Two Men Killed In Crash South Y

Harvest Workers Are Victims

Two Latin Americans farm workers were killed and another seriously injured in a near head on collision of their pickup and a loaded gasoline transport at 8 p. m. at the South Y at the intersection of the business route and Highway 87 Friday nite. Dead are Esteban Rodriguez, about 22 and Gilberto Martinez, about 55, both of Mathis. The bodies were taken overland to Mathis for burial Saturday. In a serious condition in a Lamesa hospital is a 14 year old Latin American boy, Vivian Olivarez, also of Mathis. He was still unconscious late Sunday with head injuries. The three victims were apparently thrown from their pickup as it collided with the semi trailer loaded with gasoline at the crossing. The truck driver, Dewey M. Criswell age 24 of Crosbyton was unhurt. The laborers were employed on the L. H. Clark farm four miles southwest of here and had been here for about a month, an uncle said.

Investigating Highway Patrolmen said the pickup was apparently entering the intersection from the O'Donnell business route. Criswell told officers he was traveling north on his way to Crosbyton when the accident happened. It was not known which of the three were driving the pickup but the vehicle belonged to Rodriguez.

The left front of the pickup was smashed and the right front fender of the truck was crumpled. The impact spun the pickup around in the middle of the crossing apparently hurling the two men to their death. All three were friction burned and bruised where they skidded on the pavement. Judge Horace Brunette ruled accidental death in his inquest at the scene of the crash.

Dangerous Crossing
In recent years the South Y has had a higher death toll from accidents than the North Y. In the past year three have met death there.

Gum Minton to Retire

"The postman rings twice" is NOT the motto of the rural postal carrier, according to Stuart M. "Gum" Minton who says that in 1921 the postman was LUCKY to just get to the mail box—especially after a spell of weather.

On December 1st Gum will retire from the Post Office service after 30 and half years of service, all of which was spent here. He was appointed June 1st 1921 and carried Route 1 for 20 years. He later transferred to Route 3. When Mr. Minton began his postal career, the post office was a tiny frame building about where the Clayton Ins. office now stands. Mrs. Charley Doak was postmaster. Route 1 had 28 miles of service with about 20 boxes compared to today's 75 miles and 160 boxes. Gum used a model T at the beginning and once used a horse and buggy for a few days. The population of the town was about 350, he recalls. There was no highway pavement in Lynn or Dawson counties at the time.

Mr. Minton was farming here when he received his appointment having moved here as a youth from Stonewall County.

Gum says he plans to catch up on his loafing and fishing now that he has "graduated" from work. Mr. and Mrs. Minton have recently built a beautiful home here and Gum allows as to how Mrs. Minton will keep him busy fixing around the house and yard. Gum is one of our best liked citizens and has countless friends. Good fishing, partner.

ADVICE GIVEN ON THE COMMON COLD

"At this time of year health officers and practicing physicians always expect an increase in the common cold. Although good personal hygiene, adequate sleep, suitable clothing, moderate exercise and good nutrition may help the individual to develop resistance to infections, colds frequently develop in spite of all normal precautions. The seasonal rise in colds and in other respiratory diseases during the fall and winter months certainly suggests that the shift to cooler weather is partly responsible for their prevalence.

The unhappy victim of a cold should make every effort to prevent spreading the infection to others. He can help by covering coughs and sneezes with a disposable paper handkerchief, by staying out of crowds and avoiding close contact.

THE WHITE HOUSE

$5,761,000 Spent on Renovation Of Historic Executive Mansion

WNU Washington Bureau

When President Truman and his family move back into their home at 1600 Pennsylvania avenue shortly after the first of the year, they will find the historic old White House a stronger, safer structure designed to last another century as the residence of the nation's presidents.

During the two years of its renovation at a cost of well over $5,000,000 the architects and builders have been careful to preserve the traditional appearance of the White House both as to exterior and interior, so that to all intents and purposes the old mansion remains the same as it always has been in the minds and hearts of the American people.

Four new bedrooms have been added, making the total number of rooms now 54. Only the strengthening of the basic structure has been concentrated upon; there has been no change in the architectural arrangement of the house.

On the first floor, there are no great changes except in the state dining room, used only for official dinners. Formerly paneled in dark oak, this room is now painted a celadon green. An antique Hepplewhite four-pedestal dining table which seats 22 is a new addition. The private dining room, used by the President and his family, has Sheraton and Hepplewhite furniture in the 18th century tradition, most of which has been in use in the Blair House, temporary residence of the Truman family during the reconstruction, but which is refinished and recovered and placed in the original location.

In general, the first floor retains its air of simple dignity, while undergoing a strengthening of color throughout. The blue room, frequently called the prettiest in the house, is a deeper and more vibrant blue.

The red room is a lighter red, not as dark and brown as before. The draperies are red silk damask of 18th century design, and the same material is used to cover the walls. The only different note in the room is white damask used on a set of Hepplewhite chairs and a Chippendale wing chair.

The walls and draperies of the green room are the same shade of striking emerald green silk damask. Much of the furniture in this room had been in use in the Blair House. The green room had been redecorated and restored only a few months before the house was vacated.

THE EAST ROOM, the largest in the White House, where Abigail Adams, wife of the first occupant hung her washing, is used only for state receptions. A white and lemon-gold silk damask has been woven from an old document characteristic of many used in the 18th century. This material is used for the draperies, replacing the old cranberry red silk ones. Here, too, hang the portraits of George and Martha Washington saved when the British burned the original building in 1812.

The grand stairway to the second floor is entered from the main hall, rather than the secondary cross-hall as before the restoration. The marble floor, columns, pilasters, and wainscot of the main floor hall are new. A set of walnut framed Louis XIV benches have been installed. The hall is somewhat sparsely furnished, in keeping with its essentially plain architectural nature.

The second floor is brighter and more informal. The Monroe room is furnished with its restored and refinished original pieces. The draperies here are of an 18th century print of fruits and flowers in rose and blue. This room is very simply furnished with a desk, bookcase, sofas and lounge chairs suited to its historical background.

Having undergone a varied history and having been relegated to different rooms in the White House, the massive Victorian bed in which Abe Lincoln slept is once again the main feature of the Lincoln room on the second floor. Other pieces of furniture belonging to Lincoln are also used in the room, once Lincoln's study and where he signed the Emancipation Proclamation.

While the treatment of the second floor for the most part expresses a spirit of informality, the third floor is even more informal. The third floor bedrooms are smaller and economy and simplicity have been sought in the process of their renovation. There are 17 full bedrooms and 16 half baths in the house.

The original kitchen, on the ground floor of the White House, with its vaulted ceilings and stone fireplaces has been replaced by a new and modern kitchen. The old kitchen will be used as a conference and broadcasting room. Here will be sofas and lounge chairs of more modern vintage but completely restored, together with an old pine table and large hutch built from old rafters of the house at the time the building was reconstructed in 1815-17.

The main interior change is a strengthening of color throughout, and in contrast to this, the executive mansion will be a "whiter" White House.

LANA TURNER'S autobiography, in the December Woman's Home Companion, is one of the frankest and most honest life stories ever written by an actress. After telling hitherto unpublished facts about her early life, she goes on to relate the truth about her marriages—to Artie Shaw, Steve Crane and Bob Topping. There is the tale of her walking across the stage and speaking one line in her first picture; she was horrified when she saw herself on the screen, but that appearance shot her into fame as The Sweater Girl. She pulls no punches, makes no apologies; the result is a story that holds interest from beginning to end.

Great Britain Did Not Use Well Money U. S. Gave

By Wright A. Patterson

THIRTY-FIVE BILLION dollars of American tax payers' money have gone down the rat hole of English socialism, says Fulton Lewis, Jr., after a careful and thorough investigation in England. He found every other war-devastated nation of Europe well-recovered, fully employed with production at prewar figures with a million aroused, both as to each nation generally and with their individual citizens, with the shops and stores well stocked with both the essentials and the luxuries of living.

In England there was only austerity, meagre supplies, rationed food, a lack of ambition, reduced production, an ever-increasing burden of debt. All of that, regardless of the fact that this country has contributed to England more than two and a half times as much money as it has contributed to all the other war devastated nations of Europe. England did not use the money we generously provided for the purposes for which we intended, the reconstruction of the war-devastated sections of that country, but did use it to finance the venture into socialistic experiments which did not work.

The wealth of England has been dissipated without benefit to any class. The "something for nothing" of the Attlee labor government, in so far as it has worked at all, has been only possible through the money paid to the labor government by the people of America. And we are urged to follow the example of England, to follow the pied piper of socialism over the precipice into the oblivion that is today the fate of England.

The legislation the President has so ardently urged congress to enact is but additional steps toward socialism. The Brannan farm plan, medicine, federal aid for education—these and others are but moves for a centralized government that could easily become as much of a menace as the Atlee government.

We need a leadership that will turn us away from these socialistic dangers. No political party will provide such leadership, but there is one man, one individual, in whom the people of America have implicit confidence. That one man is the discredited general of the Army, Douglas MacArthur.

His words of warning against the socialistic advance are stirring millions of his countrymen to the battle front to oppose that more to be feared enemy than any other, socialism. Gen. MacArthur led our forces to victory in a terrible war. He administered the defeated enemy, starting the Japanese people in the ways of peace and instilling in them the desire for individual liberties. But he was not permitted nor invited to witness the final chapter of those great events of which he had been the central figure. Now he turns to another leadership. He does not do so as a candidate for the nomination to any public office. He does so only as a truly great American interested in the future of his country with the hope of defeating that greatest of all enemies that could threaten us—socialism. My guess is America will follow where he leads. It is our last chance for a continuance of the America we know and love.

All of the wild, reckless and needless spending of the taxpayers' money is not confined to members of the congress in Washington. Some of the same disregard for the interests of the people may be found in the council chambers of our towns and cities, in the court houses of our counties, in the legislative halls of our state capitals. It may not be in sums of billions, or even millions, but small or large, as it may be, it is not the money of our elected officials that is being foolishly or needlessly spent, but ours, the people who elected them to office. Congress may be too far away for us to reach in any practical way, but that is not true of our town, county and even state officials. We see them at frequent intervals, and should not hesitate to call them to account for not seeking ways to economize, rather than only ways to spend.

The chiselers on the relief rolls are so draining the wealth of the nation that it will not be long before there will be nothing with which to provide relief for those really entitled to consideration.

THE FICTION CORNER

THE FIREBUG

By Daniel Shifren

DR. Hawes made whipping motions his staff interpreted as, "Grab the extension, quick!"

Sadie Pruitt lifted a phone; then Hewlett Stevenson, Dr. Hawes' expert in things linguistic.

Lieutenant Linstrum was saying, "Doc, against my better judgment, the commissioner and the rest of the boys thought you ought to be called in on this case."

Dr. Hawes had been a psychiatrist until one of his cases caused him to see the application of psychology to criminal detection.

"Lieutenant, don't tell me only the commissioner. How about the business men whose properties are endangered by this firebug?"

The Lieutenant's voice crackled. "The business men too!"

Doc suppressed a laugh. "The case interests me. But first, your department lets the story out on the papers that Doc Hawes has been called in." The howl was just what Hawes expected. "Listen, Lieutenant, I like publicity, as you may have heard, but that doesn't matter here. I know these arsonists. Play ball or I can't be much help."

Hawes observed the pleasant reactions in his staff, waiting for the silence to break.

"Okay, Doc. I hope you know what you're doing."

Stevenson had the tape recorder ready; the front-page story in the Chronicle was spread out.

The waiting was getting to be monotonous. Doc eyed the phone morosely. But this time it pealed.

The stranger said, "Dr. Hawes, I've been an admirer of yours . . ." Doc knew who it was immediately. "Do you have any ideas on nabbing the culprit?"

To keep the man talking, Doc Hawes asked who was calling and waved for Sadie to notify the Lieutenant to trace the call, and for Stevenson to start the recorder.

"My name is Harris," said the stranger. "Just an admirer, you see."

"Thanks for your interest, Mr. Harris. No, I don't have much of an idea. This arsonist is a very clever man and is going to be hard to catch."

Hawes heard a delighted laugh. He fed the conversation until Stevenson signaled "enough."

STEVENSON played the tape back. "Definitely! That's Lancashire, glossed over some by residence in America. Afraid that's all I have on this one, Doc."

"You mean Lancashire, England?" Stevenson nodded.

Sadie Pruitt said the call had fizzled. It had come from a drug store.

"I've come about your ad in the Chronicle," the little man said.

STEVENSON played the tape back. "Definitely! That's Lancashire, glossed over some by residence in America. Afraid that's all I have on this one, Doc."

"You mean Lancashire, England?" Stevenson nodded.

Sadie Pruitt said the call had fizzled. It had come from a drug store.

"Is the Lieutenant still on? . . . Lieutenant? Can you manage to look like a lawyer for a while tomorrow? Got a slim lead. I'm going to try something in the Chronicle."

In the quiet office Lieutenant Linstrum poured over a sheaf of stage-prop briefs, uncomfortable in his role.

He said, "Doc, this setup looks screwy. How you get any results playing these games I'll never know."

A whispered "Shhhhh!" came from behind the slightly open inner door. "There's someone coming."

A little, mild-mannered man entered. "Solicitor Linstrum?"

"Yes?"

"I've come about your ad in the Chronicle. I lived most of my life in Lancashire."

Doc Hawes stepped into the office. "Oh, it's our 'Mr. Harris'. How are you, sir?"

The man was startled, ran. "Grab him, Lieutenant. That's our firebug."

At police headquarters, the Lieutenant asked, "Mind telling me now, Doc, how you baited this fish?"

"Simple," said the Doc, smiling. "Few men can resist the chance at some easy money. Here's the ad I ran in the Chronicle."

The little rectangle read: "Attorney, settling large estate, requires point of information that can be supplied only by a former resident of Lancashire, England. Most liberal reward."

"How liberal would you say, Lieutenant?"

"About twenty years."

Grassroots Poll Reveals Political Thinking in Home Town of Country

THE BIG GUESS—What is the political thinking in the home towns of America one year before the most important presidential election in the history of the country? Who will be the candidates? Who will win?

In an attempt to answer these questions, The Publisher's Auxiliary, a weekly newspaper published by Western Newspaper Union and directed to the publishers and editors of the country's small town publications, recently polled 6,444 editors. Replies revealed a trend of political thinking that has not been touched by previous national polls.

Of the 2,188 editors participating, with every state represented, 40.6 per cent believed that President Truman would be reelected. They also believed that Sen. Robert A. Taft would be the GOP candidate. The startling result of the poll, however, was that neither Taft or Truman were the editors' personal choice. Gen. Dwight Eisenhower was the personal favorite by 30.4 per cent, with Taft second with 27.1 per cent. President Truman polled only 8.6 per cent of the votes on the personal choice question.

The poll gains added significance in that it reflects the thinking of editors who know what the people of the home towns and cross roads are thinking. And unlike other national polls it samples the rural thinking of America, generally conceded as having been the balance of power in the last presidential election. A similar poll conducted in 1947 by The Auxiliary was 100 per cent accurate.

A brief summary of the questions asked and the answers revealed this thinking at the grassroots level:

1. Who do you think will be the next President? Percentage vote: Truman, 40.6; Eisenhower, 24.9; Taft, 20.5; Undecided, 6.1; Scattered (Warren, MacArthur, Stassen and other political figures), 7.9.

2. Who do you personally favor for the presidency? Percentage vote: Eisenhower, 30.6; Taft, 27.1; Truman, 8.6; Undecided, 6.8; Stassen, 6.5; Warren, 5.1; Douglas, 3.7; MacArthur, 3.0.

3. In your opinion, what candidate will the Democratic delegation from your state be pledged to at the national convention? Editors of 43 states said Truman, 4 states unpledged or rated undecided, 1 was said pledged to Russell, and 1 to Byrd.

4. In your opinion, what candidate will the Republican delegation of your state be pledged to at the national convention? Editors in 33 states believed Taft, 6 to Eisenhower, 1 probably pledged to Stassen, 1 divided between Taft and Eisenhower, 1 to Warren, and 1 unpledged or undecided.

5. Which candidate do you believe will receive the national Democratic nomination? The consensus showed that editors in all states believed it would be Truman by 94.5 per cent.

6. Which candidate do you believe will receive the national Republican nomination? Taft was picked by 57.5 per cent and Eisenhower second with 23.1 per cent.

STRANGE LAW—The strangest tax law in the history of the United States is now in effect. It is the 10 per cent tax on gambling.

This federal tax levy presents a strange paradox. It is supposedly a revenue raising scheme, yet it provides a public list which will allow local law officers to stamp out gambling and thus kill the expected source of revenue.

Gambling is illegal almost everywhere in the U. S. outside of Nevada. If the gambler complies with the federal tax, he then puts the finger on himself as a probable violator of the local law. If he doesn't comply, then he'll have the treasury men down on him.

Treasury men reason that many gamblers will stay in business because they have spent a lifetime operating outside the law; local policemen already know who's gambling without aid of federal publicity; and registrants for the "occupation tax" may still dodge jail unless it is proved they "actually received a bet."

DRAFT BOOST—The Defense Department has announced a draft quota of 59,650 for January, the largest number asked for in any month since last spring. Of the total, 48,000 will go to the Army and 11,650 to the Marines.

The department said the induction call for January was to "provide an orderly buildup of the armed forces to authorized strength, including the recent increase in the strength of the Marine Corps" and to compensate for the low call in December.

FARMERS' GIFT—A $41,936 gift from America's farmers was turned over for loading on a Friendship Food Ship in Chicago recently. The gift was donated in a good will gesture to refugees in Western Germany through the Christian Rural Overseas Program (CROP).

Chris J. Bannerup, a farmer of Twin Lakes, Minn., presented the gift at a ceremony that initiated CROP's 1951 fall appeal for 1,400 carloads of food for distribution among needy people in 32 countries. Additional Friendship gifts, bound for Italy, Greece, Turkey, Trieste, the Holy Land, India and Japan are also en route. Since 1947, CROP has collected through the nation 5,400 carloads of exportable farm produce as free gifts to the world's needy.

PAY BOOST—American Federation of Labor members of the government's Wage Stabilization Board have suggested a new wage policy under which pay raises would be permitted for increased efficiency and production.

The move was seen as a possible solution to the 5 per cent pay increase which labor has hinted at in the last few weeks. Added to the 10 to 12 per cent cost of living increases now permitted by the Stabilization Board above January 1950 levels, that would send the figure to 17 per cent.

The AFL contends the plan will cut costs and thus permit wage increases without boosting prices.

WON'T TALK—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower was in the United States last week for a series of talks with President Truman and military experts concerning the defense program in Europe. But the question in the minds of everyone in the nation, from home towns to the cities, was what are Ike's political plans?

Harassed by reporters and politicians alike, the general called at the White House and had a long talk with the President. When he departed he again told reporters he did not talk politics, he had not given anyone authority or a go-ahead to undertake any political activity on his behalf.

Thus Eisenhower cut the ground from under a number of Republican leaders who have been intimating broadly that he had authorized them to seek the Republican presidential nomination for him. But he still left the political picture wide open when he replied to a question if he would talk politics, by saying, "No, not just now."

DON'T UNDERESTIMATE WOMEN

Expert Says Father's Days Numbered

Dr. George P. Murdock, noted anthropologist, has made the sage observation of "don't underestimate women." Mankind faces the possibility of a woman's world in which females would own most of the property and husbands would play a secondary role in family life, he said recently.

It could even be that girls, not boys, eventually may carry on the family line and name, he observed. Murdock based the possibility on changing customs and traditions. One such change, he said, is the increasing political and economic emancipation of women.

According to Murdock, women already own "more than half of the corporate wealth of the United States." And the amount of that wealth is growing daily.

Thanksgiving Is a Family Day Dedicated to Giving Thanks

Thanksgiving is a family day, dedicated to giving thanks and feasting. And most home town families who make their living directly or indirectly from the soil have reason to be thankful, because this has been a bountiful year with few exceptions. Although not a record, the 1951 harvest is well above average. The number of cattle and swine on American farms are near the all-time record. And turkeys, synonymous with Thanksgiving, are in greater number than at any time in history.

During the last two weeks the local homemaker has noticed a heavier percentage of advertising in the home town publication than before, especially from grocery stores and poultry dealers. This is to be expected, because Thanksgiving, with the exception of Christmas, is the food industry's busiest and most profitable period of the entire year.

A MAIN STREET FEATURE

The profits, of course, are from volume. The average housewife during the past year has had to watch her food budget with great care, and in many cases has taken to hunting for food bargains. For that reason, the local grocer who has a savings to offer the women of his community can expect them to take advantage of it. But not unless his advertising tells them about it.

Generally, local grocery and poultry business has been exceptionally good during the past week. It even appears a new all-time seasonal record because on Thanksgiving the homemakers are inclined to overdo it a little and serve two kinds of potatoes, a host of vegetables and several desserts, and of course, the traditional turkey or a duck.

Since the turkey is usually the most important item on the Thanksgiving menu, preparation of the bird is the homemaker's first concern. The real secret in roasting the turkey is keeping the temperature as low as possible. As for preparation, here are eight simple steps that should insure outstanding success:

1. The turkey should be seasoned inside with salt before it is stuffed. (Approximately 1/4 teaspoon per pound of bird.) If giblets or other meats are added to the stuffing, cook them first. Don't pack the body cavity and neck region with dressing because it will expand. Allow room for expanding.

2. The body cavity should be shut. A good method is by metal skewers, laced together with strong cord. Some homemakers prefer to sew the cavity, using needle and cord. In either case leave long ends to the cord for tying the legs.

3. Wind the cord ends around the leg, above the joint and over the skin so it won't draw, and bring the legs together and tie them to the tailpiece until the leg ends are directly over the tail.

4. A long piece of the neck skin should be pulled over the back of the bird and fastened with a skewer or a few stitches.

5. Force the wing tips back until they rest flat against the neck skin, but don't try to secure them with a string across the breast, because that leaves markings on the surface.

6. Place the bird breast down, or on its side. Grease thoroughly, using unsalted, melted fat.

7. Cover the turkey with a thin open-textured cloth dipped in unsalted melted fat and place in preheated oven. If cloth dries during cooking, moisten with fat from bottom of pan.

8. After an hour, cut trussing string between drumsticks and tail and turn turkey to rest on other side of breast. When baking time is approximately 3/4 done, turn turkey on back to finish browning.

Properly done, trussing produces a bird of compact shape that won't dry out. The turkey will be more attractive on the platter and will be easier to carve.

Cranberries have become as traditional for Thanksgiving dinner as old Tom himself. With this in mind, here is a cranberry salad that will give the annual feast an unusual twist.

MIRROR OF YOUR MIND

Tot Sees Self In Animals

By Lawrence Gould

Do children see themselves in animals?

Answer: Yes, says Drs. Leopold and Sonya S. Bellak in the Journal of Projective Techniques. They describe their new version for children of the "Apperception Test" in which the subject is asked to say what he "sees" in specially designed pictures. In the Children's Apperception Test (CAT) the pictures are of animals because the authors say a child is likely to identify himself more readily with them than with adults or with other children. The seeming affinity between children and animals may well be due to the animals' freedom from inhibitions of natural instinct.

time being by his sufferings, while the sense of guilt on which the need is based remains and may cause a fresh disturbance any time that the unconscious situation changes. Real cure can come only when the patient has gained "insight."

Is "Dianetics" dangerous?

Answer: Most psychiatrists have always said so, but fresh affirmation of the charge is offered in a recent book by a physician who was once the medical director of the Dianetics Research Foundation. In "A Doctor's Report on Dianetics," Dr. Joseph Augustus Winter says that the practice of laymen attempting to "audit" one another (probe into one another's unconscious minds) is so dangerous as actually to have caused insanity in dianetic patients. And of course the danger would be greatest between married people. You have no more business fooling with your wife's unconscious mind than trying to take out her appendix.

Does insanity "get well of itself"?

Answer: Yes—and no. There are types of psychosis which seem to clear up without specific treatment in what the psychiatrists call "spontaneous remission," and the patient in such cases may remain comparatively well for years, or for the rest of his life. But what as a rule has really happened is that the patient's unconscious need to punish himself has been assuaged for the

KEEPING HEALTHY

Meat, Other Proteins Are Daily Need

By Dr. James W. Barton

I WRITE OFTEN ABOUT meat, despite the fact that it is expensive, because all the new research work on food and nutrition establish the fact that it is now known to be the most important food of the daily diet. This is because meat is rich in protein, the builder of new and repairer of old or worn cells of the body.

Meat is important for every individual, whether of normal weight, under weight or overweight. It meets the needs of the individual boy, girl, man or woman of normal weight because of its building and repairing of body cells. It meets the needs of the underweight because it helps to maintain any solid or muscle tissue gained, and it helps to reduce weight because of its extra or dynamic action in burning up fats and starches and preventing the storing of fat in and on the body. Research workers have found that neither fats nor starches have so direct and stimulating effect upon our tissues.

Proteins (meat, eggs, poultry, fish) have, as pointed out by Drs. Lusk and Bogert, also a stimulating effect upon the ductless glands, especially the thyroid in the neck which has been well named the balance wheel of the body. It is the juice of the thyroid gland that regulates the rate at which the body processes work, and as proteins cause the thyroid to become more active, it means that all the body processes work faster, more meat is manufactured, and so more fat melts away. Thus in all reducing diets, while fats and starches are always reduced, meats are never reduced.

In his book, "The Civilized Diseases," Dr. Boris Sokoloff states, "It is now common knowledge that protein foods such as lean meat are slenderizing because proteins burn more calories in the body than they provide; 100 calories of protein cause the body to increase its heat by about 150 calories. And this excess heat will burn extra fat."

★ HEALTH NOTES ★

Any bending exercise, taken regularly, if only for five minutes, will help keep fat off abdomen.

The skin contains the sweat glands which help regulate the temperature of the body.

As overweight does not come on in a matter of a few weeks or days, it will take many weeks, or even months, to get rid of it safely.

Instead of just a skin specialist studying a skin disease, a psychiatrist should be present too.

The skin is an organ and just as important to our health as other organs of the body.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

International Uniform Sunday School Lessons
BY DR. KENNETH J. FOREMAN

Why We Worship

Lesson for November 25, 1951

FEWER than two out of every three Americans belong to any church or synagogue. Yet the traveler across America is never long out of sight of some house of worship. With or without a cross, with or without a steeple, there will be a church or chapel or meeting-house, where like-minded people meet to worship the One God.

Dr. Foreman

Variety . . . It is amazing, the confusing variety of ways in which God is publicly worshipped. Some churches are liturgical; that is, the form of the service is prescribed, printed in a book, used with little change from generation to generation. Roman Catholic churches are of this kind (though there is a wide range of detail in the procedures of different Catholic churches); so are the Lutheran, the Reformed and the Episcopal churches, among others.

Other churches are non-liturgical, or free, in their mode of worship, varying all the way from churches with optional forms of worship on out to snake-handling sects like the "Church of God with Signs Following," where you never know one minute what is going to happen next.

The liturgical churches, too, are different as can be. Some liturgies are filled with chanting, incense, long and not easy for a stranger to follow. Other liturgies are brief and simple. The insides of these various kinds of churches are just as different as the interiors of hotels—all the way from the elegant Waldorf-Astoria down to the ramshackle boarding house of a frontier town. The leader of the worship may be clad in vestments gorgeous in the extreme, or in a plain black gown, or dressed in shirt-sleeves.

The "man from Mars" would be so bewildered by all this that he would ask: Is there anything at all that these different kinds of worship have in common?

Communion

FOR an answer, we can go back more than 3,000 years to the time when Moses was organizing his people's worship as he organized the rest of their lives. You would hardly have recognized that little "tabernacle" in the wilderness as a place of worship at all; it looked like neither church nor synagogue.

And what went on in the tabernacle would look strange to a Jew of today, stranger still to a Roman Catholic, stranger of all to a "non-liturgical" Protestant. And yet, what went on to make that tabernacle possible in the first place, and what went on in it afterwards, give us the answer to the question: What do all the innumerable forms of worship have in common?

First of all is communion with God. In true worship we become aware of Him! in the New Testament phrase, we "approach with boldness the throne of Grace." Worship is right when it actually brings the worshiper into a cleansing consciousness of the nearness of God,—when, indeed, he feels and knows that it is "in Him we live and move and have our being."

Not every one reaches this divine awareness in the same way.

Consecration

BUT there is another side to worship: Consecration. However varied the order of worship may be, one part of it will be found nearly everywhere: the offering.

This is actually one of the most important parts of the service, though it is often neglected and "skipped." For the offering is not only important in itself, but it is a great symbol of what worship ought always to be, a call to dedication.

Into the offering plate go bits of silver, green paper, checks . . . money? Yes, and more. This represents something of the life and work of the worshippers. Every man has some better moments when he would generously like to do something to help the world. On Sunday the church harnesses his vague good will. It gives him a channel for his generosity.

What a man gives ought never to be TO the church but THROUGH the church; it would be an expression of gratitude to God from one who knows that his whole life is God's gift.

FORT STEVENS Few Washingtonians Know Story Of Stockade in Center of City

WNU Washington Bureau
Thousands of motorists on Washington's busy Thirteenth street daily swerve around a rough stockade without ever realizing that these earthworks mark all that is left of the Civil War defense which saved the nation's capital from capture by a threatening Confederate army.

It was on this spot that President Lincoln stood and watched, as an eyewitness and a target, the only battle he ever saw. While he stood there, an officer fell with a death wound within three feet of him. The President was finally convinced by his officers that he was running a needless risk and was persuaded to get below the danger line.

General Jubal Early directed his attack against this fortification on July 11 and 12, 1864, saw it weakly manned and gave the order to fire. At the beginning of the battle, however, Union reinforcements, under the command of General Lew Wallace, who later wrote the famous book Ben Hur, relieved the fort and caused the Confederates to abandon their attempt against Washington.

In their march to Washington, Early's men had collected $20,000 from Hagerstown and $200,000 cash from the banks in Frederick, Maryland. It was only recently that the city of Frederick was able to pay off in full the notes given to reimburse the banks for this sum. Early's troops had torn up twenty-four miles of Baltimore and Ohio railroad tracks, and had burned the home of Postmaster General Montgomery Blair in Silver Spring, Maryland, then probably ten miles out of the Washington city limits but today an integral part of the greater metropolitan area.

General Wallace's defeat at Monocacy had delayed Early's army by one day, and that one day's grace, giving an opportunity to get fresh reinforcements into the city, is considered by many historians to have saved Washington from capture. General Early left Washington by a night march on July 12 with no one making a move to stop him. So the possibility of the Confederate flag flying over the capitol dome was lost.

Fort Stevens was constructed in August of 1861 on a site just off what was then called the Seventh Street road but what is now Georgia Avenue. It was originally named Fort Massachusetts, but was enlarged and renamed in 1863. In 1937 the fort was partially restored and is now under the care of the National Capital Park and Planning Commission. It occupies a block in a now fully developed part of the city. Mounds of earth are stacked against huge bullet-shaped wooden poles on the outer edges of the fort. In the center stands a flag pole that was never graced by a Confederate flag.

The fort is surrounded by churches, apartment buildings, and other evidences of modern urban life. Automobiles speed by. In the midst of all this, Fort Stevens stands apart, a quiet reminder of another age, another monument here of the war between the states, and a silent reminder of how near was the Confederate cause to the capture of Washington.

A Message of Importance
★ ★ ★ To Every Automobile Driver ★ ★ ★
In The State of Texas
HERE'S WHAT YOU SHOULD KNOW ABOUT THE NEW TEXAS "SAFETY RESPONSIBILITY LAW"

- 1 Enforcement Begins January 1, 1952. On this date, the new Safety Responsibility Law, as passed by the Legislature, goes into effect. This law was designed to protect you against financially irresponsible drivers and owners of motor vehicles involved in accidents. It affects all drivers and motor vehicle owners (except Federal, State, County and City-owned cars).
- 2 What Must You Do After An Accident? Under existing laws, you must file a written report to the Department of Public Safety if your car is involved in an accident where there is a death, an injury or property damage in excess of $25. Under the new law, a written report must be filed within ten days if your car is in an accident resulting in death, injury or property damage in excess of $100.
- 3 You Don't Have to Carry Liability Insurance, But . . . If you are not insured against bodily injury and property damage liability, you must be able to deposit with the Department of Public Safety security equal to the estimated damage, not exceeding $15,000.00, to cover all claims growing out of an accident anywhere in Texas in which you or your motor vehicle were involved. If you cannot establish financial responsibility for the future, your driver's license and your motor vehicle license plates are automatically suspended.
- 4 It's Easy to Establish Financial Responsibility with a motor vehicle liability insurance policy. If you do not now have such a policy, call your local insurance agent today. He is a qualified insurance counselor who will be happy to advise you concerning your needs.
- 5 What is the Minimum of Your Liability? The law permits each driver to establish the following minimum limits of liability: up to $5,000.00 for injuries sustained by one person; up to $10,000.00 for all personal injuries resulting from one accident, and up to $5,000.00 for property damage. You do not have to establish such liability but it is the easiest way.

Make Steamed Pudding for Holidays Now (See Recipes Below)

Holiday Favorites
STEAMED PUDDINGS and fruit cakes are age-old menu traditions that belong to Christmas and New Year feasts...
 Like most culinary heirlooms from other centuries, old-fashioned puddings and cakes would not please modern tastes.

Modern cakes and puddings are neither too heavy nor over-rich, and they combine all of the best and none of the bad features of the traditional concoctions.

Make them now, before you get too involved in shopping, making gifts and other decorations. Give them an opportunity to mellow.

HERE'S A PUDDING that's plump with goodness of fruits and nuts, fragrant with flavors and yet light enough to serve after ham, roast beef or turkey, whatever the choice for the holidays.

Steamed Date-Nut Pudding (Serves 8)
 1/2 cup butter or substitute
 1 1/2 cups dates, chopped fine
 1/2 cup chopped nuts
 3 1/2 cups soft bread crumbs
 3 teaspoons baking powder
 1/2 teaspoon salt
 1/2 cup milk
 3 eggs
 1/2 cup sugar
 1/2 cup apple juice

IF YOU DON'T like to make your cake several weeks ahead of time, here's one that can be made during the last week before festivities. The cake has a rich, luscious texture and a flavorful combination of citrus and nuts.

Santa's Prize Cake (Makes 1 Cake)
 1 cup butter
 1 cup sugar
 2 tablespoons grated orange peel
 2 teaspoons grated lemon peel
 2 eggs, slightly beaten
 2 1/2 cups sifted flour
 2 teaspoons baking powder
 1 teaspoon baking soda
 1/2 teaspoon salt
 1 cup sour milk
 1 cup chopped walnuts

Rich Fruit Cake (Makes 1 Cake)
 1 pound dates
 1/2 cup candied cherries
 1 slice candied green pineapple
 1 slice red candied pineapple
 2 slices white candied pineapple
 1/2 cup candied orange peel
 1/2 cup candied lemon peel
 1/2 cup candied citron
 1 cup chopped pecans
 1 can moist coconut
 1 can sweetened condensed milk

Greenland's Iceberg Export Drops Behind

Greenland's largest export, icebergs, hit a new low this year when, of an output estimated at 10,000 to 15,000 bergs, none succeeded in reaching the crowded shipping lanes between North America and Europe.

The largest Arctic icebergs take off from the continually advancing glaciers and icecap fringe of Greenland's west coasts, says the national geographic society.

In an average year about 400 of the total production survive a 1,800-mile southward drift before disintegrating in the warm Gulf Stream. This year no icebergs were reported below the 40th parallel along the southern tip of Newfoundland.

Moving south through Baffin Bay and Davis Strait to Labrador, many of the crystal "castles" and plain "flat-tops" jam against the coast or are caught in the natural traps of islands and bays. A few swing into the Labrador current and continue southward. Some drift toward Belle Isle Strait and some move around Newfoundland by way of Grand Banks to invade main traffic arteries and threaten shipping.

Major Arctic icebergs are produced by about 18 "name" glaciers. The Humboldt, near Thule, north of Cape York, is one that supplies outsize models. Mountains of ice a mile across and rising 200 feet above water have been reported, but the largest are puny compared to the 20-mile-long bergs sighted by Australian air reconnaissance in the Antarctic in 1948.

Nature Boy
 "Above all," the doctor argued, "you must eat more fruit, and particularly the skin of the fruit. The skin contains all the vitamins. What, by the way, is your favorite fruit?"

The patient looked gloomy, "Coconuts," he said.

KIDNEYS MUST REMOVE EXCESS WASTE
 When kidney function slows down, many folks complain of nagging backache, loss of pep and energy, headachings and dizziness. Don't suffer longer with these discomforts! If reduced kidney function is getting you down—due to such common causes as strain and strain, over-exertion or exposure to cold. Minor bladder irritations due to cold, dampness or wrong diet may cause getting up nights or frequent passages.

DOAN'S PILLS
 It's Wonderful the Way Chewing-Gum Laxative Acts Chiefly to REMOVE WASTE—NOT GOOD FOOD

Here's the secret millions of folks have discovered about FEEN-A-MINT, the modern chewing-gum laxative. Yes, here is why FEEN-A-MINT's action is so wonderfully different!

Doctors say that many other laxatives start their "flushing" action too soon... right in the stomach where food is being digested. Large doses of such laxatives upset digestion, flush away nourishing food you need for health and energy. You feel weak, worn out.

But gentle FEEN-A-MINT, taken as recommended, works chiefly in the lower bowel where it removes only waste, not good food! You avoid that typical weak, tired, worn-out feeling. Use FEEN-A-MINT and feel your "peppy," energetic self! Get FEEN-A-MINT! No increase in price—still 25c. 50c or only 10c.

tact with others, especially invalids, young children and old people. Evidence indicates that colds are readily transmitted from person to person.

For his own sake, the patient should rest as much as possible in order to help his body to fight the cold. If there is any fever it is advisable to go to bed and stay there. There is some question as to the effectiveness of the large quantities of water and fruit juices generally recommended in the past but they can do no harm and may help to some extent.

If a cold persists for several days the patient should by all means consult his family physician, especially if there is an accompanying fever. Although, as is generally known, there is no specific cure for the common cold the doctor can decide whether the patient has a simple cold or some more serious disease.
