Freezing Is Answer

Freezing is a quick, easy way to preserve fresh greens, asparagus and other spring vegetables. Extension foods and nutrition specialists say that freezing keeps the natural color, fresh flavor and food values of most vegetables and fruits better than other methods of food preparation.

For best results, select fresh, tender vegetables right from the garden while they are at the right stage of maturity for eating.

Other factors that influence quality are preparation, packaging, freezer loading and length of storage. Latest information on how to freeze, and how to cook frozen foods is given in Extension Bulletin, FROZEN FOODS. Get a copy from your county home demonstration agent's office.

Community Soaked As Indians Perform Ancient Rain Dance

ANADARKO, Okla.—The American Indian Exposition here was rainsoaked 12 hours after the Jemez Apache Indians completed a rain dance under a clear sky.

Chief Juan Gachupin and his 14-year-old daughter, Leonora, performed the rhythmic, stamping dance while two braves chanted and beat a tom-tom, before 10,000 delegates from 35 tribes and 8,000 palefaces.

Another performance was scheduled. The rain threatened to reduce attendance and slow down athletic contests.

Two years ago, the Kiowa Indians performed a "forbidden" pagan sun dance over the angry opposition of tribal leaders. It was followed by rains so heavy that they nearly washed out the exposition.

Farmers near Anadarko rejoiced after the rain. A summer drought had almost destroyed their cotton, peanut and feed crops. Chief Gachupin refused to take credit.

Asked through an interpreter whether he thought his dancing had anything to do with the rain, he grunted, "I couldn't say."

The Jemez tribe, descended from the pueblos, has claimed for centuries that the dance does bring rain.

Exposition officials said that the opposition to the sun dance in 1950 came from the fact that it was considered pagan.

Weather conditions over most of the state of Texas this spring have been favorable for the development of many fungus diseases which normally are not too common reports Harlan Smith, extension plant pathologist. Peach leaf curl, plum pickets and oak leaf blister are shown by reports to be common in the State this year. Local county agents can supply information on control measures for these diseases.

May 1 marked the beginning of the shift to compulsory inspection of poultry processing plants as required by the new Poultry Products Inspection Act passed recently by Congress. About 50 plants in Texas are expected to be operated under the federal inspection service by Jan. 1, 1959, deadline for complying with the new law.
