MERCHANTS OFFER BARGAINS ON... FIRST FRIDAY

First Friday. Remember that name, because it signals a new monthly shopping promotion of Iowa Park merchants.

First Friday will be the day each month when you can buy bargains similar to Dollar Day in other communities. They will be specials you won't, and can't pass up.

First Friday begins tomorrow in Iowa Park.

First Friday ads are found on page 3 of this issue. Cooperating merchants on this initial monthly promotion include Parkway Furniture, TC&Y, Park Pharmacy, White's Auto Store, Settle Drug, Louis Distinctive Jewelry and the Iowa Park Leader.

First Friday prices are for that one day only. Merchants cooperating all agree that the same merchandise will not be sold on other days at the same low price they are offered on the day of the promotion.

First Friday, the day you can purchase top quality merchandise at low, low prices, right here in the town where you don't pay a parking fee, is tomorrow, on January's First Friday.

headquarters for the survey will be in the Chamber of Commerce office, and the local coordinators will be Mr. and Mrs. Dean Miller.

THEMES
For a short time there will be some rest from the tedious business of writing themes. Students will breathe a sigh of relief, for they are done with this well-known, well-hated chore--for this semester, at least.

Officials request the cooperation of local citizens to assist the young people by completing a short questionnaire. Information gained from the survey will be shared with other local churches.

Outstanding Citizen nominees are sought

Nominations for Outstanding Citizen of the Year, the annual award presented at the Chamber of Commerce banquet, are now being accepted at the Chamber office.

Organizations and individuals are urged to submit nominations for their candidate by Jan. 19. Presentation will be made at the Feb. 4 banquet.

Mrs. D.O. James received the award for 1970.

Tickets for the banquet will go on sale Jan. 17. Admission will be $4 for the catered dinner.

Also highlighting the banquet will be keynote speaker O. William "Bill" Hayes of Amarillo, and installation of officers for 1972.

Hayes, an internationally-known author, lecturer and management consultant, is president of Hayes Associates, a personnel development firm. He has a varied background starting with 14 years in professional baseball in which time he won two national awards.

He served an elected term as a member of the New Hampshire House of Representatives and also as Major-aid to the Governor of that state.

He was twice nominated for a major political office in Texas, including Lt. Governor.

Hayes is author of many articles on self improvement and his book, "Your Memory, Speedway to Success", has sold nearly half a million copies. He has also written numerous articles for national magazines. Several years ago, he received an international humanitarian honor by being knighted by the late King Peter the Second of Yugoslavia.

He has served as vice president of both sales and personnel development of two Texas manufacturing companies. His firm has conducted thousands of personal surveys as to the buying habits of West Texans.

His talk, "How to keep business at home", contains suggestions that can reap a rich reward for his listeners and it is liberally sprinkled with humor. He says, "I have the most interesting job in the world."

Individuals and organizations submitting candidates for Outstanding Citizen of the Year are not restricted to submitting only one name, according to Chamber officials. But the names must be in the Chamber office by closing time Jan. 19.

Christmas - just south of Santa's home place

By OLIVE BLALOCK

The Aleuts, in their ancient native tongue, called Alaska "The Great Land", and it is indeed an exciting, dynamic land both in the summer and winter. During the winter when there is only about five and a half hours of daylight, it is truly a winter wonderland. One is spellbound by its beauty and scope and the variety of its grandeur.

I found Christmas 1971 in the Matanuska Valley of Alaska just like the pictures of the holiday season on the Christmas cards during a two weeks visit with my son, Keith, daughter-in-law, Marjorie, and grandchildren, Ronald, Kelly, Judy and Kim.

The Matanuska Valley which contrasts the modern and the primitive, is reputed to be one of the most beautiful agricultural centers in the world, located at the base of the Chugach and Talkeetna Mountains ranges. Palmer, which is my family's mailing address, is the commercial center of the lush valley.

Matanuska Valley gained worldwide fame with the settlement of 250 families in 1935. Today the Matanuska Susitna Borough consists of 22,909 square miles, and I have no doubt but what every one of those miles was covered with a thick carpet of snow when I was there. The highways and streets were kept as clear of snow as possible with snowplows which piled the snow in high banks on each side of the roads.

The Keith Blalocks live four miles from Palmer in the Butte Community. Their house is nestled between the Pioneer Peak, named for the first settlers, and Butte Hill to the north, the Lazy Mountains to the east and the Talkeetna Mountains to the west. The setting is conducive to relaxation, peace of mind and heart. I thrilled at the beauty and wonder of the landscape and realized anew that the marvels of this world are made by God's own hands.

Who else could lay a thick white carpet over the earth as far as the eyes could see, drape the majestic mountains with capes of white, and clothe the tall spruce and birch trees towering heavenward in white velvet? Who else could cause the ice fog frozen on the trees to sparkle like ten thousand diamonds when the silver moon beams fell upon them? And who else could create the aurora borealis, a luminous-phenomenon consisting of streamers of light, visible at night in the Arctic regions?

When my plane landed at the International Airport in Anchorage Dec. 17 at 5:30 p.m. (9:30 p.m. Texas time), I did not have to be reminded by the pilot that the ground was covered with ice and snow. By the time, my family and I reached Palmer after having driven over 45 miles of icy roads I knew full well that I was really in Alaska. On the trip up, I had sometimes been in a nebulous state wondering if I really were on my way to the Land of Contrast. Thanks to studied tires and the expert driving of my son, who is accustomed to motoring on Alaska's winter roads, we reached their modern, centrally-heated house without a mishap.

Even though it was a temptation to hibernate in the comfort of the house during the days ahead, especially when the temperature dipped to -27 one night, I kept remembering "when in Alaska, do as Alaskans do", and in following through, 14 days of thrilling adventure lay ahead for me.

On Dec. 18, Kelly, who was home for the holidays from Montana State University, where he is a sophomore student, and Judy, a high school senior, trudged through the deep snow in search of a Christmas tree, their goal being to find the most beautiful tree the family had ever had. They returned with a perfectly-shaped green spruce tree and each member of the family shared in the fun of decorating, placing the multi-colored lights on it and wrapping the gay packages to place underneath it.

Hospitality is seen at its best during the Yule season in Alaska. Each household keeps a full urn of fresh coffee, cookies and cakes to serve the invited or uninvited guests.

Christmas Day surpassed all the others in happiness and joy. The dinner was planned around a 22-pound turkey, and we had just about the same trimmings, vegetables, salads and desserts that the families "outside" were eating. Even though, the children had moose meat and other wild meat, which is delicious, in the freezer, we did not have it Christmas Day.

The Blalocks are members of the First Baptist Church at Butte which is a very small church with only a few families. The building is modern, carpeted, with central heat. Following the morning worship service Sunday, the minister and his wife and three children, who live at Anchorage, came to the Blalocks for a pot luck dinner. They stayed until after services that evening. It was my privilege to tell a Christmas story for the evening worship service.

Winter sports, such as one dreams of--skiing and snow mobile racing, come true in Alaska. It was not an uncommon sight to see snow mobiles racing over the snow-covered terrain with both young people and adults at the controls. One man brought his wife and three children to church on a snow mobile.

Alyeska, Alaska's largest ski resort and other excellent ski slopes are located between Anchorage and Palmer. Keith, Ronald and Kelly went skiing three days within two weeks. Even though, they told me that skiing was easy and the greatest sport in the world, I chose to stay home and do some Christmas baking rather than to accept an invitation to accompany them.

Christmas in Alaska 1971 was truly a Great Adventure which caused me to know that back in 1867, Secretary of State William Henry Seward made one of history's most profitable deals when he purchased for $7.2-million 586,000 square miles of beautiful mountains, shorelines, glaciers, valleys and waters-Alaska which is today the last, greatest frontier. A sign in the International Airport reads "when you leave Alaska don't forget to tell how big she is". It is indeed big, invigorating, thrilling, beautiful and exciting.

Hawks seek conference victory

After getting off to a slow start in District 4-AAA competition with a pair of losses, the Iowa Park Hawks will be gunning for their first conference win here tomorrow night when they host the Graham Steers.

The game will be played in the high school gymnasium. Coach Earnie Reusch said the men assembling the new bleachers assured him they would be ready for the crowd.

Tuesday night's game with Burkburnett was switched to Burk, instead of being played here.

Next Tuesday the Hawks travel to Vernon.

Nothing went right for the Hawks in their conference opener against Weatherford New Year's Eve afternoon in the Kangaroo gymnasium. The Roos were supposed to be one of the weaker teams in the league, but managed a 65-62 edge over the Mean Green.

Both teams were standing on 18 points at the end of the first quarter, but the Hawks held two-point leads, 38-36 and 54-52, at the next two official rest stops.

David Laurence was high scorer for the Hawks with 18. Robbie Bosley followed closely with 17, though he fouled out with six minutes left in the game.

The Junior Varsity lost to Burk, 68-97. Terry Ratcliff and Cletus Copeland were high for the locals with 15 points each.

Other conference games last week saw Brownwood beating Vernon, 77-29; Hirsch on Graham 75-53; and Burk topping Stephenville, 85-40.

Robbery case to grand jury

One of the cases expected to be brought before the Wichita County grand jury when it is selected Jan. 19 is the holdup of the State National Bank.

Evidence will be presented before the jury against Vicki Lorene Bedford, 21, of Burkburnett; Kay Jones, 20, Wichita Falls; and Delbert Lee Pierce, 25, of Garland and formerly of Iowa Park. They were arrested two blocks away from the bank after it was robbed of $585.

The panel, from which the jury will be selected, includes three local residents: Pete Koonce and Mmes. Erwin F. Soell and Cleo A. Nipper.

'Baby it's cold outside'

Area residents have spelled "Burr-r-r" with a capital "B" this week, with the first massive cold spell of the season. Temperatures dropped to 17 degrees Tuesday and Wednesday mornings after an Arctic cold front smashed into the area late Monday. Sleet began falling about 2:30 a.m. Tuesday, but did little more than pile up in banks and on grass. Some dry snow fell during the day.

According to the Weather Bureau, it was the first actual killing freeze of the winter. Temperatures must linger below the freezing level at least four hours to be a killing freeze.

According to District Court Judge Arthur Tipps, the new grand jury will be sworn in and put to work the day they are selected.

Paper drive aids courts

Epsilon Eta chapter of Epsilon Sigma Alpha held a business meeting in the home of Mrs. Frank Harlin Tuesday evening. Hostesses were Mrs. Harold Cowley and Mrs. James Dyer. Mrs. Raymond Cope was in charge of the meeting.

Mrs. Roy Johnson reported on the paper drive project stating that the chapter had taken 1,845 lbs. of paper in for recycling thus far. The money collected has been only about $300, but the amount of paper collected has saved 170 trees.

Mrs. Don Daugherty and Mrs. Roy Boutwell will be responsible for collecting paper this week. Receptacles have been placed at Texas Electric, Lone Star Gas Co., Chamber of Commerce office, Pat's Beauty Shop and Iowa Park Herald and the citizens are asked to either leave their papers and magazines at one of these places or contact the chairman.

The money the chapter has received has been donated to the city tennis court project and swells the total donation of the group to approximately $800.

Mrs. David Padgett reported on a love gift sent to a family at Christmas, and it was reported that the pledges sponsored a party and refreshments for patients at Park Manor Nursing Home during the holidays.

YOUR BIBLE QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

QUESTION: Does the Bible teach that there will be some recognizable signs of the second coming of Christ so that we may know about the time of his coming?

ANSWER: No there are not! Matthew, chapter twenty four says that we are to "watch therefore: for ye know not what hour your Lord doth come. But know this, that if the goodman of the house had known in what watch the thief would come, he would have watched, and would not have suffered his house to be broken up. Therefore be ye also ready; for in such an hour as ye think not the Son of man cometh." (Matthew 24:22-24). This chapter does mention some signs but they refer to the coming of the Roman army to Jerusalem to destroy it which took place in 70 A.D. There are not, nor will there be, any signs to signify the second coming of Christ.

Mrs. George Staf

Our Cook of the Week, Mrs. George Staf of Holliday, has acquired several unusual recipes in the seven states in which she and her family have made their home.

Mr. Staf has oil interests in this area and the couple have lived in Holliday since 1965. Previously they lived in Connecticut, Colorado, Florida, Illinois, Michigan and Missouri.

The Staf's hobbies include gardening and fishing at their cabin at Lake Kickapoo. They are members of the Holliday Church of Christ.

Both of their children are married, the son and his family live in Wichita Falls and the daughter in Oregon with her family.

For her first recipe, Mrs. Staf chose her husband's favorite, potato pancakes. Her method of preparation is the use of raw potatoes and results in very thin pancakes with lacy edges.

Emphasis put on history by students

Some of the subjects chosen are Major Inventions, Songs of History, Witchcraft, Women's Liberation, Weapons, Political Cartoons, The Part of the Mexican-American in the U.S. and the Indian's Story.

These subjects are presented in illustrated lectures before the class and will be given before organizations in the community.

The Senior Citizens will host the first on Thursday, Jan. 13 in their regular meeting at the Fellowship Hall of First Baptist Church at 11:30 a.m. Debra Webb will give a talk on "Religions in America." Jim Henson will present a slide lecture on "Fine Art in American History." Dee Ann Ferguson will be an alternate with a talk on Literature in America.

MESQUITE MUSINGS

By Ruby L. Robertson

The guy who began the custom of eating blackeyed peas and cornbread on New Year's Day may have been pretty smart after all for that day marks the end of the holiday season with its rich foods and late hours. So it's back to work and there is nothing quite as satisfying as work of our own choosing. Our job becomes drudgery only when we are forced to do it against our will.

Work is the meat and potatoes of our daily lives, recreation is the dessert and when dessert is substituted for the main course, we lose our appetites.

President Nixon recently stated that it is time we demonstrated a new appreciation for hard work and what it means for America was built by hard work.

Despite prophets who paint a mirage of the three day week, we will probably have to continue working for the more time we save in making goods, the more time we spend in providing and demanding services. Think of all the kinds of job common today which were unheard of even ten years ago.

Evangelist Billy Graham, one of the busiest men of our time, said in a recent interview, "I believe that many of the frustrations of life are caused by our failure to accept our role, our God-given duty."

It is true that we need more inspiration and motivation to carry on our many chores, but we must remember that faithfulness to our calling is more important than visible results. Like the Jews in the Bible story who returned from Exile to rebuild the wall of Jerusalem; we are also trying to build a world free from ignorance, poverty and disease. May it be said of us as it was of them: We built the wall, for the people had a mind to work."

As I See It . . .

By BOB HAMILTON

The ruling of three federal judges in San Antonio two weeks ago will eventually bring about such a change in taxing that no one will recognize tax collections as we know them today.

That ruling declared that the Texas school financing system, based largely on property taxes, violates both federal and state constitutions. And because it was made by federal judges, its effects will be felt throughout the nation because 48 of the 50 states finance their school systems through property taxes.

The far-reaching effects, as I see it, will be for the ruling to eventually apply to all governmental agencies. No more ad valorem taxes.

You may smile now, because ad valorem has been the whipping dog for years and years. But it's kinda like the United States' system of government: it's not perfect, by any means, but its beats anything proposed so far.

Bill Steger, tax assessor-collector for one schools here, says he hasn't any idea what system of tax collection will be adopted to meet the constitution's requirements. "There are several other ways to raise the money for the operation of schools, but I sure don't have any idea which one the state will adopt," he said.

The Texas decision was made in a suit filed by 15 Mexican-American parents in San Antonio's Edgewood Independent School District. They contended their school district was not financed fairly in comparison with most other districts in the state.

That's reasonable. If you don't have the taxable property, or in other words, the money, then you don't have as much as those who have property or money. Solution: they want everybody else's money; or they want what they don't have.

In the future, when the new system is adopted, all schools will receive a set amount of money to operate on, based on the number of students enrolled.

Questions: Can we, as parents, continue to donate things to our neighborhood school so our children can have what we want them to have?

How about the schools heavily in debt from building construction?

Will the schools with small enrollments have to merge with larger schools?

How will the tax money be collected and who will administer it?

YOUR BIBLE QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

LETTERS to the EDITOR

Sir: Your prize of $25.00 first place money for Christmas Decoration is accepted both with community pride and gratitude.

We wish to commend you and your paper for sponsoring programs which foster community spirit in our town of "friendly living".

In the same spirit in which you gave the gift, I am endorsing it to the Opportunity Workshop and Individual Development Center.

This organization, which helps the physically and mentally disabled by developing their work and self supporting ability, serves citizens of Wichita County and more. There are 3 Iowa Park residents in the work training program today.

Of necessity, a part of the operational costs of a rehabilitation agency must be sponsored by community contributions.

Your prize money has been used for this purpose. We thank both you and the citizens of Iowa Park for making this gift possible.

Sincerely,
Richard F. Weber
