Truman Relieves Gen. MacArthur From All Commands in the Far East

MACARTHUR RELIEVED-To millions of small-towners across the nation to whom Gen. Douglas MacArthur has become something of a legend, his removal from all of his commands by President Truman was a shock not easily understood. The action pointed up the seriousness of the break between the general, the White House, and UN statesmen which had raged for weeks over the conduct of the Korean war.

According to grim, stubborn MacArthur, he was fighting Europe's war with arms in Asia while Europe's diplomats continued to fight com-munism with words. In his blunt, barbed way, he wrote Joseph W. Martin, Jr., house majority leader: "It seems strangely difficult for some to realize that here in Asia is where the Communist conspirators have elected to make their play for global con-

That statement struck at the administration's very basis of how to defeat communism. It threw European diplomats into a tizzy. It brought demands in congress that a special bipartisan committee be sent to Tokyo to hear the general's foreign policy views. It brought rumors of the crackdown on MacArthur which the people on Main Street could not believe would ever happen.

The action has produced a shock that may have serious consequences. In the next few weeks congress may possibly be involved in bitter debate as the general's cause is championed by the Republican

But above all, it has caused confusion and uneasiness in the mind of the average Main Street citizen whose common sense tells him there is no end in sight for the Korean conflict. It does not answer the question in the minds of millions of people in the home towns: How are we going to get our sons and brothers and husbands free of the blood and filth

GRAPES OF WRATH—The people in the big cities of the nation know little about the "Okies" so vividly described in John Steinbeck's novel of the depression, "The Grapes of Wrath." But to the people in the small towns and rural sections of the nation, they have long been a problem-and a necessity.

There are millions of them in the United States, working from the south toward the north as the crops ripen for harvest. And as the harvest nears they are welcomed and just as anxiously the community awaits their leaving. They are poor, often underfed and inadequately housed. They present a problem on the home town level that the individual com-

At last, much to the relief of millions of home towners, the federal government has stepped in and made a survey of their problems. The committee that made the survey has recommended legislation on migratory farm labor that may solve wage problems, establish labor camps, extend social security, public health and education programs with the aid of states and local communities.

Of all the problems that faced the home towns of the nation, that of the migratory worker was one of the most serious. Its solution will

ATOMIC SPIES- In what was probably one of the most dramatic and moving scenes in a federal court in the history of this country, Judge Irving Kaufman sentenced Julius and Ethel Rosenberg, husband and wife atomic spy team, to die for Said handsome, 41-year-old Kaufman,

KEEP 'EM ON THE FARM-The old question of "how are you goin' to keep 'em down on the farm" showed up again in preliminary figures from the 1950 census of agriculture.

The census bureau announced that the tentative count of the number of farms in the country came to 5,379,043, a "real" drop of at least 280,000 for the first five postwar years and at least 500,000-or about 8 per cent-for the last decade

The bureau put forth three major reasons: (1) A trend toward combining small farms to form large ones. This was most pronounced west of the Mississippi. (2) A trend away from production of food for home use or sale. (3) Rural people taking jobs in nearby city industries and dropping production of food.

THE LEVELING OFF-Michael V. DiSalle, price director, said in his latest statement that his ceilings have brought "some stability" into view, but that higher taxes and tightening of money and credit supply

The question in the minds of home town housewives was whether or not the line will hold, or whether there will be another upward spiral in late summer as predicted by many economists.

In defense of controls, DiSalle said: "We had to start price controls. It was a psychological move to combat the factors that were driving us toward a serious inflation."

Labor Policy Committee At Truman's invitation labor returned to the Defense Board.

U.M.T. DROPPED-The house armed services committee dropped efforts to write a universal military training program that would have reached into the home of every family in the nation. The senate had previously approved establishment of a U.M.T. program in connection with pending draft legislation.

The committee adopted an amendment by which congress agrees to consider recommendations to be made later by a five-man U.M.T. commission. Legislators who approved of U.M.T. said they believed universal military training will be enacted within a year.

Increased Taxes Urged

THE Committee for Economic Development, a business organization long regarded as sound and eminently fair in its outlook on governmental affairs, has submitted tax program for the congress which calls for a reduction of $6 billion in the 1951-52 federal budget and $10 billion pay-as-you-go tax

In carrying out this program the committee makes the following recommendations: (1) an additional 5 per cent tax on taxable income after present exemptions and the present tax; (2) a corporate profits tax which would bring the combined income tax rates on profits in excess of $25,000 to 50 per cent as compared to the present 47 per cent; (3) an increase in the manufacturers excise tax on automobiles to 20 per cent from the present 7 per cent, and on refrigerators, television sets and other consumer mechanical durable goods to 25 per cent from the present 10 per cent, an increase in the present federal excises on alcoholic beverages, tobacco and gasoline; a new excise of 5 per cent retail sales on items not now subject to federal excises, excluding food, housing, fuel utilities, and certain other items difficult to tax. The main categories subject to tax would be clothing and household furnishings; (4) a number of other tax revisions to increase revenue including taxation on interest of future issues of state and local securities, collection at sources of individual income tax on dividends and taxation of cooperative businesses

The committee stressed the need for quick action on taxes and warned that the nation faces a shift from a surplus in fiscal 1951 to a deficit estimated in the budget at $13 billion in 1952.

Farm Net Income Down

As a matter of fact, all the statistics, of both the departments of labor and agriculture show that farm net income in 1950 reached a low of approximately $5 billion under 1947, about a billion under 1949 and 31/2 billion dollars less than 1948. The percapita income of farmers also shows a tremendous decrease as compared to incomes of the city folks. In the face of over-all increase in national in-come from $209 billion in 1949 to $215 billion in 1950, the net farm income dropped to $13 billion, or a billion dollars under 1949. A report of Sen. Allen Ellender's committee on agriculture says in terms of dollars with a 1945 purchasing equivalent, farmers in 1950 had a net income of only $8.5 billion as compared to $12.8 billion five years earlier. But that would be true, of course, of any segment.

Farm Parity Fight Indicated

There is every indication that a bitter struggle will be waged in this congress for and against repeal of the farm price support legisla-tion. And strangely enough, al-though all four major farm organizations here in Washington oppose it, the New York Farm Bureau Federation recently expressed its willingness to do away with the program in a full page ad in the Wall Street Journal.

The ad, however was spon sored by the committee for con-stitutional government, a more or less questionable outfit. But the move to abolish farm sup-ports is said to be gaining adherents in the senate under the theory that the price support program and the parity system in some manner is caus-ing high prices and aiding in-

Labor Opposes Sales Tax

Insofar as its $10 billion dollar tax increase is concerned, the committee may have hit on about the right sum, although the President asked for a $16 billion dollar increase. It is believed, however, that the chief executive is now reconciled to the fact that congress will not take that big a chunk out of the income at one stroke. But where the CED is in for strong opposition is its recommendations for a sales tax and a tax of the patronage dividends of cooperatives. Labor always has been traditionally opposed to a sales tax in principle, although the CED proposal exempts food, housing, fuel, etc. And farm organizations are equally opposed to the tax on coops.

Fishing Tackle Is Main Street's Big Business as Season Opens

On any warm afternoon in May millions of home towners will be walking along Main Streets of the thousands of small communities across the nation. They'll be walking slowly, glancing in store windows as they pass. And suddenly they'll stop and stare. A dreamy, faraway look will come into the eyes of some; others will mirror excite-

Ninety-nine chances out of each hundred, those home towners who stopped so suddenly will have caught the glimpse of a display of sporting equipment ranging from fancy rods and reels to bamboo poles in the local sporting goods or hardware store window.

For May is "Let's Go Fishing Month," and the fishing fever rises to the boiling point in neophyte and expert. The most popular sport in America, fishing attracts young and old alike. Americans, nearly go wild over basketball, football and baseball, go completely over-board for fishing. MAIN STREET From the oldest FEATURE to the youngest, there's a hypnotic fascination about rods, reels, lines and lures that they can not resist. Americans spend millions for fishing equipment and it's the wise Main Street merchant that displays it prominently and attractively.

The amazing thing about fishing is the attraction it holds for millions of children. It might be just a cane pole, a hook, a line, and sinker they have for equipment, but it spells adventure and thrills.

In this connection, many towns in the country have en-couraged fishing during recent years as one of the ways to curb juvenile delinquency. Many local Kiwanis and Rotary clubs have picked up the idea of Bet-ter Fishing Inc., a national or-ganization with headquarters in Chicago, dedicated to introducing boys and girls to the fun and thrills of the angler's art, and sponsor Better Fishing Rodeos later in the summer.

The Rodeos, one day affairs, are preceded each year with weeks of fishing fiestas, which are a warmup period for the national celebration, when youngsters are taken on organized fishing trips by parents and civic leaders who believe in teaching children the art and benefits of good sportsmanship while they are most susceptible to learn-

On the big day, National Boys and Girls Better Fishing Day, moppets sporting equipment ranging from rods and reels to plain bamboo poles troop to local lakes, ponds, and streams to compete for the national "Kings," and "Queens," titles and collect the BFI and local merchant donated prizes that go with victory. Any boy or girl can compete if he another 100 million acres will have been discarded by 1960.

Yet the population "now exceeds 150 million and is rising at the rate of 2,200,000 a year," limit. Each contestant is allowed any legal sports fishing tackle, but may use only one hook and line, and must do his or her angling from the shore-no boats allowed. A rule which is probably a boon to the youngsters who like to do things themselves, but puts quite a strain on excited parents, is the one which limits landing assistance to the realm of verbal comments. It takes a strong-willed father or mother to control the urge to "lend hand" when the offspring snags a fighting fish.

To the boys and girls who successfully land the heaviest fish in species from sunfish to the salt water variety go national titles, and angling outfits. It is seldom that any contestant leaves the fishing grounds emptyhanded. Local merchants and service clubs seem to have a way of digging up prizes for all.

And while all these activities are being planned for the children, it is becoming a rare community indeed that is not sponsoring fishing contests for the grownups of the community during the summer. In many communities local merchants, in cooperation with local publications, sponsor monthly contests with prizes for the biggest catch. In other localities the contests are conducted on a fishing season basis.

The idea of fishing as a sport to be sponsored on the local level is finding increased popularity be-cause it fosters health and productive activity linked with enjoyment. It is finding increasing popularity also as a means of bringing parent and children together in an atmosphere of clean, uninhibited fun.

Although some hard-shelled veterans of the rod and reel may scoff at the benefits or even the sanity of bringing a fishing pole and a young lady together, the BFI refutes any doubts they might profess. The girls have more than held their own with the males.

Some fishing veterans will tell you it is a good idea indeed. For instance, if the husband arrives home loaded down with new fishing tackle instead of the fur coat she expected, the wife will understand because she too enjoys the sport and is probably a devoted angler herself. Instead of packing for the return trip to mother, she or she is under the legal fishing li- will be well satisfied with the purcense age of 16. Ages usually run chase of a fishing outfit. At least

Michigan Farm Earnings May Increase 25 Per Cent

Net earnings on Michigan farms will probably average 25 per cent higher in 1951 than in 1950, Michigan farm economists report. The earning figure in 1950 was about $2,400 per farm compared to $1,800 in 1949 according to records kept on larger and better-than-average Michigan farmers. The $2,400 earning figure in 1950 is $1,050 above the 22 year average, 1929-1950, the report said.

Nation's Timber, Forage Output Increased by Extensive Research

Uncle Sam's foresters are working harder than ever devising new ways to produce more timber for defense and to increase the forage production of the nation's range

In 61 research centers, 102 experimental forests, and 14 experimental ranges forest service research men are conducting many different studies.

At the Fort Valley experimental forest in northern Arizona researchers discovered that the growth rate of ponderosa pine can be doubled if stands are cut lightly every 10 to 20 years rather than cut heavily every 40 to 60 years. Ridding southern pine stands of overtopping hardwoods pays off, the research center at Crosset, Ark., decided. Ten years ago they cut or girdled all hardwoods two inches and up in diameter on an experimental plot. Growth of the released pines has been so rapid that a thinning out was made this

The control of forest fires has long been a part of the Forest Service research program. Methods of determining the fire danger each day have been worked out and are used regularly by forest administrators to help them judge how many men need to be on fire duty each day and how many men they need to send to the fires that occur.

U.S. forest researchers report that bugs and disease take a far greater toll of timber than fire. They are in constant search of means of protecting the nation's forests.

BUGS AND DISEASE take a bigger toll of timber than fire. At the Institute of Forest Genetics in Placerville, Calif., geneticists are producing trees that will resist disease and insects. They have de veloped a cross between the Jeffrey and Coulter pines that withstands attacks from the pine reproduction weevil. A cross between eastern white pine and Himalayan pine show great resistance to blister rust.

In working toward a better range. forest service technicians have taken abandoned farmland that was a dead loss and converted it to pro ductive grazing land. On idle fields near the Bitterroot Valley of Montana foresters used a preparatory crop method of seedbed preparation. They planted wheat or barley the first year. Then they sowed crested wheatgrass in the grain stubble. This method of planting controlled the troublesome cheatgrass that often causes failures in reseeding such ranges and also netted a profit of $4.55 an acre.

Water runoff experiments have been conducted at many research stations. At the Coweeta experimental station in North Carolina research men have studied the effects of various types of timber cutting and land use on the flow water. They have discovered that the streamflow from a watershed can be materially increased by removing those trees which waste a great deal of water in transpiration. They are also running a small farm to see what effect traditional hillside farming has on water runoff and soil erosion.

To aid industry the Forest Products Laboratory at Madison, Wisc., developed a new process for pulping hardwoods which is simpler and less costly than the chemical pulping processes. They found that overmatue Douglas-fir timber infected with a pitting called white pocket can be used for construction pur-

Other forest service researchers conduct surveys of forest lands to determine how much timber is available in this country. Their reports have been valuable to the National Security Resources Board in determining what forest resources are available for national defense. The reports have also aided wood using industries in finding suitable locations near raw materials.

The work of the research foresters is vital not only in the defense program but also in everyday living. Their findings are the property of the American people. Research foresters welcome visitors, issue free publications and make their studies known through national forest administrators, extension sevice workers, state agencies, inmean right," said Gene ruefully. dustries and farm foresters.

Kathy smiled as she visualized the new spring outfit she would wear at the gathering. Paddy was proud of her dress, too, even if he didn't say so. She knew he liked the way it emphasized her figure. Of course he had complained about the cost, adding: "If you want to waste money on clothes, you should have married a banker."

But the argument about the dress was not the real reason she had left. The breaking point was reached when Paddy had refused to buy the darling bonnet displayed in Mur-phy's window. "Ridiculous!" he

"When I get my hands on that stubborn neck of yours," Kathy O'-Maddigan shouted, "I'll . . "Sure now," Paddy said, "would you be wanting to harm your bread and butter?" "Open this door, I say!"

"In good time, woman," Paddy replied. "It's your Irish temper that has the best of you."
"Temper!" Kathy shouted. "A fine one you are to be talking of an Irish temper. Who was it that woke the neighbors with this carrying on in the wee hours of the morning? No answer.

"It was Patrick O'Maddigan, that's who it was. And all because I wanted the money to buy the hat." "But the price, woman. I couldn't afford a week's wages for a bit of lace and cloth."

"Don't you want your wife to be the best dressed lady at the wake tomorrow?" Kathy asked.

"That I do, but could you not purchase a hat that's more reasonable "I had my heart set on wearing

"Let me in, Paddy," Kathy pleaded, a pathetic note creeping into her voice. "I'll be good . . ." There were sounds of movement in the apartment. Then Kathy heard a key rattle in the lock Swiftly she stooped, slipped a shoe off her foot and straightened up with it grasped firmly in one small hand.

She struck swiftly as the door was opened suddenly. But it was so sudden that Kathy was thrown off balance and the momentum carried her to the center of the room. She landed un ceremoniously on her hands and knees.

Brushing aside a strand of hair that was tickling the tip of her nose, she looked up at Paddy who was standing beside the open door. In his hand was a bit of Kelly green and a little white veil with a pink and blue ribbon on the side.

"You did buy it Paddy. But . . . you . . . said . . . "I meant to surprise you Kathy," Paddy explained. "I couldn't le: you down. Have your forgotten our

Restaurants Have Important Role in Home Town Economy

Restaurants are so much a part of the daily American scene that people in the home towns more or less take them for granted. Many local and state restaurant associations, perhaps t h e restaurateurs FEATURE just up the street, have planned programs by which they will bring to your attention the services they offer. Some will sponsor cooperative newspaper or radio advertising, while others plan luncheons, parades, parties, or similar festivities to honor their outstanding civic leaders, underprivileged children, or other citizens in the public lime-

On a national scale members of allied industries will publicize Restaurant Hospitality Month through their advertising.

One of the amazing things about the restaurant business is that the average home-towner does not realize what an important part the restaurant on Main Street plays in his community. In an indirect manner he is the official host of your town, That is where the tourist stops to be fed, to ask a few questions, and to relax. And on whether or not he gets a good meal depends the length of time he will spend in your community, and possibly the amount of money he will leave behind. A good restaurant has caused more motorists to drive out of their way than possibly any other industry in the country today.

But aside from the outside trade a good restaurant brings into your own community, just what is the economical relation of the restaurants in your home town upon the population?

Count them up. Maybe there's only one restaurant in your town-maybe four. How many people do they employ? How much food do they buy? How much do they pay in taxes? Topart of your home town retail

On the national level, 25 per cent of all the food consumed in this country is consumed in public eating establishments. All kinds and types of meals and ways of serving them have been devised to suit the convenience, tastes, pocketbooks and nationalities of the people who the community, professional and make up America. Twenty years ago only 18 per cent of the food was consumed outside the home.

Today the public feeding industry has become the third largest retail industry in America, doing an annual volume of $10 billion a year. Over 2 million people are employed in the public feeding industry. In retail trades, eating places rank third in the number of persons gainfully employed throughout the year with no seasonal slump. One out of every six workers in retail trades is employed in the public eating in-

It has been estimated that 7.1 per cent of the consumer's disposable income for food and beverages in 1950 was outside the home. This includes any establishment serving food to the public for a consideration: lunchrooms, cafeterias, table service, hotel dining rooms, fountains, variety store counters, department store operations, industrial feeding operations, school lunchrooms, driveins, and inflight food service.

Long-trend changes in the consumption habits of the public that have taken place since World War II and the increase in travel are cited as the reason for this great increase in away-from-home eating.

National and Inter - American Music Week (May 6-13) will be observed this year in more than 3,000 cities, home towns and small communities. For the 28th annual observance the basic aims of Music Week continue, as they have been from the beginning: to advance the love of music and impress upon the consciousness of the people its value in modern life; to increase performance of music by groups and individuals; to multiply opportunities for young talent and widen acquaintance with good music by American composers.

Perhaps your home town has planned special musical programs. If not, it is not too late to arrange a program that will bring to the attention of your community the value of music.

Church and church-school participation has been increasing in recent years in many small towns. Sermons on music and special programs by organists and choirs are being supplemented by concerts and hymn singings designed to revitalize the entire musical side of the church service. Inter-church and inter-denominational events are using music to strengthen the cooperative as well as the religious Youth groups of both boys and girls have been coming to the fore in Music Week with demonstrations of what they are doing in music. Many adult groups-women's clubs, parentteacher associations and rural groups, like the Grange, Four-H and Homemakers Clubs, are taking advantage of the observance effectively to climax their season's musical activities and sometimes to arrange public programs."

Men's luncheon clubs, service clubs, and civic organizations are not only taking part more prominently, with music for their own members, but are furthering movements for the general musical development on the local level.

Schools and clubs have a unique opportunity in Music Week to focus attention on the musicians of amateur. In some communities of servances will feature programs to bring out the contributions of local musicians toward making the town a better place in which to live.

From the inception of Music Week on a synchronized national basis in 1924 the schools have had a prominent role in the participation and have used the opportunity to make local communities more conscious of their increasingly effective work in orchestras, bands and glee clubs an opportunity to appear before service clubs and civic organizations to demonstrate their achievements.

Thousands of small towns across the nation find in Music Week the opportunity for self-expression that stresses their mutual interests and achievement. It is another means by which the people in small towns can create their own entertainment.

Plan Casual Suppers for Warm, Lazy Days (See Recipes Below)

Porch-Picnic Suppers

IT'S NOT A MINUTE too early to start thinking of menus for picnic type suppers because one of these warm evenings you might just want to pick up your dinner and carry it out to the back porch. In fact, if you're planning menus and it morning and it looks like it might be one of those unenergetic days that will have the starch out of you completely by the time supper is due, plan a porch Some main dishes and salads can be chilling while the temperatures climb. Another way to do it is to have the fixings for a quick supper right on the pantry shelf. To make a good supper platter, canned meats may be utilized, along with assorted breads, mustard, catsup and pickle relish. With this serve a beverage and fruit or berries in season.

Main dish meats and hearty salads are another good answer to the porch supper served picnic style. Meats like chicken, ham or corned beef are excellent beginnings. Add plenty of vegetables, and then round out the menu with rolls heated at the last minute and a cool dessert or cake bread in the cool of morning.

IF YOU LIKE a very hearty, but cool supper, nice enough for guests, you'll enjoy this veal masked with mayonnaise. Served on a platter with peach halves with cottage cheese, buttered green beans, whole wheat bread and butter sandwiches, sherbet and cookies, nothing could be nicer for a porch and picnic supper!

Veal Masked with Mayonnaise

(Serves 6-8)

1 breast of veal (4-5 pounds) 1 large onion, sliced

2 teaspoons salt 1/2 teaspoon pepper

cups boiling water 1 envelope plain gelatin 3 tablespoons cold water 1 cup mayonnaise

Place veal breast, onion, salt, pepper, celery and boiling water in large kettle. Bring to a boil. Cover and simmer gently for 21/2 hours or until meat is tender. Drain reserving liquid. Remove meat from bones and cut in coarse pieces. Strain liquid and reduce to ½ cup by boiluncovered. Pack meat in small mixing bowl ad add liguid. Let stand until cold. Cover with waxed paper and chill overnight under a heavy weight. Turn out on flat plate. Soak gelatin in cold water for 5 minutes. Dissolve over boiling water. Add slowly to mayonnaise, stirring constantly. Pour mixture over veal, spreading with spatula to coat meat on all sides. Garnish with slices of stuffed olive and watercress. Chill until serving time. Cut in wedges.

SAVORY TONGUE, chilled, then sliced thin is an excellent picnic meat. Serve around macaroni or potato salad, molded pear-raspberry salad, muffins and butter, a fresh-strawberry-pineapple fruit compote.

*Savory Smoked Tongue (Serves 6) 1 3-pound smoked tongue

LYNN SAYS: Here are Food Combinations Well Worth Trying

Ever have two vegetables left and wonder if they can be used together? Lima beans team with corn kernels and a bit of cream; lima beans will also go together with string beans and a bit of melted butter and lemon juice. Chilly and crisp is this salad that alternates very thin slices of salted cucumber with thinly sliced onion LYNN CHAMBERS' MENU

BRISKET OF BEEF, prepared in the following way makes an excellent and tasty teamed with green salad tossed with tomatoes, corn on the c o b fruit gelatin, cookies or cake and a Peppery Beef Rounds (Serves 8)

4 pounds boneless brisket of 1 tablespoon peppercorns

11/2 teaspoons salt 1/4 teaspoon ground allspice 2 tablespoons fine dry bread crumbs

1 teaspoon garlic salt enion, sliced Have butcher pound brisket flat. Wipe meat with damp cloth and place on board. Score meat lengthwise and crosswise with a heavy knife on both sides. Place peppercorns and crush with small hammer or mallet. Sprinkle meat with crushed pepper, salt, allspice, crumbs and garlic salt. Roll meat tightly lengthwise. Cut in two crosswise pieces. Tie firmly with string. Place in heavy kettle; add onion and cover with hot water. Cover and simmer for 4 hours until tender. Cool in broth. Chill, then cut in thin

NEW AND different "burgers" that offer a treat in eating are these made mainly of tuna fish, cheese and ripe olives. They're easy to mix and make inside, then cart to the porch for supper:

Tuna Burgers (Serves 6)

1/2 cup ripe olives 1 61/2-ounce can tuna fish 1 cup chopped celery

1/2 cup diced American cheese 14 cup mayonnaise

1/2 teaspoon grated onion 1/4 teaspoon salt 6 namburger buns Butter

Cut olives from pits into large pieces. Flake tuna fish coarsely. Blend lightly together the olives, celery, cheese, mayonnaise, onion and salt. Cut buns in half and hollow out center. Butter inside and fill with tuna mixture. Replace tops. Place in deep pan and cover closely. Bake in a moderate (350°) oven for 15 to 20 minutes or until heated

Put plenty of parsley in your next batch of creamed chicken for a green color note. Serve on boiled rice. This is easy as well as good. Dip your fish fillets in flour before frying in butter. Add some bacon or salt pork while cooking and don't forget to serve with lemon and tartar sauce. Poach halved apricots in their own syrup and let cool. Fill two or three of the halves with vanilla ice cream and set them on a large rings and lettuce hearts. French macaroon. Serve with apricot ayrup lemo juice are needed, puncture the skin of the lemon with a fork and gen tly squeeze out the amount of juice needed. This eliminates the waste that occurs when a lemon is cut, as it keeps the remaining lemon juice fresh.

When eggs are scarce, a medium-sized grated raw potato may be substituted for the egg usually used in a meat loaf. The potato will bind the mixture together just as the egg does.

Leftover vegetables can be perked up if they're served with browned butter to which a few bread crumbs have been added.
