National Topics Interpreted
by William Bruckart

Washington.—Now that the President has left before congress his request for the new appropriations, many of the all students are wondering more and more when the end of this government spending is to come. It will be remembered that Mr. Roosevelt will a year ago that the total public debt should not exceed $31,834,000,000 and that that figure should be reached around June 30, 1935. When it is considered that the present public debt exceeds $28,500,000,000, it becomes difficult to understand how the President will succeed in sticking to his original assertion to hold the national debt at the figure named.

The Treasury department has just released its annual report and this reveals an increase in the public debt of approximately six billion dollars since June 30, 1932, an eighteen months record. It has made the total cost of the recovery spending program aggregate something over twelve billion dollars since January 1, 1932, when the spending spree really began. To make the vast amount more readily comprehensible if you take the time to figure it out, you will find that the government has been spending borrowed money at the rate of almost twenty-three thousand dollars a minute in the last four years. To illustrate further the magnitude of this sum a figure is given here which has been calculated that there has been about one billion minutes since the birth of Christ and, therefore, the federal government has in the last four years has added about twelve dollars to the public debt for each of the minutes since Christ came on earth.

But to get back to the present plan, presentation of the budget with its maximum outlay of around seven billion dollars reacted to some leaders the assertion by the President respecting the tightness limit for the public debt. In the budget message which he presented just a year ago Mr. Roosevelt boldly stated his belief that "the government should seek to hold the public debt" in the figure of $31,834,000,000.

"Furthermore," he added, "the government during the balance of this calendar year should plan to bring its 1935 expenditures including recovery and relief within the revenues expected in the fiscal year 1936." The fiscal year 1936 begins next July 1. And frequent pronouncements from the White House have made it clear that a balanced budget in that time is quite unlikely. In addition, the treasury said in its annual report that taxes always lagged behind in reflecting recovery of the country. For example, income taxes to be paid on March 15, 1936, and in subsequent installments of that date will be in the nature of levies on earnings of the current calendar year. No one expects earnings in 1935 to be normal. It is obvious, therefore, that the balancing of the budget in the fiscal year beginning July 1, 1936, becomes almost a physical impossibility unless the President should do the unexpected by cutting off every one of the sixty-five or more recovery and relief agencies and should cut off all federal funds for relief of the destitute. If that were done, it is estimated by fiscal experts that ordinary receipts by the treasury would come close to meeting the ordinary cost of the regularly established governmental agencies.

There has been frequent contention by avid New Dealers that Mr. Roosevelt's second budget

President's Views Change
Views Change
picture of his general fiscal policies. If their statements remain true, they resulted in setting up one of the most paradoxical conditions in the history of this nation.

Looking back over the whole Roosevelt period, the thing which observers have never been able adequately to explain is who or what effected the change in the President's views on fundamental financial questions. It is too obvious to precipitate an argument that the President's views have changed. When one goes back to his first message to congress or beyond that to his campaign speeches and the platform upon which he made the race for the Presidency, it is not difficult to attempt to reconcile those utterances with the subsequent spending and borrowing program in which his administration has indulged. It is well recalled that Mr. Roosevelt declared in his inaugural speech an intention to balance the budget and wipe out the deficit left on his lap by the Hoover administration. He went on to say that if congress in its generosity voted sums that placed the budget out of balance it was under the necessity at the same time to provide taxes to raise the excess expenditures.

Since then there has no dispute that Mr. Roosevelt's views have changed and he has acted in accordance with his new found principles. The interesting thing is who brought about the revision of views on the part of the President. Some of the President's sturdiest critics have asserted in the opening days of congress that Mr. Roosevelt was wholly uninformed as to the needs with which he was confronted when he made his inaugural speech. They say he found his original promise to be ill wot and he took the only alternative to stave off a bitter row in his own party, offering much money for congress to spend.

Among the President's friends, I have heard private expressions that Mr. Roosevelt had been misled by some of the group who held his ear at the start of the administration. These men referred to a number of the so-called Progressive Republicans like the LaFollette, Norris, Hiram Johnson of California, and Hiram Cutting of New Mexico. Several of these were so well liked by the President that they were invited to enter his cabinet. Consequently, there are those who believe that Mr. Roosevelt followed the advice of the Progressive Republican group much more closely than leaders among the old-time Democrats. Most of the Progressive Republicans are spenders at heart, according to the general view here. And they are also men who regard a balanced budget as not very important. So, while no one can say definitely what influences altered the President's stand, it certainly is regarded among observers here as being a situation in which the wind makes the straw point toward the so-called progressives, as having joined hands with the President in initiating what has come to be the greatest outpouring of taxpayers' money, except in war time, since our government was established.

Organization of the new congress has resulted in a new cry, in reality a very old cry, but it is "South in the Saddle".

The new cry, since it has been heard in it fifteen years. The cry we are hearing now from Republicans and from northern Democrats is the wall that "South is in the saddle". While there certainly can be nothing criminal about the South being in the saddle, it provides a grand political issue both within the Democratic ranks and between the Democratic party and what is left of the Republicans in congress. It also touches a question that has been discussed many times, namely, the wisdom of the seniority rule in congress. The seniority rule provides that the oldest members in the point of service shall inherit committee chairmanships and shall have other positions of honor in the house and senate.

Out of the 69 Democratic senators only 24 come from what is known as the old South. Of the 317 Democratic members in the house only about 100 are thoroughly acquainted with the life of the Confederacy. Yet in the face of this tremendous growth of Democratic membership coming out of the North and the West, the South is in the saddle more solidly than ever.

The speakership of the house went to Representative Byrns of Tennessee, who succeeded to the post made vacant by the late Henry T. Rainey of Illinois. Mr. Byrns had been Democratic leader and his promotion left a vacancy in which Representative Will Rankin of Alabama was elected, thus moving leadership further to the South. The only plan, if it be a plan, that went north of the Mason and Dixon line in the selection of Representative O'Connor of New York, as chairman of the rules committee.

In the senate we see Vice President Garner, the presiding officer, a Texas, the majority leader is Senator Robinson of Arkansas. The powerful committee on finance is presided over by Harrison of Mississippi; the senate committee on banking and currency is controlled by the father of Florida; the committee on agriculture is headed by Smith of South Carolina. One could go on and name many others although I believe the examples in the seniority rule has not worked to produce as many dues for senate committee chairmanships as has occurred in the house.

Democratic leaders in the house have made certain that they will not be embarrassed this year as they were in the year when the "first New Deal" congress. It is that session they were constantly harassed by the radicals who sought to force legislation which the President and his advisers did not want and which for the same reason the Democratic leaders did not want. The radicals accomplished their purpose by use of what is called the rule of discharge of committees. But that rule has been amended so that to invoke it now, actually a majority of the house will have to sign a petition.

Under the previous rule, the signature of 145 members of the house was sufficient to compel the discharge of a committee. The new house consideration of any piece of legislation referred to it for action. The necessary number of signatures was obtained in three embarrasing cases. The soldiers' bonus bill was brought out by that method; the Frazier-Lanier farm mortgage inflation bill was released for a house vote in the same manner.

The new house organization, however, is determined not to be embarrassed in that manner. It succeeded in Democratic causes—binding on all Democrats in having the original rule amended so that now there must be a majority of all house members affixing their signatures to the discharge petition before it becomes operative.

EAGLES' SCREAMS

Published Weekly by Students of O'Donnell Public School

Editor-in-Chief—Jim Ellen Wells.
Associate Editor—Doc Kyle
Star Reporter—Mildred Goddard.
Grammar School—Melba Harris.

Final exams for the first term were completed Friday, but as report cards were not out until yesterday (Wednesday) we cannot say just how the youngsters managed things. Reports from the grammar school indicate that above the average number of students successfully passed the tests.

Basketball Games Scheduled
At a county-wide meeting of the coaches at Tahoka last Wednesday Coach Johnson scheduled a number of basketball games for the Eagles. Beginning with today (Thursday) they will be played as follows: January 17, Tahoka at O'Donnell; January 23, Tahoka at Tahoka; January 24, O.K. at O.K.; January 25-26, tournament at Meadows; January 29 New Home at O'Donnell; February 1-2, tournament at Klondike.

More games will be scheduled later, and the dates will be announced so fans can keep up with where the games are to be played.

Ropeville won the tournament at Ralls, eliminating the Ralls team.

Eagles Defeat Draw
The Eagles defeated the Draw team here last Thursday afternoon in a game that was fast and thrilling from start to finish. O'Donnell took an early lead, but failed to hold it. Draw leading the score throughout most of the game. However, the Eagles tightened up in the last quarter and won by a score of 27-22.

Girls Basketball Team Organized
The twenty-two girls who reported for the first basketball workout were much surprised when they were presented with new suits. Mrs. Gilbreath designed them, and they are very attractive. Black jerseys have O'Donnell printed in gold letters across the front. Shorts are light colored, trimmed with gold silk braid. The gold number on the back of the jersey corresponds with the number on the left leg of the shorts. The suits will be issued to the eight girls who will be organized into a regular team and substitute squad. Mrs. Lattimore is coaching the team. The court has been leveled off, and new goals erected. Nets are to be placed around the goal, giving them a new up to date appearance. It is located east of the high school building.

Grammar School Shows
Sixth Grade: We have a new pupil this week, Clifton Buchanan. We finished our mid-term exams last week, and most of us came through pretty well. We are back now determined to make good this semester. We have completed our geography project, a map of the United States, showing the various products and industries. We are very proud of it.

Fourth Grade Honor Roll: Lucy Mae Armstrong, Willaden Ballou, Willis Gene Campbell, Theda Eubank, Wanda Zell Everett, Eugene Foster, Margaret Sue Goddard, Ouida Mell Howard, Marcille Lambert, Billie Maxwell, Faye McKinnis, Betty Jane McClure, Irene Pettit, Alice Joe Schaefer, Eloise Shoemaker, Marie Turner, Ruby Lois Shook, Raymond Kelly Curtis, Daniel Eaker, Robert Grogan, Billy Payne, Junior Pierce, and Martin Gene Houchins. All week in arithmetic are: John Ellen Beach, Juanita Cargal, Joyce King Edwards, Helen Jane Gaineau, Margaret Gibbs, Nelida Harrison, Dorothy Smith, J. W. Gumpert, Clyde Manning, Dwaine Mires, Carl Page, Billy Ben Tunne.

First Grade: William Woodrow Hodges and J. E. Larkley hold the perfect attendance record in our room for the first half of the year, neither of them having been absent nor tardy all this term.

We are studying Eskimos this month, and find them very interesting. We are having lots of fun now. Our superintendent gave us a new baseball and we have a real team of first graders. The other side I don't think a large team is interested and sixteen on the other. And if you join, come out and watch us.

Because of the rush and excitement of examination week, the editing and the reports from grammar school did not have time to get their news in before the Index went to press. However, they made up for it this week by sending in a double amount.

Last week's news reads as follows: Seventh Grade: We are all working hard on our exams, and hope we all pass. Harvey Lee McKee, Orbin Houchins, and Clifford Barnes made 100 in arithmetic. Harlow Davis made 100 in spelling.

Sixth grade: Final exams for this term have kept us all busy this week. We are sorry that one of our classmates, Betty Reba Caldwell, has been ill and has missed most of her exams. We hope that she will soon be back. Nelson Fortner, another of our classmates, has moved to Corpus Christi.

Fourth Grade: Martha Jean Houchins is the only one on the honor roll this week, but we hope to have a larger number next time. We are all working hard on our exams.

Third Grade: This room blossomed out this week with three honor rolls. On the spelling honor roll were Para Thena Ables, Doris Ballou, Leona Barnett, John Ellen Beach, Juanita Cargal, Sue Brown, Joyce King Edwards, Dorothy Clayton, Helen Jane Gaineau, Marageth Gibbs, Minnie Gine Hodges, Leta Larkley, Wilma Gene Mison, Emma Lee Pearce, Roy Allen Gibson, James Bean, J. W.

Gumpert, Tiyade and Clyde B. Dwayne Mires, J. E. Manning, Carl Page, Billy Ben Tunne, and Simpson, N. T. Singleton, and Stanley Caltley.

Mimos: B. L. Davis and Everett and Miss Nell Spivey in Lubbock, Tuesday.
