Country Editor

So Julia is dead. After forty years I see her daily in the boys and girls of town. At this time dad was railroad agent in a town about the size of Lamesa of today. I oft visited Dad over a week end.

Like most county seat towns business district was centralized around the square.

I was 16 and on Saturday nites I would "parade" around the square - much as the boys and girls of Old Mexico do today.

A midsummer nite, the moon at full bloom, the flowers in full expectancy - I met her, my Julie.

Her tiny, most unattractive human package carried such a pulse - such a living soul. A pitiful, tiny, thin kid with hair of yellow strings, a dress of flower sacks, a so-pale skin of East Texas diet - she was Julie.

The weeks grew as did the flowers and the trees and the rabbits of the swamp.

I loved this fairy of a child so much.

On the nites of the week end of summer Julie and I would be "bug" hunting in the richer part of town. "Bug" hunting is to clip flowers in the yards and parkways - and run like mad.

A summer nite, giant thunder clouds overhead, and the air wet with coming storm, Julie and I were chased by an angry man seen in his flower garden.

An angry wind and rain started falling as Julie and I fell hidden and out of breath.

Later we would slip into the City's pool at the witching hour - only to be chased out by the nite officer.

One nite at supper at hotel dad asked about Julie. He said that down the street was her husband - a prominent business man.

A year later, a pre-med student, I read in the city's paper of Julie being found dead in the city's pool - if a fish could swim Julie was better. Did she drink deep of the water - and did she will to die?

Gather your memories while you may.

A big day for the small fry of early grade school is "Maggie's Day" - Fridays when the kids get to go to Maggie's School Store to buy candy, gum, etc.

School days are such happy days and Mrs Spears has done so much to give our children memories of happiness. An unsung hero, as are our custodians and bus drivers, Maggie is far more important to a given child than a school official.

School holds so many memories - Sweetheart banquet, Junior and Senior prom, the class plays, the ball games and so many other events. In all that happens Maggie and are custodians are indirectly or directly connected.

As the moon will change, the sun will set and tomorrow is a new sunrise, so our first graders now will be the families of tomorrow and the wish will be to keep giving the memories they enjoyed.

Gather roses while you may

Next week: Jump thinking
The week following: "Is Sex a sin: why have we so many in mental hospitals"

Later I will tell you how Frenchie and I "fit" the war for a Mexican revolution. Anyone having been dead drunk will enjoy this true yarn

SCHOOL SAVING STAMPS ARE AVAILABLE

Any program which stimulates young Americans to save these days is for the good of the country and for themselves. The school savings Stamp program during World War II proved one of our most effective instruments for teaching thrift and good citizenship.

An adequate supply of savings stamps and books are at local post office and will be on hand to meet the needs of the students and the community in carrying out the Stamp Consignment plan.

The Stamp Consignment plan, has in the past, greatly eased the burden borne by our school systems. The plan eliminates the financing problems of the school savings program which our schools have had to handle.

SCHOOL SHOW SET

DROPOUT PROBLEM IS OF NATIONAL CONCERN

Three million of the nation's young people between the ages of 16 and 19 have become dropouts. Although this alarming number is cause for concern, nevertheless the rate of dropout has dropped from 41 percent to 30 percent since 1950. The term dropout doesn't bring pleasant pictures to mind. Many people often associate the colloquial term with juvenile delinquents. If the boy or girl who becomes a dropout may be a nice young person — just bewildered, unsure of himself, and his goal in life. Many youngsters face the decision of whether to leave school or continue before they are old enough or experience enough to decide wisely. The process which leads to a student leaving school is a long one — and it is affected by the student, his family and his school. Youngsters need guidance and encouragement from their families and school officials. Many people must share the blame for a school dropout.

NATIONAL POISON PREVENTION WEEK SET

Dallas — Poison used to be prominent in intrigue, punishment, and assassination but nowadays children under five are the main victims and many such innocent victims owe their agony to careless parents. To reduce such needless suffering this has been set at National Poison Prevention Week.

The idea is to help people understand that many common household products are dangerous, especially if swallowed. These included certain bleaches, cleaners, furniture polishes, herosene and other fuels, paints, paint thinners and removers and the like.

While Federal law requires labels on such products to indicate their dangerous or harmful nature, experience indicates that many adults ignore such warnings — even those which plainly say "Caution, Danger, warning — keep out the reach of children"

But keeping things "out of the reach of children" is not easy. Young children, especially toddlers, are naturally curious and inquisitive. Keeping them from harm requires cautious parents.

The awful enemies of children include items usually stored under the sink, aspirin and other medicines left on a bedside table or in an unlocked medicine cabinet and handy man clearers and fuels left in the garage.

Removing hazardous items from their original container to soft drink bottles and the like is a common and dangerous habit which traps many an unsuspecting child.

The advantage in Texas is due to dividends being considered community income. In non-community property states they could only
