G. I. Paradise

By Gordon Gaskill

(WNU Feature—Through special arrangement with The American Magazine.)

There is a spot in Palestine surrounded by orange groves where the U. S. army has established a rest camp for tired or vacationing soldiers. It can handle 750 at once and draws them from a vast, 5,000-mile territory stretching from the Persian Gulf to the west coast of Africa.

Next to home, this is a sort of paradise which soldiers dream about. The kind of place where captains tiptoe in and ask if there's anything they can do for you. The kind of place where top sergeants even smile at privates.

The official name of this unique spot is "Levant Recreation Center." The army shied away from the name "Rest Camp." They were afraid the boys would think they had nothing to do but sleep, eat, read, and knit khaki-colored wool. They needn't worry. The G.I. grapevine works fast, and by now every soldier from the West African jungles to the sweltering Persian Gulf, and in all the great desert lands between, knows that this is a place where a man can write his own ticket.

Sure, he can read and knit if he wants to. But he can also—and 90 per cent do—spend only $14 for an all-expense tour of Palestine which, as a peace-time tourist, would cost him at least $500. Holy Jerusalem is only 75 minutes away by car. He can loll on the army's private and fancy beach if he likes lolling. Within 15 minutes he can be in clean, modern Tel-Aviv, which is the world's greatest all-Jewish city, for as much hell-raising as suits him, A little over 99 per cent do that.

Like Luxury Hotel.

Arrivals at the Center meet first Capt. Lloyd Howard, who runs it. He makes a short talk to each incoming batch of soldiers.

"Fellows," he says, "I'm just running a hotel for Uncle Sam. We're trying to provide you with everything but breakfast in bed, and we're working on that."

Howard used to be superintendent of playgrounds at Lynchburg, Va.

One morning I watched nearly 200 new arrivals come in. They carried only musette bags containing toilet articles, mess kit, and a few extra clothes. The camp supplies everything else. Only a small handful of them had ever seen action. Most of the men, like Private Salvadore Spano of Newark, N. J., had never heard hostile bombs or bullets, yet army doctors say men like him need rest and change even more than combat troops. Front-line excitement keeps them pepped up.

It's different with the Private Spanos of the army. Their work is essential but unexciting and monotonous. This was Spano's first furlough in 14 months. He had been stationed in a godforsaken desert aircraft repair depot. I asked him what the climate was like.

"Climate!" he snorted. "There ain't no climate—just half heat, half sand. Whatta hole! All we needed to be really buried was to have a little dirt sprinkled on us."

Then Private Spano looked out over the great, green gardens the Jews have created in Palestine, out to the blue, white-edged Mediterranean and to shining Tel-Aviv.

"Boy," breathed Private Spano, "after that desert stuff I see now why they call this the Promised Land."

Eight Days of Fun.

Nearly all the men had the army's famous eight-day furlough. Most came by train (a few arrived in trucks and planes) and coming and going gobbled up two days. Only six days, or 144 precious hours, were left, and Captain Howard was wise enough not to waste it on red tape. He has pared the checking-in process to a bare 15 minutes. Men

He has pared the checking-in process to a bare 15 minutes. Men move swiftly past a row of tables. One table gives Palestinian money for whatever kind the soldier has.

Once through this line which is "Once through this line, which is the last concession to military organization for six days, a man is practically a civilian again. He can do what he pleases and go where he pleases. It's theoretically possible—although nobody does—to spend all of one's leave at the camp and have a swell time absolutely free.

Music and Cold Showers.

From morning till evening, the camp is bathed in music, played softly over loud speakers everywhere. One of the camp's principal charms is hot showers all day, which seems like a mirage to men overlong in the desert. Another is a plentiful supply of ice water at fountains. Another is the fact that you can sleep as long as you like in the morning.

The best G.I. foods are supplemented in season by vegetables, grapefruit, oranges and pork from the camp's own farm.

Washington MERRY-GO-ROUND OREW PEARSON

Washington, D. C. WASHINGTON AND WAR'S END

Washington officials who watch the trend of the war admit now privately that "things will happen very fast" in the next few months. If pressed, they even make flat predictions that Germany will fold before summer.

Publicly, they stick to the line that it will be a long war. This is the only sound position to take, as an official line, since no war can be successfully waged if the people spend their time peeping around the corner for the approach of peace.

But the facts allow a hopeful expectation. Unquestionably the invasion of Europe will be a winter invasion. For many reasons, spring will be too late. February is the likeliest month. The exact time will be no secret to the Nazis, because we will be pounding the French coast well in advance.

The offensive will be a tremendous operation, combining a cross-channel invasion with heavy drives from Russia and Italy, plus all-out air attacks everywhere. (The Balkan invasion urged by Churchill is doubt-

Some experts go as far as to name the length of time—in days—which this big operation will require, before the end. One highly placed official says it will take three months and twenty days. Thus, if the invasion starts by mid-February, this would mean the end by early June.

But military experts won't say such things out loud, because they fear the U. S. public will overlook the fact that the days between February and June will be the bloodiest days in the history of all the world's wars.

ARMY POSTAL SERVICE

On a recent visit to the front lines, Lieut. Gen. Mark Clark found a soldier busy scribbling a V-mail letter on his mess-kit. The soldier looked as though he had lost his last friend, so General Clark asked him what was wrong.

him what was wrong.
"Oh, I'm getting a little weary of this life, sir," replied the soldier.
"What's your trouble?" asked General Clark.

"Why, I haven't received a letter in five days, General," replied the soldier. "What does the post office department think we are over here—a bunch of archeologists?"

"Personally, I think five days is pretty good service from the United States to the front lines, son," replied Clark. "But I'll talk to the postal service officials and see if you can't get your love letters quicker. I see your point, soldier."

VETERANS EXPAND

The Ramspeck committee investigating civil service has spent most of its time trimming the numbers of government workers. But it has now stumbled into a situation requiring a complete change of policy.

The Veterans administration, instead of submitting to a reduction of personnel, is asking for more—thousands more. Men are being discharged from military service so fast that the task of Veterans administration is going up like a skyrocket. Now employing 45,000 workers all over the country, V. A. will soon have to double its staff.

BACK TO PEACETIME INDUSTRY

Donald Nelson is engaged in a behind-the-scenes race with Elder Statesman Bernie Baruch to work out plans for the reconversion of American industry and see who can get it done first. This was behind the war production board meeting last week when Nelson called in his top aides and outlined a big postwar program of civilian production.

Nelson wants plans for the changeover of industry to begin at once.

This does not mean the actual reconversion of factories, since a lot of them may be busy on war orders for some time. But it does mean full speed ahead on plans for reconversion.

This may provide one clue on how soon the administration expects the war to be over in Europe.

However, insiders who know something about personal rivalries of Washington, see in it also the desire of Donald Neson to grab the ball away from Baruch and "Assistant President" Jimmie Byrnes. These two long have wanted to get Nelson out, and at one time FDR actually signed a letter appointing Daruch chairman of a special committee to take over all war produc-

Note: Before Nelson got busy on reconversion, Baruch had been asked by the White House to study plans for converting industry back to a peace basis.

U. S. Planes Get Nursemaid Care

Garages on Wheels Go to Front Airdromes to Make Repairs.

REPAIR BASE IN NORTH AF-RICA.—Warplanes of the United States army air forces are receiving nursemaid care via assembly-line methods on our widespread fighting fronts, thanks to "garages" on wheels.

Large trailers, half the size of Pullman cars, compactly equipped and staffed by skilled technicians of the air service command, these mobile units are able to barge right up to a forward airdrome and perform repairs ranging from a "skingrafting" job for a flak-riddled aircraft to overhauling of delicate instruments.

Step Up Power

Conceived with a view toward mobility and designed as self-contained units, the trailers have gone a long way toward stepping up the striking power of our air force by increasing the number of operational aircraft ready to sweep the skies.

Mass-prepared as only America can do it, these repair units have taken to the front. With compact efficiency they are creating steady flows of repaired aircraft to hound the enemy. The normal entourage of every service squadron of the 12th air force air service command is from three to six trailers, each especially equipped for the work at hand. One houses a machine shop that would do justice to any large business firm whose job it is to perform machine repairs. A second is an instrument whose staff is made up of soldiers possessed of watchmaking skill, while a third may deal with our intricate gunsights, the mechanism of which appears to be a combination of a Walt Disney dream and a Rube Goldberg nightmare. The fourth trailer is devoted to electrical repairs and houses the radio shop, and the others are supply vans that contain the hundreds of odds and the repair of a battle-damaged airplane. Operate as Team.

ends that a mechanic may need in Traveling and operating as a well-drilled team of mechanical work houses, the mobile repair units stand side by side to produce the effect of an assembly line belt down which damaged parts move with amazing speed to emerge completely whole for sorely needed grounded aircraft.

To obtain an idea of the versatility of one of these trailers, take into consideration that a modern heavy bomber contains more than 100 instruments, about 50 of which are altogether different from each other. But that is no stumbling block to the instrument shop. It is equipped with tools and gadgets and skilled craftsmen able to repair and overhaul any or all of these delicately constructed instruments.

The scarcity born of long supply lines and heavy fighting has bred an ingenuity and a flair for invention that does the American tradition much-of the repair equipment and many of the delicate tools are homegrown and home - manufactured. Most amazing of all, the mechanics who tear down, build up and actually manufacture necessary tiny parts, are not experts stolen by the army from great American chronometer and instrument factories. They are farm lads and clothing salesmen, whose schooling in their present work was done entirely by Uncle Sam.

WACs to Get Ribbon in Lieu of New Millinery

LONDON.—In lieu of new hats, 186 recently arrived WACs were authorized to wear the ribbon denoting service in the American theater of war.

"Their crossing developed into an extended cruise which included a period of service in the American theater outside the continental limits of the United States," it was explained. The order, signed by Lieut. Gen. Jacob L. Devers, added:

"It's only an extra service ribbon, but to a woman that added spot of color on the regulation olive drab has the lift of a new spring hat almost."

Even Storks Now Shun Nazis, Missionary Says

ITHACA, N. Y.—Even the storks shun Germany and Axis-occupied countries! So says a missionary in Southern Rhodesia, Africa, in a letter to Prof. C. A. Taylor of Cornell. The storks migrate to Southern Rhodesia by the thousands during the European winter, and they usually start their flight back some time in March or early April. But in 1943, wrote the Rev. Arthur J. Orner, the storks disassociated themselves with the Axis by remaining in Rhodesia.

Headed Into Oblivion ST. PAUL. — When someone

ST. PAUL. — When someone tells you to "get a horse," you may have a bit of trouble.

At least that's the opinion of A. L. Harvey, professor of animal husbandry at the University of Minnesota, who said a survey of 500 stallion owners in Minnesota had shown a 50.8 per cent stock decline in recent years.

War Prisoners Do Well in America

Prove Satisfactory Workers In Variety of Jobs.

WASHINGTON. — Thousands of Italian and German prisoners of war who have been working on farms and in lumber camps, fertilizer plants and laundries in this country have proved to be satisfactory workers, a survey revealed.

Many of them—40 per cent of the Italians in one big camp—want to make the United States their permanent home. But no matter how they feel about it, they won't be permitted to stay. International law requires that they be returned to their homeland after the war. After the war they could, of course, seek readmission to this country as regular quota immigrants.

A United Press survey of prison camps showed that prisoners, especially Italians, were important factors in relieving manpower shortages in some states during the harvest this fall. Several hundred prisoners are being trained in northern states for work this winter in lumber camps which also have acute labor shortages.

Many prison camp commandants reported that no accurate check had been made of prisoners' desires for the future, but at Pine Camp, N. Y., it was estimated that 40 per cent of the Italians wished they could stay in the United States after the war.

Most of the prisoners are getting a taste of democracy, American style. They must, of course, conform to rigid military discipline, but they are allowed certain privileges within their stockades. They govern themselves and elect their own administrative officials.

Employers can apply for prisoners for work outside the camps, and in at least the North Carolina area there are enough prisoners to fill the demand.

Mining Being Studied by Turks at Utah University

SALT LAKE CITY, UTAH.—Working for their masters' degrees in mining engineering at the University of Utah are two Turkish students whose job it will be to help operate Turkish mines in a changing civilization.

Upon completion of their schooling, the students, Cemal Biron of Izmir, Turkey, and Kirac Eray of Elbistan, Turkey, expect to return to their native country. There they will employ the latest methods in the development of Turkey's abundant resources.

The Turks came to this country from France before the Nazi invasion. They are continuing their studies on scholarships from the Turkish government, having graduated last spring from the Montana School of Mines.

The students worked in mines in Utah during the summer months in order to gain practical experience. Eray worked as a laborer for a while and then gained a position in the engineer's office. Biron specialized in mine ventilation.

Lost Train Ticket Nearly

Spoils Man's Furlough
NEW YORK. — Pvt. George C.
Pohnke, of Brooklyn, started to enjoy his 15-day leave from a Texas army camp after he learned that the Red Cross had located his return trip railroad ticket in Philadelphia. Pohnke made an acquaintanceship with another soldier on the train and by mistake put his ticket in the pocket of his companion's overcoat hanging next to his own.

Pohnke missed his ticket when he arrived in Brooklyn and went to the Red Cross for advice. He was told the Red Cross field director at the Texas camp would be contacted to see how return transportation could be arranged.

He had scarcely left the Brooklyn Red Cross when a call came from the Philadelphia chapter saying a soldier there had turned in a ticket which he believed belonged to a Brooklyn companion. Pohnke was notified that the ticket was on its way to him.

'Pied Piper' of Pacific Has Trapped 2,000 Rats

SOMEWHERE IN THE SOUTH PACIFIC.—The rat colony on Guadalcanal has plenty of reason to rejoice—35-year-old Edwin E. Perley of Madison, Va., is back on the high seas.

In six months on the island the second class boatswain's mate—a naval veteran of 16 years—accounted for well over 2,000 marauding rodents. He used only patience, marine field biscuit and makeshift steel and bucket traps.

The steel traps he kept at arm's length from his own bunk. On his biggest night he raked 80 rats from his tent.

Soldier Writes to Wife

CAMP RUCKER, ALA.—Like all good soldier husbands, Sergt. Russell E. Harris dutifully writes his wife.

But his wife, a WAC, lives in barracks 300 yards from his. Explains the sergeant:

"My wife and I have very little time together and there is no place where we can be alone, so we write about three letters a week to tell what we are doing."

FIRST-AID + to the AILING HOUSE

MUSTY SMELL

Question: We live in a very old garage flat over a clean private garage. The woodwork, however, is very old, and the windows high and not suited to cross ventilation. There is a musty smell in the house that is present in some old houses, although the place is not damp. We have a gas furnace and there is nothing to cause this odor except aged woodwork. Can you suggest some deodorant to overcome this condition? We have more trouble in summer than in winter.

Answer: Where there is a musty smell of that kind you may suspect rotting wood somewhere. It would be well to make a thorough examination to see if any of the timbers or parts of a building are damp, or if there is leakage. In the meantime you can clear up much of the odor with special preparations that are on the market for just this purpose. Inquire at your hardware or drug store. One or two saucers of household ammonia would also sweeten the air. You can help the ventilation along by placing an electric fan on the floor, blowing toward an open door or window.

MAPLE BREAKFAST SET

Question: I am taking the paint off our breakfast nook set and want to finish it a maple color. Should

I put on an undercoat before I put the maple color varnish on?

Answer: If, after removing the paint, the wood is of a uniform color, apply the varnish stain directly to the wood; but should the bare wood turn out to be varied in color and shade, apply a coat of buff-colored flat paint first.

Gurgling Sink

Question: We have a septic tank, and when the plumbing fixtures in the bathroom upstairs are used there is a gurgling in the sink downstairs. What causes it and what can we do to remedy it?

Answer: The piping connections may be faulty so that when a large volume of water comes down the pipe from the bathroom above it creates a suction, causing the water in the sink trap to gurgle, and, in some cases draws it down. Sometimes an accumulation of grease will cause this trouble. If your plumber can furnish you with an anti-siphon trap under the sink this should relieve the gurgling. If none is available, a large trap with a deep water seal may help. All septic tank installations should have a grease trap connected to the line from the sink.

Cracked Stucco

Question: My house is built of fireproof tile with a cement finish on the outside. This cement finish has quite a few cracks on the outside walls. How can I finish up these cracks permanently, and make a decent looking job?

Answer: Hairline cracks in the wall can be covered by painting with a damp-proof cement base paint. Larger cracks should first be widened and made deeper, then patched with a cement mortar. You can get ready-prepared patching mortar and the cement base paint at most mason material yards. Follow the printed directions.

Mortar

Question: Seven years ago my red blick porch was tuck pointed, and now the mortar is coming out again. What proportion should be used so that the mortar will be more permanent?

Answer: Use one part portland cenent, an equal quantity of hydrated lime, and three parts clean building sand. At the time the job is done, the brickwork should be soaked with water.

Gas Burner Adjustment

Question: We have hot air heat and burn gas. When the basement air is cold the gas flame is blue, but as the basement becomes heated, the flame is red. How can we improve this condition?

Answer: A blue flame indicates correct adjustment of the burner, while a red flame shows that the air supply is insufficient. Consult your gas company.

Cleaning Sidewalks Question: Is there some kind of a solution that I can use to wash my front porch and sidewalk?

Answer: I presume the porch floor is of concrete or stone. If so, scrub

Answer: I presume the porch floor is of concrete or stone. If so, scrub the floor and sidewalk with a strong solution of trisodium phosphate or washing soda, about a cupful in a pail of hot water. Rinse with clear water. Scouring powder, in addition to the solution, may be necessary on stubborn spots. Badly stained areas may need special treatment, depending on the nature of the stain.

SNAPPY FACTS ABOUT RUBBER

The peak of tropical American rubber production, including guayule, was in 1912, when about 62,000 tons were produced in all countries. In 1940 the world's production of rubber was 1,389,695 tons, more than came out of the Amazon Valley in all the years from 1837 to 1939 in-

By the use of bud-grafted trees, the yield of rubber on Far East plantations in some cases has been increased from 500 to 1,500 pounds per acre a year.

One type of four-motered bomber requires more than 2,000 pounds of rubber; pursuit planes require ever 100 pounds each.

Lynn County's Quota $695,000

This is what we've been working for all along. This is the year to hit and hurt the enemy. This is the time when everything you do counts double. If we all get together and do all we can, we'll be over this hurdle and well on our way to complete and crushing victory.

No question about the men in uniform—they'll go "all out." But can we count on you to back them all the way? Your quota is where you work—you've got to buy your War Bonds and then buy more, until every last loose cent you have is fighting. Tough? Of course, it's tough—unless it is a sacrifice you're simply not doing your share!

Make the sacrifice now—buy more than the extra $100 Bond your country counts on you for—winning the war is worth any sacrifice you make. Besides, you aren't giving, you're lending to America! You'll get back every dollar you invest in War Bonds, with interest.

An extra $100 War Bond now is the minimum for everybody—can't we count on you for more?

BACK THE ATTACK WITH WAR BONDS

The Old Office Game

By LOIS EVANS COOK McClure Syndicate-WNU Features.

EONADUS PLINE sat behind his glass-topped desk with expensively groomed, impregnable assurance. A pucker of a pout formed around his lips that two hours later would methodically smack their way through the contents of a luncheon tray which his secretary, Miss Seacy, would bring to him.

At the moment Miss Seacy, her notebook on her knee, darted an apprehensive look at him.

"This water," he began, turning distastefully away from the silver jug at his elbow.

In a comprehending flash Miss Seacy clutched the pitcher and tiptoed from his carpeted office. In a few seconds she was back with it freshly filled. She handed a goblet of water across the desk and expectantly sat down again. All I need, she thought rebelliously, is a palm leaf to wave across his brow.

But should anyone have glanced at her through the door he would have seen only a small trim figure in black, with a strand of pearls at her throat, a coronet braid of dark hair setting off her quietly pretty features.

Abruptly Mr. Pline raised a large, pale, well-cared-for hand to remove his nose glasses that all through the day would be shifted from nose to desk and from desk to nose. "You may put aside your book," he said ceremoniously.

Miss Seacy's pretty lips parted in astonishment. "Yes, m'lord," mentally replied her unruly mind. "What have I done now?" it continued rakishly.

"Miss Seacy," resumed Mr. Pline's best executive voice. "Do you realize that today is a very special day?"

Miss Seacy's brown eyes were suddenly wary. "Today," intoned Mr. Pline, "marks the fifth anniversary of your employment in our company. I hardly need to tell you of the es-teemed place you hold with us for the loyal and capable service you have rendered. And in behalf of this commendable record in length of time and quality of service I wish to present you with this token of my appreciation." Expansively he handed a large, finely textured envelope to Miss Seacy.

Carefully she pulled out the unsealed flap and drew forth an ornately bordered and embossed document. The elegantly engraved message announced to an indifferent world that Miss Joanna Louise Seacy, by virtue of five years of service in the L. A. Pline Company was duly entitled to this Certificate of Merit. That was all. No green bills. No bonus. Miss Seacy looked like a child who had just bitten into a disappointing piece of candy. But Mr. Pline in his glow of benevolence did not notice. "As the years go on," he beamed, "I hope to add many more.

"Oh, no, Mr. Pline," said Miss Seacy's mutinous mind within her. "Not for little Joanna." She managed to say, "Thank you, Mr. Pline." And then she heard herself adding, "Thanks for opening my eves, too. I didn't realize I'd been plugging away here that long. Remember the morning I came? I was a bright-eved infant of twenty. I could have kissed you for letting me enter these sacred doors to learn the business from the ground up for Deb Parade Frocks. And I was soon to realize my dreamplanning sales promotion for Deb Parade. Assistant to Helene, that's what I was to be. Assistant in sales promotion, because I was a Girl with Ideas. And while I was still in my youthful daze someone led me to the files and I got lost there for a couple of years. Then I doubled for a dictaphone operator one day and was lost there for another year. So far as I can see Helene has never had an assistant in her life. As a result, I've been filling shorthand books for you for three years.

"Mr. Pline, I'm just beginning to see myself in a very discouraging light. I'm not blaming you. I'm sitting here with the sudden realization that I've been dumb. I'm not a step nearer to sales promotion than I ever was. 'I tank I go home,' Mr. Pline." She whirled out of her

"One moment," ordered Mr. Pline dramatically. "For five years I've been waiting for you to tell me that you're ready to promote Deb Parade. Background? Of course you needed background. Was it my fault that it took you five years to speak up? In my company the go-aheaders have to do that. You're in sales promotion now, Miss Seacy. You're not Helene's assistant. You're in charge. Let's see what you can do." Miss Seacy's eyes were round with fear. "Oh, do you think I can do it?" "None of that," majestically commanded Mr. Pline. "Promote!" All eyes were upon Miss Seacy as she made her way to her desk. "That was a long session," remarked Helene. "Are you quitting too?

"No. I've been promoted." Then she was struck with the meaning of Helene's question. "Did you say quitting too?' Are you quitting?" "Certainly. I gave notice about an hour ago. Effective in two weeks." "Why that old windbag!" exclaimed Miss Seacy. There was reluctant admiration in her voice.

The Wayward Daughter

By KATHLEEN NORRIS

IRST, keep your young sons and daughters away from dangerous amusements and associations; and Second, provide them with occupations and entertainment enough to prevent their wanting to enjoy forbidden things.

This sounds simple. But it is actually the great and terrible problem of parenthood in these days. If it could be solved we should hear less of juvenile delinquency and youthful immorality than we do.

It has always been a problem. But it is more than ever one now, with war confusions, war changes, war irresponsibility upsetting every town and city and village and social group in the entire

Even when children have a good devoted father and mother, a good home, church influences, proper schooling, they sometimes break away. The forces of independence and rebellion are too strong. They take chances with their eyes open; they want to take chances. This story is of a girl who took chances and had her fun and wasn't to be run by any old-fashioned rules of decency or decorum. Her predicament isn't a typical one; its very unusualness makes it interesting. Daughter Got Out of Control.

Sylvia was about 16 when she began to worry her father and mother out of their senses. They are quiet people; they didn't feel equal to entertaining systematically for Sylvia, seeing that she got to know a comfortable little group of friends, keeping her safely busy with her own group. When they awakened to what was going on it was too late, by that time Sylvia was running with a dangerous crowd, and not to be controlled. She was drinking and smoking too much, she was out late nights, asleep half the morning; she was never quite a sane, clean, sober girl, always sleepy or hysterical or intoxicated, always dashing from one date to another, or rolled in blankets sound asleep.

Some time ago she announced that she was married. To whom? Well, to a man her parents didn't know. Violet and Bill had dared her into it; it was sort of a "joke." They'd all been drinking.

This was about four years ago. After a few weeks of marriage, Sylvia and her husband quarreled; he enlisted in the army, disappeared from the scene, and Sylvia returned to her night-club life, more independent than ever. She has regularly received money from Leo.

About two years ago Sylvia met a fine man, whose friendship and admiration had upon her the immediate effect of developing the finer side of her character. Everything her father and mother ever had hoped for her was realized; she seemed at last to grow up. wrote at once to Leo asking for a divorce, but there was no answer, and when Paul was sent to a defense plant in another city Sylvia went with him as his wife. A beautiful girl was born to them, now a fascinating little creature. Last month, Leo came home, lamed but not disqualified for any work. But while agreeing to divorce Sylvia, he claims the child, Maureen, as his, born while Sylvia was legally

First Husband Demands Child.

This has staggered Paul and Sylvia. They adore their child. They shudder at the idea of handing her over to Leo, who professes no affection for her, naturally resenting her very existence. He is perfectly willing that Sylvia shall return to ficult problem of coarse personalities.

CHARACTER BUILDING BEGINS AT HOME

Just as a child's body needs balanced feeding to grow in size and strength, so does its character need idealism and guidance which is food to the personality. Children do not just grow. They must be raised. If their parents fail to realize this and do not exercise constant vigilance regarding their offspring's activities and choice of friends, that youth may very likely develop into a man or woman who is not wanted in circles where culture and refinement are innate. Far worse, the youth who gets into the wrong kind of company may ruin his or her life. Kathleen Norris discusses this vital issue.

him as his wife, but otherwise he will take Maureen to his sister, who has two older children.

Sylvia, at 25, writes me that an overdose of sleeping pills will be her way out if Leo insists, and I don't know what to advise.

Not every girl who is going the night-club route will find herself in such a predicament, but hundreds have gotten into different sorts of trouble, causing their families infinite anxiety and distress, and sometimes getting into the hands of authorities and finding themselves trying tearfully to explain in court just how it all came about. One case here some years ago was of returning merrymakers whose intoxicated young driver sent the car over a bank. The one girl who survived, in a party of five, sat for three hours in the dark with ner dead chum in her arms, waiting for dawn and help to come.

Another case, quoted in this column before, was that of the mother who was trying to tell a bandaged 17 year-old, in a hospital, that shethe young daughter, victim of a drunk-driver accident, would always be blind. Last week's case was of the social-register beauty who was cut about the eyes with a broken plate in a night club, when she got between two quarrelsome boys. They have saved her sight; she will see. But when she looks in the mirror, she won't like what she sees. But even these young tragedies don't seem to me as sad as the mental and moral scars that these reckless youngsters carry all their lives. Girls who really want to become fine women some day, to be cultured and admired human beings, are busy in the precious years between 15 and 25, coarsening and destroying everything they hope to Debauchery Leaves Scars. No girl, no matter how smart she is, can touch that sort of pitch and not be defiled. To lounge in smokefilled, liquor-scented places, night after night, laughing vacuously, dancing and drinking herself into disorder and incoherence, to keep bad hours, to waste money she does not earn, to listen to vulgar talk and indecent jokes-all this is poor preparation for a responsible, respectable life to follow. It must be evident even to the most self-willed girl that these things leave their mark. They are not to be picked up for awhile and then dropped again, permitting her to transform herself overnight from a rowdy into a gen-tlewoman. Fine women instantly perceive the difference. Sylvia may have her fun now, for a few years, but she pays for it all her life. Over and over again, considering some entertainment, some distinction, some club honor or social event, the men and women in charge of arrangements find themselves faced with the dif-

JESUS TEACHES IN PARABLES

LESSON TEXT—Mark 4:1-9, 26-32. GOLDEN TEXT—If any man hath ears bear, let him hear.—Mark 4:23.

Parables were often used by our Lord, particularly when He had truth to reveal which was not for unbelieving hearts that had hardened themselves against it (see Matt: 13:10-16):

The method is that of telling an earthly story, true to life (hence, not a fable), which is placed alongside of the spiritual truth it is designed to teach. It thus differs from an allegory, which gives the meaning with the story (see John 15:1-6).

Jesus used parables in our lesson to teach the truth that the good seed of the Word of God will be received in various ways and will bring forth widely differing results. He-the Lord-was the Sower, and the field was the world (Matt. 13:37, 38). We note first that in that field

there were and are—
I. Four Kinds of Soil (Mark 4:1-9).

The reception of the seed is determined by the condition of the soil. The great field was essentially of one kind of soil, but it had become widely different in its ability to take in the seed and bear fruit.

The interpretation of this parable is given by our Lord in the verses immediately following (vv. 3-20). It has striking application to our day.

A road, or beaten pathway, was a common thing in the fields of Palestine. On such hard soil a seed found no place to grow, and the birds carried it away. Such is the condition of a man who permits the heavy and sinful traffic of this world to harden his heart against spiritual truth. If our heart has reached that stage we should ask God to break it up. The birds (always a symbol of evil in the Bible) are Satan and his emissaries. They are always busy about carrying away the Word of God when it is truly preached.

The rocky soil was a thin layer of good soil on a rocky ledge. At first this caused rapid growth, but without deep roots it could not survive the heat of summer. This is the one who enthusiastically responds to the gospel appeal, but being without real conviction and repentance, he has no stability when persecution comes,

The thorny ground-where the growing grain was choked by weeds -typifies the professed believer who lives in worldliness. The friend of the world is God's enemy (James 4:4). Note the things which destroy spiritual life (v. 19), and shun them, In the good ground-open to receive and ready to yield itself for the growth of the seed-there is abundant harvest. Even here there is a difference in the amount of fruit. Why not be a "hundredfold" be-

Changing the picture a little our Lord now speaks of-

II. Normal Growth and a Good Harvest (4:26-29).

This parable, found only in Mark, has a lesson for the sower. He is not to expect the harvest immediately after the time of sowing. There is a period of patient waiting while God is producing the growth (and only He can do it!)-then the joy of harvest.

There are many lessons to learn here. We who serve the Lord in teaching or preaching the Word are too impatient, too eager to be able to announce results. God is always willing that things should mature naturally and in due season. Let us wait for Him and be at rest in our spirits (v. 27).

Then let us be glad as the seed begins to show signs of maturing, but let us not be slow to gather the harvest when it is ready. Some forget to gather the spiritual fruit of their labors, possibly having long since lost patience and interest. We should also be encouraged by this parable to continue sowing the seed, knowing that it will find place in the hearts of some and bring forth fruit unto eternal life. Next we are warned to be on our guard against accepting or approv-III. Abnormal Growth and an Evil

Harvest (4:30-32).

The mustard is an herb, not a tree; hence this parable gave warning that there would be an overgrown religious system calling itself Christian. The birds are (as in the parable of the kinds of soil) evil men, or "isms," or organizations eager to take shelter in a religious system without spiritual power.

The church had such an abnormal growth when Constantine espoused Christianity as a political move, mixed it with paganism, and elevated it to a position of worldly

All this was and still is contrary to God's plan for the church. He wanted a spiritual body distinguished by lowliness, meekness and service. These are the things that mark the true Christian spirit. The marks of true Christianity are always those of likeness to Him who said: "I am meek and lowly in heart," who came "not to be ministered unto but to minister."

Eyebrow Raiser: The American Legion of Richmond, Va., forwards a column published in its newspaper. It is conducted by Past Dep't Comdr. John J. Wicker Jr., who concludes his letter: "It will also interest you to know that at our meeting we agreed that you are rendering exceedingly valuable service to our nation." Thanks, -Commander . . . His col'm offers this startler: "At the Battle of Long Island, General George Washington became so enraged over what appeared to be cowardly malingering, that he cuffed a lot of American soldiers over the head, not with his hand, but with his sword-the sharp edge, too. Consequently some 'Continentals' had the dubious distinction of meeting death at the hands of their own Commander!"

Ace reporter Cecil Brown in a recent Collier's revealed that too many Americans do not know the meaning of Fascism. His definition is worth adopting: "A Fascist is a person anywhere in the world who wants special privileges for himself and denies to others the simple rights of a human being."

Robert Benchley's Christmas greetings were not acceptable. His announcement that he is through writing, considering himself no longer funny, is the only thing he ever wrote that failed to amuse his fans. If Mr. Benchley will only read the humorists who think they still ARE funny, he will repudiate his abdication and get back to his typewriter.

We've never lacked admiration for Gen'l Eisenhower, but it grew a lot when we read his answer to the armchair strategists who've been flapping their jaws on what's wrong with the campaign in Italy. The General said the only method he had was to kill German troops, which he is doing the best he can. The implication was he'd be glad to know if the smart stay-at-homes had any better ideas.

Congresswoman Luce's triumph as America's best dressed gal takes load off your correspondent's mind. He was afraid the year would close before he had a chance to call anything in Congress best. He salutes Mrs. Luce's chic, and thinks her colleagues in Congress ought to copy her style-dresses-especially Mother Hubbards-being highly suitable to other members.

A legislator requests (in the name of fair play) our radio time to answer some of our statements about him . . . In the same spirit of fair play I offer him this bargain: As far as I am concerned, I will yield my entire 15 minutes to him when he yields his full hour (and his Congressional immunity) on the floor of Congress to me.

The National Board of Review of Motion Pictures gave itself a Christmas present of self-respect by its choice of the best flicker of the year. It made a monkey of all the other "bests" by naming "The Ox Bow Incident" as the topper. This is a powerful drama, but (more important) it pictured lynching as the criminal, senseless business it has always been. At a time when so many lunatic fringers want a hand in the government-most of them lynchers in spirit—this was a swell

Scientific Application of Music To Industry Helps Reduce Lateness and Absenteeism

BACH, Beethoven and Brahms, Barrelhouse, Boogie and the Blues are doing their bit for victory on the production lines of more than 60 Canadian factories in a plan that combines the talents of the great masters and the Tin Pan Alley boys under scientific direction to better factory efficiency and boost industrial output. , While the use of industrial music has been increasing throughout the last 20 years in an experimental way, it was this war which gave it the impetus to rate as a major production factor.

When American factories changed to wartime schedules, music was introduced into many of the plants with varying results. Professor Harold Burris-Meyer, director of sound research at the Stevens Institute of Technology, made elaborate tests which brought definite knowledge on the effect of music on industrial and office workers.

The Burris-Meyer experiments were extreme in some cases-to get definite answers. In a Philadel-phia laundry a worker burst into tears under a barrage of loud, fasttempo music and ran home. Other don'ts which Burris-Meyer stresses are: hymns slow production to a stop; so does music like Brahms' Lullaby; Deep in the Heart of Texas prompts workers to clap hands and let work go; vocal refrains distract, don't stimulate; mu-sic during the last half hour of the work day is likely to be taken as a sign to pack up and go home.

Music is played from a central control room, over high-fidelity re-production apparatus which cuts through the roar and whine of machinery. The newcomer can't hear the music at first; after a couple of days he doesn't notice the ma chinery's din and the music cuts through to make working a pleasure. sample scientific program calls for:

First hour-when workers are strong, but distracted; strong rhythm is stressed: One Dozen Roses, Ain't Misbehaving, Margie, Good Second hour - workers settled down; quiet, in step, entertaining, bright music: Wedding of the Painted Doll, Kiss the Boys Goodbye, Elmer's Tune.

Third hour-workers slightly fa-tigued; familiar, rhythmic tunes. sparklingly played: Nola, Dearly Beloved, Moonlight Masquerade. Fourth hour - workers fatigued. bored and hungry; relaxed, soothing music to relieve tension: Tea for Two, Lovely to Look At, All the Things You Are. Things You Are.

The monotony of an inspection line in this Canadian factory is broken by music keyed to the hour. Above, a medley of lively tunes are se lected to pep up that "seventh hour" drag.

Fifth hour-workers have eaten, are refreshed, relaxed, interested; tions: Shine On Harvest Moon, pleasant, non-rhythmic music: I've Among My Souvenirs, Marcheta. Told Every Little Star, Down by the Old Mill Stream, Yes, My Darl-

of relaxing and rhythmic selec-But, music experts explain, the names of the tunes are not suffi-cient. It is the musical treatment itself which counts.

This correct musical treatment has straightened out the production production at a uniform rate. But it does much more than that. Lateness, in the morning and at the return from lunch, is drastically reduced. Absenteeism, always an in-dustrial bugaboo, is cut appreciably. This is particularly true of "blue

BLISTERED PAINT

Question: Please reprint the name of the paint remover you have mentioned, and how to use it. I wish to remove some blistered paint.

Answer: Trisodium phosphate, three pounds dissolved in a gallon of hot water, makes an excellent paint remover. This chemical is sold at grocery stores under various trade names. It is a coarse white powder that cleans without making a lather when dissolved in water. There also are commercial paint removers to be had at paint stores. A blowtorch sometimes is used for blistered paint on the outside of a house. But this should be used only by someone with experience, be cause of the fire hazard.

INSULATING A CABIN

Question: I have a cabin finished with a fir siding outside on two-byfour studs, 24 inches on center, unlined, with no interior finish. I want to insulate and finish it inside for temperatures running as low as 25 below zero. The objective is to finish for year-round living. A shredded wood-fibre blanket insulation was suggested. There is no cellar under the house, but the space there is high enough to get under it. Please advise.

Answer: A one-inch thick insulating blanket in the walls, and a stud thickness of insulation in the attic and floor should make the house quite comfortable-provided. of course, there is sufficient heat in the house. It would help greatly to put storm sash on all windows. Before installing the floor insulation. underside of hoor with liquid asphalt to keep out dampness,

Old Decanter

Question: I have an old decanter, the inside of which is spotted (round spots like sanded glass). These spots do not show when wet, but come out when the decanter is dry. I have tried the sand and shredded newspaper methods of cleaning, but without success. Can you suggest anything else?

Answer: The polish on the glass inside the decanter may have been worn off by the use of gravel for cleaning purposes. If so, there is no way to repolish the surface. As a last resort, you might try cleaning with bird shot in hot, soapy water. Swish it around in the decanter in the same way you tried with the shredded newspaper.

Painting a Tin Roof Question: Is it too late in the year to paint our tin roof? We have been planning to do it for some time, but there has been so much rain. How soon after it stops raining, and at what time of the day should the work be done? Answer: The surface should be absolutely dry, and the temperature should not be lower than 50 degrees -warmer would be better. Wait until dampness of night has dried off in the morning before starting the work. If painting is to be attempted at temperatures below 50 degrees, add a pint of turpentine to each gallon of paint.

Shutting Off Radiators

Question: I have a hot-water heatmg system in my house. I have made plans to shut off two of the upstairs radiators in order to conserve fuel. How can this be done? I do not wish the pipes to freeze.

Answer: The radiators should be disconnected and emptied. This should be done so that there will be no branch pipe with standing water in it in a cold room. Your heating man will know how to do this.

Garden Hose in Winter Question: Should anything be done to our rubber garden hose when storing it away for the winter? Answer: Wash the outside of the hose with mild soap and water, then rinse with clear water. If you wish, a rubber preservative can be applied to the surface. It is on sale at many of the large department stores and some auto accessory shops. Store the hose in a cool,

Plane Naming Is Old Custom

Weird Monikers of Bombers Just Reflection of Old American Habit.

WASHINGTON.-It must puzzle the methodical German to have Wabbit Twacks dropping the bomb on him one day, Lady Halitosis the next, Thunder Mug the next and Mister Five-by-Five on Sunday.

All he can know of the matter, for all the pioneering in German universities in obscure corners of psychology, is that some healthy and imaginative young Americans are up there pouring bombs on him and just itching to get one of those new super-Flying Fortresses and paint a name on it. For it seems that the American can't lay a hand on a piece of fighting machinery, particularly an airplane, without making it a part of him and his crew and naturally giving it a name.

The habit, as far as can be determined from the corn belt, is strictly American, although there are indications that the Australians who have learned from the Americans to appreciate Bourbon and pinup girls, are picking it up. With Commander J. R. Ratten, the first Australian to command a Spitfire wing in England, is shown in a photograph in a British aviation magazine standing beside his plane. On the side is the name Tikkie and a little doodle figure of a man with a

They Paint Kangaroos.

However, American pilots returning from Australia report that the Australians in the main run to naming their ships for the dominion's states and painting pictures of kangaroos and koala bears on the sides.

The British in general do not go for such things. Even in squadron insignia, where the Americans run to anything Walt Disney or an exbeer-sign painter can devise, the British go heraldic. They paint an elaborate crest, with mottoes like "CCXVI Dona Ferens," which means (squadron) "216 bearing gifts," or "Usquam," meaning "anywhere," or "Tenax proposition" "6-m of purpose" tion"-"firm of purpose."

The American pilot and his crew, however, are earthy. If their lead-er, Gen. H. H. Arnold, hadn't put his foot down in a formal order, there is little telling how many figures of bar-room mirror art would be flitting over Europe and the Pacific. It is known that one crew had to put a sweater on what was not a sweater girl on the side of its big

It's an Old Custom.

This American habit goes back a long way, from or before the day Crockett chased the Indians out of Kentucky with his rifle Betsy, and Mike Fink, the king of the keelboat men, terrorized innocent folk from Pittsburgh to New Orleans and back when the Ohio and Mississippi rivers were no place for peaceable intentions.

Early locomotives in this country bore such names as Tom Thumb, | dollars every month by means of a De Witt Clinton, The Best Friend of Charleston, the Stourbridge Lion, John Bull and Old Ironsides and people called them collectively "iron horses" and "puffing billies."

Civil war gunners named their favorite cannon, and when the cov-ered wagons started for the great West, Oklahoma or Bust and California Here We Come were painted on the flapping canvas.

During the years preceding the attack on Pearl Harbor, when war was a far thought, American boys were chalking Rambling Wreck and Hit Me Easy I'm Growing Old on the sides of their tin Lizzies. Those same boys are taking a brand-new bomber today and gathering around their pilot to decide: "What'll we name it?"

250 Italian Criminals Rounded Up After Revel

NAPLES .- More than 250 Italian criminals recently overpowered their jailers on San Stefano island, 35 miles off Naples, and caroused for 10 days under outlaw rule before they were suppressed by an expedition of British Commandos and Italian Carabinieri, it was learned.

The convicts locked up the wardens, jailers and trusties and took women to themselves, then made a bonfire of all records, dossiers and fingerprints and broke the locks on all cells except those holding the authorities.

Maj. Ross McDonald, public director of the Allied municipal government for Naples province, an-nounced the break and its suppression in a brief battle between the convicts and the Allied expedition under Capt. John Whyte, a former British police officer.

Capitalizing on the recent evacuation of the German garrison from San Stefano and the fact that the Allies visited the island only rarely, the prisoners overcame their Italian guards without firing a shot.

Find Way to Save Torpedoed Ships

Compressed Air Is Used to Keep Tankers Afloat.

LONDON.-Hundreds of British tankers carrying essential cargoes of gasoline and oil have been saved through the ingenious use of compressed air pumps after they had been struck by torpedoes, it was made known here.

This seagoing cousin of the common air compressor usually seen on road work was developed by 52-yearold William Lynn Nelson, for 20 years an engineer aboard tankers before he became marine superintendent of a shipping firm.

He figured out that if an air line were run the full length of the vessel with pumps at the bow and stern, it would do the trick. His idea was to have air forced into damaged sections of a ship at pressure sufficient to keep out the sea. It has worked-often performing miracles far beyond the hopes of the original designers.

As events turned out, the first tanker to be fitted with the compressors for government demonstration was saved later when three torpedoes scored hits. The pumps enabled the vessel to steam 1,200 miles to a United States port, where repairs were made.

The second tanker to have the Nelson equipment installed was torpedoed with 12,000 tons of benzine and kerosene aboard. So thick were the fumes that the U-boat, which surfaced to watch the ship sink, finally had to submerge. Meanwhile the skipper of the tanker had called the compressors into play, with a happy ending to the story. The pumps have been used to discharge cargo and also as emergency fire apparatus by drawing up sea water. Air pressure has saved crippled tankers and supplied crews with a substitute for steam in their

'Flying Bank' Pays Men

On Time at Front Lines ORLANDO, FLA. - The United States army air forces have solved one of the major financial problems of the war by instituting a "flying banking service," enabling its men to get their pay on time and under conditions of actual attack in the combat theaters. Lieut. Col. G. W. Beals, a finance officer attached to the air forces, who just returned from North Africa and is now stationed at the AAF tactical center here, explained how it is done.

"One of our biggest morale problems has been the payment of men on time. Our bank operates on the front lines of the air force, usually the most forward airdrome, and in Africa we paid the men on time often under dive-bombing and strafing attack. When men are paid it helps their morale perhaps more than anything else.' Colonel Beals said that air force men were sending home millions of new banking service called "per-sonal transmission accounts." The service is free.

2 U. S. Fliers Back Up Mark Twain's Comment

LONDON.-Two veteran gunners of America's Flying Fortress crews, after surviving many raids over Nazi territory, became the victims of an erratic typewriter at headquarters of the Eighth United States Air force.

Staff Sergt. Robert L. Compton of Norwood, Ohio, received an Oakleaf Cluster to the Air Medal for completing his tenth raid, and Staff Sergt. William Ohl of Mineral Ridge, Ohio, received his third Oakleaf Cluster for 15 raids.

Both were listed in an air force announcement under posthumous awards, although they are alive and shooting. In response to inquiries from the fliers' home towns, the air force public relations office asked all news agencies to flash the boys back into the active column.

New Army 'Trick' Cuts

Food Waste to Near Zero

FORT RILEY, KAN. - Use of small garbage pails instead of big ones goes a long way toward solving the food waste problem in army camps, quartermaster conservation officers have found out. Small pails have helped reduce food waste at Fort Riley to less than nine ounces for each 100 meals served, the army says.

The large G.I. garbage can was discarded and small cans substi-tuted. These are labeled "liquid, vegetables, dessert, meat, bread, salad." The soldier must separate each of these foods and place each in the proper small can.

Rather than go through the greasy process, he is careful to take no more than he can eat.

Sewing at Home Is Thrifty Way To Solve Your Wardrobe Problems

AVARIED wardrobe can be achieved on a wartime budget if you enlist the aid of the family sewing machine and start stitching. The psychological moment to get going on the sewing proposition is right after the holidays when there is a lull after all the excitement. It's such fun and there's such a "comfy" feeling when you can take all the time you want to plan and to look up bargain remnants, preparatory to a busy-as-a-bee sewing program.

The patriotic theme this year is, first, to make over and bring up to date all your closet back-numbers. Then, if you find that there are serious gaps in your wardrobe, proceed to fill them in by stitching up garments that have flexible and quick-change qualities. If you have never tried your hand at the sewing game before, it really doesn't matter, not these days of opportunity when you can count on mastering all the latest sewing short-cuts and dressmaker tricks just by taking a few wartime budget lessons at your local sewing center. You'll find that it's easy for even beginners to learn dressmaker details that lift a plain-Jane dress right out of the ordinary.

If you're struggling with a backnumber dress that's all gone at the armholes, or if you are planning to tackle a brand new one, a perfect style to choose is a one-piece buttoned-to-the-waist basic type that has a yoke and sleeves of contrast-ing fabric. This easy-to-follow "war regulation" pattern, as pictured above, requires a minimum of new fabric for its sleek fitting bodice and cleverly pocketed skirt. Plaid material, perhaps salvaged from your scrap-bag, can be used for the deep-slanting shoulder yoke and fullgathered bishop-type sleeves.

Another good choice for wardrobe stretching is a two-piece jersey dress with pleated skirt and long sweater-type overblouse. You'll find as the new season progresses that the long-torso worn-over-the-skirt blouse is newer and smarter than the tuck-in types. The simple classic lines of the jersey two-piece, as illustrated, provide plenty of leeway for ingenious accessories. By adding crisp striped rayon taffeta collar and cuffs and perhaps a tiny skull cap of the same, you will have performed a miracle of camouflage that's equal to many a dress-up occasion. For a sportsy look, the new bright painted wood jewelry will "turn the trick."

For "quick costume changers" that any beginning sewer can easily achieve after a few sewing-center lessons, note the several suggestions as sketched to the left. That navy or black crepe dress that is still perfectly good" yet needs a lift of some sort to give it a this-season look! Why not make a cascading, frilly jabot in a gay print or stripe silk as shown in the first sketch be-ginning at the top? You'll find this color-bright frill can easily be basted with deft stitches on the neckline of most any dress.

Accessory touches of striped taffeta are considered tres chic this season. Beret, collar and cuffs made of striped fabric as sketched next below will make any basic dress "look like a million." Patterns for hat and neckwear sets are easily avail-

For casual wear, camouflage your blouse or dress with a youthful Peter Pan collar edged with rickrack trimming that's easily applied with the edge-stitcher attachment. Then give it college-girl swank with a huge applique initial or monogram. For date-times you can depend on the flattery of little yellow lace ruffling (made with the sewing ma-chine ruffler attachment) that trickles down the bodice front opening and adorns the bracelet-length sleeves as per the concluding sketch.

Sunny-South Suit

This suit, especially designed for the fortunate miss who is able to take time off to sojourn in the sunny south, foretells new trends in fashions for spring. For one thing it heralds a lavish use of buttons in forthcoming styles. Then again the fact that it contrasts plain wool with stripe is significant. There is much being said and done in regard to 'contrast suits." A small over-theeye beige sailor, with brown and beige cellophane bows and beige diagonally stitched gloves make fitting accompaniment to this advance suit mode.

Mesh Hosiery for All-Occasion Wear

And now it's a stocking wardrobe you will be wanting to acquire in order to keep pace with the fashion parade. Now that so much ado is being made in regard to smart hosiery, the one thing to do in order to be sure of wearing the right stockings with the right costume is to have in reserve a hose collection that will tune to every occasion. Fashion alert women are showing increasing interest in the new and versatile mesh hosiery, some very lacy and sheer for formal dress, others in a lisle mesh tuned to outdoor and sports wear. Available are most lovely lacy meshes to be worn with the handsome new sandals that are so fastidiously fashioned of patent kidskin and gabardine. The new short-length black frocks call for giamorous footwear.

Fur-Lined Gloves

If you want to keep fingers from freezing and hands smooth and white this winter, better rely on fur-lined gloves.

Smoothest pair on the market are these electrically sheared lambskin numbers with the skin side outside and the fur side inside where it belongs. A special process removes the skin, fur and all, so the lamb's fur lining isn't sewed in-it's actual-

This results in a glove so supple and light, despite its bulk, that there's no restrictions of finger movement.

The gloves come in cocoa brown and natural, small, medium and

CHAPTER XVI

"Easy! Steady! Steady!" Rogers was leaning far out over the side, peering at the water. "Hold it!" The engine stopped and we floated quietly. Rogers continued to peer into the murky water. Something was there. My throat was dry; I felt an uncomfortable sensation at the pit of my stomach. Nevertheless I managed to say, matter-offactly, I thought, "What is it, Hunt

"No," he said. It seemed hours before he spoke again and then he said what I was expecting, yet dreaded to hear him say. "It's

I wakened with a start the next morning to find that Rogers was gone. Dawn was breaking over the mountains. I dressed and went out on deck to discover that Rogers had gone ashore.

Rogers was on the wharf when I was landed there. He appeared fresh and vigorous as if he had had a long, unbroken night's sleep. To my inquiry he remarked, "There were several things I thought of, Barry, and it was best to get an early start."

Down below us in the water, a dark head burst upward to the surface and brown arms threshed about. Rogers, leaning over the wharf's edge, shouted in Spanish, "Anything?"

"No, sir. I dive in a moment." A few seconds later the head disappeared, a pair of feet kicked vigorously and the surface smoothed

"What's it all about?" I demand-"What's he diving for?'

"I've hired him to do the job, Barry. Rumble, I imagine, either fell or was thrown off the wharf. He had checked out of the hotel. Where is his luggage? Why wasn't his bag found on the wharf? And what does it mean if we should find it in the water?"

The diver burst to the surface below, this time farther along the wharf, gasping for breath.

"Anything?" shouted Rogers.
"No, sir. But I think I see something. I should take the end of the snapped the cord. rope this time."

Rogers picked up a coil of rope lying at his side, carried it to a point directly above the man, and dropped an end over. The diver seized it and disappeared, while we waited with heightened interest. Finally the rope was tugged vigorously from under the water, and Roger's began to pull up. The diver came threshing to the surface.

"It is what you are seeking, sir, I think," he called up. "Pull."

Rogers drew up the weighted line rapidly, and a moment later there came to the surface a soaked, battered traveling bag, from which gushed tiny streams. He lifted it onto the wharf where it rested drably oozing salt water.

"And now, sir," shouted the diver, "I go down again for the other thing."

"What other thing?" I asked. "This probably was all the luggage Rumble had.

There was just this bag, according to the hotel porter." "Then what are you looking for now?"

"The weapon-if Rumble was murdered. Just to be forehanded, Barry. I don't know what the investigation will reveal, but if it is murder, why not look for the weapon hereabouts? Rumble went off the wharf probably at this point. "There it is, sir," shouted the div-

The object fell at our feet, a blackened, stained knife with a heavy blade, such a knife as a fisherman would use for cutting bait.

Rogers picked it up, turning it about in the sunlight, handling it gingerly. Rogers paid off the diver, and I picked up the still dripping bag and we set off for police headquarters.

Lombardo was in his office when we arrived. He greeted us with an engaging smile, his eyes sparkling, his stiff, black little mustache like something carved of ebony.

"It is very sad, senores, the death of your friend, Senor Rumble," he said, inviting us to sit.

Rogers began to detail what we knew of the separation at the bar, of Rumble's failure to join the fishing party and our subsequent fruitless search, while the chief sat listening, with now and then a question which betrayed not too great an interest. We had about talked the matter out when Doctor Cruz appeared in the

"No? What then?"

"There is a stab wound, gentlemen, under the left shoulder blade, sufficient in my opinion, to have caused death."

Rogers drew from his pocket the dark, stained knife which the diver had tossed upon the wharf. It was dry by now, and it lay sinister and evil-looking on the desk where Rogers placed it.

"Such a knife as this, Doctor?" he asked.

Lombardo and Cruz stared at it for some moments, then Cruz said, "Yes, such a knife as that made the wound." "Where did you find it, senor?"

Lombardo inquired, picking it up. Rogers explained how it had come into his hands. An exchange of glances went around the circle. "Do you know whose knife it is, senor?"

"No, sir." Lombardo laid the knife aside when both Dwight and I likewise had disclaimed any knowledge of its ownership. He reached for the pack-

"Those are articles removed from the pockets of the dead man's cloth-"The man was not robbed, do you think?'

"I believe not," Rogers answered. "The last time any of us saw him alive was at the hotel bar. He opened the billfold at that time, and, while I paid no particular attention, senor, I should judge that he had approximately the same amount of money in it as you found there just now."

"So we do not look for a thief as the murderer of Senor Rumble," Lombardo commented. He turned back to the little heap of Rumble's earthly possessions spread before There was a watch which had stopped at the hour 9:09.

Lombardo picked up the watch, noting the position of the hands. "This, then, gentlemen," he remarked, "indicates the time Senor Rumble died. But not whether morning or evening. Your American watches-" He shrugged his shoulders.

"It's impossible-the hour of ninenine, night before last," said Rog-ers quickly. "The time was close upon ten o'clock when we last saw him alive at the hotel. He checked out, I understand, half an hour or so later and disappeared."

"Ah, so?" said Lombardo, discarding the watch. "Where was he bound? He must have been going somewhere, because the diver finds the bag in the water under the wharf. I assume that first Senor Rumble is stabbed and thrown from the wharf, and next the murderer throws over the bag to make his disappearance complete."

"I believe you're correct, Senor Lombardo," said Rogers. "The only place he could have been going was to Senor Nichols' yacht. Senora Nichols had invited him to come aboard with his luggage night before last, to accompany the party on its fishing expedition."

"I understand, senor. And while waiting on the wharf to be conveyed to the yacht, he was set upon and killed."

"Exactly." "Now, then," Lombardo continued, developing his questions logically. "You were all on shore that night, were you not?" "With the exception," said Dwight, "of my wife and Senora Chatfield, who remained on board.' "Of course, senor. Now, how did you all go aboard-together?" Rogers spoke up. "Not exactly. Barry Madison and I went down to looked at Dwight. "Sam Chatfield, his daughter Elsa, and I went down to the wharf together," Dwight replied.

"What was the time, senor?" "We left the hotel at eleven-fortyfive," Dwight answered, screwing up his eyes in an effort to recall the exact hour.

"Are these all who were going aboard? Was Senor Barton one of you?'

"Oh, yes-Reed Barton," Dwight said. "Reed was waiting with his bag on the wharf when we arrived." "He went ahead of you, then?"

"Yes. He'd gone around to his hotel to get his things together for the fishing cruise, and it was arranged that he meet us at the wharf."

"Ah, so?' said Lombardo, his sensitive eyebrows lifting slightly. "Perhaps Senor Reed Barton should explain.

"I don't know what time it was," Reed Barton replied to Lombardo's question. He had come to headquarters in response to a telephoned request which found him at his ho-"Miss Chatfield said that she was beginning to tire, and didn't I think I'd better go get my things and meet them down at the wharf. We were dancing, you know, at the Belmar. She would go down with her father, and it wasn't necessary for me to go back to the Belmar for her."

"What time do you think it was?" pressed Lombardo.

"What's time, Senor Lombardo, when there are no appointments to

"Was there anyone else, senor, on the wharf when you were?" asked Lombardo.

"Not a soul, until the rest of the party came down."

"Was the launch waiting?" "No, sir; it arrived from the yacht a few minutes before my friends reached the wharf."

Lombardo lifted his eyebrows, pursed his thick lips and seemed to stare beyond the walls of his office. Reed Barton's gaze, which had been fixed during the questioning upon the chief, dropped to the varied assortment of objects on the desk. I saw it come to rest upon the ugly weapon that presumably had slain

"What are you doing with my fishing knife, senor?" he asked, leaning forward to pick it up. "Ah, so? It is your knife?" asked Lombardo craftily.

"Yes." He turned it about in his fingers, searching for marks of identification. "Yes, it's mine. How do you happen to have it?" He looked at Lombardo, and, before the latter had time to answer, the realization broke over him. "Oh, I see! So that's it! My knife killed Rumble!"

"Yes, senor," said Lombardo rimly. "You admit it's yours. It grimly. seems the only thing I can do now, senor, is to lock you up again."

"But I didn't kill him," protested Reed Barton, the color going from his face. "I swear I didn't. I don't understand about the knife, though, even if it is mine."

Rogers suddenly got to his feet, dominating the rest of us who still sat about the desk.

"Senor Lombardo," he said sharp-"if I give you my word that Reed Barton will submit to arrest at any time you desire within the next day or two, will you let him go free now?"

"It is an unusual request, senor-" began Lombardo.

"There are several things that yet need investigation. I promise you the name of the murderer-or the person of Reed Barton."

Lombardo shrugged his shoulders. He glanced at Doctor Cruz. There was the merest flicker in the hard eyes of the medico legista behind the screen of cigarette smoke. Lombardo stood up.

"Okey," he said. It was a long day crowded with activity. The sequence of tragic events over the past few days served to drive us for mutual comfort into a compact group. First Chesebro, then Sam Chatfield, and now George Rumble. The mere fact that Rumble, the sartorial as well as social misfit among us, had been one in our sequence of tragedy, lifted him with all his faults to a permanent place in our hearts. He had become one of the tragic elect. "But do you make anything of it all, Hunt?" I asked that evening after dinner at the rancho. "It's so mixed up; there are so many points that conflict." We sat once more within the walls of the fragrant patio, where overhead the huge leaves of the bananas rustled in the stirrings of the night air.

"There is much to be made of it and again very little," he answered. 'The thing is still screwy. Nothing dovetails with anything else. Those among our close circle die and the guilty one goes unpunished, or, rather, unidentified—"

"But how are we going to get anywhere, Hunt? Have we all the facts?"

How to Cut a Flared Dressing Table Skirt Without Fullness at the Top

OW to cut a flared dressing table skirt without fullness at the top, is something worth knowing. You may be making a smartly tailored affair of white pique with pink bindings and buttons, like the one shown here. The diagram shows how to make a pattern for half of the skirt. The center front may be placed on a fold of the goods in cutting if there is no front opening. Cut the paper by the dimensions in the diagram. Mark point A in 14-inches from the upper left corner. Measure up from the lower right corner a distance equaling the length of the skirt from A to the left edge of the paper and mark point C. Connect these points with lines drawn.

NOTE-There are three other interesting styles of dressing tables with detailed directions for making in SEWING Book 1.

Also slip covers, draw curtains, and numerous household articles. Copy of BOOK 1 will be mailed for 15 cents. Address:

UNABLE to get farm help by any other means, Dr. O. J. Dixon, Kansas City, Mo., advertised for a hand specifying he "must be able to sit in a rocking chair or on a cool south porch and come to meals unassisted." The ad brought the desired results, which was to attract attention. There were twenty-one applicants and among them Dixon found only one who really wanted to work. One of the applicants, in addition to all the attractions offered in the ad asked if Dixon would provide tobacco and matches.

dish and add 34 cup water. Bake in a moderate oven (300 degrees) for 1 hour. For sauce add milk 15 minutes before taking from oven.

Variation: Grind half beef heart and use in place of beef liver. Or, grind pork heart and omit fat in recipe. Add 1/2 teaspoon poultry seasoning.

Heart is not a tender cut of meat and is good only if you cook it properly. That means slow cooking at slow or moderate heat. A stuffing adds loads of good flavor:

Baked Stuffed Beef Heart. (Serves 6)

3 to 4 pound beef heart

2 slices bacon 1 cup fine bread crumbs 1/2 teaspoon herb or poultry seasoning

1 small onion Salt and pepper Flour for dredging Fat or oil for browning

Wash heart and remove enough of center portion to admit addition of dressing or stuffing. Dice bacon and fry until crisp. Combine with bread crumbs. Season with finely minced onion. Season cavity within hearts, fill with stuffing and fasten with skewers. Roll in flour and brown quickly in hot fat in heavy kettle. Add small amount of water or beef stock. Cover and cook slowly 2 to 21/2 hours in a moderate oven (350 degrees) until done. Thicken liquid for gravy, if desired.

Kidney Stew. (Serves 5 to 6)

2 heef kidneys 1/2 cup flour 3 tablespoons drippings Salt and pepper

4 cups water 1 bay leaf Pinch rosemary 2 tablespoons dried celery leaves

1 cup carrots, sliced

cup onion, sliced

1 cup potato, cubed Remove skin and fat from kidneys, wash and split lengthwise. Remove core and cut in small pieces. Diedge with flour and brown in hot drippings. Place in kettle, add water, veretables and seasonings. Simmer 1: to 2 hours. If desired, broth may be thickened with a little flour and water. Variation: If desired, use half kidney and half stew beef.

*Stuffed Spareribs. 21/2 sheets of spareribs Stuffing:

16 loaf bread, cubed 1 onion, minced fine

Salt, pepper, sage to taste 1/2 cup toasted brazil nuts, sliced 1/2 cup boiling water 4 tablespoons drippings

Toast the cubed bread in a hot oven, turning to prevent burning. Add onion, seasonings and sliced nuts. Mix well. Melè drippings in hot water. Add to bread and toss lightly with fork.

Place dressing in center of one sheet of spareribs. Cover with second sheet. Draw edges together and sew in place. Salt outside of meat. Pepper, dredge with flour. Place in shallow roasting pan. Bake in a moderate (350degree) oven. Cover bottom of pan with a little water. Roast for 11/2 hours. Make gravy from drippings in bottom of pan.

Two Quick Thinkers Were Too Much for the Cop

Two men in a car sped past a traffic light when it was red. A policeman stationed there gave chase and stopped them. "Well, where's the fire?" he bawled out. "I'm sorry, officer," said the driver, thinking quickly, "but I happen to be a doctor and I'm rushing a patient to the asylum.'

The policeman was suspicious -but the passenger also was capable of quick thinking. Looking up at the officer with a seraphic smile, he whispered: "Kiss me, you great. big, handsome man." The cop, flustered, blurted out, "Get agoing, doc, and I think you'd better hurry!"

If you were to say the first bugle call of the day in the Army is "Reveille"—you'd be wrong. It's "First Call." But you probably know what cigarette gets first call with Army men-it's Camel. And Camel is the favorite with men in all branches of the service-Navy, Marines, Coast Guard, too. (Based on actual sales records from service men's stores.) And though there are Post Office restrictions on packages to overseas Army men, you can still send Camels to soldiers in the U.S., and to men in the Navy, Marines, and Coast Guard wherever they are.

Time-Tested Advice About Chest Colds!

Grandma Was Right Time Has Proved It

Today, the first choice and family standby for relieving miseries of colds in millions of homes is the same homeremedy grandma used . . . Vicks VapoRub! What better recommendation could a product have!

When you rub time-tested VapoRub on the throat, chest and back at bed-—and keeps on working for hours to relieve coughing spasms and conges-tion in the cold-clogged upper breath-ing passages, to ease muscular soreness or tightness. It invites restful sleep. And often by morning most of the misery of the cold is gone! Try it.

71TH food production one of our most important war production programs, you need the tractor tire which gives-Extra Pulling Power In All Soil Conditions. That tire is the Firestone Ground Grip. Here's why:

The Firestone Ground Grip is the only tractor tire that has a patented tread design which provides up to 215 extra inches of traction bar length per tractor, providing a full traction bite, greater drawbar pull - and less fuel is used.

The Firestone Ground Grip is the only tractor tire that has the triple-braced tread design. There are no broken bars in the tread to cause traction leaks which make the tire slip and spin.

The Firestone Ground Grip is the only tractor tire that has a scientifically designed tread with tapered bars at just the right angle for the tread to clean automatically as it pulls. And Vitamic Rubber provides longer life by resisting the action of the sun and

No wonder Firestone Ground Grip tires are first choice of farmers everywhere! No other tire has these exclusive extra values - and they cost no more than ordinary tires. See your nearby Firestone Dealer or Firestone Store today and get the tires that give you most for your money.
