Freeze Foods Now for Later Use (See Recipes Below)

Successful Freezing

ONE OF THE MOST satisfactory ways of preserving foods that has come into the limelight recently for home use is that of quick-freezing it. Compared with canning and dehydrating methods, freezing is easy. There are, however, many misconceptions regarding the process of freezing and Five essentials are necessary to the successful freezing of fruits, vegetables, poultry and meat. The variety used must be good for freezing; fruits and vegetables must have reached a certain degree of maturity, for like any other preserving process, freezing only keeps food until it's used and does not improve it.

store it.

Preparation for packaging must be done carefully, and proper packaging should be used to prevent a common ailment of frozen foods, namely, that of freezer burn. Storage must be at the recommended temperature 0°f., or below.

Equipment for freezing naturally includes a locker or a freezer to which you have ready access. If you rent a locker, then freeze only enough foods to fit into the refrigerator before you can take them to the locker. This must be within 24 hours of their packaging.

storing them in country. For those living West, home freezer or broad leaf spinach gives the best results.

Always Blanch Vegetables For Freezing the food and > by washing them thoroughly. If you desire a uniform pack, try to sort them according to size as they are washed.

Scalding or blanching of vegetables should never be omitted in preparing vegetables for freezer use. Scalding retards enzymatic action and stops deterioration. It improves color and saves vitamins, and also softens the vegetable making packing easier. Scald a pound or so at a time, using steam preferably, or plunging the vegetable into hot water. Five minutes by steam is used for most vegetables except greens such as spinach which require only 2½ minutes and green peas which need 3 minutes.

Place the vegetable in water and ice until thoroughly cooled, then drain on a tray with absorbent paper or toweling. Package at once and refrigerate.

Only moisture and vapor-proof packages should be used for any type of freezing. The liners should Question: Does a basement lamation of Korean independence cement floor need any special was made August 15, 1948, followtreatment before laying asphalt tile?

Answer: The concrete floor must be dry, clean, and free of paint or other finish. Spread a special mastic cement over the concrete with a paste spreader and then press the tile down into place. You will need a linoleum knife and a blowtorch to soften tile for cutting and trimming. Be careful not to put down too much cement, for it will ooze up between the tiles. Gives Good Frozen Product

Generally speaking, in the matter of fruits and vegetables, those with high color and excellent flavor should be used for freezing.

Those who freeze foods have al-ready run into the term "optimum maturity." This means that fruits and vegetables suitable for freezing should have reached their peak of ripeness to be ready for the freezer. Fruits and vegetables at this stage are sweetest, full of flavor and ripe. This is the flavor and appearance which you want to preserve.

Get fruits and vegetables into the freezer right after picking, if it's at all possible. If you wait for too long after picking or harvesting, the produce loses flavor and deteriorates in texture.

Check These Varieties For Vegetables

If you're planning to freeze any of the following vegetables, check varieties to get the best results. In asparagus, for example, you'll find that both Mary Washington and Martha Washington rate high. The Dwarf Improved and Long Island Improved varieties of Brussels Sprouts are considered good.

Fordhook lima beans retain superior color and flavor when frozen, and so do the Kentucky Wonder green snap beans.

Italian green sprouting broccoli is superior because of its fresh flavor and color

It's money that seems more valuable than it really is. When there's a greater supply of money than of goods ... when it takes more and more money to buy fewer and fewer things - that's inflation. It happens when goods get scarce, and you and your neighbors compete unfairly for these few goods. That boosts prices - up and up, until the prices of more and more things are higher than you can afford to pay.

Here's what all of us must do to halt INFLATION*

Let's all pull together to lick inflation. It will

Business, Government and Everybody must:

- 1. Strive for still more efficient production.
- 2. Halt the upward spiral of prices and wages.
- 3. Buy only for current needs. Hold business inventories down.

TAXES ON THE LOCAL LEVEL—By July 1, or shortly thereafter, the man on Main Street is going to find himself subject to increased individual income taxes if the house ways and means committee's pro-

The committee voted to increase income taxes $2,950,000,000 a year. This increase would raise taxes in every bracket by 3 percentage points.

For instance, a single man with a net income of $2,000 a year would pay $322 in taxes instead of $280. This would be an increase from 20 per cent to 23 per cent. In the second bracket ($2,000 to $4,000), the tax would go up from 22 to 25 per cent, and in the third bracket ($4,000 to $6,000). from 26 to 29 per cent.

In general, the increase in each person's tax would be about the same as the jump which took place under the first war-tax bill passed last year. This proposed taxation is tentative, however, and subject to possible changes by the house, the senate finance committee, and the full senate. But it is an indication of approximately what the small-towner can expect before the summer is over.

WHAT DOES AMERICA THINK?- From the time this nation was founded politicians have tried to keep in close contact with the home towns in an effort to know and understand what the average man is thinking. Very few of them, however, have succeeded.

With this in mind, Secretary of Defense Marshall made a bold statement during his testimony on the MacArthur-Truman controversy when he asserted the American will stand with the administration people on military policy in Korea.

Marshall believes the average hometowner has no desire to expand the war in Asia. He believes the American people "are on the side that the defense department, the joint chiefs of staff, and the civilian authority of the government favor."

This side, Marshall asserted, involved settled conviction that the present policy of limited commitment of force in Korea must go on.

TEAM WORK-The first thing the American youngster learns, whether he is a city boy or a small town one, is that he has to be a member of the team. To play with the other kids he must cooperate. Americans carry this lesson with them through life.

It was with some relief, therefore, that home-towners heard the news that those free nations who have been trading with Communist China had finally agreed it was time to start playing with the home team and to cut off that trade completely.

Britain, trade and dollar hungry, was possibly the worst offender. It could be that the senate vote to cut off economic aid to any nation which permits its citizens to trade with Communist areas had much to do with the sudden splurge of cooperation.

FOR HUNGRY BEEF EATERS-In an action entirely independent of the recent projected general rollback on beef prices scheduled by October, 1, the government unexpectedly slashed approximately 12 cents a pound off ceiling prices of some chuck steaks and pot roasts

For the hungry beef eaters of the nation it was a welcome surprise. It is not likely to make relations between the administration and the nation's beef producers, packers and distributors any cosier, however.

JET INJECTIONS Future Draftees May Get Shots By High-Pressure Jet Apparatus

The plight of auto mechanics and others who work pear hydraulic oil lines may have led to an invention that will be hailed by a great many United States army soldiers who face enemy gunfire unflinchingly, but who quail at the sight of a hypodermic needle.

This new device, now in the advanced experimental stages in the U.S. army medical service graduate school in Washington, D.C., is a multiple dose high-pressure injection apparatus which is shaped much like a pistol, and may be used in the future for rapidly inoculating groups of people with shots of vaccines, antibiotics, insulin and others.

Research has not yet revealed who first thought of using a high pressure jet to force medicaments through the skin, but Dr. Joel Warren, of Washington, D.C., chief of virus research at the army school, believes that automotive lubricants accidentally forced by pressure into mechanics' subcutaneous tissues probably first prompted the inspiration.

It was noted that fine jets of oil at high velocity, as from a leaking hydraulic line, could penetrate human skin and leave little or no mark. If this phenomena could be applied to inoculations, it was reasoned that besides doing away with the pain and psychological hazard of the unpopular hypodermic needle, jet injection would have several other important advantages:

1. With a multiple dose apparatus, large numbers of people could be given protective vaccines or medication in a short time. This consideration is particularly applicable to civilian defense efforts

By INEZ GERHARD

AN STERLING (Mrs. Paul Douglas) stacked up an impressive list of successes on the stage before Hollywood grabbed her; right now she is sprinkled with Hollywood star dust. Paramount initially teamed her with Alan Ladd in "Appointment with Danger", had her play the blind girl in "Union Station"

This is how future army men may receive their shots. Above an army doctor is testing the experiment multiple dose injection apparatus that the army may adopt.

in the event of atomic bombings or other disasters affecting entire communities.

2. In using hypodermic needles to inoculate large cross-sections of any community, there would be some danger of transmitting infections. Because the jet nozzle does not penetrate the tissues as the needle does, this danger is eliminated. 3. No special training is required for giving inoculations by the jet method.

4. When produced in quantity, jet injection apparatus will be relatively inexpensive.

It was some of these considerations, Doctor Warren believes, that prompted a diesel engineer named Lockhart to patent in 1946 the first instrument especially designed for parenteral jet injection.

The R. B. Scherer Corporation of Detroit, Michigan, developed Lockhart's device and arranged for anatomical and other studies with his "gun," the Hypo-Spray, a handcocking, single-shot instrument. This first excursion into the field of jet inoculations was field tested for the United States army by Dr. Herbert Batson and Captain Robert

Wall. They found that the principle of et injection was feasible for administering bacterial vaccines. The Hypo-Spray, they found, would do all that the hypodermic needle could do in this line, and do it without the possibility of cross-infection and virtually without pain. While the automatic-loading jet gun" is not yet ready for general Army use because of several minor engineering details which still remain to be worked out, it is already clear, according to Doctor Warren, that administration of vaccines, such as those for typhoid, typhus, tetanus, and diphtheria, antibiotics, such as penicillin and insulin, and other biologicals, is both feasible and highly desirable. Those who volunteered for demonstration shots were dubious at first, but as the tests proceeded, eagerly testified before congressional committees in rebuttal to earlier testimony of Gen. Douglas MacArthur on the conduct of the Korean war, North Korean and Chinese Communists were ready for a second attempt in their spring offensive.

The first attempt launched April 22, bogged down in little over a week with an estimated 75,000 casualties. For the second try, the Communists rushed thousands of troops into three buildup areas armed with an unusually large number of machine guns and Russian-type submachine guns.

United Nations forces were ready and waiting for the new offensive, firmly entrenched and, for the first time in the war, ready with an air raid warning system. commanders remained firm in the belief they could beat back anything the Communists could throw against them.

THE PRICE IS STEEP-The weeks of futile talks in Paris by deputies of the big four foreign ministers has reaffirmed the minds of the average home-towner in the fact you can't reason with the Communists. For weeks the deputies have tried to work out an agenda for a meeting of the big four foreign ministers without success.

It is apparent that the end of the rope has been reached. The price demanded by the Reds is too high for a God fearing and freedom loving nation. The Russians insist upon an arms-reduction item in the agenda that would mean the suspension of our defense program. The Russians want their own kind of arms-reduction formula. It doesn't include international inspection and control.

Here again the free world has been blocked in its attempt to ease world tensions and try to make some progress toward real peace.

THE TALKING CONGRESS-At the moment it appears that the 82nd congress will go down in history as the talking congress, with a record of fewer laws enacted than the 80th congress which was termed "do-nothing congress" by President Truman. the

After four full months, the 82nd congress has enacted only 28 public laws, a recent check revealed. None of the major platform planks on which Truman won election for a second term have been approved. Of 37 specific legislative recommendations by the President, only three have become effective as a result of congressional action since January. And two of them affect only soldiers or veterans of the war in Korea.

There are some disadvantages to the jet method. One of these is the occasional failure of the jet to penetrate the skin when it is particularly thick, or is subsurfaced with layers of intradermal fat. A control that will enable the operator to vary the pressure within limits according to the individual being inoculated is being worked out.

The jet injection method applies only to subcutaneous and intradermal medication; intravenous injections cannot be given in this way. Nor is the "gun" designed to handle highly viscous material such as oil suspensions.

GRASSROOTS How Will the Future Decide MacArthur Question?

By Wright A. Patterson

THE AMERICAN PEOPLE have thoroughly demonstrated their appreciation of and belief in the abilities of General of the Army Douglas MacArthur. By their tremendous demonstrations they have expressed their love and gratitude for the services he has rendered their nation. Unofficially, that includes the senators and representatives in congress. They, too, ren-dered their unqualified homage to great man and their belief in his announced policies, when the general addressed their joint session.

Now there remains the official congressional verdict. Will that verdict, if and when it is rendered, support the President and his unpopular secretaries of state and defense, or will it support the judgement of the man in whom the people have so enthusiastically expressed their confidence and apprecia-tion? At the time this is written, I need only one guess as to what the result will be.

There will be no definite verdict. Congress will constitute a hung jury, regardless of the wishes of the people. Congress, as such, is partisan political organization. bare majority in both houses, senate and house, represents the party of the President, and the decidedly unoopular secretaries of state and defense whom the President appointed, and whom he refused to fire.

or lack of action, on the part of congress can take that away from him. The President may, if he wishes, accept such a stalemate as a victory for his policies and those of his secretaries of state, and defense, rather than as a vote of partisan political expediency.

Such is the way of partisan politics in our United States. Such is the way of our republic of the people who are in control of the government at all times. The only way we can express our displeasure with a President, once he is elected, is to impeach him if he does something that goes beyond his constitutional authority.

The people did not question the authority of the President to fire Gen. MacArthur, but they questioned his method of doing it. The extent of such disapproval was evi-denced in a radio poll, conducted by Fulton Lewis, Jr., in which he

Only the voters, if they wish, can render a vedict, and only at election time. Many of those who voted "no" in the Fulton Lewis straw poll, will vote "yes" at that election, should the President decide to run again and his party nominates him. Was the hurrahing for Gen. THERE's new color and design afoot when it comes to rugs and neor ocverings, and the consensus of opinion is that, at long last, the American look is on the carpet.

Gone are the days of borrowing tesigns from other worlds. The new carpet and rug designs capture the spirit of America itself. There are, for instance, simple homespuns which fit perfectly into today's casual living. For casual, informal American homes, this fresh new rug pattern offers unlimited decorative possibilities. cotton backs. A variety of designs is available in these, from the plain, thick-piled textures to beguiling formal plaids, spatterdash effects and hit-and-miss varicolored tweed-like designs.

Inspiration from the great outdoors is responsible for much of the color and design to be found in the new floor coverings. Subtle desert colorings, bold early morning and soft late afternoon lightening effects have been woven into carpets of great charm. Unusual yet livable colors and designs have been inspired by various regional sections of the country and this, too, makes them typically American both in color and appearance.

Furnishing Trend

Previously, the drapes or slip covers have set the decorating trend for the room. With the new color palette in rugs available now, if you like, the carpeting can set the color tones for the room

The reason for this arises out of the many different effects which are now achieved with carpeting. Some of the yarns used have been spun with varied colors, a new departure from the moresque yarns which have different values of one color.

Now it's easy to find deep grays ombined with melon pink, brown mixed with citron or pink-beige, live with natural or cockscomb red, and all give delightful effects. stai In cotton rugs which are such big cid.

If you want rugs which will take wear but can be bought at little expense, and are cool, there's almost endless variety available in fibre rugs. These are stunning enough to be used in the living room, and of course, they have excellent use in dens, porches and children's rooms. For extra wear, choose those which are reversible. No Substitute Available

For Good Rug Care

Since carpeting for the home rep-resents a real investment from the home furnishings budget, there's no good reason for not giving floor coverings the best possible care. Go into immediate action on spots and stains, and don't neglect regular care if you want floor coverings to keep their luxurious good looks. Whether you have all-wool, rayon plus wool or cotton rugs, see that they are cleaned daily with carpet sweeper or even vacuum cleaner. depending upon the soil in your home.

If the carpet sweeper is the means for cleaning daily, then the rug should be vacuum cleaned at least once or twice a week.

Act quickly when something is spilled. Soak up stains such as milk with a clean cloth and then use soapless cleaner diluted with water. Rinse thoroughly any food stain so that nothing can turn ran-

KATHLEEN NORRIS Must Good Girl Be Unpopular?

SOME TIME AGO I wrote an article about decency.

Decency. Just plain old-fashioned modesty in speech, in the books we read and the clothing we wear and the jokes at which we laugh. I asked the women who read that article to write me.

They wrote me by the hundred. The letters and postcards came in tied in bundles. And they all said one thing: that America's mothers and teachers are sick of nakedness and coarseness in pictures, and radio programs, in drugstore books and shameless jokes.

Because I simply cannot answer all these messages personaly, I say thank you for them here. And I ask these mothers and teachers to take up this work of protecting our young people from the contagion of vulgarity, of ugly familiarity with the most degraded aspects of criminal and sexual de-pravity. Take up this cause with ilies, living in apartments, in subyour own children first, with your urbs, in small country towns, have club, with the parents-teachers high ideals, and most mothers and group, and with protests to your movies. Keep it up steadily and that is going on in civic and social patiently; talk about it. If this and church and charitable circles

Out of Ruins

Lesson for June 3, 1951

GERMAN who came through A World War II recently said: "At present there is no country in the world where a man can live more like a man than in Germany. This is because yesterday has been reduced to ruins and rubbish . . . We can thank God that he has blessed us with ruins more than he has others." This may sound shocking, but it sounds not unlike the Bible. There Dr. Foreman were Jews in ancient times who lived to thank God for the ruins of Jerusalem. . . .

At Last They Believed

I^F you had asked a resident of that city, at the hour when the enemy army was burning his beloved home, if God's hand was in the catastrophe, most likely he would have said, "No, not by any means. This is Nebuchadnezzar's work, or the devil's-certainly not God's."

Consider what good came out of it. For one thing, it taught the Jews that God is really a God of justice, after all. The nation that sinneth, it shall die; the nation that takes the sword shall perish by the sword. The prophets had been trying to tell them that for many a long year; but no attention had been paid.

The sins the prophets had said God would surely punish, went on and on, and there seemed to be no reckoning and no punishment. The little nation was deluded into thinking it could get by with anything for as long as they pleased. But after the crash of 586 B.C., they all knew the prophets had been telling the truth.

Yesterday Is Dead

FOR another thing, the exile cured the Jews, for a long time, of trying to be a political nation like other nations. God had called them to another kind of existence. So long as they had been an independent nation they had kept fooling around with politics, armies, international intrigue. After all that had been swept into Nebuchadnezzar's dustbin, the people's hearts turned more and more to God and his laws.

Another way in which that city-wide ruin was a blessing was that it "killed yesterday." Before the fatal year 586, the Hebrew kings and people had more or less looked backward. Every king wanted to be a great conqueror like David, a wealthy potentate like Solomon. But they never would look the cold fact in the face, that those days were gone forever.

Reply to MacArthur

THE FLAT monotones of President Truman, speaking recently to a nation-wide audience over television and radio, and the equally flat, but concise and clipped statements of Gen. George Marshall, secretary of defense, most certainly do not have the fulsome, sonorous tones as do the dramatic pontifical pronouncements of Gen. Douglas MacArthur to which the ear of the nation has become attuned.

But the President and the joint chiefs of staff have given their an-swer to General MacArthur and the American people-an answer of flat denial and rebuttal of the policies proposed by him to extend the war in Asia. Also, MacArthur's superiors on the joint staff declared firmly that the former Korean commander did violate directives not once, but several times.

And to listen to these men-Marshall, who as chief of staff blueprinted World War II not only in Europe but in the Pacific; Gen. Omar Bradley, present chief of staff, dubbed the GI general and a brilliant tactician; Adm. Forest Sherman, former commander of the Atlantic fleet; Gen. Lawton Collins, army chief of staff for air -one could not help but feel impressed with their sincerity and integrity, their obvious knowledge and experience concerning whereof they spoke, and feel that with these men heading our military defense the nation is in safe hands, come what may,

In the President's answer to Mac-Arthur, he made one point, the most important point of all probably, when he said: "A lot of people are looking at this debate on foreign policy as if it were just a political fight. But the stakes are a lot more important than the outcome of an election. The thing at stake in this debate may be atomic war. Our foreign policy is not a political issue. It is a matter of life and death. It is a matter of the future of man-kind."

Refuses to Extend War

The President made two other important points: "I have refused to extend the area of the conflict in the far east, under the circumstances which now prevail. And I am going to tell you exactly why. I have refused, first on military grounds. The best military advise I have been able to obtain-the best collective military advise in this country-is that this course of action would not lead to quick and easy solution of the Korean conflict. On the contrary, it could very well lead to a much bigger and longer war which would

Is It Too Late?

One woman wrote me that she did truly believe in decency, in self-control, in modesty, in purity. But, she asked, has the world any use for them today? Is it too late to start training daughters in the old-fashioned virtues of purity?

"May daughter is 17, and she is lovely, gifted and intelligent," says Harri Paget's letter. "In her young-

International Choice WITH BATTALIONS of fighting men from all the corners of world mustered beneath the the U.N.'s blue-and-white banner, many an odd dish is reported cropping up on the military menus. U.S. army rations are standard fare for most of the U.N. troops. But there are variations. Disdaining G.I. coffee, British Tommies brew Chinese tea for breakfast, lunch, mid-afternoon "spot," and dinner. Mustachioed Turks and swarthy Greeks bake thin, hard loaves of bread with olive oil and no leavening. Thailanders splash whole bottles of Louisiana tabasco hot sauce on the rice and beans (U.S. army, dried) and then call for the pepper. Wounded Americans on the hospital ship "Jutlandia" teach Danish chefs how to broil cheeseburgers and mix ice cream for Danish pastry a la mode. Korea's international army is composed of men from at least 14 nations in addition to the United States. England, France, Australia, Canada, New Zealand, Belgium, the Netherlands, Luxembourg, Greece, Turkey, Thailand, Colombia, South Africa and the Philippine Republic have sent troops.

Great Britain's brigades include kilted Scotsmen. Puerto Ricans are numbered among U.S. soldiers. India, Denmark and Sweden have sent medical units. Enroute from Ethiopia are 1,100 crack infantrymen from Emperor Haile Selassie's imperial bodyguard. A company of Cubans is in training for Korea.

The army tries its best to supply foods which will not clash with national eating habits or religious principles. Unless battle pressure makes it impossible, pork-free meats are supplied to Moslem troops, who would be horrified at bring up their girls in the old digni- the gusto with which Filipinos eat young barbecued pigs whenever they can catch them. But when the exiles came back to rebuild the ruins, the younger ones at least looked forward. Yesterday was dead; they built now for tomorrow. . . .

Blessed With Ruins

RUINS can be a blessing in more ways than one. So Chicago and San Francisco and Baltimore were better cities after their big fires; Louisville improved after its great flood; the "New South" of today is blessed as the Old South, for all its glamor, could not have been.

Sometimes a man who has been depending on anything but God for hope and happinesson his money, on his friends, on his health, on his position— finds these things swept out from under him, and then at last comes back to God.

After a man's childhood faith has been shattered by manhood's disillusionments, it has often come to pass that out of the ruins of the childish beliefs he rears a tower of faith far stronger than anything he has lost. . . .

Let's Not Make Ruins

THIS does not mean, of course, that we ought ever to go out and deliberately make ruins. The best way to improve other nations is not to drop bombs on them; the best way to be improved ourselves is not to act in such ways as to tempt other nations to drop bombs on us.

The best way to build a better faith is not to scrap all the faith we have. The best way to find God is not to go out and find him in a fox-hole. The blessings of ruins are not the best God has; but sometimes they are what it takes to bring a man to his senses.

And if the crash does come, and the towers fall, and life lies in rubble around us, we must remember what the Hebrews learned: that even in the ruins we may, better than ever, come to know the living God.

not reduce our casualties in the far east. It would increase them enormously." . . .

Need Our Allies

The other very important point he made was that to follow the MacArthur advice would force this nation to go it alone in Asia. "We cannot go it alone in Asia and go it in company in Europe . . . We do not intend to fall into that trap. I do not propose to strip this country of its allies in the face of the Soviet danger."

The President then pointed out that if we abandon our allies and fight an Asian war alone, it would wreck the United Nations, the North At-lantic treaty and the whole system of collective security which is now being set up under the command of Gen. Dwight Eisenhower in Europe.

Coalition Is Dead

One thing this great debate in the congress has done, it has killed off coalition government, at least for the time being. For on the various votes in the senate, Democrats and Republicans have been divided right down the line as never before in this congress. Only one Democrat jumped the fence-McCarran of Nevada.

Plays No Favorites

One thing which can be said for General MacArthur-he played no favorites. He and only he has the solution to the global battle against Russian Communism. He declared the ideas advocated by Senator Taft were "silly." He said the proposal of former President Herbert Hoover was "ridiculous." And as for the joint chiefs of staff, they had a right to their opinions and he had a right to his. But every one was out of step but General Mac-Arthur.

Secret Documents Viewed

There is another thing this debate has done. For the first time in our history, and probably in the history of any other nation, we have trotted out to public view the most secret documents, so secret and so important to the life of this nation that they were taken from the Pentagon vaults to the senate committee rooms by a company of armed soldiers. The Kremlin and other world capitols are hearing as soon as you our plans.

"Why should the public be barred from those Washington hearings?" "I can't figure it out. The people have a right to know whether O'Dwyer went into Mexico against the advice of Marshall and Bradley and why the report was suppressed for four years."

"Do you think there really was a stenographic record taken on Wake Island at the time of the Moran case or that Halley and the committee just made it up from notes?" "You've got me.
