my absence from Court.

The continuous terms which we have through my efforts, eliminated delays and reduced expense to litigants and tax payers. It has attracted state-wide attention and all courts of Texas will eventually adopt it.

I served in the other war, and now with many others from this district we are serving in the present world war. We do so proudly and willingly, although we desire to be home. We believe that upon victory and return home, you desire us to hold the same positions we held upon departure into the service of our country.

The Constitution of Texas permits an official to be a Reserve Officer on active duty and seek re-election. Many are doing so. To serve in our armed forces is a sacred duty, which I am performing. I ask a Second Term so I may return to the duty of Judge.

By the only means available, I earnestly solicit your vote and active support.

IMPROVED BIBLE INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

ROLD L. LUNDQUIST, D. D., Moody Bible Institute of Chicago, by Western Newspaper Union.

Lesson for July 5

THE CREATOR

TEXT—Genesis 1:1-5, 24-31; 2:1-3. TEXT—In the beginning God created the heaven and the earth.—Genesis is to become of this world? the question on the mind of everyone as they see all engaged in a struggle to wipe out every-thing of civilization.

At a time it is good to remind us that man did not make the world, nor is it the product of natural forces. God made it, who is eternal, infinite, all from the beginning, is not staggered by the catastrophe of a day. He made the man, and still has a plan for the due season He will work His own glory.

He Made the Heavens and Earth.—Genesis 1:1-5, 24-25.

tain biblical account of creation in the beginning God"—as a dignified, satisfactory, explanation of the origin of life, and in bold contrast to the usual and almost unbeliev-able theories of men.

Scientists admit that we know nothing of the origin of life and some even confess that they will never know. The answer to the question with which every philosopher opens is the af-firmation which the divine ac-cord of Genesis opens—"In the be-ginning."

Forbids full discussion of the origin of creation, but a study of the beautiful order, sym-metry, and completeness. Sci-entists get beyond theories and find them confirmed by the facts.

Please do not reverse the order of science confirming the Bible. If my watch does not work at the time of the stars, it is that which must be reset.

God Made Man in His Own Image.—Genesis 1:26-30.

Man, under the control of God, does not give much ground in observation, it is neverthe-less that he was made in the image of God. Because of this, we never give up hope that that image, no matter how defaced by sin, still may be redeemed by grace and brought to fellowship with God.

Man's likeness and image of God in his mind refers to a moral likeness. Man is a soul with intelligence, feel-ings, and will. He is a moral being, knowing the difference be-tween right and wrong. He is a spiritual being.

God gave dominion over the earth and all its potential resources. He has been hope-ful in making good prog-ress in the development of the resources for his own good and glory of God. But one is tempted to conclude now that God has used this great God-given gift only for destruction and only a revival of real Chris-tianity bring him back to his Creator. These Barbecued Hamburgers Are Appetite-Tempting! (See Recipes Below.)

Outdoor Fun

The delicious aroma of meat cooking over a crackling fire, toasted buns, and freshly roasted corn or potatoes in the embers—all these make for plenty of summer fun. Toss together your outdoor cooking equipment, bright, gay colored cloths, napkins, and gather some wood for your picnic. Plan to have lots of hearty, nourishing food to give your picknickers so they will have plenty of that up-and-at-them spirit.

Crunchy green salads packed in jelly glasses or paper containers, steaming hot coffee, baked beans, or macaroni and cheese, and barbecued meat. Dispel the chilliness of cool nights with your picnic outdoors.

Hamburgers are old favorites, but you can make them extra delicious by drizzling a tasty barbecue sauce over them while they cook.

Barbecued Hamburgers.

- (Serves 8) 2 pounds ground beef, 1 1/2 teaspoons salt, Pepper to taste, 2 tablespoons vinegar, 1 tablespoon flour, 1 teaspoon chili powder, 2 teaspoons brown sugar, 2 teaspoons salt, 1/4 teaspoon pepper, 1 medium-sized onion, chopped, 1 1/2 tablespoons Worcestershire sauce, 1/2 cup catsup, 1 tablespoon hot water.

Have any of the thrifter cuts of beef ground—such as chuck, flank, shank, neck, or heel of round. If meat is quite lean, ask your butcher to grind in some suet. Mix meat thoroughly with salt and pepper. Cook on a greased griddle-grill with thick slices of onion. Mix rest of ingredients well and drizzle over hamburgers as they cook. This sauce is also excellent over frankfurters which have been pricked with a fork.

To make a new kind of "cheeseburger," add 1/2 cup grated cheese to each pound of hamburger, mixing lightly.

Hamburger Puffs.

- (Serves 8) 2 pounds chuck steak, ground, 2 cups grated raw potato, 4 tablespoons grated onion, 2 teaspoons salt, 1/4 teaspoon pepper, 1/2 peeled clove of garlic, minced, 4 tablespoons milk, 4 tablespoons fat.

Combine all ingredients except fat. Form into 16 patties. Cook in fat on a greased grill or skillet over medium heat until brown on both

Lynn Says:

For best results in outdoor cooking use a small fire. Be sure you have a deep bed of coals before you start broiling or frying your food.

To start the fire, use a soft quick burning wood like pine, spruce, hemlock, laurel, poplar, or aspen. For a good bed of coals, use a hard wood such as maple, oak, ash, beech, birch, hickory, or any available hard wood in your community.

Seasoned wood which has not lain on the ground long enough to become wet or rotted, but long enough to dry out, is best for fires. Wood without bark makes the best kind of fire, as bark will cause a fire to smoulder. To start a fire more easily, use split wood, as it burns more easily than round logs.

You won't be a sissy if you kneel when using a hand axe for chopping or splitting wood. If you use seasoned wood, it can easily be broken into convenient chunks for the fire.

sides and done. About 5 or 6 minutes on each side is enough.

Roast Corn.

Have a hot fire and let it burn down until there is a good pile of red embers. Soak the ears of corn in their husks until good and wet and lay them, still in the husks, in the hot ashes. Bake for 30 minutes or until corn is tender. Turn the ears occasionally.

Roast Potatoes.

Bury potatoes in hot ashes and roast as you do the corn, until they are tender. They take longer to roast than the corn. Serve with lots of butter, salt, and pepper.

Marshmallow Dessert.

(Serves 6) Small bars of plain chocolate, 12 graham crackers, 12 marshmallows.

Toast 2 marshmallows over the coals to a crisp, gooey state, and then put them inside a graham cracker and chocolate bar sandwich. The heat of the marshmallow between the halves of chocolate bar will melt the chocolate just enough, and the graham crackers on the outside are nice to hold.

Do you like to go primitive and roast meat over a forked stick or long-handled fork? Then, you'll like:

Kabobs.

For each person, allow 1/4 pound round steak, 1/2 of a medium-sized onion, and a few slices of bacon. Cut the meat in 1-inch squares, cut the onion lengthwise, from top to bottom. Cut the slices of bacon into thirds. Place beef, onion, and bacon on a fork or stick, alternately, and broil over coals until done.

A salad that is both health-cramped and delicious for a picnic is this one made with plenty of vegetables and cottage cheese:

Vitamin Salad.

- (Serves 6) 1 cup celery, diced, 2 cups cottage cheese, 1/2 green pepper, diced, 1 cup carrots, shredded (cooked), 2 cups cabbage, shredded fine, 1/2 cup mayonnaise, Salt.

Toss together all ingredients and serve on crisp lettuce leaves.

A cookie treat to take with you or your picnic is this sugar-saving one:

Fruit Treats.

(Makes 12 Treats) 2 cups sifted, enriched flour, 3 tablespoons baking powder, 1 teaspoon salt, 2 to 4 tablespoons shortening, 1/2 cup milk (about), 1 tablespoon honey or corn syrup, 2 eggs, 12 cooked apricots or prunes.

Sift flour, baking powder and salt together. Cut in shortening. Beat 1 whole egg and 1 egg yolk, reserving white for tops. Add milk and honey to beaten eggs and add flour to mixture. Stir in only enough to hold flour together. Turn on lightly floured board and knead together 1/2 minute. Roll 1/2 inch thick, cut with doughnut cutter. Place on baking sheet and place an apricot or prune in the "hole" on each one. Brush with egg white and sprinkle biscuits with cinnamon sugar. Bake in a moderately hot oven 12 to 15 minutes. Cinnamon sugar: Mix 3 tablespoons sugar with 1/2 teaspoon cinna-mon.

Why get hot and bothered over your cooking and household problems when you can get expert advice on them? Oldest National Flag

The Netherlands' flag of red, white and blue is said to be the oldest of all national flags. It dates back to 1354, when the colors of Holland and Bavaria were combined. That flag is still the official ensign for both the Dutch navy and the merchant fleet.

More than 20 nations are said to have gotten their flag ideas from the Netherlands' emblem. And the city of New York, first settled by the Dutch, just changed the red to yellow before adopting the ensign completely.

Large Flowering Plant

The world's largest flowering plant, the Amorphophallus titanum of Sumatra, which sometimes reaches a height of more than eight feet, has blossomed, while under cultivation, in only eight known cases, the last two being in the New York Botanical Garden in 1937 and 1939.

Here's a Gentler Way to Treat Constipation!

Do you think you have to take harsh cathartics or purges every time constipation makes you miserable? You don't—if you are one of those people with normal intestines who suffer from constipation due to lack of "bulk" in the diet. There is a pleasant and gentle way. All you do is eat KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN regularly and drink plenty of water. ALL-BRAN is a crisp, delicious cereal. It works quite differently from many medicinal laxatives. They work by prodding the intestines into action or by drawing moisture into them from other parts of the body. But ALL-BRAN acts principally on the contents of the colon, helping you to have easy and normal elimination. ALL-BRAN is made by Kellogg's in Battle Creek. If your condition is not helped by this simple treatment, see a doctor.

Youths 18 To 20 Registered Tuesday

There was a total of 226 registrations of youths between the ages of 18 and 20 years, inclusive, in Lynn County Tuesday, according to report made by Judge J. W. Elliot, chairman of the selective service board, Wednesday morning.

Of this number, fifteen reside in other counties and will be transferred to their own counties. It is expected, however, that possibly an equal number of Lynn County youths were registered in other counties and will be transferred here.

Quite a number of Lynn County youths not yet twenty-one years of age are already in the service.
Since the population of Lynn County is approximately 12,000 at this time, the registration here Tuesday caught one person out of about 52 or 53 in the county.

It is not contemplated that those in the 18 and 19 year old groups will be called for service soon, but it is probable that the 20-year-old boys will be inducted within the next few months, possibly within a few weeks.

Extension News

Here's the situation — an almost certain scarcity of pressure cookers plus probable shortage of food containers and of family labor mean shifts from canning likely will be necessary. To offset any resulting reduction in the farm food supply, Lynn County families should strive to do the following:

Extend the period when leafy and other hardy vegetables are available fresh. This requires protection from frost and good garden management.

Store large amounts of potatoes, sweet potatoes, onions and other root vegetables, cabbage, pumpkins, squash, apples and pears. Many families have cellars, however, materials for constructing outdoor pits or banks are easily obtained.

Make kraut of surplus cabbage and purple top turnips. Green tomatoes and string beans can be brined for later use in pickling, if containers are scarce.

Use freezer lockers. Non-acid vegetables such as corn, young lima beans, peas, spinach, berries and peaches freeze well. So do meat and poultry.

Preserve surplus cured meat in cottonseed oil. Many Lynn County families have found this method to be highly satisfactory.

Make less jellies and rich preserves but can more fruit in light syrups, pie fruits, and fruit juices. These, with dried fruit, will help families make adjustments to sugar rationing more easily.

Of course pressure cookers should be used in canning non-acid vegetables, poultry and meats.

Planning now helps: Each farm family should have a food preservation budget. Families who have never made budgets before should obtain the help of a home food supply demonstrator who has been trained by the County Home Demonstration Agent.

Check storage space, too: Families should prepare to store food in a variety of ways.
If they plan to can food, they should check shelf space and assure proper ventilation.

If they plan to add cellars, ventilated pantries, or storage mounds, they should do as much of the construction now as practicable.

Last call on repairs: At this time families should check pressure cookers, containers, sealers, and other food preservation equipment. All equipment should be repaired at once, and if new pieces are needed, they should be ordered without delay.

Induction Tuesday For Lynn Men

TAHOKA, July 1 (Spl. to Press) — Only two men, one white and one colored, actually left Tahoka Tuesday for induction into the armed forces of the United States.

These were George B. McCracken, white; and C. D. Jenkins, colored.
Two of the six white men originally listed for induction from this county had been transferred elsewhere, Elmer George Hodge to Iowa, and Ernest Clifford Evans to Marshall, Texas.

A large number of men will be sent from this county on next Tuesday, and another call for white men has been made for July 27 and for colored men on July 28.

How to Help Your Cleaner Work Faster and Last Longer ***

You can do housecleaning faster and better if your vacuum cleaner dust bag is emptied after each use. Excess dust in the bag slows up the air flow and reduces the suction of the cleaner.
Oil your cleaner as recommended by manufacturer, and pick up hair pins and other articles that might damage the fan or clog the brush. Avoid letting the cord become twisted or frayed.

Your vacuum cleaner is a valuable investment that may be difficult to replace. Timely repairs by an electric shop that specializes in such work will put your cleaner in first-class shape and keep it working for the duration.
