of the importance of semantics, as have mentioned pefore in this col-

Baukhage received letter from a listener lamenting what she called "one of our greatest troubles today"-lack of faith in our

She then described her "conster nation" when she heard Senator Barkley's "gushing and flowery talk" nominating Franklin Roosevelt for President in 1944, after hearing the senator's famous "revolt" speech sharply criticizing the President's veto message in the tax President's veto message in the tax bill the previous February.

To Washington, there was nothing inconsistent in those two perform-ances at all. What happened was this: two persons who had worked together in a common cause fell out. Amends were made, and still loyal to that cause, the man who had been affronted registered his complaint and then, feeling that the virtue of his position had been recognized. took up his labors in the common

Perhaps that explanation would satisfy my disillusioned listener, had it not been for the fact that she not only misinterpreted the significance of Senator Barkley's speech, but actually put into his mouth words that he didn't use.

She said that Barkley had said that the President was dishonest, and that he (Mr. Roosevelt) knew

Now, by interesting coincidence, mething had recalled that speech of Mr. Barkley's to my attention only a day or so before I received the let-

A loyal toiler in the Democratic party had remarked to me that the senator from Kentucky, having served as majority leader longer than any man who has held that job in the senate, had increased tremendously in stature in the eyes of supporters and opponents. And, my friend explained, it was his "reolt" of February 23, 1944, which marked the moment when Barkley began to wax in the favor of opponent and supporter alike!

As a result of the coincidencethe letter and the remarks of my friend-I reread the revolt speech. Nowhere in it did Senator Bark-ley accuse the President of being dishonest. But it is easy to see how a listener might have missed the shades of meaning in the speaker's words. However, those words, correctly interpreted, I feel certain, reflected precisely the feeling of the senator. Had he wished to go further, he could easily have done so. done so.

Resent Personal Slap at Congress

There were two especially sharp passages in Barkley's talk. The President had charged in his message (vetoing the tax bill) that "it is squarely the fault of the congress of the United States in using lan-guage in drafting the law which not even a dictionary or a thesaurus can make clear.

There was a biting, personal flavor in that sentence which congress as a whole, and Barkley individually and as majority leader, could not help resenting.

Barkley said: "If it (the above statement) was made by anybo who ever sat in a tax comm meeting, it was a deliberate and unjustified mis-statement in order to place upon congress the blame for universal dissatisfaction with tax complexities and in order to produce the illusion that the executive departments have in vain protested against this complexity."

Here one can see that Barkley is defending the integrity of the con-gress. He did not spare his anger at the affront. But, since he knew FDR had never sat in a tax committee meeting, he wasn't placir;

the onus entirely on the President. There was one other sharp riposte There was one other sharp riposte ducer can't produce, and we are in which Barkley came still nearer back to 1929 once more.

COURT FEUDS OLD STORY

WASHINGTON. - Some people seem to be laboring under the impression that wrangles are new in the Supreme court. Actually, wran-gling began soon after the court was formed, with the attempted im-peachment of Justice Samuel Chase, continued vigorously under John Marshall and has flared-up intermittently ever since.

Latest wrangle, prior to the Jackson blow-up, was between ami-able Chief Justice Harlan Fiske Stone and austere Justice Owen J.

Roberts. Although Republicans and Hoover appointees, they did not get along well in recent years, and there was one hot, though private argument between them over the vestion of sitting on a case involvquestion of sitting on a case involv-ing Stone's former law firm.

Before that, however, the most virulent feud on the Supreme court revolved around cranky, crusty Justice James C. McReynolds, the only justice credited with driving an associate off the court. For six years Justice John H. Clarke sat beside him, and for six years McReynolds never spoke. Finally Clarke resigned.

McReynolds also tried to drive the late Justice Louis D. Brandeis off the bench. He would rattle his papers or even leave the bench when Brandeis rendered an opin-ion. And, when the jurists adjourned for their customary sand-sich or soup and crackers at the soon recess, McReynolds turned up his nose at lunching at a table with Brandeis. Intead, he duffed his robe, irove downtown and lunched by

ROW DURING GRANT'S REGIME Another bitter battle inside the Supreme court took place during the Grant administration over the legal tender act. Justice Robert C. Grier, then senile, was induced by Chief Justice Salmon P. Chase to change is vote, thereby helping to make legal tender act unconstitutional. This was a great embarrassment to the Republicans, who needed the legal tender act to support their fis-ral policies during and after the civil war.

"The chief justice," charged Justice Samuel F. Miller, "re-sorted to all sorts of strategems of the lowest trickery." INCOLN SPANKED JUSTICE

Another period of near-civil war place in the court after the war, when the nine justices were called upon to pass on the espionage cases. The court was so split, that a committee, including fustices Willis Van Devanter and William R. Day called on Justice se not write one of his usual igorous dissenting opinions.

"You know what my ideas of the law are, and I will not change them," he replied. And for some months following this, the justices stopped speaking to each other. Probably the most vitriolic criti-rism ever leveled against the court asm ever leveled against the court by anyone in high places came from Abraham Lincoln, when Chief Jus-lice Roger B. Taney called upon the commanding officer at Fort Mc-Henry in Baltimore to relinquish a prisoner during the Civil war. This the commanding general refused to to.

FEUD OVER JUSTICE FIELD There was also the court feud over Justice Stephen J. Field at the time the Supreme court declared the income tax law unconstitutional in 1895. Field, then nearly 30 years old, led the attack against the income tax. Senile, and frequently asleep in court, a committee of his colleagues suggested his retirement but he only flew into a tantrum. His vote against the intantrum. His vote against the income tax made it necessary to pass a constitutional amendment to make the income tax legal.

EVERYBODY GETS BIS Sen. Elmer Thomas of Oklahoma introduced an amendment to the introduced an amendment to the OPA bill removing price ceilings on timber, petroleum, cotton, milk, livestock, tobacco, poultry, fish, grain, fruits and vegetables.

This caused Connecticut's Sen.
Brien McMahon to remark:

"You can't beat that one Elmer's got something in there for every member of the senate." In this case, though, the amendment was beaten:

HELL-BENT FOR INFLATION

Despite all the confusing furore of the senate OPA debate, two things definitely stand out: (1) when price controls are removed, prices rise; (2) most senators are far more susceptible to the pressure of business lobbies than to the unorganized but overwhelming demand of the American public in favor of price control.

Florida oranges were selling for $3.85 when price controls were removed. Immediately they jumped to $4.47, then to $5.45.

Curbs to Stay Half of 1947

Americans to Receive Less Bread, Meat, Whisky And Beer for Year.

WASHINGTON .- The wheat prowashingtion.—The wheat pro-gram announced by the government will mean continued skimping on bread, meat, beer and whisky for over a year to help food hungry people abroad. Furthermore the bread will continue to be "dark" and it will come in small loaves.

and it will come in small loaves.

Previously the government had hoped to lift the restrictions on wheat, flour, etc., this summer after the 1946 wheat crop is harvested. The new announcement means that the curbs will not be abolished before the summer of 1947, unless there is a change in the situation.

Secretary of Agriculture Anderson said the plan might be changed later. But at the moment, he said, it "is regarded as necessary to insure the most effective distribution and use of the 1946 crop, in meeting both domestic and foreign needs."

Less for Americans.

Less for Americans.

Less for Americans.

The way it sizes up, the program will provide considerably less wheat for food for the American dinner table during the 12 months beginning July 1, 1946, as compared with the year that began July 1, 1945. It will provide about half as much wheat for feeding to livestock—that means less meat—and none at all for brewing and distilling.

Officials have said that heavy for brewing and distilling.

Officials have said that heavy feeding of wheat to stock was chiefly responsible for bringing on an acute shortage of the grain.

Even with the slashes in domestic consumption, Anderson figured that exports of wheat to famine areas will drop from around 400 million bushels to 25 million bushels. To make sure of getting the 250 million bushels, the government will requisition a fourth of all the wheat that producers deliver to elevators or commercial buyers. Most other food saving devices, both compulsory and voluntary, will be retained until July 1, 1947, under Anderson's program. Under the voluntary system, consumers are asked to eat 40 per cent less wheat

The Flour Situation.

On May 1 mills were required to cut their stocks to a 21-day supply. Few if any have been able to obtain wheat in the meantime because the government is offering farmers a bonus of 30 cents a bushel above the ceiling price-which is the top legit-imate price millers may offer. And the 1946 wheat will not start moving to market until July.
Some mills have already shut down and a survey indicated many others either will close or curtail operations sharply.

This prospect posed two problems for the government: Will flour stocks on hand be so ficient to supply consumers until the new wheat crop becomes avail-

Should the government divert some of the famine relief wheat it is buying to American mills in order to keep them operating until the new harvest?

JESUS' FRIENDS CARRY ON HIS WORK

LESSON TEXT—Mark 16:15, 16, 19, 20; Luke 24:45-49; Acts 2:46, 47; 5:42. MEMORY SELECTION—Go ye into all the world, and preach the gospel to every creature.—Mark 16:15.

Friendship brings results. We respond to it with our own interest, and by our desire to bring others into its helpful circle of influence. Obviously, the man who knows the friendship of Jesus wants others to meet his Friend and know his love and power.

The disciples had seen the risen Lord, a privilege which carried with it the responsibility of declaring the good news of completed redemp-tion to all the nations of the earth. We find them engaged in 15, 16, 19, 20). The call and commission of the Lord before he was caught up into heaven was clear and definite. How glad we are that the disciples obeyed, went and preached, and had such blessed results. The response of these early Christians was immediate and enthusi-astic. Would that such a spirit had characterized the church through all the generations since then, and if it had, the commission would long since have been carried out. It has been estimated that if everyone in a church of two thousand were to win one soul a year, and each convert win one soul each year, the world would be evangelized in less than thirty-five years. Why not?

But while on the whole the church has failed, there have been valiant souls all down through its history who have given themselves to the business of preaching the gospel. With them, as with these of the first century, the secret is ever, "The Lord working with them."

II. Powerful Witnessing (Luke 24: 45-49).

The death and resurrection of Christ made possible the preaching of repentance and remission of sins, the message of redemption which was to go out to all nations through the disciples.

into them. Let loaves rise to the top of the pans or until about double in size. Bake in a pre-heated, moderate (350-degree) oven.

There's nothing better than homemade dark rye bread for those salami and ham sandwiches on picnics and outings. Here is a recipe that makes two 1½-pound loaves that will be ideal for the week-end: It is never enough for a man to speak of the things of God, no matter how brilliant and eloquent he may be, nor how certain he may be of his facts. He must have the power of God. The early believers were to tarry until they received the Holy Spirit. We need only yield to him for he is present with every believer-the indwelling One-ready to empower and use us.

We need a real revival of the Holy Spirit power in the church, and we need it now. If the church as a whole will not yield to God, let us do so as individuals that we may be witnesses with power.

God is looking for men. He has always honored those who in faith have obeyed his command. The whole history of church and mis-sionary endeavor bears eloquent testimony to that fact.

111. Glad Soul-Winning (Acts 2:46, 47; 5:42).

There are a number of things in this passage. There is the fine fel-lowship of the believers in the ear-ly church. We also note that they were regular in their attendance at the temple. They preached and taught both in the temple and at home. But the significant thing which we wish to note now is that it all resulted in the salvation of

The Lord added to the church "day by day those that were saved," for such is the proper reading of verse 47. Day by day souls were won for Christ and added to the church. Why do we not have the church. Why do we not have more churches of that kind today?

more churches of that kind today?

The church, which is so much the center of life for Christians, is not as well understood as it should be. We have come to regard it as just one organization among many competing for the attention and interest of men, when it is really a divine, living organism established by Christ as his body and representing him in this world.

The church is made up of those who are saved (v. 47), those who have received the word by faith and witnessed a good confession of their faith in Christ (v. 41). This is a fact to be remembered in a time their faith in Christ (v. 41). This is a fact to be remembered in a time when there is so much laxness in receiving members into the church. It is not a religious or social club. It is not a rallying place for those who wish to work for some economic, political, or social project. It is not a gathering of good people who wish to share common interests.

The church needs to cleanse its rolls of all unbelievers, all hangerson, and to get back to the purity which it had when only those were received who were manifestly "added" by the Lord (v. 47).

Uphold Wages

Everybody who is willing and able to work is working harder these days; moving faster during regular hours and putting in overtime. Pressure of war, shortage of workers and prevailing high wages are the cause. A larger personal income, beneficial to all classes, is one of the direct results. We would all like to carry this feature over into the postwar years.

Philip Murray of the CIO had the right idea when he went to Presient Truman a few weeks ago and asked for a 20% increase in basic wage rates. Average wages in the United States at that time were $1.04 an hour. This may seem high enough is over, labor's income will decline some, in spite of everything that can Bonuses will disappear when the pressure of government contracts is removed. Working weeks will be shorter. Overtime will shrink to the vanishing point. Besides, high-wage munition factories will close down and their employees will close down and their employees will take work where wages are lower, some on farms. If the basic wage scale is not higher when war ends, labor's income will suffer too much.

Farmers have hard times when factory workers do. The wage earner's dinner table is the farmer's market, so nobody is more interested in high wages in factories than the farmers themselves. Agriculture and labor, both big segments of Americans, are right behind Mr. Murray for good wages immediately after the war because prosperity for many years will depend on it.

Bug in the Lotion
The only disappointing detail in connection with the CIO's campaign for post-war prosperity is this: Mr. Murray's first move was an effort to make high wages legal rather than to make them possible. Lawgivers have been trying for centuries to make people pay what they didn't have. It can't be done. It makes no difference what the wage scale is if the employer can't meet it.

A high basic wage scale recorded upon the ponderous pages of federal statute books will not buy milk for any working man's baby. Folding money in the pay-envelope, however, will do the trick. Any employer will put cash in his workers hands in steadily increasing quantities, so long as he can still show a profit on the products that his organization ships out from his factory.

Congress Has Key

There is a happy solution to this wage problem. If plant owners can be enabled to install new, modern equipment as needed, factory output per man-hour will increase steadily. This justifies better wages without raising prices and this is the combination that makes quick markets and prosperity. Problem: Will Congress let industry buy new machinery? A high basic wage scale re ery?

Still in force in America are our war-time tax laws, taking over 90% of corporation earnings. They make profits in business thin and uninteresting to investors; increased production next to impossible. Congress holds the key. Plenty of good jobs at good pay can develop after the war if new tax laws are prepared now and announced now to take effect the day Japan surrenders.

rest was found apportioned among La Rue's four men. The single rider who had turned back through the pass had met Flick's guns and sur-rendered. He alone of those men who had fought in the pass had gone unscathed by the battle. Certain detail was attended to. The big posse Flick had commanded took to the saddle. The majority, cowmen from the upper country, chose to hit immediately back for Maxmilla City, to cover the distance while night lay cool over the desert strip. Only the sheriff, Doane, and a handful of riders—with the litter that bore Monte Garcia—rode on for Sand Wells. Monte had been wounded three times, twice before he left the saddle in the battle. Only the icy nerve of the man could have kept him up so long, seemingly un-touched. He was badly hurt.

Sunset flamed over the arid country as the little cavalcade rode for Sand Wells. Far west Doane could once again trace the high ranges of the Sierra Nueva, etched on a vivid sky. He remembered things that were past. He shuddered at the hell of thirst and the memory of a madman who was once himself, dragging himself toward those ranges over the desert floor. For a long while he thought of the girl who had saved him. The ranges

Night shadow lay suddenly over the ghost land before the riders, over the fantastically formed ridges and barrens, the weird buttes and rock heaps.

"Doane, my frien'!" Stiff and bandaged, Doane leaned from the saddle. The whitish spot of Monte's face lay below him in the litter, and Monte seemed to smile into the darkness in that curious, poker-faced way of his.

"Doane, my frien', las' night when I see her, Dolores Alvaro asks me to learn one thing from you.

If possible."
"Yes?" said Doane, and wondered if he could have heard rightly. "Yes, my frien'. An' it did sound to me as though you have once kissed thees young lady already," considered Monte. "Or did she say twice? I forget. But if it is true this came from the heart, then I was given orders. I was to learn —an' I have learned. You see? That was why I did not wish to speak too soon."

There was silence, except for the riding sounds of the little caval-cade—the soft creak of saddle leather, the muffled thud of hoofs, the tiny jingle of riders' spurs and bridle chains. Stars were low over the black desert. Monte coughed

"But those orders-yes!" he whispered. "Doane, my frien', I am to bring you to her. She will be waiting. You . . . understan'?"

Doane leaned low from his saddle. reached down and gently punched at the shoulder of his friend.

"I understand, Monte, old man. 'Sta bien!" And as he straightened up again, Monte saw that his lips were parted in a wide, almost arrogant smile. Doane lifted his hat and jammed it down again at a cocky angle over one eye, with the air of a man on his way to collect a million dollars. . . .

Night had conquered the earth, and a great full moon rode high in the sparkling, starlit sky. Doane came through the front door of Monte's house and stood considering that old moon as he fumbled in his jacket for a cigarette. He was about to speak to that moon when . . . someone spoke to him.

"The moon and the stars . . . they are bright tonight, senor." He was not startled. He did not whirl. Strangely enough, he had expected this voice. Yet as it came to him, a warm, pulsing fire welled up within him. He turned slowly, and peered calmly through the whisper-ing shadows of the porch. Her back against the wall of the house, her head held high and her hands pressed against the clapboards, stood Dolores Alvaro.

Jim Puts the Cuffs

"I arrest you in the name of the

'But . . . senor . . . did not Monte

"But nothing," said Doane, fighting back a smile. "Not so many moons ago, senorita, I lay helpless in that bed where Monte lies now. Helpless, and you laughed in my face and told me I would never put these bracelets on your wrist. Well they're on now

But something in his voice gave im away. Something that erased ok of hurt surprise and momentary fear from the face turned up to him in the soft moonlight, some-thing that threw the girl's free hand around his neck and forced his lips down to her cheek.

"You . . . you have won, senor deputy Doane."
"Senor Jim, to you" His arm crushed her close, and their lips met. When at last he lifted his head and stepped back, Dolores laugh-ingly held out to him her one un-shackled hand.

"The other wrist, my caballero! You must not let your prisoner escape this time, you know."

"Don't worry. I won't." He snapped the empty cuff about his own left wrist. He turned on his heel, gave a savagely gentle little tug at the handcuff, jerking the girl toward the porch steps. "Come

"But where, my Jim? Not to that jail? I would not like it there.

"Jail nothing." laughed Doane.
"You're on your way to the nearest padre's. You'll like it there."
They passed slowly down the winding, moonlit garden path, shoulder to shoulder. Now and then there was a gleam of steel from the tiny link that held them together. But neither seemed to notice it now; her hand lay in his, quite passive and willing and unresisting. Halfway to the gate, a voice halted them. It was Monte, at the window.

"My frien's," he said, "you will need the-what you call it-the best man, for the wedding, yes?"

They looked at Monte, at each other, and then walked through the

TREASURE OF THE SEA

By George E. Walsh

The "City of Bahia" struck a reef in the Caribbean . during a storm and went down. This was Dick Jordan's chance! Dick was being brought back by Hen Pettigrew to pay his debt to society. Hen had followed him half way around the world.

Pettigrew, also, was among the few saved from the wrecked steamer, but they were on different boats and Jordan hoped he would never see Pettigrew again. But he did. Before running into Pettigrew he fell in-and out-with pirates, fought many a bitter battle, fell in love with Rose Bedford, captain of a derelict, and demeaned himself as honorably and bravely as any could have done under the circumstances.

Here is a saga of the sea in which no quarter is asked and none given. Thrilling from beginning to end.

Woman's World Outmoded Dresses Converted Into Well-tailored Play Togs

By Ertta Haley

THE blazing sunshine is very much with us, and lazy, perfect summer days are indeed a welcome those who like outdoor sports. No active woman wants to stay indoors all day, and most want to plan at least some outdoor activity for every day that is seasonable. Long ago we learned that if we are to take full advantage of perfect sunshine and fresh air, we must be suitably dressed for it. Yes, even if it's just weeding the garden or going down to the beach, wear some-thing that's cool but comfortable, and do try to get your quota of the beneficial rays from the sun if you want to build health reserves for

Whether you bicycle or golf, loll around at the beach or picnic grounds, one of your first essentials is a playsuit. Now, that might be anything from a sun-back dress to a pair of shorts with a halter top or a large shirt, but it's definitely a must in the summer wardrobe.

If you feel that you don't want to go to the expense of buying a playsuit of some type, then check over the dresses you no longer consider suitable for wear as such, and make them over. Most dresses will provide at least the top of a playsuit, and others will give you perhaps the two or three-piece set, the latter one with a skirt to match or contrast the top.

Select Becoming Pattern In Play Togs

Because sports clothing such as a playsuit is used either for active work or for lounging, it should be both comfortable and attractive. Armholes, for example, must be large enough to allow the arms to move around freely. Shorts for playsuit should never be tight, but should fit smoothly through the hips and waist, and must be large enough around the legs to allow for easy running or bicycling.

If you are making shorts for the playsuit it would be a good idea to fit the pattern to yourself, pin-ning it together to see that you have still enough seam allowance to sew it together properly. Or, an even inexpensive muslin pair of shorts cut from your pattern and fit them on before making pattern adjustments.

Never attempt to put together a pair of shorts or blouse without knowing for certain that the pattern will fit. It may correspond perfectly to the measurements of waist and hips, for instance, but think how much valuable material and work would be wasted if the shorts were not long enough to fit over the abdomen to allow bending and other exercises that are bound to come in sports.

The best type of seam for shorts -both from the point of view of the most comfort and also tailored appearance, is the flat fell or French seam. This is not at all difficult to make, and the shorts will fit easily topether, hold well and permit ease of wear.

If there is a wide discrepancy betweer, waist and hip measurement (more than seven inches), a good in shorts would be one with the straps—the short overall effect that is popular. In this case you do not need to nip in the waist so much as the straps will hold the shorts up very well. Interesting buttons can of course give the waist, top or straps a good decorative effect.

Some shorts do use zippers-and this can be done to give a good fit over the hips and waist-but another nice effect is to use a placket with

Action Back Gives Freedom in Blouse

Most blouses for playsuits carry the action back for a very good rea-son. An active sport like ten-nis, golf or bicycling requires plen-ty of shoulder action and unless you want to put undue strain on the garment, an action back is the only answer. The yoke in this type of garment enables you to have a smooth fit over the shoulders, thus giving you comfort, but the gathering in the back of the blouse will give you extra room when back muscles are called into play.

It is easy to fit the yoke to the back of the blouse if you put small running stitches at the edge of the back part of the blouse and pull them to gather until they fit the yoke itself.

Sleeves must be eased in very carefully to fit properly. Here again it is best to make a small running stitch around the sleeve so that All the gathers, however, should fall on top of the armhole, and there should never be any gathering underneath the arm.

Another idea which is gaining popularity in playsuit tops is the poncho style which you may have seen in blouses for suits. This style, too, permits plenty of freedom of movement. The tie at the waist front also offers an opportunity for decorative effect.

Make-over Ideas

Sleeves are the first giveaway to the age of the garment. If sleeves are worn, remove them entirely and cut sleeves from a contrasting material with a smart, new pattern and insert them. If the garment has long sleeves, cut them at the elbow or wrist and make short or "capped" sleeves from them.

Leftover sleeve material can he used for neck facings, pockets or even as reinforcements under the arm.

Old dresses-particularly if the tops show undue wear, can have the sleeves cut out entirely. In this case, make a brand new contrasting colored jacket to wear with them and no one will know whether the dress is old or new. Too-short drindl skirts young daugher can be made to fit by lengthening at the waist or the hem. They are ideal when there is a wide contrasting col-ored hem. In this case be sure that the piece of material widens sufficiently at the hem so that it will look as if it belonged to the garment. If this is made double, it can be let out the next year if the girl has outgrown the length. Another idea is to put ruffing or an embroidered eyelet at the bottom of the skirt to add an inch or two of length.

Summer Fashion Notes

Sleeves for both coats and dresses are loose and graceful. And another are loose and graceful. And another graceful note, particularly in summer is the softly gathered waistline that ties easily at the front.

Princess styles are lovely for summer sports wear. They give the impression of perfect grace rather ef-fortlessly, and they are not tightly nipped in at the waist so they permit freedom of movement,

Suits themselves are kept neutral or pastel. If you want the sparkle of color in that ensemble, bring it out with a plaid blouse. For summer sports and simple daytime dresses, nothing is smart-er than the lovely linens now seen so much. Suits of linen always look crisp and neat and smart women will include at least one in their

COTTON TEXTILES

The cotton-textile industry has spearheaded factory growth in North Carolina from 1880 to the present. Centered in the Piedm area, coarse yarns were spun at first but now medium and fine tex-tures are turned out. It is a 50 million dollar business. All the world will need these products which will add to the Nation's wealth to back the Savings Bonds you buy.

Strike Out

This entire nation has to look to its big industrial plants for prosper-ity. If the big factories keep going, workers have jobs, farmers have markets for what they raise, and the rest of us get along well enough. When the factories start shutting down (for any reason at all) thoughtful people begin to worry and they have good reason for their uneasiness.

Work stoppages are always bad news. Farmers hate to read about strikes because farms can prosper only when industrial workers are happy with their jobs and set-ting good tables. Farmers take sides in labor squabbles less than most city people think. Without much prejudice they wish mainly that whoever is on the wrong side of the argument will get right so business can go ahead

Strikes Don't Last Not many weeks ago, when a world-famous strike ended, I over-heard a stranger say, "Strikes just can't go on forever. Finally men have to go back to work, whether they get all they struck for or not." The only trouble with this philosophy is that it's not so. The fearful truth is that somebody might some day call a "third strike"... one day call a "third strike" . . . one that might be called a strike out.

Every big industrial concern is in league with two different kinds of people—both classes out for money, but in different ways. One group is its employees, the others its stockholders. Both alliances are necessary. There's no use wonder-ing which is most important because it is not possible for an in-dustrial organization to get along unless it has both. They are mutually essential.

Many Similarities It is saie to consider these two groups about the same size. Numerically, the country over, one crowd is about as big as the other. Individual companies differ; some have more employees than stockholders, others have more investors than workers. In 1940, the General Motors Corp. had nearly twice as many investors as employees and several other big concerns were situated the same way.

There is some overlap. In certain corporations, quite a few em-ployees are stockholders too. They call themselves employees however, because their wages usually amount to more than their dividends. Payrolls have been running 10 to 20 times dividends for years. Generally, a company's stockhold-ers and its employees are two entirely different crowds, and the firm can't get along without either.

Both Independent

One point of most striking similarity between investors and employees is that they both are independent. Either crowd is free to walk right out and leave a com-pany. Either bunch might strike a firm dead with that very weapon. Usually it is the workers who quit because they are organized. Likewise, being organized, they can arrange to return to their jobs before it is too late.

Investors are not organized and accordingly move more slowly. They won't strike; there's nobody too call a strike. But if strikes of em-ployees kill the profit for investors and dividends quit coming entirely, investors will finally quit. They will quit one at a time and nobody will tell them to return to work. The final strike of employees that drives stockholders to quit, that's the strike that will be called "out." THE GOVERNORS RACE

I doubt if this will work, but if the people of Texas really want a system of state government which is guaranteed to please everybody and all sides, they ought to elect a panel of governors instead of just one.

By this method, as far as I can summarize, the promises made so far, we would have for the next two

The point is, as the race for governor warms up, there seems to be an unusually wild scramble to hit on something which will sweep this on something which will sweep this man or that into office. One candid ate, feeling he was in a highly prejudiced section, announced as long as he was in public office no negro would darken the door to the University of Texas then on waking up would darken the door to the University of Texas then, on waking up the next morning to read in the same papers carrying his inflamatory statement a ruling by the courts that a negro could enter the university within six months of the state doesn't provide adequate facilities at Prairie View, tempered his state ment considerably, saying he was stoutly in favor of full educational opportunities for all negroes, always had been.  Liberalism Back in America's colonial days before the Revolutionary war when everybody was underprivileged, there were only three freedoms. Everybody had a right to work hard, save as much as he could of his earnings and use his head as profitably as possible in business. If you have a taste for long words you might call the three freedoms industry, frugality and ingenuity.

Politics in those days were all full of rich-man vs. poor-man problems, same as now. They were, to be sure, better decorated with pretty English but the issues were about the same: What will we have to work with? If we do well, how much can we keep, and how much will be taken by the government? Government in those days was the Lovers of Freedom People who thought the king ought to show more liberality called themselves liberals. In theory the king owned the land. In reality he held a tight rein over his subjects. He taxed them plenty and his subsidized buying concern paid little enough for what they produced. A liberal in those days, was a man who wanted government to loosen up a bit in favor of the individual.

Affairs of the people were not changed very much by the Revolution. Colonies changed into states and new issues arose but still there was an over-all government. In this over-all government were people who had power-lust, or else feared to trust the common people with vital decisions. Opposed to these power-hungry folk were the liberals, still plugging for personal liberty. Liberals Won Out

The liberals were right. Time has proved beyond a doubt that people act better and live better and make more progress materially and spiritually when they have more free-dom. Since the United States became a first-class power in record time, the world's wealthiest and happiest people, the word "liberal" has been popular here. A liberal, to us, is one who wants the individual to be free.

Through the same historic periods America has had reactionaries. They were the people, in colonial days, who wanted the king to rule them. After the Revolution, the same element wanted an iron-rod rule in Washington—something like a dictator. Small wonder that reactionaries have always been unpopular in America, people who how! against the system and try to grab power for themselves. Try to Swap Labels

Reactionaries in America today are smart. They have learned one lesson well. They are very sure of one thing: they have a bad name. They know also that the word "liberal" is an asset. Accordingly they have adopted the term "liberalism" and call themselves liberals. This is the very same political element that supports more government rules and less liberty for individuals.

By the same strategy, this political element has begun to call peo-ple reactionaries who hold precise-ly to the liberal teachings of Thomas Jefferson. Don't let anybody tell you that government control of ev-erything, and the destruction of in-dividual freedom and opportunity, is the liberalism that Americans think so highly of—nor that it is liberal-ism at all. It is a counterfeit road sign designed to misdirect Ameri-can thinking away from the ways es

Askov, Minnesota, Known as 'Rutabaga' Capital of U.S.

By E. L. KIRKPATRICK

There are numerous capitols of America, including Noonal at Washington, "Swiss Cheese" at Monroe, Wis., and "Rutabaga" at Askov, Minn. Last named is smallest of these three but its work in the field it represents is plenty heavy on per capita population

Picture a town of 300 people around which is grown and through which is marketed 400 carloads of rutabagas per year. Most farmers in the community grow at least a half acre; some as many as 40 acres, depending on the prospective mar-ket. Eight tons per acre is a good yield. Price sometimes goes to $40 a ton, but is more likely to be around $20.

Rutabagas fit well in the community's dairy farming rotation, soil variations and family unit farming. They thrive in soil too heavy for potatoes, and farmers who are growing them say, "you can't beat 'bagas for a cash crop." So well is the crop liked that before the war, Askov staged annual rutabaga festivals, which likely will be resumed

Also a Co-Op Capitol.

In addition to rutabagas Askov makes a strong bid for U. S. "Co-Op Capitol." Among the active local groups are Co-Operative Creamery association, handling whole milk and making Land O' Lakes butter; Askov Co-Operation association, selling flour, feed and seeds; Pine Co-Op Oil association (centered in Askov with three sub-stations in neighboring villages) selling gasoline, oil, hardware and appliances; Askov Livestock Shipping association, trucking livestock to South St. Paul; to be seen on the site of what is now Salt Lake City. The pioneers built dams in the mountains to Federated Co-Op Trucking association, hauling agricultural products and supplies; and Co-Operative Mercantile association, operating a grocery store.

There are still other groups, such as the Askov Buying club, organ-ized by the high school students to purchase supplies for their own use; the Askov Co-Op guild, acting as a discussion club, and most rine furdiscussion club, and meat rings fur-nishing fresh beef, direct from lo-cal farms to members, weekly.

The navy has announced that Bar-in field, near Foley, Ala., will be closed not later than September 1. . . . Sturgeon Bay, Wis., is proud of the fact that its airport is suitable for planes as big as the DC-3.

. . . Mrs. Mary Longcor, age 85, wrote cards to her friends and took notes for her diary while she flew from her home in South Bend, Ind.,

to Cleveland, Ohio - her first trip by plane. . . . The Champion Wright

ing in a big way, and even the local dentist and the telephone man-and a dozen others—have learned to course, to show how easy it is to learn to fly. Hank Orth, Maryland Airlines' pilot, was the instructor. Plane Keeps 'em on Farm The private airplane should help to stop the decline of our farm pop-ulation, believes Harry Woodhead, president of Consolidated Vultee. He points out, for one thing, that farm boys are going to have an advantage over most city boys in readier access to the use of a plane. This fact should keep many young fellows at home. Their sisters will be able to get an order delivered by air express from a catalogue in two days - as fast as most city folks can get a delivery from a local department store. That will help farm life, too. Equally im-portant, the plane will put the city and distant friends in easy reach of every farmer's family - it will add an entirely new social dimen-sion to rural living.

CAA NOTES
CAA Administrator J. P. Wright has estimated that flying activities are now more than 1,000 per cent above the 1935 status. Air traffic congestion at city airports has al-ready reached alarming proportions. . . . Registration of aircraft will be up to date by July 1, and fast service will be provided for aircraft purchasers and finance companies thereafter, says F. M. Lanter. . . . But club ownership of an airplane introduces new headaches for all concerned, particularly if the plane is mortgaged. . . . Private enterprise will construct many new airports before the federal funds get into the hands of cities.

Planes for Harvesting

"I fly ahead, spot fields of ripening wheat, land and make deals with farmers, fly back, see how the work is coming along, take repair parts to distant towns where I learn by long distance that spare parts can be had. My plane has saved a lot of bread," recently declared Gene McGill of Avard, Okla., president of the National Flying Farmers association.

FAMOUS LITTLE TOWN

Askov, Minnesota, Known as 'Rutabaga' Capital of U.S.

By E. L. KIRKPATRICK

There are numerous capitols of America, including Noonal at Washington, "Swiss Cheese" at Monroe, Wis., and "Rutabaga" at Askov, Minn. Last named is smallest of these three but its work in the field it represents is plenty heavy on per capita population

Picture a town of 300 people round which is grown and through which is marketed 400 carloads of rutabagas per year. Most farmers in the community grow at least a half acre; some as many as 40 acres, depending on the prospective market. Eight tons per acre is a good yield. Price sometimes goes to $40 ton, but is more likely to be

Rutabagas fit well in the community's dairy farming rotation, soil variations and family unit farming. They thrive in soil too heavy for potatoes, and farmers who are growing them say, "you can't beat bagas for a cash crop." So well is the crop liked that before the war, Askov staged annual rutabaga festivals, which likely will be resumed this year.

Also a Co-Op Capitol.

In addition to rutabagas Askov makes a strong bid for U. S. "Co-Op Capitol." Among the active local groups are Co-Operative Creamery association, handling whole milk and making Land O' Lakes butter; Askov Co-Operation association, selling flour, feed and seeds; Pine Co-Op Oil association (centered in Askov with three sub-stations in neighboring villages) selling gasoline, oil, hardware and appliances; Askov day was a bleak desert when the Livestock Shipping association, ucking livestock to South St. Paul; Federated Co-Op Trucking association, hauling agricultural products and supplies; and Co-Operative Mercantile association, operating a grocery store.

There are still other groups, such as the Askov Buying club, organ-ized by the high school students to purchase supplies for their own use; the Askov Co-Op guild, acting as a discussion club, and meat rings fur-nishing fresh beef, direct from local farms to members, weekly.

All Community Shares.

Both farmers and townsmen are shareholders in all of the co-ops except the creamery, feed store and trucking groups which deal strictly with agricultural products and sup-plies. Many retired farmers in town still hold shares in several of these enterprises and take an active part in the meetings. Askov has a marked interdependency between townsmen and farmers in business. social activities, family ties, school, and the one church, Danish Luth-

AVIATION NOTES

AIRPORT CHATTER

The navy has announced that Bar-in field, near Foley, Ala., will be closed not later than September 1. . . . Sturgeon Bay, Wis., is proud of the fact that its airport is suitable for planes as big as the DC-3.
. . . Mrs. Mary Longcor, age 85, wrote cards to her friends and took notes for her diary while she flew from her home in South Bend, Ind., to Cleveland, Ohio - her first trip by plane. . . The Champion Wright flying service, municipal airport, Oxford, Miss., has been approved for veterans' flight training. . . Franklin, N. C., has taken to flying in a big way, and even the local dentist and the telephone manand a dozen others-have learned to . . . At an air show at Easton, Md., recently, Norman Harrington began a series of flight lessons early one Satuday morning and was ready for solo flight at three o'clock that afternoon. It was a stunt, of course, to show how easy it is to learn to fly. Hank Orth, Maryland Airlines' pilot, was the instructor.

Plane Keeps 'em on Farm The private airplane should help to stop the decline of our farm population, believes Harry Woodhead, president of Consolidated Vultee. He points out, for one thing, that farm boys are going to have an advantage over most city boys in read-ier access to the use of a plane. This fact should keep many young fellows at home. Their sisters will be able to get an order delivered by air express from a catalogue in two days - as fast as most city folks can get a delivery from a lo cal department store. That will help farm life, too. Equally im-That will portant, the plane will put the city and distant friends in easy reach of every farmer's family - it will add an entirely new social dimension to rural living.

CAA NOTES

CAA Administrator J. P. Wright has estimated that flying activities are now more than 1,000 per cent above the 1935 status. Air traffic congestion at city airports has al-ready reached alarming proportions. . . . Registration of aircraft fast service will be provided for aircraft purchasers and finance companies thereafter, says F. M. Lanter. . . . But club ownership of an airplane introduces new headaches for all concerned, particularly if the plane is mortgaged. . . . Private enterprise will construct many new airports before the federal funds get into the hands of cities.

Planes for Harvesting

"I fly ahead, spot fields of ripening wheat, land and make deals with farmers, fly back, see how the work is coming along, take repair parts to distant towns where I learn by long distance that spare parts can had. My plane has saved a lot of bread," recently declared Gene McGill of Avard, Okla., president of the National Flying Farmers association.

Farms in Two States John Hueske farms 2,200 acres in Washington county, Colo., and owns an interest in an implement business there. He lives in Adams county, Nebr., 225 miles away, where he owns 400 acres of land and operates an airport. He makes a round-trip flight each week to Colorado to look after his interests there.

French Dampen Nazi Hopes For Rebirth as Red Check

By BAUKHAGE

WNU Service, 1616 Eye Street, N.W., Washington, D. C.

The ghost of Adolph Hitler, reported to have been executing a little clog dance of joy on Europe's political rubble heap, like the one he performed after signing the armistice of defeated France, is probably not quite

His prediction of chaos or communism in Europe, a wishful "apres mois le deluge," hit a hit a cheerful to-

setback for the second time when the sturdy, middle-of-the-road Frenchman got behind the middle-of-the-road Republican Catholic Catholic party, and defeated the Communists, just as an earlier vote killed the constitution which the Reds

Because Hitler knew his greatest hope for a Nazi rebirth was a Comnistic Germany, his spirit probably rejoiced when the iron curtain went down on Germany's eastern frontiers, and one of Russia's border countries after another were bulldozed into one-party, leftist-

With France turned Communist, Germany would be an island in a red sea, and would soon have take on protective coloring, it was umed. The next step, according Hitler's hope, was the reaction

Now, for the first time since V-E Day, France seems to have shaken off her carmine shackles. Before the recent election, some quarters were predicting that if the French middle class and peasants could not get rid of the left-wing domination with ballets, they would try it with bullets. The left-wingers themselves were warning of a reactionary revolution, and as late as the spring of this year dire warnings were be-

MRP Seeks Unity Against Class War

Donald B. Robinson, former civil affairs officer in France, wrote in the April Mercury magazine that: 'In no nation of northwestern Europe are there such distrust and loathing between classes and groups as in France today. The bitter dissention which has driven General de Gaulle into retirement, and constantly threatens the precarious equilibrium maintained by the left coalition, is rooted in implacable hate between the moderates, centrists and rightists on the one hand and the Communists on the other.

This situation complicated the Allies' problems in regard to Germany. However, with France now staggering to her feet, there is a chance for more harmony among the western Allies, and it is possible that Germany, with proper controls and minus a huge slice of the rich mineral land of the Saar in French hands, may have her three zones sufficiently united to begin to support herself; to start to pay some of her bills with the consumer goods that her neighbor nations want from her, and can't get anywhere else. The results of the French elections are particularly gratifying from the standpoint of the western Allies because they appear to have established a degree of harmony among the more conservative French elements without revealing a reactionary trend.

The triumphant Popular Republican movement (MRP) had a platform which, according to French authorities, went beyond the political field to take a moral stand. The platform stressed the need for reenforcing unity among the newcomers (the right wing elements of the Socialist party made up of members of the old resistance), and all those opposing the efforts (by the Communists) to incite class hatred.

At the same time, the MRP disavowed all connection with the Radical Socialists, who, despite their name, are considered too conservative by many members of the resistance who formerly had joined in a common front with the Com-

The election results may mean a change in Russian policy, for in spite of themselves, the western Allies have been forced to take unified action if any action at all was to be taken. It is possible that Rusrope, including France. Now that this strategy has failed in regard to France, she may be more co-operative. Either that . . . or resign . or resign herself to taking an Allied western bloe and liking it.

Special Interests Deluge Washington

The lobby barometer of the present congress has run up a pressure record this session which is probably an all-time high. Never in the history of the capital have there been more pressure groups operating, as the listings under "as-sociations" in the classified section of the Washington telephone directory testify.

The "associations" fill 14 columns and very few are not interested in some kind of legislation, pending or prospective, and interested enough to have an office in the capital or at least a telephone number. There are a lot more with offices under the hats of their representatives, which prefer to remain anonymous

Alphabetically speaking, the American Automobile association leads the list, and the Zionists and George Zook conclude it.

One newcomer has nudged itself right up to second place-the Amvets, one of the 26 veterans organizations listed, including the American Legion and the Buck Privates association as examples of the old

The "antis" are present-four of them: Anti-Cigarette alliance; Anti-Defamation league; Anti-Poll Tax committee; and, of course, the Anti-Saloon league, to balance the Liquor dealers and the Distillers institute further on down the page.

Certain happier combinations suggest themselves. Take the National Caterers and Sandwich Makers association and the Mayonnaise and Salad Dressing manufacturers who together symbolize a fine old American institution,

Press Gets Its Azerbaijans Mixed Up

If the citizens of the Persian province of Azerbaijan, in whose desires for independence the Soviets have showed such a tender interest of late, ever read American periodicals, they may have been considerably surprised to learn from several recent articles that their country is rich in oil fields.

Information to this effect would have startled an oil expert friend of mine who has spent considerable time in that country, if he hadn't known his geography better than the writers of the articles. He knew (what I didn't until he told me) that there are rich fields of oil in Azerbaijan, all right, but that it is a different Azerbaijan many miles away, where Baku is located. But then how many Azerbaijanians (or Americans) know there is a Buffalo in Wyoming (where buffaloes ought to be) as well as one on the shores of Lake Erie?

Sees Democratic Victory in Fall

As the senators took a hitch in their togas on the ides of May this election year, the popular prediction for the kalends of November was a retention of Democratic control of the house of representatives, and a loss of only five or six Democratic seats in the upper chamber.

This at least a hardened soothsayer could venture to say, provided he didn't whisper it too loudly.

WASHINGTON. - Seldom has a senate committee been so loath to put its name to a piece of legislation as the senate banking and currency committee which finished sabotaging the price control bill recently. About all that was left of the bill was its name.

When it came to signing it, New York's Senator Wagner, chairman of the banking and currency committee, flatly refused. He pointed out, in a closed-door session, that ne had opposed the emasculating amendments and would submit his own minority report.

Senator Taft, who did more than almost anyone to tear the bill to pieces, also hesitated. He said he had his own bill which he wanted to introduce.

Finally someone proposed that the senators' names be signed in a cir-cle, so the public could not tell wno signed first.

"It reminds me," said Ken tucky's Alben Barkley, "of the young man who shot his mother and father, then appealed to the court for leniency on the grounds that he was an orphan."

NOTE-Finally, Senator Barkley agreed to report the gutted OPA bill to the senate, but accompanied by a stinging criticism of the way the OPA had been virtually destroyed.

PATIENT LAUNDRY LEW

Secretary of Labor "Laundry ew" Schwellenbach is a patient man. He learned the virtue of patience as a Spokane laundryman when he had to handle customers' complaints about frayed collars and lost shirts. Patient as he is, Lew has had a tough time with his boss in the White House during the maritime strike negotiations

Shortly after the talks began, Schwellenbach called on the unions, the shipping people, and government officials to say nothing which would arouse feelings and imperil the negotiations. The very next morning, however, Lew's boss in the White House did exactly the opposite by announcing plans to use the navy to break the strike. This, of course, put the ship owners in a favored position. They were no longer under any compulsion to settle before the strike deadline. When patient aundry Lew heard this, even he hit the ceiling.

Then the navy announced, with White House backing, that it was calling on its reserves and volunteers to break the strike. Again this played into the ship owners' hands; again the secretary of labor was upset.

Finally, he sent Assistant Sec. of Labor John Gibson to the White House with a personal appeal to the President to refrain from prejudioing the negotiations. Truman agreed, issued a statement saying the government hoped for settlement, did not want to be put in the position of breaking the strike.

CABINET CONFIRMATIONS

American history shows that Presidents of the United States have had more difficulty with senate confirmation of the secretary of the treasury than any other cabinet post. In all, 10 different votes have been cast by the senate defeating confirmation of cabinet mem-

The first of these was Andrew Jackson's fight to appoint Roger B. Taney as secretary of the treasury. Jackson was defeated.

Second senate battle was President Tyler's attempt to appoint Caleb Cushing as secretary of treasury. Tyler forced three different votes in the senate to confirm Cushing, but lost each time by large majorities. Tyler also had trouble appointing David Henshaw as secretary of the navy, and James M. Porter as secretary of war.

The next senate fight over cabinet confirmation occurred in the administration of Andrew Johnson, when he attempted to appoint Henry Stanbery, as attorney general, but was defeated.

Calvin Coolidge also lost a fight to appoint Charles B. Warren as attorney general.

The first vote on Warren was the famous occasion when Vice Pres. Charley Dawes failed to be present. His excuse was that he was napping and his alarm clock failed to go off. However, Coolidge, who never got along with Dawes, always suspected that his vice president wanted to avoid being put on the spot by a tie vote, which he, as presiding officer, would have had to break.

Six-foot, eight-inch high governor-elect Jim Folsom of Alabama is going to be a political force to be reckoned with. He has six months to plan his strategy before taking office, and one move he will make is to spend one month in Atlanta as a guest of Georgia's hard hitting Gov. Ellis Arnall. Folsom will study Arnall's liberal administration from A to Z in order to profit from his experience. . . Folsom was a leading Henry Wallace delegate at the 1944 convention.

Woman's World Make Slip-Covers for Summer To Add Fresh Color Scheme

By Ertta Haley

EVEN though you may not spend as much of your time indoors as you do outdoors, it's smart to make fresh slipcovers for dining and living room furniture just to give the home a change of color and feeling.

Slipcovers are expensive to buy and more frequently than not you cannot find them in a color or pattern to suit your furnishings. If every woman knew how really simple they are to make, I'm sure that every home would have a set of covers to put on for the warm months.

If you are an inexperienced seamstress, better choose a plain fabric or floral that does not need too much work when it comes to matching the motif or having an up-and-down design. You'll have to measure carefully each individual piece to make sure that you get enough fabric for covering. Here's how it's done:

You'll need twice as much in width as the chair measures, plus one-third extra for height, plus enough to go around each cushion. A slipper chair, for example, will take three yards of 50-inch fabric, an overstuffed chair, 412 yards, a large arm chair with reversible cushions, 6 yards; a loveseat will also take 6 yards, a large couch with reversible cushions, 9. Decide now much each piece requires and add % yard extra where the design must be matched.

If you want to save on fabric, you may decide that the bottom of the cushions can be of a different, perhaps less expensive fabric. Or, the bottom of the cushions can be paneled from pieces of the same material because they will not show.

Fit Chairs and Couches As Boxes or Bodies

Since no patterns are available for all the different sizes of chairs and couches to be covered, you'll have to fit them yourself. That's easy, though, if you will just take a length of the material, pin it to the chair and make allowance for seams. When placing the fabric on the chair, see that the grain of the fabric is straight (this can be marked with a chalk and ruler before placing the fabric on the chair). Allowance for generous seams is important in making slipcovers. You will remember that these are washed constantly, and are pulled by use. The seams should be made strong to withstand this.

Select crisp, gay prints . .

After the fabric is cut, it should be basted, pressed and stitched. A good idea is to cut and baste, then press and try on before doing the machine stitching. If there are any spots that pull this matter can be corrected before the cover is machine-stitched.

Dining Room Chairs

Easily Covered

Always stitch perfectly straight on slipcovers because that is the next most important after fitting. This, of course, will be easy if the slipcover has been basted properly. Use a medium-long machine will be one of covering only the seats of chairs, and perhaps the backs, if the chair is of that type. If the chair is odd-shaped make a cushion and cover for the seat, us-ing two pieces of heavy fabric to fit the seat and placing a last of cotton between these two and stitching around the edge.

Cut a top and bottom for the pat out of the fabric you want in the color scheme, place in positin. binding or cording it. Attach ties for this, and have these cam around the two back legs to hold the cushion and cover in place.

After you are certain the pleate fit as you want them, machine stitch. The final pressing is dise while the pleats are pinned together to make sure they will stay to gether properly. Use a dat press cloth and press only modelately hard. Remove the basing threads and then press again is remove any marks caused by these

Most slipeover materials do mit ravel easily, and if the seams are cut with pinking shears, they will not have to be finished any further. If you want to use a binding of cording for trimming, baste this in place and then stitch so that it will not show too much. For simple summer slipcovers, this binding is not used often, although it is perfectly proper if you desire it.

Secret of Pressing

No garment can really lock professional until it is carefully pressed. In sewing, for instance, it's a fundamental rule to press all seams after they are stitched. and definitely do so before one seam is attached to another.

See that the board is well pad ded with cotton, flannel or mus-lin. If there is any lumpiness in the board, it will show up on the garment when it is pressed. All pressing cloths should be free of sizing or dressing or list, and should be washed frequent ly. A heavy muslin is best for wool while light-weight muslin is regarded as best for other ma-

A sponge may be used for applying water to seams for opening them. Place a press cith over the material, sponge and

Tailor's cushions should be used to press the rounded parts of the garment such as pockets or seams that are curved. or seams that are curved. They home from two oval pieces of cloth, and filled with kapok or wadding. Before pressing any fabric, test a piece of the material to see how much heat the fabric will take and then adjust the iron accordingly.

Summer Fashion Notes

Redingotes are very smart when you want to appear strictly tailored and they give you a chance to wear the so smart print dresses and solid, bright colors. If you want to look cool and collected during the summer, avoid the use of too many frills, too much gingerbread. They seem to weigh down a dress and make it lose its freshness quickly.

Guard Sugar Supply: Use It Carefully When Doing Canning

Cherries red, cherries ripe yield bright jewel-colored jams and jel-lies to brighten the table. Make a small quantity this year to save on sugar. Short cooking protects their fresh color.

One of our longest-lasting shortages is still with us this summer canning. Yes, it's sugar. Those of you who before and during the when we do our war learned of the great useful-ness of the wellstocked canning cupboard will again make your plans for canning this summer. And, in spite of sugar difficulties, the canning cupboard can still be filled to the brim to help tide over those days when you have just to reach out and get fruit, jams, pickles or vegetables. Tomatoes were mighty scarce this past year for folks who did not have their own supply. We don't know yet what the supply picture is for the coming year, but home-canned tomato juice is so delicious it would be well to put up your own. Here's how:

Tomato Juice.

Use firm, red-ripe, freshly picked tomatoes. Discard any that are bruised or specked with decay and fungus. Wash carefully and leave whole to steam; or, cut into small pieces and cook until soft. Press hot tornatoes through a sieve and reheat to the simmering point. Pour into hot, sterile jars and process for 20 minutes in a hot-water bath at the simmering point, or 10 minutes

If you like to use tomato puree for cooking during the fall and winter, you'll want a supply of that on hand, too. I'm giving you a recipe for the seasoned type which is per-fectly delicious to use for casseroles and meat dishes. Don't forget that a supply of homemade tomato soup and vegetable soup comes in mighty handy on busy days, and there's no time like the present to can it: Tomato Puree. quarts chopped tomatoes

2 cups chopped celery
3 sweet peppers
Salt and pepper and cook until thick. Chop other, vegetables, cover with boiling water and cook until soft. Press through a sieve and add to tomato pulp. Reheat and pour into sterilized jars. Process 60 minutes in a boiling water bath. Tomato Soup. 1 teaspoon mixed spices 6 quarts chopped tomatoes 1 cup chopped parsley

Lynn Says:

Don't Waste Fats: Those extra household fats are still needed for making soap, nylons and other essentials. What you cannot use at home, store in a can and give to your butcher.

To render fat, collect any excess fat trimmings from un-cooked or cooked meat and store in refrigerator until you have collected a goodly portion. Grind or chop them fine, then render over a slow flame, a double boiler or in a slow oven (while you roast meat, for example). Strain through a cloth and keep refrigerated. Crush or grind the cracklingsthe small crisp pieces left after fat is rendered — and use in quick breads, particularly corn

Peach Jam (Makes 6 6-ounce glasses) 214 cups fruit

2¾ cups sugar ½ bottle fruit pectin Peel and pit about 21/2 pounds fully ripe peaches. Crush or chop very fine. Measure 214 cups into a large saucepan. Add sugar to fruit in saucepan and mix well. Place over high heat and bring to a full rolling boil and boil hard one minute, stirring constantly.

Fully ripe peaches are best for making luscious jams. They will not turn dark if cooked quickly with pectin added to insure jelling quality.

Remove from heat and stir in bottled fruit pectin. Stir and skim by turns for three minutes to cool fruit slightly, to prevent floating fruit. Pour quickly into glasses. Paraffin at once Sour Cherry Jam: make as directed above, using 11/4 pounds of fully ripe sour cherries to get 21/2 cups of fruit. Use 31/2 cups of sugar.

Jams are made by cooking crushed fruits with the sugar until the mixture shows little or no free liquid. They require about % pound of sugar to each quart of fruit, Onehalf of the sugar may be replaced with honey or corn syrup in the following recipe, which may be used for blackberries, dewberries, loganberries, raspberries, boysenberries or youngberries.

Berry Jam. Wash and crush the berries, Add 1/4 cup water to each quart of berries. Cook until soft. Press the cooked berries through a strainer to remove seeds, if necessary. Add 34 pound sugar (or half sugar and half corn syrup) to each pound of berries. Boil until thick. Pour, boiling hot, into sterile jars and seal

Any of the current crops of fruits may also be used for jams. Use 34 as much sugar as fruit and make sure the jam is cooked until thick, with no free liquid. You'll have to stir frequently to keep the jam which is a very thick mixture, from burning.

THE LAW IN JESUS' DAY

LESSON TEXT—Deuteronomy 6:4-9; Mat-thew 5:17-19; Mark 10:17-22.

MEMORY SELECTION—Think not that I am come to destroy the law, or the prophets: I come not to destroy, but to fulfill.—Matthew 5:17.

Jesus Christ is the believer's final authority. He is both our Saviour and our Lord. He is our teacher, our guide, our pattern in all things. It is therefore of the highest importance that we know his attitude toward the Old Testament laws, and that is just what we are to consider in the lessons of the next three months under the general "Jesus Interprets Old Testatitle, ment Laws.

Our introductory lesson tells us of the origin, interpretation and application of the law, then we go in later lessons to consider the Ten Commandments in the light of the teachings of Jesus.

It is appropriate to point out that, far from being outmoded, the Ten Commandments are really the basis of all moral law. They need a diligent restudy and re-emphasis in our day of disregard of moral

1. The Law-Given by God (Deut. 6:4-9).

Our God is the one true God who is to have the complete and constant devotion of all. The fact that so many men have ignored him explains the awful depth to which the world has fallen.

This one and only true God has given through his servant, Moses, the fundamental moral law for the government of man, and he is to give diligent attention to it at all

Religion in the household (v. 7) should include the teaching of the Word, and the easy natural discussion of spiritual things in all the varying circumstances of home life. Blessed are the parents who make it easy for children to talk about the things of God as naturally and unaffectedly as they discuss the other phases of life which interest

The law of God should go with his people into their daily occupations (v. 8), not in any formal or stilted way but as the normal ex-pression of their love for him. It should be evident to all who enter the home that the Lord is loved and honored (v. 9).

II. The Law Fulfilled by Jesus (Matt. 5:17-19).

The law of God is eternal, never to be abrogated, never set aside. Christ himself, although we might properly say that he was in reality the lawgiver and thus had power and authority over the law, indicated his purpose in coming to be that of giving the law its full meaning, not of destroying it.

One could wish that those who profess to be his servants might have the same measure of regard for God's law. If they did, they obviously would not be so ready to ignore it, so quick to change it or ready to accept with their Master every "jot and tittle"; that is, even the minutest detail of his Word. It is a mark of greatness "to do and teach" the law of God (v. 19) and of pathetic smallness to break his commandments and to teach others to disobey God. Some of the supposed great men of this world are mighty small when they are measured by God's yardstick. The one who recognizes Christ as the fulfillment of the law will go on in consistent living. In his strength and by his grace we are to obey every moral precept. III. The Law-Applied to Man

(Mark 10:17-22). 'The moral law, which is God's law, is good and in its keeping man finds guidance for his life. Apart from Christ, however, he finds himself unable to keep the law.

The gospel of the grace of God in Christ Jesus takes us a step beyond the law, and it is a great step for here we meet and follow the one who is greater than the law, the giver of eternal life.

Obedience to the commandments brings a man up to the very entrance upon that life, but to enter in he must have more than the "things" of the law; he must have the person who is "the door" to eternal life.

The young man who came to Christ was rich. His mind was obsessed with things. He had made it his business to observe the law, and had done well (v. 20), but his soul was not satisfied. He thought one more "thing" that he could do would accomplish his purpose.

The general attitude of the man was commendable. He sensed his lack of the vital something which would remake his life. He came to the right one-the Lord Jesus-with his question.

His failure to go beyond the things of the law to a faith in Christ, however, showed that he loved his ponsessions more than he desired to follow the Lord, NEEDLEWORK PATTERNS

In addition to all the Court and Commissioner's Court duties, your County Judge has to prepare for all school and other elections.

During the time I have been in office I've been called upon to do literally thousands of things for terest without cost for election sup our people; as an example, during rationing I have been called upon to plies, legal proceedings or market assist with every kind of rationing from gasoline to sugar and it's no overstatement to say that this off-ice has assisted in more than 10. 000 gas and sugar rationing applic ations. Since the OPA closed their posited in the bank to the special Road Account and $1437.93 was deposited in the bond sinking fund ac many applications for sugar - none of which were in any way connected

Since I am an Attorney, literally hundreds of our county people come to me for legal advice and ser vice which I have given without money and without price. I am sure that if I had charged for what I have done for my people at the rate of the average attorney's fees. would have collected more than the amount of my salary. I love my home people and like to work for them. I'd rather live here than any place I know. I was tendered a place as associate of the Court of IN Civil Appeals at Amarillo by Governor more than a year ago at a fine salary but declined the appoint ment because I wanted among my friends the remaining years of life allotted to me.

I've held several high and respon been a democratic custom in this

The greatest thing in all world is friendship and the affection of the human heart. So far as the County Judge's office is concern ment of the most vital business act ivities of your County Judge as I can make without going into long I CAN NOT GET ALONG . AND LIVE Without FRIENDS.

I was for some years both moth-er and father to three motherless boys --- all 3 of whom volunteered for service to their Country's cause early in the war. One son went thru the German campaign, was wound-ed, awarded the Purple Heart, and promoted a time or two. Another son went thru the Italian campaign while the third son, after several months i nservice, was given a med ical discharge without his consent and against his will and wish. I hope no man will cast reflection on these honorable sons by saying that their father is not worthy of the of fice he holds.

If my record of public service and private life has been such as to meet your approval I covet your continued friendship and support. On the otherhand, if there are those who oppose me, who can show a better record than this, it is your duty to support him. The time short before election - I cannot get out and make an active campaign on account of the many things required of me to be done in the office. So please take this as a per

From the record above you will note that since I've been in office there ha sbeen a constant reduction of the county's debts even as much as five years before due date, and at the same time a constant increase in available cash funds in the bank We are faced now with hard and un certain times after 2 years of drouth but the records of your coun ty will convince you that we have provided for the "rainy day". With so much work coming up in the im mediate future, it is my thought that to change horses in the middle of the stream could result in nothing but confusion and waste but you are the Judge of that.

The facts show that Lynn Co. is in the best financial condition as of today than in the history of the County. I shall appreciate your considerat
