Shack Blocker, local merchant, who has been ill from effects caused by rheumatism and is now in a Christoval hospital, is still in a very serious condition, so relatives report.

Blocker was first attacked by rheumatic twinges, but thought very little about it and continued work. Later, the pain increased and he was given a clinical check in Lamesa, where he was advised to have his teeth extracted. His condition failed to improve and he was taken to Christoval, but he continues to grow weaker and is now unable to move his hands as high as his face.

Week's Rainfall Totals 2:39

Soaking rains fell over the South Plains area during the past week, and, combined with snowfall early last week, assured an unusually good season.

Two and thirty-nine hundredths moisture was recorded on the government rain gauge here during a week's time, so says Ben Moore, operator. This included a six-inch snow, followed by downpours throughout the week.

Others who kept records on their own gauges, which ranged from tin cans to wash tubs, recorded higher totals than the government gauge. However, the gauge maintained by Moore, placed here by the government and the only one between Lubbock and Big Spring, conforms to all regulations, especially pertaining to distance from the ground.

City Submitted Tax Proposal By Gas Company

A proposal which would extend the present ordinance regulating the use of piped gas in O'Donnell and the extension of the franchise another five years was made to members of the city administration Tuesday night by representatives of the West Texas Gas company.

A two per cent tax on the gross receipts of the gas company in this city was also offered in consideration by the company representatives and figures submitted to show what revenue might be forthcoming in an extra way to the city.

The voluntary proposal whereby the city's finances might be bettered struck a responsive and pleasing note to many O'Donnell citizens.

No decision either for or against the proposal was made by the councilmen at the meeting.

Expert Explains Why Farmers Should Organize

TAHOKA, Mar. 27, 1941 (Spl.)— "If farmers who are weakly organized receive 25 per cent below parity for their agricultural products, while industry, completely organized, receives 50 per cent above parity, and labor, strongly organized, receives 150 per cent above parity, then it is time for the farmers to wake up and organize to protect their own interests." This, in substance, was what P. G. Haines, organization specialist of the A. & M. College Extension Service told a group of farmers and business men at a meeting in the District Court room here last Saturday morning.

Haines further pointed out that though farm people represent 25 per cent or one-fourth of the population of the United States, they receive only 12 per cent of the national income, because only 30 per cent of their number is organized so that their influence can be felt in state and national affairs.

Emphasizing the fact that farm people are not getting a just return on what they contribute to the wealth of our country, he stated that "Agriculture has obtained, during the past seven years, from the U. S. government three billion dollars for all agricultural activities, yet this was responsible for increasing the national income 130 billion dollars."

Haines also pointed out the excessive taxes paid by farmers of the South and Southwest where there is little organization as compared to those paid by the farmers of the North and East where farmers are better organized, and in touching upon farm operations he compared the truck load limits of the various states, showing that Texas, with great distances to market, had the lowest load limit, while Rhode Is-and, the smallest state, had the highest, 150,000 pounds.

One item of particular interest to the cotton grower is the fact that cotton seed products are heavily taxed, while foreign fats and oils come into this country duty-free to compete with our home-grown cotton seed oil which enters largely into many food products, particularly oleomargarine.

Pointing out that foreign markets for American farm products had been declining for the past fifty years and that the war has completely shut off many of the most important foreign markets, Haines urged his hearers to organize and wage a vigorous battle for parity prices and several needed legislative reforms, among which were: A national net weight law for cotton, repeal of interstate trade barriers, tax laws giving a more equitable distribution of taxes relating to Texas agriculture and farm lands, a more equitable adjustment in freight rates, and others. Some of these reforms are now being considered by the Texas Legislature, and farmers should make their position on these questions known and thus aid in passing these measures.

C. A. Lawrence, local secretary for AAA, pointed out that farmers of this county are now getting less in their parity checks from the Government; that they formerly did, the amount this past year having decreased approximately $80.00 per quarter section of land. His plea was for each farmer to take a more active interest in the farm program and so be able to realize as much as possible from it.

With Fred McGinty serving as temporary chairman and Rollin McCord as temporary secretary, explanation was made that the organization which was waging a campaign for the agricultural reforms is in no way a part of the old Farm Bureau, but is, in fact, a successor to the Texas Agricultural Association which was organized in 1936 to work for these very reforms and others, some of which have been accomplished. The organization as it is today has among its members all farm men and women who wish to join and all business men and women having farming interests.

After the sign-up by a number of those present, the following officers were elected: Truett Smith, Tahoka, president; J. R. Strain, New Home, vice president; Fred McGinty, Midway, secretary; and directors are Walter W. Caswell, Draw, Guion L. Cobb, Dixie, W. P. Lester, Gordon, L. C. Crews, Petty, and Joe McLaurin, Wells.

SUCCESS FORMULA
If we follow this Success Formula we might not necessarily roll up more of this world's goods, nor might we gain greater social, political or business success. But we most certainly would enjoy life more, probably live longer, develop a new sense of values, and get real satisfaction out of our daily work and living. Here it is:

- Do less that is easy, and more that is hard.
- Do less of what you like, and more of what you fear.
- Do less laboring, and more planning.
- Do less talking, and more listening.
- Do less that is technical, and more that is human.
- Do less that is complicated, and more that is simple.
- Do less high-pressureing, and more pushing the right button.
- Do less that is selfish, and more that is altruistic.
- Do less dreaming, and more acting.
- Do less hurrying, and more relaxing.
- Do less worrying, and more enjoying.
- Do less wanting, and more plain living.
- Do less to get, and more to give.
- Do less to improve others, and more to improve yourself.
- Do less of what you know you shouldn't, and more of what you know you should do.—H. D. Shaw in Brass Tacks.

Life In England Told In Letter

TAHOCA, Tex., March 27. (Spl.) The following letter was received Tuesday by Eugene Long of the News force from a friend of former years who is a native of London, England, and gives a number of interesting slants upon life in London during the present crisis.

Ilford, Essex, February 18.

My Dear American Friend:
How interesting it is to hear from you after such a lapse of years, but somehow in such times as these it is very consoling to know your thoughts are with us and that you are anxious to know how we are faring for the future.

By the above address you will note we also have moved just a few miles out of London since last October and have quite settled down now. I am not married and am still living with my mother and two sisters, as you can see it has depleted somewhat as my eldest sister and two brothers are all married and I have two nieces and one nephew, and I am very glad to add we are all quite well. My brother Fred and my brother-in-law are both serving in the Forces.

I am very glad to say the British Spirit is still the same and always will be. You see we know what we are fighting against and once the British Spirit is aroused I'm afraid we will stay put to the very end, whether it is bitter or not. As you say in your letter we have a very good Leader, eh! and we know it and take our hats off to him; one thing we do know he does speak the truth, whether it is for our good or not, so we know exactly how we stand.

Our poor old London is not a patch of what it was and although the firm I was working at was bombed during a heavy blitz towards the end of last year, I thought it best to get a situation locally but somehow the city attracts me and I have now settled down there once more. It is amazing when you are working and the siren goes on—not a hair is turned and one goes on working just the same, but of course we have our spot- ters should they be in the vicinity. I was thinking the other day after we have won the war it would be nice to reverse the camera like you see on the pictures and so restore our old London back, but that would be a miracle—but still they happen these days.

What I am glad to say is, that we still have a little humor left. I was passing a shop the other day which had caught the blast of a bomb but were still carrying on, and the poster outside read "Open more than ever" and that is only one that catches the eye as you pass along in the bus.

I am sending you a weekly paper under separate cover so that I hope one or the other will be fortunate to reach you.

As I am writing this now the guns are firing in the distance and I must say our boys are good shots so I wonder how many they will bring down tonight.

My sister and I are going to join the local fire watching which will only mean a watch of about two to three hours a week as there are quite a number of volunteers and it does not make it so hard.

Well, Eugene, we are getting into Spring now and the trees are shooting and the birds still sing-how nice it will be when we can settle down again to normal life and appreciate the seasons to the utmost.

By the way, I have now taken a keen interest in gardening and I didn't really know how interesting it was until the campaign "Dig for Victory" came about—the only thing I cannot wait for them to come up. It is now nearing our bed time and we now sleep in the dining room as our upstairs bedrooms are nearer heaven in more ways than one. I really didn't think I should be made to sleep under the table in civilized times.

Please give my kindest regards to your wife and may you and your family have many happy years to come. It is very encouraging to know we are backed up by your People and your help inspires us more than you could imagine.
Yours sincerely,
Hilda Jarrold.

A REPORT to America

The Ford Motor Company's business has always been to serve the needs of the American people. In providing them with low-cost transportation for the past 38 years, we have developed one of the country's largest and most useful industrial units. During a national emergency, we feel that these facilities should be devoted without reserve to our country's needs. Toward that end we started rolling months ago, with these results:

- 1 A $21,000,000 Ford airplane engine factory, started only 6 months ago, is nearly completed. Production will start with an initial order for 4,236 eighteen cylinder, air-cooled, double-row, radial engines.
- 2 We are building a new $800,000 Ford magnesium alloy foundry, one of the few in the country. It is already producing lightweight airplane engine castings.
- 3 Army reconnaissance cars—military vehicles of an entirely new type—are rolling off special Ford assembly lines at the rate of more than 600 a month. We have produced Army staff cars and bomber service trucks.
- 4 The government has given the "go-ahead" and work is now under way for the fast construction of an $11,000,000 Ford plant to produce bomber airframe assemblies by mass production methods.

5 Several months ago work was started, on our own initiative, on an entirely new 1500 horsepower airplane engine especially designed for mass production. This engine is now in the test stage and plans are being developed for producing it in large quantities when and if needed.

6 A Ford aircraft apprentice school has been established, to train 2000 students at a time.

That is a report of progress to date.

The experience and facilities of this company can be used to do much of the job which America now needs to get done in a hurry.

Our way of working, which avoids all possible red tape, enables us to get results and get them fast. This benefits users of our products and workers who produce them.

We are ready to make anything we know how to make, to make it to the limit of our capacity if need be, to make it as fast as we can go, and to start the next job whenever our country asks us to. And to this end, we know we have the full confidence and loyal support of the workmen throughout our plants.

Highway Wreck Causes Death

TAHOKA, Texas, Mar. 27 (Spl.)—A week-end trip that promised so much of pleasure in visiting relatives and being re-united with life-long friends ended too soon for an elderly Houton county couple who resided at Weldon, when the wife met death and the husband serious injury when their new coupe collided with a mail truck four miles south of Tahoka on the O'Donnell highway about 4:30 o'clock Saturday afternoon.

The couple, Dr. Sam P. Beeson, 61, and his wife, 60, were on their way from Turkey, where they had visited a sister of his, to Lamesa, where they expected to visit Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Carroll, long time friends of theirs, and near the top of the hill just this side of the Carl Griffing place they met the mail truck, a Chevrolet pickup, driven by Raleigh Harter coming north.

Mr. and Mrs. Bedford Caldwell and Phillip visited in Lubbock last week end.

Mr. and Mrs. W. V. McElroy and Jan of Tahoka were guests of Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Hafer Sunday. Mrs. W. R. Gibson of Tahoka visited here Monday.
