Robinson Softball Play Starts Tonight

Robinson play of the softball team will start here tonight and will continue until a winner is declared. The girls' teams on Tuesday, Thursday nights, and boys' teams on Mondays, Wednesday and Friday nights.

Meeting Set Saturday

By JACK WELCH
A meeting of the O'Donnell Security Administration in the District Court room Saturday afternoon, July 19, for the purpose of organizing a cooperative Marketing Association is being formed to help families in buying and selling.

Pool Transfers To Be Made

Lenore M. Tunnell, county superintendent, calls attention to the fact that all transfers of children must be made by the end of this month. All children who are attending school in another district should be transferred. This includes children who have finished their school in the district in which they live and expect to attend high school or grade school in another district.

Bowlin Returns

J. P. Bowlin and James Reardon will occupy their home on Fifth Street which has been occupied by the Williams family.

Return To Norma

Mrs. Glenn P. Lee and children of Marlow, Okla., will return to their home Sunday afternoon in the Singleton home.

Water Bills Must Be Paid By 10th, Councilmen Rule

Effective August 1, all water bills must be paid by the tenth of the month following, or a penalty of 10 per cent will be added thereto, so members of the city council decided Monday in a special meeting.

Rotarians From 21 Clubs Coming To Assembly Here

TAHOKA, July 17 (Special)—Tahoka Rotary Club is completing plans this week for entertaining about 125 club officers and other representatives from 21 Rotary Clubs in this area in an all-day assembly next Tuesday.

Meetings will be held in the First Baptist Church because of the air-conditioning, while the lunch is to be served in the school gymnasium for the benefit of the Girl Scouts by Mrs. Loyd Edwards and others.

This is one of three assemblies being held in Rotary International District No. 127 by Governor Cal Farley of Amarillo. The other two assemblies will be held in Graham and Pampa.

The assembly is held strictly for business and there will be little fanfare or foolishness. However, those who know Cal Farley, declare he is a master showman and entertainer and may be depended on to make the meeting a lively affair at the same time he is making it an educational one.

Also on the day's program will be at least three past district governors and one candidate for governor next year. These are Fred Wemple of Midland, well known here, Dr. Rue P. Parcells of Amarillo, and Hon. O. B. Sellers of Fort Worth, also a former director of Rotary International. Chas. Paxton of Sweetwater is the candidate for governor next year. Swede Tolzien of Amarillo and several others will be leading parts on the programs.

Program topics include such general heading as Club Service, Vocational Service, and Community Service, and in addition there will be group meetings for club presidents, secretaries, and program chairmen.

At the noon luncheon the Tahoka Club will render a short program. O'Donnell Rotary Club will attend the meeting en masse, while others are coming from Sweetwater, Big Spring, Midland, Odessa, Lamesa, Seminole, Seagraves, Brownfield, Post, Slaton, Lubbock, Levelland, Littlefield, Sudan, Plainview, Lockney, Floydada, Ralls, and Spur.

Some of these clubs are sending as many as ten delegates.

Judge J. P. Ratliff of Haskell is a business visitor here Saturday.

USO Drive Here Far From Quota

A total of $118.74 had been collected for the United Service Organization in O'Donnell up to Thursday afternoon, so Hervey Gardenhire, chairman, says.

A few other small reports are expected to increase the total, but not to fill the quota of $250.00 assessed this city.

Pride was expressed by the county chairman, Mrs. Era Stewart of Tahoka, over the fact that the county as a whole "went over the top", principally due to the fact that the City of Tahoka raised more than its assessment and turned in over $500.00.

Various home demonstration clubs also met their totals. Funds secured are to be used for the use of young men now in service.

New Home Oil Test Is Drilling

TAHOKA, July 17 (Special)—A depth of 2,711 feet had been reached Wednesday night in the test wildcat oil well being drilled by Ross Sport and associates on the J. E. Rice section about three miles east and a mile north of New Homa.

Drilling was in anhydrite and salt; with elevation of 3,229 feet in top bed anhydrite at 1990 feet. Contract depth is 5,500 feet. Drilling is being done by the Ussan Drilling Company of Oklahoma City.

Another wildcat test well is to be started in Lynn county by August 1 by the Trinity Drilling Company of Dallas on No. 1 Dan Auld block, better known here as the Green-Lumsden Ranch, lying in Lynn and Terry counties. Location is one mile east of the Lynn-Terry line fourteen miles west of Tahoka. This block, consisting of 23,000 acres, is owned in fee simple by Dan Auld, and has a ten year lease on half of it as been given by him to the Continental Oil Company for underwriting the deal.

Volume UP Price DOWN

IT HAS BEEN SAID that advertising increases the price of goods. True, advertising is part of the manufacturer's and merchant's cost of doing business, all of which must be covered in the price of his goods if he is to stay in business.

But advertising helps boost sales and production. Bigger volume cuts cost per unit made and sold. To meet competition the saving is passed on to the public in the form of a lower price.

Think of the prices of radios, mechanical refrigerators and heating appliances, automobiles, light bulbs and other products when first introduced and sold in small volume. Compare with their prices today, after advertising won them enormous acceptance! Successful advertising decreases the price of goods.

Enter This Luncheon Set in Nation-Wide Crochet Contest

THREE colors are used with an artist's touch in this charming crocheted luncheon set called "Sun Ray." Identical doilies in three sizes comprise the set, and it's easy and inexpensive to crochet yourself. Centers of henna and hunter green mercerized crochet cotton combine effectively with the natural colored "spokes" of the doilies, and the edge repeats the high tones. This luncheon set, too, would make an outstanding entry in the Fifth Annual Nation-Wide Crochet Contest which is being held this Fall to select and award America's finest crocheters. Directions for crocheting this luncheon set and details of the Contest may be obtained by sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Needlework Department of this paper, specifying design No. 661.

Navy Recruiting Is Started Here

Active recruiting for the U. S. Navy and Naval Reserve was started here this week with the posting of literature advertising opening of a Navy recruiting station in the Post Office building at Lubbock.

Opening of the Navy recruiting station at Lubbock will result in considerable saving in time and expense to local men interested in enlistment, Chief Petty Officer Ray Lokey, here Tuesday, said. Formerly local men were required to go to Abilene if they desired to make application and take examinations for enlistment in the Navy. All men registered for Selective Service may, if qualified, enlist in the Navy or Naval Reserve before being called for Army duty.

The Naval Reserve has an unlimited number of vacancies for both unskilled men and those trained in trades and professions, including clerical workers. Age limits for unskilled men are from 17 to 36 years. Skilled men may be enlisted up to the age limit of 50 years and with beginning pay ranging from $60.00 to $90.00 per month, plus board, lodging, etc., depending upon the individual's qualifications.

Men with two or more years of college work and between the ages of 20 and 28 years may enlist for training to become commissioned aviation pilots. Those with college degree may enlist for training to become deck or engineer officers. All men enlisted in the Naval Reserve have the same pay, trade training and promotional opportunities while on active duty as men of same rating in the regular Navy. They will be released from active

Child Struck By Car; Uninjured

Buddy McClendon, 6-year-old son of O. L. McClendon, employee of the Gibson Cafe, was accidentally but not seriously hurt by the Ray Tailor shop delivery car late Wednesday.

One eyewitness said he saw the lad run into the street, turn back, and then go forward again, and the car hit him when he again turned to cross the street.

Serious injury was avoided due to the slow speed the car was traveling.

New Butane Gas Supply Office Is Opened Here
An office and service department for butane gas, tanks, appliances, carburetors and motor fuel has been opened here by E. Stone of Odessa, who has operated there for several years.

Lois Watts, daughter of Mrs. E. D. Yates, is local manager. Lee Simpson will be service manager.

Stone expects to service a wide territory out of O'Donnell, and the office is located next door to the Line-Lambert Grocery.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Preston visited her brother and family in Hobbs, last weekend.

Earle Tune of Littlefield was here Sunday visiting relatives.

duty at the end of the national emergency.

Enlistment in the regular Navy provides a career for young men interested in learning a trade and in retirement a good pay at an early age.

Clean-Up Drive Strikes Popular Note Over Town

Splendid co-operation is being given this week by most people on O'Donnell's Clean Up and weed-cutting campaign, according to Mayor C. H. Mansell, and the drive to make the city more attractive and healthful bids fair to be a success.

"Evidence of co-operation by residents can be seen all over the town, and it spurs the remainder of us to do our part," Mansell said Thursday.

"But," he added, "we want to ask those desiring the service of the mower to be patient with us because so many weeds had to be cut on lots and streets that it will take some time to get around."

That there is plenty of work for more mowers was voiced by Ed James, one of the operators.

"We're working as quickly as we can," James said, "and anyone wishing to have weeds cut may contact E. T. Wells and he will make the necessary arrangements. Or either Shorty Summers or myself will take care of the orders."

WILL RETURN TO CALIFORNIA

Mr. and Mrs. Sam Singleton and two children will leave today for their home in Fresno Calif., after a two weeks visit here and Lamesa.

O. E. S. OFFICERS CALLED TO MEET

All officers of the Order of Eastern Star are requested to be present Monday night, July 21, at the hall to practice, so Mrs. Harvey Line, worthy matron, says.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS By Edward C. Wayne

Landing of Naval Forces in Iceland Brings Speculation on Future Moves Of U. S. in Setting Up Defense Bases; Shaded Communiques Dim War Picture

(EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper.) (Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

Dr. J. C. McCracken, superintendent of the American Hospital for Refugees in Shanghai, China, is pictured with two of his charges from the baby clinic. The children seem to be thriving on meals made up of cracked wheat, which they consider a luxury. The Red Cross bags are then cut up and used for making clothes for the children.

ICELAND: A Move

The sudden step which President Roosevelt took in ordering the occupation of Iceland by American naval forces, and the plan to thus relieve the British in the handling of that distant adjunct of the occupied Danish kingdom not only clarified the present foreign policy but brought repercussions on both sides of the Atlantic.

These were both favorable and unfavorable to the move, the British hailing it with obvious delight as "putting teeth" and definiteness into the U. S. policy of insuring arrival of lease-lend aid and the fullest cooperation short of war with Britain.

The Axis powers, as were to be expected, were quoted variously as vigorously opposing such action which, apparently, they did not learn of until it was an accomplished fact. The Germans said the U. S. now had troops "in the war zone" and could expect results; the Italians called it a "provocative" step; and the Japanese called it "de facto American entry into the war."

These sentiments were echoed on this side of the water by the chief opponents of the administration, Senator Wheeler not only being outspoken against it, but drawing White House fire for having announced the rumored objective before it took place, thus, according to a White House secretarial statement, "jeopardizing American lives."

More interesting were the speculations concerning future moves, the Nazi sources recalling in their comment on the President's action the fact that he had spoken previously of the strategic import, from a Western hemisphere viewpoint, of the Azores, the Cape Verde islands, and Dakar, African port.

The President also made clear that geographical definitions of the Western hemisphere, as far as he is concerned, do not make much difference, and that when one is defending a certain section of the globe, it is more important to "out-guess the other fellow" than to draw geographical limitations on your activities.

Gradually, as the Russo-German war moved into the latter part of the first month, a growingly clearer picture of the situation could be obtained.

Stripped of equivocal communiques, and delving behind these with the aid of town names and general lines, here was the portrait of conditions at that period:

The Germans, together with their allies, had attacked along a 1,100 mile front, with initial quick success in the extreme north, in the central district, and a slower success in the south.

This continued, with the Russians falling back and burning towns and supplies as far as possible for about a week or 10 days.

Then the German advance ran into the Stalin line and an entirely different tempo of Russian resistance. It was almost as though a large train had run into a resilient obstacle, which halted it gently and then even began to shove it backward.

The Russian communiques painted this picture as far more favorable to the Reds, and the Germans minimized or ignored things, and spoke of everything being "expected," and "running on schedule." All this, of course, might be true, depending on the schedule.

From other points came data, however, tending to show that the German machine had perhaps not met its master, but at any rate a foe more worthy of its steel, and one that was not going to be a "push-over" in the sense of previous opponents.

AXIS: Sickness?

Two American incidents tended to show that since the start of the Russian campaign, even before, there had been some signs within Germany and Italy of what might be termed Axis sickness.

Walter Alexander, 57-year-old American citizen born in Germany, left there about six weeks ago. He had been in the real-estate business in Berlin since 1933.

He finally arrived in Jersey City, where he was quoted as follows: "Forty per cent of the German people are against Hitler and the war."

"The German people are just beginning to tire of it. And they have the feeling that it does not matter whether they win. They feel they have lost their freedom anyway."

"Business men in Germany are disgusted, because they can make no move except under government regulation and orders."

And Count Carlo Sforza, once a member of Mussolini's cabinet, but who now declares he is one of the original foes of Fascism, said at Ann Arbor, Mich., that a British victory in the war would be the instant signal for the fall of the Mussolini government.

Even now, the count declared, there might at any time be a "passive strike" on the part of the Italian navy, which does not like to fight on the side of the Germans.

He said, however, that Italy was so much under the domination of Hitler that the people knew a signal for revolt against Mussolini would mean that the Germans would march on Milan, Venice and Trieste and also on Rome.

Germany must fall first, before the present Italian regime collapses, he said.

SYRIA: End of War

The official announcement that a formal request for an armistice had come to the British from General Dentz of the Vichy defenders seemed to bring an end to a campaign which ended on the saddest of possible notes.

Churchill struck the British attitude by saying:

"I hardly need say how very glad His Majesty's Government is to see an end brought to this very distressing conflict in which 1,000 to 1,500 British, Australian and Indian troops who had volunteered in order to defend France have fallen killed or wounded under French bullets as a result of the lamentable confusion into which the affairs of so many good people in so many parts of the world have been thrown by the victories of Hitler's army."

This was a gentle way of acquainting the people with the number of casualties there had been in the British forces. How many the Free French, under De Gaulle, had lost, was not mentioned, but it was believed to have been heavier, as they assumed the brunt of the attack.

Alfred Duff Cooper said: "I am horrified to hear that funds are being collected to celebrate the victory in Syria."

The decision of General Dentz to sue for peace came at a time when the pressure was being put heavily on Beirut, which, it turned out, was the key to the whole campaign.

R. A. F.:

The mastery of the daytime air on the western front of the war remained with the R. A. F., which was carrying out bombing attacks in the new large tempo, with squadrons aloft by day and by night.

It was revealed that the Nazis now have floating anti-aircraft batteries around Wilhelmshaven, and that flights of bombers which meet with no resistance at all over the French coastal areas except from anti-aircraft fire, are meeting with considerable fighter resistance as soon as they get over Germany.

With communiques giving varied reports on the progress of the Russo-German war comes this radio-photo from Berlin which purports to show Nazi heavy tanks rolling through the White Russian capital of Minsk. It was not definitely known the Nazis had pushed this far—but this would seem to be "proof," says Berlin.

Milk Trouble on West Coast

Difficulties with the A. F. of L. International Teamsters' union forced milk producers such as these (above), in the Los Angeles area to pour 28,000 quarts of milk a day down the drains. This was asserted by Clarence Smith, co-operative dairy head. His firm was the sixth dairy to be picketed, and their milk listed as "hot cargo."

Mexico Makes Land Expropriation Payment

Mexican ambassador Dr. Don Francisco Najera (right) hands acting Secretary of State Sumner Welles the Mexican government's check for $1,000,000, in payment of the amount due on account of the claims of American citizens whose lands in Mexico have been expropriated since August 30, 1927, under the Mexican agrarian program.

My Week by Eleanor Roosevelt

SHOPPING TRIP One afternoon we went to the port, Maine, and did our last shopping. We still found things we wanted simply did not exist within Eastport and had to think up substitutes.

You have no idea how ingenious you can be when you are shopping for things you want and they are not forthcoming. There were no more scrappaskets, so I found some very nice bushel baskets, designed I think, for packing apples, but with paper in the bottom. They will do nicely as scrappaskets.

If you can't get pillows of any size, you take them in any shape that are available. If you can't get a ready-made cover for the ironing board, you buy canton flannel and sheeting to make it.

After the shopping was over, we went up the Denny river in Captain Cline's little boat and explored Grand South bay. We entered a narrow passage into which, years ago, I remember my husband taking the "Half Moon." On that occasion, we had to turn around, but this time was so much smaller, we were able to circle the island and it was beautiful trip.

We were about 20 minutes from home when suddenly, a cloud of smoke opened and we were there, soaked in five minutes. It was cold that even with a sweater and homespun coat, I could hardly get home and warm up by the fire. My cousin, Mrs. Adams, and her daughter, came in for a few minutes in the evening to see me good-by.

HOMEWARD BOUND

Next morning, at 9:15, Mr. Thompson and I started on our home. I confess I was a little disappointed not to be able to see all the young people, but I shall be returning soon.

On the drive home, we had a top of the car down. Though it was some fog in the distance, it was a beautiful trip. At Franklin, Maine, our friends, Mr. and Mrs. Hancock Griffin, met us. We followed them to their house, which is right on the water, looking across to Mt. Desert, Maine. I must say the island played hide and seek with us in the fog, but we could see how lovely the view must be on a clear day, and I happen to like the softness of a fog blowing in and out.

One of Mr. and Mrs. Griffin's daughters is to be married in a few days, so we saw some of her presence. I was particularly glad to meet the young bridegroom, Mr. Richard Herrick.

Then we started off and I disagreed myself by going off the road into the ditch and had to be pulled out. Otherwise our drive was uneventful. We spent the night in a very nice cabin, not far from Ipswich, Mass. In a few minutes we were starting off, first to find breakfast, and then to visit Franklin Jr.'s wife and little boy at Beverly Farms.

After leaving Ethel we stopped for nearly an hour and saw Johnny, Anne and young Haven, who are staying in Nahant, Mass., with Anne's mother, Mrs. Wiltzie, who has just come back from Honolulu for the summer. Johnny has to go at his naval course in the Harvard business school all week, but on duty, he can be home on Sundays.

It is fun to watch the babies in the family grow up. Young Haven has just discovered that it is quite delightful to play in the water, as long as his father holds him safely in his arms, so together they swim all over the pool. He has no fear, so I think will grow up as accustomed to it as a small duck.

We proceeded towards home by long, but very beautiful route of the Mohawk Trail. We had a lovely drive, but only reached Hyde Park at 9:00 p. m. I dashed over to the big house to see our son, Jimmy, and his wife, as well as my husband and mother-in-law.

Jimmy has lost 10 pounds, which he could ill afford to lose. He is on sick leave for a little while, but he has much of interest to say on the various things he observed. I am looking forward very much to reading his diary.

Princess Martha of Norway, her children and household, have been staying with my mother-in-law for a few days. On morning the children all came over to the pool to swim at the same time that my brother and I were swimming.

All the children have grown. I saw them out riding this morning before they came to swim. They are on their way to Cape Cod and I think will enjoy the salt water and free life there. I sincerely hope will be cooler than it has been since they came here.

AMERICAN IDEALS

Curiously enough, it is again a question of liberty which is going to weld us together as a nation, I think, and to bring us into closer contact with the people of other nations throughout the world. I have never believed that the majority of the people, even in Germany and Italy, if they were free and knew the truth, would want to fight their brothers of other nationalities. They have no liberty, they must believe what they are told, and thus must act according to a pattern.

THE STORY SO FAR:

Dusty King and Lew Gordon had built up a vast string of ranches. King was killed by his powerful and unscrupulous competitor, Ben Thorpe. Bill Roper, King's adopted son, was determined to avenge his death in spite of the opposition of his sweetheart.

Jody Gordon, and her father. After wiping Thorpe out of Texas, Roper conducted a great raid upon Thorpe's vast herds in Montana. Roper left for Lew Gordon's home when told that Jody had disappeared. Unable to reconcile her father with Roper, Jody had set out with Shoshone Wilce to find him. They were attacked by some of Thorpe's men hiding in Roper's shack. Wilce escaped but Jody was captured. The men decided to hold her as bait to bring Roper to them.

A shiver ran the length of Jody Gordon's body. Casually, as if they were talking about getting breakfast these quiet-faced men were speaking of a proposed death—the death of a boy who had once been very close to her, and very dear. Suddenly she was able to glimpse the power and the depth of the animosity behind the mission of these men. No effort and no cost would seem to Ben Thorpe too great if in the end Bill Roper was struck out of existence.

"Jim," the younger rider said soberly, "if Roper's got his wild bunch with him—Jim, it's such a fight as none of us have ever gone into yet! When you stop to think that any time—a minute—a bunch of 'em may land in here—"

"Charley's on lookout," Jim Leathers shrugged. "We'll know in plenty time."

A silence fell, a long silence. Heavy upon Jody Gordon was the panic of an open-space creature held helpless within close walls. Her voice was low and bitter. "You're set on holding me here?"

"No call to put it that way," Jim Leathers said mildly, almost gently. But his eyes denied that mildness, so that behind him Jody sensed again the vast animosity built by the Texas Rustlers' War.

"I want a flat answer," Jody said bravely. "Are you going to give me a horse, or not?"

Once more Jim Leathers' canine teeth showed in his peculiarly unpleasant grin. "Hell, no," he said.

CHAPTER XVIII

Perhaps Lew Gordon should have known that if Bill Roper learned of Jody's disappearance at all, Roper would come directly to him.

And, knowing this, he should have prepared himself. But Lew Gordon had not met Roper face to face in nearly two years; and nothing was farther from his mind than the possibility that Roper would walk in upon him now.

Upon this night Lew Gordon was pacing the main room of his little Miles City house; forty-eight hours had passed since his daughter's disappearance and the old cattleman had lashed himself into a state of repressed fury comparable to that of a trap-baffled mountain lion, or a goaded bear. Everything that could be done to locate his daughter was being done.

He knew that Jody's disappearance was voluntary, and he knew its purpose. The brief but highly informative note that Jody had left him told him that much. It simply said:

"One of you must be made to see reason. I am going to talk to Billy Roper myself."

What this did not tell him was where Roper was, or how Jody expected to find him. Impatient of mystery and delay, he could not understand why his many far-scattered cowboys could dig up no word. For all he knew, his daughter was by this time lost somewhere in the frozen wastes of snow, in immediate desperate need of help.

Lew Gordon sat alone for a little while. For the moment his helpless anger was burned down into a heavy weariness. His mind was full of his daughter, whom he persistently pictured as a little girl, much more of a child than she actually was any more.

Suddenly it struck him how curious it was that in this bare room in which he sat there was no sign of any kind that Jody had ever been here at all. This was partly because she had never lived here nor even been expected here; but it even brought home to him sharply how much of his life had been given to cattle, how little to his daughter. He made him realize how little he knew his daughter, and how little she had ever given her of herself.

This was Lew Gordon's state of mind as the door thrust open, letting in a brief lash of wintry wind; and he wheeled in his chair to face the last man on earth he had expected to see.

Bill Roper shook a powdering of snow off the roll of his coat, then stood looking at Lew Gordon in a cool hard silence as he pulled off his gloves. Once this man had been almost a son to Lew Gordon—the adopted son, in actuality, of Lew Gordon's dead partner. But a definite enmity now replaced what a little while ago had been a friendship as deep and close as the variance in their ages could permit. All the meaning of their association, almost as long as Bill Roper's life, was gone, wiped out by those two smoky years since the death of Dusty King.

For a moment or two Lew Gordon stared at him in utter disbelief. Then he whipped to his feet.

"Where is she?" he demanded intensely, furiously. "What have you done with her?"

Bill Roper no longer looked like the youngster Dusty King had raised on the trail. His gray eyes looked hard and extremely competent, old beyond his age, in a face so dark and lean-carved it was hard to recognize behind it the face of Dusty King's kid. He made no attempt to answer a question which was necessarily meaningless to him. He finished pulling off his gloves, unbuttoned his coat, and hooked his thumbs in his belt before he spoke.

"I heard yesterday that Jody had turned up missing," he said. "I came to Miles hell-for-leather to see if it's so. From what I could find out down in the town, no word has come in on where she is. If that's true, I don't aim to give my time to anything else until she's found."

"You mean to deny you know where she is?" Gordon shouted.

Roper's voice did not change. "You talk like a fool," he said.

Lew Gordon's eyes were savagely intent upon Roper's face; he was trying to discover if this man could be believed.

"You may be lying," he added at last, "and you may not, but I'll tell you this—you sure won't leave here till I find out where my girl is. You're wanted anyway, my laddie buck; there's a legal reward on your head, right now—and part of it was put up by me."

Lew Gordon's eyes were savagely intent on Roper's face.

"I heard that," Bill Roper said. "When I get ready to leave, I'll leave, all right. My advice to you is to begin using your head. I may be in a kind of funny position. But it puts me where I know things about the Montana range that neither you nor your outfits have got any clue to. If you want your daughter back you better figure to use what I know about the Deep Grass."

Lew Gordon compelled himself to temperize. What he couldn't get around was his own belief that Roper knew something definite, specific, about where Jody had gone—or had started out to go. He must have known also, in spite of the bluff to which anger had prompted him, that he could not hold Roper here when Roper decided to leave, nor force any information from him in any way whatever.

"What is it you want to know?" he asked at last, helpless, and angry in his helplessness.

"In the first place, I want to know what made you think Jody was with me?"

"You swear," Lew Gordon demanded, "you don't know the answer to that?"

"I don't swear anything," Roper said. "I asked you a question, Lew."

Lew Gordon hesitated. It was a good many years since anyone had talked to him in the tone Bill Roper took; but for once the purpose in hand outpowered the violence of his natural reaction. He turned from his litter of papers, and handed Bill Roper the little scrap of Jody's handwriting which was all she had left to indicate where she was gone.

"One of you must be made to see reason. I am going to talk to Billy Roper myself."

When Bill Roper had read that, the eyes of the two men met in hostile question.

"This looks mighty like a false lead, to me," Bill Roper said at last. "Like as if she aimed to cover up where she really went. Don't hardly seem likely she'd start out to come to me."

"I know she went looking for you because she said she did. My girl don't lie."

Roper shrugged. "Why should she do that?"

"It was your own man talked her into it," Gordon said with menace. "My own man? What man?"

"A little sniveler called Shoshone Wilce. Everybody knows he was a scout coyote for you, before Texas ever run you out."

"Nobody run me out of any place," Roper said; but his mind whipped to something else. It was true that he talked to certain men in the town before he had come here. Now suddenly he knew that he had learned what he had come to find out. He buttoned his coat, pulled on his gloves.

Gordon confronted him stubbornly. "I mean you shan't leave here without telling me what you know."

A glint of hard amusement was plain in Bill Roper's eyes. "I know what you've told me. But I'll add this onto it. I think you'll soon have back your girl. I'm walking out of here now, Lew, because it's time for me to look into a couple of things. But I'll be seeing you—if Thorpe don't get you first."

The veins stood out sharply on Lew Gordon's forehead, high-lighted by a faint dampness. "In all fairness I'll tell you this," he said. "It's true I can't lift a gun on you, or on any man who stands with empty hands. But as soon as you're out of that door, all Miles City will be on the jump to see you don't get loose. Twenty thousand hangs over your head, my boy!"

"Quite a tidy little nest egg," Roper agreed. "I'd like to have it myself."

A trick of the wind sent a great whirl of papers across the room as he went out."

He had not come here without providing that the horse which waited under his saddle was fresh and good. He struck westward now out of Miles City, unhurrying. At the half mile he found a broad cross trail where some random band of cattle had trampled the snow into a trackless pavement. He turned north in this, followed it for a mile, then swung northwest over markless snow. Now that this horse was warmed a little he settled deep in his saddle and pushed the animal into a steady trot; at that gait, even in the snow, he could expect the tough rangier pony to last most of the night.

CHAPTER XIX

A tired horse is not much inclined to shy, toward the end of a long day's travel; and when Bill Roper's horse snorted and jumped sidewise out of its tracks the rider looked twice, curiously, at the carcass which had spooked his pony. A dead pony on the winter range being a fairly common thing, he was about to ride on, when he noticed something about this particular dead pony which caused him to pull up and dismount for a closer examination.

After leaving Lew Gordon he had ridden deep into the night. Half an hour would bring him within sight of the Fork Creek rendezvous, and he was eager to push on, so that his deduction as to Jody's whereabouts might have a quick answer, one way or the other; but when he had examined the dead pony he was glad that he had checked.

This was no winter-killed pony. The bright trace of frozen blood that had first caught Roper's eye was the result of two gunshot wounds in neck and quarters.

A dark foreboding possessed Roper as he studied the dead pony. Roper himself was short-cutting through the hills, following no trail. The coincidence that he had stumbled upon the carcass in all those snowy wastes could be accounted for only in one way: both Roper and the pony had followed a line of least resistance through the hills—a line that had the Fork Creek rendezvous at its far end. His discovery told him that there had been fighting at Fork Creek within the last forty-eight hours. If he was right in believing that Jody had come to Fork Creek—

He remounted and swung northward, mercilessly whipping up his weary pony, but approaching his Fork Creek camp roundabout, behind masking hills and through hidden ravines. An hour passed before he threw down his reins and crept on hands and knees to the crest of a ridge commanding the valley of the Fork.

He moved a half mile closer and resumed his watch; but for some time he could make out nothing.

Then just as the sun set, three men moved out of the cabin. For a moment or two they stood in the snow close together. One went back into the cabin. The two others disappeared for a moment, to reappear mounted. They separated, and Roper watched them ride in opposite directions up the nearest slopes of the hills. These passed beyond his sight, but in another minute or two their ways were retraced by two other riders.

"Outposts," Roper decided. "Somebody's keeping a hell of a careful watch."

Private Papers

Of a Cub Reporter:

J. Edgar Hoover and the G-Men received great acclaim from all sources for rounding up those spies . . . Some congressmen, however, showed their appreciation by killing the wire-tapping bill—designed to make things easier for the G-Men in espionage cases . . . What's the matter with them? . . . Afraid they'll hurt the civil liberties of a few spies and kidnapers?

Many of the papers now praising the G-Men for their efficiency in rounding up the spies are the same ones that found fault with the G-Men a short time ago . . . And you were a G-Man's stooge if you defended the FBI.

From page 187 of William Shirer's best seller, "Berlin Diary": "Representative Ham Fish seems to have been completely taken in by Ribbentrop, who gave him an airplane to rush in to the Inter-Parliamentary meeting in Scandinavia." Boy, that sure explains a lot of things.

By all means read the article on Wheeler and Roosevelt in the July 15 Look . . . While Wheeler goes around the country wrapping himself in the Flag and rapping the President by using all kinds of idealistic arguments—this article proves that the whole thing is strictly personal . . . And get this: The reason Wheeler sneers at everything the President does—according to the article—is that Mrs. Wheeler doesn't like the President!!!

Everett Roeder, one of the alleged spies rounded up by the G-Men, had an important job at the Sperry Gyroscope company—which manufactures some of our most vital defense material . . . When that company was first given defense contracts, we pointed out (in the column and on the air) that Nazi agents worked there . . . It has taken more than a year to confirm these allegations.

Congressman Coffee introduced a resolution in congress to stop the sale of oil to Japan . . . Just the other day we gave some oil to Vichy, but if we send any oil to Britain, we are trying to get the country into the war.

With typical stupidity, Virginia Gayda is giving away Nazi plans . . . The other day he boasted that if Germany whips Russia, they will have air bases near Alaska and will be able to bomb the Western hemisphere . . . Of course, the appeasers refuse to believe that anything like that can happen.

Or maybe they know they can stop bombs from hitting their homes by making certain kinds of speeches now.

A bored gal buttonholed a stag at the Stork Club bar and begged him to crash the table where she sat with her kluck.

"He's boring me with his monologue," she wept. "He's repeating himself like a day-time radio commercial."

From F.P.A.'s Column: "New names for this and new names for that. How about the America Last Committee?" How about getting it first? And don't WHOM me!!!

A Lexington Avenue motorist jammed on his brakes two inches from a jay-walker and cursed him to a cinder. "Gwan, you ape," the pedestrian squealed, "the last generation of your family was menacing people with coconuts instead of cars."

F.D.R. freezing Axis dough over here panicked lots of the well-heeled refugees . . . The allotment of $500 a month to everybody is going to cramp their style, shoo them out of the luxury hotels and hamper them from picking up cafe checks. But if they think their money has been frozen, wait'll they see the expressions on the faces of some of their fair-weather friends.

Notes of an Innocent Bystander:

The Big Parade: Ex-Heavyweight Champion James J. Braddock, now a soda water emir, making the rounds of the midtown joints and grills to peddle his product . . . District Attorney Dewey boarding a taxi near the Biltmore as cabmen gape in awe . . . Spencer Tracy and Paul Muni, a couple of Hollywood-guys, looking like any other two "out-of-towners"—ha, ha!

Sallies in Our Alley: One of the Broadway health-seekers was floored by the 90 per cent humidity . . . "Whew," he complained, "it's so hot I can't stand it under my sun lamp!" . . . An actress opened in a new show and was slapped with so many summonses and attachments on her first pay night that she thought it was snowing . . . Overheard description of a midtown magazine editor: "He's so yellow he could sell the streak up his back for a caution signal."

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

One reason jelly is tough is because too little sugar is used; another is overcooking.

Pretzel crumbs make a tasty covering for small cheese balls served with salads or as appetizers. Freshen the pretzels by heating five minutes in a moderately hot oven. Cool and then roll into crumbs.

It takes less time, fewer hours of labor and, therefore, costs less to roof a house with strip shingles than with individual shingles.

When buying bone roasts, be sure the butcher gives you the bones even if they have been removed. The bones can be used for making soups and stock for stews.

Fried mush is often served with fried chicken. To prepare the mush mold it in a loaf pan. Chill it until it is firm. Then cut it into four-inch slices and sprinkle each with flour. Brown in chicken drippings and serve around the platter of chicken.

THE RESPONSIBILITY OF THE CHURCH REGARDING BEVERAGE ALCOHOL

LESSON TEXT—I Corinthians 5:9-13; Titus 2:1-8. GOLDEN TEXT—Ye are the salt of the earth.—Matthew 5:13.

The church has a grave responsibility regarding alcoholic beverages, but in recent years it has largely failed to meet it with intelligence and enthusiasm. Let us never forget that the first business of the Christian and of the church is to preach the gospel, winning men to Christ. It is not our calling to attempt by social or economic methods to right the wrongs of this world. Nor is ours a "social gospel" with the emphasis on "social." But have we forgotten that it is a gospel with serious social implications and responsibilities?

The man, and the church, who follows Christ should be vitally concerned about every influence in American life which is destructive to character, and right at the top of that list stands alcohol. To meet this gigantic (and growing) problem effectively the church must be I. Separated From Sin (I Cor. 5:9, 10).

A church living in careless worldliness has no testimony against the sin round about it. In fact, its influence is definitely on the wrong side. The Christian is to be in the world, but not of it. He must live with the sinners, but he must never by word or deed, or even by his presence in the wrong place, seem to condone their sin nor fellowship with them in it.

Here we have one of the horrible weaknesses of our day. Men and women who profess to follow Christ (whether they really do, only He can judge) indulge in a social glass of wine, or sip a cocktail "for the sake of courtesy," or attend gatherings which are obviously non-Christian or anti-Christian. If there is to be effective dealing with any problem—with the liquor problem—we must have separated Christian living.

II. Cleansed of Wicked Persons (I Cor. 5:11-13).

Even a "man that is called a brother" (v. 11) may not be one at all, but may be a "wicked person" (v. 13). We are not able to judge any man's spiritual experience. His relationship to God is a matter between him and God, but if, in his life, he shows himself presently to be on the side of wickedness, it is the duty of the church to have him "put away from among" them (v. 13).

We can only judge a man by his actions, but we are required to do that for the sake of the purity of the church and the effectiveness of its teaching. This is not to be done in a self-righteousness, but in humility and with the constant effort to restore such a one (Gal. 6:1). But it should be done. We are woefully weak in the matter of church discipline, and it shows in the inability of the church to do valiant service for God and country.

III. Intelligent in Doctrine (Titus 1:8; esp. 1, 7, 8).

To be informed is to be wise, able to plan properly, balanced in judgment and action, useful and effective. Fundamentally every problem of life finds its solution in a proper knowledge of the doctrines of the Christian faith. It is of great importance that we have information about the liquor traffic, about the harmful results of the use of alcohol, etc. Helpful material on such subjects is available, and the churches are known to ministers and Christian workers. However, we must hold and use this information in relation to Christian truth if it is to be fully useful. A temperance worker without Christ in his own life and in his labors against liquor is weak, lacking the real solution of the dynamics to proclaim it effectively.

Consistent in Life (Titus 2:1, esp. 2, 5, 7).

It is what we are that speaks loudly that folk do not pay any attention to what we say. This passage clearly states the fact that both young and old, both men and women, even the preacher (v. 7)—are present before the world the unstable teaching of a consistent Christian life.

Read the exhortations of these verses again with great care and apply them first to your own life, then to your own church. What Christian graces we have! Note that again and again it is the admonition to temperance. No user of intoxicants is sober, temperate, discreet, wise, sound in faith, and so on.

The writer of these notes is convinced that the only consistent position for the Christian (individually or to the church) to take regarding alcoholic beverages is that of total abstinence for himself and the legal prevention of temptation from others.

CRISPLY COOL ON A SUMMER DAY!
(See Recipes Below)

THIRST QUENCHER IDEAS

The thermometer's soaring and the summer sun's too hot, you say? Then you'll want a cool, gracious drink with tinkling ice to lift your wilted spirits.

Indeed the favorite pickup for a sultry day is nothing more than a simple drink of fruit juices, tea, or frothy milk with shimmering ice. The tartness of the fruit juices in these drinks will refresh and cool you, soothe your disposition long after you've sipped them. Besides they'll give vitamins and minerals to pep you up even more.

For a really quick cooling drink you might try some of the prepared fruit juice powders on the market. They can be mixed in a flash and give a very satisfying beverage. The children will like working with them, too, and won't muss the kitchen if they have this type of easy preparation to use.

Summer drinks can be especially attractive when served with those fragrant sprigs of mint you have growing on the side of the house, strawberries from the patch, or long, lengthwise slices of lemon to bring out the delicate flavor of tea. Ice cubes with cherries, red berries, mint leaves, orange or lemon slices, or fruit juices all frozen in the cubes will make your thirst quenchers a joy to look at.

*Iced Tea.

Tea must be made double strength when used with ice, so use 2 teaspoons for each cup of water. Measure 1 cup of freshly drawn water, bring to a boil. Pour over leaves, let steep 5 minutes, then strain into a pitcher. Cool, pour into glasses filled with ice, two-thirds full. Serve with slices of lemon.

You can do such delightful things with this combination of tea, oranges and mint, so here's a recipe which you might like to try. It's a company favorite!

Orange Mint Julep.
(Serves 10)

- 6 glasses of strong tea
- 2 cups sugar
- 1/2 cup water
- 1 orange rind grated
- Juice of six oranges
- Sprays of mint

Boil the sugar and water and grated orange rind for 5 minutes. Remove from fire, add crushed mint leaves and let cool. To the strained tea add orange juice, and pour into glasses which are half-filled with crushed ice, and sweeten to taste with the strained mint syrup. You'll like this garnished with mint sprays and floating orange slices.

For a really exhilarating drink that has nutritive value so vital to lift lagging spirits, here's eggs and milk combined with fruit and juices. It's so-o-o good and looks like a charm.

LYNN SAYS:

A snowy frost on the glass in which you serve your cooling summer drinks is very attractive and simple to make. All you do is dip the top of the glass before it is filled into slightly beaten egg white and then into granulated sugar. Allow to dry thoroughly before using.

If you'd like a true frost for the glass try a drink which is guaranteed to have one. Such are the old-fashioned "granits" which may be of any flavor you desire. The granit is a half-frozen drink which is put in the refrigerator or freezer until a light snow-frost appears, but leaves the drink still liquid enough to pour.

For a strawberry granit, mash a quart of berries and cover with 1 1/2 pounds of sugar, then set aside for several hours to let a syrup form. Drain and press through a sieve. Add 1 tablespoon of strawberry extract, then mix with 1 pint of water. Freeze until the top is snow-frosted and serve in long, thin glasses.

Fruit Float.
(Serves 2)

- 1 cup water
- 2 cups sugar
- Juice of 2 lemons
- Juice of 2 oranges
- 2 eggs
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 cup fresh raspberries or strawberries
- Chipped ice

Boil the sugar and water for 5 minutes. Cool. Mix all the ingredients except the ice and beat thoroughly. Chill. When ready to serve, pour into glasses half filled with ice. Garnish with a few whole berries.

Fruit Swizzle.
(Serves 8-10)

- 1 quart strong tea
- 1 quart ginger ale
- Juice of 3 lemons
- 1 small bottle maraschino cherries
- Juice of 3 oranges
- 2 cups pineapple juice
- 1 cup diced or crushed pineapple

Mix all the ingredients together, sweeten to taste and serve iced.

Here's an old-fashioned treat that always makes new friends. I can still remember how nice the kitchen smelled when mother used to put it up, and then again how hospitable everyone thought she was when unexpected guests came and she served this drink. It has a delightful color, and unusual flavor.

Current Syrup With Raspberries.
(Makes 3 quarts)

- 1 pint currant juice
- 2 pounds sugar
- 6 pounds currants
- 1 pound sour cherries
- 1 pound raspberries
- 1 1/2 pints water

Pick, wash, seed, and dry the currants carefully. Seed and stem the cherries, and the raspberries. Pound and mash them well and let stand in a cool place for 36 hours. Then strain through a bag. Cook the sugar and water until it will snap when tested in cold water. Then add the fruit syrups, let boil 5 minutes, remove from fire. Let it get cold and then put up in bottles.

Cinnamon Almond Float.
(Serves 6)

- 1/2 cup sugar
- 1/4 teaspoon ground cinnamon
- 1 quart cold milk
- 1 teaspoon almond extract
- 1/2 teaspoon vanilla
- 1 pint vanilla ice cream

Combine sugar and cinnamon; add milk and flavorings and stir until sugar is dissolved. Pour into tall glasses and top each with a generous spoonful of ice cream.

Coconut Flake Cookies.
(Makes 5 dozen)

- 1 1/2 cups sifted flour
- 3 teaspoons double-acting baking powder
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 3 cups corn flakes or bran flakes
- 1 cup butter or other shortening
- 1 cup granulated sugar
- 1/2 cup brown sugar, firmly packed
- 2 eggs, unbeaten
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- 1 1/2 cups shredded coconut

Sift flour once, measure, add baking powder and salt, and sift again; add flakes. Cream butter, add sugar gradually, and cream together well. Add eggs, one at a time, beating thoroughly after each. Add vanilla. Add flour and flakes mixture, mixing well. Add coconut. Drop from teaspoon on ungreased baking sheet and bake in moderate oven (375 degrees F.) 12 to 15 minutes, or until done. For variation 1/2 cup chopped nuts may be added to mixture before baking.

Drive Starts For Old Aluminum

TAHOKA, July 17 (Special)—Lynn county citizens are being asked by County Judge Chester Connolly to join in the nation-wide drive for the collection of aluminum to be used in the National Defense program, the week of July 21-29 having been set aside for the gathering of discarded aluminum.

In furtherance of this program, Judge Connolly asks that the mayors and members of the city councils of Tahoka and O'Donnell, the president and board of directors of the Tahoka Chamber of Commerce, the commander and other officials of the American Legion post, the scoutmaster and scout officials and the Boy Scouts of Tahoka meet with him in the county court room here on Tuesday night of next week, July 22. But this does not mean that these organizations and individuals should wait until that time to begin work. All are asked to get busy on this program Monday morning.

of A. R. Milliken are being asked to assist in the drive here in Tahoka. People living outside Tahoka are asked to bring in their aluminum, or better yet, set up an organization in their communities for gathering this metal.

Lyntegar Buys $15,000 In Bonds

TAHOKA, July 17 (Special)—The largest purchase of defense bonds by any one group or individual in Lynn county was made by Lyntegar Electric Co-op, recently when they bought $10,000 worth of defense bonds, thereby setting an example for others.

The purchase was divided between Tahoka and Wilson. At Tahoka, the corporation bought $10,000 worth of bonds, and procured $5,000 worth at Wilson.

REA organizations all over this part of the state have been setting the example in the purchase of these bonds by buying them in large quantities.

Judge Connolly, who has been named chairman of the drive in Lynn county, urges that anyone having any old aluminum whatever, such as pots and pans, old radio parts, toys, salt and pepper shakers, machinery parts, picture frames, and electrical appliances, etc., get them together and bring or send them to the court house.

The public is not asked to contribute aluminum materials now in use, but this metal is needed badly for defense, especially in the manufacture of airplanes, and all scrap aluminum possible is being gathered. The drive has been inaugurated by F. H. LaGuardia, director of the Office of Civil Defense, a division of the Office of Production Management directed by Wm. S. Knudsen. It is hoped the drive will bring in 20 million pounds from the nation, which would be sufficient to build 2,000 fighter planes.

New Registrants Total 34,530

TAHOKA, July 17 (Special)—Total Selective Service registration in Texas on July 1 was 34,530, General J. Watt Page, State Director, announced today following tabulation of reports received from the State's 351 local boards.

As in the first registration last fall, Harris County led with 2,759 registrants. Dallas County was second with 2,415.

General Page said that 34,126 of the new registrants are young men who have reached the age of twenty-one since the first registration day on October 16, 1940.

General Page pointed out that the 21-year-olds who registered on July 1 will be placed ahead or after the older registrants on their local boards, but they will be integrated proportionately. For example, he said, if there should happen to be ten new registrants in an area and 100 old registrants awaiting call, one new registrant would be placed after each group of 10 old registrants.

The order in which the new registrants will be integrated with the old ones will be determined by a na-
