Among Our Pioneers:

(Series Written by Ben Moore, Sr.)

MRS. ERA FRITZ RECALLS:

In open range days there were in existence many odd cattle brands so in fact most of them were so created in order that they might not easily be changed by cattle rustlers. My father branded J Forked Lightning. I can to this day quickly and easily run this brand with pencil.

A good hog dog (hog catcher) was a most important adjunct to the life of the pioneer family. All hogs ran wild on the range and were self fattened on mast (acorn) and mesquite beans, etc. They were wild as any deer, and unless shot from ambush were usually ran down with specially trained dogs. It took a spunky dog to find and to a big range hog. Father had a very fine dog which he used in hog hunting with a half breed Indian from the mountain section south east of Sweetwater.

Women often asked ranchwomen to cook biscuits for them when passing thru, carrying them along with bacon placed in flour sacks and tied on behind their saddles. They invariably offered to pay for such services. Mother's reply was, "Please keep a lookout for our horses, as they often try to return to the San Saba country from where they came." A horse never forgets its old range and will certainly return if given an opportunity.

I was married to Johnnie Fritz in Sweetwater in 1888 and in 1889 we could no longer bear the crowded conditions there, so removed to the head of the Felice (Felix in English, south of the present site of Ruidoso, N M) where a ranch was established, both horses and cattle being raised. Our new home was hewn from the side of a high bluff.

Our little son Bert wasn't much larger than a grasshopper but he became a good rider in that wilder west. There were yet a great number of the wildest of wild mustangs on the ranges of New Mexico. Their whinnies, especially from stallions have a most fascinating effect upon tame horses which were sure to try to join them. It was next to impossible to again retrieve tame horses from such herds. But Bert became attached to a small mare, the two of them making a valuable pair in chasing horses. They could slip thru brush where larger objects had to go around.

A never to be forgotten sight was that of many Indians coming down Lincoln Canyon, all strung out in Indian style, single file, and enroute to Roswell, 80 miles to the east where they tanked up on liquor. At that time, Old Crookneck, an Apache, was chief. He had been shot in the neck while on the war path with Geronimo.

In 1901 we disposed of our building in New Mexico and came back to Gall where we ranched on a small scale for a number of years removing to O'Donnell in the spring of 1922 where my husband entered the drug business. Thus we view in retrospect the many exciting days which have passed all too soon. Most of them were happy days, indeed.

Joe Boy is a fixture about the Mrs. Maggie Tyler and Hervey Gadenhire homes. He was looked upon as a bulldog years ago, but now he's "just an old dog"; not a tooth to his name.

If Joe Boy were a human boy, he'd just now be wondering whether he's soon be sprouting a mustache, but with logs it is different. He is looking forward to his next birthday which will be next September 23rd.

If there's a disturbance about the residence at night, Joe Boy proceeds to stand on his hind legs and scratch on the door along with a lot of barking. If a stray cat tries to enter the yard, it is not allowed to do so. In fact, a number have met death at Joe's hands (teeth, in his younger days) But there used to be a family cat who occasionally came up with a batch of kittens. That was different with Joe Boy who bedded with them every night as long as they remained about the home. The mother cat only reach the age of 8 before Joe left her on the farm and moved into town.

Mason Smith and family of our City have recently moved to Lamesa where he has a position with a dry cleaning firm.

New Theatre Being Constructed

Thursday work was started on a new theatre building for O'Donnell on two lots just east of the Ben Moore building. The new theatre is owned by C C Caldwell of Lubbock, owner of the present Rex Theatre. The building will be 41 1-2 feet wide by 120 feet deep with an inclined floor running toward the rear. The structure will have a success front, a modern marquee. No name has been selected for the new theatre, but it probably will be named The Lynn. The building is expected to be completed by September and the overall investment is expected to be $75,000. The interior will be of a special sound plaster designed for theatres and there will also be a crying room, modern rest rooms and a balcony for the colored patrons. Waller and Allen of Lamesa are the contractors.

Mr Caldwell opened the Rex Theatre here in 1933 and now has several theatres in this vicinity and in New Mexico. Hervey Gadenhire is the local general manager.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

Issue Is Joined on Labor Measure; Senate Group Okays Atlantic Pact; Unemployment Increasing in Nation

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysis and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

LABOR BILL: Issue Is Joined

The long-awaited fight on repeal of the Taft-Hartley labor law had begun. Debate had started in the senate with Chairman Elbert D. Thomas (D., Utah) of the labor committee opening for the administration. Government forces were committed to an attempt for outright repeal of the measure, but all indications pointed to a compromise or nothing.

Meanwhile, John L. Lewis declared that the AFL and CIO had betrayed organized labor's cause by reportedly agreeing to a compromise.

Urging adoption of the administration bill, Thomas said the voters last November "decided the Taft-Hartley law was a mistake." The administration seeks to replace it with a modified version of the New Deal Wagner act. Thomas called for quick repeal of the Taft-Hartley law.

In telegrams to all 96 senators, Lewis, head of the United Mine Workers union, said he had heard AFL and CIO leaders had agreed to accept four "oppressive amendments" to the administration bill.

An AFL official pooh-poohed Lewis' charges of a secret deal. As a matter of fact, he said, the AFL convention in Cleveland recently agreed to accept the four amendments that "horrified" Lewis.

These four amendments called for:

1. Power for the federal government to seize plants involved in national-emergency strikes.
2. The filing of financial returns by unions.
3. The filing of non-Communist and non-Fascist affidavits by workers and employers alike.
4. A guarantee of free speech in labor relations.

ARTICLE 5:

What Import?

The senate foreign relations committee, in reporting favorably the North Atlantic pact, had almost bogged down on Article 5. That is the proviso in the pact which binds signatories to the rule that an attack on one pact member would be an attack upon all, and binds each to take such action as is deemed necessary, "including the use of armed forces" to restore and maintain the security of the area.

THE WORDING of Article 5 created in some minds a fear that its effect would nullify the right of congress to declare war and might put this power arbitrarily into the hands of the President.

Senator George (D., Ga.) who had expressed concern about the interpretation of Article 5, finally said that he was satisfied that under it the President could not declare war nor "employ troops to enforce any particular action aimed at certain European countries without congressional approval."

Senator Pepper (D., Fla.) took the same tack. He said the provision neither adds to nor subtracts from the war powers of the President as commander-in-chief.

EVEN SO, it was a difficult point. The extent to which a President might go toward involvement in war was dramatically disclosed in the Roosevelt administration when the commander-in-chief admittedly committed the nation to "everything short of war" in what was purported to be an attempt to avoid war. Under such a policy actions may go so far as the chief executive level that there would be nothing left for the congress to do but declare war in a situation in which it had no authority and no voice.

NEW WEAPON:

What is being produced at the plutonium plant at Hanford, Washington?

NO one would say, but Carleton Shugg, deputy general manager of the atomic energy commission, said the plant was handling a "product that needs a better name than 'deadly poison.'"

Was it the weird "atomic fog" about which there had been so much speculation? Shugg wouldn't say. He said, instead, that he was merely discussing certain phases in the production of plutonium—one of two fissionable materials used in making atom bombs. The other is uranium-235.

SHUGG'S statement was made during his testimony before a senate appropriations subcommittee during the congressional investigation of the atomic program.

AMA GAGS FISHBEIN

The red-hot issue between the American Medical association and the administration over the President's proposed compulsory health plan was coming to a boil. The AMA, obviously wishing to retain its own identity in matters of policy statements, clapped a gag on Dr. Morris Fishbein, one of medicine's most famous figures. The board ordered him to stop writing or speaking on anything except medicine.

That meant he could not talk publicly on state medicine nor on the political issues boiling up in the AMA's campaign against the Truman national health insurance plan. Dr. Fishbein is editor of the Journal of the American Medical association. He held no official position beyond that.

Barred

Steve Trumbull, Miami Herald reporter, was barred from the Florida state senate chamber after he questioned the manner in which a bill was brought before the senate. It was reported his cheekbone was fractured when he was struck by a senator.

UNEMPLOYMENT:

Sudden Increase

Whatever its significance, many economists were expressing concern over a sudden upswing in the number of unemployed in the nation.

BETWEEN April and May, the number of U.S. jobless had increased by 273,000 to bring the totally unemployed to a probable postwar high of more than 3.25 million. These figures were released by the federal bureau of the census.

The rise in the unemployment figure at a time when it usually drops might be attributed, the bureau said, to the sudden rush of students for summer or permanent jobs. The bureau did say that two-thirds of the increase in unemployment could be traced to "young persons of high school and college age."

AT the same time, the bureau reported, total unemployment was rising, principally as a result of seasonal activity on farms.

Despite the conflicting reports, there were some among the country's industrial and economic leaders who feared the unemployment situation might grow worse before getting any better.

SOVIETS:

Appraise Guests

In Moscow the Literary Gazette sought to evaluate for its readers the Russian appraisal of foreign diplomats and newspapermen who live in the Soviet Union.

THE Gazette printed a poem written by Sergei Mikhalkov, children's poet, playwright and co-author of the Soviet national anthem.

Translated freely, Sergei's poem went this way:

"We met them, you and I.
"These friends who aren't friends.
"The jackal, wolf and swine,
"And journalistic snake.
"In other words, those who are being sent here.

"We know them all and can recognize them.
"Even if we aren't doctors."
NATURALLY, there will be no comment from the pilloried—not while they're still in Russia.

HEART STUDY:

Artificially Used

Emphasis in heart study now rests in the development of artificial hearts. Dr. Alfred Blalock of Baltimore, widely-known blue-baby specialist, was the authority for the statement.

SPEAKING at a general scientific session of the American Medical association, Blalock said: "The most interesting thing in surgery, but still in the experimental stage, is the development of mechanical devices as substitutes for the heart."

He reported that he considered as most promising a pump developed by Dr. John Gibbon at the Jefferson school of Philadelphia.

"Dr. Gibbon's pump will pump blood as the heart does," Dr. Blalock explained. "He is working on an artificial lung to aerate the blood."

BLALOCK said Dr. Gibbon's pump replaced the heart of a dog for 48 minutes and the dog recovered.

"If one can substitute for the heart for 30 to 45 minutes, one can open it and see what one is working at," he said. "With a heart substitute we can do more things inside the heart."

Famed Doctor-Editor's Authority Clipped

The red-hot issue between the American Medical association and the administration over the President's proposed compulsory health plan was coming to a boil. The AMA, obviously wishing to retain its own identity in matters of policy statements, clapped a gag on Dr. Morris Fishbein, one of medicine's most famous figures. The board ordered him to stop writing or speaking on anything except medicine.

PSYCHOLOGY THAT BLAMES BAD DRIVING . . .

Twitchell Scores 'Accident-Prone' Theory

. . . ON CHILDHOOD BEHAVIOR IS DEBUNKED

By H. I. PHILLIPS

ON ROAD MENACES

A speaker at a convention of psychiatrists declares that accident-prone auto drivers are people who, at the wheel of a car, behave just as they have behaved from childhood. It is the folks who have been inconsiderate, intolerant of authority and generally anti-social from infancy who drive carelessly, he says. "If a man's personal life is marked by caution and consideration, his driving will be marked by it. If his life is marked by contrary characteristics his driving will be so marked," the speaker insisted.

Elmer Twitchell, the eminent student of human behavior, disagrees. And hotly. "The delicatessen dealers have a name for it," he said today. "Any theory that autoists behave the way they do because they threw their rattle at the nurse in infancy, resented the schoolteacher's authority and robbed birds' nests is the bunk. The plain inescapable fact is that the minute a human being finds himself at the wheel of an auto he becomes a different personality."

"A fellow who takes off his hat in elevators, helps old ladies across streets and writes books on politeness will chase his fellow man up an alley, yell at school children and cuss out pedestrians for getting in his way, once he is in a flivver. The kindest gentleman in the community, known for his warm smile, takes on the instincts of a gorilla the minute he finds himself tooling the sedan down Main street."

"I will lay you 50 to 1 that the psychiatrist who made that speech at the convention is a refined, well-bred gent whose heart bleeds for his fellowmen when afoot, but who leans at red lights, barks at fellow creatures and snaps at policemen when hurrying through town in the old boiler."

"It's one of the mysteries of life and it has nothing to do with childhood, generally speaking. I can stand on any street in America and point out college professors, lawyers, school principals, gardenia growers, lecturers on good manners and men of Chesterfieldian backgrounds roaring by and snarling at slow-gaited pedestrians with the ferocity displayed by gangsters, fugitives from chain gangs and all around heels."

"I'm no exception, more's the pity. On my feet I am sweet as they come. I am a model of good behavior in any company. I open doors for ladies, show the aged every consideration and try to be gracious on a broad scale. But it's a quick switch from Dr. Jekyll to Mr. Hyde when I take the wheel of the old jalopy. And so do you, and you and you! There's something about an automobile that changes human character. "Early childhood tendencies my eye!"

Here are some interesting case histories on "accident-prone" drivers, offered as subjects for psychiatric study:

CASE 1.—Jephtha Finchbutt, 32, truck driver. Mr. Finchbutt habitually drives a 15-ton trailer recklessly, ignoring all speed signs, takes turns at 60 per hour and has never been known to heed a stop light. Report: As a baby Jephtha was allowed to pound on highchair with bottle; mother had nine children and was too busy to restrain his early instinct to spear live goldfish with fork; early schooling was under teachers who failed to send all other pupils home and just concentrate on Jephtha.

CASE 2.—Geoffrey Tuffit, 46, oil truck operator and chronic wrecker through dense traffic. Geoffrey has a batting average of one bad accident per month, but always seems to get out of it through indifference of authorities. He particularly loves coasting downhill through school zones. Report: His inclinations are all due to a selfish mother who used to wheel Geoffrey around in a baby carriage unequipped with brakes and horn. The father never read Emily Post.

CASE 3.—Twiggsby Cropper, 19, college freshman. Twiggsby feels unnecessarily curbed if asked to do less than 55 per hour in city centers and 70 in suburbs, loves to drive "no-hands" across city playgrounds. Report: From age of six months to year and a half he was allowed to scream at nurse; from age of 3 to 5 instinct to pour hot porridge on the cat uncurbed. Father bought him a velocipede too early and failed to read him the laws on rules of road each night before putting him to bed.

CASE 4.—Mrs. Arabella Priggstone, 29. This woman backs up without signals, makes U-turns on impulses, never bothers to have brakes tightened and frequently forgets to put on lights at night.

PROMISES

THE year will keep its promises to me:
Unfailingly the days will come and go;
Rivers will take their sure course to the sea;
Seedtime and harvest, these will come, I know.
The stars will go their quiet silver way;
There will be sun and rain and wind and dew;
There will be Breathless beauty in each day;
There will be old loved tasks for me to do.

And I have made my promise to the year
(God help me keep it through the hours ahead):
I shall be braver, I shall banish fear;
I shall not leave a kindly word unsaid;
I shall have faith that this, my ancient grief,
Will yield at last to laughter and to song;
I shall have hope that there will be relief
For the old hurts the world has borne so long.

The year will keep its promise. O my heart,
We must not, dare not fail to do our part.

SHIRLEY TEMPLE'S ability as a mimic did a lot toward making her a child star, and she is still using it as a help in learning the various dialects she's had to master. She has a southern drawl and a Scandinavian accent down pat, but had a bit of trouble with the Irish brogue needed for Warners' "Always Sweethearts."

SHIRLEY TEMPLE

More than once she has confused her mother-in-law by using one of the three when answering the phone; even her own mother can't tell sometimes whether a new southern maid, a Scandinavian one or an Irish colleen is on the other end of the wire when she calls her daughter.

John Dall and the King brothers are discussing rights to Jonathan Latimer's novels featuring detective Bill Crane. They would allow Dall to continue his screen life of crime, but on the side of law and order.

The picnic staged recently by the American Federation of Radio Artists was quite a shindig; raised $3,000 for its relief fund. Lum and Abner ran the bingo tables and organized square dances. Frank Nelson, of "Blondie," auctioned off supporting roles on such shows as "Sam Spade" and "Philip Marlowe" to ambitious newcomers who bid high for them.

Jane Wyman reports from London that she had her first comfortable voyage; usually gets seasick even when canoeing on a smooth lake. This time, on her way to star in "Stage Fright" for Alfred Hitchcock, she had some new anti-seasickness pills, developed by Canada's medical corps—evidently they were effective in her case at least.

The Fiction Corner

3-Minute Fiction

"YOU CAN'T FOOL an old fox like Terry Oakes," Anse Aetell was saying. "Not even if you're the smartest bank robber and gangster in the country." He chuckled, reflecting on the story he was about to tell.

"Glenville was pretty well wrought up that summer. In June government agents came through, warning all the small town banks in the countryside to be on the lookout, and advising what to do. Duke Insabato and a couple of his henchmen, driven from their haunts in the large cities by a concentrated effort of local and federal agents who were dead set on bringing an end to the current wave of crime, were hiding out in the sticks and whiling the time away by staging spectacular daylight hold-ups of small town banks.

"The trouble was that no one knew where the varmints would strike next. Duke Insabato was smart. He understood small towns because he was brought up in one and, he chose as the object of his pilfering banks that were pretty well isolated and unprotected.

"June passed and part of July. Gradually the fear of Glenville citizens began to subside. Only one other small town bank had been held up, and that more than 150 miles away. The depositors who had withdrawn their accounts re-established them.

"Terry Oakes, the trust company president, didn't gloat. He was an old-timer at the game and he understood human nature. Early in June he'd had some signs printed and hung around the lobby of the bank. Such things as 'Save for Your Old Age,' 'Deposit with Us and Your Money Will Be Safe.' The citizens smiled a little. Terry was trying to reassure them. One other sign was printed and inserted behind the glass in the front door. This too, amused them, but it didn't annoy them any.

"On July 15 the quietude of Glenville's main street was abruptly and harshly interrupted. A high-powered black sedan suddenly appeared at the town's south entrance, roared down on the bank and came to an abrupt halt. Loungers in front of the General Store jerked erect. Three men had leaped from the car. Two of them, one carrying a machine gun, ran toward the bank. The third stayed on the curb, a second machine gun nestling in his arm.

"The loungers, pop-eyed and frightened, watched in stupid fascination. To their utter astonishment they saw the two handits turn at the bank door without entering, rush back to the car, pile into it and drive away.

"T ALL happened within seconds. For a moment or two the loungers sat transfixed. Then of one accord they leaped up, raced across the street, and entered the bank. Terry Oakes was talking on the telephone. He hung up and smiled at them.

"Two to one," he said calmly. 'Sheriff Irons picks up Duke and his gang at Jepson Corners. I just phoned him.' He looked from one pop-eyed citizen to another. 'No harm done, boys. They didn't even get in.'

"But why didn't they? What happened?"

"Terry grinned broadly. 'Duke Insabato knows small towns. He was a small-town boy himself. That's why he picked this hour to do his hold-upping. Right after lunch.'

"That's where I fooled him.' Terry paused to chuckle and glance toward the front door. 'It's lucky Duke knows small towns. Otherwise he might not have taken any stock in my sign.'

"The bewildered citizens turned toward it and read. They were a little dazed, and not quick to understand. "The sign read: 'Bank Closed. Out to Lunch. Return in One Hour.'

DECISION AGAINST FREE SPEECH CURBS . . .

Twitchell Takes Supreme Court to Task

. . . GIVES ELMER REASON TO GRIPE

By H. I. PHILLIPS

TWITCHELL VS. DOUGLAS

"About the only fellow who can get into trouble easily today in America is the one who believes in law and order, pauses for second wind now and then and believes there are limits to breach of the peace," declares Elmer Twitchell. He had been going over the recent supreme court decision by a 5 to 4 vote against curbs on hatred, violence and rabble rousing tactics even when they bring on riots.

"It's the voice-thrasher yelling for mob rule who gets an Oscar, a pat on the back, the green light and the embossed permit," added Elmer.

"It was another one of those photo finishes due to a strong stretch run by Justice Douglas," declares Elmer. "Bill, speaking for the majority opinion, said the authorities have no right to curb speeches no matter how violent or full of hatred. He says that if America is to be vital it has got to have the rabble rousers shoot the works. In other words, we have got to preserve our vitality even if we use our last ounce of strength.

"We are leaning over backwards so far for free speech that those who stop at nothing to scuttle our freedoms are getting the right of way at all times. The demagogue, the earsplitter, the gasbag and the microphone bellyacher are getting a pat on the back, a license to operate with the throttle wide open and a kiss from the high courts. You would think they are the backbone of the country and that the enemy was the quiet, thoughtful, tolerant little guy who always kept his voice down, respected the police and wanted no tear bombs tossed at anybody.

"The five justices held that no speeches should be censored until it was clearly shown that they might cause trouble 'far above the public inconvenience, annoyance or unrest.'"

And since the case in question was one which involved street riots, rock hurling, personal assaults and stench bombs, it would seem that these jurists classified such violence as merely an inconvenience and an annoyance.

"The other four justices took the view that it is more than an inconvenience and a nuisance to find yourself flat on your puss with the mob tramping over your prostrate body. Justice Jackson pulled the rug from under the five justices by saying that if the highest court doesn't temper its doctrinaire baloney with a little horse sense it will convert the bill of rights into a national suicide pact. He added that the majority opinion kicked the police in the teeth and fulfilled the most extravagant hopes of those groups which want to paralyze and discredit authority. He spoke my language. I don't like the idea of rabble rousing being played deuces wild, with all rules of fair play suspended and hatefulness the biggest pipe in the organ," Elmer concluded.

FORMULA FOR SUCCESS

Watch your belt
And never bet
'Gainst a Roos-e-velt!

The lawyer for Judith Conlon, after hearing an FBI man tell of seeing Judith and her Russian friend meet at Third avenue and 15th street, New York, asked, "Wasn't this a quiet place lovers might select to whisper sweet nothings?"

Next to the middle of the street at Broadway and 42nd, it's one of the most romantic spots in New York, counsellor.

The $20,000 bail put up for Gerhart Eisler has been forfeited. It was put up by friends of the alleged No. 1 Communist agent in America in good faith for his appearance, but to Mr. Eisler it is unimportant, as all money is capitalistic and all bail systems decadent.

These Brave Ones

MARK the men and women every day
Who pass my door, or whom I hourly meet.
And there are few who, journeying on the way,
Fail to do their best. Although their feet
May falter with the burdens that they bear,
There are so few who break beneath despair.

They face their days with confidence and cheer,
Grateful for work, if there be work to do,
And if that work be lost they fight their fear
With courage, and with hope which they renew
At the clear source from which all comfort springs:
God's promises, and the old rememberings

That hitherto the Lord has blessed, and now
Surely there will be found a way again
To usefulness and service, that somehow
The paths will clear among the ways of men,
And the crooked places once more will be straight.
God, keep these brave ones as they hope and wait.

DAN SEYMOUR has shared a microphone with such headliners as Bing Crosby, Bob Hope, Andre Kostelanetz and Lily Pons. After 14 years on the air as a master of ceremonies he says "The bigger they are, the nicer they are. Maybe it's because they are so well established they don't have to 'pound' every line and grab

A WEEK after I established residence in Seabrook, Ray Quimper, my next door neighbor took time off to drive me around the town and show me the points of interest. Toward evening he stopped his car before a driveway that led up to a huge brick house on top of Drybridge Hill. It was the only brick building in town and could be seen for miles around. I had wondered about it since the day of my arrival.

"The home of Prince Alexander Moisevich Deborin," he explained. I looked at him curiously, sensing that this was a proud moment for Ray. He had saved the brick house until last, like a child relishing the last morsel.

"Of course," Ray explained further "he has a city home too. But the fact is he spends the greater part of his time out here. He craves solitude."

"Are you sure? I mean, wouldn't it be fitting to let the man know you're glad to have him as a citizen?"

"We've tended to that," Ray said importantly. "Three days after his arrival a committee made up of leading citizens waited on the prince and extended him a formal welcome." He regarded me sagely. "We're smart enough not to antagonize the man by pestering him to death."

On the day of which I write I was removing the storm windows from my house, for spring was near and the day was bright and warm. The prince came strolling along my street and stopped, oddly enough, at the end of my drive to watch. I perceived him from the corner of my eye, though gave no indication that I had seen. After a moment or two, much to my satisfaction, he turned in at the drive and came slowly toward me. At this precise moment the stepladder on which I was standing tilted precariously and the window I was removing threatened to tumble to the ground.

I uttered a cry of alarm, turned, perceived the prince as if for the first time, and shouted to him for aid. Involuntarily, he leaped forward and steadied the ladder until I had descended. "Phew!" I grinned. "That was a close call."

"It was indeed," he replied. "Would you mind holding the ladder for me on this window over here?" He seemed a little surprised, but agreed to lend his assistance. He proved as good a helper as I could have asked for. Three windows I removed while he steadied the ladder and helped me lower them to the ground. We chatted amiably about the weather.

DAN SEYMOUR every minute of their air time." As emcee of the Tuesday night "We, the People" and the Saturday night "Sing It Again," he has established a reputation for expert handling of a variety of ad-lib-demanding situations. That ability to think and talk fast requires real talent, and he has it.

MacDonald Carey is in the market for a good comedy. Currently playing a villain for the third time in succession in "Copper Canyon," after doing the same in "Streets of Laredo" and "Bride of Vengeance," he'd like a change.

Gloria Swanson, starring in Paramount's "Sunset Boulevard" after a long absence from the screen, turned down a contract for $18,000 a week in 1926 to organize her own company; hence, that long absence from pictures. She'll never make a bigger mistake. But she has not lost her looks or her figure—even looked wonderful on television!

Robert Sterling feels better now that the feud between him and Sunbeam is over. It began with the start of "Roughshod"; the horse realized that this was Sterling's first riding assignment—nipped Sterling whenever he turned his back, tried to throw him at unexpected moments. Sterling figured even a horse had his price, won Sunbeam with plenty of sugar.

PRESENTLY the task was done and I turned to him, grinning. "Thanks a lot. I don't know how I would have managed without you."

"Really?" He seemed to appreciate my compliment. "Frankly, I've enjoyed it, not only the work, but our little visit." He hesitated. "You are new in town, aren't you?"

"Comparatively," I said. "It's a mighty nice town. Folks are all like yourself. Ready and willing to lend a hand when help is needed."

I smiled happily. "The fact that I know your name, Prince Alexander, proves a little theory of my own."

He stared in astonishment. "You know who I am? You knew when you asked me to help remove the windows?"

I nodded. "Your philosophy and mine have a good deal in common. Prince. And that is, that you're no different from the rest of us. I'd even venture to say that you are quite unhappy living up there in your castle so far removed from everybody. To prove that I am right, I'm going to ask you a question. How would you like to come along?"

"I'd like to very much," he said. "But we must keep it a secret from the rest of the people. It would be a pity to destroy their illusion."

I agreed, winking at him knowingly, and the prince and I then and there shared a hearty laugh.

Mr. Smith was a stubborn individual. He would never wear rubbers when it rained nor put on an extra sweater if the nights were chilly. Mrs. Smith was peeved at his obstinacy.

"You never take any good advice," she complained in a nagging fashion.

"Darn good thing for you I don't," he retorted, "or you would still be an old maid."

A man who had just bought a dog phoned his neighbor one evening.

"I think my dog has distemper," he said. "I understand your dog had the same ailment the other week. What did you give it?"

"I gave it turpentine."

"I see. Well, I'll try it."

The following day the first man again called his neighbor.

"Say, my dog died after I gave it some turpentine."

"Uh-huh. So did mine."

"Down with dictators — and little housing czars, too."

Sylvester wants to leave the room when his friends propose public housing.

He knows official reports show it costs $7. more a month to keep a family in a public housing unit than it costs to rent an average privately owned apartment or house in this country for that same family.

Why not, says Sylvester, you can't add the payrolls for 17,000 government housing agency employees to construction costs and get a cheaper house.

Buying U. S. Savings Bonds is the best way I know to stop worrying about money. And if you persist in worrying, after starting to pile up money the sure, automatic way, the only worry you'll have is how best to spend it when you start cashing in after ten years. Your government offers two great plans, both of them automatic and both profitable. They are the Payroll Savings Plan where you work, or, if self-employed, the Bond-a-Month Plan at your bank. ### Poultry Flock Care Calls for Sanitation

Good care of the poultry flock calls for sanitation, declares John Weeks, of the Auburn polytechnic institute extension service poultry division. He says it is the best way to prevent poultry diseases.

Another important thing to remember, he points out, is that the amount of heat required depends upon kind of house, kind of brooder, and age of chicks. Chicks should be kept comfortable.

Untold damage is done each year to cucumber, cantaloupe and watermelon fields by mice destroying the seed which are planted and also the plants which are up and bearing fruit. H. A. Paralysis

On March 14, at the direction of one man, our nation's coal production was choked off. More than 400,000 coal miners were asked to leave their jobs for two weeks to be followed by 67,000 railway employees whose jobs depended upon transporting coal.

The cause for this paralysis to a large section of our economy was not any grievance about working conditions, pay, pensions, or vacations. It appears, however, to result from personal dislike of one man for another. In response to the President's appointment of Dr. James Boyd as director of the U.S. Bureau of Mines, John L. Lewis ordered his United Mine Workers on a two-weeks layoff.

Excessive Power?
Within his field, John L. Lewis possesses the nearest approach to dictatorial powers of anyone to appear on the American scene. He has defied Presidents and Congresses, crippled production in the face of economic crises, and flouted the war effort by strikes in wartime. By directly controlling the output of a basic industry, he holds power to strangle our entire economy with a prolonged strike.

With this "spite" strike Lewis has encroached upon two basic fundamentals of our democratic progress: (1) The right of government to make appointments free of pressure, and (2) Freedom of work.

Warning Sign
This action presents a real danger signal to the American public. It shows what can happen when irresponsible leadership of a great body of influence—American labor—goes on a rampage. The implications are alarming. If any one individual were powerful enough to dictate governmental appointments with threats of strikes, a new era of demagogues would indeed be at hand. Such power would be potentially disastrous. The weapon of indiscriminate strikes is one which labor leaders alone control. Neither government nor management possesses such a power. The rank and file of labor, too, because of their organization, are subject to the orders of those leaders. Many labor leaders recognize this situation and act in a far-sighted manner. However, the selfish actions of any one leader casts unfavorable reflections on the whole movement.

National Responsibility
No more loyal group of American citizens exists than the miners themselves. It is sad irony these people should suffer the brunt of the strike. According to the Associated Press, they will lose about $68 million in wages during the two week layoff. This means $68 million in food, clothing, and other essentials must be forfeited to the whims of one leader who was elected by workers to safeguard their interests.

This points up sharply the need for adequate labor legislation. Without violating the rights of labor, we must draw clearly the line where those rights end and national responsibility begins. The average worker has everything to gain in such legislation. Labor must be accorded complete protection from irresponsibility—found within its own leadership, or elsewhere.

AROUND THE HOUSE

If woolen socks get sopping while on a camping trip, fill the toes with small pebbles before hanging them up to dry; this helps keep them from shrinking.

Dip a cloth in household ammonia and place over the rusted spot in the boiler of your range; close the range door for a few minutes and chances are you will be able to wash spot off easily.

Fasten that left-over piece of linoleum to the floor of the trunk of your car; wax it liberally, and see how easily grips and trunks slide in and out.

To avoid stirring up dust when sweeping a rug, sprinkle rug with bits of dampened newspapers; papers will absorb the dust preventing it from flying around the room.

The quickest way to determine if a plant needs water is by touching the soil surface—if it is moist, water the plant.

Most of Nation's Farms Now Boast Electric Power

Rural America moved further and faster into the electric power age during 1948 than in any previous year, according to the 1949 Britannica Book of the Year.

"Nearly three-fourths of the farms of the U. S. had been electrified, and in an increasing number of instances the power was used as a means of agricultural production as well as for better rural living," the book declares.

Soil conservation measures also proceeded apace during fiscal 1948. Soil conservation measures and land-use adjustments were completed under official auspices on more than 21,500,000 acres of farm and range land in soil conservation districts, an increase of 7 per cent as compared with the previous year.

Insure Success With This Vegetable Canning Guide (See Directions Below)

Vegetable Canning

GETTING VEGETABLES into the diet during the summer when the garden is literally bursting with them is no problem at all. It's much more difficult during the winter to meet the quota of two vegetables a day, unless you've made proper provision for them.

That's the best reason for canning at least a good store of them when they're available in your own garden or those of others for they may be purchased inexpensively.

Canning vegetables is one of the best ways of feeding the family economically as well as satisfying them with valuable nutrients. Chart your course now, and then sail through the season, full speed ahead.

Clear the Kitchen For Canning Time
WOMEN who do their canning expertly organize their work on an efficiency basis such as is used in a factory. They actually prepare for the job before they start working on it.

Getting ready for vegetable canning means re-organizing the kitchen. Clear out table and shelf space that you need for jars and equipment.

Make certain you have all equipment clean and in working order before you get the vegetables into the house.

What equipment? You'll probably need sharpened paring knives for preparing the produce. Kitchen scissors that are not rusted will help in preparing some types of vegetables like green beans.

Have your canning spoons, ladles or dippers all ready in place where they're going to be used, next to the range.

Select Quality For Canning
Have you ever wondered why the corn you canned is dry instead of juicy, or peas are pulpy instead of moist and sweet? The fault may lie in the kind you chose for canning.

Only the highest quality produce should find its way to the can since canning cannot improve quality. It merely preserves it.

Vegetables selected for canning are usually best when just slightly under-ripe or immature. Peas, for example should be sweet and tender; corn should spurt juice when pressed with a fingernail.

Garbled, bruised, wrinkled or otherwise imperfect vegetables are not fit to be canned. You cannot expect them to have good flavor and color.

Perfect vegetables rushed from the garden to the can in a minimum amount of time will give the most satisfactory results.

CLEANING the vegetables is the step after bringing them into the kitchen. This should be done before the skin is broken, or some of the valuable juices may escape.

Dirt is not only objectionable in itself, but it may frequently contain certain organisms which hold spoilage. Wash the vegetables under running water, or place them in a large vessel of water and lift them out gently onto a colander. Do not pour dirty water off the vegetables, as dirt may remain in the pan and then mix with the vegetable.

IN THE CHART given above, pre-cooking is recommended for the green vegetables such as peas, green beans and similar vegetables. This means immersing in boiling water for the designated amount of time to shrink or wilt them in order to pack them easily and compactly.

Pressure Cooker Is Recommended
TO PROCESS VEGETABLES properly, a pressure cooker is an invaluable aid. For vegetables, have the gauge read 10 pounds before you start counting processing time.

The pressure should not be allowed to fluctuate since this may drain liquid from the jar and give a poor looking jar. It will also overcook the vegetables, or undercook them, as the case may be.

Vegetables are a non-acid food, and this means they require a high temperature to kill the bacteria which lurk in them. This is why pressure cooker processing is recommended for them. Fruits, which are acid, need much less processing time, and much lower temperature in which to have the bacteria killed.

Always follow the directions for your particular type of pressure cooker. One thing is generally true of all types, and that is to leave the petcock open for at least seven minutes during which time steam escapes from the cooker. Unless this is followed closely, the pressure may not be accurate, for all air must be exhausted before allowing the cooker to come to pressure.

Another safe rule to follow is to allow the vegetables to boil 10 minutes in an open vessel before tasting or eating after they are taken from the can.

After filling the jar with vegetables and water, you may find some air bubbles anchored against the sides of the jar. Remove these by running a spatula between the glass and the vegetable.

Jars which have been sealed with a self-sealing lid, should not be tested for sound until 24 hours after processing. It will take this length of time to cool the contents of the jar.

He Lives On

Lesson for June 26, 1949

WHAT IS JESUS, after all? A name in a book? A picture on the walls of churches? More than that! A historical character? Founder of a great religion? More than that! He is the one and only Person who can be everywhere. He would be important if he had only lived; he is far more so because he lives on. But where does he live, and how?

Christians would often feel lonely and discouraged, if it were not for one thing. They know Jesus prays for them. In long-ago times the High Priest of Israel used to pass beyond his people's sight into the silent Holy of Holies, and when he did, the people knew that in that sacred place he was bearing on his heart the whole people, the people whom he served. So the writer to the Hebrews, in the New Testament, pictures Jesus as the perfect High Priest, who has passed beyond our sight, beyond the beautiful blue veil of heaven, into the very presence of God, where he lives, now to intercede for his people who are ever on his heart.

Jesus lives on today in the life of prayer which we believe is still his. No matter what comes to the Christian, he can remember that One is praying for him who is stronger than all the world of evil.

"Greater is he that is for us than he that is against us," said John the Apostle.

In His Book
LUKE tells us that Jesus had to show some of his friends his own picture in the Old Testament. His portrait is not very plain there, but in the New Testament it is very plain indeed. The Bible leads us to Christ, he is its crowning figure. The Bible is, so to speak, a frame for his picture. Many a person, in remote regions of the world, has become Christian just by reading about Christ in some stray copy of the New Testament. The reader begins by reading about Jesus—then the pages come alive, and he meets Jesus, face to face. Jesus lives on, wherever the Bible goes.

In His People
CHURCHES may argue among themselves about what Jesus meant by this or that. But there cannot be any argument about one thing. When Jesus left his friends behind, he gave them orders to go tell the world about him. "Make disciples of all nations... Ye shall be my witnesses." A shut-mouthed Christian isn't much of a Christian. A shut-mouthed church is a poor sort of church. (Is it really a church at all?) We do not believe that Jesus expected his followers all to become preachers.

Indeed, we should remember that all the first Christians were laymen. But they got results. One hundred twenty people grew to be three thousand, five thousand, in a few weeks.

What is the reason that 120 Christians today don't win 3,000 converts? One reason is that you would probably find those 120 Christians complaining that their church is "vacant," they don't have a pastor. The early Christians might have thought that very funny. How can a church be vacant with 120 people in it? Christ lives in his church.

Into All the World
CHRISTIANITY is the only religion that can stand transplanting into any climate. There is no other religion that can number its people from the Arctic to the equator, and from east to west around the world. But this is not an accident. It would not have happened by itself. Jesus himself in Galilee walked wherever he went, and in all his grown-up life he did not walk farther from his birthplace than you could drive in an afternoon.

But he walks on every shore. Where ship and camel and plane carry the missionary, there goes Christ; where the airways carry his message, there is he. Wherever Christians go, Christ goes in them and with them.

He lives everywhere today where Christians live, he walks on Christians' feet. Beside the four Gospels in print, there is the Gospel According to You. Does Jesus live in and through you?

U.S. Agriculture Makes Fabulous Record in 1948

For United States agriculture, 1948 will go down in history as a fabulous year, according to the 1949 Britannica Book of the Year.

"It was a year without a crop scare, with numerous record and near record yields achieved; the corn crop was more than 10 per cent above the previous record and fully 50 per cent above the previous year; the wheat crop was the second largest on record and the fifth consecutive crop of more than a billion bushels, one of the five largest wheat crops the country had ever produced; the cotton crop was one-fourth larger than in the previous year."

Prices, too, reached a record level in January, 1948, though they then broke sharply and continued to decline as 1948 crops were harvested, the new Britannica year-book records.

"In spite of the break in prices, the volume of agricultural marketing was such as to provide a gross income to farmers of almost 35 billion dollars slightly exceeding the 1947 record," the publication continues. "However, because of higher costs of production the realized net income had been declining since 1947."

Your Pontiac deserves PONTIAC SERVICE

SIGN OF THE EXPERT WHEREVER YOU GO!

It's always a wonderful feeling to get into your Pontiac and go places!

We know that you—like thousands and thousands of other Pontiac owners will be driving a lot of miles this summer, and we feel sure they will be enjoyable, comfortable, economical miles you will be happy to remember for a long time.

One of the things which adds greatly to the peace of mind that goes with Pontiac ownership is the fact that you are never more than a few minutes or a few miles from expert

Pontiac service—the kind of service your Pontiac deserves.

The two service signs you see here identify more than 4,000 Pontiac dealers across the country—all pledged, as we are—to give you the finest service, by factory-trained experts using factory-engineered parts and special equipment.

Before you start your summer travels, bring your Pontiac in for a check-up. And if you ever need service on the road, look for the sign of the Pontiac expert—it pays!

Mom's a wonder with her new waffle iron

Yes, crisp, golden waffles offer real eating pleasure for all the family, whether it's a Sunday night snack or "something special for breakfast." And they're so easy to prepare when you use a modern electric waffle iron. It's fast, practically foolproof, and easy to keep clean.

Visit your favorite store which sells Electric Appliances and see the many models of ELECTRIC WAFFLE IRONS now available.

Oh, Boy...
WAFFLES!

Your Electric waffle does so much more than you think.
