19,072 BALES GINNED TO TUESDAY MORNING

The local cotton harvest rolled into high gear last week and a check Tuesday morning up to 9 a m showed 19,072 bales of cotton being ginned here by the community's 7 gins compared to 14,379 up to the same time last week or more than 4500 bales in a week. Gins are running round the clock and all gins have their gin yards filled with cotton trucks waiting to unload. Many farmers are storing their seed cotton in the field until they can get equipment to haul to the gin. Especially is this true now that strippers and hand pulling is at peak height. Elsewhere than here farmers are meeting and unloading to push down gin delivered pulling to $2 Here most farmers are paying $2.25 gin delivered but pickers are beginning to meet with farmer's resistance. Very little profit is being realized due to high picking costs. This week may see a break to $2.00 gin delivered.

So Wilson Held Up the War For Fast Shorthand Lesson

By BILLY ROSE

During the closing days of World War I, I took the President of the United States out of play for 15 minutes. I did it with my little shorthand pencil.

At the time, I was working for the War Industries Board in Washington as a stenographer, and running out to get chocolate sodas for Mr. Baruch, its chairman.

A few days before the Armistice, a Board executive handed me a letter and told me to deliver it to the proper party. The proper party was Woodrow Wilson.

The White House that day was a jumble of senators, Cabinet members, ambassadors and important brass. News of the Armistice was expected any hour, and the tension was like the last few seconds of the Dempsey-Firpo fight.

I handed the letter to one of Mr. Wilson's secretaries, and was asked to wait in case of a reply. A few minutes later the secretary returned, looking puzzled.

The President would like to see you," he said. I got trembly inside. I was pushing 18 at the time — fresh out of the East Side, and also plain fresh. But my dealings with Presidents had been limited to the one I had seen on dollar bills.

Mr. Wilson smiled when he saw me. "I understand you're quite a shorthand writer," was his greeting.

MY TREMBLES vanished. I knew the President was a shorthand writer of sorts — the tachygraphy magazines were always bragging about it. "I hear you're pretty good yourself, Mr. President," I blurted out.

Mr. Wilson blushed prettily. "I don't get much chance to practice these days," he said, like a fisherman apologizing for a six-inch trout. "Mr. Baruch tells me you can write 200 words a minute. I wonder if you'd give me a little demonstration."

He handed me a pad and a pencil, and picked up a New York newspaper on his desk. Then, in his clipped, precise speech, he read one of the editorials at about 150 words a minute. When he had finished, the President said, "Now let's hear you read it back."

Well, as every stenographer knows, it's the reading back that counts. I shot the editorial back at him a good deal faster than he had dictated it. And then I started at the bottom of the page and read the editorial backwards.

Wilson chuckled. He asked me questions about Gregg shorthand — he was a Pitman writer. By this time, I was patronizing him a little — the caddy who shoots a 61 isn't self-conscious when he discusses mashie shots with a Rockefeller.

I PICKED UP the New York paper and handed the pad and pencil to Mr. Wilson. "I wonder if you'd mind writing for me, Mr. President," I said.

Wilson rubbed his glasses on his sleeve. "Don't go too fast," he warned.

I read the editorial at about one hundred words a minute, and then asked him to read it

TO A CONVALESCENT

I AM praying for you, friend, while you are waiting. The long hour through for strength to come again. God grant you patience that you may wait bravely; God grant you courage for these days, and when The healing comes, as come it will, I pray, Health may be yours for many a useful day.

In the meantime, rest, and know the everlasting Arms are close about you, that they will Sustain you, and a gentle voice commands you "Know that I am God, be still, be still." And heeding him, his healing touch will mend Your weary heart and mind. God bless you, friend.

back. When I told him he had made no mistakes, the President sighed like a kid who has just finished playing "The Elv's Waltz" for Paderewski.

I picked up his notes. "If you don't mind, sir, I said, 'I'd like to keep them.'"

Woodrow Wilson reached for my shorthand notes. "We'll exchange," he said.

I walked out of the White House and floated back to my office via the rooftops. I had no sooner gotten to my desk than the phone rang. "Mr. Baruch wants to see you," said his secretary.

"Pretty good for Delancey street!" I said to myself as I walked down the hall. "Woodrow Wilson and Bernie Baruch in one hour."

The girl in Mr. Baruch's office looked up as I bounced in.

"The boss wants you to get him a chocolate soda," she said.

The Fiction Corner * BAYING THE MOON * By Richard H. Wilkinson

THE ALPHA, Alpha, Alpha, Alpha fraternity at Boynton university is responsible for the fate of Percival Oakes. It happened this way.

During his freshman year the AAAA's pledged Percy to membership, and initiated him into the mystic three R's. (Rites, Rituals and Regulations.) Percy took it like a man. When ordered to imitate a dog howling at the moon, he did his level best.

The result was astonishingly successful. Percy surprised even himself.

The brother AAAA's cheered loudly and clamored for encores. Percy obliged a second time and a third. He was immensely pleased with the applause and at the attention he attracted.

The next day, en route to class, Percy was stopped by a grave-faced sophomore and asked to give his imitation of a dog howling at the moon. For a moment he hesitated, conscious of a circle of grinning faces that had silently formed about him, faintly resentful of the fact that the brothers of the AAAA had made public the discovery of his hidden genius. He glanced once more into the grave face of the youth who had accosted him and then threw back his head and bayed lustily.

A mighty roar of applause greeted the rendition. There were cries of "More!" "More!" Percival obliged a second time and then once more.

Returning to college in the fall, Percy had completely put from his mind the cause and fact of his last year's popularity. There were other and more important things to occupy his interest. He was now a sophomore, with all the rights and liberties and sensations of importance that are synonymous with that lofty position. Best of all, he was now unhampered by the 30-odd freshmen rules that had last year cramped his activities. One sophomore caused Percy's brain to swim. Here was loveliness and intelligence and femininity all combined. Unhappily, it took him a fortnight to negotiate an introduction. Her name was Delia Winter, and she was as popular as she was beautiful. This was discouraging and disheartening. Percy could offer nothing; she had her pick of the college.

He looked at the moon and from his throat there came . . . rich tones of a baying hound.

IT WAS one of the Saturday night informal dances at the college gym. They had been dancing together for perhaps 60 seconds when Delia looked up at him and said: "Aren't you the boy who can imitate a dog howling at the moon?" Her eyes twinkled.

Percy reddened to the ears. He felt a chill, a horrible apprehension. "No," he bleated. "No! Whoever told you that is crazy!"

Delia didn't press the subject, but Percy knew he was sunk. He let a month slip by before he could conjure enough courage to ask for a date, felt pitifully grateful when she assented.

Within the following month he kept five dates with Delia but it was always the same; the "thing" was always there between them. He thought she must think him ridiculous. She pitied him.

During the intermission at the Dartmouth victory dance, Percy and Delia strolled out onto the now dry ice-skating rink and sat down on the bulwark and looked up at the moon. Because of his great and hopeless love Percy was moody, unhappy, thoughtful. Suddenly he was startled by the petulant tone of his beloved.

"I think it must be wonderful," she said.

"What must?" asked Percival.

"To be able to imitate things. I mean, anyone can play football, or learn to skate, or dance well, but it takes genius to be able to imitate things."

"De— you mean that?" "Why, of course I do! I've always admired people who— have creative ability. Genius. Of course I mean it!" She looked squarely at him, and the last trace of doubt vanished from Percy's soul like mist from a river bed before a rising sun. He stood up, he threw back his head, he looked at the moon and from his throat there came the clear, deep, rich tones of a baying hound.

Star Dust STAGE SCREEN RADIO

BY INEZ GERHARD

WHEN DEAN MARTIN and Jerry Lewis (NBC Friday evenings,) teamed up for the first time, at an Atlantic City night club, they were so unfunny that the manager warned them they'd better pick up fast or they'd be out of work. Jerry says they used the old formula—"All you gotta do to get a laugh is kill yourself." While Dean sang, Jerry rattled dishes, threw food, took up collections among the audience. They insulted the patrons, who howled with laughter and begged for more. That routine paid off; they have clicked in pictures ("My Friend Irma,") on the air and at night clubs, now make about $10,000 a week.

Betsy Blair decided, when she married Gene Kelly, that her marriage was going to be more important than her career. She was well set on Broadway, but she gave up the stage to be with him in Hollywood. So she's very happy over being signed for an important role in "Mystery Street," at the studio where he works. His next musical is "Summer Stock."

Haide Goransen, the Swedish model whose picture was on the cover of a recent copy of "Life," has been deluged with movie offers as a result. Producers Robert Smith and Robert Briskin made plans for her to take a screen test in Stockholm; Fox and Universal executives also approached her. She says she'd like to come to Hollywood, but it must be on her honeymoon.

Don MacLaughlin, "Dr. Jim Brent" on "Road of Life," wonders how he dared do it—his first audition was also his first appearance in a studio and his first broadcast. And it was "live," heard by several thousand radio listeners.

Betty Clark, ABC's 13-year-old blind soprano, has been the subject of more than a dozen magazine articles this past year, and has managed to mention her singing idol in almost every interview. He's Vic Damone, once a Brooklyn neighbor of Betty's. Vic and Betty are close friends and never miss a chance to boost each other's talents.

How Church Chimes Rang For the Benefit of Brooklyn

By BILLY ROSE

This week I'd like to spin a little story—a very, very little story, it's of no great importance, and I won't get mad if the editor decides to file it in the wastebasket, and in its place print some big story about Marshal Tito or Rita Hayworth's baby.

“What's the church with the chimes?” I asked a newsstand proprietor. “Hanson Place Central Church,” he said. “It's Methodist.”

“Have they had those chimes long?”

“No,” said the newsie. “I think they put them in about a year ago.”

The next day I did some telephoning, and I liked what I found out.

WHEN REV. John Emerson Zeiter, pastor of the church, heard about a new type of electrically-controlled chimes called Carillon bells, he told his congregation about them and said it would be a nice thing for the neighborhood if people going to work in the morning and coming home at night could hear those beautiful chimes. He told his flock the bells cost a lot of money, and suggested they contribute a little something from time to time.

Maybe in a year or so, the church could afford the bells.

Next day a member of his parish phoned. “I've been discussing the bells with my business partner,” said the parishioner, “and we'd each like to donate a third of the cost. But there's a hitch.”

“What is it?” asked the Reverend.

“Well, my partner is Jewish,” said the businessman, “and we were wondering if that would make any difference.”

Reverend Zeiter said he didn't think it would make any difference at all.

“We think,” continued the businessman, “that it would be a good idea to find a Catholic to put up the other third. After all, people of all faiths are going to enjoy these bells.”

THE NEXT DAY a Catholic in the neighborhood offered to put up the remaining third, and the Carillon bells were ordered. At the dedication ceremony a couple of months later, a plaque was put up on the wall of this Methodist church, and inscribed on it were the names of the Catholic, the Protestant and the Jew.

And that's all there is to this story—this very, very little story. Do I think this one set of electrically-controlled bells is going to eliminate religious bigotry in Brooklyn? Of course not. Do I think the people in Flatbush who hear the chimes

DAWN

OUT of the dark, the light! O Hearts, remember
The eternal truth God gives us as a sign
That after the dark, as glowing as an ember,
Deep at the core of life, a light will shine:
The light of hope, after the bitter weeping;
The light of peace, after the lengthened pain.
The Christian heart held close within God's keeping
Will find the dark skies brightening again.

The risen Christ is proof of light's returning;
The risen Christ is symbol of the dawn.
O you who have been striving, longing, yearning
To catch the light ahead, move out, move on.
You will find him there among the springtime flowers,
Among the clean winds of a new-born day.
He is the lamp for all our future hours;
He is the light to guide us on our way.

GRACE NOLL CROWELL

are going to be kinder and more tolerant? Again, of course not.

Why, then, am I writing this piece? Well, I guess it's because I'm fool enough to think that even one drop of clean water falling on a dusty street is important. Who knows? It may clean up an inch of ground and give somebody else an idea.

One of these days—and I don't expect to be around to see it—a lot of drops of clean water may fall and a lot of dust may be washed away.

Star Dust

BY INEZ GERHARD
IT IS QUITE POSSIBLE that “The Heiress” will bring Paramount another Academy Award; if it does, most of the credit should go to William Wyler, who directed and produced it. Olivia de Havilland and Ralph Richardson, seen as an awkward, shy, unattractive daughter and her bully of a father, give superb performances. As a suitor anxious to marry the girl for her money, Montgomery Clift is less satisfactory. Miriam Hopkins is excellent as the girl's aunt; in fact, the entire supporting cast deserves praise. “The Heiress” is even better as a picture than it was as a successful play—and William Wyler is largely responsible.

The Farfa concentration camp sequences of “Stromboli,” which Producer-Director Rossellini had been holding personally, have finally been turned over to the Technostampa Laboratory in Rome. This makes the entire footage of the film available to RKO—so it won't be too long now till we see Ingrid Bergman in what she says will be her last picture.

After playing golf left-handed for 10 years and reaching a two handicap, Ken Carson, of the Garry Moore show, has turned right-handed, on the advice of Pro Harry Cooper. Cooper says Ben Hogan did it—why not Carson?

Wearing a black wig, Bette Davis sneers and snarls her way through “Beyond the Forest,” the rather tiresome story of a small-town girl who is willing to commit murder to get to Chicago. Miss Davis likes to play wicked women, but she should not have chosen this one. Joseph Cotton and David Brian do what they can to improve matters, but the picture is not good.

Rudd Weatherwax, owner and trainer of Lassie, has had to hire a new secretary just to handle the fan mail sent to the collie by fans of her NBC Saturday radio series. Much of it comes from children, and it comes by the bushel.

Ed “Archie” Gardner is a disappointment to his son, Ed, Jr. The five-year-old, who has the handsomest cowboy outfit in New York's Central Park, wishes his father had become somebody dashing, like the Lone Ranger.

Both Mike Romanoff and his famous Beverly Hills restaurant have been signed for top roles in “A Lovely Place,” which Humphrey Bogart will make for Columbia. This is the first time the well known tavern has been shown in a picture in great detail. Since much of the film's action takes place there it was decided to use the restaurant itself rather than build a replica.

Fiction * FORTUNE SMILES * By Richard H. Wilkinson

CALEB WARE was a young man who quarreled with his father, and was turned away from his father's home. Caleb always said later that he went away of his own accord.

Fortune smiled on Caleb. Five years later he found himself prominent in the affairs of the small city in which he had chosen to live. Moreover, he was rich.

It was then that Caleb decided to go home. As the train began to climb into the fresh, clean air of the mountain country, the tired look about his eyes vanished. Color appeared in his cheeks.

It thrilled him now to know that he was in a position to provide his father with all the comforts of old age.

He swung from the train at the tiny depot. Everything was the same; the cracker-box station, the general store, the postoffice and the few small dwelling houses.

A man with side whiskers and spectacles peered at him from the doorway of the depot.

“Hello, Banty. Where's your rig?”

The man stepped through the door. “Caleb Ware! Know yuh anywhere! How be yuh, Caleb?”

“Fine, Banty. And you?”

“Tol'able, Caleb. Just tol'able. Figure on goin' out to the farm? Drive you out if you say so.”

“Figured you would.” He climbed into Banty's ancient rig, glad of this opportunity to ride with the station master and learn the news.

“Looks like you done quite well in the city,” Banty suggested cautiously.

“Not bad,” Caleb agreed. And he knew that feeling of triumph and victory at his success. He thought at the farm. The place is plumb run down, and your dad ain't well.”

Caleb felt suddenly that Banty was condemning him, that everyone in the village had condemned him.

“Dad isn't really bad, is he, too sick to work?” he asked.

“He is now. A month ago he was took bad. Ain't worked since.” Banty spat and glanced at him sideways.

“He won't be glad to see you, son, not like that. He's got too much pride.”

CALEB UNDERSTOOD. He knew that his father would never take succor from a son who had deserted him, would never admit he needed the help of a traitor. He'd rather die starving than that.

Banty might have said more, but Caleb suddenly leaped from the slow moving buggy.

“You just keep on going, Banty, and forget you ever saw me. Dad need never know but what I come home because I had to.”

Caleb plunged into the woods beside the road and discarded his coat and undid his necktie. He walked for some distance through the heavy growth beside the highway. Branches tore at his fine linen and ripped great gashes. Briars clutched at his trousers and tore holes in them.

Thus Caleb came home. Sight of the farm gave him a pang. The house and grounds were run down and in need of repair. A cot had been placed on the rear porch and on this cot Caleb saw the thin, gaunt figure of his father. He came and stood over the figure and looked down at it and smiled.

“Hello, Father,” he said. “It's Caleb. I've come home to ask your forgiveness and to be taken in.” His voice was humble.

Old man Ware opened his eyes and looked up at his son, and there was a quick happiness in his expression. His dimming vision saw the tousled, ragged farm boy who had stalked so proudly away five years before.

“I knew you'd come back, Caleb. I knew you'd come to your old father for help sooner or later. And—and I'm glad.”

Watch Your Kidneys!

Help Them Cleanse the Blood of Harmful Body Waste

Your kidneys are constantly filtering waste matter from the blood stream. But kidneys sometimes lag in their work—do not act as Nature intended—fail to remove impurities that, if retained, may poison the system and upset the whole body machinery.

Symptoms may be nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—a feeling of nervous anxiety and loss of pep and strength. Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder are sometimes burning, scanty or too frequent urination.

There should be no doubt that prompt treatment is wiser than neglect. Use Doan's Pills. Doan's have been winning new friends for more than forty years. They have a nation-wide reputation. Are recommended by grateful people the country over. Ask your neighbor!

What to give? What to give? If that question has you running around in circles this Christmas, here's a smart suggestion. Make a list of your friends who enjoy smoking. Then take the list into your neighborhood dealer. He has a well-stocked array of gay gift packages of Camel cigarettes—yes, the flavorful Camels that bring pleasure with every puff. And for the pipe smoker or the man who likes to roll his own, your dealer will show you pound tins of Prince Albert Smoking Tobacco—the National Joy Smoke. Both these popular gifts come all dressed up in special, colorful Christmas wrapping. You don't even have to fuss with a personal greeting card—it's built right into the package for easy-writing convenience. You'll be good to your friends and to your budget if you send them Camels and Prince Albert!

Variety Gives Lunch Boxes Interest
(See Recipes Below)

Sandwich Tricks

HOMEMAKERS who put together lunch boxes daily are apt to fall into just as much of a rut about them as the school children or husbands who eat them. Yet, since lunch is such an important meal of the day, rules for variety must be observed consistently.

Explore your ingenuity for sandwich combinations. These, after all, are the mainstay of almost every lunch box. Think of other ways to make packed lunches interesting. See what interesting salad and fruit combinations can be tucked in small glass jars or cartons to add zest to the meal.

Hot beverages and soups are particularly interesting in cold weather. A few unexpected surprises in the way of candied dried fruits, confec-

Care of Rubber Tile

QUESTION: I have almost new rubber tiles on my kitchen floor. Although the tiles are the best kind I have to scrub them often and can't keep them clean. Black streaks come off from our shoes. I have to use a scouring powder to take off the streaks. We have no children, only four adults.

ANSWER: Use a good non-rubbing type of floor wax, and do not use harsh soaps or coarse abrasives. Wash only with mild soap, rinse well and dry. Apply the wax when needed.

Shoe Hanger

A handy way to hang a shoe bag in the closet is to sew the top of the bag over a wire coat hanger; then simply hang the hanger on a hook or pole in the closet.

Self-service stores that provide no delivery service and no credit usually price their food cheaper than those stores which provide many services.

Saving Blankets

When you have two or three worn-out blankets on your hands, cut off the bindings, stitch the blankets together—that is on top of each other—and cover them with printed cotton. All of which produces a nice warm comforter which may be used several years.

Trick for Sick

When someone is sick in bed, pin a large paper bag to the side of the bed as a handy receptacle for tissues, scrap paper and such.

Moisture Conservation Helps With Wheat Crop

A 30-acre field that had produced little during the last few years, even with favorable moisture conditions, produced a good wheat crop, according to the Kansas state college extension service.

"A combination of things made the land productive again," a conservation district cooperater said. "Use of sweet clover, seeded in the spring of 1946, for green manure and terracing, and contour farming for moisture conservation were important."

The land, he explained, was badly eroded. The soil was thin, dense and hard to work. It had not produced a decent crop in the previous six years and was practically idle land.

Gullies were plowed shut after the terraces were built, so that the whole field could be contour farmed. In addition, grass waterways were developed and more terraces planned.

One of the newest and most time saving fasteners is the new snap fastener which is hammered rather than stitched on. They are well suited to sport or work clothes and the little gadget to hammer them on comes with the fastener.

Long time deferred grazing, no grazing for one or more years, is a good practice to follow and range land that has been severely over grazed. It gives the best forage plants a chance to re seed, gain strength, develop a good root system and produce the leaves necessary for greater production and food storage.

Cribs Ease Storage Problem

Temporary Types Serve Many Farm Areas

With the 1948 corn crop in the farm, filling many of the storage buildings which should be used for the 1949 crop.

Temporary or semi-permanent buildings are the answer if lack of space or money to build permanent structures is a problem. These temporary cribs are good in some cases as good as permanent ones. They meet requirements for storage of grain.

Some tips on building temporary cribs, as suggested by Successful Farming magazine:

1. Locate the crib on a well-drained site with exposure to prevailing winds.

2. Put a floor under the corn to prevent it from matting. A heavy, waterproof paper or roll roofing will be sufficient on high, well-drained soil. A strong, level floor, 12 to 18 inches above the ground, protects the corn against soil moisture, permits ventilation and discourages rodents.

3. Heavy blocks laid face down on a good foundation for the floor of a temporary crib. Logs, timbers or heavy timbers can be used instead of concrete blocks. If two-inch flooring is used, supports should not be more than 24 inches apart. If one-inch flooring is used, the supports should not be more than 24 inches apart. Floor joists should be placed one inch apart if you want a slatted floor for ventilation or artificial drying.

4. Make the crib sides vertical and build them so they will stay vertical. Be sure the sides are strong enough to withstand the pressure of the corn. Use rigid studs for the sidewalls and ends.

5. Make crib sides with at least 10 per cent of the wall area open for ventilation to speed up the corn drying process.

6. Put a roof over the corn that will withstand water and wind.

Earthworm Helpers

WE LIKE IT HERE!

Earthworms thrive and prosper under good soil management. They do a better soil conditioning job when fertilizer is added to the soil. Fertilizer is always more efficient when worms are present.

The U. S. department of agriculture research has demonstrated that in tests made at the Beltsville, Md., experiment station. Those research men found that adding fertilizer to soil yields the equivalent of 10 tons per acre on soil containing worms. Without earthworms, the yield increase due to fertilizer averaged .28 tons.

The research men found other evidence that earthworms prosper under good soil management. They made an earthworm census in rotation plot experiments. They found five times as many earthworms per acre in a soil cropped in a three-year rotation of row crops, small grains and hay, as they found in soil under constant row cropping.

New 'Cow Bomb' Used In Spraying Animals

Dry DDT Crystals Now Practical for Spray

A new animal disinfectant device called the "iscomist cow bomb," is now available for use on livestock. The cow bomb is used to apply a deposit of dry DDT crystals to the hair and hide of livestock for protection against the horn fly, house fly, stable fly, cattle lice, ticks, mosquitoes and certain other insects.

Dry DDT goes into suspension in water less readily than any other form and withstands rain more desirably. It contains no oil to cause burning or to help DDT penetrate the hide. The DDT particles are microscopic in size and thus a given amount covers a greater area than other forms. It is said one iscomist cow bomb will treat approximately 100 cattle with the recommended 30 second treatment. It provides protection for cattle on pasture for about three weeks under average conditions. To help prevent lice infestation, prophylactic treatment of all additions to the herd is recommended.

Fewer Wormy Apples

Faithful adherents of the "apple a day" maxim, if they can think back to war experience, will realize nowadays they are not nearly so likely as they used to be to find a worm, or half a worm, in their apple. Also, says the U. S. department of agriculture, the "spray residue" problem is not nearly so troublesome as it was.

The apple worm—or codling moth—problem appears to be on its way out as a major concern in apple growing. DDT has proved an effective spray. In fact, in some isolated orchards that do not draw moths from unsprayed or poorly sprayed trees nearby, a good early spray program with DDT may so reduce codling moths that there is no need to spray against a second brood.

But DDT has not proved a full solution to the apple insect problems. It does not make a clean sweep of all the pests. Thus DDT sprays permit a buildup of some pests that it does not control—the apple mites, for instance. The problem shifts, but a problem remains. The mites do not cause wormy apples, but the apples are smaller and of a poorer color.

However, the new insecticide parathion is making an impressive showing against nearly all the apple pests. Federal entomologists say that it can not yet be recommended for general use, that more control is needed.

Reduced Grain Growing Brings Seed Hold Need

Prospects of reduced grain-growing, including corn and wheat in 1950 and following years should cause farmers to consider saving more grass and clover seed, says a statement from the college of agriculture, University of Kentucky. The seed, it was pointed out, will be needed for the sod crops that are to take the place of grain.

The bureau of plant industry at Washington says that grain reduction will mean at least 25 per cent more grass and hay.

Researcher works have found the penetrating seal finish for floors is the most satisfactory method to use for refinishing floors. It is easier to apply, floors can be used sooner and it retains its finish better under heavy usage.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

Truman Renews Pledge of Support Of 'Safe Plan' for Atomic Curbs; Attlee Charts British Saving Plan

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysts and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

MAKES BID FOR STEEL PEACE . . . Cyrus Ching (facing camera) director of the U. S. mediation service, is surrounded by newsmen as he arrived from Washington to make another effort for settlement of the paralyzing steel strike. These conferences were described as "exploratory," although Ching later reported that the situation was "not hopeless."

TRUMAN:
Supports A-Curbs

"To assure that atomic energy will be devoted to man's welfare and not to his destruction is a continuing challenge to all nations and all peoples."

In those words, President Truman pledged his support to any safe and effective plans that would outlaw the atomic bomb.

THE PRESIDENT spoke at a ceremony in which the United Nations laid the cornerstone for its permanent headquarters in New York city.

Mr. Truman called the cornerstone rites "an act of faith - our unshakable faith that the United Nations will succeed."

The President declared that control of weapons is essential to a peaceful world and said that "Ever since the first atomic bomb was developed, a major objective of U. S. policy has been a system of international control of atomic energy that would assure effective prohibition of atomic weapons . . . and at the same time would promote the peaceful use of atomic energy by all nations."

HE ENDORSED anew the Bernard Baruch control plan which was rejected by Russia.

The chief point of disagreement between western powers and Russia on atomic energy control has been insistence by the West on an effective means of inspection to see that nations would keep their pledges to outlaw the bombs. Russia wouldn't hold still for that proposal.

WORLD FRONT:
Spotty Picture

The world picture was spotty as international developments became increasingly confused. Washington development intensified the tension between the U. S. and Russia in the cold war, British and U. S. leaders were beginning to split on the issue of recognizing the Chinese Red conquering government, France was hard-pressed to organize its government, a Greco-Tito pact appeared possible and the U. S. closed its consulate at Darien. A look at the overall situation showed that in.

WASHINGTON - The United States in a new crackdown on Russia had obtained an indictment against Amtorg, Russian purchasing agency in the U. S., and six of its officers on charges of failing to register as agents of a foreign power. The maximum penalty for violation of that law would be $10,000 fine and five years imprisonment. The firm itself was liable to a $10,000 fine. Shortly after U. S. attorney general McGrath announced return of the indictment, five of the Russians were arrested by FBI agents in New York. As was expected, Soviet officials vigorously protested the arrests. There had been repeated allegations in congress that Amtorg acts as an espionage agent. Said assistant U. S. attorney Edward R. Rigney: "Diplomatic passports don't constitute a defense for the crime charged here." The indictments did not charge Amtorg with serving as an espionage agency for the Soviets.

LONDON - There was a developing split between Great Britain and the United States on the issue of recognition of the Communist regime in China. Indications were that London would establish full diplomatic relations soon. However, this appeared contingent on whether the Communists would

GOLD RUSH

Pea-Size Nuggets Cast New Yukon Spell

The spell of the Yukon was reaching out again to heat the blood of men who seek quick fortunes in gold. Reports of nuggets "the size of peas" being found near Fishwheel in Alaska had been flashed throughout the territory and a new gold rush was on. Grizzled sourdoughs, unfried tenderfeet vied with each other to stake claims for the precious metal.

Norway Reports Progress In Atomic-Energy Study

Norway was getting along rather well with atomic research, according to a report by the council for scientific research.

The report said drilling for uranium in Setersdal valley had been successful, and underground operations had started with a crew of 30.

The country's first atomic pile is being built near Oslo, and three universities have received equipment for atomic research.

ENGLAND: More Austerity

In a drastic effort to rescue Great Britain from its financial morass, Prime Minister Clement Attlee charted an economic course designed to save 784 million dollars annually. He also ordered a cut of 400 million dollars in dollar imports.

THUS did the prime minister plot a course of more austerity for the British people.

The savings effected, or hoped to be effected, would result from lopping off spending for national defense, capital investments, public relations and food subsidies.

Attlee presented a quick, graphic interpretation of what was proposed. "We must reduce expenditure and increase production," he told the house of commons. But it wasn't as simple as the formula would seem to make it.

To the already austerity-weary Britons it meant that many of the goods for which they now have to stand in line for hours would be even more scarce. Gasoline and some food items would cost more. They would have to pay a 14-cent fee for medicines they were getting free under the national health program.

leave the British alone at Hong Kong and promise to respect their rights there. The difference on opinion between the U. S. and Britain on the subject of recognition was not considered as a particularly serious one. It was regarded here as an inevitable reflection of their differing national interests. While the U. S. has been withdrawing from China, the British are still "in" and hope to remain so for obvious economic and financial reasons.

DARIEN - Harassment by Chinese Communists had forced closing of the U. S. consulate there. The American consul and vice-consul from this Russian-controlled city moved to Seoul. The U. S. attaches who had spent 15 months here said Communist policies prevented their relief at the end of a scheduled eight-month tour of duty. At a news conference, the reported Communist obstacles had limited their movements severely. Vice-consul Culver Gleye said he was once held four hours by Chinese Communist police and Soviet soldiers who accused him of "signaling out to sea" with the lights of his jeep.

HAWAII - The prolonged strike of dock workers at five of Hawaii's six ports was over at last. The CIO international longshoremen's and warehousemen's union ordered its 2,000 striking stevedores to go back to their jobs. The men struck May 1, demanding a raise of 32 cents in their $1.40 hourly wage. The strike technically ended October 6, but continued, pending settlement of side issues involving working conditions, pay and other issues in out-island ports.

FARM FAIR:
World's Biggest

Something of interest to every agriculturist, from the man who wants to grow bigger potatoes to the prize-winning Hereford, is on the agenda of the Canadian Royal Winter Fair slated for Toronto's coliseum November 15 to November 23, omitting Sunday.

IN ADDITION there will be a complete display of the latest wrinkles in farm machinery and aids to more profitable operation.

The Royal Winter Fair has long been recognized as the world's largest agricultural exhibition staged under one roof. Sponsored by Canadian federal, grain and agricultural associations, the competition carry with them many world championship awards.

FOR THE FIRST TIME in 20 years, competition in the seed and grain divisions will be thrown open to any grower in the world and thus will award the winner world championship honors. Some 10,000 prize ribbons together with thousands of dollars in monetary awards will be handed out.

Farm home displays, washing machines and a host of things interesting to women are always features of Canada's top winter fair.

GEN. VAUGHAN:
'Shock Absorber'

It was interesting to note the multiple interpretations Maj Gen. Harry Vaughan, White House aide, was applying to his position of entertainer, aide and personal confidant of President Harry Truman.

AT A DINNER given by fellow Democrats in Washington, Gen. Vaughan, linked with the capital's "5 per centers" and mysterious John Maragon, one-time White House hanger-on, portrayed himself in a new light.

He is, he said, a "shock absorber," as it were, as well as a "part of the scenery" at the White House.

"IT IS NOT pleasant furnishing the throat," he went on, "but I might as well earn my pay by being a shock absorber . . . at the White House."

"I am an authority on investigations," he said. "We've had so many investigations in the last year or so that have laid an egg."

He pointed out that when administration critics complain about "trivial things," it's a healthy sign that "there is not a great deal that they can complain about."

THE "TRIVIAL THINGS" to which the general referred were charges that certain Washington figures with "influence" could swing government contracts and favors where they wished for a "5 per cent" fee, gifts of deep freezers to members of Washington's official family.

The general's personal popularity continued unimpaired. He and Mrs. Vaughan were elected honorary vice-presidents of the District of Columbia Democratic club.

LEOPOLD:
No Poll, Please!

Former Belgian premier Paul-Henri Spaak wanted none of a proposed poll to determine if King Leopold should return to the throne.

SUCH AN ACTION might "destroy Belgium," Spaak declared in a radio address in Brussels.

Premier Gaston Eyskens, a pro-Leopold Social Christian, has proposed a country-wide poll on whether Belgians want Leopold back from his exile in Switzerland.

"I approve the prime minister's desire to solve the royal question," Spaak said, "but I do blame him, condemn him for trying to solve the royal question this way."

Gets Navy Post

Edward E. Wilcox, former Philadelphia newspaperman, has been named special assistant to the undersecretary of the navy. He succeeds Cedric Worth, self-styled author of the "anonymous" document which touched off the B-36 probe.

ISOLATION: A 'Big Peril'

In Chicago, Sen. Scott Lucas (D., Ill.) was sharply critical of a number of colleagues whom he called "an isolationist group of senators far more dangerous to the security of our democracy than the Communists and fellow travelers under orders of Stalin." Lucas, majority leader in the U. S. senate did not name the senators at whom he hurled the criticism, but he identified them as opponents:

Love So Amazing

Lesson for November 13, 1949

LONG AGO riding in his slow chariot through the southern sands, a puzzled reader with Isaiah 53 in his hands asked the question other readers have asked ever since: Does the prophet speak of himself or of some other? The answer given by Philip (see Acts 8) has been the answer of the church ever since: This prophecy can be understood only in the light from Calvary's Cross. Philip did not say, and we need not insist, that the prophet had Jesus, and Jesus only, in mind when he wrote.

What we do say is that while these words might have described some one the prophet knew, might have described the whole nation of Israel, might even have described himself, still the words make but a poor picture of any one else, compared with the picture they make of Jesus.

The Scarlet Thread

ISAIAH 53 has been in the center of the church's thinking about Christ from the beginning. It may be said to run like a scarlet thread through the New Testament. It was in the back of the minds of Paul and John and Peter alike. This great prophecy sheds a light on what otherwise had been a black opaque blot—the death of Christ.

What would otherwise be simply a horrible tragedy, perhaps the greatest tragedy of history, the perfect case of complete injustice, the final evidence that there is no God, in the light of Isaiah 53 becomes a center of glory.

Instead of being ashamed of the cross on which Jesus died, the church sines, "In the cross of Christ I glory." "Love so amazing, so divine, demands my soul, my life, my all!"

We believe that Christ suffered not for his own but for others' sake. Suffering, not forced but willingly undergone, suffering not as mere pain but that others might be saved, suffering on behalf of others and for love of them—this is the key to the riddle of existence, this is the key to the heart of God.

Not Christ Alone

IF CHRIST'S MEN had refused to follow where he led, if all Christians had been willing to let him carry alone the burden of the world's sin and grief, there never would have been any Christianity—for there would never have been any Christians. Peter and James and the rest of the apostles would have refused to die for Jesus' sake. The noble army of martyrs would have been an ignoble army of cowards.

No missionary ever would have left home and comforts and country; no mother would have laid down her life for her children; the unselfish service of those who have cared for the sick and the orphaned would never have been done; indeed, had no one ever been willing to suffer for the benefit of others, one wonders whether the world could have even held together this long.

Christ died that the world might live, yes; but others also had to die to make his death avail. He died for Africa, that Africans might live; but Africans died till men like Livingstone and Schweitzer and many a less famous man and woman also went out and lived there in loneliness and died in pain.

Christ died for the little children of the poor, but until the Salvation Army and others like them went down into the slums and suffered there with and for them, those poor little people died without so much as dreaming that God might love them.

Christ died for all the lepers in the world; but until a Father Damien, and others no less Christ-like, went among the outcast lepers and became outcasts themselves for the love of Christ, those lepers died in the dark.

"Let Him Take His Own Cross Daily"

YES, Isaiah 53 pictures the self-sacrifice of our Lord, above all. But any one who has any intention of being a true servant of God must be willing to find his own life-direction right here. The world does not need more pain; it does need those who will suffer pain to serve others in Christ's name.

Accidents Among Leading Causes of Death in U. S.

CHICAGO.—Are accidents now the leading cause of death in America?

In a sense—yes. Accidents take a greater toll of productive years than any one natural cause of death, according to a study by the American Medical Association.

More actual deaths still are caused by heart disease, cancer and cerebral hemorrhage. But the report points out that such deaths usually befall older persons after their working lifetimes are ended.

In the usual working age span of 20 to 65, accidents claimed 1 1/2 million work years; heart disease, 1.5 million; pneumonia, one million; and cancer, one million, forty thousand.

Milk Pelletizing Aids Poultry Feed

Milk Products Are Found Important to Egg Output

That milk products are still among the most important ingredients in a laying ration is indicated in results of a series of feeding tests conducted with high-producing flocks in New England poultry areas earlier this year.

The tests, which ran an average of 164 days, were conducted at a state agricultural college, a county vocational agricultural school and commercial poultry farms. Results showed an average additional profit of 28 cents each for hens fed milk products in addition to rations regularly fed on the test farms.

Joseph Ruzzo, Hope Valley, R. I., is shown at his egg candling machine. Raising from 12,000 to 13,000 birds annually, Ruzzo says he has recorded a 12 per cent increase in egg production from his test flock which was fed pelletized milk products in the 1948-49 laying season.

Nearly 3,000 birds. New Hampshires, Rhode Island Reds, Barred Rocks, and a Barred Cross were involved. On each farm flocks were divided into test and control pens. The control pen received the ration normally fed on the farm. For instance, the state college fed the New England college conference laying ration, the county school used its own formula ration, and the commercial poultrymen fed various commercial laying mashers. In each case test and control pens were of the same age and breeding, and received the same care and management except that the test pen was fed a pelletized dairy products feed in addition to the normal ration. Accurate feed cost and egg production records were kept. For purposes of making profit comparisons, 55 cents a dozen was used as an average egg price.

Stop-Gap Farm Bill

ACTION of the 81st congress in the dying moments of its first session was a reasonable facsimile of the 80th congress as the congressional conferees and harassed membership finally squeezed out a stop-gap farm bill. The bill setting up a new system of parity supports and repealing the hope-aiken law which was to have gone into effect January 1, 1950.

Just as the 80th congress, unable to agree, simply joined together the hope-aiken bill and the senate-passed Hope bill and the senate-passed Aiken bill, so did this congress, unable to agree, compromise on a merger of the house-passed Gore bill and the senate-passed Anderson bill. So this new law can well be called the Gore-Anderson law.

If anyone won a victory, which is questionable, then the supporters of parity group were triumphant for they staved off the flexible price support system for at least another year.

Which means that the basic crops of wheat, corn, rice, cotton, peanuts and tobacco will be supported at 90 per cent of parity until 1951 when the flexible supports will take over. After that the law sets up 80 to 90 per cent supports in 1952 and 75 to 90 per cent in 1953. That is, if the law is still in the statute books then. Actually milk is still being supported at 90 per cent and eggs will be supported at 90 per cent through March, 1950, because commitments already have been made on these commodities.

Means Higher Prices

According to some experts the new farm bill will mean higher prices to the farmers because the law sets up two systems of determining parity. It retains the present system based on the 1909-1914 average and also includes the Anderson system providing for a movable 3-year average and including hired labor. The new parity formula it is said will favor the grain and livestock growers and the older parity will favor other crops and the growers will determine their choice of formula and the secretary of agriculture is to give commodity support under the basis that will give the farmer the most money.

During the closing days of the senate debate the Anderson bill was riddled with amendments and about everything but the kitchen sink was thrown into the mandatory support group as senators traded back and forth on a sectional basis. The house, however, refused to accept these and so many commodities were taken out of the mandatory group, including hens, although peanuts were left in.

Despite the fact the new bill is said to increase prices of farm commodities, it will be noted that most of the members from the city districts voted for the measure on final passage, the house voting 175 to 34 and the senate 46 to 7, the seven all being Republicans from the industrial east. Baldwin of New Hampshire; Ives of New York; Lodge and Saltonstall of Massachusetts, and Williams of Delaware.

The one certain conclusion which can be drawn from the confusion over enactment of a farm bill is that the whole issue will be tossed into the 1950 congressional elections, with many Democrats supporting the Brannan program and Republicans pulling for a lower flexible formula of support.

For The Record

During debate on the farm program in the senate, Elmer Thomas of Oklahoma placed in the Congressional Record a chart showing that under the Brannan plan farmers would receive a 23-billion-dollar income in 1950; under the house Gore bill they would receive 21 billion; under the senate Anderson bill 15 billion and under the Hope-Aiken law of the 80th congress nine billion. Sen. Capehart, Indiana, objected to the charts as "misleading" and moved they be purged from the record, but he was voted down by a 43 to 23 roll call vote.

Utility Lobby Wins

The natural gas and utility lobbies won out in their fight to keep Leland Olds from reappointment to the federal power commission when the senate voted not to confirm the appointment by a vote of 53 to 13. However the utility lobbyists can get little satisfaction because former Senator Mohn Wallgren of Washington, a staunch supporter of public power, was appointed by the President and confirmed by the

SCRIPTURE: Isaiah 55: 56:6-8
DEVOTIONAL READING: Roman 10:1-13

God's Open House

Lesson for November 20, 1949

IT IS A WARM chapter, this 55th of Isaiah. Some false ideas about God melt away fast when they are brought close to it. Let us take a look at some of these notions and see how they wilt in the light of God's word. Sometimes these notions are held sincerely, sometimes they are mere excuses to keep from facing God. One of these mistaken notions is the idea that God has two lists; one is a list of people on whom he intends to have mercy, and will save; the other list being a private one, of those on whom he intends to have no mercy and will not save. If your name is on the first list, fine; but if it is on the second list, you are in a hopeless fix; for if God is not going to help you, who can?

Dr. Foreman

This is a terribly wrong notion. It confuses the true God with some sort of sultan in the sky who has a "social register" of persons he will admit to his palace. "Use this invitation as your card of admittance." No, it is not at all like that.

If you really think that admission to heaven is by card only, then cut out Isaiah 55 and present it at the gate. Cut out any verse in the Bible that says "Whosoever,"—John 3:16 for example—and present that. God keeps open house, he does not employ butlers or strong-arm men to keep out the crowds, he wants all to come who will. Do you want God? Then come. Are you thirsty for the living water? Then drink. It is as simple as that.

No Waiting

THERE IS ANOTHER notion that keeps people away from God. It is a kind of shyness. It is the feeling that maybe it isn't any use hunting for God. It is the feeling a boy has when he is lost in the woods and has about made up his mind that there is no use in walking any more, he will just sit down and wait till somebody finds him.

It is the feeling that God may be sensitive and doesn't want people coming bothering him. It is the notion that if God wants me, he will knock me down and drag me where he wants me to be. A man with a notion like that, of course, isn't likely to meet with God.

He spends his life paying God no attention whatever, not even thinking about him, perhaps. He may even go as far as he can from the Father's house, believing that God's long arm, like the long arm of the F.B.I. or the Mounties, will reach after him and get him in case God ever wants him.

Now this is a ridiculous idea and a bad one too. Isaiah would not think it true for a minute. "Seek ye the Lord," he says. "Call on God . . . return to the Lord." "Incline your ear and come!" This means you—if you will. But if you won't, God will not force you. He forces no man. He wants willing obedience, loving service, not slavery. God will have no chain on you but the chain of love. God keeps an open house, not a prison farm.

No House Of Horrors

ANOTHER WRONG NOTION, for which, alas, many a church member is partly responsible, is the notion that the nearer we get to God, the gloomier we shall be. All the talk about sacrifice and suffering for others, such as we were thinking of last week, all the emphasis in the church on the death of Christ, all the solemnity of most church services, make people think: "God may be all right for solemn people, but not for me; I like life with a smile."

Now that is just another mistaken notion. The very persons who know the deeper meanings of sacrifice are just the persons who don't like to use that word about themselves.

In fact, it could be said that in general it is only Christians who have a right to be gay. Jesus himself, on the same night in which he was betrayed, spoke to his friends about sharing his joy to the full.

Isaiah 55 is certainly no invitation to gloom. Joy, peace, the clapping of hands are there. But how do we know Isaiah was right? There is only one way, and that is not to sit arguing about it. You never know what a party is like by staying at home.

Do you really want to find out what goes on there? Don't be content to hear others say, "It's wonderful!" God's door stands open.
