OPLIN WILDCAT GAUGES 37 BARRELS PER HOUR

The Oplin Ordovician wildcat No. 1, Tom Poindexter, drilled by Hal Hughes, et al, three miles north of Oplin, in the south-west part of Callahan County, which has created so much interest the past ten days, was opened Wednesday afternoon for a one-hour gauge to flow 37 barrels into tanks , ranking it as a promising producer.

On a 24-hour basis of flow, the well would rate a potential of 888 barrels per day, but owners did not consider it as an official gauge.

The well, during its one-hour flow, built up 120 pounds of back pressure on the tubing as it was run into tanks.

The Hughes No. 1, Poindexter is the first Ordovician producing well to be discovered between the Eastland county Van Parmer pool and the Crane county Weddell area, discovered during the summer of 1937.

Production is from a sandy lime, tentatively identified as the Simpson, middle Ordovician, at 4,368-89 feet.

The deep test, producing from acidized sandy lime at 4,368-89 feet, is estimated upwards of 1,000 barrels per day under a flow of about four or five million cubic feet of gas per day. Only one ressure gauge was taken on tubing, that building to 875 pounds in 30 minutes shutin after an open flow.

The well will probably be given a daily allowance of 100 barrels, customary for discovery producers of new pools in this district.

Location is in section 350, George Hancock survey, southwest Callahan county, about 25 miles southwest of Baird.

Hughes will move his rotary machine from the No. 1 Andrew Johnson, to the southeast, for the location of the No. 1, Windham-Straley, and will begin operations within the next two weeks.

The test will be near the center of the north line of the southwest quarter of section 369, George Hancock, survey.

Leasing has been lively around Oplin the past several days.

The grandjury was empaneled with Hugh Ross as foreman, Fred Tunnell, secretary, A. W. Gibson, Fred Stacy, F. L. Smith, Fred Cook, L. L. Ford, L. H. Hayhurst, Charley Straley, Steve Tarrant, E. I. Vestal, W. D. Boydston.

The grand jury returned six indictments after two days investigation and adjourned Tuesday evening.

Criminal cases have been set for Monday by Judge M. S. Long. Those indicted were Thurman Wood, felony theft; Francis U. Bourland, bigamy; James W. Keever, alias Charles L. Nolan, passing a forged instrument; O. W. Kilman, theft from person; a man not in custody for forgery; and another man not in custody for seduction.

The grand jury made the following report:

To Honorable M. S. Long, Judge Of Said Court:

We the Grand Jury beg leave to report to the court that we have investigated seven cases, interrogated twenty-two witnesses, and have returned six indictments all of which are felonies.

We are qualified to find so few violations of the law and our work so light, for which we commend our peace officers and other officials of the court. We feel that this light docket speaks in highly complimentary tones of the quality of the citizenship of our county, and that Callahan County is living up to its reputation as a county of law abiding people.

We have visited the county jail and find it well kept and in excellent condition and commend the sheriff and the Commissioner's Court for this.

We wish to extend our thanks to the court and all officers there of for the courtesies shown us during the two days we have been in session. Our work has been made pleasant for us, and, having finished it, we ask to be discharged.

Hugh W. Ross, Foreman. The following resolution in reference to so many transients being put off trains in Baird were adopted by the Grand Jury.

Resolutions Adopted By The Grand Jury of Callahan County, Texas:

The State of Texas, County of Callahan.

In the District Court of Callahan County, Texas.

February Term, A. D. 1938.

Whereas, it has come to the attention of the Grand Jury that many transients are being put off trains in the City of Baird, almost daily, and that such transients are not allowed to ride out of said city, but are turned loose on the town, much to the annoyance of the people of said town and further, that after being evicted, as aforesaid, many of said transients take to the highways and annoy the people of the county side and the neighboring towns of Putnam and Clyde

And Whereas, the Texas and Pacific Railroad permits such transients to ride trains into such town of Baird, and does not cause them to be evicted at other towns and cities along said railroad, thereby causing a congestion of such situation, and we feel that it is unjust to the city of Baird and the neighboring towns and country side to single out one small town in which to evict all of such transients

Be it resolved by the Grand Jury of Callahan County, Texas, at this, the February Term, A. D. 1938, of the District Court of Callahan County, Texas, that we protest against such eviction of

National Used Car Exchange Week

A national drive to sweep the American automobile industry out of the current recession and stimulate American business generally was announced here by Alvin Maceuley, speaking for every American automobile manufacturer and the nation's 46,000 automobile dealers.

The campaign, to be known as "National Used Car Exchange Week" and scheduled for March 5 to 12, is an outgrowth of recent conferences at the White House between President Roosevelt and leaders of the automobile industry, Mr. Maceuley said.

The President has been advised of plans for the campaign, which is the first cooperative effort ever undertaken in which all American automobile manufacturers have taken part.

The campaign is timed at the outset of the spring selling season when both new and used cars usually begin to move in greater volume, Mr. Maceuley said. It is aimed primarily at stimulating the disposal of used cars stocks now in dealer hands. Once this is accomplished, a substantial increase in car manufacturing schedules and employment of wage earners in the automobile factories is anticipated.

DEALS WITH DICTATORS Chamberlain Planning Anglo-Italian Agreement and Four-Power Pact . . . France in Dilemma

Chancellor Hitler delivering the sensational speech in which he defied the world, declaring Germany was not afraid of war. Above him is seen General Goering. This is a radiophoto from Berlin.

Edward W. Pickard SUMMARIZES THE WORLD'S WEEK

Anglo-Italian Plans

SUPPORTED by a large majority in the house of commons, British Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain moved rapidly toward realization of his plan for European appeasement, the basis of which was to be a speedy truce with Italy, to be followed by a four-power pact including Britain, France, Italy and Germany.

The earl of Perth, British ambassador to Rome, had conversations with Italian Foreign Minister Ciano and was then called to London for further instructions. It was said Perth and Ciano agreed the following points must be discussed and, if possible, made a part of the London-Rome treaty:

Britain must recognize the Italian conquest of Ethiopia. An Anglo-Italian Mediterranean pact should be arranged to include Italian naval parity with Britain in the Mediterranean, reduction in Italy's troops in Libya, and British assurances that the Suez canal will be safeguarded against closing or air attack.

Immediate cessation of anti-Italian propaganda in the British territories in the Near East in return for which Italy will guarantee not to include anti-British propaganda in its Bari radio broadcasts. Withdrawal of foreign "volunteers" from Spain was to be demanded by Britain, and it was understood in London that Chancellor Hitler of Germany had agreed to that, and that Italy would not refuse, although Mussolini especially wishes that Franco be granted belligerent rights.

France in Tight Place FRANCE, it was expected, would adopt a course parallel with that of Britain, for, as Foreign Minister Delbos said, she might otherwise find herself isolated in Europe. However Premier Chamberlain served notice on Chamberlain that the French would join in the proposed four-power pact only if protection were assured for Czechoslovakia and Austria. The French secret defense committee met to organize an arms expansion program involving $855,400,000 and to lay plans for defending the Czechs against German aggression.

Isolationists Cheered AMERICAN isolationists saw in the new European developments the eclipse of the internationalism fostered by President Roosevelt and Secretary Hull, and were greatly encouraged in their determination to keep the United States free from foreign entanglements. At the same time the proponents of powerful national defense were elated and the administration's big navy program received a great boost. The house naval affairs committee was about ready to report favorably the billion dollar navy construction bill, which may include provision for the establishment of more naval bases, mainly in the Pacific.

Hitler Defies the World POLITICAL turmoil spread over Europe after Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler, in an address to the reichstag, declared his intention to make Germany one of the most powerful nations in the world, gave warning that it was re-arming and did not fear war though it desired peace, and demanded the return of Germany's lost colonies. Furthermore, Hitler upheld the aggressive actions of Italy and Japan, and asserted that Germany would not tolerate ultimate victory of the loyalist faction in Spain over Franco's rebel forces.

The fuhrer told with gratification of his success in compelling Chancellor Schuschnigg to give the Austrian Nazis representation in his cabinet and to permit them to act as a political party. He gave no assurance that the independence of Austria would be preserved. He openly threatened similar action against Czechoslovakia unless the Germans in that country were granted "political liberty." Hitler's speech might be summarized as a declaration that Germany will ignore Great Britain, France and other western powers in carrying out her international policies, will continue her efforts to destroy the last vestiges of the general settlements which followed the World War; will insist that the "have not" nations must be restored to a basis of equality with the "have" powers, and is prepared to defy any combination of powers which may be formed against her.

Halifax Succeeds Eden REFUSING to go along with Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain in his plans to "buy" a friendly settlement with Germany and Italy, Capt. Anthony Eden, British foreign secretary who has fought the ambitions of European dictators for two years, resigned from the cabinet. Viscount Halifax was appointed to succeed Eden temporarily. This change was in effect another triumph for Hitler, was especially regretted by France, and threatened to precipitate a serious crisis for the British government.

Viscount Halifax, lord president of the council and former viceroy of India, is a personal friend of Hitler and an insistent advocate of immediate friendship with Germany and Italy, even at the cost of great concessions by Britain. He was sent to Berlin not long ago to talk over matters with the Nazi leaders.

Crop Insurance Manager ROY M. GREEN of Missouri has been made manager of the $100,000,000 federal crop insurance corporation, the agency created under the new farm law to insure wheat growers against crop failures. The appointment was made by the board of directors, which also selected Cecil A. Johnson, formerly of Ames, Iowa, as its secretary. Green has been chief of the Agriculture department's division of finance in the bureau of agricultural economics since 1935.

McNutt Hullabaloo PAUL V. McNUTT, high commissioner to the Philippines, came home to report to the President, and as soon as he arrived in Washington his enthusiastic friends staged a big reception for the purpose of booming him as Democratic nominee for the Presidency in 1940. All experienced politicians agree that this is most premature, and in the capital it was felt that it was decidedly distasteful to Mr. Roosevelt, who doesn't wish to be hurried in picking his possible successor. No member of the cabinet except Secretary Roper and no important man of the administration attended the reception.

Chandler in Race GOVERNOR A. B. ("HAPPY") CHANDLER of Kentucky formally announced his candidacy for the senate seat occupied by Alben W. Barkley, majority leader. He said he would try to confine his fight to state issues, but would not hesitate to take issue with the Roosevelt administration if it interfered in the primaries in behalf of Barkley.

Green Hits Lewis' Plan MOVING to stop John Lewis and his C. I. O. from gaining political control of Pennsylvania, the American Federation of Labor revised the charter of the state federation. President Green announced that action with a declaration that the votes of 400,000 "loyal" federation members in Pennsylvania "cannot be delivered" by "self-constituted labor leaders, ambitious for political power."

Lewis and his unions are planning to elect Lieut. Gov. Thomas Kennedy to the governorship. He is secretary-treasurer of the miners' union.

Coal Prices Revoked FACED with growing litigation, the national bituminous coal commission announced it had taken the advice of producers and labor unions and voted unanimously to suspend its schedule of soft coal minimum prices, marketing rules and regulations. The prices had been set aside by the courts in numerous cases.

Franco Regains Teruel FRANCO'S insurgent forces recovered possession of Teruel, Spain, and continued their progress toward the Mediterranean coast. In the recaptured city they took more than 16,000 prisoners and buried 9,000 government dead. Rebel warships bombarded the coastal cities of Valencia and Sagunto and were in turn attacked by government bombing planes.

Rumania Goes Fascist RUMANIA is now a Fascist corporative state of guilds patterned after Italy. This was settled when King Carol proclaimed the new constitution, which provides for a parliament composed of guilds of farmers, workers and intellectuals. Both the chamber of deputies and the senate are reduced in size and election of members is to be by trades and professions, not by political parties. The king will appoint half the senators and will have veto power over all legislation. All Rumanians are declared equal, with radical distinctions, and religious freedom is granted with the Orthodox Rumanian church as the state religion. Trials by jury are abolished and the death penalty reintroduced for certain crimes.

The constitution was created by Rumania's powerful crown council, a special body established by King Carol to define general policies.

Hungary Offers Pay JOHN PELENYI, minister from Hungary, revealed that his government has proposed a readjustment of its "war debt" whereby it would repay the United States the full amount of its original loan but without interest.

Parker Gilbert Dies PARKER GILBERT of New York, who at the age of thirty-two won fame by his brilliant work as agent general for war reparations, died of heart disease. After completing his job in Berlin he became a partner in J. P. Morgan & Co., dealing especially with matters of international finance.

Army Planes' Great Flight SIX bombing planes of the United States army air corps successfully completed an epochal mass flight of 6,000 miles from Miami, Fla., to Buenos Aires, the only intermediate stop was at Lima, Peru. From there the bombers roared over the snow-capped Andes and landed at the Argentine capital, where thousands cheered the aviators. The planes carried 48 men besides the flight commander, Lieut. Col. Robert Olds.

WHO'S NEWS THIS WEEK

By LEMUEL F. PARTON

NEW YORK.—A bequest of $1,000,000, left to Harvard university by Mrs. Agnes Wahl Nieman, will make it possible for newspaper men to go to school at Harvard. It might be better if they would go to school to John Stewart Bryan, handsome, fluent, and erudite head of the committee which will pick the candidates for the Harvard sabbatical years.

Mr. Bryan is publisher of the Richmond News-Leader and president of the College of William and Mary. He talks rapidly and interestingly on poetry, politics, history, philosophy, the classics and humanities. If Mrs. Nieman had engaged him to do $1,000,000 worth of traveling and talking to newspaper men, instead of giving the money to Harvard, the light shed in the dark caverns of journalistic minds surely would have matched any possible Harvard effulgence. And, like Erasmus, Mr. Bryan loves to travel and talk.

The glow in Mr. Bryan's own mind was imparted partly by Harvard and partly by the University of Virginia. Of the southern aristocrat, he practiced law in Richmond and then engaged with his father, the late Joseph Bryan, in energetic co-management of the family newspaper, then the Richmond Times. The elder Mr. Bryan had established a tradition of independence which his son has maintained.

With the passing of such free-swinging journalists as Halstead, Greeley, Watterston, and, more recently, Fremont Older, Mr. Bryan remains one of the few distinguished exemplars of that kind of spark-plug newspapering.

He was president of the American Newspaper Publishers' association from 1926 to 1928. Sixty-six years old, he still keeps up with his horsemanship, taking all the jumps until a few years ago. He is caught up in an incredible whirl of directorates, public and civic posts, clubs, philanthropies and social and political activities—all ways with time to talk.

MME. PAUL DUPUY, whose French chateau is now occupied by the duke and duchess of Windsor, was the first publisher to introduce American comic strips in France. The French liked the comics, but they wouldn't take the columnists. Mme. Dupuy found they liked to do their own interpreting and shied away from omniscience in all forms.

She is the American-born widow of Paul Dupuy. When M. Dupuy died in 1927, he left in her hands the biggest string of newspapers and magazines in France. In the French tradition, in which the widow quietly assumes command of the cafe or shop, she picked up the vast publishing business, managing it at first from a sickbed, as she was convalescing from a long illness.

The publications included the Daily Petit Parisien, with a circulation of 1,800,000; Dimanche Illustré, a Sunday newspaper in which Mme. Dupuy introduced the first Sunday supplement in France; La Science et la Vie, comparable to the Scientific American; Omnia, an automobile journal; Le Republicain des Hautes-Pyrenees, a provincial daily; Nos Loisirs, a women's magazine; Agriculture Nouvelle, a weekly, and several others.

Mme. Dupuy was Helen Browne, blonde and beautiful daughter of William H. and Mary C. Browne of New York. She attended the Anne Browne school for young ladies at 715 Fifth avenue, New York. Studying in Paris, she met M. Dupuy, son of the founder of the Petit Parisien.

They were married in 1907 and have two sons and a daughter, the Princess de Polignac. For many years, their marriage has been cited as one ideal international romance—a bit of background which is, no doubt, of interest to the duke and duchess as they move into her charming old Chateau de la Maye, near Versailles.

Dog Nips Traffic Policeman While a policeman on traffic duty in Buenos Aires, Argentina, was calmly directing cars and politely answering pedestrians' questions, a dog appeared apparently from nowhere, jumped up and bit him severely on the wrist. The canine had touched an electric light cable blown down by a storm, and frightened by the shock had attacked the nearest "enemy," which happened to be the policeman.

SEEN and HEARD around the NATIONAL CAPITAL By Carter Field FAMOUS WASHINGTON CORRESPONDENT

Washington.—Small movie exhibitors are hoping for action now that the bill of Sen. Matthew M. Neeley of West Virginia to stop block booking and blind selling has been favorably reported by a senate committee. Although the house hasn't done anything on it yet, definite action seems probable unless it gets lost in the shuffle.

Testifying before a senate committee in favor of the Neeley bill, the little theater men lay all their troubles on "the big eight." They mean the eight big motion picture producers. The big eight owns about all the big chain theaters. Each year the producers make a few good pictures and a lot of pictures which are not so good. They reserve the good films for their "affiliated" theaters and force the rest on the little independent men, according to the latter's complaint.

This is how they do it, the little exhibitors say. The producers draw up a year's contract in which the little exhibitor agrees to take a certain group or "block" of pictures. In the block are listed two or three first-class films, to be made by good directors and competent players. The rest are merely labeled class A, B, C. The contracting exhibitor never sees them. In order to get any good films at all he must take a lot of stuff he doesn't want. Even a variety of news and other shorts, loaded with free advertising for women's wear and summer and winter resorts, goes with the lot. This method of doing business is called "compulsory block booking and blind selling."

For several years the independent exhibitors have been fighting the "BB and BS." They've had several bills before congress, and have lodged numerous complaints with the Department of Justice. But something always prevents action.

Subverts Morals The neighborhood exhibitors contend that a huge motion picture monopoly subverts the morals of the nation by making racket pictures and sex pictures, when they could just as well make quality film. High-class pictures, they contend, have proved entertaining to the intelligentsia and the rank and file alike.

The "big eight" has two answers to the charges. More or less privately its claim is that the profit it makes from the not so good pictures is necessary to support the high-grade pictures. There would be none of the good if it weren't for the bad, in other words. And publicly, every time the little men go to Washington and start making things hot, the big men announce a new set of reforms, and suggest some more conferences.

Meanwhile in North Dakota the independent exhibitors' group got a law passed prohibiting the showing of pictures by theaters which belong to the producer that made the pictures. Paramount, which is strong in that region, is suing the governor and the attorney general, but the little fellows are swarming like hornets to help the state win.

Last Naval Resort Suicide squadrons of high-speed torpedo boats, to be steered by human pilots head-on against enemy ships, are boasted by Germany and Italy. England probably has them too. Buried in Admiral Leahy's testimony before the United States congress in favor of a mighty navy is mention of a $15,000,000 item for experimentation with small destroyers. The admiral declined to discuss the matter. Naval aviators would like to know if this country too will call for a volunteer death squadron.

In time of peace, definitely no. It would be against the glory and tradition of the United States navy. The suicide boats, say navy men, are the unashamed last resort of an inferior sea power. The mere admission of the existence of such devices is the admission of the fear of defeat. Sending men to certain death, for any cause whatever, is a barbarity wholly repugnant to the navy.

And navy men maintain that the torpedo boats are impractical. The United States fleet will fight its battles far out at sea, perhaps 2,000 miles. The sleds could not be used in usually choppy open water. In Europe, where sea fighting will be at close quarters, it's a different story.

But in the heat of war involving us, no one can say what might be done. If an enemy fleet should succeed in reaching our shores, it would be imperative to attack it with the most destructive weapons obtainable. A few dozen or a few score men sacrificed in torpedoes, made more dead with human minds and eyes, would seem to be a low price to pay for victory in the face of national disaster.

Human Sacrifice Would men volunteer for a work of such hopeless finality? Opinion is they would particularly if stirred

SYNOPSIS

In Spanish-governed California of 1783 a conflict between Church and State is represented by two friendly enemies, frail old Fray Junipero Serra, Franciscan missionary, and Don Pedro Fages, civil governor. After telling Serra he is sending to Mexico for his wife and son, whom he has not seen for eight years, he refuses his aid toward founding the Santa Barbara Mission. In Mexico City, Dona Eulalia, accompanied by her duenna, Angustias, arrives at the embassy in response to a letter from her husband, Don Pedro. She agrees to go to California. Don Pedro sends for Serra, telling him that two priests are on their way from Mexico with Eulalia and young Pedro and that he is leaving to meet them. Fages engages a young Indian girl, Inducela, as maid for Eulalia. Eulalia sails from San Blas. It is a desolate trip. From the port of Loreto, a large cavalcade loaded with Eulalia's party starts out for the long overland trip. Eulalia, accustomed to luxury and comfort, bitterly regrets having been persuaded to come. The two priests, Fray Mariano and Fray Bartolomeo, gull on her and arouse her suspicions as to their genuineness. As the cavalcade stops at various missions, Eulalia hears rumors of the approach of her husband.

CHAPTER VI—Continued

"But, my Lady, allow me—" "Keep your hands off me, sir! I will not move." "But, Senora, see, it is night! We must go on. We must progress!" "Progress! I have done nothing but progress for weeks—months! And I arrive nowhere! Now I will go no farther."

Three Indians, naked except for breech-clouts, panting and shining, entered the camp and stood before the fire. "El Capitan, which is he?" they asked. "I am he. What is your message?" "Senor, El Gobernador, Don Pedro Fages, is camped a day's journey from here. His smoke is yonder in the valley. He sent us to find you, and bid you hasten." "Capitan Canete heaved a great sigh of relief. "Praise God!" he murmured devoutly. Then he detailed three other Indians from his train to make all haste to the Governor's camp. "Tell him we will be with him by nightfall tomorrow," he said. He looked around at the drawn face of the Governor's lady. "And tell him all in my expedition are well, happy, and enjoying the trip!" he added.

CHAPTER VII

Pedro Fages listened to the report of Capitan Canete's Indians and dismissed them that they might eat and rest after their all-night journey. Striding to the spring, the Governor splashed face and head, smoothed his hair with his fingers and wrung his beard. Then, cupping both hands to mouth, he whooped until the silent morning rang and echoed. "Rise, my children! Rise and greet the sun! Rise and say your prayers, and hear the tidings! To the ground."

Indians Were Dispatched Into the Canons for Deer.

night there will arrive here the cavalcade of Capitan Canete . . . Rise, beggars, vagabonds!" Curiosity overcame laziness, and soon the camp was buzzing with anticipatory preparations. The arrival of Canete meant news from home; letters, messages from Spain and Mexico. It meant a festa, for there were women in the Capitan's train, surely the Governor's lady would bring maids! Don Pedro moved with dynamic energy. His eyes glowed, his step was light, his energy boundless and his orders legion. Indians were dispatched into the canons for deer, quail, rabbit, antelope. Others gathered wood and piled a mighty pyre on the beach. At last the Governor, having assigned to each his task, turned to one he would entrust only to himself. A large round tent which had remained rolled and packed on the journey, had been pitched some distance away from the camp. He entered it, and almost fell over a tiny Indian boy, naked as a rabbit, brown as a berry, with wild bright eyes. "Ah, Escabellito! Lazy little one, begone and eat thy tortillas! Wouldst sleep all day?" The child scampered toward the cooking fire, and the Governor went to work with the happy expression of a man performing a labor of love. He began opening bundles that had been a mystery on the trip as they had never been opened, and had taxed the pack-animals to the ears. There were bright blankets of Indian weave, supple serapes in gay colors, skins of mountain lion, wildcat and bear, robes of otter and rabbit. These he spread on the ground until it was covered, arranging and rearranging until their disposal suited his fancy. And as he worked he sang a little soldier's song beneath his breath. Eulalia had seen a painting of a lady of the French court dressed in a green velvet riding habit, with voluminous draped skirt, tight fitting basque trimmed in rich cream lace, on her head a saucy velvet hat with a nodding, sweeping plume. A clever Parisian sempstress, marooned in Mexico City, had copied out all the calumnies of the night before. "So kind that I will ask you to get me one chest from my belongings—a large iron-studded chest—marked with a green cross in a circle." Canete looked at the chests and boxes strapped on the weary burros and opened his mouth. But Eulalia smiled again. The captain approached the animals, searched carefully, then called an Indian who carried the trunk to the lady. Then the train moved on out of sight down the canyon. Eulalia and Angustias unfastened the great lock with little laughing cries of anticipation. Slowly Angustias lifted out a garment, and shook it. It was not velvet, and it was not green. Eulalia gasped. Grimly the duena began throwing things out of the chest on to the ground until it was strewn with garments. But the riding habit was not among them. And the pack-animals were out of sight and sound. Angustias looked fearfully at her mistress whose lip trembled. "What shall I do? Oh, Angustias, what shall I do? I had set my heart on that green velvet!" Angustias braced herself. She could cope with the situation when her lady wept. It was only the cold tearless storms that baffled her. She turned to the scattered garments. "Al, God be praised! Nina, look! This is perfect, here is the little Maja costume. The sweetest, prettiest, most becoming thing you ever had! I haven't laid eyes on it since I left Spain—God bless the place." "Let me see that dress, Angustias." The woman held it up. "Yes, it is charming. I suppose there is nothing else to do. But how you could make such a mistake in the chests, Angustias, I don't know. And I had set my heart on the—"

"Ah, this is better. Much better. The green would not be so becoming to you now since you have grown so tanned—so sunny and brown!" she amended hastily as she heard a snort from the lady. "Yes, yes, it is all here, even the little buckled shoes and the red-cilla. Come, Nina, let us get this on you before it grows too dark to see what we are doing." Eulalia permitted herself to be dressed, at first submitting in sulky silence, then growing interested and at last enthusiastic as the charming little Maja costume was fitted to her. As she fussed, Angustias talked volubly. Eulalia spoke briskly. "Come now, woman, how do I look?" She pulled her little jacket over her bosom and turned slowly around. The tiny fitted jacket was of red with a little white lace collar, and puffs of golden-colored embroidery over the shoulders like epaulettes; the long close-fitting sleeves broke at the wrists with another puffing of satin, then tapered over her hands. A row of jeweled buttons followed the curves of her breast. The gay garment terminated in a short waistline with charming little tabs, the one directly in back sticking jauntily out like a drake's tail. This she wore over a full skirt of many breadths of white satin covered by an overskirt of embroidered tulle that fell just short of her ankles and the buckled shoes. Her hair, except for a few waves in front, was concealed by the red-cilla, typical of the Maja, a knitted cap ending in a long queue and a tassel. Angustias gazed at her in satisfied admiration. "Lovely, lovely Nina. You know you never looked more beautiful. How pleased Don Pedro will be!" (TO BE CONTINUED)

GROWN-UP motion picture players feel terribly neglected these days. They figured that when the first excitement over the animated drawings that make up "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs" was over they would come back into the limelight again. But along came the world's beloved blockhead, Charlie McCarthy, in "Goldwyn Follies" to distract attention from mere humans, and next "The River," a picture without any actors whatever became the talk of the entertainment world. Now mere children have romped in and taken all the attention away from their elders. Judy Garland, Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's fourteen-year-old singing star, is enjoying huge success on a personal appearance tour, and the even-younger Tommy Kelly and Ann Gillis of "Tom Sawyer" have captivated several cities they have visited. They had the great thrill of being received informally at the White House, they visited Mark Twain's home town to place a wreath on his grave, and in between times they saw the sights of New York.

June Lang, Ethel Merman, and Cesar Romero have been flying all over the country attending openings of "In Old Chicago" and audiences were so appreciative of the opportunity to see players face to face that Twentieth Century-Fox plans to stage gala openings for many of their pictures in the future. You won't have to go to Hollywood or New York to attend openings with the stars in the future.

Three young men singers have become big radio favorites in the past few weeks and by next year radio executives figure they will be top-ranking stars. John Carter, who replaced Nelson Eddy on the Charlie McCarthy hour, is an ex-farmer and vaudeville dancer. Felix Knight, who in addition to his own Sunday morning program has been appearing with Leo Reisman's orchestra, comes from Florida, via Hollywood, and is much too young to have had any career other than singing. Glenn Darwin, the rich-toned barytone whom you have probably heard on the Magic Key program, was a famous soprano at the age of nine. He made a record of "Ave Maria" then that is still held up as a model of perfection to choir boys.

Fred Allen used to work in the Boston Public Library, carrying books to the folks who requested them. Eddie Cantor was errand boy for a sausage factory. Phil Baker was secretary to a motion picture producer, Walter O'Keefe was a real estate salesman, and Bob Hope was an automobile mechanic. Joe Penner was a piano salesman and Bob Burns was a plumber's helper. It was an old piece of pipe that he had left over from a job one day that inspired him to invent the bazooka.

HOW to SEW By RUTH WYETH SPEARS

A Colorful Luncheon Set

WE HAVE been hearing a good deal about American handcrafts lately. Of course, quilts have always been important among our needlework handcrafts. So many readers have written asking me for more of the old fashioned embroidery stitches that were used in making crazy patchwork that I have collected dozens and dozens of these quaint stitches from old quilts. Some of them are so attractive and colorful that it seemed a pity not to use them for modern decorative purposes. This gay little double house effect built upon blanket stitches with chain stitches flaunting from all gables was the invention of someone's great-grandmother and I couldn't resist using it for a luncheon set of light blue linen. It originally adorned a light blue satin patch in a quilt and all the other colors indicated here in the sketch are the original colors. All the strands of six-strand mercerized embroidery thread were used for the luncheon set. The mats were hemmed first and then the blanket stitches were taken through the hems to make a firm edge as shown at the lower right. All the other stitches used are clearly illustrated. Just the edge stitches without the little houses were used for the napkins. Many more authentic old patchwork stitches are illustrated in a new leaflet which is free upon request with the booklet offered below. Have you a copy of Mrs. Spears' new book SEWING? ## Finds Parasite That Destroys Black Widows' Eggs; May Control the Creature

Spread of the black widow spider may soon be controlled by the laboratory propagation of a rare and tiny parasitic fly that preys on the egg sac of the spider, writes George Elwood Jenks in Nature Magazine. The fly, known to science as Gaurax aranea, was discovered in Los Angeles about 40 years ago, but apparently was forgotten until Jenks rediscovered it in the spider's egg sacs. Nature has checks on the undue increase of many creatures in the form of parasites, and it is this minute fly that controls the black widow. Probably assisted by settlement, however, the black widow has been increasing in numbers despite the activities of Gaurax. The spider spins her sac about the eggs she deposits and remains on guard throughout the incubation period, but it sometimes happens the parasite evades her watchful eyes and succeeds in laying its own eggs on the surface of the sac. These eggs soon hatch, and the tiny maggots, provided with instinctive knowledge at birth, at once bore through the tough walls of the egg sac to feast on the eggs within. Jenks has experimented in an attempt to propagate this parasite, and has succeeded in raising several thousand under artificial conditions. The main problem at present is the preparation of a synthetic food for the larval flies that will substitute for the egg sacs of the spider. When this problem is solved, he believes it will be possible to propagate the parasites in insectaries by the million for widespread distribution and thus check the increase of the black widow. Duties of Lord Mayor The city of London has a high conception of the dignity of its chief officer and has provided him with a noble residence, but he has to pay for his own window-cleaning and if, during his year of office, any of his windows are broken, he must repair them at his own expense. It is also the lord mayor's responsibility to clean the footway outside the mansion house, and in 1794 the lord mayor then in office fined himself five shillings for not doing so.

RANGE PROGRAM CONTINUES UNDER NEW FARM ACT

The Range Conservation Program under which ranch operators may earn specified payments for practices designed to maintain and improve range land will continue under provisions of the recently passed Agricultural Adjustment Act of 1938 practically the same as under the Agricultural Conservation Programs of 1936 and 1937, according to Geo. Slaughter, Chairman of Texas Agricultural Conservation Committee.

Slaughter summarizes the status of the range program as follows:

The Act includes an allotment of not to exceed 5 per cent of the total appropriation for payments for the range program and non-crop pasture lands.

Under this limitation a program has been devised for the conservation of natural resources on rangelands. The program is essentially the same as the 1937 program under which 15,000 ranch operators controlling 62,000,000 acres participated in Texas. Texas had about one-third of the participation in the entire United States.

The 1938 range conservation program establishes range-building allowances as the maximum amount which ranch operators may earn for approved practices.

In Texas, Oklahoma, Kansas, Nebraska, South Dakota, and California, this allowance is 2 cents an acre on all range land in a ranching unit, plus $1.00 times the grazing capacity.

All the practices approved by which part or all the allowance may be earned are designed to fight erosion by promoting or restoring stands of grass.

They consist of natural reseeding by deferred grazing, better distribution of water sources, run off and erosion control by contour furrowing and other devices, removal of range destroying plants which compete with grass, and the establishment of fire guards.

Specific rates of pay have been established for the various practices outlined. Full details will be sent to all county offices as soon as received in the State.

Slaughter pointed out that the range program is now available for the entire State.

NEW FARM BILL HAS MANY WHEAT PLAN FEATURES

The new AAA Farm Bill just passed by Congress will offer wheat farmers a well-rounded wheat program including acreage allotments, agricultural conservation payments, wheat loans, crop insurance, and marketing quotas. If supplies are so large that quotas are necessary, according to Geo. Slaughter, chairman of the Texas Agricultural Conservation Committee.

The following brief summary of how these provisions in the new farm bill will operate for wheat farmers is given by Slaughter.

The act provides for acreage allotments to wheat farmers each year which will produce enough wheat for domestic consumption and exports and provide a substantial surplus for reserve. The Act will aim to provide a supply each year of around 900 million bushels. Wheat allotments will be made for 1938, but only for the purpose of computing AAA payments to farmers. The act provides that compliance for 1938 shall be checked against the general soil-depleting goal for each farm. The first acreage allotments will apply fully will be those for 1939.

Payments to farmers will be made under the provision of the 1938 Agricultural Conservation Program. The Act also provides for parity payments to farmers but only if specific additional funds are made available for this purpose.

The Act provides that wheat loans are to be made to farmers in any year in which the farm price of wheat on June 15 is less than 52 percent of the parity price of wheat, or in any year in which the July wheat estimates is more than the normal domestic consumption and exports of about 700 million bushels. These loans are to be made by the Commodity Credit Corporation and are to be made at between 52 and 75 per cent of the parity price at the beginning of the marketing year. Loans may be made in 1938 if prices or supplies are within the limits set by the Act.

The Act establishes a Federal Crop Insurance Corporation. This corporation will offer crop insurance to wheat farmers beginning with the 1939 crop. Farmers who store wheat under marketing quotas may use some of this wheat to pay premiums on crop insurance. Under the crop insurance plan farmers can pay premiums in wheat and receive loss payment in wheat.

Marketing quotas are provided in years when the total supplies of wheat exceed approximately 950 million bushels. Marketing quotas when approved by a two-thirds majority of farmers in a referendum, will apply to all commercial wheat growers. Farmers who produce less than 100 bushels of wheat are exempt from the quotas. When there are marketing quotas, each farmer will be asked to hold a part of his crop off the market in order to keep prices from being demoralized. Quotas will not be effective in 1938 unless funds are provided by Congress for parity payments on wheat in 1938.

NOBODY'S BUSINESS

BY JULIAN CAPERS, JR.

NOBODYS BUSINESS—Austin—Participants in the Texas political circus, and observers of that biennial phenomenon likewise, have come to the Ides of March with the situation regarding the race for Governor badly muddled, and Gov. Allred, the key-man, still declining to clarify it by declaring himself in or out of the race for a third term.

The Senate investigating committee after a three day session in Dallas, was to resume here Wednesday, with Attorney General McCraw, and Mrs. McCraw appearing by invitation of the committee, on McCraw's demand. Political observers here agreed that McCraw's appearance before the committee will likely have a quick and decisive effect in shaping up the situation definitely, for it is likely that McCraw, an avowed but as yet unannounced candidate, will make public his formal announcement and his platform. Allred claims he is waiting "to see the platforms" before he makes his declaration. The action of Jim Ferguson is expected to hinge on what Allred decides to do about running. And Ernest Thompson, an announced candidate is quietly making hay by filling speaking engagements and laying down in these speeches a political philosophy which his friends say embodies his forthcoming platform.

conservative Holbrook of Galveston as Chairman, and the erratic Joe Hill of Henderson acting as prosecutor, may do next, and what its effect upon the political fortunes of the various candidates may be remained a matter of speculation. Holbrook, denying any political intentions on the part of himself, pointed out his well known enmity for Allred, and declared he was ready to summon anybody who could throw light on the affairs of the State departments, regardless of their political affiliations or ambitions. Hill has been sniping at the Railroad Commission and Ernest Thompson for some weeks, criticizing the allocation of allowables among the various oil fields, and the Sunday shutdowns. Dissension already has broken out among the Senators on the committee, with Holbrook and Hill apparently lined up together for the time being, and Weinert, Stone and Collie opposing some of their tactics. Collie bitterly criticized Hill and Holbrook for issuing subpoenas for the bank accounts of McCraw and Mrs. McCraw, declaring it was done without his knowledge or consent. Best informed observers here believe that the Dallas session of the investigating committee had done McCraw no harm, and, that if he acquits himself creditably in his personal appearance in Austin this week, he has been helped by the committee's actions.

THOMPSON ALOOF

Remaining aloof from the Allred McCraw battle, and taking advantage of the situation to get in a few effective campaign licks for his own candidacy, Thompson sounded a "key-not in a speech at Wichita Falls, by declaring that talk of balancing the budget can't mend the state financial ills, and said he favored, instead "Budgeting the balance." He pointed out the state's general revenue income increased by $4,000,000 last year, and declared by living within income, this increase would retire the $15,000,000 deficit within four years, without new or additional taxes. "There has been too much running to get something from the Government," he said. "We should remember that government is us you, me, and the other fellow. When we get something from the government, we're getting it from ourselves. The time has come to call a halt to government spending, which has increased 2900 per cent in one generation for state purposes alone."

OKLA. LOSES FED. CASH

Texas politicians who would seek to build a political machine by promises of "pension for everybody" were shocked this week, when they saw Oklahoma, the only other state which rivals Texas in the liberality of its pensions gifts to old folks, cut off from Federal pension grants by the Social Security Board in Washington, until further notice. Alleged mispending of $700,000 of Federal pension money, which investigators said was paid to "perisons clearly not entitled to receive assistance" was given as the cause. No further federal money will go to Oklahoma pensioners pending a thorough investigation and possible revision of the State pension administration. Texas, with 113,000 pensioners drawing benefits, exceeds every other State but Oklahoma in the percentage of oldsters who are drawing benefits. Any substantial increase in the number of Texas pensioners, officials here believe, might bring similar Federal action in the Lone Star state.

CHAIN STORE TAX CASH

Receipts from the State chain store tax, which was inoperative during a two-year court battle and was finally upheld by the State Supreme Court, mounted above the million dollar mark this week, with additional payments yet to be made. A fourth goes to the school fund, and three fourths to the ailing general fund. Many merchants learned with surprise, as the Comptroller began to collect the tax, that owners of a single store are subject to a small tax, the levy increasing with the number of stores. Some of the larger national chain organizations have begun reducing the number of stores in the larger cities of Texas, concentrating their business in a few huge "super-stores" to avoid the maximum tax of $750 per year.

"Don't Run Over My Little Girl"

Dear Driver:

Today my daughter who is seven years old, started to school as usual. She wore a dark blue dress with a white collar. She had on black shoes and wore blue gloves. Her cocker-spaniel, whose name is "Scout," sat on the front porch and whined his canine belief in the folly of education as she waved "goodbye" and started off to the halls of learning.

Tonight we talked about school. She told me about the girl who sits in front of her—the girl with yellow curls—and the boy across the aisle who makes funny faces. She told me about her teacher, who has eyes in the back of her head—and about the trees in the school yard—and about the big girl who doesn't believe in Santa Claus. We talked about a lot of things—tremendously vital, unimportant things; we studied spelling reading and arithmetic—and then to bed.

She's back there now—back in the nursery—sound asleep, with Princess Elizabeth (that's a doll) cuddled in her right arm. You guys wouldn't hurt her, would you? You see, I'm her daddy. When her doll is broken or her finger is cut, or her head gets bumped, I can fix it—but when she starts to school, when she walks across the street, then she's in your hands.

She's a nice kid. She can run like a deer and darts about like a chipmunk. She likes to ride horses and swim and hike with me on Sunday afternoons. But I can't be with her all the time. I have to work to pay for her clothes and her education. So please help me look out for her. Please drive carefully, please drive slowly past the schools and intersections—and please remember, that children run from behind parked cars.

Please, don't run over my little girl.

Everyone Pays

Editorial From Jefferson Templecute

A story on the front page of this newspaper today records the fate of two men who were assessed five-year sentences at Rusk, Texas, having been convicted Tuesday by a jury who gave them the maximum penalty under the law on charges of burning personal property to collect insurance.

Apparently, under the evidence presented at the trial, these two men were guilty of having burned their automobiles, after having wrecked it-they believed they would profit by burning the car and collecting fire insurance. But they paid for this attempted fraud, but unfortunately-everyone who buys a car today also pays . . . and pays . . . and pays This fact Jefferson auto dealers will corroborate.

The story of these two men is typical of what is happening throughout East Texas today. The East Texas region is filled with burned cars. . . insurance companies have paid claims arising out of the destruction of these automobiles by fire—some legitimate accidental fires—a majority of them deliberately caused by persons who thought they could save money and beat the law of averages. Some of these people were paid by insurance companies because there was insufficient evidence against them. But these persons will pay for their mistaken judgement at a later date. . . but meanwhile the public pays. . . and pays.

When a new car is purchased or when a substantial used car is bought today in East Texas the purchaser of the car pays an additional 20 to 30 percent because of those who have deliberately become arsonist in order to try and beat the law of averages—collect money that was not justly theirs in order to save their own pocketbooks. But persons will find that fear of apprehensions—the sight of a policeman's uniform will cause them to cringe when the word "fire" is mentioned. They pay and pay, although the law does not always find the evidence upon which to prosecute. There is a law of averages that a guilty conscience cannot escape.

And the slightest—ever so slight—mistake on the part of a would-be arsonist can bring years and years of imprisonment in the state penitentiary, all for the sake of a few dollars.

And until those who would make East Texas a continued danger zone for insurance companies realize the great personal risk involved—until people realize fully what they are doing when they toss a lighted match on their personal property for the sake of insurance dollars—everyone will continue to pay. . . you and I.

FDA Closes Year With Good Record

Farm financing in this county is evolving from a practice of merely borrowing and repaying money to the practice of planning how to borrow less and meet obligations well in advance. Mr. J. S. McKnight, County Supervisor, Farm Security Administration, said this week in reporting on activities to the end of 1937.

The County Farm Debt Adjustment Committee has helped 21 farmers adjust their indebtedness and is now working with 1 other farmer whose debts are in serious need of attention. The total amount of indebtedness involved was $58,768.00, and covered 2253 acres of local farm land. The committee also reports $1705.00 in taxes paid into the local treasury as a result of this work; and the creditors made a voluntary reduction of $19,923.00 on the debts which were larger than the value of the property involved.

These adjustments were a result of cooperation on the part of both the creditor and debtor, after the supervisor and the county FDA committeemen helped the farmer analyze his problem. This included listing debts and assets to indicate to the creditor that the farmer was doing all he could to meet his obligations in full. "A Majority of farm debts can be economically and satisfactorily adjusted when farmers have some method of learning how to secure equitable financing, and when creditors can be helped to see that the farmer is honestly trying to meet his obligations", Mr. McKnight said. The FDA committee has no money to lend. It can only serve as arbitrator between the two parties, and as a source of financial information for the farmer. It is a section of the Farm Security Administration and serves as an financial advisory council to debt-dispressed farmers.

PIMIENTO BISQUE

The soup described below is delicious. It has a delectable flavor and the rich color of the pimientos gives just the desired red touch to the finished product.

1 can cream of celery soup
1 cup milk
3 pimientos

1 tsp. salt
2 slices of onion
1/4 tsp. paprika

If canned condensed soup is used, prepare according to directions on the label and then add 1 cup of milk. If canned ready-to-serve cream of celery soup is used, pour the contents into a pan and add the cup of milk. Rub the pimientos through a sieve and add to the soup. Add salt, onion and paprika and heat until the soup is hot. Stir frequently to prevent scorching. Remove the onion before serving. Serves 6.

What Is Proper Use of Furniture Polish?

In a recent investigation, it was proven that many, many homemakers use furniture polish incorrectly—pouring it on a dry cloth, for application to the furniture! This is a gross waste of the housewife's time, energy and her polish! And the latter is usually blamed. We refer, of course, to oil polish—for this type is best to clean, beautify and preserve the furniture. The best oil polish is not greasy, because it's made with a fine, light-oil base. The polish should be applied on a damp cloth—thoroughly moistened with water, then wrung out. Saturate this cloth with the polish—spread on—and rub lightly. The "wet" of the cloth smoothly distributes the polish—and the finish absorbs, receives it evenly! This correct procedure takes the "labor" out of polishing—and requires far less tiresome rubbing! A dry cloth is then used to easily work up the glow, which is even and uniform—the desired effect! This—and only this—is the proper way to use a good oil polish!

DORIS DENE'S COLUMN

Can Mere Affection Be a Good Substitute for Love?

DEAR MISS DENE: What do you think of affection as a substitute for love, as far as getting married is concerned? I want to marry but can feel nothing but affection for my future husband. Is there any hope for happiness?—A. W.

ANSWER:—Everything depends on your age, A. W. No one can make hard and fast rules about affectionate marriages in general but a good many points must be considered before undertaking such a relationship.

Young people should marry for love, and no nonsense about it. For while we're young our hope of romance is high and if it is denied us, we yearn for it all our lives and imagine ourselves cheated of life's dearest gift—even though we may be admirably suited to the mates we chose.

No matter how much the modern writers attempt to analyze love into shreds, it must still be for the young, a vital spark, a feeling for which there is no accounting. It is absolutely right that young people should ask themselves practical questions about the mates they have chosen, but before they begin their self cross-examination they should first have experienced something deeper than affection, something beyond reason.

Young people cannot afford to do without the vital spark. They cannot hope to substitute for it, financial security or good solid affection or a satisfactory companionship. They must know something of the first carefree rapture before they can decide to get along without it forever. But men and women of riper years may well marry for reasons other than sheer heart-burning love. A man or a woman who has known love, and the bitterness of renunciation or disillusionment, may find peace and happiness with a tolerant, understanding, sympathetic mate.

Spinsters and bachelors who have been lonely for years find peace and contentment in marriage, even though the tender passion be denied them.

A man may marry for the second time and be as happy with the wife he has chosen to keep him comfortable as he was with his first wife who gave him love. A woman may divorce her husband, whom she once loved passionately, and settle down serenely with a man for whom she has only affection.

Middle-age has learned love's lesson and is willing to compromise with life and take what's offered for contentment's sake. Loneliness and middle-age can make marriage seem a haven of refuge even though it be a marriage of convenience pure and simple.

DEAR MISS DENE: I have quarreled with my mother and now live in an apartment of my own. I seem to be losing my friends. I do not tell them of what has occurred, and so have to make up reasons why they cannot see me in my home. I hate the feeling that everybody is whispering about me. I feel that this quarrel may have cost me dear in more ways than one.—V. D.

ANSWER:—Cast a veil of secrecy over your life, shroud yourself in mystery and at once you set the whole world whispering. And the chances are that the world being what it is, some of the whispers will have a distinctly unpleasant flavor.

If you are going to make a mystery of where you live and why, the more conventional of our friends will begin to shy away like frightened horses. Knowing nothing of the true state of affairs, their imaginations run riot in the attempt to discover why you've suddenly become secretive.

It is better always to tell the truth—however ugly it may sound for the truth at its worst can never compare with the stories your neighbors have already concocted about you.

Since you are living a new sort of life, tell people about it. The minute you give your audience the facts they will cease to conjecture, and on the day the conjecturing stops, your reputation will undergo a change for the better.

A. L.—You have spent so much time and energy in your detective work that one can only congratulate you on the fruit of your labors. A more sympathetic soul than mine would tell you that you had been badly used, but it seems to me that any girl so constantly surrounded with suspicion was bound to get a few wrong ideas in her head.

You have refused to trust her from the minute you met her. You have always accused her of the worst. You have fought down any impulse rising in you to believe that she was worthwhile. Are you surprised that after three years she has decided to put some of your suggestions into practical use?

I believe this is the first time she's ever deceived you and I also believe that if you took her back now, you'd be doing the one thing which would save you both from misery. But you must make up your mind to put away the sleuth's outfit when you marry her. To live with a house-detective is enough to put any woman into the frame of mind where she feels impelled to go out and do some of the things her charming husband has suggested.

Conquering "Hazard Zones"

Above photo illustrates the "hazard zone of motoring." But every other phase of everyday life has its "hazard zones," a few of which are illustrated below. How many can you identify? Answers given by number below.

"Hazard zones" explained: (1) the "hazard zone" affecting millions of children improperly reared in metropolitan slum districts; (2) the "hazard zone" of floods, still unconquered despite great engineering progress; (3) the "hazard zone" of medicine, the common cold from which no one is yet immune; (4) baseball's "hazard zone," the pitch that sometimes hits a batter, like it hit Mickey Cochrane last year; and (5) the "hazard zone" of fire fighting, rural areas out of the fire apparatus' range.

Another "hazard zone," undeclared war. Example: "Panay" sinking.

On a hundred battlefronts, scientists seek ways of combating hidden dangers that menace health and happiness—the unconquered "hazard zones" of everyday life. Prof. John M. Lessells of Massachusetts Institute of Technology (left) and Dr. Miller McClintock of Harvard university's traffic research bureau, declare rainy, slippery pavements are the "hazard zone of motoring." Professor Lessells, authority on friction, believes he can eliminate this evil by—in effect—placing a battery of windshield wipers under the car!

Progress in Tuberculosis

By DR. JAMES W. BARTON
© Bell Syndicate.—WNU Service.

ANYONE who has regularly visited a relative or friend at a tuberculosis sanatorium learns the names of patients in adjoining rooms and wards, and can see the progress toward recovery or otherwise from week to week.

Of course the physician can see the record of each patient—the range of temperature, the amount of coughing, the amount of daily sputum, the number of times he breathes in a minute, and finally the X-ray film which shows whether the tuberculosis process is spreading, healing, or standing still.

From the above he is able to tell the patient, or the family, just what to expect—three months, six months, or a year to recovery, or it may be just a matter of months before he passes away, notwithstanding all that can be done by way of food, fresh air, rest, or collapsing the lung by artificial air or by surgery to give it rest.

What should help the patient to fight and family to hope, despite all the other signs, symptoms, and tests, is recorded by Dr. Allan S. Kennedy of Mountain sanatorium, Hamilton, Canada, in the Canadian Medical Association Journal. Dr. Kennedy states that the blood pressure—low or high—will give the physician a correct idea of the progress of the patient.

"It is an accepted fact that active and progressing tuberculosis of the lungs is accompanied by lowering of the blood pressure."

"It is generally believed that tuberculosis patients with high blood pressure have very little tuberculosis, or, in any case, tend to heal the tuberculosis more quickly than people with normal or low blood pressure."

Response to Cold Tells.
The response of the blood pressure to cold—a test taken every few months, will show whether or not the patient is improving.

Dr. Kennedy outlines the method used on 80 patients to obtain the blood pressure response to cold—putting hand and wrist of one side in near-freezing water for 25 seconds—while blood pressure is taken on other arm.

If the blood pressure response is poor—does not increase a definite amount—the patient is not improving; if the response is good the patient is putting up a winning fight against tuberculosis.

For Underweight Child.
Some mothers are naturally distressed when they find that despite the amount and the variety of food eaten by their youngsters they still remain underweight. If the youngster is wiry or resembles one of the parents in being underweight at his age, not much is thought of it, but often there is no history of extreme underweight on either side.

If abundant amounts of meats, vegetables and fruits have been given to maintain body structure and also liberal amounts of bread, butter, milk and cream to provide energy and store up a little fat, with no proper amount of increase in weight, there is something wrong with the youngster and he should be examined by the family physician and dentist.

For instance, there may be a history of thyroid trouble in the family and the youngster may be an early thyroid case. Should this be so, the amount of food eaten may be quite large, yet there will be no increase in weight; the youngster continues to be underweight.

Another cause of underweight is infection of teeth and tonsils. So much of the body's energy is being used to fight this infection that there is not enough left for proper growth aside from any increase in weight. Sometimes the youngster will play so hard and so long, perhaps stay up so late at night, that he is actually tired all the time and the food eaten is not fully absorbed into the blood.

When the cause for underweight has been removed—fatigue, goitre, infected teeth or tonsils—then what is called the upbuilding diet should be used. This includes all the usual foods—proteins (meat, eggs, fish, poultry, cereals), all the starch foods—(bread, sugar, potatoes), all the fat foods (cream, butter, egg yolks), and the minerals and vitamins (fruits, vegetables, dairy products). The next point is to give increased amounts of the foods known to be fattening; "an extra tablespoonful of butter with each meal adds 300 calories, and improves the flavor of cereals, vegetables, and desserts without being noticeable when used as a seasoning. A tablespoon of thick cream on cereal, or whipped cream on dessert, and of mayonnaise dressing on salad, will add 300 calories more. One or two tablespoons of olive oil at bedtime furnish 100 or 200 more calories and may help relieve constipation.

HEADLINES FROM THE LIVES OF PEOPLE LIKE YOURSELF!

"Hell Underground"

By FLOYD GIBBONS Famous Headline Hunter

HELLO, EVERYBODY:

Here's a detective who had a hobby. And because he had a hobby, he caught a man. And because he caught a man, he came mighty darned near losing his life. The way I've set that down makes it sound a little like that old nursery favorite of yours and mine, "The House That Jack Built." But as a matter of fact, it's "The Story That Jack Told." Fellow Adventurers, meet Jack Shea of New York City. And listen to the yarn he's going to spin us.

In the spring of 1922, Jack was working for a well-known detective agency. He told me the name, but he wants me to leave it out, because—well—detective agencies don't like too much publicity about the cases they handle. This agency sent him out on a case for which he was especially adapted.

Jack's hobby is fungi—you know, mushrooms, toadstools and the like. The job he was to do was to run down a fellow named Fritz—last name also omitted by request—a fellow six feet two inches tall, light complexion, military bearing and—like Jack—interested in fungi.

Found His Man in a Michigan Mine.

Jack traced Fritz to an address in Camden, N. J., and from there to St. Louis, Mo. From there the trail led through Chicago, Milwaukee, Hancock, Mich., and finally ended in Calumet, Mich., where Jack was told that Fritz was working in a copper mine called the Quincy shaft.

It was the spring of 1923, a year after he had started, when Jack finally got to the same town his man was in. But still he didn't know what the man looked like. He got a job as assistant timekeeper at the mine and began looking the miners over.

Then, one day, Jack found a bed of fungi down in the mine shaft. He picked up a handful of them and carried them to the surface. He carried them around until he saw a man who answered Fritz's general description eyeing the fungi with interest. He stopped Jack and told him the species was poisonous and shouldn't be eaten. Then Jack was pretty sure he had his man spotted.

Ready to Bring It Down on Jack's Cranium.

Jack stood talking to the man for a while. They got along great because they had a common interest. Before they parted they made an appointment to go down into the mine on the following Sunday to look for fungi. They took one of the stationary engineers into their confidence and he agreed to lower them down in a mine car.

Down 7,200 Feet Into the Earth.

That Sunday they met at the mine entrance at 10:30 a. m. The stationary engineer—a fellow named Barry—was there, too. They climbed into the car and were soon at the bottom, 7,200 feet below the surface.

"We explored the bottom of the mine for about a quarter of a mile," says Jack, "with carbide lamps on our hats and wearing rubber coats. The temperature was about a hundred degrees, since the farther you go down the warmer and more humid it gets. When we had been there about twenty-five minutes and had found a few specimens of fungus, we returned to the car for the trip back.

"As we got into the car I noticed a copper ingot lying on the floor and wondered how it got there. Those ingots weigh about forty pounds apiece and come in a size that can be conveniently stacked along the railroad sidings for shipment. I took the top seat, way up in the front of the car. Fritz took the second seat from the rear end where the bells and buttons which signalled the engineer were attached. The car started moving and went half way up the slope, drawn by the metal cable from above. Then it stopped suddenly. I didn't know it then, but Fritz had halted it with a signal."

He Was About to Brain Jack.

When the car stopped Jack turned to look at Fritz. That move saved his life. For there was Fritz, the copper ingot in his hands, holding it high above his head, ready to bring it down on Jack's own cranium. Somehow he had found out that Jack was a detective out to get him—and he was going to get Jack first if he could.

"I ducked," says Jack, "and the ingot hit me a glancing blow on my left shoulder. I was stunned for a minute, nevertheless. My senses left me, but I must have fought on automatically, for when I came to again I found myself half out of the car gripping the edge with my fingers while Fritz was trying to break my grip and throw me over the side.

"Usually I carried a small automatic revolver, but this time I had orders to bring my man back alive and hence carried a different sort of weapon. It was a .25 caliber gun loaded not with ordinary bullets but a cartridge that carried a chemical compound instead of a bullet. "When it heated it flowed over the flesh in a good imitation of blood.

"I got that gun out and fired it. It gave a loud report and sprayed Fritz's hands with the concoction. When he saw that he said, 'Stop—I'm shot' and gave up the battle."

Fritz didn't know he actually hadn't been shot until he was back at ground level again and Jack had him safely locked up in a mine storeroom. Later he was taken to the local jail and, later still, extradited to the state that wanted him for trial. "He was sentenced to jail for twenty years at hard labor," says Jack, "but that doesn't half make up for the forty years' growth he scared me out of."

Royal Dreams Typified by Palms

The desire of every man to be a king is typified by Rio de Janeiro's great number of royal palms. Dom Joao, king at the beginning of the Nineteenth century, had planted the first seed of the royal palm himself and ruled that the tree was to be exclusively his. To preserve his monopoly he ordered every seed from it gathered up and burned, but the residents of Rio who wanted to imitate royally bribed his slaves to sell the seeds. As a result royal palms soon sprang up everywhere.

Deep-Red Rubies From Siam

Many of the best rubies have been found in Siam in the provinces of Krat and Chantaboon, where are located the principal ruby mines of that country. The stones are usually found in detrital matter about 20 feet below the surface. The ruby-bearing gravel is less than a foot in thickness and lies between a clay bed and a heavy covering of coarse sand. The usual color of the Siam rubies is dark red, running almost to a blackish shade of

Stage Superstitions

An actress must find or have a rabbit's foot given her; it is fatal to buy one. It is bad luck to whistle in the dressing room or put shoes on a shelf. An umbrella opened over the head is, of course, the worst kind of a thing—but it is all right to open it downwards. Cats bring good luck, especially black ones. A potato in the pocket shields from misfortune. Next to breaking a mirror, bringing peacock feathers into the theater is a calamity, and many an actor will grow faint at the sight of one.

Doulton Ware

Doulton ware was non-existent in the early years of the Nineteenth century. The pottery works were established by John Doulton at Vauxhall in 1815. It was afterward carried on by Doulton and Watts, who some years later transferred to High street, Lambeth, England. The application of art to pottery by the Doulton company began in 1870, and during succeeding years this art was gradually perfected.

LESSON

Lesson for March 6

SERVING WITH WHAT WE HAVE

LESSON TEXT—Mark 6:1-13. GOLDEN TEXT—Such as I have give I thee.—Acts 3:6. PRIMARY TOPIC—When Jesus went home to Nazareth. JUNIOR TOPIC—On a Journey for Jesus. INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Serving With What We Have. YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Serving With What We Have.

One of the difficulties we mortals face in dealing with spiritual things is that we interpret things in the realm of the spirit according to the principles and measurements of the physical world. We are quick to say "We cannot" on the basis of logical human reasoning, when an appreciation of the power of God operative on our behalf would enable us to say "We can," and having left God out of our thinking we find that indeed we cannot.

The lesson before us presents two pictures from our Lord's second visit to his home country, Nazareth. On His first visit they had tried to thrust Him over the precipice, and He in all the glory and poise of the Son of God had walked through their midst and gone His way. Now He comes again with His disciples. We then see how His home folk virtually made the power of the omnipotent God impotent because of their unbelief. On the other hand we see the weakness of men made mighty because of obedience to the command of God.

1. The Paralysis of Unbelief (vv. 1-6).

The world, the flesh, and the devil have brought forth a dark list of wicked things, but perhaps the most destructive and distressing of all is the foundation sin of unbelief. When we think back to the underlying reason for any sin or weakness in man it will be found that there is a failure to believe God. Men do not believe what He says about sin and its penalty, nor do they believe Him when He offers them grace and strength for victory.

At Nazareth the unbelief which limited the Son of God revealed itself in two questions—

1. "Whence hath this man these things?" (v. 2).

They could not deny His mighty works so they turn their attack on His person. "Is not this the carpenter?" (v. 3). Essentially this was envy, "the difficulty of acknowledging the superiority over themselves of one of their own number" . . . (Morgan).

We are ashamed of the attitude of the men of Nazareth, but we follow in their footsteps. Heavy among the burdens a Christian worker must bear is the unbelief and ridicule of his own people. Because a man has sold us groceries, or painted our house or driven a taxi in our town we cannot see how he could ever be a preacher or a missionary. Well, he can, and it is such folk that God often calls.

2. "What is this wisdom?" (v. 2).

The wisdom of Jesus was the wisdom of God (John 7:16). But how could they know that? How can we know? In John 7:17 Jesus gave the answer: "If any man will do his will, he shall know of the doctrine, whether it be of God, or whether I speak of myself." We see then that the reason for their unbelief was really an unwillingness to do the will of God. The controlling motive of their life was wrong. Had they been moved by a desire to do God's will, and a purpose to live in accordance therewith (even though there might have been failure in that earnest effort), they would have known that Jesus had His wisdom from God.

The principle is just as true today; no man will long be in doubt who really wants to do God's will in his life.

II The Power of Divine Commission (vv. 7-13).

Just as unbelief hinders even the Son of God, so faith in God and obedience to His command makes of weak and poorly equipped men the mighty servants of God. In fact, their very dependence on Him for all things sets them free to devote themselves fully to the ministry of preaching and healing.

Note that they went "two by two." We have forgotten that divine plan, and often send men into remote and dangerous pioneer work—alone. Man needs fellowship; he needs counsel and control.

Consider also how they were to learn to trust God for their daily sustenance (vv. 8,9). They suffered no lack (see Luke 22:35). These rules for the life of religious workers were modified later (Luke 22:36); but the principle remains the same—the man or woman who is not ready to depend on God for everything had better not set out to follow Him. It is a blessed and delightful life!

The same is true of the power given the disciples. They ministered in the days of beginning of the Gospel and God gave them special powers which are not needed in our day. But it is still true that the power for service which we so much need today must come from God. All our labors are in vain without His blessing. "Except the Lord build the house they labor in vain that build it" (Ps. 127:1).

TIPS to Gardeners

Seed Treatment

SEEDS are sometimes treated to hasten germination or to combat disease. The following practices are recommended by Harold N. Coulter, vegetable expert of the Ferry Seed Institute.

For more rapid germination: Chip or nick the seed coat of the following flower seeds: Lathyrus (perennial sweet pea), the lupins, moonflower, all morning glories, and annual sweet peas. Be careful not to damage the interior of the seed.

Remove the tough outer shell of abronia (sand verbena), castor bean, nasturtium, and momordica. Soak the following flower seeds in water for 12 hours: Canna lily, Job's tears, sweet pea, all morning glories, and momordica.

For preventing disease: Soak the following vegetable seeds in hot water at exactly 122 degrees F. for precisely 30 minutes to combat black rot and black leg: Broccoli, brussels sprouts, cabbage, cauliflower and collards.

"THIS 'MAKIN'S' TOBACCO TASTES BETTER ALL THE TIME!"—SAYS ED DURRELL TO HIS WIFE

PRINCE ALBERT THE NATIONAL JOY SMOKE. 70 fine roll-your-own cigarettes in every 2-oz. tin of Prince Albert. ED DURRELL is about to get some real smokin' comfort as he settles down and fixes himself a mild, tasty Prince Albert "makin's" cigarette. Says Ed to his better-half, Eugenia: "This P. A. 'makin's' tobacco tastes better all the time. Plenty of rich body, yet it's real mild on the tongue and there's no bitter taste." Says Mrs. Durrell: "Well, if it tastes as good as it smells, I can understand why you and your friends praise Prince Albert." (A tip for you pipe-smokers, too!)

Citizenship A natural born citizen of the United States does not lose his citizenship by living abroad, no matter how long he stays there, unless he renounces it by becoming naturalized in the country of his choice.

BE SURE OF YOUR SEEDS

YOUR seeds need not be one of the uncertainties of gardening, thanks to the work of the unique Ferry-Morse Seed-Breeding Institute. Here's how the Institute's seed experts produce dependable, prize-winning Ferry's Seeds:

First—seed stocks are perfected by generations of breeding and selecting to develop desired characteristics and to eliminate weaknesses.

Second—every year, before Ferry's Seeds are packeted, 50,000 tests for germination are made—and samples are tested for trueness to type.

Choose vegetable and flower seeds you can be sure of—from the Ferry's Seeds display in your favorite store. These seeds have been selected as suitable to your locality. 5¢ a packet and up. Ferry-Morse Seed Co., Detroit, San Francisco.

Don't experiment with Children's Colds

Relieve Their Misery This Proved Way

WHEN your child comes down with a cold, you can't afford to take needless risks. Use the treatment that has been doubly proved for you—Vicks VapoRub. It has been proved by everyday use in more homes than any other medicine of its kind—further proved by the largest clinical tests ever made on colds. (Full details in every VapoRub package.) Only Vicks give you proof like this.

Vicks VapoRub is direct external treatment. There's no dosing—no risk of spoiling appetite, or disturbing a delicate digestion. VapoRub can be used freely, as often as needed, even on the youngest child. You simply massage VapoRub on throat, chest, and back (as illustrated). Then—to make its long-continued double action last even longer—spread a thick layer on the chest and cover with a warmed cloth. No Long Waiting for Relief to begin... Almost before you finish rubbing, the youngster begins to feel warm and comfortable as VapoRub goes to work direct through the skin like a poultice. At the same time its medicated vapors, released by the warmth of the body, are carried direct to the irritated air-passages with every breath. This double action loosens phlegm—relieves irritation and coughing—helps break up local congestion. And long after the little one relaxes into restful sleep, VapoRub keeps right on working—hour after hour. Often by morning the worst of the cold is over.

In this day of social and economic change I believe it is desirable to have a young man in office. I am young enough to have progressive ideas which have characterized recent leaders in our government yet old enough to pass mature judgement on the vital issues which come before members of the legislature.

If the voters of the 107th district see fit to send me to the legislature and launch me upon a career of public service fulfilling one of my lifelong ambitions, I am confident that I will not disappoint my constituents and will strive to give the people of the district one of the best, most honest, and sincere representations they have ever had in Austin.

associated with my father of the Rising Star Record, I have studied the problems peculiar to Eastland and Callahan counties until I believe I am as familiar with conditions here as any man in the district.

Some seek election for political reasons, other enter for personal gain. Still others are motivated by the unselfish desire to serve the people when seeking election to public offices.

Such a desire to be of service prompts me to announce for the office of representative to the legislature from the 107th floratorial district of Eastland and Callahan counties. My life has been spent in preparing myself to be a public servant. In asking for the office, the first elective post I have ever sought, I am beginning a career dedicated to public service.

Realizing that no public officer is worth the pay he draws nor the confidence of his constituents unless he is qualified for the office he holds, I have been preparing myself until the time should come when I would announce for representative to the legislature from Eastland and Callahan counties. Living in Rising Star for the past 14 years where I was

WHEN you have those awful cramps when your nerves are all on edge—don't take it out on the man you love.

It helps Nature tone up the system, thus lessening the discomforts from the functional disorders which women must endure in the three ordeals of life: 1. Turning from girlhood to womanhood. 2. Preparing for motherhood. 3. Approaching "middle age."
