

Last Saturday the local troop of the Scouts raised $112.50 in their drive for funds. Scoutmaster James Crumley said this money would be used to purchase camping supplies and materials needed in about work.

The Scouts used a novel manner of raising funds. During the day the youths picked the traffic, and although in fun, some insight into civic administration was imparted to them. Also a "kangaroo" court was held in which trumped up charges were presented and tried. There again, although in fun, the youths got a vision of their future civic responsibilities.

JUDGE TOM BREWER presided at the Bar of Justice and the days of Judge Roy Bean. "Law West of the Pecos" were relived, much to the delight of those who visited the court. Among those tried was "Fat" Blairington, our jolly new cafe manager formerly of Tahoka. Fat was charged with serving greens without pepper sauce. Judge Brewer threw the book at him on that serious crime; also tried were C R Burleson, Watson Wilson as well as scores of others. Ya Writer of Truth got nabbed by the act and charged and tried with putting pepper (red) in the ink which is used in printing the index which causes great discomfort to young and old when the index is used for other than reading.

At the regular meeting of the City Council the group voted to renominate for election the following councilmembers: John Earles, E. T. Wells, and Hoot Gibson (who is serving out the unexpired term of C. H. Doak). The annual City election will be held April 2nd, the first Tuesday in April.

AN OPTIONAL TICKET will probably be filed to appear on the Official ballot. The deadline is near for filing. A petition addressed to the City Secretary, and bearing the names of the nominees with signatures of five qualified voters is necessary for appearing on the ballot or a candidate may file his name in person with no signatures required.

A. C. Hamilton will be election judge. Of course the officials of our town are elective but in a true sense of being elective the election should be contested, and a good portion of the town vote in same. Last city election over 150 votes were cast in the contest at which time a two ticket ballot was presented; prior to that city elections drew from 7 to 15 votes. Nuff Said!

In towns of our size it is not uncommon for a group to initiate a write in campaign. Although this is legal, and at times may serve a useful purpose, the index believes this practice, especially if used by "controlled" voters, is unfair. Names of candidates should be announced well in advance of election and the qualifications carefully considered, and the voters vote only on the names appearing on the ballot. Any other system voids the democratic ideal of mass decision of the unpredicated voting mass.

The talking of personalities in any local election is so unexcusable as to deserve no comment — especially in a city of school board election where members serve without pay and do their best. However, officials of the greatest talent should always be selected, if necessary, drafted. Serving on local boards is a civic obligation a citizen owes, and there should be a rotation of officials.

FROM CITY secretary Thomas Vandell we learn that some 144 water meters have been connected within the past two years. If you see your baby every day you do not "see" his daily growth as much as if only seen at intervals. So to many of us the steady growth of our village is an eye-opener. Roughly figuring 44 meters to homes here before 1945 who added water, we have approximately 100 new housing units in the past 2 years. The estimate is not correct but near enough. Again estimating 3 members to a family we get 300 new residents to our town. The 1940 census listed O'Donnell at 1187. It would not be surprising, if a census was taken today, that we would have from 1500 to 1600 residents. Although our big brother, Lamesa, has doubled from 6,000 to an estimated 12,000, O'Donnell is growing safely with a sound future, there are no indications that we are outgrowing our trade area.

Being a Swamp-Rooter from who laid the chunk, the writer attaches certain like qualities to the West Texas tumble weeds. That howly weed is almost human as you drive along at night seeing them bounce along before you pushed by a brisk wind. As native as tumble weeds are "native" native of West Texas. West Texans are as different from East Texans as are natives of Louisiana different from Maine. As we see it West Texans are more free in accepting and welcoming the strange into his community — becoming good friends in a relative short time, which is fine; they are not noisy to your past as the boys are in the Rain Belt; folks on the Plains measure a man as to a man's standards and not his bank roll, social status, etc.; and lastly a simple observation; they are free to treat the group, friend or stranger, to coffee or buy you a meal. In our former stomping grounds, money, even in an era of good times, was hard to come by. Of course West Texans have gone thru dark and the troubled economic years, but the conservative habit soon drops away as the need passes. (As strictly an aside, however, the index does know one East Texan here who still wears his spurs — Know Who??? Eh?)

WE ARE GLAD of the opportunity of rearing our boys as West Texans and feel this great land of the Plains will enrich their character, and mold their lives in the fashion of the men here who we admire.

The penalty and interest on tax payments is only 1-1/2 percent for this month, and if payments are made now instead of later consideration of interest will be saved as the penalty and interest grows each month. Respectfully Submitted,

CITY SIGNS FOR LIGHTS

At the regular monthly meeting of the City council Thursday, the aldermen present voted and signed contracts with the Texas Electric Company to install and service six of the new type mercury vapor street lights to be placed on the biway running the two blocks of the business section. Because of the stated rate of 1-1/2 cents per K. W. in the contract instead of a flat rate 2 voting majority of the City dad's were fearful the lighting bill would be over the planned budget. A compromise was reached and the plan originally for 11 lights was dropped to 6. Electric officials estimated the annual monthly bill would average not more than $2.80 per light. It is believed that the original program of 11 lights will be effected when city officials are assured of the ultimate cost.

Keep It Under Your Hat NEGRO HOLDS OPEN SEASON WITH GUN

Saturday nite Deputy Charley Wells had an entertaining nite of it playing hide and seek in the Flats with a negro wanted for questioning in the shooting of a negro woman earlier that nite. Charley said he was on the "seeking" end of the game. It seems that James Dickson used the business end of a single barrel gun on Irene Galloway, shooting a considerable sized gap in the woman's head. The locale of the fight was a negro cafe in the Flats. When Charlie arrested the man the barrel of the gun had a decided curve in it which might be paraphrased using the nursery rhyme of "Amen, Brother Ben, shot a goose and killed a hen". Anyway the woman was carried to a hospital and is recovering while her boy friend went to jail; which makes a good end to a buck-shot story.

Several Sets of Accessories Lend Variety to Slim Wardrobe

By Erlta Haley

WHEN well-dressed women give tips on how they manage their wardrobe planning, most of them will tell you that one of the easiest ways to have several different sets of accessories for well chosen basic clothes.

If your budget this spring permits only one suit or one dress, don't despair. Either of these will do the work for several different occasions, provided the accessories are chosen with care.

It's surprising how many of these clever accessories can be whipped together at home. I've been noticing how many smart hats have been turned out at home during an evening or two, or how hats could be changed from season to season with a bit of fresh veiling, or a sprig of flowers, and how gloves can take on new glamor when some interesting detail is sewed on their cuffs.

Start right now to add little springlike touches to your clothes and see how much fun it is to do. You might begin by adding a pert bow to your hat out of grosgrain ribbon or one of the new prints. Then carry the print theme a little further by making cuffs on your gloves of the same material. Have everything cleaned and pressed perfectly so that you will look starchily and neat, and, of course, spring-like!

If you have some good basic dresses, remove their gold, silver and sequin trimmings. Use in their place some crisp ruffling which may be purchased by the yard, or some dainty lingerie trim.

Blouses and Dickies
Add Wear to Suits

As you probably know, there's no limit to what may be done with accessories for suits. First of all, you have a choice of several blouses and dickies to wear with the suit, and I would suggest that you have several colors to use with it. Don't concentrate on white blouses or dickies, for you can add more variety to the wardrobe by several colors.

A navy blue suit, for example, not only will look well with white, but also may be worn effectively with yellow, kelly green or chartreuse and even pink. Blouses and dickies frequently can be made from scraps of material or from dresses that are too worn to serve as such any longer.

If you are making a special blouse or a dicky for your suit, then try to save a few pieces of material that can be worked into a decorative handkerchief or perhaps a bow or trimming for your hat or even your gloves. These little touches tie the outfit together and enhance its appeal.

Touches of white add greatly to a costume, and may be worked into the wardrobe in cuffs and collars, ruffle trimmings and gloves. Keep them well laundered so they will always be fresh.

Use Old Hat Frames
For New Hats

If you have purchased hats carefully with an eye to good line, there's no reason why these cannot be used over and over again. Hat frames may be covered with scraps of material from dresses, blouses and suits. Make a purse from the same material to match, and you have a fresh start on accessories.

Brown and White

Some of the large-brimmed picture type hats which are very seasonal will yield their fullest in wear if you keep changing them slightly every season with fresh veiling or flowers. If hats need a stiff brushing or cleaning, this frequently can be accomplished at home. Take lessons from the milliner in draping veils properly, and never make them look skimpy.

If you don't feel quite confident of your own ability to remodel a hat, or if you have a lovely piece of felt which you would like converted into a useful and up-to-date head dress, it will be more economical to take it to a professional milliner than to buy a new hat.

It's often possible to change the way you wear a hat, accompanied by a change in hairdress and have it look new and fresh.

If you have a good basic dress, don't neglect to have several belts with it, selected, of course, to harmonize or contrast with the dress. Belts and peplums made out of scarves are easy to sew together at home and are some of the little touches that add interest and change in a dress.

Handbags, too, frequently may be made at home to harmonize with the costume. Save old frames after their fabric wears, and use these as a basis for a new bag.

All these details may be tied together with costume jewelry, much of which can be made at home after purchasing inexpensive wherewith-all from which to make them.

Laundering Aids

If the water for laundering in your vicinity is a little on the hard side and you find it difficult to get suds in your wash tub, try adding a little ammonia or borax to soften it. There are also several good types of water softeners on the market.

Use mild soaps for ordinary laundering and use flake or chip soap for the washing machine.

White cottons and linens can withstand a moderate use of soap without turning yellow. They usually may be boiled without injuring them.

Only gentle soaps should be used on colored cottons and they should never be washed in too hot water. Never hang in sun.

Silks and rayons take mild soap and lukewarm or cool water. Never rub or twist them while washing or you will break the fibers.

Three rinses are necessary for most types of clothing if you really want to remove all the soap from them.

Fashion Forecast

Slim hiplines are being accented with loose swinging jackets, especially of the bolero variety.

Jewelry shown with prints needs to be chosen very carefully. It's supposed to add glitter, but must be in good taste, the kind that strikes you in the face. Consider it as a very important part of the costume.

Dull silver is replacing gold in jewelry, it seems. This is particularly effective on the pastel woollens, but gold is still the best choice for black.

Bumper hats which can be dressy as required for some occasions such as weddings will have their spree too, so if you're the type for this hat, investigate its possibilities.

UNEASY OVER FLIGHTS

WASHINGTON—The splurge of recent air crashes is causing considerable worry to the secret service agents responsible for the life of the President.

The secret service is afraid the day may come when the President's special plane, "The Sacred Cow," also may encounter bad weather or mechanical trouble. They also know something about the President's propensity for taking off, rain or shine, and it keeps them awake at nights thinking about it. When he wants to go some place, he simply goes.

Result is that a quiet campaign is under way inside the secret service to persuade the President to abandon air travel generally. They want him to take the train—as President Roosevelt did on almost all occasions.

FDR enjoyed train travel. It rested him and gave him a chance to get caught up with his correspondence. Truman, however, loves the speed of an airplane. He can get to Kansas City in four hours whereas it would take him two nights and a day by train.

The secret service has never recovered from the scare it received on Christmas, 1945, when Mr. Truman flew home to Independence in weather that had grounded all commercial airlines. However, the President is a hard man to persuade, and his secret service bodyguards are not any too optimistic about the chances of keeping him grounded.

AIR CRASHES

Despite the recent series of air crashes, fact remains that commercial air lines hung up twice as good a safety record in 1946 as in 1945. Although the total number of aircraft fatalities increased, it is important to recall that the airlines flew twice as many passenger miles in '46. This cut the fatality rate in half.

Another factor most people overlook is that the Civil Aeronautics authority, which regulates commercial flying, is operating in the face of a pinch-penny congressional appropriation. Despite the small appropriation, CAA worked out a bad-weather instrument-landing system which has now been adopted by every country, including the Russians.

ARMY EDUCATION

Public opinion expert George Gallup proved to the last decimal point that more men would enlist in the army and navy if military authorities had "a system whereby educational training in the service would count toward high school or college diplomas."

The army's information and education branch was glad to hear that they should educate servicemen, but they want to know one thing: Who's going to educate Dr. Gallup?

What he apparently doesn't know is that the United States Armed Forces institute makes every conceivable type of study course available to any soldier, sailor, marine or coastguardsman who wants it.

More than 1,000,000 men already have acquired schooling via USAFI. Also, they've got credit for it. In the last year alone, 20,000 servicemen received high school diplomas via the army. These diplomas and USAFI's college courses are accepted for credit by almost every school in the country.

Gallup goes on to make the weird statement that army authorities question the idea of the army's going into the business of general education.

Clearly, none of Gallup's scorekeepers asked the secretary of war or power-packed Gen. "Buck" Lanham, head of the army's information and education branch, about this. They not only don't question it, but they do it: sending teachers and books and quizzes and lessons by the thousands all over the world.

BACKSTAGE NAVY LOBBY

White House insiders report that brain trust Clark Clifford is having a tough time drafting an army-navy merger bill for congress that will both carry out the President's ideas and not offend the brass hats.

President Truman wants it clearly stated in the bill that there will be a secretary of national defense, with full cabinet rank, and three under-secretaries with sub-cabinet rank, representing the army, navy and air forces.

The latter, however, is not at all what the brass hats want. They want full cabinet rank for each arm of the service—in other words, three new cabinet members.

CAPITAL CHAFF

Alert Senator Brewster of Maine, giving colleagues an off-the-record report of his Latin American trip, disclosed that British agents are selling British planes all over Latin America and outselling the USA. They are taking orders for delivery on jet planes which will be far ahead of our transports. In two years, Brewster predicts, the British will force Latin Americans to use British-type instruments for landing, making it hard for Americans to operate on the same fields.

THE GOOD SHEPHERD

LESSON TEXT—John 10:7-18. MEMORY SELECTION—I am the good shepherd; the good shepherd giveth his life for the sheep.—John 10:11.

An open door! How inviting! Jesus had just been talking to the man once blind (John 9) who had seen the temple door closed against him. It shut him out from all the sacred traditions of his people, but it turned him to Jesus, who presents himself in our lesson as "the door of the sheep."

I. The Door of the Sheep (vv. 7-10).

The preceding verses of chapter 10 are important, for they identify Jesus as the true Shepherd. He speaks of his people as his sheep.

Flocks were sometimes kept in the field at night, as was the case on the night when Jesus was born in Bethlehem. But ordinarily they were brought into a sheepfold, where many flocks gathered for protection. A shepherd was on guard at the door. Thieves would climb the wall to steal sheep, but the true shepherds, when they came in the morning to lead forth their flocks, entered by the door. They called out their own flock by name.

It is said that only sick sheep will follow a stranger, which may explain why so many false isms of our day appeal to the sick and lead them away from the Good Shepherd.

Do you know his blessed voice? Have you responded to his call? Will you follow him? Decide now.

Consider the beautiful figure of the shepherd as the door of the sheepfold. When the sheep enter the fold to rest, he is the door. When they are ready to go out to feed in green pastures again, he is the door.

Note that they go in and out. Belonging to Christ is not bondage. If any man enter in by Christ, the Door, he is free to go in and out, to find pasture, to live for and to serve him.

"The Door"—what a striking figure! It is a means of entry, the only way in. Every door has two sides and the side we are on determines whether we are inside or outside—saved or lost. Children often sing:

"One Door and only one,
And yet its sides are two—
Inside and outside;
On which side are you?"

Then repeating the two first lines comes the direct testimony and question.

"I am on the inside;
On which side are you?"

II. The Keeper of the Sheep (vv. 11-13).

We think of sheep as peacefully grazing on the hillside—an idyllic picture in the summer sunshine. But there were dangers to meet. It is so with Christ's sheep too, and then he is there to keep them. The wolves come out as the shadows gather. They come to kill and to scatter. Where then is the shepherd? If he is only a hireling, serving for what may "be in it" for him, he will flee.

How perfectly this pictures religious leaders, who, in spite of their swelling words and ingratiating manners, desert the flock in the hour of adversity. Fair-weather friends are they, who disappear when darkness and danger appear.

In the darkest hour Jesus is nearest at hand. He never fails. He has no fear, for has he not tasted the bitter death of Cavalry's tree for you and me? He is the Good Shepherd. He gave his life for the sheep. Those who have put their trust in him shall never be put to shame.

III. The Saviour of the Sheep (vv. 14-18).

He laid down his life for the sheep. Ah, yes, it is all too true that evil men laid wicked hands on him and crucified him. Their guilt is awful. But it is clear from Scripture that until the hour had come for Jesus to be made sin for the redemption of man, they could not touch him (see Luke 4:29, 30; John 8:59).

When the time came, Christ laid down his life in accord with "the determinate counsel and foreknowledge of God" (Acts 2:23). He died for us, not as a martyr to a cause, or the victim of an accident or miscarriage of justice, but willingly, and for the glory of God.

Yes, he died for us, but he also died for every lost soul who will hear his voice. There are "other sheep" about whom the Lord is deeply concerned. Are we? He "must bring" them—but remember, God works through yielded believers—through men and women. We ought to be eager instruments in his hands to reach these other sheep, whatever their race, creed, or condition.

Do not miss the note of unity in verse 16. "There shall be one fold." Sometimes one wonders as Christians fight one another how they will ever be brought into the unity of one fold. Only the Lord can do it—he "must bring" us together—but let us not contribute one iota to the confusion and division which must so grieve his Father-heart.

Soldier Come Home

BY BETTY ZANE WATSON

Johnny Davis returns to the Daily Clarion, newspaper owned by his father, J. D. Davis, after three years in service. He becomes interested in Kit Willett, a reporter, and is upset to find that she is engaged to his cousin, Basil. He learns that his grandmother, Jennifer Martin, who has never acknowledged him or his father because she holds them responsible for the death of her daughter at Johnny's birth, has continued to refuse to grant some of her land to build a park for the children. He goes to Martindale to make a personal appeal but is turned away. Later he and Kit meet near the park site and she kisses him. He knows then he loves her.

CHAPTER IV

And suddenly Johnny knew what he was trying to ask. He wanted to know if he had seen the portrait of his mother above the mantel. This was even more important to him than that if he had talked with Jennifer Martin.

"Yes, Dad, I saw her. She was lovely, wasn't she?" He looked at his father and saw that his eyes were misty and he looked quickly away giving him this moment for himself and the memory of his mother.

"I only saw the painting once," he said finally, still not raising his head to look directly at his son. "But it was her—as surely as if she were standing above me and looking at me again."

"When did you see it, Dad? Before you were married?" This had surprised Johnny who had never known that his father had been inside Martindale.

"No. It was painted just a short time before she—before you were born, Johnny. I was only inside the house once—for only a half hour the day she was buried. Her mother did allow me that much time with her."

"His voice was not the least bitter as he spoke of Jennifer Martin. J. D. Davis had no place for bitterness in his character. "Oh, I could have had her taken from the house but where could I have put her—a funeral home? No, Martindale was her home and the kind of place she belonged. Eventually we would have gotten things straightened out if Linda had lived, but... " His voice was low as if he might have been talking to himself, telling himself things he had tried to believe for many years.

"And then I sort of messed up things for everybody." Johnny stood with a quick impulse and shoving his hands in his pockets went to the window and stood with his back to J. D.

"Johnny Boy—don't ever say that! She'd never forgive you for it. She would be more than satisfied with her son. However, I think her husband might have done a little better. Twenty-five years ago I owned a dinky newspaper in a one-horse town and was one jump ahead of the hill collector and trying to get a park built—and twenty-five years later I'm exactly in the same place, with still no park! That's progress, my boy. Progress!" He gave a hearty laugh and threw an arm around Johnny, standing now beside him looking down Main Street.

"But we're not through yet, Dad. Maybe we're just starting. Maybe—" The old determination was coming back into his voice again.

"That's the stuff, Johnny. If we can't talk down the old lady we can always outlive her—then we'll only have Henry and Basil to account to." They turned simultaneously and sat at their desks ready to work.

At twelve noon Johnny looked at his watch and decided if he wanted to see Kit before she left for lunch he had better hurry. He saw Kit's green plaid coat disappearing out the door.

It was with a sense of excitement that he followed her, thinking he could catch her and they might have lunch together from a purely casual encounter. He opened the door to the street and all his excitement turned to disappointment as he saw her standing at the curb waiting for Basil, who was boldly turning his convertible completely around in the center of the street.

Kit looked around as she was getting into the car—and she smiled. "Hello, Johnny!" she called. But there was no sign—nothing which might give him any hint of her reaction to last night.

Johnny walked to the drug store and bought a pack of cigarettes before he returned to the office to go to lunch with J. D. Miss Handley called to him as he opened the door.

"Good afternoon, John." She giggled a high-pitched laugh and smiled up at him.

The Office Gossip Does Her Bit

"Is it?" He was still on cagey territory with her since that first encounter although she had been particularly friendly with him since then.

"I have the files ready for you and the noon releases are here. I don't believe Miss Willett got quite through her personals. She really shouldn't have stayed out so late last evening. You know, early to bed—" Her tone implied her feelings for Kit Willett.

"Oh, was Miss Willett burning the midnight oil last night?" It was a surprise to Johnny that Kit would discuss her evenings with Handley. Especially last evening. "Yes, and she seems to have had quite a time. She and her boy friend went to Kenton and really did the town—so she said." All this with a superior air.

"Oh, did they? Funny, I saw her myself—just on the street, of course—about ten or eleven." Johnny tried to sound uninterested but knew he was making a poor job of it.

"Yes, she said she just decided to go out around midnight and called her Basil. He certainly must sit around just waiting for her to call to come at a time like that." She touched her hand nervously to her hair. "Not every girl is that way."

She smiled sweetly up at Johnny. But it was lost because Johnny Davis had already turned and was closing the office door behind him.

So that was Kit's reaction. That was what she wanted after they had stood together in the field and had kissed and clung to each other. Well, at least now he knew.

As Kit climbed into the seat beside Basil she wondered if Handley had told Johnny yet what she had been so particular to tell her during the morning.

If Johnny had any notion she had changed her mind about marrying

"That girl—why, I'm sure I've seen her some place!"

Basil after Johnny had kissed her, that surely would set him straight again. It was a rather cruel way of telling him, but he would have to know sooner or later that she intended going through with the marriage.

"Darling," turning to him quickly, she realized she had been too busy with other thoughts to greet Basil. "You look sleepy."

"And why shouldn't I be, baby?" He reached a hand over for hers. "Just the same, I'm glad you called me last night. Sort of proves a point, doesn't it?"

"You know that I love you. You don't need proof of that, Baz," she answered quite definitely.

"No, but—"

They drove in silence for a few minutes before arriving at The Elms, a seafood restaurant just outside Lexington, where Kit enjoyed luncheon. Basil was in particularly good humor, Kit decided, for her having called him the night before, he also seemed to have some sort of surprise for her and throughout the meal hinted at its subject without letting her know what was in store for her.

He kept her in suspense until within a few blocks of the Clarion office and then—

Kit Is Invited To Martindale

"Kit, I can't keep it up much longer. Tonight you have been invited to Martindale for dinner, of course my grandmother accepts no refusals. This is very important, my dear. You can either make me or break me tonight, so be at your best!"

"Oh, so that's it?" She had never before been invited to Martindale, having met Basil's father and mother at a hotel, where they all had had dinner together. The warning of Basil's... of course my grandmother accepts no refusals... irked her and she had half a mind to refuse for mere spite. But weighing the matter, she decided she had no real excuse for not going.

As she went on into the office, she pondered over his statement that she could either "make him or break him" with his grandmother. This she hardly believed, because this she certainly if Jennifer Martin actually forbade his marrying her, Basil would respect her wishes.

Six o'clock did finally come and she was ready and waiting for Basil when he rang her bell. She had spent almost two weeks' salary on a sheer black dinner dress and decided this was the evening to include it. She wore little make-up, as was her usual custom, her complexion being radiant without the help of cosmetics. The moment she opened the door to Basil, she knew she was dressed according to standard, for, after looking her over critically, he held out his hands to her and smiled his approval. "Perfect, baby. You should really lay her low in that."

"Oh, but I fully intend to, darling. We mustn't break you, must we, now?" She had decided against any sarcasm that his speech of the afternoon might have provoked, but found she could not keep this barb silent.

Thomas opened the door to them at Martindale a few minutes later. As he took their coats, Kit stood beside Basil, at once impressed with the luxurious surroundings and awed with the massiveness of the house.

Basil turned to her and lowered his voice.

"Like it, sweet?" When she nodded approval, he went on: "All this will belong to us some day soon if we play our cards right!"

"Shall we go in?" Kit, disgusted with his constant reminders of the inheritance, looked toward the living room door.

"Just a couple of things, Kit." His expression changed to one of business. "I wouldn't mention that you work at that filthy news office with Davis and—well, perhaps you better not say anything about our engagement until she—"

Kit turned to face him fully. "Until she approves of me? Is that it, Basil? Why didn't you come right out and say that you would not want to marry me if she'd cut you off for it? That's what you meant, isn't it?" Her voice rose higher and Basil took her by the arm farther back in the hallway away from the living room entrance.

"Be reasonable, you little fool! Of course that isn't what I meant. I'd marry you anyway, but it might as well be with her blessing—that's my logic!" He had both his hands gripping her shoulders when he noticed that Thomas was standing in the archway addressing him.

"Well!" His voice was demanding.

"I beg pardon, sir, but your grandmother is anxious to start dinner." He bowed politely and left them.

Kit, standing beside Basil, looking at the group in the room they were about to enter, thought she would never forget the picture of the family before her as long as she lived. Jennifer Martin was seated at the fireplace, her small hands nervously crocheting an intricate piece of work upon which her eyes rested only for second intervals. Henry, Basil's father, was standing beside her, much the faithful son in subservient position. Mrs. Martin, Henry's wife, was sitting at the grand piano, playing the first strains of Beethoven's Sonata. It was the perfect home fireside picture of a contented family—that is, until one looked at the face of each character.

Henry's was a theme of utter boredom at the moment, the greed and selfishness having been temporarily covered over. His wife's too pleasant greeting told plainly of his insincerity, while the wrinkled face of the old lady at the fireside wore an unchangeable expression of a long-practiced mask. It was impossible to read behind it. There was cruelty there—and determination.

Basil introduced her to his grandmother, who nodded curtly to her, acknowledging the introduction. It was then as she was standing beside the mantel, that she looked up and saw the portrait of Linda. She was speechless with the beauty of it and finally when she regained her senses she spoke before she thought.

"That girl... why, I'm sure I've seen her some place!" As soon as she spoke she felt Basil's anger at her forgetfulness. Of course! It was Johnny—Johnny's eyes were these eyes. Quickly correcting herself, she added, "Oh, now I know. It was someone who looks like her."

Jennifer Martin looked up at her, her small eyes searching the girl's face. After a moment, she spoke, "Who was it?"

Kit had not expected this further inquiry and answered hesitatingly. "Why, oh, someone I'm sure you've never seen."

The old lady did not seem even aware of her answer and sat crocheting until she came to the end of her stitches. She stood, and her posture made even her short stature seem tall, and turning to Kit she spoke curtly, although the expression of her eyes belied her tone. "Perhaps I know who you mean."

And turning on her heel she led the way to the dining-room.

Working Overtime At the Clarion

The Centennial celebration kept the office of the Clarion busy during the next week. Deciding which of the twenty-some families should be given the place of honor as Lexington's first family was a job that entailed more than a little diplomacy.

Johnny was working at one of the desks in the outer office as he was going over copy with both Handley and Kit. "Hey!" he exclaimed quickly in the middle of a sentence he was dictating. "Look at the time! The Guild had better not hear of this!" It was almost twelve, to the surprise of both girls and Johnny. "Shall we call it a day and a half?" (TO BE CONTINUED)

Colorful New Curtains Give Needed Tonic to Many Homes

By Erta Haley

THIS is the time of year when many a homemaker gets the urge to do something "different" to her home. I've even heard of this feeling taking expression in such drastic steps as changing the whole layout of furniture, or in buying new things that put big dents in the budget.

Most of us can't afford this big dose of tonic, so I'm going to tell you of a simple way to add a new feeling to the home and to give yourself a lift at the same time. You'll find that simply adding new treatments to the windows will give you just the touch of freshness you're seeking.

First, here's a tip about selecting a color. Study the room carefully and try to pick up one of the colors in your furnishings or wallpaper which you've neglected. Then see if this can't be made up into the window treatment.

If, for example, you want to use sheer curtains in a creamy white or ecru shade, don't give up the idea of using color. For a treatment such as this, you might make a frame for the window out of wall board or plywood. Incidentally, this is a nice trick for making narrow windows look more luxurious. Paint the frame in an attractive design and run it down to the floor; if the window is short, run the frame across the bottom. Prepared trimmings which are self-pasting also may be used to decorate the frame, if you are not handy with a brush.

Treating Windows to Let Light Come Through

Most rooms could use a bit of good old sunlight, and window treatments can be made to encourage the sun peeping through them. In this case you must make use of sheer curtains which will permit light to come through, but drapery material that is heavy and patterned also may be used to enhance the treatment.

If you want to let in a lot of light yet give the impression of the window being draped, hang sheer curtains from top to bottom. Then use an extra pair of sheer curtains and hang them in a drapery pattern letting them overlap. Use interesting colored tiebacks or knobs for a dash of color.

If you have short windows, hang them with short, sheer curtains, but don't stop there! Have a cornice in an attractive color, and then pipe drapery material which has been set on the sides of the window with the same color you have in the cornice.

Or use a cornice made of a pleated or gathered drapery material and let the material of extra draperies go at the edges of the window.

Another treatment that is very smart employs sheer curtains, but a colorful chintz is added to the cornice, and a deep border of the same chintz is used to border the glass curtains. This gives a room a very finished appearance.

Tailored Curtains Best for Some Rooms

Perhaps you have a desire to convert your bedroom from a thing of frilly ruffles into something more tailored but still neat and feminine appearing. A smart, unique solution for this is to whip up full length curtains made of eyelet embroidered material. This may be tinted one of the attractive pastels. Put a strip of embroidery bordered with

For the young figure particularly in the suit line, skirts are pencil slim and slashed. Nipped in waists are popular, too, and peplum pockets are quite the thing for the teen-ager.

Shoulders still are padded, and you might look for new notes in the careful draping of sleeves from such shoulders in the new dresses. The armholes are deep and comfortable.

the plain across the cornice and hang floor length panels of solid colored drapery material. Three panels make a nice looking treatment, a panel at each side and one down the middle.

If you have a room in the attic with small windows, you can have an inexpensive treatment for them by using feed, sugar or flour sacks dyed to match the color scheme of the room. Use short tailored curtains and run them across the windows. Place a cornice or ruffle at the top of the windows in a contrasting, darker shade than you have used for the curtains themselves.

Making stubby windows appear longer is a trick that some of us need at one time or another. A cornice is the easiest way to do this as it creates the illusion of height. If you use sheer curtains and draperies both at the window have enough of the drapery material so that you can cut the two complete patterns from the drapery and paste these on either side of the cornice.

Another simple way of making the window look longer is to use a cornice and have the top and sides piped or painted with material picked up from the room, a dark, solid color is best. Then pipe the curtains with this same material where they come together and at the bottom.

Window Sewing Tips

When you are sewing tops and hems on sheer curtain material, place a tissue paper underneath the material while sewing on the machine to prevent it from puckering or pulling. Simply rip off the paper when you are finished. Unlined draperies need four inches of material for the heading and five inches for the hem. Be sure to add these measurements to those for the length of the window.

You may save time basting window draperies and curtains by marking off the stitches with a single straight line drawn with chalk. Be sure to use a flat surface for this; however.

Make certain machine is adjusted properly for different thicknesses of sewing material by testing first on a scrap of the material you are using. Saves time and stitching.

To make tailored curtains, pleat sheer material and use a fringed cornice treatment for interesting effect.

Reinforce the heading of your draperies with a 3/4 inch width of crinoline. This will help draperies hang better and prevent heading from slipping forward and exposing the rods.

mon childhood diseases, serious complications may develop, so children should be protected as much as possible from this disease. The usual control procedures such as avoidance of crowds, exclusion from schools of all cases or suspected cases and quarantine should be followed. The family physician should always be consulted when a case occurs.

The most easily recognized characteristic symptom of mumps is a painful swelling of the salivary glands. Sometimes there is an involvement of other portions of the body causing disturbances in the digestive, nervous, circulatory and genito urinary systems. The disease is usually accompanied by a temperature rise which more often than not is mild.

The patient suffering with this disease should be isolated from other members of the family immediately upon the suspicion that mumps exists, and the family doctor should be called promptly. In the meantime, complete rest is indicated. The doctor's orders should be followed strictly. Violating his instructions can lead to serious injury, which may permanently affect the individual's health.

LEGION MEETING SET AT LUBBOCK FEB 21-23

A three day American Legion College, conducted by the Department of Texas, will be held at Lubbock Feb. 21 -23 with a faculty of 10 experts teaching various phases of the American Legion program.

The College will be the first ever held by the Department of Texas. It will for the most part be dedicated to the thousands of World War II veterans in Texas who have come into the Legion and who desire to become better acquainted with the organization's program.

Classes will be held in the American Legion Home at Lubbock. Among the subjects to be discussed will be history of the Legion, National Defense, Rehabilitation, Americanism, Public Relations, Community Service, Legislation, Child Welfare, and Specialized Activities.

Reason behind the latest Byrd expedition to the South Pole is less scientific than you would think. What the boys are really looking for is a place to park.

It is worth thinking about: somebody is being paid real money for knowing the things you never bothered to learn.

Unique Library Started With 'Bible and Prayer'

WNU Features.

MOUNT SHERMAN, ARK.—Started 12 years ago with "a Bible and a prayer," the Wilderness Library in the deep Ozarks hill country along the Buffalo river in Arkansas now ranks as one of America's most unique educational and recreational projects.

Hillbillies, some of whom previously were 100 miles away from the nearest library, now trudge daily over the rugged, wooded trails to the log cabin library perched atop Mt. Sherman. For many of the men, women and children, the library, which serves as a community gathering center, is the only educational facility available.

Founder of this novel library is James Ted Richmond. The inspiration for his project came in France, where he remained after service in World War I to study at University of Toulouse. While there he organized a small library designed to acquaint the French with the American way of life.

Lives Atop Mountain. After returning to America, Richmond reentered newspaper work, and while writing radio plays in Little Rock became interested in hillbillies. Deciding to live as one of the mountain folk, Richmond staked a claim for a homestead atop Mt. Sherman. Friendly mountain folk helped the newcomer build his cabin in a log raising bee.

One of Richmond's first impressions of his neighboring hillbillies was that they were deprived of educational advantages but hungry for reading matter. To fill the void, he at first began circulating his Bible. A plea to Little Rock newspaper friends netted some books, with which he started a free library in a hollow tree outside his cabin.

From this meager beginning, the Wilderness Library has grown until it now contains more than 10,000 volumes. Newspaper friends boosted Richmond's cause and books began coming in from all parts of the country. The hollow tree overflowed, forcing Richmond to move the library into his small cabin. Now the cabin is lined with shelves, with books stacked high to the rafters.

Ambitious Plans. Improvement and enlargement of the library to convert it into a community recreational center are among Richmond's plans for the future. First, however, he hopes to build another log cabin home for himself. The encroaching book shelves have practically forced him out of his humble abode. During the summer time he even does most of his cooking on an outdoor stove, but, as the hillbillies' librarian explains, his principal foods are goat's milk and "garden sass."

Richmond also envisages that some day he will be able to use the Wilderness Library as the nucleus for a new college of the Ozarks to provide higher education for mountain boys and girls. He would like to permit taking his books to homes beyond walking distance over the rough trails. He also wants the roads improved and other advances brought to his mountain people.

On his wild homestead lands, Richmond earns his livelihood by milking about a hundred goats, raising pigs, chickens and turkeys, and growing potatoes and vegetables. If he receives $10 for goat milk sold to the creamery several miles away, he gives a dollar "as a tithe to God," $4.50 to his library and the remaining $4.50 for his own upkeep. Often he deprives himself of necessities so he can finance his rapidly expanding Wilderness Work.

In addition to the free library, the Wilderness Work includes a number of other activities launched by Richmond to improve the lot of the mountain folk. One of the major projects is the annual Wilderness White Christmas, launched in 1933 in memory of his mother, Mrs. Etta E. Richmond. Without any compensation for his work and paying all personal expenses, Richmond directs the collection of clothing, toys, medicines and other household articles for distribution to the poor Ozark families at Christmas time.

Seeks Medical Aid. Another objective for the hillbillies' librarian is to secure proper medical services for the mountain people. Injured and ill persons, isolated from the larger communities, have died for lack of prompt attention, Richmond reports.

"First aid is a necessity here," he says. He lists a hospital cot complete for first aid, antiseptics, surgical powders and sickroom supplies as articles most sorely needed. "I am sure that churches, schools, clubs and individuals everywhere would help if they only knew the predicament of these people," Richmond maintains.

He is considering the possibility of establishing a non-profit educational foundation to raise money for financing the expanded Wilderness Work. Main difficulty is that he's not versed in the procedure, so he is seeking advice on the subject. His address: Ted Richmond, Wilderness Library, Mount Sherman, Ark., via Twilight Trail.

Skin Revealed As Indication Of Occupation

BOSTON.—If your amateur detective tendencies lead you to wonder about a casual acquaintance's occupation, all you have to do is glance at his skin. That is the theory propounded by Dr. Francesco Ronchese, instructor in dermatology at Boston university school of medicine.

After a study of "calluses, cicatrices and other stigmas" peculiar to various trades, Dr. Ronchese insists that they offer an infallible guide to a person's occupation. He even suggests that they be used as an aid to identification in case of amnesia victims and unidentified dead.

Just as sure as a cauliflower ear will lead to a fighter, a foundry worker will have a red discoloration of the forearms from constant exposure to the intense, dry heat of ovens, he says.

The jeweler's trademark is a large callus in the center of the right palm, the result of working with pliers, while bricklayers probably will be missing the fingerprints of their left hands because of constant handling of rough bricks.

In the realm of musicians, Dr. Ronchese referred to the "trumpet player's lip" and "violinist's acne" a lump on the neck near the angle of the lower jaw.

Practically every occupation, even sedentary jobs, has a distinguishing mark, he points out. Colors and odors also are listed as special features of an occupation. Silversmiths often carry traces of slate gray while photographers, shoemakers and others invariably have stained fingers.

In regard to odors, Dr. Ronchese declares that it would be hard to go wrong on the characteristic smells of ash collectors, stable hands or fish dealers.

Admitting that there is one odor that might be misleading, he says: "The peculiar smell of the barroom does not necessarily denote a bartender."

Dog Stands Guard After Rescue Fails

CHATTANOOGA, TENN.—Although he failed in a valiant effort to save his mistress, Mrs. Elizabeth Ray, 77, from drowning, Corky, a Boston bull dog, still stood guard over her lifeless body until help arrived.

Police, who paid tribute to the heroic dog, told this story: Mrs. Ray fell into the raging waters of Chickamauga creek. Corky plunged in after her, swimming for almost a quarter of a mile before he could reach his mistress's side. Then he tugged her to shore.

When police found them, the little dog had its left forepaw around a small sapling on the bank and was fighting to keep the current from dragging him and his mistress downstream. Police estimated the 25-pound dog had been fighting the waters for four hours.

Sounds Complicated

OAK PARK, ILL.—Ellis Denny of Oak Park chamber of commerce proposed to the village board that parking meters be bought to make enough money to buy parking lots to eliminate parking meters.

Uncle Sam Benefits As 'Wretched Poor'

PIERRE, S. D.—For the past nine years, the United States treasury, through the dead letter office, has been enriched $1 annually through an anonymous Santa Claus who addresses his gift to "The Wretched Poor, Pierre, S. D." Postmaster R. Y. Bagby has urged the benevolent person, who mails his donation from Onida, S. D., to send it to some worthwhile charity instead.

"Off We Go" AVIATION NOTES

COLORADO SURVEYS NEEDS. Approximately six million dollars will be required to build an adequate system of airports in Colorado outside the metropolitan areas of Denver, Pueblo, Colorado Springs and Grand Junction, a Colorado Aeronautics commission survey shows. This system will be required by 1955 to handle the more than 4,000 planes expected to be owned by Coloradans by that time, Henry B. Moore, director of the Colorado university bureau of research, declares.

Engineers and economists from the university have visited nearly every airport in the state and every town with a population of more than 750 in their survey of Colorado's airport conditions.

The survey disclosed that there are 157 towns in Colorado with 1,000 population with 44 landing areas, 44 towns from 1,000 to 2,500 with 31 landing areas, 13 towns from 2,500 to 5,000 with 12 landing areas, 9 towns from 5,000 to 10,000 with 12 landing areas, 8 towns over 10,000 with 21 landing areas.

Special religious services were held in the First Baptist church of Minneapolis, Minn., to dedicate a two-passenger airplane to be used by Minneapolis Hospitality house for expanding its youth work. The plane was dismantled and brought to the church sanctuary for official dedication ceremonies in front of the congregation.

OVERLOOK PRIVATE FLIERS

In the rush for aviation supremacy among cities in the post-war flying boom, the needs of the private flier too often are overlooked. This condition is leading private fliers, particularly in rural areas, to take a more active interest in aviation development in their home cities.

The attitude of cities varies widely in regard to the private flier. In Burbank, Calif., for example, a $2.50 landing fee has been instigated for single-engine, private planes. A $5 fee is assessed for twin-motor jobs landed at Lockheed air terminal there. On the other hand, Milwaukee, Wis., has spent $350,000 on Meitland field, a downtown landing field, and is contemplating spending another $200,000. This field is intended primarily for private fliers and there is no landing fee.

NEW JET FIGHTER . . . Latest of jet fighters is the Ryan XF2R-1, which is serving as the navy's flying laboratory to test prop-jet engines. This Fireball-type fighter is the first navy combat plane to be powered by a gas turbine turning a propeller.

SHOW DATES SET

The show and institute, sponsored by the foundation and National Aeronautics association, will cover all phases of airport finance, construction, operation and maintenance. Special classes will be conducted in planning, economics and other fields.

Touch-Typewriting Self-Taught at Home

Dear Joan,
I didn't get the job! I wish I knew how to type better!
The man I told you about said I should come back when I learn the fundamentals.
I'll be right back when I've better luck next time.

NO, "hunt and peck" typing has no place in a busy, efficient office. If you're after a good job you must know touch-typing. What to do? With a chart of the keys and a few simple instructions, teach it to yourself at home—it's easy. Learn, too, the simple rules of typing form that employers expect you to know.

The valuable booklet "Touch-Typewriting Self-Taught," gives touch-typewriting chart, instructions and exercises for home lessons. Explains rules for typing correct business, social and official letters and tables of figures. . . .

Send 25 cents in coin for your copy of "Touch-Typewriting Self-Taught" to Weekly Newspaper Service, 243 West 17th Street, New York 11, N. Y. Be sure to write plainly your name, address and name of booklet.

Serve Casseroles For Late Evening Snacks, Parties

Ingredients for this home style Italian spaghetti are simple and economical. The cooking time is brief but this dish can make you an enviable reputation.

Simple but Satisfying
There's still plenty of nippy weather ahead before spring breezes warm up the days and evenings, and there's nothing more welcome on a crisp evening after the gang of youngsters has been out skating, skiing or coming home from a play than a sizzling hot casserole and a tossed salad.

Or if you have friends over and the evening begins to run out, there's no better way to wind it up than with a nice, homey oven dish to warm up the spirit and satisfy the appetite.

Make refreshments simple by tossing together the salad right after dinner—or at least getting things ready for the toss up. Also, prepare the casserole, store in the refrigerator and then about three-quarters of an hour before serving, slip it into the oven.

While we're watching our budgets, we're all looking for inexpensive dishes for entertaining. Utilize leftovers for casseroles, and make them stretch with such good foods as macaroni, spaghetti and noodles.

Here's an inexpensive but popular suggestion for late evening snacks:

- Italian Spaghetti (Serves 6 to 8)
1/2 pound long spaghetti
1 pound ground beef
3 to 4 tablespoons cooking oil
1 green pepper, cut fine
1 large onion, minced
1/2 cup celery, cut fine
1/2 cup mushrooms, sliced
2 cans tomato puree
Salt and pepper to taste
Fry onion in oil until lightly browned. Add pepper, celery, mushrooms and cook covered until they are tender. Add tomato puree. Turn fire low. Place on top of sauce the ground beef which has been seasoned and formed into small balls. Cover and simmer for 30 minutes. Turn meat balls once.
Serve this sauce over freshly cooked spaghetti. Cook spaghetti in boiling, salted water until tender. Serve with grated cheese and meat balls.

- One-Dish Meal. (Serves 6)
2 cups diced carrots
1 1/2 cups diced celery
6 medium potatoes, pared and sliced
3 tablespoons butter
2 tablespoons flour
2 cups milk
1 teaspoon salt
1 cup meat stock
3 tablespoons sliced onion
1 cup canned or cooked peas
1 1/2 to 2 cups diced leftover meat
1/2 cup bread crumbs
3 tablespoons melted butter
Cook carrots, celery and potatoes separately in boiling, salted water until tender. (Leftover cooked vegetables may be used.) Melt butter, blend in flour, add milk and meat stock; cook over direct heat until sauce thickens, stirring constantly. Add salt. Combine sauce with remaining ingredients, except crumbs and melted butter, and pour into a two quart buttered

- Calavo Beet Salad.
Calavo half shells
Lemon juice
Salt
Finely shredded uncooked beets
Thinly sliced green sweet pepper
French dressing
Salad greens for garnish
Hard-cooked eggs
Mayonnaise (optional)
To prepare calavo half shells, cut fruit into halves lengthwise and remove seed. Sprinkle cut portions of fruit with lemon juice and salt. Dress combined beets and pepper with french dressing. Place calavo half shells over garnished salad plates and fill seed cavities with vegetable mixture. Top each salad with a quarter of a hard-cooked egg. Garnish with mayonnaise, if desired.
Released by Western Newspaper Union.

LYNN SAYS:
Plan Short Cuts to Aid In Meal Preparation
Plan ahead and do everything in advance that is possible. Puddings and most desserts can be prepared in advance; salad fruit and vegetables cleaned and chilled though not mixed together; salad dressings prepared; hot bread batters made and chilled, pans buttered; casseroles may be made ahead and chilled and the table set.

Easy and Inexpensive to Make Hooked, Woven, Braided or Crocheted Rugs

MAKE IT YOURSELF

HOOKED rugs are among the simplest to make yourself. Inexpensive, too! The foundation may be burlap or discarded linen; material for hooking can be salvaged from old clothes and blankets.

Our 40-page booklet gives instructions for making hooked, woven, braided, crocheted and other types of rugs. Send 25 cents (coin) for "New Ideas for Hand-made Rugs" to Weekly Newspaper Service, 243 W. 17th St., New York 11, N. Y. Print name, address, booklet title and No. 84.

Rocket Brakes

The jet power of rockets, which has so far been employed almost wholly as a propulsive force, is expected to be used soon in the opposite way—to brake the speed of planes and trains in cases of emergency, says Collier's.

Experts estimate that a train which travels 1,500 feet after the air brakes are applied could be brought to a stop in 375 feet, or one fourth the distance, by the additional braking force of forward-firing rockets installed on the locomotive.

CREOMULSION
for Coughs, Chest Colds, Bronchitis
CREOMULSION relieves promptly because it goes right to the seat of the trouble to help loosen and expel germ laden phlegm, and aid nature to soothe and heal raw, tender, inflamed bronchial mucous membranes.
