Letters to Editor

Dear Editor,
Now while I'm all riled up and good and sticky with soap that dried on me 30 minutes ago as I stood under the shower waiting for the water to burst forth, I think it is a pretty good time to say that SOMETHING HAS GOT TO BE DONE about O'Donnell's water system. Not much "System" to it; maybe I should say "O'Donnell's Water Supply".

Here awhile back, the City Dads got all set up to get the streets paved. Now that's a good idea—but still is unprosperous ones would have to go on driving our cars that already have broken springs from the jogs. And it's murder to think about those empty pipes that we'd have in our houses while they wet down the streets preparing for the topping. It is not worth it.

Really, you, you put up a good plea for the hospital plan. You bet O'Donnell needs it! Me? Sure, I'm in favor of it and here is one who would like to put up another $12 or $14 as insurance against this water system.

I'm fully aware that you, Mr. Ed., are a City Commissioner. Will say now how about putting up a plea for water? Us paying folks: WE WANT WATER!!!

Water prices are higher here than any place I've seen — we don't get much water but we pay for every ounce and dearly!!

"Duz does all" but not without water. And do we need water! O, brother. Signed SOAPY

Tahoka Plays Here Friday Nite

Game To Start at 7:30

Friday night at 7:30 on Johnson Field, the O'Donnell Eagles will tangle with their long time athletic rivals, the Tahoka Bulldogs in what promises to be the classic football game of this season. Regardless of the outcome of the game Tahoka's lead is sufficient to mark her as district champion, however if the Eagles win the game, this will place her in a three way tie for second place.

Eagles Tie With Slaton
Last Friday nite at Slaton, the O'Donnell Eagles played a scoreless tie with that district team and although O'Donnell showed a slight edge in playing, the district agreed to recognize tie games instead of the rule of penetrations and first downs.

At the game Friday nite with Tahoka there will be a powerful loudspeaker so that sport fans can remain in cars and hear the broadcast, Supt. Johnson said.

Winning Queen Is Announced
At the carnival held last Thursday nite at the gym, Barbara Merrick a senior candidate, was announced as the winner of the queen contest with Sue Franklin, a Sophomore in second place, Betty Dorman, a junior in 3rd place, and Cleo Fultz, a Freshman, 4th place.

The attractive queen will be crowned Friday nite between halves of the game. $622 was raised as a result of the contest and carnival for the athletic fund.

TO THE TAHOKA FIRE DEPARTMENT: we thank you, and like your neighborly spirit in coming to our rescue.

To our local insurance man, Sumner Clayton, who had the Fire Adjuster here within a few hours, so work could begin in tearing out and begin in the installation of new machinery, we thank you.

THE OLD TIMER WRITES

Of all things! Man catches full grown jackrabbit with bare hands. It seems that out on the G. C. Aten farm where more than 500 baby beef turkeys are being matured, a knot of turkeys were seen peering under a thistle. The master of the farm got near enough to spy a badly frightened Jack rabbit crouching low. The agile Mr. Aten, reverting to the practices of our forefathers, slipped around to the outside of the thistle and pounced upon the beast, bringing it to town without a scratch being received by either man or beast.

Political 'Pros' Will Oppose Stassen

Former Minnesota Governor Is Playing Lone Wolf Role

By BAUKHAGE
News Analyst and Commentator.

(This is the third of a series on the men most talked about as candidates for the Republican presidential nomination.)

WASHINGTON.—When the bakers were down in Washington sweating out a grain conservation program for their industry, my friend from Minnesota, Harry W. Zinsmaster, who is what the personal column calls a "frequent visitor" in the capital, gave a little luncheon for his colleagues and some press and radio men.

We had finished eating and were gathered around to listen to the bakers' troubles when suddenly the door opened and 220 pounds of blond, smiling, political potentiality burst upon us.

Our host shouted a happy "Hello, Harold!" then turned and announced: "Gentlemen, the next President of the United States."

I daresay most Minnesota Republicans will say "aye" to that. What the rest of the country says is awaited with interest by the candidate.

I suppose I have had 50 people ask me about Harold Stassen. "Why hasn't Stassen a chance?" they query.

Most observers seem to agree that if he has a chance, it's a pretty slim one to date. The reason is always the same: The professional politicians don't want him.

Baukhage

Not because he's a political "unknown." He could hardly be called that. Sure he took the job of county chairman at the age of 21. He was elected governor of Minnesota three times, could have been senator from that state, had he wanted the job.

In his case, it's not so much that he's a newcomer as it is the way he came up. That way is characteristic of his whole campaign, and two words describe it: "Lone wolf."

The situation favored Stassen when he forced his way into the gubernatorial race in 1938. Minnesota was in a bad way. There was vandalism and corruption, and the Farmer-Labor party, which had held a stiff grip on the state, was disintegrating through its own weakness and graft. Stassen entered the race against the wishes of the Republican Old Guard, but he eventually forced them to help him to some degree. It was largely his own efforts, however, that elected him.

In other words, "he butted into the governorship," according to old guard critics. Others say he did it merely as a step to the presidency, and that it was part of his overweening ambition—the same thing they say about Governor Dewey of New York. But the old guard fears Stassen's type of ambition more than Dewey's. They fear it because they feel that should Stassen become president, he might build up a strong personal following and thus get a stranglehold on the Republican party.

Conventional candidates don't commit themselves too heavily. His supporters claim that Stassen is a middle-of-the-roader, a little to the left. But it is not too much his liability to which the politicians object. I doubt if any practical politician expects us to turn back the clock. But in his highly unorthodox campaigning, Stassen has violated two rules.

HAROLD STASSEN
Does he have a chance?

One, by announcing himself early in the present campaign. Today he is the only official candidate for the presidential nomination.

Two, he has made and he repeats sharp criticism of the Republican program. As Roscoe Drummond of the Christian Science Monitor puts it, "If they pick him to ride the elephant, they'll have to get a new elephant." Certainly, Stassen has hinted this was necessary when he said the Republican program must be more constructive, more dynamic. He doesn't consult with anybody else when he announces how to make it so. That's part of the lone-wolf complex.

He comes up from the soil with a dirt-farmer father. He worked his way through college. He has a good military record as deputy chief of staff to Admiral Halsey. He is younger than Dewey (Stassen is 39), and taller than Taft—a sandy-haired, slow-spoken and deliberate six-footer.

NOT FOR SISSIES... There was plenty of raw action during the girls' field hockey game between Bryn Mawr and Drexel Institute of Technology. Like when Doris Tarquinio (left) of Drexel slugged a hard one in an attempt to score a goal and the Bryn Mawr goalie stopped it.

Congress Will Convene; No Russia: Chile, Brazil

TRUMAN CALLS Congress to Meet

Congress, summoned by President Truman, will convene in special session at noon, November 17, to deal with:

1. "The alarming and continuing" high prices at home and,
2. The pressing need for rapid-fire emergency aid abroad.

President Truman's summoning of congress a month and a half before it normally would have reconvened marked a definite climax in U. S. domestic events for 1947. Although doubt existed for a long time as to whether a special session would be called to meet the two problems which have been screaming with urgency all year, it was the only really logical step to take.

Mr. Truman took it decisively. He conferred with his cabinet, and he conferred with key congressional leaders of both parties. He did not ask their advice on a special session; he informed them simply that he was calling one.

"It is urgently necessary," he said, "for the congress to take legislative action designed to put an end to the continued rise in prices... and to meet the crisis in Western Europe!"

Concerning prices, the President would not ask for consumer controls, but for authority for allocation of certain materials. European relief, scheduled to be given priority over the price muddle in congressional action, was highlighted by the growing desperation in France and Italy.

DENIAL: No Force

James F. Byrnes, said James F. Byrnes somewhat angrily, was and is a patient man. Moreover, he did not advocate in his recently published memoirs, "Frankly Speaking," that force should be used, if necessary, to drive the Russians out of Germany.

The former U. S. secretary of state made that rebuttal after widely printed reviews of his book had stated that he was urging the building of more and bigger atomic bombs and the use of force against the recalcitrant Red army.

He reiterated his belief that the U. S., Great Britain and France should proceed with a general German peace conference, regardless of the Soviet Union's attitude. If the Russians refused to sign the treaty, then the other nations should appeal to the security council of the U. N. to order the Russians out because, Byrnes said, "we will then be facing a situation likely to endanger the peace."

He Ate Nails—and Stuff

When surgeons operated on James S. Payne, inmate of Kansas state prison, to remove a nail from his throat, they discovered that the man was virtually a perambulating junk shop.

Three and a half pounds of metal, including two complete safety razors without blades, was the loot the doctors recovered from Payne's case-hardened stomach. The convict, serving an arson term, gave no reason for his metallic diet.

THE BREAKS

Chile, Brazil Kiss Russia Good-By

Acting almost simultaneously, two South American nations—Brazil and Chile—curtly announced severance of diplomatic relations with Russia because, as they both implied, they couldn't stand it any longer.

Brazil, which beat Chile to the gun by a few hours in breaking relations, had the less valid reason for its action, on the surface, at least. Stated reason for the move was given as the "extremely outrageous and even clamorous" articles in the Russian press attacking Pres. Enrico Gaspar Dutra and the Brazilian army.

Russia's Literary Gazette had called Dutra an incompetent soldier and a Fascist. It was the same magazine that had compared President Truman with Hitler, to which the U. S. strongly objected but took no further action.

Chile, however, had a more deep-seated grievance. Communist infiltration in the nation's southern coal zone, leading to recent labor difficulties there, undoubtedly spurred the decision to sever relations.

Chilean Pres. Gabriel Gonzalez Videla previously had accused the Communists of planning to cripple Chile's production of copper, nitrates and other strategic materials and hamper defense of the western hemisphere and the United States. He also had announced his intention to "end once and for all" what he called Communist dictatorship over Chile's mine workers.

And in a burst of thoroughness, Chile also ended diplomatic relations with Czechoslovakia.

If no other end is accomplished, the action by Brazil and Chile at least may answer the question of whether Communist penetration into a nation actually can be halted by breaking diplomatic relations with Russia.

Vandenberg Won't Fight

Early this year, according to credible authority, a secret poll was taken by Republican senators as to their informal, off-the-record preference for a presidential candidate. Sen. Arthur Hendrick Vandenberg of Michigan won it.

In the same month, the senator made a statement in a national magazine in which he said he thought it was easier to run for president than not to run. He explained how difficult it was to deny that one is a candidate, once the story got started. He mentioned the question of the "draft" and expressed an opinion similar to that of Roy Roberts of the Kansas City Star in connection with Gen. Dwight Eisenhower—namely, that there had never been a real "draft" in his day. Vandenberg said that, of course, no man would refuse the nomination if it were handed to him as an accomplished fact.

Vandenberg

He concluded his remarks with this statement: "I am not a candidate. I do not expect or wish to be a candidate. I shall seek no convention delegates or approve of others in this behalf. I think my place of service is filling out my tenure in the senate."

Few men's stature has increased as Vandenberg's has as a result of his participation in international affairs. I think it is fair to say that Vandenberg not only made non-partisan foreign policy possible, but that his efforts in carrying out the non-partisan principle made a unified foreign policy itself possible.

A part of Vandenberg's influence in the field of foreign affairs is due to the fact that he has the enthusiasm of a convert. He was once frankly an isolationist. Today he has converted many others, and I believe that no single man has done more than he to break down the provincial attitude, especially in the Midwest, which before World War II prevented America from taking leadership in world affairs—leadership which might have postponed, if not entirely prevented, the war.

I do not believe that he is actually eliminated from the nomination, but we can be certain he will not fight for the job. He had the high vote at the Republican convention of 1940 when the Willie blitz struck.

Vandenberg's support of bi-partisan policy doesn't mean that he gives a blank check to the administration. He favors the Marshall plan and aid to Greece and Turkey, but he refused to recognize that aid as the "Truman Doctrine," insisting it was not a doctrine at all.

FARM DISASTER LOOMS

Rain Is Needed To Save Wheat

Serious cuts in meat production and wheat selling for $5 a bushel may be in prospect if rains do not relieve the serious drought plaguing the country's vast wheat fields from Texas to the Canadian border, a survey discloses.

A dry summer and below normal rains this autumn have delayed wheat seeding, kept planted wheat from germinating properly and forced farmers to "dust in" their grain in a manner reminiscent of the dust bowl days of the 1930s, crop experts report.

In addition to the damage to the plantings of winter wheat, farmers have not been able to use their wheat grounds for grazing, and millions of animals usually fattened on wheat during the fall either will move to market at lighter weights or without the fattening benefits of the wheat fields.

The Texas Panhandle, whose thousands of acres normally provide both grain and cattle pasture, has little topsoil moisture and only a scant supply of subsoil moisture. Texas cattlemen estimated that the state would have only 20 to 25 percent of the normal pasturage this winter.

Crop experts in Oklahoma, Kansas and Nebraska have reported a serious danger of heavy winter kill this year. The wheat needs a moist, well packed soil to survive. The dust in which the grain now is being planted is little protection from the freezing and thawing weather which will leave the young seedlings from the ground.

Moreover, grain dealers and cattlemen have predicted that wheat would soar to $5 a bushel unless the drought is relieved immediately. The price of wheat now is above $3, and the heavy demand, will send it even higher, they said.

This year, livestock men say, there will be practically no pasturing, and many farmers are reported to be liquidating their herds rather than attempting to carry them without pasture on high-priced feeds.

Erosion Prevented By Sound Practice Growing Crops Help In Saving the Soil

By W. J. DRYDEN
The late spring floods and heavy rains made many farmers realize that losses from water erosion can be serious. Michigan State college specialists list four rules to reduce water erosion on farm land.

1. Never leave the ground bare longer than necessary. Vegetation is important over the winter.
2. As the slope of the land increases, use more crops of grass and small grains and fewer cultivated crops.
3. If medium sloping land is cultivated, practice strip cropping, cross slope seeding and tilling, and use sod waterways and terraces.
4. Keep the soil in as high a state of fertility as possible. Add lime where necessary, use commercial fertilizers and add humus through natural manures, green manures or crop residues.

Soil Building

The difference between soil building and soil mining is shown in the chart below. Soil building means increasing the soil's organic matter and plant food supply and maintaining high crop yields. It means feeding the soil and letting the soil feed the crops, rather than trying to feed each individual crop.

The comparative results shown here were obtained at the Ewing soil experiment field in Illinois. One plot has had no soil treatment since the field was established in 1910. The other plot has had large amounts of lime, phosphate and potash to get heavy stands of deep-rooted legumes. Corn stalks have been returned to this plot. The rotation on both plots has been corn, oats, clover and wheat.

Crop yields covering a four-year rotation tell the story. Corn production on the fertilized plot was four times greater than on the untreated field; oats nearly four times and wheat about eight times greater. Clover yield on the fertilized plot was 1.9 tons per acre; the untreated plot is too acid to grow legumes.

Despite the greater amounts of nitrogen and organic matter used in producing the higher yields, the fertilized plot still contains 4 1/2 tons more organic matter and 460 pounds more nitrogen than the untreated field.

Farm Hints That Pay In Better Products

The Cornell results are in line with earlier tests of vitamins for calf scours in Michigan and Ohio. Even though the use of vitamins lacks encouragement, there is promise in another direction—the sulfa drugs. Sulfaguanidine has been found helpful. Sulfathiazole, one of the faster acting sulfas, which has been used against dysentery in humans, also has been used successfully in calf scours treatment. In tests, a combination of sulfathiazole with kaolin and pectin was more effective than either sulfathiazole or sulfaguanidine alone.

Don't use binder twine for tying fleeces. Use paper twine instead. When binder twine is used pieces of the fiber break off and get into the wool. These fail to take color when dyed. Who loses? The sheepman.

Scientists Develop New Slow Fertilizer

A new, slow-acting nitrogen fertilizer which feeds crops over a long growing period has been developed by USDA soil scientists. The new product, a series of combinations of urea and formaldehyde, is called "unaforn." Since both principal components are in short supply, commercial production will be small for a short time. Early reports from field and greenhouse have been very satisfactory.

THE FICTION CORNER

Chivalry Complex

By GARRETT SMITH

BY NOON forlorn hoppers in the employment manager's ante-room at Cromby & Co. boiled down to Jimmy Wheeler and the "Plucked Chicken." They had simmered since nine, waiting to be hired or hear, "We'll file your application and let you know if anything turns up."

As for the Plucked Chicken, Jimmy considered the Old Run-around formula a sure thing. He hadn't given her a second look for fear he'd feel sorry for her. No name to put to a maid in distress, the formerly chivalrous Jimmy admitted guiltily. But he'd seen too many such lately. He'd soured on the sex anyhow since his boss's secretary lied herself out of a jam and him into one after he'd stood up for her. "That chivalry complex of yours is a nuisance!" the boss had roared. Old Fletcher needn't worry, Jimmy agreed with him now.

The assistant manager gave Jimmy a blank to fill and turned to the Elizabeth Bond. Elizabeth Bond was her name actually. Someone's private secretary once, would grab a typist job now. "We have a long waiting list. I'm afraid it isn't worth while calling again" was all she drew. Not even the Old Run-around! Jimmy handed in his blank. "Thanks," said the assistant. "We'll file your application—"

"And let me know if anything turns up," Jimmy finished. He wondered how many such days his hundred-buck reserve would stand, as he followed Miss Bond's wake.

The girl was waiting for the elevator, a fragile arm braced against the wall. The dim light here softened the cheek-bone, hid worry-lines and ash-grey bleakness. Why she was class, a beauty once, before she began starving to death! The elevator came and she swayed toward it, would have fallen if Jimmy hadn't caught her.

"Thank you, I'm clumsy!" Her face lit and Jimmy looked into deep violet eyes. Then face and eyes went dead again. She'd keel over on the street, he worried. No breakfast probably. He must do something quick. At the street door Jimmy clutched the germ of an idea.

"Pardon me. Aren't you Miss Bond-in-Cromby's just now? They said you might do a letter or so for me. I'm James Wheeler. Publicity man. With the Fletcher bureau once. Cromby had another good typist on their list but couldn't reach her. Leaves me in a jam."

Her eyes widened warily then turned eager.

"Yes. I'm free this afternoon."

"Got a date then," Jimmy improvised. "Have to dictate at lunch. Mind going to Mike's place around the corner?"

He hoped she wouldn't cave in and have to be carried. But she made it and dropped in a chair with a sigh that sounded contented. Jimmy mumbled something about phoning and hunted up Mike himself. Jimmy knew the answers for too much food and drink. But how did they treat a gal all out of practice? And not let her know it? He told Mike all.

"You start her easy, Mr. Wheeler. Leave it to me."

Jimmy returned to their table as Mike brought cups of golden bouillon.

"Won't you try our new special on the house?" Mike invited. "Shall I fix up a nice little lunch as usual, Mr. Wheeler?"

Jimmy deferred to Miss Bond. She was already sipping her bouillon blissfully.

"Aren't bumps fun to look back on!" she laughed.

She could laugh at bumps only one meal and a couple of bucks away! She'd walk out of his life and begin starving again. Jimmy mightn't want her to starve. Jimmy mightn't want her to walk out of his life. How could he help it? The query fuddled his bogus letters to theoretical publicity prospects as Betty pot-hooked them like a streak on paper Mike furnished. She had to tinker his sentences.

Suddenly a thought popped up like an unexpected check. Why not really mail those letters? He might land free lance work and keep on using Betty!

"Look here," he said. "How about a regular job, if we're satisfied after swapping references? My office is under my hat yet, but I'll find a cubby-hole."

Betty's former employer told him over the phone she was as good as Jimmy thought, lost her job only because the company failed. Jimmy

"She swayed and would have fallen if Jimmy hadn't caught her."

"I've a feeling anything here'll be good," she agreed and set down her empty cup. "I'm a pig! Just couldn't help it," she added wistfully, with a blush.

Jimmy grinned. "Won't have stenographers who aren't good feeders."

She laughed. Jimmy heard silver bells. Her bouillon worked fast. Violet eyes stayed alive now. Jimmy would like to spend a week feeding this girl. He had learned she was called "Betty." Jimmy thought "Betty" was his favorite name. By the time Mike brought second aid, he had her talking. He liked it. No whining. She was alone and on her own like himself, flotsam and jetsam from small towns. Jimmy told job-hunting yarns, too; made them light, set them in a remotest past. She loved the one about the boss's secretary who balled up her letters which Jimmy corrected until a prize bull slipped by and the boss got what he wanted. "And I was the one the boss bawled out," Jimmy added. "Called it my fault for coddling the girl and spoiling her."

That was while they sipped demitasses.

persuaded her to take expense money and a week's salary in advance, by pretending he'd be away on business most of the week. Betty had a feeling this was all the reference she needed from him. Jimmy didn't argue. Old Fletcher might say something sour if Jimmy referred her to his ex-boss.

But, at parting, qualms began to wriggle around in Jimmy.

"Look here," he said. "If you get a chance at a better job, take it!"

"I've a feeling you may back out if I don't run," said Betty.

AFTER Betty ran, everything went greyish. The impossible didn't seem as possible. It seemed plain impossible later, after long hours of hammering at his best prospects. The only spark he struck was "Come and see us after business picks up." By five Jimmy hit bottom. He started home deciding he'd just tear up those letters Betty had agreed to send over by messenger. But the letters weren't there, the hall man reported. Jimmy thought that over, feeling as if somebody had kicked him. Stung again! Neat little game! That reference he called up, a plant, of course. He ought to have seen she came out of her dumps a little too fast! He was a fine judge of women!

Jimmy's phone was ringing as he stumbled into his apartment. "Mr. Wheeler?" a remote voice said. "This is Mr. A. B. Fletcher's secretary. Could you see Mr. Fletcher here tomorrow morning? He didn't tell me to call you but he spoke about you today. Said he'd hoped you'd be over your grouch and back on your old job before this. I'm just tipping you off."

"Well!" Jimmy exploded. "Uh—say—you're not Miss Moseley?"

"Mr. Fletcher's old secretary? No. She's left him. I got a feeling from things I heard at luncheon today there might be a vacancy where you said you used to work. And I got a feeling you'd be relieved if I found another job. I bought bargain clothes and tried it."

The voice trailed off in silver bells that could not be disguised. Jimmy was beyond speech.

"Please don't be mad, Mr. Wheeler. You saved my life. I'll pay back your money."

"The devil with the money!" Jimmy suddenly felt all right. "I'll be around if you think Fletcher will have the fatted calf ready—and you'll have luncheon with me."

"Maybe we'll have Mike cook the fatted calf," said Betty.

Poets and their Garlic

Homer had a sincere respect for garlic, to which he attributed the estimable property of "dispelling enchantments." With us, the Roman poet and bishop, Sidonius Apollinaris, born at Lyon in 403 and known also as Caius Silius, held garlic in such contempt that he wrote: "Happy the nose that is never exposed to the poisonous exhalations of this plant." By the same token, an order of chivalry, ignoring ribaldry, exacted in its regulations the agreement that each member should abstain from garlic and onions from January to December if he valued companionship. This strange order existed in Carthage about the middle of the 12th century and the legend of garlic onions was said to have been spread by the king

NEW PALEFACE HUNTING GROUNDS . . . In the exotic tropical setting of Key Biscayne, once an Indian hunting and fishing ground, pleasure-bent palefaces now find easy hunting in their quest for rest, relaxation and recreation.

STEEPED IN HISTORY

Old Indian Stomping Ground Becomes New Vacation Gem

WNU Features.

MIAMI, FLA.—Where centuries ago Tequesta Indians fished and hunted, palefaces today seek sun tans 'midst the luxury of loafing under coconut palm trees on a tropic isle of idyllic contentment. This newest Gulf Streamland vacation gem is provided in Dade county's new 11 million dollar Crandon park, on Key Biscayne, a scant 10-minute drive from downtown Miami via the equally new six million dollar Rickenbacker causeway.

Both park and four-mile span from the Miami mainland to the ocean, via Virginia Key and Key Biscayne, will be formally opened November 9, 10 and 11 with the Tequesta festival. The celebration is named for the Tequesta Indians, who were the first known residents of the area now called Miami.

The out-of-this-world setting of this naturally exotic public playground, studded with more than 10,000 coconut palm trees, part of a once extensive copra plantation, stretches volumes into the past. Its two-mile expanse of reef-protected ocean bathing beach for centuries heard only the lush swish of palm fronds and surf, or the scream of sea birds.

Ponce de Leon, first tourist to discover the extra something south Florida offers in climate and sunshine, is believed to have stopped off at Key Biscayne in 1513, after a brief halt at the mouth of St. John's river at present Jacksonville. History shows that after exploring that area, he sailed southward along the Florida east coast, tarrying at St. Augustine, then continuing to an island he named Santa Marta.

South Florida authorities, after an extensive study of coast surveys along the Dade county coast are inclined to believe the Santa Marta discovered by Ponce de Leon was named Cayo Biscaino, or Key Biscayne, now site of the new park.

Just 400 years ago, Key Biscayne figured prominently when the Spanish explorer, Escalante de Fontenada, recorded the presence there of the Tequesta Indian tribe.

Fontenada was the lone surviving crew member of a galleon wrecked off Key Biscayne. Captured by the Tequestas, part of the Colusa federation, he was held in slavery for many years, but was allowed to roam, at will, within the territory ruled over by the Tequestas. Long a disciple of Ponce de Leon, he transferred the length and width of Key Biscayne, time and again, in an attempt to emulate his predecessor's quest for health and everlasting youth.

There's no known record, complete with skull and cross bones, of buried treasure on romantic Key Biscayne, although pieces of eight or pirate doubloons may be hidden beneath the golden sands where cover girls and their bronzed escorts today absorb their vitamins from the sky. Regardless of the mystery (or lack) of buried treasure, there's pleasure trove for all lucky rollers on the two million square feet of super bathing beach at Crandon park.

Black Caesar, notorious marauder of the Florida Keys, operated in this vicinity. This doughty highwayman of the waves frequently hid his plunder ship behind wooded isles such as Key Biscayne to stalk unwary merchantmen en route to Havana, Spain's Queen City of the Antilles. Perhaps some of Black Caesar's ill-gained loot now moulders near the southern end of the island!

Another linking of Key Biscayne to the "Florida that was" is the old

Cape Florida lighthouse. A landmark in the keys, this lofty hurricane defier was built in 1825. Unfriendly, marauding Indians set fire to the structure in the same century, killed one Negro slave, wounded the white lighthouse keeper. The tower, for many years erroneously known as "Old Spanish Light," was abandoned in 1876, but it still stands, a monument to the past — a 20th century beacon to modern counterparts of Ponce de Leon.

Yes, Key Biscayne, site of Crandon park, is truly an island packed with pleasure trove — a recreational treasure chest, laden with rich prizes of nature for Dade county residents and their visitors.

Nation in Bloom As Flower Week Observance Set

The entire nation is "in bloom" this week for the third annual observance of National Flower Week. Sponsored by the Society of American Florists, National Flower Week is planned as a tribute to the beauty and happiness brought into everyday lives by flowers. Throughout the week unusual facts and information on flowers will be disseminated to the public.

Because of the abundance of flowers during the early part of November, the entire nation will be converted into a fall flower festival. Florist shops and greenhouses will hold open houses, featuring special display of flowers and plants.

Typical of the marked strides made in floriculture are development of double varieties of many flowers and cross-pollination. Continuous research is being accomplished in all phases of floriculture. In the scientific field, hydroponics, a system whereby flowers are grown in chemical solutions without soil, required 75 years of study and experimentation.

Keeping the industry attuned with the times, shipments by air, telegraph deliveries and new methods of packaging and preserving flowers have been developed as means of prolonging the public's pleasure from flowers.

Woman of 101 Likes Long, Fast Car Ride

HUTCHINSON, KANS.—Mrs. Jennie Gilmore, who celebrated her 101st birthday anniversary this fall, likes nothing better than a "long, fast car ride."

Returning from a 3,400-mile auto jaunt to California, Mrs. Gilmore said: "I had a delightful time. In fact, I enjoyed every minute of it except when we had to slow down at times."

Chester Hedges, 54, her grandson, who drove, said Mrs. Gilmore complained only when he dropped the speed down to 40 or 50 miles an hour on long stretches of desert road. She prefers to travel around 70, he added.

Miniature Fleet Contains Famous Ships

NEW YORK. — A boyhood hobby has enabled August Crabtree to accumulate an entire fleet of ships, all miniatures carved to scale and equipped to the most minute detail.

Built by Crabtree over the last 20 years, the collection of 14 ships includes an Egyptian galley of 1500 B. C., a Roman ship that once plied the Mediterranean, a sailing ship of William the Conqueror's time, Columbus' flagship, the Santa Maria, and the British Britannica of 1840. Crabtree started as a boy in Portland, Ore., making models of ships that sailed the Columbia river. Living on a small private income, he continued to carve on his collection although friends "thought it was a crazy idea."

During the war Crabtree put aside his hobby to lay the body plan for the first Liberty ship and a landing craft at a Vancouver shipyard.

DDT Is Not Always Harmful to Animals

Absorption or Licking Toxicity Overplayed

When DDT fly sprays first became available for farm buildings and livestock, there was considerable talk about sprayed animals being poisoned from absorption through the skin, or from licking one another, or licking the walls of buildings to which DDT had been applied.

Evidence, however, indicates the danger of toxicity to animals has been overplayed. For instance, in Missouri last summer, a cow drank half a tubful of DDT barn spray while the farmer was tinkering with his sprayer and getting ready to spray his barn. The cow suffered no bad effects.

At West Virginia university last year the dairy department threw caution to the wind and put 32 pounds of 50 per cent DDT powder in 100 gallons of water — then sprayed cows with it. That figures out about 16 per cent for DDT. Most recommendations to date have been under 1 per cent for DDT water sprays on animals. "There were absolutely no harmful results" the head of the dairy department reported. The DDT controlled flies, too. The spray was put on in May, and there were no flies on the cows until the middle of August.

WINTER IS TIME FOR BABIES

Contrary to popular belief, rabies is more prevalent in winter than in the so called dog days of the hot summer months. From the State Health Department, it was disclosed that of all animal brains submitted for examination by the State Laboratory in January 1947, 33 per cent tested positive for rabies while in the mid summer month of July only 18 per cent were positive.

If all stray dogs were destroyed, and all pets vaccinated for rabies it would go far toward stamping out this justly feared and always fatal disease. Dogs suspected of having rabies should not be killed immediately, but should be confined ten days for observation to see if the disease develops. If a dog sickens and dies during the observation period, the head should be packed in ice and sent to Austin to State Health Department.

THE FICTION CORNER

GOOD LOSER

By C. S. MONTAYNE

LUCY AMES could always tell when her husband drove in by the children's uproarious welcome. They were crowding down to the garage now—Bill Junior, Calvin, Cynthia, Paula and Roger, aged 8, Lucy heard their shrill, excited cries and, after a minute, Bill's hearty, roaring laugh. She smiled a little, faintly, as she went to the window and drew the curtain aside.

Why, she wondered, did children always adore their fathers? Perhaps it was because fathers were not home all day, telling them to do this, not to do that. Or because they were something of a novelty, who came home from week trips, with intriguing gifts. Her smile faded as she let the curtain drop.

This father, Lucy reflected with a sigh, was a strange mixture of bluff, good nature, generosity and egotism. Bill was a king in his own home—a fat, rollicking monarch whose reign had never been disputed. And there, Lucy decided, was the trouble.

The children humored him. They purposely indulged his desire to win at whatever games they played, because they seemed to instinctively know how much it meant to him. They fed his vanity, took a delight in keeping his laughter quick and ready. Lucy's face shadowed. She wondered why such a trivial matter as Bill's winning children's games should annoy her. But it did—it had from the first—that day last Summer when she had seen Calvin deliberately throw a handicap tennis match so his father could win.

"Dinner ready?"

They streamed in, Bill in the van, the children following. He caught Lucy by the elbows, and raised her for a kiss.

At the table there was a great clatter of crockery, voices. Bill telling about his trip, the children like grinning stoges giving him leading questions. Bill Junior, looked down the table at his father.

"How about the family ping-pong tournament finals, dad? Play them off tonight?"

Lucy saw her husband's nod. "Sure, any time—but we'd better make it tomorrow. I've got a report to write after dinner." He added, amused, "Think you can beat me?"

"I've been practicing all week at the 'Y,'" young Bill told him. In the dark, long after the others were asleep, Lucy thought about the family tournament. For a long time Bill Junior had wanted a bicycle to cover the rounds he made after school in search of magazine subscriptions. Dreamily, Lucy decided that if he won the tournament—if he beat his father—she would get it for him.

Again she wondered at herself, at her annoyance. Such a small, harmless conceit, this desire to win on Bill's part. Why should she want to have him defeated? It was silly. And yet—

They assembled in the playroom the next night. Calvin made a log fire and Cynthia arranged the chairs. Paula was umpire and, cross-legged, graced the top of the radio table. Her expression was serious as if with the heavy responsibility of her role. Lucy, her arm about Roger, who had been allowed to stay up an extra hour for the momentous struggle, sat on the corner divan—watching.

It was brilliant table tennis. Hard fought, clean, clever.

Twice Bill Junior seemed to have his father beaten. Twice his aggressive defensive appeared to bewilder

Lucy wondered why young Bill failed to press his advantage—and then glanced at her husband's grimly set face.

Bill Junior chuckled. "Got some news for you. It's a secret for the time being, but I'll let you in on it if you keep your mouth shut."

"I won't say a word," Calvin promised. "What is it?"

"Last night Dad told me he's getting me a brand new bike the first of the month!" Young Bill's whisper was excitedly vibrant. "I ought to double up on the subscriptions soon as I get it. Pretty swell, eh?"

THE heavy, significant silence broken only by the click of the bouncing celluloid ball and the gallery's strained, anxious breathing ended in a scream of sudden joy.

"Game and set!" Bill threw down the rubber-faced paddle and let out a shout of laughter. The children swarmed enthusiastically over him. This, Lucy knew, was her husband's usual moment. Her smile was small and cryptic when she began rounding up Bill's brook hands with his oldest son and switched the lights off.

"Guess the champ can't be beaten," young Bill said huskily.

Later, Lucy went from room to room making sure windows were not open too wide, that blankets were over small, hunched shoulders, doors properly closed. The dark lay thick in the room Bill Junior shared with Calvin. She heard someone move when she went in on quiet feet.

"That you, mother?"

She sat down on the edge of the bed. Her son's hand slipped into hers.

"A good game, Bill." She squeezed his fingers before she released them. "Well played. I'm sorry you didn't win."

He drew a deep, long breath. "So'm I. Pop's tough. Got to be awful good to take him."

"I suppose so." Her voice was low, flat. "Goodnight, dear."

After she quietly closed the door and her footsteps dwindled down the hall, Bill Junior raised himself or one arm.

"Awake, Stinky?"

The springs in Calvin's bed twanged as he turned over. "Yeah, why?"

"THE SPIRIT OF 1776" . . . The Freedom Train, which is making a tour of the nation with 128 historic documents that are the foundation stones of our liberties, is shown in Philadelphia at the start of the year-long trip. Two members of the train's marine corps guard stand beside the locomotive. In the background is Philadelphia's city hall, surmounted by a statue of William Penn.

SHRINE ON WHEELS

Freedom Train Unfolds Story Of Nation's Democratic Ideals

WNU Features.

History is rolling across America in the form of the Freedom Train, the moving symbol of the nation's year of rededication to the ideals and practices of democracy. From Philadelphia, universally conceded to be "the cradle of American liberty," the Freedom Train has embarked on a 30,000-mile, year-long tour during which it will visit more than 300 communities in all of the 48 states.

An integral phase of the year of rededication, which is designed as a broad educational program to emphasize the blessings of the common American heritage of liberty for every individual citizen, the Freedom Train will bring precious documents recording that freedom to the attention of millions of Americans.

Ranging from the first printed references to Christopher Columbus' discovery of America in 1492 to the charter of the United Nations, approved in 1945, the documents unfold a story covering 453 epochal years in world history. More than 125 original copies of such historical manuscripts as the Constitution, the Bill of Rights, the Declaration of Independence and the Emancipation Proclamation are included in the national shrine on wheels.

Each document is placed in a plastic envelope fitted to the individual book or sheet. The envelope is waterproof, fireproof and shatterproof. Manufacturers claim the material is so strong that it would require a 100-pound ball traveling at 50 miles an hour to pierce the surface.

The covered documents are placed in cases of steel plate covered by special shatterproof double glass sheets. The glass is treated to discourage ultra-violet ray penetration as the rays are harmful to the old and fragile paper of many of the old documents.

Protective Measures. Every object in the seven-coach train with exception of the documents is fireproof through installation of a special fire-extinguishing system employing carbon-dioxide.

Thirty-six marines, including many war veterans, will guard the display day and night.

Named "The Spirit of 1776" and sporting a brilliant red, white and blue color scheme, the Freedom Train will be a conspicuous exhibit.

Containing 128 items of American memorabilia, the documents included in the Freedom Train display have been termed "the outstanding collection of original American papers ever assembled in one exhibit."

The American heritage of freedom and free institutions is typified by such documents as the English Bill of Rights, the Declaration of Independence, Jefferson's Bill for Religious Freedom, the Draft of the Constitution with annotations by George Washington, Lincoln's first draft of the Emancipation Proclamation and Jefferson's letter on Freedom of the Press.

Shown as a sequel to the Declaration of Independence is a copy of the Treaty of Paris, signed September 3, 1783, in which Great Britain recognized the independence of the United States. The treaty was signed for the United States by Benjamin Franklin, John Adams and John Jay.

Historically Valuable. Washington's Farewell Address, Lincoln's draft of the Gettysburg Address, papers of Thomas Jefferson, Franklin, James Madison, Andrew Jackson and other leaders in the early days of the country add to the historical significance of the exhibit.

Typical of the more glamorous aspects of the nation's early history are a manuscript containing the only known authoritative account of the first raising of the flag, the bona-fide log book of the famous frigate Constitution, better known as "Old Ironsides," and Jackson's letter to the secretary of war describing the Battle of New Orleans.

Among the odd exhibits are Benjamin Franklin's own epitaph in his own hand, one of the most famous epitaphs in the English language, which was written out for Samuel Morris and presented to him by Poor Richard on August 31, 1776, and the original letter in Siamese from King Mongkut of Siam offering to send a gift of elephants to President Lincoln in 1861.

Included in the exhibits in the World War II section are the original pencilled draft by Gen. George Marshall announcing appointment of Gen. Dwight Eisenhower to command the invasion of western Europe, the war department's original copy of the last radiogram sent by General Wainwright from Corregidor, the last part of which was garbled as communications were broken off, and Admiral Nimitz' original report of the Battle of Midway.

Surrender Documents. As evidence that "Freedom Triumphs," the original German surrender documents at Rheims, signed May 7, 1945, and the log of the USS Missouri, displayed at the page covering the Japanese surrender aboard the battleship in Tokyo bay September 2, 1945, are placed on display.

Concluding the exhibit is a section, "Flags of Freedom," which includes such historic flags as the famous flag raised on Mount Suribachi by U. S. marines in the invasion of Iwo Jima.

Process Reversed As Teacher Herself Kept After School

PHILADELPHIA, PA. — Not a single small fry was on hand to witness the teacher's embarrassment when Miss Betty Johnston, 38, instructor at Taggart elementary school, was "kept after school" for two hours.

Miss Johnston, who had remained after classes to mark papers, failed to notice the building custodian had locked all doors. She phoned police when she realized her predicament. Two patrolmen arrived with a ladder, but Miss Johnston refused to make the 25-foot descent from a first floor window. A search produced the janitor and a key.

Repentant Outlaw Becomes Minister

RAWLINS, WYO. — An outlaw when he was only 14 years old, the Rev. Jenks D. Harris now travels by plane to preach in isolated communities frequently deprived of a minister's services.

Repenting of a crime career during the first year of a 15-year prison term in San Quentin for robbery, Harris decided to become a minister. He spent the next six years preaching to his fellow convicts and has continued his ministerial work since his parole 16 years ago.

It Has Happened There

Most of us thought it would never happen. But it has. According to the Associated Press, the House of Commons on August 8 approved a bill giving the British government authority to tell its people where they must work and what they must do. This means that the government may order men and women to do whatever job it pleases: coal mining, farming, fishing, anything. Moreover, it means the government may choose the place where any man or woman must work.

This is a drastic step. Why is individual freedom thus destroyed by a country with such a long record of high devotion to the individual citizen and to freedom? The answer is simple. Two years ago a socialistic government embarked upon a campaign for government management of leading industries in England. Things were in such a bad way, because of weakness from war, that the people permitted this.

Crisis Upon Crisis
The socialistic government relied upon nationwide sympathy and co-operation. However, this lasted only a few weeks. Then as absenteeism set in and productivity lagged, the whole system bogged down. The crisis came last winter, when a terrible coal famine came to that country with plenty of coal under ground. Under socialism crisis thrives on crisis, and there were more to come. In these crises, it is easy for men to accept disaster, if they think it will prevent more disaster.

This is what has happened. In an apparent final resort to keep government management of industry from becoming a complete failure, the British are taking this more drastic step. Yes, in peace-time one of the greatest liberty-loving countries in the history of the world has given its government authority to draft labor, and to tell each man and woman where to work and what to do.

Let's Have Freedom
Despite their great love of liberty, the British people have now found that loss of individual freedom follows adoption of a government managed economy, just as night follows day. It leads to this every time. It is sad to see this great country, like others that have accepted the blandishments of socialism, willingly give up the freedoms for which her people have shed blood through the centuries.

A considerable number of our people are evidently inspired by foreign ideologies, and some are asking for government control of American industry. This step England is now taking is a real warning to all American workers that with government management of industry there must surely come government dictation to workers. The workers, in the face of constant crisis, are told where to work and what to do.

I GIVE YOU TEXAS
By Byce House

Paraphrasing Browning, "Oh, to be in San Antonio now that autumn's there."
Most romantic of Texas cities! Herds of bawling cattle were driven down the dusty main street. Stagecoaches dashed in with a story of a holdup or an Indian attack. Mules, with jingling bells, plodded in, loaded with Spanish silver.

Her history is a procession of Spaniards, Mexicans, filibusters, cowboys brawling in the saloons, cattlekings betting thousands on the turn of a card. From San Antonio, Jim Bowie set forth to seek the San Sabá mine, known to legend, too now as "the lost Bowie mine", had an epic fight with red skins and, because of his wounded men, had to turn back.

Roy Bean lived in San Antonio till he left for Langtry to become the law West of the Pecos.
San Antonio not only is the scene of the Alamo but here, too, were fought the Council House fight, the Grass Fight, Salado, Alazan, Medina, Conception and the city was stormed by Texas patriots responding to the ringing all. "Who will go with old Ben Milam into San Antonio?"

Shanghai Pierce of the booming voice; Big Foot Wallace, Texas Ranger, stagecoach driver, hero of the Mier expedition and of the War with Mexico; Bet A Million Gates; Sam Bass on dodge; Ben Thompson, master of the six gun Robert E. Lee; Capt Jack Hays Sidney Lanier; O. Henry; Brann the iconoclast -- all were here.

What a cast of characters! Imagine writing a whole book about San Antonio and leaving all this, or nearly all of it out! Well, a fellow did.

A gambler who was an expert at poker was asked why he never bet on the races. He said, "They won't let me shuffle the horses."

... ..
Probably the longest name for a Texas town population considered, is Sutherland Springs. Nearly as long a name is Tennessee Colony.

TO ALL VEHICLE OWNERS

Texas Highway Department released information re House Bill 75 which goes into effect November 1, 1947 on transfers.

Bill provides a $5.00 penalty for failing to transfer title to a vehicle within 10 days before applying for a new title. Before a vehicle is transferred, the current receipts must be surrendered to the title and application after, to new owner.

Buyers are warned to carefully check the title to an automobile before purchase to warrant against a title that will take longer than 30 days to secure the information necessary for a proper transfer. This would make the buyer liable for a penalty of $5.00.

Under the new title law a charge of 50 cents will be made for transferring the registration on a vehicle.

ALL titles dated before June 12, 1947 that have not been transferred to the owner will have to be surrendered to the Tax Collector before November 1, 1947 to avoid penalty. All titles dated after June 12, 1947 will be charged with a penalty if they have been held out longer than ten (10) days. Titles surrendered for transfer between now and November 1, 1947 will not have to pay the 50 cents for transfer of registration.

ALL dealers in Lynn County must have a 1947 Dealers License and use their number and the designation "Dealer" after their signature.

The law also states that it is un-

This Land of Ours Must Now Be Saved

One of the greatest costs of the war, to America, was the depletion of her soil. Demands for increased production, forcing of land without returning necessary food, shortage of fertilizer and the lack of labor to properly plant soil protecting crops has resulted in erosion and barren soil in hundreds of thousands of acres of land.

Medicated Poultry Mash Is Effective

Government Trials Show Remedy Deworms Flock

Use of a medicated mash containing nicotine - phenothiazine has proved effective in deworming poultry, it was shown in trials conducted by the department of agriculture.

In the government trials, two kinds of worms (cecal and round) were checked and kept at a low level by using a medicated mash containing nicotine, bentonite (a clay-like substance) and phenothiazine in ordinary poultry mash. Says the government report:

Roundworm parasites from the small intestines of a chicken.

"Under experimental conditions the treatment expelled approximately 99 per cent of the two kinds of worms. Under field conditions, the feeding of this medicated mash to chickens for three consecutive days, at intervals of three weeks, maintained a low level of parasitism in the treated birds."

"Fifteen grams of 40 per cent nicotine sulfate solution were combined with 151 grams of phenothiazine and 287 grams of nicotine bentonite in 44 pounds of ordinary chick mash."

This combination of nicotine, bentonite and phenothiazine has been found effective in research carried on by private organizations, and there are products on the market of essentially the same composition as that used by the agriculture department.

Dried Sweet Potatoes Prove Excellent Food

Sweet potatoes prepared for feed by slicing and sun drying were compared with cracked No. 3 yellow corn in a series of digestion and nitrogen balance trials with steers and lambs by Oklahoma experiment station. On the basis of total digestible nutrient content the dried sweet potatoes had 92.3 per cent the value of No. 3 corn. Nitrogen retention by steers and lambs was practically the same.

In one year a female moth and her descendants can destroy as much wool as 13 sheep can produce in the same period.

Farmers spent about $800 million for new farm machinery in 1946 not counting tractors.

An hour of work on the farm now, as compared with 1920 results in about a third more milk a half more corn and more than twice as much wheat.

A study in Texas shows that costs of producing cotton in the state range all the way from 19.4 cents to less than 4 cents per pound.

It is unlawful for a buyer to accept or a seller to give title to a vehicle with the title left open. Notary Publics are cautioned to see that the title reassignment is filled out before notarizing the seller's signature. All the information relating to this law is on hand at the Tax Collector's office.

Drawing shows method of installing section of vitrified clay pipe for use as storage pit for fruit, eggs, milk and vegetables. Note that bell rests on bricks. Spigot end should protrude above ground two inches so dirt fill will slope away from opening. At bottom is layer of coarse drainage material. Top opening covered with gravel screen or with wood or metal lid.

New Method Devised For Treating Posts

A new method of treating fence posts and freshly sawed green lumber has been originated at the Lake States forest experiment station. This procedure, the "dry salting" method, consists of applying a mixture of copper sulphate and sodium dichromate in powder form to the surface of freshly peeled green posts and freshly sawed green lumber.

The mixture of these chemicals dissolves in a humid atmosphere and clings to the surface of moist posts and lumber when applied as a powder.

The method results in deep penetration of the preservative which appears to be firmly fixed in the wood so that it is not readily leached out. A definite advantage of this process over any other now available is that treatment can be concentrated at the ground line and top where more protection against decay is needed. The resulting posts have an attractive blue color which is not readily leached out, and tests indicate that the preservative is relatively noncorrosive to staples and wire.

Small Amount of Salt Needed by All Pigs

After several years of tests, the Missouri experiment station has found that hogs having free access to salt consume an average of only a fraction of an ounce per head daily. However, this small amount of salt caused these hogs to make much faster gains than hogs fed a similar ration without salt. The tests indicated that the best way to feed the salt is free choice in mineral mixture.

This Home-Mixed Cough Relief Is Truly Surprising

So Easy. No Cooking. Big Saving.

You may not know it, but, in your own kitchen, you can easily prepare a really surprising relief for coughs due to colds. It's old-fashioned—your mother probably used it—but for real results, it's hard to beat.

First, make a syrup by stirring 2 cups granulated sugar and one cup of water a few moments, until dissolved. No cooking needed. It's no trouble. Or you can use corn syrup or liquid honey, instead of sugar syrup. Then get 2 1/2 ounces of Pinex from any drugstore. This is a special compound of proven ingredients, in concentrated form, well known for quick action in throat and bronchial irritations.

Put the Pinex into a pint bottle, and fill up with your syrup. Thus you make a full pint of splendid cough syrup, and you get about four times as much for your money. It never spoils. Children love its pleasant taste. And for quick relief, it's a wonder. It loosens the phlegm, soothes the irritated membranes, eases the soreness, makes breathing easy, and lets you get restful sleep. Just try it, and if not pleased, your money will be refunded.

Teen-Agers Advised "Get Home On Time"

THE telephone is no excuse for poor manners or lack of courtesy. Perhaps the worst telephone bore is the one who snarls "Wrong number!" and hangs the receiver.

Another rudeness is asking the person who answers, "Who is this?" If you are the one calling, give your name and ask for the person you want to speak to.

Be considerate when calling friends who may be in bed or at meals and when their gratulations be sure to thank them. Pay for toll calls when visiting and for local calls when service is limited.

Serve Fruit Desserts for Meal Contrasts (See recipes below.)

Fruit Desserts

Food studies show that people do not get as many fruits in winter as in summer, and frequently as a result of their unavailability, but a good percentage of fruits available in their natural form are canned, and thus available for use.

Then, too, there are a number of fruits more available in the cooler months than during the summer—apples are in their prime, and pears, plums, and peaches, also, if you want particularly luscious fruits that are in their prime in summer. Make good use of the dried fruits like prunes and apricots for they have excellent vitamin and mineral values.

This is the season to make full use of the canned fruits you stored during the warmer months. Serve them chilled with simple cookies or as an easy dessert or make them one of the many delectable puddings such as the following:

Deep Dish Plum Dessert. (Serves 6)

3 cups canned plums
1/4 teaspoon cinnamon
1/4 teaspoon nutmeg
2 tablespoons butter

Pit and chop the plums. Pour with cup of their juice into a greased shallow baking dish. Sprinkle with spices and dot with butter. Cover with crust made as follows:

1 1/2 cups sifted flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
1/2 teaspoon salt
6 tablespoons shortening
1/2 cup milk
2 tablespoons milk

Sift dry ingredients; cut in shortening. Add milk to make a soft dough. Roll dough to 1/2 inch thickness and make a few short slashes. Place over the fruit in the baking dish. Sprinkle with 2 tablespoons sugar. Bake for 45 minutes in a preheated oven (400° F.). Serve warm.

Princess Custard. (Serves 6)

2 large bananas, sliced
1 1/2 teaspoons orange rind, grated
6 tablespoons orange juice
2 tablespoons sugar
2 tablespoons cornstarch
1/4 teaspoon salt
1 1/2 cups milk
2 egg yolks, slightly beaten
2 egg whites
2 tablespoons sugar
1/2 cup sweet crumbs (cake, cookie, graham cracker or vanilla wafer crumbs)

Combine bananas, orange rind and juice. In a double boiler, combine sugar, cornstarch and salt. Add milk gradually and cook until it thickens. Slowly stir into egg yolks. Cook until thick, 2 to 3 minutes. Remove from fire and gradually add sugar to stiffly beaten egg whites, fold into custard. Place in sherbert glasses and sprinkle with crumbs.

LYNN SAYS:

Save Food Dollars by Using Everything Edible

Celery tops may be dried in the oven, then crushed to a powder and kept in a jar. They add a pungent flavor to soups, stews, casseroles, dressings and salads.

To increase the volume of egg whites, add a tablespoon of water before beating. Do not add more water than that. Slightly longer beating is required when water is added.

1 1/2 cups whipping cream
1/2 cup confectioners' sugar
1 1/2 teaspoons vanilla

Add lemon juice and sugar to apricots and stir until dissolved. Soak 1 1/2 teaspoons of gelatin in 1 1/2 tablespoons water. Dissolve over hot water and add to apricot mixture. Pour into two refrigerator trays and place in refrigerator. Whip cream until it holds its shape then add sugar and vanilla. Soak remaining gelatin in water, dissolve over hot water. Cool and add to cream. Spread whipped cream mixture over apricot mixture and freeze.

Prunella Pudding. (Serves 6 to 8)

1 cup whipping cream
1 cup milk
1 cup sugar
3 tablespoons cornstarch
1/2 cup milk, cold

Cool until lukewarm. Remove crusts from bread, cube and toast under broiler. Combine prunes with bread cubes and remaining sugar. Arrange half in bottom of a large pudding dish. Spread one half of crust mixture over the prunes. Add remaining prune mixture, top with custard and toasted coconut. Chill 8 to 10 hours.

Did you know that baked grapefruit makes a lovely refreshing dessert, especially after a heart casserole or roast? Bake them just as you would potatoes, for one hour, then halve and top with any of the following:

1. Sprinkle each half with a neaping teaspoonful of sugar and dot with butter; or, top with a teaspoonful of jelly.
2. Sprinkle each half lightly with salt and 1/2 teaspoonful of Worcestershire sauce.

SCRIPTURE: I Peter: Daniel 1.
DEVOTIONAL READING: Psalm 24.

A Call to Right Living

Lesson for November 9, 1947

SUNDAY'S lesson is based on the First Epistle of Peter and the first chapter of Daniel. It is a temperance lesson.

Dr. Newton

It is suggested that we read the 24th Psalm, in which we find this question, Who shall ascend into the hill of the Lord? And the answer, He that hath clean hands and a pure heart.

Peter gives us the spiritual basis of temperance. Daniel gives us a shining example of temperance. And the 24th Psalm gives us a dramatic concept of what it means to face God in the right attitude of life.

How to Grow Strong

OUR doctors tell us how to grow strong, sound bodies. We are to eat the right food, sleep regularly, breathe deeply, etc., etc. Daniel did all of these things, and something more—"Daniel purposed in his heart that he would not defile himself with the portion of the king's wine which he drank; therefore he requested of the prince of the eunuchs that he might not defile himself," Daniel 1:8.

Daniel was challenged by the prince of the eunuchs. He predicted that Daniel and his companions would become pale and weak if they refrained from eating the king's meat and drinking the king's wine.

Finally he agreed for them to refrain from meat and wine for ten days, and at the end of the ten days, behold, Daniel and his companions appeared fairer and fatter than those who had eaten intemperately.

Every Youth Must Choose

AS DANIEL chose to grow strong through temperate habits of eating and drinking, so must every youth choose between right living and lustful living. We have laws against drunkenness, for example, but legislation alone cannot produce a generation of temperate young men and women. Each boy and each girl must choose for himself and herself between temperance and intemperance.

And this lesson sets out the ways by which such choices can be made and sustained. I find a helpful word in I Corinthians 10: 31: "Whether, therefore, ye eat or drink or whatsoever ye do, do all to the glory of God."

As we make the choice between drunkenness and sobriety, let us remember that we are choosing between God and Satan—between the example of honorable parents and the example of people who have desecrated every sanctity. This lesson is a call to right living.

Disciplined Lives

WHICH calls into mind a word that we have not always treated fairly. I am thinking of the word "discipline." Too often we have regarded this word as something very austere, when, as a matter of fact, it is one of the really fine words of our language. It means "one taught." It is the word which, with slight difference in spelling, gives us "disciple."

The immediate followers of Jesus were called disciples. They were young men, gathered up from the everyday pursuits of life. Most of them were fishermen—men who faced hardships every night as they confronted wind and wave. And yet these rough and tumble fishermen became "the taught" ones of Jesus. They yielded to his discipline. They were pupils in the school of Christ.

That is what this lesson is aiming at—to enlist many, many pupils in the school of Christ.

The Test of Time

MAKE this test in your community, whether you live in the city or in the country. Look at the lives of the men and women about you, and draw your own conclusions regarding the worth of temperate living. Study the lives of the drunkards against the lives of the men and women who have refrained from strong drink. Study the lives of the gamblers and see if they have really won.

I appeal to the verdict of history—the test of time. Not only in the case of Daniel, but in the lives of the men and women in every community in America is daily borne out the truth of Sunday's lesson—that God giveth us richly all things to enjoy, but we must use his gifts with disciplined minds.
