

Baird Goes Over Red Cross Quota

Baird Red Cross Roll Call is finished well above the quota of $500.00. The amount donated was $654.45. $377.00 was raised on Market Street, the balance in the residential areas. Mrs. V. E. Hill, precinct chairman for Baird, wishes to thank all the workers. It seemed everyone was willing to work and to give.

The reports from over the county are incomplete as yet and when it is all finished, we will probably have reached the county's publicized goal of $2,000. Mrs. Ashby White is county chairman, and will make a report a little later.

E. C. Fulton, 76, who had been a barber in Baird for 52 years, was found dead in his barber shop shortly before six o'clock Wednesday evening. His son-in-law, Fred A. Letter Received From Korean Boy

CLYDE — Mrs. A. A. Coffman, whose son, Sgt. Edward L. Coffman, is with an ordnance depot unit in Korea, has received a letter from an 11-year-old North Korean orphan boy "adopted" by Sgt. Coffman.

The boy Kim Sang San, was befriended by GIs of the 8th Army and later became acquainted with Sgt. Coffman with whom he has remained since.

Coffman wrote his mother that the lad would like to come to the United States to attend school.

The letter from the Korean boy, as translated at McMurry College, reads:

Dear Grandmother; How are you? I know that you will not understand my letter, but I have no regrets for writing it in Korean. Here in Korea, Billy (Sgt. Coffman) and I are getting along very well.

Though it has been some four months since we became good friends, I could not write a letter to you.

Grandmother, I am always thinking of you and Billy. How you must be awaiting him back home. And how you will love him again.

I believe that it will not be long until he returns. I became a friend of him among the GIs and I hope to find opportunity to go to America for study some day.

I hope that you will always be well.

I beg your pardon for writing you under such circumstances, for we have not met, and I am a stranger to you.

Cordially yours, Kim Sang San.

Sgt. Coffman has been in Korea since August. During World War II he served in Gen. Patton's Third Army.

NOTICE! American Legion Auxiliary will meet at 7:30 p. m. Tuesday, April 3, at the Legion Hut. Important business is to be discussed at this meeting.

ANNOUNCE BIRTH OF A DAUGHTER

Sgt. and Mrs. Johnny Swinson announce the birth of a daughter, Mariann, on March 22, at Goodfellow Air Force Base, San Angelo. Mariann was born on her mother's birthday. The Swinsons have another daughter, Sueann.

Grandparents of the new arrival are Mr. and Mrs. Bob Swinson of this place, and Mr. Purgis of San Angelo.

Mr. and Mrs. Parker Coppinger and son, John, of Abilene, visited Mrs. Coppinger's mother, Mrs. Sam I. Smith and attended the party at Odd Fellows Hall Monday night.

Four Candidates For School Board

As we go to press, we are informed that there are four names filed with the Baird Independent School District secretary, Ben L. Russell, as candidates in the April 7 school trustee election. They are: Jack Gilliland for re-election, Hugh Ross, W. T. Payne and Bob Joy.

Ben L. Russell, who has served as secretary on the school board for the past twenty years, is not running for re-election. Ross and Gilliland announced for trustee last week, and as we go to press this week we learn that W. T. Payne and Bob Joy are also candidates.

Only two trustees are to be elected. With four candidates in the race, the Baird district is expected to ballot its voting strength in the election which will be held next Saturday, April 7th.

Oil Pool Promising As Producer No. 2 Flows At Putnam

The Ellenburger oil well that has been producing approximately 1000 barrels daily for the past three days, is the second strike in the Putnam area lately. The first well was brought in about two months ago on the Harville Estate, a short distance south of Putnam. It has been producing around a thousand barrels daily since it was drilled in, according to reports.

The new well brought in this week is on the J. N. Williams ranch north of Putnam. Both of these big producers are located within a stone's throw of the little town of Putnam, which now has good chances to become a thriving oil community.

Leasing has been brisk in the Putnam community for some time, and with the second well drilled to the Ellenburger to come forth with a good flow of oil, activities are speeded up considerably.

Leasing of town lots in Baird continues to hold the spotlight after several weeks duration. There have been approximately a hundred lots leased here with some prospect for drilling. Seismograph tests have proved the structure favorable for oil within the city limits.

"Elsie" is Coming To Clyde Store

Elsie, the world famous little cow, whose pleasant face adorns all Borden's milk cans, will be at Pyeatt's store in Clyde this Saturday, in person. People of the county are being invited to come to see Elsie and bring the children.

Elsie is probably the most famous cow in the world. She has traveled extensively in all countries and has been admired by millions. The children especially will enjoy seeing Elsie.

Tomorrow is the day that Elsie will be at Pyeatt's store. Just tell the children now, and they won't let you forget to take them.

MAYOR'S PROCLAMATION

Last year some 210,000 families lost a father, a mother, or a child to cancer. Of these more than 100,000 were in the prime of life, between the ages of 30 and 65. They were stricken when their families, their work and their communities needed them most.

Those who have lost a dear one, know cancer as a terrible threat. They know that the disease reaches beyond the patient to family and loved ones, all of whom must share a serious burden.

Happily, there is a brighter side. Physicians can now cure half of those who develop cancer if the disease is diagnosed early and treated properly. Today, however, only about one in four, who have the disease, are being saved.

We as individuals have a great responsibility: we can strike back at cancer through spreading life-saving facts and through contributing to the Cancer Crusade. Lives will be saved — in our country, our state, our community, and perhaps in our own families.

Therefore, I, B. H. Freeland, Mayor of Baird, proclaim April as Cancer Control Month. I call on all citizens to join in the Cancer Crusade of the American Cancer Society. I heartily subscribe to the Crusade's theme: Guard Your Family. Strike Back. Give to Conquer Cancer.

B. H. FREELAND, Mayor, City of Baird.

Nations Economy Depends Upon Soil Conservation

Mrs. R. G. Edwards

Economic stability grows from the intelligent use of good soil. Wise use of the lands means protecting it from impoverishing influences while under cultivation or grazing, to keep it permanently productive. To do this, most farmers need the help of Soil Conservation experts. They also need the encouragement and support of the public.

Basically, the economic stability of our nation depends on how the farmer uses and manages the land. Soil erosion and plant life depletion is a problem that should engage the minds of business men as well as farmers.

The sooner an understanding of soil conservation permeates the community, through the schools, the civic organizations, businesses and industries, the sooner soil conservation farming can be spread across the nation, to hold the soil and maintain it for the present, as well as for the future generations. At the same time, the security of our nation will be assured.

America's greatness is not due to its greater fertility. We are greater because we have a higher standard of living. But we will not be able to maintain that standard, if we allow our land to be washed and blown away. There is great danger too, in it being taken away in big crops, without returning a sufficient amount by fertilization.

The greatest need is for every individual to become better acquainted with the land, its needs, and the practical possibilities of taking care of those needs.

There are no short-cuts to soil and water conservation, and if we succeed at this late stage, we are going to have to be willing to accept new and proven ideas, and at the same time work with, instead of against, the land.

Nature made the land; it also provided the other elements so destructive to it. We can waste the soil by opposing nature, but we cannot restore the soil, once it is lost. The farmer can't do a thing about the wind or the rain, but the soil itself, is under his control. Right use, or abuse of the earth can keep the soil in its place, or drive it far from home.

We can't make water run uphill, but we can store a lot of it for crop use, by slowing its downward trend with contours and terraces. Some of the basic facts about the land people should know are that all food comes from the soil, and nowhere else. Even fish and other seafood comes indirectly from the land and its products.

For lack of fertility, productive land around the world is scarce. It represents a great threat to this country because of some thoughtless farmers who are completing the same cycle that followed the first war, by plowing marginal lands for crops.

The great hunger of the world calls for all the crops that can be harvested. The farmer is sure of a market for all he can produce, and he can raise more by putting in more land.

A hungry nation is the product of a worn-out, non-productive land, and hungry people are fertile soil for sowing seeds of unrest, discontent and strife.

By plowing up thousands of acres of natural pasture lands to meet the war-born needs for greater harvests, the farmer gambles with his own prosperity as well as the rest of the country.

We have enough land in this country to take care of us, if we will take care of the land. We now have 460 million acres of good crop land available. That's all there is. We can't get any more. If we spend that soil, we'll not only be broke, but starving. All but about 72½ million acres of this total is subject to erosion, unless protected.

Conservation experts point out that we can survive on the good land we have left, but we can't maintain our present standard of living if we lose much more. Yet, we are allowing 500,000 acres to be swept away by some form of erosion each year.

There is only a small portion of cultivated land in this country that is flat enough to be entirely free from water washing. The bulk of the sloping land of the Cotton and Corn Belts, the Pacific Northwest Wheat Belt, the potato and tobacco sections, the valleys and basins throughout the country, can be classified as erodible by water.

The rolling grasslands of the humid regions are also subject to water erosion. Cover crops of grain makes them more resistant than "row" crops. Fairly large portions of the vast central plains region, comprising about 250 million acres, are only moderately troubled by water erosion, except locally, because of the gentle slope, and the light rainfall. The greater erosion problem in this Plains section is wind erosion, and this is true of many local areas west and south of the Plains. Water erosion, nevertheless, is a serious problem over millions of acres of this section.

Where you find land that has been continuously cultivated, overgrazed, or for any cause left bare of protective cover, whether it be Plains land or elsewhere, you will find land susceptible to blowing in times of a protracted drouth. The degree of severity ranges all the way from minor disturbances, to major storms that have swept across the country. It depends on the land and how it is used.

The Texas and Oklahoma dust bowl area of the 1930s has been eliminated as a potential threat, but the possibility of serious dust storms looms great in other portions of the two states.

The recent rains, sleet and snows have given Western Texas and Oklahoma a temporary rest from the recurring storms. There are great sections without enough cover to prevent blowing when the land dries. Conservation experts wait anxiously, for they know time will tell what is in store for everyone.

The most dangerous blow threat is in the sandy portion of the southern high plains, lying southwest of Lubbock, Texas. Lesser areas where wind may cause considerable damage are in the Seymour-Childress area; isolated fields around Dalhart, and scattered fields up and down the Cross Timbers Belt of west-central Oklahoma and Texas. This strip represents more than 14 million acres running from Brownwood, Texas to the Kansas state line, north of Tulsa.

Wind erosion this past year was on a small scale compared to the scouring of vast areas in those bleak days of the dust bowl. Keeping the nation's top soil at home is a recurrent problem.

Damage to land and plant life by wind erosion is not restricted to the arid and semi-arid areas, as so many seem to think, but extends into every state. To the land, the wind has become a deadly force; to the people living in sections of the country subjected to wind erosion, it is both an economic and social menace. Uncontrolled, it destroys the source of their major industries, grazing and agriculture.

Wind-blown soil does not disappear. It does still more damage. Often it is dumped on neighboring farms, or areas many miles away to smother acres of crops.

Soil can be eroded by wind or water a thousand times faster than new soil can be made by the disintegration of rock. Wind blows the mantle of the earth, leaving the ground naked and sterile. Soil blowing is really a landslide with the force of the wind substituted for the force of gravity. The slide begins in a small way at various points, gathering momentum and size, until whole field-tops move into the air in one great murky cloud.

That is why conservation experts are worried about the new threat, caused by drouth and cover crop failure of the past two years. Farmers and ranchers know that a landslides can not occur unless land lies loose and unbalanced. The art of preventing the blowing of their soil was learned quickly, when they saw their fields rise and float away during the dust bowl days. That art consists in keeping heavy non-blowing particles on the surface. Big chunks of earth cover a field that has been plowed in a wind menaced area. Crops and crop residues are left on the surface to bind the soil together.

When the soil does blow, it can be stopped the same way as a landslide, by cross ledges, or terraces, to catch part of the moving mass. That is why contour tillage, terracing, strip cropping, cover crops and wind breaks are recommended practices to control wind erosion, as well as water erosion.

"Trashy cultivation" sound like the way a lazy man would manage his farm, yet it is one of the most progressive methods of farming. A good farmer is no longer measured by the straight row he is able to lay off, but by the crooked row that he plows. The farmer himself is absolute authority over his own land. Soil conservationists assist him, when he asks for help. Together, a farmer and a specialist can walk from field to field, checking and planning crops and ways of getting the best returns from the land. One of the peculiar characteristics of a farmer is that he likes to make his own decisions. The past has proven that the wise farmer make his decisions with the help of an expert.

SURE WINNER

It is generally conceded that there's a degree of gambling spirit in all of us. In some cases only a "sure thing" brings it out.

Well, here's a genuine, 14 karat, straight-from-the-feedbag "sure thing" that every one of us can have a piece of . . . The American Cancer Society.

"There's no such thing as an incurable disease," says science. "There are only diseases for which the cure is not yet known."

On this very logical premise, cancer research is no gamble—it's a long term investment with a precious dividend of life itself. Along the many avenues of research which may lead to discovery of cancer's cause and cure, science is finding new techniques of cancer control which may someday save your life, or that of someone dear to you. Today, science and medicine are saving the lives of one-fourth of all cancer patients, who, not so long ago, might have been considered hopeless cases.

The 1951 Crusade of the American Cancer Society gives everyone the privilege of joining the only national voluntary agency devoted to the cause of cancer control exclusively.

Twenty-five cents of every dollar contributed is used for cancer research. Part of the money pays for public and professional education which, on the basis of present knowledge alone, can double the number of lives saved. And part of the money is used for service to cancer patients and their families.

Help Science help you. Help guard your family. Help to conquer cancer — by contributing to the 1951 Crusade of the American Cancer Society.

GUEST EDITORIAL PRAISES CITY FATHERS

(Editor's Note: In last week's Baird Star, we asked for our readers to send in articles expressing their own opinions on civic problems. This week we received our first "guest editorial" and it appears below. We appreciate the response we have received since asking for guest editorials and hope more will be sent in. Whether you are right or wrong, your opinion will be helpful to the community as a whole if you are sincere and really believe in the way you see the picture. We are inviting you now to have your "say so" through the paper. The following editorial was sent in by Mrs. J. E. Watts of Dallas.)

I don't know how to write an editorial, but I know how most people fuss about the way those in office perform their duties. Folks say some pretty mean things about what they don't like, until they are given the chance to speak publicly, then they close up tighter than a clam. Just to be different, I am taking this opportunity to say what I think about Baird and the way the city is being run. Of course, I realize I do not know a lot about what goes on, as I live in Dallas and only occasionally go through Baird to visit my son in Abilene. I have been keeping an eye on Baird for many years. I like the town so much I even take the Baird paper. From where I am, Baird is fast becoming the most appealing town on U. S. 80. The new look that it has attained has not come by accident, I am sure. If one could look behind the scenes, I know he could find good reasons for such development. Highways, paved streets, and municipal lakes are not built by a town whose leaders are backward and non-progressive. New people and new businesses are not invited to come into a town by city fathers whose motives are for greed and their actions for personal gain. You can't do big things with little people. As I pass through Baird now, I see a progressive spirit. Each time I receive the Baird Star I feel that warm glow that comes only from a growing town. I am going to keep on watching Baird and when I get ready to leave Dallas, I think I will move to your town. I would pass a word on to your city officials and to the progressive citizenship to keep up the good work.

Two doors—separate for the frozen food compartment and the every day utility area—is one of the striking new features of 1951 Servel gas refrigerators. Mrs. Joan Landers, Lone Star Gas Company home economist, is shown admiring high-fashion lines of the model with a storage capacity of 11 and one-half cubic feet. All new models are larger inside, smaller outside.

T&P Directors Vote Dividends at a Recent Directors Meeting Held in Dallas

DALLAS, March 15 — The Board of Directors of the Texas and Pacific Railway, at its first 1951 meeting here today, declared dividends on both common and preferred stocks and also authorized the construction of 250 new 70-ton all-steel gondola cars during 1952.

Dividends of $1.25 per share on the common stock and one and one quarter per cent on the preferred, both payable on March 30 to stockholders of record March 26, 1951, were voted by the Texas and Pacific board.

The 250 new 70-ton, all-steel gondolas to be built in 1952 will be constructed in the railroad's Marshall shops.

Texas and Pacific President W. G. Vollmer also announced today the purchase of thirty-one new Diesel-electric locomotives, which are scheduled for delivery the latter half of this year. With the delivery of these locomotives, all regular passenger trains on the system, and all regular freight train operations west of Shreveport, will be dieselized, as will all switching operations at important points in Texas and Louisiana.

In explaining the purchase of the additional Diesel power and the proposed construction of new equipment, President Vollmer stated that the national mobilization program created the need for additional rail transportation. He stated that in addition to the Texas and Pacific being a strategically important east-west railroad, both Texas and Louisiana are undergoing a rapid industrial expansion, all of which calls for increased motive power, equipment and other rail improvements.

The thirty-one Diesel new locomotives will comprise a total of 52 separate units, consisting of seven 4,500-horsepower, four 3,000-horsepower, and one 1,500-horsepower road freight diesel; three 4,500-horsepower and two 2,250-horsepower passenger diesels; six 1,500-horsepower road switchers and eight 1,200-horsepower yard switchers.

EULA WINS OWN CINDER MEET MARCH 22

Eula track and field men won a triangular meet with Novice and Lawn at Eula Thursday afternoon, March 22.

Eula scored 50 points; Novice amassed 43, and Lawn brought up the rear with 16.

Ken Anderson, Eula speedster, was top individual performer in the 11-event meet, winning the 100 and 220-yard dashes and anchoring the winning Eula 440 yard relay team, for 11 1/4 points.

Running with Anderson on the 440-yard relay quartet were Jess Tarrant, Spurrier and Bob Favor.

Ken Finley of Novice an Granville Stewart of Novice, trailed Anderson with 10 each.

Finley won the shot put and discus toss and Stewart captured the high and broad jumps.

In addition to the sprints and sprint relay, Eula finished first in the mile run, won by Hulen Spurrier, and in the pole vault, where Dave McClure and Tommy Harris tied for first.

Lawn won two firsts — the 440-yard run, in which Richey led the pack, and the 880-yard run, won by Hornbeck.

The mile relay was cancelled by mutual consent of the three coaches when it became late and it was evident that the event could not alter the team standings in the meet.

Charlie Tate, Eula, was host coach for the meet.

Cotton Meeting At Eula
There will be a meeting of cotton farmers in the Eula community on Monday night April 2 in the high school auditorium at 8:00 p. m. Purpose of the meeting is to discuss the Cotton outlook and to discuss the insect situation. Other subjects to be covered in the meeting will be the price outlook, insect control, availability of cottonseed, insecticides, fertilizers, and machinery. A movie will be shown on cotton insects and their control.

All cotton farmers and other interested persons are invited to be present at this meeting.

Castor Bean Meeting at Clyde
A meeting to discuss the production, harvesting, and marketing of castor beans in the Clyde area will be held in the Farmers' Coop building on Thursday night, April 5, at 8:00 p. m.

Enough seed has been made available to plant about 700 acres of castor beans in Callahan county this year. There are possibilities that this may become a new cash crop for this area.

All farmers are invited to be present and hear production of castor beans discussed by County Agent Oliver Werst, and hear the contract arrangement on the castor beans explained by B. B. McPherson, the PMA Administrative officer. Those farmers present at the meeting will be given first choice when the seed is distributed.

Lone Star Ticks

Now is the time to get the Lone Star Ticks. These pests increase rapidly in numbers unless controlled. They will hatch out in about the time the engorged ticks drop to the ground. Some people call these ticks by names such as wood tick, star back tick, or speck back tick. It is the most common tick found in Texas.

This tick can be controlled with a five-tenths per cent toxaphene spray or a combination of five-tenths per cent DDT and three-hundredths per cent gamma BHC used as a spray on beef cattle. Treatment with these materials should protect cattle for at least two weeks.

DDT and Toxaphene are not recommended for use on dairy cattle. On dairy animals five-tenths per cent methoxychlor plus three-hundredths per cent lindane should get the ticks. The lindane is added to kill the engorged ticks. Don't use excessive amounts on dairy animals and always follow directions in mixing any of the formulas.

Controlling the ticks now will also help in reducing the chances of sereworms getting into the places where cattle might scratch if ticks are on them.

Water Conservation

Reports from the Spur Experiment Station show that cotton yields were increased 24 per cent by contouring and 57 per cent by using closed level terraces. These experiments have been run at Spur since 1927 and show that an average yield of 122 pounds of cotton per acre for straight row farming was increased to 151 pounds by contouring. Where closed level terraces were used with contour rows, the yield was increased to 192 pounds, an average of 70 pounds more lint per acre annually than from straight rows.

THANKS

For the splendid attendance at our showing of the 1951 Servel Gas Refrigerators Saturday.

Sincere appreciation to Bill Braymer, Gordon Davis, and Miss Kathryn Childress of the Abilene Division of Lone Star Gas Co.; to our local manager, Bob McKennon and his staff; to our employees for helping to make this day a success.

To those who sent flowers and to all of our friends and customers who helped to make the showing a success, we extend our thanks.

SAM H. GILLILAND

THANK YOU

In this busy age, when all of us are absorbed in our everyday tasks, it is so easy to neglect to show appreciation for the good things we have. We have been thinking, while we work, about the good people all over town who are making it possible for us to be in business. We owe you a lot more than good electric service. You are paying for that. But simply because you choose to trade with us, means so much. After we have done our best to render the best service possible, we still have a feeling of obligation that no service can completely fulfill.

So, for your friendship, your loyalty, your desire to contribute something for the town's most good, we want to say, "Thank You." A feeling of pride and appreciation wells up in our hearts when we dwell on the thought of what your support means to us and to the town in general. Your patriotic devotion joined up with good business principles is the chief factor in Baird's progress today.

Thank you for being good citizens.

Red Cross Reports on Wartime Blood Donations for Military Needs

WASHINGTON, D. C. — The American Red Cross has turned over more than 175,000 pints of blood for Korean wounded and military stockpiling since it was first called upon to supply blood to the armed forces last August, it was announced here today by E. Roland Harriman, Red Cross President.

In addition Mr. Harriman said private blood banks, cooperating with the Red Cross in the procurement of blood for military purposes, have supplied over 38,000 pints.

Whole blood is flown from the United States to the Far East to supplement blood collected in Tokyo by the United Nations blood bank. It is also used for processing into plasma for military stockpiles and in domestic military hospitals.

Red Cross blood collections have more than tripled since last July, Mr. Harriman said, and the organization has been able to fill all requests for whole blood for Korea and to make a good start on stockpiling plasma.

"Collections must continue to increase however," he said, "if we are to continue to meet military and civilian needs." In commending the Red Cross on the expansion of its blood facilities to meet defense needs, Dr. Richard L. Meiling, Chairman of the Armed Forces Medical Policy Council said:

"The armed forces will continue to need blood not only for overseas shipment but for our military hospitals and for our stockpile of plasma.

"Because the American people are giving their blood for the armed forces the death rate among our military patients in the Korean campaign is lower than it has been in any other similar military campaign in the history of this country."

The death rate of Korean wounded is less than half of the World War II figure and only one-quarter of the rate among combat troops during World War I, according to Dr. Meiling. On an average the Korean casualty not only receives whole blood more promptly than the wounded of World War II, but he receives it in greater quantities.

A twenty-year old sergeant, one of the first Korean wounded, was given 75 transfusions while undergoing surgery and treatment for a leg wound and two machine gun bullets in his abdomen. One in every ten men suffering from frozen feet during the bitter winter fighting had to undergo major amputations. Five pints of blood is about average in the treatment of these patients. Some require much more.

One patient during an operation for removal of a part of his stomach at Walter Reed Hospital, Washington, D. C., needed 23 pints of blood in one day between 8 a. m. and 5 p. m. This represented replacement of his normal blood supply twice. Another case received 15 pints during a 14-hour operation for transplantation of a heart artery. Without these blood transfusions both of these men would have died attending physicians said.

STUDY CAUSES OF CANCER

Researchers at a world-wide cancer conference in Paris recently theorized that cancer results from many rather than a single cause. Such factors as degenerative changes in tissue are believed to combine with outside agents of this modern industrial era to cause cancer. Research into cancer's causes is supported by funds from the American Cancer Society. Give to the 1951 Cancer Crusade.

Trucks Pay Taxes To Maintain Highways

AUSTIN — "Large trucks and buses pay enough taxes to maintain major highways of Texas, with sufficient extra to replace each road at the end of 20 years with one costing three times as much."

Executive Director Jim Taylor of Texas Motor Transportation Association, who made the above statement, based it on actual traffic counts made at various spots by the Planning Survey of Texas Highway Department.

With the truck and bus count, the Association calculated the total amount of taxes they would pay in motor fuel and registration fees.

For example, on U. S. Highway 80 from Sweetwater south, combination vehicles, large trucks and buses paid in gasoline taxes alone $468.94 more per mile than the entire maintenance cost. Trucks and buses each year pay enough in motor fuel taxes and registration fees to pay all maintenance cost on this highway and enough more to replace it was a $102,434.00 per mile highway at the end of 20 years.

According to the sixteenth biennial report of the Texas Highway Department, the average cost of highways constructed in 1947-1948 was $15,186.57 per mile. This included bridges, underpasses, and overpasses.

The average life span of a Class One highway is from 15 to 20 years.

Registrants Required to Report Any Change Pertaining to Draft Status to Local Board

AUSTIN — Brigadier General Paul L. Wakefield, state director of Selective Service, today reminded all men registered with local draft board that the law requires them to report any change in personal status to their respective boards.

"Young men have asked us by telephone and letter just what changes are required to be reported," General Wakefield said. "Generally, anything which may have a bearing on classification should be reported."

The state director pointed to the following things which would be regarded as a change of personal status:

1. Change of address. This as a change in the address at which a man expects to receive his mail.
2. Change in marital status. If a man marries, he should advise the local board of the name of the person he marries, the place and date of marriage, and name of county in which the marriage is recorded. If he has children, date and place of birth should be named, and place where birth is recorded. If he becomes separated, divorced, or his wife dies, this should be reported.
3. Change of job. The local board should be advised only if this is a permanent change.
4. Change in physical status. If a man has had a serious injury or has otherwise acquired a physical defect, it should be reported. It should be reported whether it is permanent or temporary.

5. Students. If a man becomes a student in a school, college, or university, this fact should be reported.

6. Members of armed forces reserves or National Guard. If a man enters any of these, he should advise the local board, giving date of entry and name of organization.

7. Rejections by the armed forces. If a man has attempted to volunteer for the army, navy, air force, or any other branch of the armed services and has been rejected, he should advise the local board.

Much of this information is vital in determining proper classification of any man. The law requires men to keep local boards advised about such matters. All such information, if submitted by letter or card, must be signed by the man himself.

Public Eating Places to be Placed Under Ceiling Price Regulations

FORT WORTH — "Approximately 2,400 public eating and drinking places in the 53-county district of the Fort Worth Office of Price Stabilization will be placed under ceiling price regulations April 1," Ellis H. Boyd, Acting District Director, said.

Restaurants, cafeterias, boarding houses, and other public eating places are allowed to adjust their menu prices to reflect actual increases in food costs, but are prohibited from any increase in markups, under provisions of Office of Price Stabilization Ceiling Price Regulation 11.

The regulation makes it mandatory for restaurants and other public eating places to reduce prices when food costs decline, or if margin markups have been increased.

"They are permitted to raise prices only when actual food costs increase to them," Boyd explained. "It requires them to give the public the same dollar value of food per dollar of sales as they did prior to July 1, 1950. This will result in a rollback for restaurants who increased their margins after July 1, 1950."

"Under the formula worked out," Boyd said, "the menu prices will be stabilized automatically when the cost of commodities used by eating and drinking places are stabilized. This regulation does not allow any restaurant to reflect a higher markup than was used during the base period of the regulation, either the calendar year 1949 or July 1, 1949 to June 30, 1950."

Certain restaurant prices are frozen at the level prevailing during the period of January 16, 1951 through January 25, 1951.

If during this period, for instance, a restaurant offered combination meals, such as plate luncheons, then it must offer a specified number of its lowest price combination meals at the base week price if it wishes to continue with special plates. Restaurant service charges, such as minimum charges, are also frozen.

Under the General Ceiling Price Regulation of January 26, menu prices were frozen at the highest levels of the base period, December 19, 1950 to January 25, 1951. Since many agricultural prices were exempted in the GCPR because they were below parity or because of unusual marketing factors, public eating places have been confronted with rising costs.

Essentially the regulation provides for ceilings based primarily on controlling the markup over the cost of food. Under the regulation every restaurant must fix its prices so as to maintain for a four-month period, starting April 1, 1951, a "Food cost per dollar sales," which is no longer than in the base period.

Boyd said there are 2,044 retail stores in the Fort Worth District that must file price charts under Regulation 7 with the office prior to April 30. Unless these charts have been received and acknowledged by this office prior to May 30, the retailers cannot sell items listed under Regulation 7.

G. V. White and John C. Doss, both of advance arrangements as registration and housing chairman, respectively.

The election of a new District Commander and Vice Commander has been postponed until the summer convention of the district, Jordan said in announcing the spring convention call.
