U.S.-Canada Inland Water Route Busiest in World

DURING the seven months that they are open to navigation the Great Lakes are alive with ships. This inland water route, stretching over 2000 miles, links the heart of industrial Canada and U. S. with the war effort of the United Nations.

Coal carriers lug black fuel from Erie or Buffalo to Toronto and the Soo; bulk carriers bring grain from the world's breadbasket to Midland and Collingwood or rust-red ore from the Mesabe and Vermillion Ranges to Hamilton and Conneaut; oil tankers take liquid dynamite from Sarnia to Kingston, and little package freighters deliver paints, steel pipe and breakfast food from Montreal to Cornwall. This traffic has made the canals at Sault Ste. Marie, connecting Lakes Superior and Huron, and the Welland Canal, between Lakes Erie and Ontario, the busiest in the world.

Below is shown a railway bridge spanning the Welland Canal being lifted to allow the passage of a freighter. At right, a trewman on the C. S. Robinson, bound up Lake Superior, watches the SS Cornell, headed down the lake we a rich cargo of ore for the blast furnaces of Hamilton.

Data Helps Win Mastery of Air

General Bissell Describes in 'Aerosphere' How Facts Are Compiled.

NEW YORK .- One of the principal reasons for the development of Allied superiority is the effective use of air intelligence or information on how United Nations' planes and those of the enemy function under combat conditions, according to an article by Maj. Gen. Clayton Bissell in "Aerosphere-1943," this aviation year-book's newest edition. General Bissell recently was named assistant chief of staff, intelligence division, United States army, after serving as assistant chief of staff, intelligence, army air forces.

Outlining the application of air intelligence, General Bissell said:

"We must evaluate the enemy's aircraft and his tactics, and compare them critically with our own. We must collect, correlate and condense all the available data on enemy aircraft, aviation equipment and technique, and make it available to those who design or modify our planes. We could produce planes without this constant check and continuing study, but probably not one that possesses the degree of superiority necessary to insure our air crews those advantages in combat so essential to the development of the maximum effectiveness of air

Three Sources of Data.

"The collection of this vital data is in some respects the most important work done by air intelligence. The greater part of it comes from three principal sources: First, by the thorough and systematic interviewing of combat crews by squadron intelligence officers as soon as the crews return from their missions. Second, by thorough investigation by 'crash officers' who search out and painstakingly study the design, construction and equipment of all enemy planes brought down in territory we control. Third, by actual tests and analysis of captured enemy aircraft and aviation material.

"By making full use of what we have thus learned, and by exploiting fully United Nations' genius and initiative, we have so far been able to stay several jumps ahead of the Japanese, and at least one jump shead of the Germans.

Through detailed knowledge of enemy aircraft we were able to discover weaknesses in the combat performance of our aircraft which we could and did correct. An example of this is the now obsolescent P-40

P-40 vs. Zero.

"In the early months of the war much was heard about the Japanese Zero outperforming this plane. In fact, two conflicting theories in design were pitted against each other. It was perfectly true the P-40 could not turn or climb with the Zero. We had loaded it with guns and ammunition to give it deadly fire power. ample armor to protect our pilots.

"The Japanese built the Zero with lightness as a primary consideration, and sacrificed those characteristics. We built heavily and ruggedly so the P-40 could take punishment no Zero could ever take. We insisted that our fighters not only have superior fire power and defensive armor, but that they have also the strength that would permit the pilot to get home after severe battle damage.

"Now, after two years of actual use in combat, we have the proof that we were right, and that the Japanese, who sacrificed so much for climb and maneuverability, were wrong. Fire power and armor helped our American pilots gain command of the Pacific air."

Nazis Hope to Build Up Sea Power for Next War

LONDON .- An article in the German newspaper "Munchner Neueste Nachrichten" reaching here said the maximum hope remaining to Nazidom is to hold onto conquered Europe for a peace that will allow the creation of German naval power sufficient for a new try at Great Britain and the United States.

In discussing Nazi postwar aspirations, the article blamed Germany's inability to invade England upon lack of naval strength, and said the only reason the conflict had been confined to the mainland of Europe was that Germany did not possess the means of inflicting defeat on British-American sea power.

The article added that it must be taken for granted Great Britain and America would emerge from the war with their sea power un-impaired, and the new Nazi order would have no chance until such time as Germany and the new Europe had created sea power.

Romance Hidden 23 Years Blooms in War Dispatch

BALTIMORE, MD. - For four months Eligah Powell and his son worked side by side at the Maryland Drydock without recognizing each other, and then an Associated Press dispatch from England brought them together. A chain of unusual events followed.

Powell noticed in the story from England a familiar name—Pvt. Paul Powell, his son. It mentioned that the soldier's sister, Mrs. Virginia Moreland, lived in Baltimore, and gave her address. Powell went to call on her, discovered she was his daughter, one of the three children he hadn't seen since he and his wife separated 23 years ago.

His daughter told him that the second brother, Rupert, was employed by the drydock, in the paint department. Next day Powell introduced himself to his son. The father and his two children arranged a reunion with their mother, Mrs. Bertha Powell. Both Powell and his wife had remarried and their spouses had died. They remarried within three

Mustard Gas Burns Are Fatal to English Girl

LONDON. - Mustard gas burns, which developed after handling a mysterious container found on the seashore, have caused the death of a young girl and sent ten other persons to hospitals in South Wales.

The victim, Christine Canton, and her 16-year-old brother, picked up the container for a "souvenir" last week-end. Her brother, both parents and a sister, are now hospitalized with burns.

Pasture and Forage Important This Year

Lime and Fertilizer Boost Crop, Improve Quality

The supply of feed grains relative to livestock and poultry numbers promises to be less favorable in 1944 than it has been for several years. As a result, farmers should plan to take every possible advantage of pasture and forage crops in order to produce the volume of dairy and poultry products needed this year, according to the War Food administration.

One of the best ways to increase production of pasturage and forage, and at the same time to improve the quality, the WFA says, is to apply more lime and superphosphate on pasture and hay land. The 1944 conservation program of the Agricultural Adjustment agency is designed to stimulate increased use of both these materials.

In most of the United States east of the Great Plains, and in some of the higher mountain areas and the areas of heavy rainfall in the Pacific Northwest, the WFA says, it is necessary to add lime to the soil in order to grow such legume crops as alfalfa, red clover, and sweet clover. The legumes are considered desirable for two reasons. They produce heavier crops of more nutritious hay than most of the non-

Competition from war crops has made the legume and grass seed erops problem a serious one. Reserves have gone and it will be necessary to conserve all present acreage as well as provide in some manner for additional seed.

egume grasses. Also, because of their ability to absorb nitrogen from the air and, through their roots, transfer it to the soil, they increase soil fertility.

When superphosphate is used as top-dressing for pastures and hay land, it enables the more desirable, more nutritious, and more palatable legumes and grasses to crowd out the poorer varieties. In a number of tests, pastures supporting mostly poverty grass and broom-sedge were top-dressed with superphosphate. Kentucky bluegrass and | dead white clover then tended to crowd out the poorer plants.

Neither lime nor superphosphate can do the job of the other, nor can both together take the place of other elements of good land management, the WFA warns. But on soils which require both, each adds to the effectiveness of the other.

Kathleen Norris Says:

The Family Goes Crazy

Bell Syndicate.-WNU Features.

"They go out to attractive country restaurants, or even picnic together. In short, he is in love with this vain little thing."

By KATHLEEN NORRIS

"I T IS MY opinion that the entire world is going crazy," writes a reader from Seattle, Wash. "My husband and I have been happily married for fourteen years; ours has been a relationship of affection, mutual respect, easiness. Sometimes in the old days he laughed at my club interests, sometimes grew impatient when he went a little too far with a poker game or stayed out too late and drank too much for his comfort or mine, but I always regarded my marriage as a settled thing. and felt myself one of the fortunate and beloved wives.

"Jim was a widower and my em ployer when we were married, he is now 49 and I am 36. We have a small daughter of nine, and Jim has two boys by his first wife, both now marines. One came home on furlough and was decorated, has now gone out again; the younger should be here this summer for a long rest; he has been seriously injured and may never be able to go

"Jim, the most devoted of fathers, seems to have gone crazy about young Jim's coming home. 'What will we do with him—active boy like that not able to walk any more-sitting around here watching the other fellows play tennis and dance out of everything. He keeps up this kind of muttering even in his sleep. He says repeatedly that he would rather hear that the boy was

Husband Flirts with Girl.

"But that's not all. Recently he has been spending a good deal of time with a 17-year-old girl whose mother works in his office. He took her to the circus, said it was good to hear that kid laugh. She writes him little notes, and he makes her constant presents, and takes her and her mother to lunch somewhere almost every day, from the office. They go out to attractive country restaurants, or even picnic together. In short, he is in love with this rather vapid, vain little thing, and whatever I do or say about it seems ridiculous, clumsy and useless.

"Once when I mentioned the absurdity of the whole thing, he assured me that nothing would ever alter his affection for me or his sense of duty to Leslie, our little girl. Unfortunately she is a rather fat, awkward little girl, wears glasses, and is at the rude age. She can't help me out much in my effort to make home attractive to Jim and to counteract the effect of the pretty little Fritzi-to call her

"This and the thought of young Jim's return, invalided, has made me terribly nervous, and I find it hard to sleep. With no cooperation from either husband or daughter I don't feel I can cope with the situation, to which is added my anxiety for my twin brothers, 28, both in the navy, and worry, of course, for the children of friends and relatives away in the service of the country. Please give me a guidepost to get through this."

My dear Millicent, I say in answer, we all need guideposts to take us through this fearful summer of 1944. But as for not being able to cope with your situation, of course you can cope with it, and thank God that you really are needed now by every member of your family.

CENTER OF INTEREST

What is a woman going to do then her 49-year-old husband goes out constantly with a 17year-old girl whose mother works in his office? He is in love with this "vapid little thing," she writes. He has two sons by a previous marriage, both marines. One, Jim, is coming home-crippled. The father seems to be completely upset by his son's plight. This may partially explain why he has turned to a young girl for consolation of a sort.

Miss Norris counsels this woman to ignore her husband's in-fatuation. It is a passing thing. she intimates.

The returned marine should be the center of interest, Miss Norris says. He is someone upon whom to lavish attention and affection. By spending her time making him comfortable, by playing games with him, by try-ing to make him happy, this woman will lighten her own bur-den, and achieve a measure of happiness for herself.

Jim senior's infatuation for the flattering little office friend is not a serious problem to you, whatever it may be to a girl of 17, who is fool enough to waste her time on a man almost 50. She must be unattractive to younger men, for your town is Fritzie could have her pick if she had even ordinary charm. Girl Can Overcome Rudeness.

As to Leslie, there need not be a 'rude age" and there should not be. A lasting and effectual cure, is to prepare her for everything you say, for a few days or weeks. "Leslie, Dad is going to ask you what sort of a time you had at the field sports today, and he wants a polite answer." "Leslie, when I ask you in a few minutes to go up and make your bed, I want you to say gently, 'Immediately, Mother,' or 'May I finish this program, Mother?' " "Whatever you're going to say when Mrs. Baker talks about the party. Leslie, say it gently and politely. Warn her in this way before you so much as say, "Good morning" or ask her to pass the toast, and you will be amazed how fast she breaks herself of the habit of rudeness. A very common habit, by the way, between eight and ten.

As for Jim junior, he will be your salvation. Don't pity or question him, but adjust the whole house to his needs; radio, big chair, telephone handy, a few friends in now and then, good meals, puzzles, new books, and any game he likes to play with you. If he doesn't play gin or dominoes, backgammon or cribbage, teach him.

It is a real privilege to have one of our boys home again to spoil; God knows we American women had little to do with the making of war; we would give our own lives to save these ruined younger lives if we could. But since we cannot, our share must be to make their handicapped time normal and happy. And for your consolation let me say that I have known many of these injured men to be spurred into the achievement of conspicuous success in spite of, or perhaps because of, the supposed physical handicap.

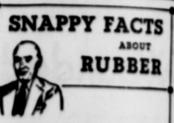

Mix-Match Furniture

"Mix-match" furniture is a novel line which is reported as being put out by at least one large furniture manufacturer, says the Painter and Decorator. In this type of furniture, the chairs may be of one color, the buffet of another, and the table of still another finish. Brown, bfack, white, Pompeian red, green, yellow and turquoise blue are used. The finish is lacquer, and several coats are applied to produce a piano-like finish. Colors are selected hy an experienced decorator.

RE-ELECT GEORGE MAHON TO CONGRESS

George Mahon Believes In Free Enterprise And Constitutional Government, The Same As You And I

Mahon has vigorously fought for Parity Prices, and Parity Income for the farmer, and has spoken and voted for the inclusion of all labor costs in determining farm prices. Mahon helped put the REA (Rural Electrification Administration) through Congress and has worked for its expansion. When he was first elected there was no REA in our District or the Nation. We now have about 5,000 miles of REA lines serving more than 10,000 families. And this program is in its infancy.

Mahon holds a key position in the war effort, being a member of the important Committee on Appriations. This came to him through seniority and his capable qualifications. The Appropriations Committee is such a busy one any member of the party in power can only serve on the one committee.

If you will investigate George's record you'll find that he has been very active. While he has supported the Administration, he has never been a rubber stamp.

In 1940 The Vote For Mahon Was 5 To 1 In His Favor. He Carried Every County And Voting Box In The District. Let's Do It Again July 22

Washington, D. C. DISCHARGED VETERANS

President Roosevelt has just received a suggestion from Chicago's Mayor Ed Kelly designed to aid in the rehabilitation of ex-servicemen.

Kelly, acting on a proposal from his wife Margaret, head of Chicago's tremendously popular servicemen's aid organization, has urged FDR that men be permitted to wear their uniforms for three to six months after they are discharged, if they want to. Kelly pointed out that 30,000 Chicago boys have been discharged from service and that many return home, after a year or more's absence, feeling thoroughly out of place in the community in civilian clothes. Many folks don't even know the boys have been off to war serving their country, Kelly has pointed out. Discharge buttons, promised many months ago, are still not issued to men everywhere. Even though disabled, they no longer can enter servicemen's centers for recreation, no longer receive special rates in thea-

Kelly also wrote the President that, during the last war, men were allowed to keep wearing their uniforms for some time after their discharge. Many walked the streets in uniforms hunting jobs and received preference because they were vet-

Note-Chicago's servicemen's centers have done one of the best jobs in the U. S. A., have served more than 12,000,000 meals free.

CONGRESSIONAL SOLDIERS

It's not nearly so bad as in the fast war, but several younger members of congress are having trouble as they seek reelection, because they are in congress and not in the army. In most cases, the "slacker" charges are simply whispered.

In one case, political opponents are whispering about a congressman who has received the navy's Silver Star for gallantry in action. He is Lyndon Johnson of Texas, who saw his bunkmate killed beside him in the South Pacific. Representative Albert Gore of Tennessee, who is 36, is another who has been smeared in a whispering campaign. A father, Gore waived his congressional immunity last winter and was inducted into the army as a private. However, at the request of the President, he returned to congress before he began train-

Others who have felt the lash of criticism because they are serving their country in the office to which they were elected are Wilbur Mills of Arkansas, Jamie Whitten of Mississippi, Lindley Beckworth of Texas, and even Representative Warrer G. Magnuson of Washington. The 39-year-old Magnuson, now running for senator, has seen more of the western Pacific theater than most soldiers and sailors in the area, was serving on the aircraft carrier from General Doolittle's planes which took off for the first bombing of Tokyo.

AIR-COOLED CONGRESS

While war workers swelter in movie theaters and while government officials suffer in Washington's flimsy temporary buildings, the high-ceilinged house and senate office buildings enjoy air conditioned comfort-even with congress adjourned

Although the capitol air-conditioning equipment is being geared to use the smallest possible amount of freon gas, the fact remains that it took a special deal with WPB to release the 14,000 pounds needed. Meanwhile, movie theaters serving war workers in the South have been denied freon because of military demands.

Capitol Architect David Lynn says he's the man to blame, not members of congress. He says not a single member has taken the matter up with him.

Probably no one is directly to blame, unless it is the WPB officials who played favorites in releasing the freon. No one begrudges the congressmen their air-conditioning, but their buildings, because of thick walls and high ceilings, would be cool even without air-condition-

In the army's huge Pentagon building, the freon supply has been cut to the bone. The result, according to workers there, is that the atmosphere is slightly warm. Last year they claimed it was far too chilly, with many colds resulting.

CAPITAL CHAFF

a NBC's popular "Labor for Victory" radio program will be suspended for the summer after nearly two years on the air. Reason is the AFL won't cooperate with the CIO in putting it on.

Insiders report that the recent visit of Polish Premier Mikolajczyk to Washingten was highly successful. The Polish government is now expected to purge itself of anti-Russian leaders such as Beck and Pilsudski. In return, Russia will sign a treaty of cooperation with Poland similar to that with Czechoslovakia; also will give the Poles more territory

Nazi Snipers Caused Real Trouble to Yank Invaders

Snipers Remain in Hiding; Surrender When Ammunition Gone

SOMEWHERE IN FRANCE.—Sniping, as far as I know, is recog-nized as a legitimate means of warfare. And yet there is something sneaking about it that outrages the American sense of fairness. I had never sensed this before we landed in France and began pushing the Germans back. We have had snipers before-in Bizerte and Cassino and lots of other places. But always on a small scale. Here in Normandy the Germans have gone in for sniping in a wholesale manner. There are snipers everywhere. There are snipers in trees, in buildings, in piles of wreckage, in the grass. But mainly they are in the high, bushy hedgerows that form the fences of all the Norman fields and line every roadside and lane.

It is perfect sniping country. A man can hide himself in the thick diers one by one as they walk down the roads or across the fields. It isn't safe to move into a new bivouac area until the snipers have been cleaned out. The first bivouac I moved into had shots ringing through it for a full day before all the hidden gunmen were rounded up. It gives you the same spooky feeling that you get on moving into a place you suspect of being sown with

In past campaigns our soldiers would talk about the occasional snipers with contempt and disgust. But here sniping has become more important, and taking precautions against it is something we have had to learn and learn fast. One officer friend of mine said: 'Individual soldiers have become sniper-wise before, but now we're sniper-conscious as whole units."

Snipers kill as many Amerieans as they can, and then when their food and ammunition run out they surrender. To an American that isn't quite eth-ical. The average American soldier has little feeling against the average German soldier who has fought an open fight and lost. But his feelings, about the sneaking snipers can't very well be put into print. He is learning how to kill the snipers before the time comes for them to surrender.

As a matter of fact this part of France is very difficult for anything but fighting between small groups. It is a country of little fields, every one bordered by a thick hedge and a high fence of trees. There is hardly any place where you can see beyond the field ahead of you. Most of the time a soldier doesn't see more than a hundred yards in any

In other places the ground is flooded and swampy with a growth of high, jungle-like grass. In this kind of stuff it is almost man-to-man warfare. One officer who has served a long time in the Pacific says this Frenchman puttered and sputtered fighting is the nearest thing to

Guadalcanal that he has seen since. We went to the far end of the square, where three local French policemen were standing in front of the mayor's office. They couldn't speak any English, but they said there was one woman in town who did, and a little boy was sent running for her. Gradually a crowd of eager and curious people crushed in upon us, until there must have been 200 of them, from babies to old

Finally the woman arrived-a little dark woman with graying hair and spectacles, and a big smile. Her English was quite good, and we asked her if there were any Germans in the town. She turned and asked the policeman.

Instantly everybody in the crowd started talking at once. The sound was like that of a machine that increases in speed until its noise drowns out all else.

Finally the policemen had to shush the crowd so the woman could an-

She said there were Germans all around, in the woods, but none whatever left in the town. Just then a German stuck his head out of a nearby second-story window. Somebody saw him, and an American soldier was dispatched to get him.

Barneville is a fortunate place, because not a shell was fired into it by either side. The lieutenant with us told the woman we were glad nobody had been hurt. When she translated this for the crowd, there was much nodding in approval of our good wishes.

Sixty-nine convictions have resulted during the first ten months of the 1944 fiscal year. An oddity in the FBI's files on this subject has to do with a Louisville, Ky., woman who, when questioned by FBI agents, offered to return fourteen $50 checks she got illegally, but hadn't spent. She said she had kept all the checks except one, which the soldier himself cashed, and that she was most willing to return them to the Government.

The alertness of G-Men was demonstrated again the other day in Los Angeles. An agent spied a man on the street whom he recognized as a fugitive-a wanted notice had been issued a few days before. Although the suspect produced phony selective service cards, the G-Man was persistent and took his fingerprints. whereupon the fugitive admitted his identity as Walter Ray Carroll, wanted in Washington State in connection with a $25,000 narcotics rob-

Ed Williams To Get A New Assignment

Ed Warren Williams, seaman first class in the U.S. Naval Reserve and son of Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Williams, of O'Donnell, has returned to his base at the Navy's Armed Guard Center, New Orleans, after spending five months at sea as a member of a naval gun crew aboard a merchant ship.

Ed, a four-letter footboll star at in Fiorida, is now stationed at O'Donnell High School before he entered the Navy January 13, J. E. Nance of Mesquite was in 1943, now has credit for 14 months O'Donnell Saturday, devoutly hop- sea duty in Armed Guard. He ing for an inch or two rainfall in took his "boot" training at Great his hail wick. He tells us that Lakes, Ill., and since then has visitwhen the oil well is brought in at ed many foreign countries includ Mesquite you cau look for a big ing Iran, Iraq, India, Australia and nations in South America, South Africa, and North Africa

The young Texan reported that his ship was in the middle of a Nazi air raid while i: plied through the Mediterranean. The Nazi, sending a formation of about 30 bombers against the convoy of which Ed's ship was a part, received a warm welcome, the young crewman reported.

"Our anti aircraft guns knocked down three of the Jerries before they could make their bomb run," he said, "and although some of the bombers did try to unloose their load, most of them turned back."

Ed is now awaiting orders which wil place him aboard another sugply-laden merchantman bound for foreign battle zones.

in life . . .

Raised on a farm in Lynn county. Graduated from high school at age of 16 with honors in oratorical contest. Worked his way through first two years of Texas Tech by milking cows and working on college farm.

Commenced teaching school at age of 18 as high school principal, serving in this capacity two years and as superintendent two years. Attended summer school at Texas Tech and took correspondence work while teaching, graduating from Texas Tech in 1937.

Moved to Austin in 1937 to attend Texas University Law School. Worked his way through two and one half years of Law School by keeping boarders, selling furniture for large department store, and by serving as local news commentator over radio station for Lucky Strike tobacco company.

Licensed to practice law in 1939 and has enjoyed an active practice in Tahoka and West Texas ever since. Elected County Attorney of Lynn county without opposition in 1940 and again in 1942, in which capacity he is now serving, and has disposed of some 2,000 cases with a loss of only five.

Has been an active worker in church and civic organizations. Is 30 years old, married, has two children, and has been rejected for military service twice as a volunteer and once as a draftee.

He Is Recognized And Known-

As one of the best versed and most outstanding young attorneys of West Texas. As a hard working, hard fighting, energetic, conscientious and honest attorney. As an authority on Federal taxation problems. As an attorney with a commendable and enviable record in our courts. As an upright, leading citizen in civic, religious and community affairs. As a friend of boys and girls, evidenced by the many graduation addresses he is invited to make. As an orator and public speaker. As the leading and most worthy candidate for DISTRICT ATTORNEY.

We invite you to investigate his record as a man. as an attorney, and as a prosecutor who has, can, and will roll up his sleeves and fight for right and justice, with prosecution of all and persecution of none. He will appreciate your vote and will prove it by his service as your District Attorney.

HIGHWAY GARAGE

To The Voters

Of Precinct No. 2 Dawson County

By this means I am soliciting your votes as it will be the only way that I will be able to contact the majority of the people.

I have served you before for one term (only), therefore, you know me and my way of doing things. It would be a pleasure to serve you again, and will give you the best I have. I like this particular kind of work, to do away with the mud holes, and give the roads a drainape. If I'm elected you can feel assured when commissioners court is in session, I will be on my side of the table representing my precinct and Dawson county as a whole, for the best for the people at large, and striving at all times to make your tax dollars be spent only as they should and to econo mize In every way possible, therefore, to eliminate any rise in taxes but rather lower taxes.

I wilf appreciate each and every vote plus the best service I can render you.

Let me remain your friend and be your future commissioner. Respectfully,

READY FOR TROUBLE

Tom Garrard County Judge

Of Lynn County
For Election For Full Term

We hope the people in O'Donnell will remember that in 1937 when Judge Tom Garrard was on the the State Board of Education, he personally led the move and had passed the orders refunding the O'Donnell School District Bonds at a saving of SIX-TY-EIGHT THOUSAND, ONE HUNDRED THIRTY DOLLARS to the taxpayers of O'Donnell Independent School District at a time when we were having trouble paying them. Your school board will verify this.

One of the first acts the Commissioners' Court and Tom Garrard performed was the refunding of $18,000 old Court House and Jail Bonds at a saving of approximately $2100.00 to taxpayers.

Since he has been in office little more than three months there has been assessed and collected fines in criminal cases in his court sufficient to pay the county judge's salary seven months.

Please remember that Judge Garrard's own flesh and blood are a part of O'Donnell, as his son, daughter and only grandson own their home and live in O'Donnell, and he would love O'Donnell for that if for nothing else.

Some of the best friends he has in the county live in O'Donnell, and of course, he loves O'Donnell.

The Commissioners Court and Judge Garrard are at this moment planning valuable work on roads that will greatly benefit O'Donnell.

You may judge a man's actions in the future by what he has done in the past. Tom Garrard has done things for you and will continue to do so.

Hati

He has given three sons to his country in this awful war. He is a member of the legal advisory board for registrants and as such has assisted many hundreds of registrants with their questionaires and many legal matters affecting them without cost to them. He has also been active in every war bond drive that has been made. O'Donnell should REME MBER Judge Tom Garrard with a heavy vote, Saturday, July 22.

Fruit Preparation and Processing Guide

(See Directions Below)

Canned Fruit

If you want to assure your family of its basic seven fruit requirement, then busy yourself with putting up fruit at home.

Fruits, commercially canned, have carried a high point value and this has made their serving in many families prohibitive. But lucky indeed are those

Fruit canning is infinitely more simple than vegetable canning. The reason for that is that fruits are acid d, therefore, can be sterilized more readily. A hot water bath is ideal for processing the fruit once it is in the jar. If you cannot obtain one, use a regular wash boiler, fitted with a rack to keep the jars a half inch from the bottom. A cover that fits tightly over the canner helps keep the steam in and does not waste fuel.

Steps in Canning. 1. Select fruit in the peak of condition. Your can will yield only what you put into it.

2. Wash fruit or berries carefully, pare and pit according to directions for fruit in the fruit canning chart given in this column

3. Fruit is pre-cooked for several minutes in certain cases to shrink it, and to give you a better looking pack with as little floating as possi-

4. Use a light or medium type of syrup in which to pre-cook the fruit or cook in its own juice.

5. Pack fruit into hot, sterilized jars and add boiling syrup or fruit juice with which to cover the fruit. Most juice or syrup is added to within one-half inch of the top of the jar. 6. Adjust the cap according to the instructions furnished by the manufacturer. He knows the type of sealing it will need. 7. Process fruit either in the water bath or the pressure cooker according to the time indicated on the canning chart. For a boiling water bath, set that the water boils during the entire processing period.

8. As soon as the jars finish processing, remove them from the can-ner, set on several thicknesses of paper or cloth and allow to cool. All jars should not be inverted, so watch the manufacturers' instructions on this point.

Oven Canning.

This year, I'm not recommending oven canning of fruits because warm equ caused many changes to be made in jars and caps, and this method is not safe. Many women had accidents last year and much fruit was spoiled. Play safe, and use the water bath.

As long as sugar is still rationed, you'll want to use it sparingly so there's enough for peaches as well as for plums and grape jelly in the Wise homemakers are using the thin or medium syrups, as these will mellow and ripen the fruit but still not consume too much of the precious sugar supply.

Thin Sugar Syrup. 1 cup sugar 31/2 cups water

Bring to a boil, stirring only until sugar is dissolved. Keep hot but not Medium Sugar Syrup.

2 cups sugar 4 cups water. Follow directions above.

Open Kettle Canning. Women who have canned for years on end, still prefer the old-fashioned, open-kettle method for canning fruits. It gives a luscious product, and if the canner is careful, no spoilage will develop.

Care must be taken to wash and sterilize all utensils carefully so that no bacteria will be introduced into the jars to work spoilage later. Unless you are experienced at canning. I do not suggest you try this method, but if you do, here are the directions to observe: 1. Wash and sterilize all equipment. This means jars, rubbers, spoons, spatulas, funnels, in fact, anything that comes in contact with the food 2. Make sure the food has reached the boiling temperature before filling jars. Fill each jar to the brim as rapidly as possible. 3. Run a spatula down the sides of each jar after filling. Refill with more juice to the rim of the jar. 4. Seal completely, at once.

SUCCESSES AND FAILURES OF ISRAEL

LESSON TEXT—Judges 2:6-16.

GOLDEN TEXT—Righteousness exalteth a nation; but sin is a reproach to any people.

—Proverbs 14:34.

The success or failure of both nations and individuals is ultimately determined by their attitude toward the law of God. He is always right and true. The constant factor in a world order that swings wildly from one extreme to another, is His law, which is perfect and eternal. God is no respecter of persons. Even Israel, His own chosen nation, found that observing God's law meant blessing, and failure to do so brought judgment and sorrow. No man is great and powerful enough to ignore this rule-and none is exempt from its operation.

I. Remembering God Brings Blessing (vv. 6-9).

Although Israel had not fully obeyed God's command, and had been rebuked by an angel of the Lord for their failure (Judg. 2:1-5), they had come into a measure of their inheritance under Joshua. They now possessed that inheritance and entered into enjoyment of it (v. 6). It is one thing to have an inheritance, but another thing to claim it and make use of it. Countless Christians have never taken out their inheritance in Christ. All they have is the earnest (Eph. 1:14) or

"down payment." God never meant that any child of His should live a poverty-stricken spiritual life, or should go halting on first one side and then the other. He has made provision for a fullorbed, strong and joyful life. Why not enter upon your full inheritance in Christ now?

As the people of Israel took possession of the land, they went forward in the way of blessing as long as Joshua, and the elders who re-membered God, kept them steady and true. We have here an excellent illustration of the power of a godly example. It is far stronger than we think.

II. Forgetting God Brings Backsliding (vv. 10-13).

The fact that a people has been highly privileged and has been exalted to a place of power and honor will not save it in the day when God is forgotten. Israel no longer had God-fearing men to bring it back to God, and so began its awful drifting

We Americans are rightly proud of our great land, its mighty resources, its fine past and promising But wait-what is the future to be? Oh, we say, the most glori-ous days are ahead. They may be, but only if we, like our forefathers who established this nation, recognize God. If we do not, America will go the way of the forgotten empires of centuries past, and that in spite of all its past achievements and its present promise.

Let us always remember that America is not some vague entity apart from us, for we, you and I, are America, we determine what it shall be, and how it shall relate itself to God. Let us be sure that no one we know ever forgets God.

It is a significant thing that the leaders of our nation so often come from Christian homes, but it is sad that they are so frequently not Christians themselves. Their lives are shaped by the teaching and influence of godly parents who reared them, but what will their children do if they are not brought up in the fear and admonition of the Lord?

Forgetting God is bad enough in its immediate results, but just ahead there is great and certain disaster. III. Forsaking God Brings Judgment (vv. 14-18). God not only will not hold a backsliding nation guiltless, but will bring judgment even if He has to turn over His people to a despoiling nation. He has instruments of individual and naconal chastisement, and He is ready to use them.

Notice that wherever they went the Lord's hand was against them. There is no place to flee from the presence of God. Anyone who thinks he can do it, should read Psalm 139:7-12. It can't be done. That is a comfort to the believer, but it is not a little disquieting to the unbeliever.

God, however, always remembers mercy in the midst of judgment (Ps. 101:1). He sent judges 😂 deliver Israel, when He was sure of their repentance (v. 16). "If there was ever a time when nations needed deliverers, it's now. The systematic looting of subjugated peoples, the deliberate murder of multitudes of Jews, the mass executions of many innocent people in reprisal for some patriotic act of resistance, are evils that cry to heaven.

"If men would call on God not merely for deliverance but in real repentance for sins committed 'perhaps the God who delivered Israel' would send deliverance to suffer-ing people still" (Arnold's Commen-

Prompt Action Vital When Child Is Hurt Nurse Tells Mothers

HEN accidents happen and you hear the cry "It hurts, Momdon't let your child down. Don't break his faith in you. Learn what to do before the doctor comes.

That's the advice to mothers given by Beulah France, R. N., in Capper's Farmer, a magazine read by 1,250,000 farm families.

'Upon your actions may depend the seriousness of consequences," she writes. "The first 24 hours are often the most vital.

"If a fall leaves a child unconcious or conscious but disinterested and 'stupid' keep him flat on his back, covered warmly, with head lower than feet. He is probably in state of shock. Broken bones may be indicated by pain and inability to move them.

Be very, very careful not to let the bones' ends rub together or pierce through the skin. Keep the child quiet. Do not move him until the doctor arrives. Cuts that are bleeding badly call for pressure. If you have sterile gauze (do not use sterile cotton) or a clean handkerchief, cover cut and press hard against it."

Belles and Beaux Get Timely Advice

"HE WHO hurries the fastest sometimes misses the boat" is the advice Holly Miller gives 'teenage boy and girl readers of her column in nationally circulated Cap-per's Farmer.

"Time may be a-wastin', belles and beaux," she writes, "but don't let the thought get you in such a dither that you forget your rearing. Here are one or two instances of the value of avoiding haste cited by this Capper's Farmer authority: "Wait for the car to stop and for your swain of the evening to come around and open the door for you. flouse doors, theater doors and the swinging opening to the drugstore come into this consideration. Give

"Take your time when making innd, incidentally, say the name of little time getting folks acquainted before you leave them cold. Just adds a little to your smoothie air.

"You won't starve if you don't get your meal into your stomach in 2 nutes flat. It's not a very pretty show for your family, and some day you might forget when you're away from home. Take time to be polite to your kinfolks. It pays off in the end, since practice gives poise."

Problems concerning etiquette, manners and the means of acquiring smoothness are dealt with by Miss Miller in issues of the magazine. She is always ready to answer questions that puzzle youthful read-ers and to suggest methods of meeting various situations.

had to be lined up along the side of that gravel runway and of course were slow in getting off, which made it a setup for the Japs. Also, our equipment was flown by green youngsters from the States. The big problem was supply. Moresby is as far from Melbourne as Los Angeles is from Pittsburgh. Then at every state line the Australian railroad changes gauges, so all the freight cars had to be unloaded. We had about a dozen B-24's to bring supplies in over the water from the end of the railroad at Townsville, but only about four of these were operational; the rest were under repair.

"And the Japs were still a nuisance at Moresby-dropping down from the overcast to strafe our field at 40 feet altitude. We spent a lot of our time there, and had some close calls getting out to save the Swoose

"I'll never forget our closest one," said Master Sergeant 'Red' Varner,

The cannibal head hunters who lived in the jungle used to stalk the tame village natives.

just a minute and a half's notice that the Japs were coming. Now the General could have stepped down into a foxhole and been perfectly safe there, watching the Japs pound the field. But not our General-he wanted to save that plane, and we had to run like hell to jump in, the General leading everybody, slam the doors, and lam out of there. We had to take off down wind, which was bad, missing a little hill by a lot less than 100 feet. wouldn't have missed it if it hadn't been for those smart trees they have on New Guinea growing on top of that hill-the most intelligent ones I've ever seen. Because they saw us coming and ducked. I happened to be looking out and saw them. Then I looked back, and bombs were already breaking on the field right in the dust of our take-off.

"The Colonel here, who of course was doing the piloting, pulled a smart one. The Japs were right on top of us, so he hugged the ground - figuring then the Zeros couldn't dive on us without mashing their own propellers into the bush. We went hell for breakfast, wiggling in and out of gullies hardly 40 feet off the ground, and then out over the sea, where we could see a cloud cover to hide in. We had all kinds of rank aboard that day-Australian Air Force generals and other visiting firemen-and some of them weren't used to scuttling through gullies in a four-motor plane, and by the time we got into that cloud they were sprouting some gray hairs."

"By May, though," said Frank, "we began to get the situation in hand at Moresby. We got some dispersal fields back in the hills for our planes and an operational alarm net so now we can intercept, and also the Zeros run into an intense cross fire from the ground which sends them trailing off across the jungle on fire. So presently strafing is out, and we have only regular raids by high-altitude Jap bombers pounding the field. Our fighters are getting better every day, and pretty soon they're chasing them out over the coast, jettisoning their bombs, which whistle down harmlessly to tear up empty jungles.

"For a while we had a labor problem. The tame village natives we'd hired to work on the field didn't like the bombs, and when the alarm sounded, instead of jumping into the foxholes they'd beat it into the jungle, and maybe not come back for a couple of days. However, this soon stopped, because the cannibal head-hunters who lived in the jungle used to stalk them and chase building dispersal fields, but they | them back, and as between the weren't done yet, so that the aircraft | bombs and the head-hunters, the natives chose the bombs, so we got plenty of work done.

"By now we weren't worried about Port Moresby. We had that in fair shape, and our bombers were going over almost every day to pound the Japs. But we were uneasy about the other shore of New Guinea. The Japs had already dug in at Lae and Salamaua-suppose they came on down the line and put in an airfield at Buna, right opposite Moresby? They could cause us plenty of trouble, intercepting our bombers on the way out and back.

"General Brett was particularly anxious, and wanted to move in and take Buna in May. There was nothing there then but a native village and an old Catholic mission. But Melbourne said no, because it would mean landing troops to defend our airdrome there.

"But the Air Force knew if the Japs ever got Buna it would take a first-class expedition to get them out. Finally General Ralph Royce, who was General Brett's operations chief, flew out over northern New Guinea on a personal inspection of the whole coast, and sent to Melbourne a detailed report, endorsing a field at Buna as vital to our future air operations.

"Presently his reply came. In reference to his report on the estab-lishment of a landing field at Buna, Melbourne headquarters commended him for his initiative in making the reconnaissance, but found that owing to lack of facilities, it wasn't possible at this time.

"But this friendly little ground-air argument over Buna was soon settled. The third week in July our reconnaissance spotted a Jap Naval task force moving toward the north coast of New Guinea, and now just off Rabaul. We weren't sure where they were headed-maybe around the island, to capture Moresby itself.

"We were taking no chances, so on July 24 General Brett hit them with everything he had, little as it was-medium and light bombardment, Forts and obsolescent dive

"But for twenty-four hours the og closed in, hiding them. When t lifted they were sixty miles off Buna. Now we knew the Jap High Command was thinking in the same strategical terms as we were in the Air Force.

"Even though the weather gave us this very short time to pound them, we made them pay for their Buna landing. But still they could sneak a transport through during the night to put troops ashore. Had we had only a little infantry and artillery at Buna, they could have held them off, giving the Air Force a chance to pound their landing barges at dawn. But we didn't have, and when morning came their transport was steaming away empty.

"In only two days the enterprising little devils had chopped a landing strip out of the jungle. A few days later their fighters were rising off it to attack our bombers as they took off or returned to Moresby after pounding the Jap base at Rabaul. "It took almost six months of hard fighting by both Australian and American infantry, down over the Owen Stanley range-finally led by General MacArthur himself - to clean the Japanese out. What we have now is real co-operation. The ground forces know the vital importance of airfields, and I hope we in the Air Force have come to appreciate the tremendous importance of the unity of air, land, and sea."

"A man doesn't know what distance means until he flies that end of the world," said Red, the crew chief, "Remember the time we had to make a forced landing right in the middle of the place?"

"I'll never forget," said Charlie, the bombardier. "It was about the time of that Buna business." "We had left Darwin," said Red,

"and were flying across the Australian desert headed for Cloncurry. We had umpty-ump rank aboard, about sixteen in all-General Royce, General Perrin, General Marquat, and some Australians-Air Marshals they probably were-and also Lyndon Johnson, a big lanky guy from Texas, a real Congressman, only now he was out inspecting this area as a Navy Lieutenant Commander.

"Well, we're flying along over this wilderness which looks like the rumpled parts of New Mexico or Arizona, heading, we think, for this Cloncurry, only our arrival time goes by, and no Cloncurry.
"Harry, the navigator, begins to check things, and discovers that his octant has gone out on him-it's like a sextant on a ship, only you use an air bubble instead of the horizon. It wasn't Harry's fault-the prism was turning all right, but now he could see the recorder wasn't. He came up out of the navigator's compartment into the cockpit shaking his head, and told Frank here what had happened-that he had no idea where the Swoose was. 'You can have her now, Major,' he says. 'She's all yours!'

"Well, first the Major got our radioman to working, trying to wake up some Australian station which would give us a bearing. But I guess they were all asleep. Our gas was getting lower and lower. the sun was sinking, too. And And that country below us was all rumpled up like someone had slept in it. (TO BE CONTINUED)

ON COLLECTIVIST PROJECTS ONE OF THE NEW DEAL theoretical ideas for aid to the down-trodden farmer was the establishment of collectivist farms under government management. It was the product of the brain of Rexford Tugwell when he was assistant secretary of agriculture, and was supposed to be along the lines of the Russian collective, government - managed farms.

Recently Democratic Congress-man Harold D. Cooley of North Carolina offered some figures showing what results were attained. There were 197 such projects established in the United States, one of the larger ones being the Scuppernong homesteads of 11,300 acres in North Carolina, with a government investment of $796,000, an average of $11,000 for each farm family involved and settled on the land.

It was a strictly and completely government-managed property, including farm, community and home managers. The loss on operation alone to June, 1942, amounted to $74,000. When to that loss were added interest on the investment and government loans to the farm families, it meant a cost to the government of $18,000 for each one of the farm families, no one of which was permanently benefitted.

Scuppernong is a sample of government management, but it was not the most costly of the 197 collectivist farm experiments. In all, 15,500 farm families were involved in these experiments, none of which were permanently benefitted. On the ther hand, the Farm Security administration, by a simple rehabilitation loan program, ren-dered material aid in putting 950,000 farmers on their feet. Of the amount due on those loans, 93 per cent has been repaid. The loans meant the creation of pportunity for the individual to elp himself — the maintenance of his American self-respect and his operation under he private enterprise system.

The American farmer is too much of a sturdy individualist to take kindly to, or develop under, any system of regulation or regimentation, He can manage his own affairs.

NATIONAL DEBT JUST KEEPS GOING UP

YEARS AGO, back in 1880, when I was but a small boy, a group of town and farm patriarchs would sit around the big wood-burning stove in the general store of the village of Ainsworth, Iowa. Their discusns centered frequently on national affairs and especially the, to them, appalling national debt occasioned by the cost of the Civil war. Some of them harked back to the good old days of 1840 when the national debt amounted to but 21 cents per capita, with a national population of but 17 million. In 1880, because of the cost of the Civil war, it stood at the, to them, staggering sum of $1.69 per capita, with a population of over 50 million. I der what those good citizens of 1880 would say of conditions of today with a national debt of well beyond $1,300 per capita, over $6,000 for the average-sized family. Those patriarchs realized they and their children had to pay that debt of 1880, and we and our children must pay, each his full share, the debt of today and tomorrow and next year. We have reason to demand economy in the civilian activities of government.

PAY FARMER FOR PRODUCING NEEDED ITEMS

A CASTOR BEAN PLANT persists in growing in my yard. Each time I see it I am reminded of the more than 50 million we pay to farmers in other lands for the castor beans we import each year. With a bit of encouragement in the way of a protected home market, or a small subsidy to provide a start, that 50 million dollars might be going to American farmers. There are but few, if any, sections in the United States in which castor beans would not grow. In addition to what we are now importing we could use more, far more, as a substitute for wood pulp in the making of paper. We are depending upon imports for more than 60 other products that could be raised on American farms if we were inclined to encourage their production. The total would add hundreds of millions to our farm income. We could pay the farmer for producing rather than for not producing.

DOING YOUR BEST ON EVERY JOB

NOT ALL OF US HAVE the ability to fill executive positions, but the demand for executives is never entirely filled. We are not capable of judging our own qualifications for such a job, others must do that for us. What it takes we can demonstrate by doing our best on each job we hold on the way to the top. Navy Bugler Blows

T--s for His Father

CFD BASE IN THE SOUTH PACIFIC .- There was a funeral for a serviceman on this island the other day, and the chap lain, Navy Lieut. B. B. Brown, wanted to be sure that the bugler knew when to blow "Taps." "Yes, said the young bugler. "I did it for my father the other day. He died here of pneumonia."

Wounded Marine Keeps on Firing J. T. Hemmingway Jr.

Makes Tourniquet All Alone And Sticks to Gun.

GUADALCANAL .- A little thing like a leg wound didn't bother Staff Sergt. Ward F. Keevert, USMC, Billings, Mont.

Three days after a piece of shrap-nel tore a hole in his left leg during the opening aerial assault on the Japs' Vila airdrome, Kolombangara Island, Sergeant Keevert, a radio gunner on a marine dive bomber, was limping around camp trying to talk his way back into action. He pleaded with the flight surgeon attached to the squadron. The doctor gave him a definite "no." And he let Sergeant Keevert know that there still was shrapnel in his leg; that he should be in bed instead of walking

Probably his greatest disappointment came four days after he was wounded when the squadron paid Vila airdrome another visit. Sergeant Keevert was denied permis-sion to go on the attack. He had hoped for another crack at the Japs.

The shrapnel tore through the plane and hit Sergeant Keevert as the ship went down in a dive on a gun position. He felt the sting of the metal, but he fired nearly 200 rounds of bullets at the Jap batterymen before he called to the pilot, Capt. Elmer P. Thompson Jr., USMC, Brownfield, Maine, that he had been wounded.

"I've been hit," was the only information Sergeant Keevert gave the pilot over the intercommunication system after they were away from the target. Sergeant Keevert jerked out the receiver cord, cut the leg of his flight suit with his hunting knife and fashioned a tourniquet.

Thinking his gunner was unconscious and gravely wounded after he could get no further information from him, Captain Thompson made an emergency landing at Munda.

As Captain Thompson jumped from the cockpit after landing and started to the sergeant's aid, Keevert leaned over the side, smiled, and said: "I'm O. K. Just need a little help getting out. They got me in the left leg.

Although he begged for another crack at the Japs at Vila, Sergeant Keevert was ordered to rest until fully recovered. Meantime, his squadron completed its third combat duty tour and Sergeant Keevert was denied another look at the Japs.

Clouts Holdup Man With

Sausage and Foils Theft CHICAGO.—One piece of sausage did more than help feed the hungry. William Rostek, a meat truck driver, used it as a bludgeon on a Joliet penitentiary parolee who climbed aboard his truck, snarling "Give me your money!" The sausage didn't flatten the pa-rolee, but it took so much fight out of him that he did not pull the trigger of a .45 caliber revolver in his hand. Rostek and a store clerk, Gus Ankerberg, who was helping to unload the meat truck, disarmed the gunman and held him until a police squad arrived. The parolee said he was Frank Harrison, 46 years old, originally of Pontiac, Mich. Harrison was released from prison a year ago after serving 10 years and 45 days for robbery. He told police that although he holds a degree of doctor of medicine all the work he could get was a $20 a week job in a garage. He said he needed more than that to rehabilitate himself.

Forsakes Its Wild Life OCEANA, W. VA .- Game Protector L. A. Anderson and his wife are the possessors of a three-legged deer, a fawn that apparently is so much attached to her human friends that it has corsaken wild life.

The deer was injured while being chased by dogs and was found with a leg broken. Anderson took it to veterinarian, who set the fracture. A few days later the animal, in its struggles, compounded the fracture and the leg was amputated with apparently no ill effects. Mrs. Anderson fed the fawn through convalescence, using a baby's bottle and nipple to give it cow's milk. Now it refuses to leave
