Methodist Revival

The beginning of the revival at the First Methodist church is all that we could ask for. Large appreciative crowds, good singing, and the best preaching this writer has heard in O'Donnell. The evangelist, Dr. James M. Smith, is a master preacher and deals with questions of vital concern to everyone. He is giving an unanswerable presentation of New Testament Christianity—the only type that is worthy.

Our week day services are each morning at 10:00. The evening services are at 7:30. The group meetings are for young people each evening thru Friday at 6:45; men and women prayer groups at 7:15; the Sunshine group—all the children—at 7:15.

All Christian people are invited to participate in the services. Everyone of the community, are most cordially invited to attend. Edward H. Crandall, pastor.

Club Report from Wells

The Wells P. D. Club met in the home of Mrs. L. J. Barrett March 5th. The business started with a report from the council delegates of our club. Mrs. B. L. McArthur was nominated as candidate for delegate to the Texas Home Demonstration Association which will be held at Brownfield April 9th. Miss Anderson took charge and talked with us on How to Select Patterns for your Figure Type. We all took part and enjoyed it very much. The meeting was adjourned and we were served cocoa, coffee and cake. The meeting will be next time in the home of Mrs. B. L. McArthur.

Bonds Carry

Lynn County's $50,000 road construction bond issue carried by a vote of more than two to one, according to reports from 13 of the 15 boxes of the county. The vote was 847 for the issue to 355 against. Unofficial tabulations had been received from all voting boxes except Three Lakes and Lake-view. The bonds are for construction and improvements of farm to market and bi-lateral roads in all the precincts of the county to accommodate the rural areas.

It was estimated that about 115 votes might be cast in the two unreported boxes but not enough to affect the outcome of the election.

YOUR AUTOMATIC GAS WATER HEATER

Turn the faucet. Almost before you can say Jack Robinson, there's a stream of piping hot water. It fills the tub quickly... and as you relax in that refreshing bath, you think how fortunate you are to own an automatic gas water heater.

There's nothing to it, either, when it comes time to do the dishes. Your pan is soon filled with clean, hot water which makes suds instantly for the task at hand. How much quicker dishes get done, you think, now that this automatic service is a part of your every day life.

FAITHFUL ALL THE YEAR ROUND

And on wash days! There's the time when an automatic gas water heater is worth its weight in precious metal. A washer full of water heated to the right temperature... or a tubful or two... it makes no difference. Whatever you need is awaiting your turn of the faucet. It's all so easy, you say, when a faithful gas water heater provides your supply for you... without an effort on your part.

Summer or winter... spring or fall, when it comes to automatic hot water you can't beat gas service!

Washington Digest Rediscovered America Under New Sponsors

Co-Operative Backing of Programs Affords Wider National Contacts; Brings Radio Close to Local Communities.

By BAUKHAGE News Analyst and Commentator.

WNU Service, 1616 Eye Street, N. W. Washington, D. C.

In these days when there is so much talk about co-operatives, I would like to take this opportunity to say something about co-operative sponsorship of radio.

There are many advantages in this plan from a purely material standpoint. But to me, the greatest, from the broadcaster's point of view is the fact that co-op sponsorship provides a tremendous psychological tonic.

Now from the listener's standpoint: When a program is sponsored locally, the townsfolk are bound to look on it with a lot more intimacy.

We are all proud of the fact that radio has brought the world right into the listener's home. We can be equally proud of the fact that the co-operative sponsorship system has brought thousands of American communities into the broadcaster's heart and mind.

Chosen by Station WNAX, Yankton, S. D., as "typical mid-west farmers," Mr. and Mrs. John Oeser won a trip to Washington, a new tractor and money for a new wardrobe.

They were chosen by WNAX because, while running up a remarkable production record on their farm in Westside, Iowa, they also played a leading part in the war activities of the community.

Mr. Oeser is 56 years old and is still cultivating the land his father pioneered. He and Mrs. Oeser have eight children—the one of military age is a marine—two daughters are Baukhage (center) interviews the Oesers in Washington, D. C.

The people of X-ville, listening to me as they have for the last three years, feel, I am sure, that they know me better because they know my sponsor, Joe Doe—a lot of them personally, a lot more because they have almost daily personal contact with the clerks in his big department store.

Like writing for a weekly newspaper, there is a hometown intimacy about this arrangement. This intimacy, vicarious though it may be, goes a long way toward breaking down the barrier of invisibility between the unseen broadcaster and his audience.

Highly important too, is the total goodwill engendered by the co-operative sponsorship system. It means a lot to the sponsor to have the listener realize that a hometown supported institution is paying for the program he listens to.

Before I accept a sponsor I have to know something about him. When we get together I have a chance to learn a lot more about him and he about me. Thus, my 130 bosses have helped me, in a sense, to re-discover America, and it doesn't do a bit of harm to those of us who spend so much time on Pennsylvania avenue to have a daily reminder of Main street which is the real America.

So much for direct benefits to station-sponsor-listener-broadcaster. But there is something which is even more important to radio as a whole. I believe the co-op system will go a long way toward dissolving an unfounded suspicion held by some of the general public; namely that a commentator reflects his sponsor's opinions. Personally, I have never known such a case, but the myth is widespread. Well, it is obvious that even 30 sponsors couldn't agree to disagree with their commentator on any one thing and when the number passes the hundred mark, a neutralizing effect results which produces a cross-section view that could reflect only an average of American tolerances.

graduate nurses. Since the eldest boy joined the marines, Mr. Oeser has been doing all the work on his 160-acre farm with the help of his wife and the 10 and 14-year-olds. They have a lot of livestock and raise enough grain on their farm to feed the cattle.

Mr. and Mrs. Oeser were widely entertained while in Washington and enjoyed every minute of it. However, Mrs. Oeser was shocked at the prices of food and didn't "see how a family the size of hers could possibly afford to live in a city."

While congress recently rewrote the tax law to fit peacetime government expenditures—and the people's earnings—they had in their possession the suggestion for a new type of tax program. I say "new type" because it is sponsored by small businesses employing approximately 6,500,000 workers.

The sponsors are convinced that their comprehensive program will do a number of worthy things in addition to speeding reconversion and giving tax relief to individuals and business. They say it will also provide a favorable tax climate for small business, encourage venture capital, provide high employment at well-paid jobs, stimulate consumption, increase the national income, balance the budget at high employment levels, reduce federal expenditures and retire the national debt.

Aside from immediate reductions for individuals and corporations, the long-range program calls for the following: For the individual, an initial tax of 16 per cent and reduction of surtaxes, the rates on long-term capital gains, estate and gift taxes. Existing exemptions and credits would be retained, deductions of capital losses would be allowed on the same basis as capital gains are taxed, double taxation of dividends would be alleviated. The state chambers of commerce would continue the principle of the withholding tax while at the same time trying to improve it.

In the long term picture for business, the group would have corporate taxes reduced and the continuation of a favorable tax climate for small business.

Before the war, says the 20th Century Fund, around four million Americans paid an income tax. After the war began, the number rose to above 40 million, or over 10 times as many headaches on March 15.

WASHINGTON. — Some people are wondering whether the fact-finding board for the meat packing industry took the trouble to read the newspapers. If so, they might not have recommended that the housewife bear the main burden of the cost of increased wages in the meat packing industry.

The fact-finding board, which included Dr. Edwin E. Witte of Wisconsin university, Chief Justice Raymond W. Starr of the Michigan Supreme court, and Clark Kerr, former chairman of the meat packing branch of the war labor board—three able men—decided that a 16-cent pay increase was fair and equitable for meat packing workers. But they added that only five cents of this was "absorbable by the meat industry without price or subsidy relief."

In other words, the fact finders recommended that the big meat packers could pay only 5 cents of the 16-cent wage increase out of their own pockets. The rest would have to be passed on to the consumer or the government. Their report was filed February 7.

However, early in December, long before the fact-finding board was appointed, a number of smaller meat packing plants had already signed contracts with the CIO and AFL for 15 cents an hour pay increase without any strings attached regarding increased meat prices.

The small packers who signed such agreements included Hygrade Food Products of New York, George A. Hormel of Austin, Minn., and others in the Chicago area.

Apparently, the fact finders did not take this into consideration. Apparently also, they ignored the fact that Swift and company previously had agreed to a pay boost of 10 cents an hour without any strings attached regarding increased meat prices to the housewife.

For, despite Swift's offer of 10 cents an hour and the smaller companies' increase of 15 cents, the fact finders recommended that only 5 cents of the 16-cent increase could be paid for by meat packers. The remaining 11 cents will be passed on to the housewife—unless the government votes a subsidy.

FREAD WASTE SCANDAL. Department of agriculture sleuths have been doing some quiet "checking of unscrupulous bakeries which violate bread sales regulations in order to kill off competition.

Despite the fact that the nation has been forced on a "dark bread" diet to help feed war-starved peoples of the world, thousands of loaves of good bread are still going to waste, or being fed to hogs and chickens.

If a big bakery is trying to grab business away from a competing bakery, it will begin supplying grocery stores on a "consignment basis," which means that grocers' shelves are loaded up with supplies of bread in excess of what they can sell.

The following day—sometimes the same day—drivers pick up the unsold loaves and replace them with fresh stock, charging the grocer only for the bread actually sold. Idea is to promote sales of a particular brand of bread because of its "freshness."

This is a violation of war food order No. 1, but it hasn't stopped certain bakeries in Houston, Texas, Richmond, Va., San Francisco, Cleveland, Kansas City and St. Louis from carrying on the practice on a huge scale.

Instead of making their returned stocks of one-day-old bread available at a reduced price to poor families, the loaves frequently wind up in garbage bins. One Texas farmer who tipped off the department of agriculture about conditions in Houston said he had been buying wagon-loads of bread "fresh enough to eat" to feed his hogs and chickens.

ATOM VS. BATTLESHIP Unless President Truman does something drastic about it very soon, the forthcoming atomic tests in the Pacific, scientists say, may turn out to be a study in water-spouts instead of atomic energy.

On-the-surface atomic-bomb explosions, the scientists claim, will add nothing to the knowledge already accumulated from previous explosions at New Mexico, Hiroshima and Nagasaki, except that we may learn the size and damage of the world's largest water spout.

Administration lobbying to confirm Ed Pauley has reached white-hot pitch. Gov. IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By HAROLD L. LUNDQUIST, D. D. Of The Moody Bible Institute of Chicago. Released by Western Newspaper Union.

Lesson for March 17

Lesson subjects and Scripture texts selected and copyrighted by International Council of Religious Education; used by permission.

THE EVERYDAY LIFE OF A PEOPLE

LESSON TEXT: Ruth 1:8-17. MEMORY SELECTION: I treat me not to leave thee, or to return from following after thee, for whither thou goest, I will go; and where thou lodgest, I will lodge; thy people shall be my people, and thy God my God.—Ruth 1:16.

A good life in the midst of a corrupt and confused age—such is the life of Ruth in the awful chaos of the time of the judges. One is reminded of the poet's words:

"How far that little candle throws its beams! So shines a good deed in a naughty world."

It is refreshing to have a glimpse into the home life of God-fearing people who live right in spite of the low standards around them.

Ruth knew life's sorrows and its bitter disappointments. She was a widow, destitute of all she held most dear. Yet she, because of the sweet purity of her life and her devotion to God and those she loved, became an example for others.

As we read our lesson we first hear how logic speaks, then love replies, and finally a life says the final word.

I. Logic (vv. 8-13). Tragic misfortune had visited Naomi, who with her husband and two sons had gone from Bethlehem to Moab in a time of famine. Not only had her husband died but also her two sons, who had married Gentile women, leaving three widows in one family to mourn together.

Naomi craved the fellowship of her own people in her hour of trial, and she arose to return to her own land.

Her departure brought out in the two daughters-in-law the expression of kindness and loyalty which should exist in every family, but which is all too often lacking. Her own testimony concerning these girls of Moab is that they dealt kindly with her and with the dead. That word speaks volumes. There is so little genuine kindness in the world.

Both Orpah and Ruth went with her on the way, protesting their loyal purpose to go with her all the way.

Naomi met their kind offer with the only sensible answer. There was no point in leaving their homes and loved ones and going with her to another country.

Logic is so conclusive and so final. Yes, and sometimes it reaches the wrong conclusion. Love has something to say about the matter. Let us listen to its voice.

II. Love (v. 14). Orpah loved her mother-in-law. That is evident. She wept at the thought of parting, and was affectionate in her final farewell. We must not be too quick to censure her. She did what Naomi told her to do. She responded to her love for home and kinfolk. She gave up reluctantly, but she did give up and turn back.

How glad we are that Ruth showed a deeper love. "Orpah kissed her mother-in-law, but Ruth clave unto her." There is a difference. Such love cannot be denied. It is the most precious possession that a man can have, apart from his fellowship with God. The love of a devoted father or mother, of a noble helpmate, or of a little boy or girl, these are the things that really make life worth while.

Life has put into the hands of many of us the opportunity of showing just that kind of love in these postwar days. A boy comes home crippled and disabled and a loyal sweetheart shows her undiminished love for him, even though he can never again be what he once was. A promise is made and a nervous breakdown comes and one who has more to express than her words.

III. Here I listen to the voice of the Holy Spirit. He tells me that in the fullness of love, we can never again be what we once were. He tells me that in the fullness of love, we can never again be what we once were. He tells me that in the fullness of love, we can never again be what we once were.

Here I listen to the voice of the Holy Spirit. He tells me that in the fullness of love, we can never again be what we once were. He tells me that in the fullness of love, we can never again be what we once were.

LIFE 500 YEARS AGO

It is any consolation to the inhabitants of the plains, a University of Texas geologist believes the worst storms occurred there about 500 years ago.

D. Krieger asserted Friday the Texas Panhandle had a 34 drought about 1450 A. D. centering around the Canadian River. It was much worse than the wet and dry weather of ten years ago, he said.

Geologist Krieger thinks the droughts may occur at 1,000 intervals, so another one could be about 2450 A. D.

Our car has reached the stage where we call it our pleasure car. It's such a pleasure to get out of it.

Next thing we'll probably hear is that the strikers want to work every day but week days with Sundays off.

Why is it that a fellow will leave the farm to move to the city to work hard in order to move to the country?

It's tough paying $5c a pound for meat; but think how tough it would be at 20c.

Now that the lawmakers have changed lend lease to lend less perhaps the capital of the U. S. will return to Washington.

Lengthening Shadow
A Tribute to George B. Dealey 1859 - 1946

It is said that every great institution is the lengthening shadow of a man. Surely the DALLAS NEWS is the lengthening shadow of George B. Dealey.

Who knew him best that his last full day of life was spent at his desk. On Monday he kept his regular office hours of 8 to 6 -- a long day many would think; but he loved the smell of printer's ink and was happy in his office where for more than half a century he guided the destinies of one of the great dailies of America.

That he found time for numerous civic, educational and philanthropic interests besides, was measure of his magnanimity of heart and spirit; that he found time constantly for countless small, personal kindnesses to many kinds of people was measure of his simple humanity.

To try and evaluate his life and the effect of his personality and convictions on the NEWS, his co-workers and friends, Dallas and Texas, would be like trying to keep pace with the lengthening shadow he threw behind him as he ran the good course.

Banker Steals $191,113 and Is Given 10 Years

Respected Church and Civic Leader Becomes Sucker For Gamblers.

TOLEDO, OHIO.—A small town banker and highly respected church and civic leader—until he became a "prize sucker" for gamblers—pleaded guilty here to embezzling $191,113 from his bank and was sentenced to 10 years in prison, says the Chicago Tribune.

Clarence Gordon Maze, 42, former cashier and director of the Home Savings bank in St. Marys, Ohio, sat in stony faced silence as Federal Judge Frank Kaleb denounced him in imposing sentence. The judge said Maze took packets of new $1,000 and $5,000 bills out of the bank and tossed them away in unsuccessful gambling and having a good time with a woman other than the mother of his three children.

Home 38 Nights in 8 Years.
"The gamblers must have rolled out the red carpet of welcome when they saw him coming," the judge exclaimed. "If ever there was a sucker, he was one."

Maze spent his time gambling away the bank's funds in Lima, Ohio, and other Ohio communities as far south as Covington, Ky., Judge Kaleb said. He disclosed that Maze's wife had told him her husband had not spent 30 nights at home in the last eight years.

The banker's defalcations began, it was disclosed, in 1937, when he was promoted from assistant cashier to cashier of the bank. Throughout the years he was taking the money, Maze was a civic leader and pillar of respectability in his home town of 5,500. He headed the local Red Cross chapter, clubs, campaigns, and civic betterment drives.

He blamed his high standing with his townfolk for prompting him to take the money. Through his attorney Maze contended in court that his salary of $225 a month was too low for a man of his responsibility and position.

Accident Is Undoing.
Judge Kaleb agreed that the bank could not feel proud of the small salary it paid its cashier, but asserted this was not sufficient reason for the thefts.

"How he could carry on the way he did and escape the questions of bank officials and members of his community is beyond me," the judge commented.
Maze's luck in avoiding detection of his juggled accounts ran out last November 10 when he was injured in an automobile accident in Cleveland. While he was hospitalized in Lima, other bank officials performing his work discovered his defalcations. Maze then confessed and refunded $51,282 to the bank, but it was still out $139,831.

Traffic Toll in '45 Was 29,000 Dead; Big Increase

CHICAGO.—The National Safety Council estimated the nation's traffic toll for 1945 at 29,000 dead and more than 1,000,000 injured, an increase of almost 20 per cent over 1944.

Casualties in November and October increased 40 to 53 per cent, respectively, over the same months in 1944.

Reports showed that rural traffic deaths were almost twice as numerous as urban deaths in each month of the postwar period.

Three states, Mississippi, South Dakota and Georgia, showed improvements over 1944.

During 1945 124 cities registered decreases, 176 reported increases and 56 showed no change. Among the cities with 250,000 or more population, Newark, Buffalo, Oklahoma and Rochester, reported reductions averaging 22 per cent.

Forty cities had perfect records for the entire period. This list included Evanston, Ill., population 65,400; Medford, Mass., 63,000, and Lynchburg, Va., 44,000.

200 Victims of Hungary's Nazis Found in 2 Graves

BUDAPEST.—More than 200 bodies of slave laborers and Jews—some bearing marks of burning and others of live burial—have been discovered in two Hungarian mass graves, 2nd Lt. George Gerbner, former San Francisco newspaper man, said in a report to the United States military commission. Gerbner said a lone survivor of the massacre by Hungarian Nazis on November 2, 1945, led investigators to a mass grave in Pestszentlőrinc, southern Budapest suburb. The other grave was found in Kiskunhalas, about 100 miles south of the capital.

Groom Kisses Bride, 72, His Friend 50 Years

GLENDALE, CALIF.—A friendship of 50 years led to the altar for 72-year-old G. N. Robinson and his 71-year-old bride, Mrs. Nettie L. Durgin, who flew here from Boston. "They kissed just like a young bride and groom," said Dr. J. Whitcomb Brougher Jr. after performing the ceremony.

The Robinsons, who first met when they had parts in a school production of Gilbert and Sullivan's "Patience," plan to live in Redlands, Calif. They both have been married before.

Found: One Billfold; Lost: One Japanese

GREAT FALLS, MONT.—Howard S. Sears lost a billfold containing $60 while at Coast Guard Training school.

The other day he received the lost article from Seattle coast guard headquarters with note reading: "Wallet found on dead Jap on Saipan."
The $60 was missing.

Salve, Spoon and Soap Aid Escape

Convict Tells How He Broke Out of Texas Jail.

HOUSTON.—Frank Mullins, sitting quietly in solitary confinement, told how he broke out of an "escape proof" death cell in Edinburg, Texas, jail last June with a spoon, a jar of nose salve and a starvation diet.

He was serving a life sentence at the time and, because he already had established himself as a successful jail breaker, was placed in the death cell.
Mullins ordered a jar of salve on the pretext of using it for a head cold. He saved his soap and went on a reducing diet.

He started digging in the cement with an ordinary eating spoon. He pecked away at night and threw the dirt and cement dust down a two-inch drain pipe. During the day he placed a magazine over his diggings.

In two weeks' time he made a hole 12 inches in diameter through 18 inches of cement to an 18-inch drain pipe.

That night he took off his clothes, greased himself with nose salve and, pushing his clothes ahead of him, started through the hole into the pipe.

He slipped into the pipe slowly and hopefully. "If I'd hit a curve or if the pipe had become smaller I'd been stuck. There was no backing up."

Mullins came out of a manhole in the back yard of the jail. There he scaled a high, double-barbed wire fence and was gone.

That was in June. In October he became involved in a running gun battle with police and was captured.

U. S. Decides to Ferret Out Hidden Shirts, Suits

WASHINGTON.—Government officials said they would take action "in a day or two" to bring hidden shirts and suits back on the retail market.

The Civilian Production Administration announced it would notify the clothing industry of its power to withdraw priorities from manufacturers if violations of hoarding regulations are proved.

OPA field agents are investigating alleged inequalities in the maximum average-price program. If inequalities exist, an OPA spokesman said, adjustments will be made to bring hoarded goods back onto the market.

The OPA and CPA announcements followed reports that a number of companies are withholding shipments of men's shirts and suits from the retail market.

Under the maximum average-price program, manufacturers are permitted to distribute only certain percentages of high-priced items. It forces them to put on the market larger percentages of low-cost clothing.

Manufacturers assert they are unable to get sufficient low-priced fabrics to produce enough cheaper shirts to allow them to sell better shirts.

For that reason, they say, the higher-priced shirts pile up in their warehouses.

Find Germans Have Slow Going on the Road Back

FRANKFURT, GERMANY.—Gen. Joseph T. McNarney reported that Germany was making slow industrial recovery, but that restoration of a minimum sustaining economy was virtually impossible so long as the French hold out against treating the Reich as a single economic unit.

McNarney, commanding general for United States forces in the European theater, said resumption of industrial production has been authorized in about 30 per cent of the plants in the American zone but shortages of transportation, coal and power limited production to from 5 to 10 per cent of normal capacity.

In his first report as new military governor for the zone, McNarney said the Allied control authority was still deadlocked in the basic matter of establishing administrative agencies for Germany.

Los Angeles Motor Car Thieves Jam Attu Air

LOS ANGELES.—Los Angeles auto thieves are causing confusion on Attu in the Aleutians.

From a sailor stationed at Attu came this letter to Police Chief C. B. Horrall:

"Every time we tune in on a good program, a loud, husky voice breaks in to report a stolen car."

The police chief was asked to tune his radio so the Yanks in Attu could enjoy music "without a riot being reported at Sixth and Main."

"Often my friends drift in in the late afternoon and stay for a cocktail and a cigarette."

By KATHLEEN NORRIS

SANDRA BAKER is now 20. Three years ago she married a man of 44. Harold was, and is, a great friend of her parents; he has loved Sandra since she was born.

"Harold is a doctor, who went into the service as a captain," says Sandra's tear-stained letter. "All during the war he was at home only for short intervals, and I lived with my own people. My little girl, Pamela, was born in my mother's house, and has always seemed more mother's baby than mine. I was very happy in those years, writing letters to my handsome captain, and quietly enjoying the freedom from school and the admiring comments of my old friends.

"Then Harold came home, and almost immediately I discovered that we are completely unsuited to each other. The difference is our ages—he is my father's contemporary and friend—is not the only trouble. Harold cares nothing for dancing, parties or good times. He never goes to movies. He hates the radio. He likes to play bridge or poker with his friends, neither of which I play.

Tried to Make It Successful.
"Don't think I haven't made a great effort to salvage my marriage. Harold wished us to have a home of our own, so we moved to his apartment downtown, where he lived with his first wife, who was my mother's cousin and who died some years ago. I try to keep house, cook, and manage my baby, but it is too much for me, and I leave Pamela much of the time with mother. Certain special dishes I cook well, but to serve meals hot and on time, at the right moment, is more than I can do, especially if I have to look rested and attractive while doing it.

"Often my friends drift in in the late afternoon and stay for a cocktail and a cigarette. Harold objects to my having even one drink; I did not drink at all before I was married, but as a married woman it seems to me I have a right to make that decision myself. On several occasions he has been distinctly rude to the girls, who naturally ask me why I put up with it. Harold also accuses me of extravagance, even though he will not tell me how much money he makes or take me into his confidence as to our affairs.

"Worst of all," the letter concludes, "my father and mother are shocked beyond words at my idea of a divorce. They remind me, as indeed is true, that they begged me not to marry Harold, much as they like him, because I was so young, and that I insisted upon doing so. They treat me still as a child, and say 'don't mention such things. You're married and you're going to stay married. Do your duty and you'll be happy, and stop talking nonsense.'"

How to advise a wife like this one? Obviously, if she ever was going to get any sense into her little head, she never would have written this letter. Sandra, at 20, with a baby and a home and a husband, is still the adored spoiled child she was at 17, when she first got the intoxicating idea of marrying a handsome officer, escaping the last year of high school, and startling her girl-friends into amazement and envy.

Tied Down to Drudgery.
Now the other girls are going through the normal years of dancing, house parties, movies, love affairs, and Sandra is tied down to the dull drudgery of housework and baby tending. Her choice now is between antagonizing her parents, harming her child, breaking up her home, or going on into years that stretch before her like the years in jail.

If I could advise her at all it would be to grow up—to become a real woman. To learn to be a good cook and housewife—surely not too hard an undertaking. Thousands of women in her very city are managing on budgets, cooking delightful meals, keeping small homes comfortable and happy.

When she has accomplished this, then perhaps she might have a talk with Harold. After a few weeks of pleasantness at home he may be more amenable to reason. She might ask him to give her an evening a week, in which they will either accept some invitation that seems tempting to Sandra, or go downtown just by themselves for dinner and a theatre afterward. She might persuade him to join the country club, always a good connection for a doctor to make.

But whatever she does, it should be as the middle-aged doctor's young wife; happy, busy, proud of his success, pleased with her own position. It is a pleasant and picturesque position, it will be her own fault if she does not develop its possibilities. Mothers and fathers have a way of objecting to 17-year-old marriages. There are reasons for this that little "Seventeen" can't see. Every girl in high school thrills to the idea of a sudden marriage that will leave her schoolmates gasping. But it isn't the normal order of things, and it has a way of turning out expensive and dull.

A FORTUNATE POSITION

Three years ago it seemed so glorious to Sandra, and now it's almost unbearable! She was only 17 when she married a handsome doctor more than twice her age. For a while she enjoyed the luxuries his ample income provided, and the prestige his position lent her. He was an army officer, and was home only for short furloughs.

Then he came home to stay, and Sandra quickly found that he was unsuited to her. Her tastes were those of a young girl, his those of a middle-aged professional man. She wanted dances and parties, plenty of friends about, good times and gaiety. He was tired after his exacting duties and wanted to rest or to play a quiet game of cards with his friends.

The care of the baby and the house take most of Sandra's time. When she wants to go out for an evening's fun Harold objects. He won't take her out, and doesn't want her to go alone. He is often rude to her friends, who are all very young, and is angered if Sandra takes a drink. Now he is accusing her of being extravagant, but refuses to set up a budget for her, or tell her of his affairs.

ing, house parties, movies, love affairs, and Sandra is tied down to the dull drudgery of housework and baby tending. Her choice now is between antagonizing her parents, harming her child, breaking up her home, or going on into years that stretch before her like the years in jail.

Hose Without Holes.
To keep stockings and socks from wearing thin at the heels and toes, many women are reviving the old European practice of waxing them. Just rub a piece of candle wax or paraffin on the heels and toes of stockings before you wear them. Once the wax is applied, enough of it will last to make the stockings more durable for several washings and wearings. The wax does not show, and if you apply only a thin film, you cannot feel it.

W. N. U. RELEASE

THE STORY THUS FAR: Teresa likes Stenhart much better than she likes Sherwin. She speaks again of Stenhart's eyes "like devils in him." When Stenhart is left alone in a chair under a tree in the yard, the stranger confronted the sick man, who blurted out: "My God, Sherwin, you!" Sherwin (stunned) calmly states: "I've come to all you, but not just now; you're sick." Sherwin returned to the house, feeling there was plenty of time to kill Stenhart. He could wait. A breeze from the window uncovered a photograph on the desk. A picture of Jane. Unconsciously a change came over Sherwin, the blood rushed to his face, his eyes softened as he thought of her.

CHAPTER IV

He held the picture in his hands, looking at it steadily. It had been taken perhaps four years before. The face was almost childish, but the clear straight look was there; a woman like that might keep a man from crime! And Stenhart dared to be in love with her! Well, good to be in love with her!

He had opened the dog-eared account books again. "I'll try to make good on these, anyway," he thought, and smiled for the first time as he began to run down Jim's slovenly figures. But he had hardly reached the foot of the column before he heard a quick step behind him and Jim himself came in, dusty and fagged.

"Hello, Hazlett. Quit that stuff, I've got something else on hand." As he spoke he flung himself into a chair and mopped his forehead. "Get most of the strays back, but I've lost about eighty yearlings, besides those you made into beef," he added with a grin.

"Sorry," Sherwin began, "but—" "No regrets!" Jim laughed. "You can ride. I know that. The men are all busy and I want you to ride over to Hemmings' place, it's about fifteen miles, and get the sheriff. See over there now. Take him along with you and show him the place where Jordan ran past you—you know, on the highway. We think he got some of his rustlers there. Anyway, he's cleared out of this neighborhood, and I want Cutler—that's the sheriff—to know it. You know the locality where Jordan edged Mac'll give you a fast horse. Better go right away."

Sherwin was staring fixedly at the book in front of him. He said nothing, and, after a moment, Jim looked around at him.

"Well?" he said interrogatively. "I don't know the roads; I'll lose time finding the place—Hemmings' place. Hadn't you better send some one who knows the way?"

"I've got no one who knows where Jim saw Jordan. Besides, the road to Hemmings' place is straight, you can't miss it. All the men are busy, and I'm outed. You can make it before Cutler takes a false trail. Here, I'll draw you a map—" Jim reached for a pencil. As he did so he caught a glimpse of the other man's face and whistled, then he laughed. "See here, Hazlett, what's wrong—you're not afraid to meet the sheriff, are you?" he asked lightly. Sherwin's face whitened. He rose. "I'll go at once, sir," he said gravely. "where's the house?"

Jim struck his hand on the desk. "Here, I say, don't take it like that. I was joking!"

Sherwin met his eyes squarely. "It's the kind of joke I don't like," he replied coldly.

Something in the man's eyes made Jim lean back in his chair and observe him closely. But he turned the matter off as well as he could. "Sorry! I owe you an apology. But you'll go?"

Sherwin nodded, went out and crossed the veranda to the lawn. Under the trees he saw a pretty tableau. Fanny Sewell was reading aloud to the convalescent, and going away from them, across the flowered slope that led to the creek. Jane, Sherwin saw the sunlight on her uncovered head. She did not see him, nor did Stenhart. He, too, was watching Jane. Sherwin's hand clenched at his side but he walked rapidly across the open space and went to the stables.

Old Mac was there with his arm in a sling, but he had already had his orders from Jim, and one of the stablemen had a fast horse saddled. "Jim says you're to go after the sheriff. He thinks Jordan's made off—" the old man shrugged.

"I see you don't agree with that," said Sherwin, as he sprang into the saddle. "A fox mostly doubles," Mac replied. "Look out for yourself, lad; Jordan may remember the rough tumble you had together."

"In case he does, goodbye, and thank you!" he said. As he rode his mind worked quickly. Across the bridge he drew rein an instant, felt in his pocket and drew out a newspaper two days old. He read a paragraph and shook his head. It was too great a risk to ride to Hemmings' place—he must give up his vantage-ground, his chance to be near Stenhart. The way that Jim had sent him lay to the west. He did not take it, but turned east. The road here was skirted by the creek and, half a mile farther, it ascended and commanded a view of Las Alomas. Sherwin followed it. Here, at the very beginning, fate had forced his hand more nearly than even Stenhart could have done it. He turned back and went to meet the sheriff. There was a chance, one a million, that he could carry it off, but if he did not, then he lost all chance at Stenhart. But if he went on to the east—then he must lose his point of vantage and he would never see Jane Keller again!

What madness to think of the girl! Sherwin knew it, but he was young and her clear eyes held him. He heard still her voice when she told him to "make good!"

And he was going—like a craven! Suddenly he turned his horse's head. He would go back; he'd go west and face—the devil, if need be!

Something stirred in the brush below the road, and he saw the branch of a low hanging tree sway suddenly. Rising in his stirrups he looked through a gap in the foliage. Below him ran the creek. On the farther bank wild flowers bloomed bravely, the sunlight making a carnival of color. He caught a glimmer of white, looked again and saw a figure there. Jane! She must have come this far looking for flowers; he could see her bending down to pull the of the stream, dripping. Knowing that, while he carried the girl, he was safe from gunfire, Jordan started to run to cover, but, burdened, he was not quick enough. Sherwin leaped forward and, throwing his powerful arms around him, dragged him back. Caught by an iron grip above each elbow, Jordan released Jane and tried to turn on his assailant. There was a moment of wild conflict; the two men struggled, twisted and went down together. Sherwin had no time to draw a weapon and he meant that Jordan should not have a better chance. Wrestling and panting they rolled over, slipping down the bank toward the creek, while Jane tried to help Sherwin, and cried for help.

Sherwin twisted and strained at the other man, when they came to a cleft in the bank, fell through it violently and struck water, Jordan uppermost. The force of the contact, the sudden rush of water over his head, loosened Sherwin's grip, and his antagonist drew a knife and struck once, furiously. The blade drove into the other man's arm, and there was a moment more of fierce conflict, the water growing red; then Jordan broke loose and swam ashore. He had crossed the creek. Sherwin still heard Jane's cries and, wounded in the arm, he struck out for the shore and, reaching it, climbed to the top of the bank dizzily. He saw that the girl was there alone and, faint from loss of blood, sank to his knees beside her.

"Oh, you're hurt, you're bleeding!" Jane was down beside him, trying, with shaking hands, to find the wound and staunch it.

Sherwin, looking up into her face, read something there that went to his head.

"It's only a scratch," he whispered hoarsely. "Thank God I was near enough to help!"

But you're bleeding, he's shot you in the arm! She was trying to bind it with her handkerchief. "And it was for me—Oh, I thought he'd kill you!"

Sherwin laid his hand over hers. "Would you care?" he asked, and his voice shook.

The girl lifted brave eyes to his, the color ran up her dusky hair, but her look answered his.

"Jane!" he cried, "Jane!" She did not speak, but her clear eyes misted. In the madness of that moment he cast his last resolution to the wind.

"I love you!" he said softly. "No matter what comes—no matter what is said of me—I love you!"

The girl looked back at him with her sweet gravity. "I don't even know your real name!" she said gently.

He groaned. It all came back to him and turned the world black. "I'm mad," he said bitterly. "You'll hate me soon for this!"

"John!"

He turned and saw her white face lifted, her blue eyes steady and brave.

"Tell me the truth," she said, "tell me—I'll believe you!"

He covered his own eyes with his shaking hands. Then he drew a long breath. He would tell her, he'd tell her all!

There came suddenly a shout and the sound of men rushing toward them.

"It's Jim," Jane said, "and old Mac—looking for me."

Sherwin realized all it meant! He had made love to the girl—she had not definitely repulsed him, her eyes had spoken much, and he was! The hot blood ran out of his face, his look was haggard. He stood still, trying to hide the blood on his sleeve. It made no difference now; nothing mattered, whether he lived or died. Then he heard her telling them what had happened and how brave he was!

Jim caught at his unwounded arm and wrung his hand.

"To the rescue again! You seem to have taken out a contract for pulling this family out of scrapes, old chap, and—" Jim choked a little, looking at his sister—"I don't know how to thank you!"

"Unfortunately, I always seem to let that rogue slip through my fingers!" Sherwin said. He knew that Jim must wonder how he got there, but Jane broke in with her cry about his arm.

"Jim, he's been shot—stabbed, I mean. You must see to his arm; I couldn't stop the blood!"

"Of course we'll see to it, Sis! Which way did Jordan run, Hazlett?"

"Into the brush," he pointed; "he got me in the arm first and—" he stopped, clapping his hand over the wound which stung painfully now.

"Oh, you must get that arm fixed up!" Jane said to her brother. "Where's the sheriff? He's needed here!"

Sherwin gave her a quick look, something grim in his smile, but Jim answered readily.

"I'd started Hazlett for the sheriff—by the way, where's your horse?" he asked suddenly.

Woman's World Unused Dresses Will Make Attractive Blouses, Jumpers

By Ertla Haley

AS YOU thumb through your closets preparatory to spring cleaning, you'll probably come across at least two dresses that are sadly worn and unwearable. With the clothing shortage and also the expense of buying new clothing, you would do well to consider the prospect of remodeling this clothing into something distinctly attractive and new looking.

One garment that has plenty of calls for wearing is the jumper. When it's tailored, the jumper is ideal for business wear or sports. If it's made of velvet or another of the more decorative materials, the jumper makes an attractive date dress.

Before any remodeling is attempted, the dress should be cleaned or washed thoroughly and ripped apart completely. Take care while ripping so that no threads in the material are pulled, and material so made useless. If you want to change the color of the dress, remove the old dye first. If, of course, you are dyeing it a darker color, the original shade does not have to be removed.

For the classic jumper, trim off the sleeves and cut the armholes, making them fairly large. If you are uncertain as to the exact shape you desire, consult a pattern. Trim down the neckline, too, into a square or round shape.

done simply by recutting the sleeve, leaving enough material to fold under for finishing; or, the sleeves may be ripped out and the capped effect achieved through the use of wide bands of grosgrain or faille ribbon. This is done after the dress is redyed.

At the beginning of this article I spoke about the possibility of your finding two dresses in the closet. Thus far, only one of the dresses has been mentioned. The other dress might well be made into a blouse to go with the jumper so that you will have a complete costume.

Select Jumper Blouse in Contrasting Color
The blouse for the jumper should be contrasting in color to the jumper, itself, or it may blend with that garment. With so many new prints out this season, a worn print, provided it looks well with the solid color you have used in the jumper, would be highly desirable.

If, however, the jumper is of a rather conservative dark shade, the blouse can be a solid bright color that blends with the jumper. Bright red goes beautifully with navy blue, or cerise is a lovely foil for aqua.

You'll find ample material in most worn dresses for a blouse of almost any style and design. The most popular type for jumper wear is the blouse that ties in a bow at the neck, or one that has a neat collar treatment and buttons down the front. The sleeves may be long or short depending upon your taste and the material available.

If the dress is tailored, it may not be necessary to rip the complete garment. Sometimes the bodice of the dress just needs trimming from the skirt and finishing to make the complete blouse.

If you do want to make a brand new blouse, rip the dress and start as you would with new material. Recut the sleeves and make them long or short. Add a new collar if the dress has one that is too fussy, and do bear in mind the type of jumper when you are making the blouse.

Mending Pointers
Men's worn-out shirt cuffs may be cut off and turned. Soft collars can sometimes be purchased at a notions counter, or, they may be taken off other shirts that are not usable.

Never stop stocking runs temporarily with nail polish as this frequently damages the thread of the hose permanently. Reinforce weak spots by darning carefully before the holes appear. This is especially true for hose that tends to wear in the heels or toes or on top of the stocking.

Patch slips that wear out underneath the armholes. If the straps are worn, replacements may be purchased and sewed on easily.

Heavy linen thread is recommended for button sewing. Buttons will stay on better if they are sewed with a thread shank that permits the iron point to get closer to them without snapping off the button.

Hooks and eyes are best sewn with double thread and an over and over stitch through holes. Sew over hook near top to hold it down. The straight metal bar or thread bar worked with a blanket stitch is placed on the seam line. The curved eye extends slightly beyond edge of the opening.

To mend a diagonal tear, darn with small running stitches parallel to lengthwise thread but in the direction of the tear. Over these stitches work another set of right angles to the first.

Spring Fashion Notes

If baby brother wants a sailor outfit like big brother, select one in a fabric that repels grime and dirt so as to keep him neat longer.

For after-work, you'll want to concentrate on checked gingham short slacks and jersey blouses. Casual dresses include corded chambray, striped and checked gingham, waffle pique in shirtwaist and button-front styles.

And make a chic jumper from it.

Ayes for Eyelets

If the original skirt is flared, this may be retained in the jumper, but it will add a note of smartness to make wide, deep pockets out of the sleeves. In some tailored materials, these pockets take on new interest if they are stitched in contrasting thread.

In some jumpers, a capped sleeve treatment is used. This is easily done simply by recutting the sleeve, leaving enough material to fold under for finishing; or, the sleeves may be ripped out and the capped effect achieved through the use of wide bands of grosgrain or faille ribbon. This is done after the dress is redyed.

When Your Back Hurts
 And Your Strength and Energy Is Below Par

It may be caused by disorder of kidney function that permits poisonous waste to accumulate. For truly many people feel tired, weak and miserable when the kidneys fail to remove excess acids and other waste matter from the blood.

You may suffer nagging backache, aching joints, headaches, dizziness, sleepless nights, leg pains, swelling, frequent and scanty urination, and with annoying and burning itchy skin. All of these things are signs that something is wrong with the kidneys or bladder.

There should be no doubt that prompt relief is wiser than neglect. Use medicine that has won countrywide approval, and on something low favorably known for many years. Are at all drug stores. Don't delay today.

Serve a Salad... Save the Vitamins (See Recipes Below)

Spring Salads

One of the best ways of fulfilling the vitamin and mineral requirement in the diet is to have a heaping bowl of fresh salad at luncheon or dinner. If tasty combinations of fruit and vegetable are used, the family will enjoy nibbling these precious morsels of health.

Salad greens should be washed thoroughly and examined carefully to insure the removal of all foreign substances. Then they are placed in a towel or a vegetable hydrator and chilled before being folded together. The bowl in which the ingredients are mixed and the plates on which the salad is served should also be chilled.

When salad materials are cut in pieces, they should be uniform and well-defined enough so that they will not lose their shape in the folding process. A marinade is often used to add flavor to salad materials. This is made by mixing oil, salt, lemon juice or vinegar. Vegetables, fish or meat may stand an hour or so in the marinade before using. When several vegetables are used, each one should be marinated separately. I have chosen several crisp spring salads which I know you will enjoy using. They will be particularly welcome with fish dinners or meals made up of casseroles or other hearty foods.

Jellied Vegetable Salad (Serves 4 to 6)

- 1 envelope (1 tablespoon) unflavored gelatin
- 6 tablespoons cold water
- 2 tablespoons cider vinegar
- 1 tablespoon lemon juice
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 5 tablespoons granulated sugar
- 1 cup boiling water
- 1 cup diced, cooked carrots
- 1/2 cup diced celery
- 1 cup shredded cabbage

Soften gelatin in cold water. Mix the vinegar, lemon juice, salt, sugar and boiling water together. Bring to the boiling point, and add softened gelatin. Stir until gelatin dissolves. Chill until syrupy. Fold in vegetables. Chill until firm. Serve with mustard salad dressing.

Garden Salad (Serves 6)

- Lettuce
- Romaine
- Mustard greens
- Tiny onions
- Sliced radishes
- Fluted carrot strips
- Green pepper rings
- Sliced tomatoes
- Sliced cucumbers

LYNN SAYS

Meat Cooking Hints: Grinding less tender cuts of meat breaks down tough connective tissue and makes them tender. Use ground meat for patties, meat loaves and meat pies.

Canned meats and ready-to-eat meats may be heated or served with vegetables and a starchy food. There is little waste in them, making them economical.

In buying ham, it is best to buy a whole ham rather than slices. Center slices bought separately are usually twice the price of ham bought whole.

Steak continues to cook after it is removed from the broiler. Serve it at once, if you want it medium or rare.

Stuff corned beef hash into green pepper halves, top with grated cheese for a quick supper idea.

Remove toothpicks when thoroughly chilled and crisp.

Vitamin Salad (Serves 6)

 - 12 radishes
 - Mustard salad dressing
- Wash spinach thoroughly; break leaves into small pieces; measure five cups. Peel cucumber; score lengthwise with tines of fork; slice. Peel and slice tomatoes. Slice radishes. Combine; serve with mustard salad dressing.

Some fruits and vegetables such as the calavo may be served just sliced in half, without peeling, and removing the seed with the sharp point of a knife, and sprinkling with lemon juice and salt.

Lime Fruit Salad (Serves 12)

- 1 package lime gelatin
- 1 cup boiling water
- 1 cup cold water
- 4 slices canned pineapple
- 1/2 cup canned white cherries

Max cream cheese with chopped nuts, raisins and ginger, and stuff pears. Use as garnish around lime mold. Top with pimiento cream cheese flower. Place slices of pineapple topped with pimiento cream cheese between pears. Garnish with endive. Serve with mayonnaise.

Frozen Pistachio Cheese Salad (Serves 8)

- 3 3-ounce packages cream cheese
- 1 1/2 ounces blue cheese
- Green food coloring
- 1/2 cup chopped pistachio nuts
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1 tablespoon lemon juice
- 1/4 cup light or heavy cream
- Lettuce
- Radish roses
- Cucumber slices
- French dressing

Mix the cream cheese and the blue cheese with a fork until soft. Tint a delicate green with food coloring. Add the chopped nuts, salt and lemon juice. Add the cream. Turn into a freezing tray of an automatic refrigerator with temperature control at coldest setting and spread smooth with a spatula to a thickness of about 3/4 inch. Freeze until firm. Cut into small squares and serve on crisp lettuce in the center of individual salad plates with radish roses and cucumber slices around it. Serve with french dressing.

Connected Triple-Braced Traction Bars... Give Firestone GROUND GRIPS A "CENTER BITE"

TESTS conducted under a wide range of soil and weather conditions proved conclusively that Firestone Ground Grip tires will give your tractors up to 16% more pull on the drawbar. That's because only connected, triple-braced traction bars...with their extra tread-bar length in the center of the pulling zone...take a "Center Bite."

Besides giving Firestone Ground Grips a "Center Bite," connected traction bars also insure better cleaning. There are no broken-bar, trash-catching pockets such as you see on ordinary tires. The connected bars are stronger, too, because they are triple-braced. This added strength increases tread life.

These money- and time-saving features are responsible for today's farm preference for Firestone Ground Grips. And they are the reasons why it will pay you to have Firestone Ground Grips on your present tractors and to specify Ground Grips when you buy a new tractor.

*Area in white shows the "Center Bite" traction zone, not found in other tires because of Firestone's exclusive patent rights.

trict that have commercial air-line service -- Lubbock and Big Springs. All of the letters were delivered within two days; a few of them were delivered overnight.

The eight cent air mail postage rate is too high and, in my opinion, it will be only a matter of months before the rate will be reduced and the service improved.

There has been a serious breakdown in the delivery of mail to and from the far Pacific on account of the reduction of the Air Force activities. I presented a number of complaints which I have received to the Adjutant General some time ago, urging that immediate steps be taken to provide adequate air mail facilities to our men in Japan and China and other Pacific areas. Nothing short of good air mail service to these areas can be tolerated.

Yesterday I had a talk with Claude Wickard, head of the REA, about something which I regard as very important to all rural America. That is the question of rural telephone service. There is hardly a rural area in the United States where the telephone service is adequate to meet the need. Instead of increased coverage with the development of science, there are less rural telephones today than there were twenty years ago. More homes have electricity than have telephones.

We have some legislation pending which would encourage the development of rural telephone service thru the REA set-up. Other methods have also been proposed. There is no good reason why rural areas should be denied the advantages of telephone service. I have joined with others here who are seeking a way to help meet this important need.

This morning I joined a group of fifteen other Members of Congress in a meeting with Clint Anderson, Secretary of Agriculture. We met to discuss the cotton situation. The Secretary reported on the progress of our export program. It is moving along well. Government owned cotton is rapidly being sold. By August, the Government owned stock, instead of totaling millions of bales, will probably have been reduced to one half million bales.

We renewed our urgent request, originally made in January, when the proposal was first made, that the threat of ceilings on raw cotton be entirely removed. Again we pointed out that such ceilings would be unfavorable, unjust and unnecessary because there is no shortage of raw cotton. Since no final assurance has been given, we will continue our efforts against the proposed ceilings. We plan a further discussion of this subject with CPA officials.

Lee Osburn, head of the Farm Security Administration in Texas, told me this week that funds for Farm Security loans to veterans and others who need assistance thru the FSA for farming purposes have been exhausted. This has been confirmed in communications from a number of counties of our district. Mr. Lasseter, national head of the Farm Security Administration, came to my office this week to discuss plans. We are going to try to get some quick action in Congress in order to provide an additional loan authorization so that the more urgent demands can be met. Action must be taken within the next few days or else it will be too late. Chances for an additional FSA loan authorization are good.

A special delegation of Texans en route home from the REA convention in Buffalo, New York, stopped by Washington yesterday for a one day visit about the city and at REA headquarters.

Texas Electric Expands

Announcement of an $5,000,000 program of power plant and power line construction by Texas Electric Service Company has been made by J. B. Thomas, president and general manager. This program, to be completed within two years, will result in increased employment and will prepare for increased demands for electricity that the company confidently expects from expanded industrial development in West Texas. Greater amounts of power also will be available to operate new electrical equipment that soon will be commonplace in many stores and homes.

"Additions and improvements will be made throughout the company's power system," Mr. Thomas said. "One project in the two-year construction budget is the installation of a 49,000 kilowatt turbine and generator at the company's power plant at Handley, order for which was placed last year. This unit, one of the largest in use by any public utility in Texas, will be in operation by the middle of 1947, and will greatly increase the power supply available to West Texas cities and towns supplied from the company's transmission line system. Along with the expansion of the Handley plant will be the construction of 50 miles of 49,000 volt power line which will complete an industrial power loop around Fort Worth, greatly enlarging the area in which large industries may receive power direct from high voltage lines."

Other projects include a 66,000 volt power line to serve Andrews and the Fullerton Oil Field. This line will connect with the Company high voltage transmission system at Odessa and also will supply power to the North Cowden Oil Field. Power service for Andrews and the Fullerton Oil Field is now supplied from diesel engine power plants until this new power line can be completed.

A 66,000 volt power line is planned from Wink north into the Keystone oil field to supply power to oil companies and others in that area.

"More than 350 miles of rural power lines were constructed in 1945," Mr. Thomas said, "and more will be constructed as a part of the two year construction program. Many of these lines will be extensions of present rural lines, to reach additional farm and ranch homes, and other lines will be built into new areas to extend the benefits of electric service as widely as possible."
