S. S. Affects Farmers

Many farmers in and around Lubbock have begun to show a keen interest in the new social security law as it will affect them in 1955 and later according to John G. Hutton, District Manager of the Lubbock office of the Social Security Administration.

"In visits to Lubbock county, representatives of the Lubbock office are having numerous questions and inquiries from self-employed farm operators about what they need to do now and later, and what it will mean to them and to their families in the way of future retirement or survivor monthly benefit checks," Hutton stated.

"In general," he reports, self-employed farm, ranch and cotton gin operators, who earn as much as $400 net profit in 1955 and in 1956 will become fully insured in April 1956. Those then 65 years of age or older, or survivors if those who die insured after that date will be due monthly checks subject to the retirement or earning test contained in the 1954 Amendments. "Farm employees who are paid as much as $200 by one employer in 1955 or any later calendar year will also begin to earn social security rights. The test of being insured depends on what is called quarters of coverage. A farm employee gets one such quarter of coverage for each $100 in taxable wages, up to four in each year. The self-employed person receives his farm quarters of coverage for each year that he reports as much as $400 in net profit. So one is insured until he has at least 6 quarters of coverage and the requirement rises through the future years to a maximum need for 40 such credits.

Prevent Children Disease
 "It is the adult's job to prevent childhood accidents," declares Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer. As children do not always conform to the practices that would assure greatest safety, adults must be made to understand the accident problem of children and be as concerned about it as they are about childhood diseases.
 A notable decrease in infant mortality has been brought about by physicians and public health work during the past quarter century. Despite the efforts of the medical profession to protect the country's future citizens, childhood mortality continues high because of accidents—accidents that for the most part are preventable.
 The accident death rate among children is being reduced only about one third as fast as the rate for death by disease. Preventable accidents are the leading causes of death in the age group one to fourteen. Only by the understanding and cooperation of adults can the toll of child accident deaths be reduced.
 Besides causing deaths, accidents are responsible for thousands of school children being injured sufficiently to require the attention of a physician or cause absence from school. Injuries occurring in school buildings account for 26 per cent, going to and from school, 5 per cent, at home 17 and other places 23 per cent.
 "Children deserve the right to grow up and it is up to every adult to give them that chance," said Dr. Cox.

SOCIAL SECURITY IS IMPORTANT

Old-age and survivors insurance rights will no longer be impaired or lost entirely due to a long period of total disability which prevents a worker from engaging in any substantial gainful work. This provision, which is a part of the 1954 amendments to the social security law is known as the "freeze" and it will protect present beneficiaries as well as persons retiring in the future. Present beneficiaries who were seriously disabled before they became 65, and who are still disabled, may have their benefit amounts refigured with an exclusion of their period of no earnings due to disability before they were 65. Those disabled persons who are not yet 65 may apply for a "freeze" which will protect their average monthly wage, or which future old-age and survivors insurance benefits are based, and their insured status. In all cases, the disability must be medically determined.

The disabled worker must have at least five years of covered employment or self-employment before his disability. And one and a half of those five years must have been during the three years right before his disability began. His disability can be either a physical or mental or mental impairment. Disabled persons may apply for the "freeze" beginning January 1, 1955. The disabled person, whether he is already receiving retirement benefit check or not, must be still disabled at the time of application. A period of disability in the past from which the individual has recovered cannot be considered for the "freeze". The disability must have lasted for at least six months before a period of disability can be established, and it must be expected to be of long and indefinite duration or to end in death. A person whose disability extends for years into the past and who meets the work requirements described above may have the "freeze" applied to his whole period of dismemberment if he applies before July, 1957. After June 30, 1957, the "freeze" will be retroactive for only one year. A freeze will apply to a period of disability as long as it lasts, however, for social security purposes, no period of disability may begin after the worker is 65. July, 1955, is the first month in which a benefit refigured because of disability may be paid.
