New Nth Oil On Market

brand new oil, called Conoco's oil was launched on the market within the last week, and local demonstrations prove claims made by the company, according to Guy Wiley, dealer.

Never before given cars were able to prove the new Nth oil, which has an entirely new synthetic base. The new oil, as on all Conoco products is advertised exclusively in the PRESS in O'Donnell's trade territory.

The Conoco advertisement, which contains facts concerning Nth oil, will be found on page 7.

To secure national Conoco advertising, all newspapers MUST subscribe to the advertising agency. And this data should not be in the form of "ads," but the number of papers going into each community counted.

The PRESS which are sent to Lubbock, Fort Worth, Dallas and other cities must be set up as well as O'Donnell's list. Sentiment plays no part when national advertisers place their advertising. PAID circulation coverage and readability of a newspaper is what is considered. The paper that is subscribed for is the most read medium.

Girls Softball League To Be Organized Here

Girls and women of this area who desire to play softball but are not connected with any team, will have an opportunity to demonstrate their playing skill if present plans for the organization of a girl's softball league go through.

Girls who desire to play should leave their names and addresses with Jesse Bolch at the Burt's Auto Supply. They only have to reside in what is believed to be O'Donnell's trade territory. Players from Wells, Harmony, Mesquite, Midway and other neighboring communities are eligible as well as those living in O'Donnell.

Only two teams are organized at present, and no league is functioning. In order that a greater number of girls may play regularly, rules will perhaps be made to allow each team only 13 players, and no girl will be made to play on any team she does not wish to play with.

NAVY REDUCES MINIMUM HEIGHT LIMIT FOR AVIATION STUDENTS

A dispatch from the Navy Department received this morning at the office of the Naval Aviation Cadet Selection Board, 524 Allen Building, Dallas, definitely reduces the minimum height limit for Naval Aviation students from 5' 6" to 5' 4". This will be good news to many candidates who were otherwise qualified, but who could not quite stretch to 5' 6".

Commander Laverents, Senior Member of the Naval Aviation Cadet Selection Board this morning stated that he heartily approved of this change, as in his opinion, a man 5' 4" tall was physically able to handle the controls of Naval airplanes, as modern planes are equipped with controls which are adjustable to meet the requirements of the individual pilot. He further stated that the 5' 6" minimum height has always been considered a military requisite instead of physical.

Education requirements for Naval Aviation Training were recently modified eliminating mathematics from the college credits necessary. All other requirements remain the same.

Interested candidates should contact the nearest U. S. Navy Recruiting Station.

Mrs. Stansell Jones and young daughter Jane are visiting her parents in Quanah while Mr. Jones is in Flint, Mich., to drive a new car home.

"Go To Church" Move Endorsed By Local Firms

In co-operation with the desires of church leaders of O'Donnell, a campaign to wage a "Go To Church and Sunday School" drive is sponsored by the PRESS and business men of O'Donnell in this issue. The advertisement appears on page eight.

The PRESS cheerfully donated the space to the cause on behalf of the churches and business firms, as, too often, such drives are commercialized and many firms which cannot afford to do so, are left out of the sponsoring list thereby giving an unjust impression that that firm is not behind the movement.

Few firms in O'Donnell ever fail to do their part in any community effort, and if the name of any business firm was left out, it was unintentional on the part of the publisher.

Fruit Crop At Von Roeder Farms Considered Good

Approximately 4,000 bushels of fruit is to be harvested.

Persons desiring to purchase fruit will be notified through the PRESS in plenty of time. Watch for Von Roeder's advertisement in this paper soon.

Mrs. J. L. Shoemaker and daughter were in Lubbock Thursday to accompany Lloyd, who will attend summer school.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

By Edward C. Wayne

U. S. Plan for Hemisphere Defense Is Charted by President's Message Proclaiming Full National Emergency; Loss of Big Ships Highlights Sea Battle

(EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper.) (Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

PLEDGE: From FDR

The war course of the United States was more firmly charted by President Roosevelt's "fireside chat," yet the reactions abroad were considered as more important than that at home, enthusiastic though it was.

For the President went "all-out" on the diplomatic limb for a victory for Britain and China, pledging a continuance of United States' aid to the embattled democracies, and promising wider action when and if needed.

The speech was believed to have settled the convoy question, the strike issue, the use of the navy in furtherance of a British victory, many other questions which had kept the people of this country in a nightmarish condition of not knowing "what was coming next."

Virtually all of the American editorial comment was favorable, though many of the editorial writers took the stand that succeeding events would show how much of the President's talk was words—how much would be backed by action.

Night following Mr. Roosevelt's speech, Sen. Burton K. Wheeler of Montana took the radio to inform the nation regarding the stand of the opposition to the President's policies. He asked the President for a new "pledge of peace."

Rome newspapers cut the Gordian knot and stated that the U. S. "was virtually in the war." German press took a more literal view of the President's speech, referred only to his "freedom of the seas" dictum, called the United States a nation attempting to be dictator of the seas.

German government sources said: "Our ships have been ordered to continue the blockade of Britain, to sink all ships coming within the combat zones, and these orders have not been rescinded and will not be." Lease-lend ships had been sunk and there was no question about it, whether they had been patrolled or convoyed by U. S. naval ships or not. But so far no American flag ships had been sent to the bottom, for they had been keeping out of combat zones.

SENATOR WHEELER Asked for a new "peace pledge."

But that they would be sunk in the future no one seemed to doubt, and America interestedly, rather than anxiously, looked for that day to see what action would be taken.

The first shots to be exchanged between American-flag naval vessels and German planes, surface raiders or submarine was still to be fired, but most observers expected that, following the President's talk that this firing was just a matter of time, and that it might not be long.

The British reaction to the presidential address was prompt and jubilant. They accepted the pledge of American aid of a more complete and vigorous type than heretofore with enthusiasm, though the British "man in the street," not conversant with America's problems and political battlings, was rather befuddled by it all.

OPM'S: Report

Following a year of OPM functioning, Knudsen gave the country, at about the time of the President's epochal address, information which was more encouraging than anything that had come before.

Mass production, said Knudsen, was really now beginning to roll, with planes in April 1,300, in May 1,600, and similar increases, some of them more spectacular, all along the line.

The use of Cataline planes in the Bismarck battle showed that there were few British encounters now in which American-made equipment was not functioning.

Then along came the President's speech, asking for doubling of this, tripling of that, and three billions for planes—and in spite of the pressure which his demands put on the industrial situation, it began to be possible for Americans to visualize 50,000 planes, 10,000 tanks, and some of the other goals this country had set itself.

VICHY: Active Again

That Vichy was implementing her German aid was seen in British dispatches which told of the sinking of two French flag vessels in the Mediterranean, one of them a 5,000-ton tanker loaded with oil and headed for Tripoli.

At the same time the British reported the sinking of an 18,000-ton Axis liner, presumably Italian, carrying 3,000 German troops to the same destination.

These dispatches pointed, disquietingly enough, to proof of one of two things, possibly of both. Either there was being planned a strong increase in the battle of North Africa, or the Germans were moving in force to Dakar to create a strong base there.

Either of these was disquieting enough, particularly the latter, from the American point of view, but the main thing was that it showed definitely that Vichy was becoming active again, this time plainly on the German side.

It was brought to the fore again questions about the mystery of Weygand, where he was, what he was doing, what manner of man he might be. Defections of French troops to the British standard in the Near East—and crossings of the Syrian boundary by various groups to the Free French forces of De Gaulle were in the reports, lending color to the British claim that the Gaillard government was about to fall.

The Italians were getting nowhere in their general retreat in Ethiopia, and division after division was surrendering. But in spite of all this news, it was evident that the Petain government, possibly now dominated by Laval and Darlan or one of them, was getting more and more involved in the whole African and Near East campaign.

This might have far-reaching effects, not only on the present situation, but on the future disposition of national power after the war should be ended. Particularly would it affect the diplomatic interchanges going on between Vichy and the United States.

The sudden recall of Ambassador Winant to Washington for a conference with the President and the cabinet was just part of it. Vichy was in the midst of all that was moving on the continent, like a volcano emitting smoke after a long quiescent period.

SHIP:

For Ship

Down to the bottom of the Atlantic ocean went H. M. S. Hood, 42,100 tons, with about 1,300 men aboard, victim of an "unlucky hit" from the 15-inch guns of the Reich's great battleship Bismarck.

Three days later, down to the bottom of the same Atlantic went the Bismarck, victim of a "lucky hit" on her propellers from a British torpedo plane.

But the whole Bismarck story, observers generally felt, might change, if it had not already changed, the whole story of naval warfare. It brought the airplane into new prominence, and showed that this arm of present-day navies had not been given the notice it deserved.

Indeed, the plane-battleship controversy got a sharper answer during the past few weeks from the Hood-Bismarck battle and the Cretan encounter of the Mediterranean British fleet with the Stukas that it had thus far in the war.

In both of these battles the planes gave a good account of themselves. The British admitted the loss of two cruisers and four destroyers, in the battle of Crete, and while the ships of war prevented any ship-crossing to the island, it was at terrific cost.

It is true that planes cost a good deal, but it takes around a million dollars to build a destroyer, and anywhere from 10 to 30 millions for a bigger cruiser, and those millions lost in the Crete battle would have bought even more than the "hundreds" of Stukas engaged, and only relatively few of which were lost.

Economic Advisor

Isadore Lubin, commissioner of labor statistics, who has been called in by President Roosevelt as his economic advisor on the $7,000,000,000 lend-lease program.

My Week by Eleanor Roosevelt. On my way back to Washington from New York the other morning I read Secretary of State Hull's speech. I must say that I was with pride because of the great strain of expression and firmness humanitarian interest Secretary Hull so ably expressed. I thought some of the speeches which I had heard from Germany over the radio, and compared the sentiment expressed by Secretary Hull with those of Mr. Hitler and his subordinates. Our secretary of state of freedom and co-operation in a program for world betterment, I feel sure that our own people heartily endorse everything he said.

I also read two speeches, one delivered by John Brophy before the Pennsylvania State Industrial Union Council convention, Harrisburg, Pa. The other was a speech delivered before the convention of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers, in Philadelphia, Pa., by Charles E. Wilson, president of the General Electric company.

Both speeches approach the same problem from different angles. But the spirit that lies back of the approach is so similar that one cannot believe that men of this caliber, if they could be multiplied, would not solve our difficulties in the general field of economic conditions, not only as they face us, but as they face the world. In traveling around the country, I felt more and more keenly the need for something which is presented in the Philip Murray plan mentioned by Mr. Brophy and which is suggested by Mr. Wilson in his general survey of future co-operation.

FOREIGN ELEMENTS IN U. S.

There is one subject which is troubling me increasingly and which I feel I must talk over with you. It is perfectly natural that we should be extremely anxious now to keep foreign agents from retarding our defense industries, or from creating dissension among us through the activities. We must find alien agents here illegally and, in so doing, we must question many people who are entirely innocent of any subversive activity. For that reason I feel that only the highest caliber men, employed the legally constituted government authorities, should have anything to do with these activities. For the rest, it seems to me if we know anything really suspicious, we have an obligation to report it to the proper government authorities. Our country, however, is made up of people, many of whom have come here recently, but who are either in process of becoming citizens, or who may be citizens already, though of foreign birth or parentage.

They are probably more devoted to the democratic form of government than many of our citizens who have taken their allegiance to democracy for granted. These people must be encouraged to trust and to love their new country and their neighbors. They must be given the same opportunity the rest of us have. I am deeply troubled by certain things that have come to me. For instance, in industries, some people because their names are Italian or German, or because they or their parents are known to have been born in those countries, are refused employment.

We, in this country, are opposing totalitarian government. We do not like Nazi or Fascist regimes. But we are not opposing the refugees who want to help us make our country safe, nor citizens who have come to us from other lands and who are loyal and good Americans. This demands from us a refusal to be hysterical and an ability to use our powers of observation, but to use them wisely.

PLEASANT GARDEN PARTY

One afternoon the cabinet ladies received with me at a small garden party for the wives of the members of the house of representatives, and the women members themselves. This is always a very pleasant party and I was delighted to have such a good day.

Then, for a few minutes, I went to the opening of the Soldiers and Sailors club, which the Women's National Democratic club is helping to finance as a defense project. It will serve, we hope, as a place of recreation and relaxation for the men in our services who come to this city.

We succeeded, somewhat breathlessly, in catching our plane for New York city, and still somewhat breathlessly, we caught the train for Portland, Maine. Here we had a leisurely breakfast and then started for Augusta, Maine, by motor, to have the pleasure of lunching with the governor and Mrs. Sewall. It was beautiful driving through the Maine countryside. The lilacs were in bloom, the blossoms all out and there were sparkling blue water on one side and dark green pines on the hill. There is something about a beautiful Maine day which is hard to match. One forgets it for a while perhaps, but recognizes it immediately one returns to the state. There will always be a pull on my heartstrings with the first glimpses of miles of blue-green tree tops.

Post Rodeo Is This Week End

POST, June 5—More than five thousand West Texas and New Mexico visitors are expected here today and Saturday to join Garbino county residents in seeing Post's day non-professional rodeo. Post has been in readiness for the celebration since Saturday when Stampede officials announced that more than $3,000.00 had been set on permanent improvements to the grounds, including the building of 4,000 additional seats. The Post Stampede, Inc., sponsor of the annual entertainment, has posted more than $1,300.00 in prizes, two $115 saddles and other merchandise prizes, for the hundred or more contestants who will participate in the various events.

There will be five major events cowgirl sponsor's contest, calf roping, wild cow milking, bronc and steer riding.

Besides the four exciting rodeo performances, a colorful and spectacular street parade will be staged each day at 12:30 o'clock. Old time cowboy dances, the kind grandpa and grandma used to enjoy, will be held each night following the night performances. Mrs. Delaney Davis and her five-piece string-band of Spur will furnish music for the "shin-digs." The Spur square dance team will spice the dances with specialty numbers.

Afternoon performances begin at 2 o'clock, night shows at 8.

HEALTH SERVICE TO BE DISCONTINUED

We regret to announce that the health service in this county is to be discontinued. Circumstances beyond our control have prompted the commissioners and the judge to make this decision. We wish to thank the people of Lynn County for their cooperation in helping to make our work successful in the short time that we have been here. There is the feeling in our mind that the work here is just now beginning to show a little results and that it would show greater results if allowed to continue.

We hope that though we are leaving there have been some of you that have benefitted from the service rendered you. The immunizations, school work, venereal disease clinic, and maternal service, and other services given you were brought to you for the purpose of making you as an individual more self conscious of your own individual health. It would be impossible for me to recount in detail every step that we have made in the past year and half. Ordinarily an individual does not give concern to his health until it is lost and then he is willing to give any price to regain it. But in our program we teach preventive ways of saving one's health rather than curative ways.

Let us take this opportunity to ask that all parents who have children who need to have the second "shot" of diphtheria bring them into the health department some Monday morning of this month. Also to remind every one that this service will be discontinued the First of July and anything that we can do between now and that time to render service will be gladly done.

Let us again say that we are sorry to be leaving the county and that we appreciate the courtesy and friendship shown us while here.—Gladys Davis, County Health Nurse.

the ROAD AHEAD

Old Man Texas is today looking ahead and planning.

Beside the great farming and ranching country which Texans have built, he sees a new industrial empire here.

Already the start has been made. Some industries, such as petroleum, are now showing what can be done to utilize Texas' vast natural resources. Today this industry refines with Texas labor over four-fifths as much oil as the State produces. Its products make up nearly one-half of all Texas manufacturing. Altogether petroleum provides the living for almost one-sixth of our people.

But this is only a beginning.

Texas has many other raw materials, unexcelled by any other State. Texas has in oil and gas the cheap and dependable fuel supply essential to industry. Texas is the gateway to Latin America, our new foreign market.

Each new industry means more jobs. It makes added tax values for our State and local governments, bigger payrolls for our workers, and greater prosperity for you and every other Texan.

THE SMOKY YEARS

By ALAN LE MAY W.N.U. Release

INSTALLMENT 7: THE STORY SO FAR:

Dusty King and Lew Gordon had built up a vast string of ranches which stretched from Texas to Montana. King was killed by his powerful and unscrupulous competitor, Ben Thorpe. Bill Roper, King's adopted son, undertook to break Thorpe's power. His first step was to start a cattle war in Texas. He made this decision against the opposition of Lew Gordon and the tearful pleading of his sweetheart, Jody Gordon. With the aid of Dry Camp Pierce and other outlaw gunmen, Roper conducted raid after raid upon Thorpe's herds. Cleve Tanner, manager of Thorpe's Texas holdings, seemed helpless to stop him. In spite of his daring plans, Roper's resources had dwindled dangerously low by the time winter came. And Thorpe seemed not to feel the losses.

CHAPTER X

The winter dragged out slowly. Roper's plans, bold as they were, had been well laid. He had perceived from the first that success or failure depended upon whether or not he could make his war with Tanner self sustaining. To gnaw away at the Tanner herds was one thing; to turn their captures into cash was altogether another.

Roper had hoped that he could initiate his own drives to the north, but he had found this out of the question. On the other hand, the trail drivers had found themselves so vulnerable that none of them wanted to buy cattle of questionable ownership.

The Thorpe-Tanner organization did not have this problem; they took what they wanted and drove what they wanted, by means of their own trail outfits. But Roper could not only dispose of cattle for the trail through ranchers known to be scrupulous and established men.

This was the strategic purpose behind Roper's rehabilitation of the eleven outfits which Tanner had originally seized, and which Roper had now put back into the hands of their proper owners. These re-established ranchers had not only the sympathy but the respect of everyone who knew anything about Texas cattle.

Through these men Roper now had a safe and sure outlet for the cattle recovered by Dry Camp's experts, while the gunfighters under such men as Nate Liggett, Tex Daniels, and Hat Crick Tommy supplied a much needed protection until they could get on their feet.

But this method, promising as it was, was slow. Of necessity the men whom Roper backed were cowmen without assets other than their disputed claim to their ground.

Sometimes by mortgage loans, but principally by silent partnerships, Roper had now obtained interests in nearly a dozen outfits. They should have been thriving outfits. But Roper found his money draining away with unforeseen swiftness, without hope of any financial return until the trail should open in the spring. Only the Mexican border operations, which depended upon Lee Harnish, continued to show a thin trickle of income through the winter months. As spring approached, Roper found himself near the end of his string.

Early in February, Shoshone Wilce came south seeking Bill Roper, and found him at the Pot Hook ranch. "Find out anything?" Roper asked.

Shoshone Wilce rubbed his badly shaved chin with horny fingers. "I don't know as you're going to like this so very good, Bill."

"Let's have the bad news first—I eat it up."

"God knows there's enough of it; there ain't any other kind to be had. What do you want to know first?"

"How's Thorpe making out up above?"

"I saw him in Dodge City; he was throwing money around with a shovel in each hand. You know what I think? I think he can go away and forget Tanner, and write everything he has in Texas right off the books, and never know the difference!"

Roper locked his hands behind his head and stared at the ceiling. Sometimes it seemed to him that trying to break Tanner was like trying to empty the Rio Grande with a hand dipper. The apparently unbounded resources of Ben Thorpe in the middle country and in the north, out of reach of the south Texas war, made up a vast reservoir which Tanner could draw on without limit.

"How is Tanner himself making out?"

"Bill, I've been all up and down the north and east part of Texas; and I can't see where we've accomplished a damned thing..."

"You don't know what you're talking about!" "You know what I think?" Wilce persisted. "I think there's more cattle in this country than the world has any use for. I don't think you can bother any man any more, just by fooling with his cattle."

knows his cattle counts better than me. But—I've been all up and down this country, and I don't see but what he can."

"Well, anyway," Roper said, "the border gangs are going good. We'll go on with it, and keep going on..."

"Not much farther, I guess." "You going to have to quit?" Roper shook his head. "I'll never quit now, Shoshone; I can't quit. While I've got one rider left with me, or no riders, I'll still be working on Cleve Tanner. But I think we're going to beat him, Wilce. After all, the border gangs—we can count on them."

Roper continued to count on his border gangs for two weeks more. Then, in the middle of February, he learned that Lee Harnish was through.

The first word of difficulty came when Dave Shannon pushed a little bunch of seven hundred head through the river at Mudcat Turn, and found no vaqueros waiting on the other side. Shannon waited three days before he was forced to turn the cattle free and ride.

The complete news of what had happened never really came. What Roper learned came in bit by bit, by way of random riders who had talked with a vaquero here, another there.

Lee Harnish had been pressing south with a herd of twelve hundred head. He was two days into Mexico, and supposed that he was clear; he had never had much trouble, once he was well below the line.

Harnish took to the brush and the hills.

But now, one moonless night, a band reported as of at least sixty men struck from no place, scattering the herd, and blazing down on Harnish's riders almost before they could take to the saddle. There had been a sharp running fight as Harnish and his half-dozen boys took to the brush and the hills. Unsatisfied with seizure of the herd, the unknown band had spent three days trying to hunt down Harnish's riders.

Lee Harnish himself, wounded in the first skirmish, had had a hard time getting clear; it was not known whether or not all of his riders were elsewhere accounted for.

After an elapse of several weeks, an Indian-faced vaquero came hunting Bill Roper; he carried a written message from Lee Harnish:

"This thing is finished up. Don't let anybody tell you it was Cleve Tanner men busted into us. What has done, this Tanner has put some bunches of Mex renegades up to landing on us, they work with the Yakis, and his Indian scouts have spotted where we make our crossings. Seems like there's anyway a dozen bands of them haven't got anything else to do but lay watching those crossings, and wait us out."

"About half of them is carrying new American guns and plenty ammunition. They got our hide nailed to the fence all right and we are through."

It was a long time before Roper saw Lee Harnish again. He did not accept Harnish's statements off-hand; but when he had conferred with Dave Shannon, and others of the border men in whom he believed, he was forced to accede that the border-running phase of the attack on Tanner was done.

As February drew to a close, the big herds were once more being thrown together for the trail. From the eleven rehabilitated outfits in which Roper was now silent partner, a little trickle of trail cattle began to move toward the gathering grounds on the Red. The income from these sales helped a little; but the proceeds were principally absorbed by debts incurred in behalf of the individual ranches. The improvement in his situation which Roper had hoped for did not come.

It was deep into March when Tex Long quit. "Look," Tex Long said, "look." He did not talk easily; whatever he said was matter-of-fact, even now. "I got to pull out of this game."

Bill Roper looked at him, without expression. "All right. How much you figure I owe you?"

A very rare flush of anger came into Bill Roper's face. "Tex, what's the matter with you?"

Tex Long made a quick, futile gesture with his hands. "We used to be able to jump down on them. We can't do that now. The Bert Johnson place is studded with rifles until a man can't take a step. Every place you'll find out it's the same. There isn't going to be anything more we can do. We went good for a while. But they got organized, now. We're through."

Tex Long was only one of Bill Roper's picked gunfighters, but he was one of the best. As March drew on, Roper lost four more.

Into the Big Bend, into the valley of the Nueces, Cleve Tanner had flooded such a power of gunfighters as Bill Roper would not have believed. He had supposed that he could outpace and outsmart Tanner's warrior outfits. But now his raiding forces met everywhere a stubborn resistance.

Roper had discounted the quit of Tex Long; but now other news was coming in. The Graham outfit—the first of all those that the Roper men had taken—was again in the hands of Cleve Tanner; and Nate Liggett, assigned to protect Graham, had headed for the tail without even a report. Hat Crick Tommy was three weeks missing. The Davis outfit, left under his protection, had gone the way of all loose outfits, and Tanner's cowboys rode the range.

Dry Camp Pierce was almost the last to come in—of those who came in at all.

Pierce rode into the Pot Hook Camp early in April. He was the same, small wiry man he always had been—his eyes watery, his jaws poorly shaven.

"Bill, I can't carry these camps no more. God knows we strung with you while we could. We've eat beef, beef, beef without salt or flour, we've eat bobcat meat. But Bill, there's no lead in our guns, and there's no patches in our pants, and it's time I got to let the boys go, to make out any way they can."

Bill Roper looked older than Dusty King had ever looked; his face was like granite, with hard lines cut into it by the weather.

"Okay," he said. "I understand how you feel, Dry Camp."

Dry Camp's anger was gone as quickly as it had come. "Bill," he said pleadingly, "it's only—it's only—"

"It's only that you've had a lot of men out working for us," Bill Roper said more reasonably.

"Near fifty men," Dry Camp said. "How many you got working now?"

Dry Camp Pierce hesitated. "Not a damned man," Bill Roper said bitterly. "And now you quit Dusty King."

"Look you here," Dry Camp said. "I've strung with you when I wouldn't have strung with any other man, let alone an upstart kid. I'll say this for you—you've made a game fight. But kid, take my word for it—they're too big, and they're too strong."

"You think so?" Bill Roper said. "I know so. I don't know what you had, made men like Lee Harnish and Dave Shannon and Nate Liggett throw in with you, but they did—the damndest wild bunch Texas ever seen. Half the renegades of the Long Trail, and your part of King-Gordon, has gone into beating Cleve Tanner. And where are we now?"

"Well?" "We aren't any place! Kid, I tell you we're beat, and we're long beat!"

April melted into May, and Roper had nothing to fight with any more. Those units of his wild bunch that had not quit had not been heard from at all; he knew already that the ones who had completely failed, Cleve Tanner prospered, seemingly; and all was well with Ben Thorpe.

Bill Roper waited at the Pot Hook now, trying to think of some way that he had missed. King-Gordon denied him, and Lew Gordon expressly would advance nothing more against Dusty King's share of the partnership which had been broken by death...

MAN HOURS LOST MAKES FEARFUL TOTAL

BURIED in the department of labor at Washington are the figures which tell the story of strikes in the United States. For his book, "The Dead Hand of Bureaucracy," Lawrence Sullivan dug up those figures for the years from 1930 to 1939.

The labor department keeps them on the basis of the number of man hours lost and the figures for 1941, when available, will demonstrate how much more we might have accomplished in the matter of preparedness and aid to England had there been no strikes.

In 1930 the number of man hours lost because of strikes was 2,730,368. In 1932 it had increased to 4,462,973, but in 1933, the year of the enactment of the Wagner labor law, it jumped to 16,872,128, with 19,591,949 for 1934. The top year was 1937, with the staggering figure of 28,424,857 man hours lost. That meant one week's work for 710,621 men, or 52 weeks of 40 hours each for 13,663 men—enough time to build approximately two battleships. For 1939, the last year for which I have any figures, the loss was 18,687,739 man hours.

What will it be in 1941? How much will strikes affect our efforts for preparedness and aid to England? It will certainly mean enough hours to have produced hundreds of airplanes or other implements for the defense of the nation.

Strange as it may seem, both William Green and John L. Lewis say the administration of the Wagner act by the National Labor Relations board is responsible for the strike problem.

WITHOUT THE PLAIN FACTS THERE IS NO DEMOCRACY

AMERICAN DEMOCRACY is being sabotaged through the feeding of misinformation, paraded in the guise of facts, to the American people. That is not the act of any one political party, or any one group of political leaders. The policy of all parties is to attempt to support their policies by false interpretations of the acts of the people's government.

American people do not object to any expression of political opinion on the part of political leaders, but they do object when the men they have set up as leaders attempt to support their opinions by false presentations.

People are entitled to the bare, unvarnished facts, and they are not getting that kind of information. Some day the people will discover they have been hoodwinked and when they do, the political leaders who are responsible for the condition will pay the penalty. Before that happens, democracy may be so far gone that it will take generations for its recovery.

Democracy will function only when all people who must carry the responsibility for its functioning are in full possession of the plain facts.

THE DOLLARS SPENT AT HOME WORK FOR US

A CLERK in a market of our town receives a dollar as part of his salary. He spends it with the clothier for a necktie. The clothier's clerk gets it as a part of his salary. He spends it for food at a market. The owner of the market pays it to a carpenter for store repairs. The carpenter pays it to the lumber dealer. The lumber dealer pays it to his truck driver and so on and on. That dollar spent in our town may pass through many hands, and each person receiving it derives a benefit.

Because of the dollars spent in our town, our merchants and home owners are able to pay taxes. With the taxes they pay, we support our town government, we maintain schools for our children, we pave and maintain our streets. It is the dollars spent at home which make our town a desirable place in which to live.

The dollars spent outside our town do not help in doing any of these things. They do nothing toward maintaining our property values.

These are things to think about when we have dollars to spend.

HOW DICTATORS ARE BORN

ON MARCH 23, 1933, the German Reichstag gave Hitler the privilege of making the laws of Germany for four years. That made Hitler a dictator; that marked the real beginning of World War No. 2. When the legislative branch of any country abdicates and passes its functions on to the administrative branch, a dictatorship results. At the end of four years the Reichstag could not take back what it gave away in 1933.

TOO BIG

LOOKING BACK through history we find that Kaiser Wilhelm, Napoleon, Tamerlane, Genghis Khan, Charlemagne, Attila the Hun, Caesar, Alexander and perhaps others, have at one time or another attempted to conquer the world and make it over to their liking. No one of them succeeded. Hitler's effort is destined to meet the same fate. The world is too big for any one man to swallow. Even in lesser affairs, things can become too unwieldily for successful handling.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

There is nothing so handy in a kitchen as a shelf above the sink for soaps, etc.

A wire screen, galvanized steel or copper, can be fitted over the tops of roof gutters to keep out leaves and trash.

Common kerosene will cut the grease from the kitchen sink and remove that ring from the bath tub.

Offensive odors coming from sinks and drains can be eliminated by pouring in a strong solution of borax and hot water.

Glassware takes on the highest polish if dried directly from hot, clean suds without being rinsed.

When laundering clothes, don't use too much soap because water becomes so slippery that it "slides past" instead of penetrating the fabrics.

Covering uncooked meats placed in the refrigerator favors bacterial growth.

REFRESHMENTS PLUS!

Summer nears. You think of lots of things—new, crisp, cool clothes... vacation trips... gardening... and yes, even parties, especially gay ones that all for a minimum of "home work."

I think I understand. You love to have people in your home. In spite of the warmness of June days, you want those of your friends who remain in town to drop by often for conversation, relaxation and refreshments.

Dessert bridge parties will do wonders to round up the "Mrs." crowd who feel free, after feeding hubby and the children, to don dress-up frocks and skip out for dessert and an afternoon of fun.

substitute another hobby, but the serving of dessert upon the arrival of guests can nevertheless be carried out. Serving dessert when guests arrive gives the hostess lots of leeway.

Tropical Gingerbread. 2 eggs, 3/4 cup brown sugar, 3/4 cup pure molasses, 3/4 cup melted shortening, 2 1/2 cups flour, 2 teaspoons baking powder, 1 cup boiling water, 2 teaspoons ginger, 1 1/2 teaspoons cinnamon, 1/2 teaspoon cloves, 1/2 teaspoon nutmeg, 1/2 teaspoon baking soda, 1/2 teaspoon salt.

Vanilla mousse is the basis for a number of appetizing desserts, and is a good party refreshment in itself. Among the many variations are peanut brittle and chocolate fudge mousses.

To make the vanilla mousse, fold one cup of confectioners' sugar and two teaspoons of vanilla into one quart of heavy cream that has been whipped. Fold in four egg whites which are stiffly beaten.

LYNN SAYS:

In thinking of party foods, I remembered these few suggestions my mother passed on to me. Maybe you'll find them helpful. To remove pecan meats whole, cover the shells with boiling water and let them stand until cold before cracking them.

cream freezer. Allow three hours for the freezing. This recipe will yield two quarts of mousse. For a crunchy surprise frozen dessert for your guests, serve peanut brittle mousse. To make it, crush 1/2 pound of peanut brittle with a rolling pin and fold into the vanilla mousse before it becomes solid (about 1 1/2 hours).

If it's an extra-special party you're planning, I've included a special dessert-bridge menu in today's column. You'll spend more hours in the kitchen preparing these particular foods, but they're so-o-o good that your guests' ohs and ahs will amply reward you for your efforts.

Cream Sponge Cake. 1 cup sifted cake flour, 1 teaspoon baking powder, 1/4 teaspoon salt, 1/2 cup cold water, 1 teaspoon grated lemon rind, 2 egg yolks, unbeaten, 3/4 cup granulated sugar, 2 egg whites, unbeaten, 1 teaspoon lemon juice, 2 tablespoons granulated sugar. Sift flour, baking powder, and salt together three times. Add water and lemon rind to egg yolks, and beat with rotary egg beater until light colored and at least tripled in volume.

*Orange Chiffon Cake. 2 8-inch Cream Sponge Cake Layers 1 envelope plain, unflavored gelatin, 1/4 cup cold water, 4 eggs separated, 3/4 cup granulated sugar, 1/2 cup orange juice, 2 tablespoons lemon juice, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1 tablespoon grated orange rind. Make and bake the Cream Sponge Cake Layers, following the recipe.

Meanwhile, soak gelatin in cold water 5 minutes. Place beaten egg yolks, 6 tablespoons sugar, orange and lemon juices, and salt in double boiler. Cook while stirring until like custard. Add gelatin, and stir until dissolved. Remove from heat, stir in orange rind, and chill. When mixture begins to thicken, fold in meringue made by beating egg whites until frothy, but not dry, and folding in 6 tablespoons sugar gradually, while continuing to beat until stiff. Prepare cake layers for the filling by placing one layer on a cake plate; make collar of double waxed paper about 3 inches high to fit tightly around edge of cake; secure with pins or paper clips. Pour orange filling over the top of this layer; top with second cake layer; then place in refrigerator to chill until set. Before serving, remove waxed-paper collar from cake. To add finishing touch to top of cake, place lace-paper doily over top layer, sift confectioners' sugar over it, and remove doily carefully to preserve design.

BEGINNING OF WORLD MISSIONS

LESSON TEXT—Acts 12:25-13:12. GOLDEN TEXT—And he said unto them, Go ye into all the world, and preach the gospel to every creature.—Mark 16:15.

Nineteen hundred years of "front line action" for Christ began that day in Antioch when the first missionaries of the cross were sent forth. There is no more thrilling story in all history than that of missions. The glorious thing is that it goes on year after year, and will do so as long as the Lord of the harvest continues to send forth workers.

I. The Base of Operations (vv 1-3).

Every army must have a home base; just so, the army of the Lord looks to the home church, the local gathering of God's people. An army would fail if those at the base of its action were asleep, or so interested in the pleasures of this world, or so indifferent to their responsibility, that they would not work hard in support of the active army.

The church at Antioch prayed and fasted. It ministered the Word of God. It was responsive to the guidance of the Holy Spirit and ready to sacrifice by giving its leaders to the missionary cause. Is your church that kind of a church? If not, why not?

Observe also that it is from such a church that God calls His workers. Sunday school teacher, you may have in your class next Sunday one of the missionary leaders of the next generation. See to it that the message from God reaches that heart.

II. Good Soldiers of the Cross (vv 2-4).

The army does not call for the weak or physically handicapped to serve. Just so, God's service calls for the strongest men and women of the church, not the misfits or failures. A girl was once heard to remark: "If I can't get married, I will be a missionary." Fortunately for God's work, she did get married. Some men who cannot succeed in business think that means they should be missionaries.

God wants our best (Deut. 15:2) and He wants the best a church can give, which means the best spiritually, but in other ways as well. Note also in verses 3 and 4 that the messengers of the Lord must be constantly led of the Holy Spirit.

III. The Heat of Battle (vv 5-10).

Warfare is not a Sunday school picnic. It means conflict with the forces of the enemy. So the missionary of the cross must be prepared to meet Satanic opposition. Saul and Barnabas met this "son of the devil" (by the way, reader, we trust you do not belong to that family) who opposed the work of grace which had begun in the heart of the governor (vv. 8-10).

However, there are those who do seek to hear the Word of God (v. 7) as did Sergius Paulus. The business of the missionary is to preach to them, but not only to them. The city of Paphos was really a miniature of the world of that day. It was a Greek city of high culture and low morals. It was ruled by the Roman governor, a man of noble character and a "man of understanding" (v. 7). But right with him was Elymas the sorcerer, a wicked and ungodly Jew, a disgrace to his own people and a hindrance to the work of God.

The messenger of God rejoices in the opportunity to minister the Word, whether to Roman, Jew, or Greek, of high or low estate, wicked or good, interested or antagonistic. They all need God's Word.

IV. Victory for Christ (vv. 11, 12).

The army goes into battle with the purpose of winning a victory, or it is defeated before it starts. The Lord's army is on a victorious march, certain of success, because He that is in us is "greater than he that is in the world" (I John 4:4).

Go To Church

And Sunday School Next Sunday

You will help others you will help yourself if you attend church and Sunday school regularly. Your preferred church needs YOUR assistance—greater than it has ever needed help in the past. Forces of evil, atheists, agnostics and all the array of Anti-Christ forces are battling day and night to undermine Christianity. Think—do you want the Church to disappear? And all the good that the Church does done away with in YOUR community? If not then don't you think we should all FIGHT, FIGHT, FIGHT for the Church and Christianity?

The following O'Donnell Business Firms, who do not shirk any community need, endorse the move "Go To Church and Sunday School." This advertisement is printed free to those merchants in order that no commercialism, nor lack of money, would keep any merchant's name off this page. The Press gladly donates this space to all churches and the ever-assisting business firms.
