Irrigation Is Big News In '53

A "good well of water" was the climax of the day for the 60 or more farmers who heard the speakers and saw the movies on the subject of irrigation at a special meeting of the Lynch County Farm Bureau Monday night at the school in Richland. In addition to the meeting, the members also had the opportunity to see the new "auditory display" of the Department of Agriculture which is used in the educational work of the government.

The meeting was called by the Farm Bureau and the officials of the Bureau of Reclamation in order to acquaint the farmers with the details of the new system of irrigation and to show the advantages of the system.
