Budget heads agenda for city's meeting

Highlighting Monday night's meeting of the Iowa Park city council will be the adoption of the 1978-79 budget. The 7 p.m. meeting in council chambers is expected to attract a full house, since more than a dozen citizens attended the budget hearing last week. A budget of approximately $1.3-million will be proposed, based on figures provided by City Administrator Gene Britton at the hearing. The tax rate will also be set. Britton said yesterday that the only major change in expenditures he plans to make at the upcoming meeting is the cash carryover from this year. He explained that some of the money budgeted for street repairs would not be spent, and that will have to go into the general fund for the new budget, according to state law. Last week's meeting attracted a number of older citizens who were asking the council to raise the tax exemption for senior citizens and disabled veterans from $3,000 to $4,000. The subject is expected to come up again Monday. Texas Electric Service manager Wayne House is to make his company's formal rate hike proposal Monday, even though he has unofficially given the information to council members. The proposal has already been presented to the Public Utilities Commission in Austin. Presentation of the rate change proposal is now only a local formality. It is assumed, based on past experience, that the city will have to argue the rate change before the PUC in Austin, since that governmental body now sets electric rates in the state, for all practical purposes. Council members voted last week to intervene with other TESCO served cities in the Texas Municipal League, when the PUC hears rural rate proposals before the PUC. The containerized trash system is also expected to be on Monday's agenda. Britton explained that the container manufacturer still has not delivered the small, 1.5-yard containers, and a study is being made to determine if the city can utilize the 3-yard containers throughout the system with the same efficiency. If the study proves the small containers are not necessary, Britton plans to ask that the balance of the money set up to buy the small containers be used to purchase the larger units. The city administrator also expects to have a recommendation ready to hire a new water and sewer department superintendent. Iowa Park has been without a head of that department almost two months.

If the paperwork is completed in time, Britton plans to have a lease agreement drawn for council action on leasing water tower space for cable television antenna. Proposed installation of a large micro wave dish-shaped antenna on the tower at Lake Gordon. Also the company has asked to be permitted to build two small structures at the base of the tower for equipment housing. None of the equipment or structures would interfere with the operation of the water tower, Ben Campbell, representative of the catv system, said.

Chamber hears reports on upcoming activities

Directors of the Iowa Park Chamber of Commerce Monday heard plans for the organization's two upcoming activities, the Whoop-T-Do and the annual banquet. Bill Bates, who will co-chair the Sept. 23 Whoop-T-Do with Danny Parkerson, said the 23 Study Club will again sponsor the street art show, and the Turtle Trot will be moved later into the day to allow more people to see it. Directors approved retaining a $10 fee for organizations to put up booths on the street in the 100 block of East Cash, with a $5 additional charge if electricity is required. Part of the money received from booth fees will go toward renting portable restrooms for public use during the day. Bates asked for suggestions for additional activities which could be added this year, mentioning he is working on having a country fiddlers' contest. Charlie Lee said his committee had selected humorist Gil Strickland of Dallas to be the annual banquet speaker. Lee said the selection was made from a field of some six speakers who were considered. The banquet will be held during the first week of February. Lee also announced that Shamburger Lumber Company had joined the Chamber since last month's membership drive report was made. The support of the community and the efforts of the Iowa Park Volunteer Fire Department in raising money to purchase a Jaws of Life apparatus were lauded by Bill Steger, Chamber president. The organization had endorsed the project.

City sales tax takes big jump

Sales tax rebates to the City of Iowa Park are up 29 percent as compared to this time last year. The most recent payment to the city was $11,455 for the June reporting period. During the same period last year Iowa Park was reimbursed $7,230. For the year Iowa Park has been rebated $35,434 as compared to $27,389 received by June 1977.

Crude shrinking Wichita, Archer Counties yield 10-million barrels in 1977

Texas' crude oil production declined last year for the fifth consecutive year. The downward trend continued in spite of another year of production at or near the maximum effective recovery rate in nearly all fields. Of the 1,128,287,453 barrels of crude produced in the state in 1977, 10,087,624 were from Wichita and Archer Counties. Wichita produced 6,128,918 and Archer 3,958,704. The output of the nation's No. 1 oil producing state in 1977 pushed the state's cumulative production since 1889 to almost 42.7-billion barrels. But, last year's production was almost 51-million barrels below 1976 production and more than 162-million barrels below the all-time peak production year of 1972. Wichita County, which averaged 16,792 barrels per day last year, has a cumulative production since 1910 of 720,817,250 barrels. Averaging 10,846 barrels last year, the cumulative production since 1911 in Archer County is 421,316,330. According to figures released by Texas Mid-Continent Oil and Gas Association, Texas is losing an average of 2.5 percent production per year for the past six-year period.

H.B. "Hank" Harkins of Alice, president of the Dallas-based association, blames the continuing decline in large part on federal price controls on crude oil. "Only increased developmental and wildcat drilling, combined with expensive secondary and tertiary recovery projects, can brighten Texas' oil production and reserve picture, strengthen the state's economy, and reduce our dependence on imported oil. But, we must have the cash flow necessary to finance this activity. It will not come under price controls," says Harkins, an independent producer and drilling company executive. In 1977, 26 counties produced more than 10-million barrels of crude oil, a decrease of one county from 1976 and four from 1975. Yoakum County led in production with 74,354,617 barrels, followed in order by Seury, Ector, Gaines, Hockley, Gregg, Andrews, Pecos, Wood, Refugio, Crane, Brazoria, and Harris. Gregg County, the first Texas county to produce more than two-billion barrels of crude oil in the history of recorded production, remains the all-time leader.

Water curtailment period nearing end

Iowa Park residents are being asked to continue their voluntary water curtailment for at least another week. For almost a month, consumers on city water lines have been asked to cut their use of water, and the public has responded well, according to City Administrator Gene Britton. With hot summer weather, the peak water consumption period is here. And users have cut their water use by approximately half, as the city commission has asked. At first, consumers were asked to cut usage because the water line here from Wichita Falls was unusable. Iowa Park takes approximately half its water from the neighboring city. Then, when the line was repaired, the city's treatment plant was declared unusable, due to lack of long-needed repairs and maintenance. And citizens were asked to continue their curtailment until the plant work was done. That appears to be about a week away. Iowa Park's water treatment plant has a production capacity of approximately a million gallons per day, the same as the city's contract for maximum amount it can receive from Wichita Falls. During peak consumption days, such as summer weekends, when residents are doing most of their yard work and washing cars, as much as two-million gallons of water is consumed per day. The council asked residents to cut consumption by half, not only to maintain adequate water supply for normal use, but also for fire protection, should a major structure fire occur. Sandblasting of wats at the water plant was done last week, and painters began their task Monday, a job that is expected to take until the latter part of next week. Britton said it was possible to start up the plant maybe this weekend, but the moisture would handicap the work of the painters, so the curtailment period was extended until that work could be completed.

WATER PLANT PAINTING IS BEGUN ...workers expect another week on job.

Kamay Baptists set anniversary

First Baptist Church of Kamay will celebrate its 50th anniversary July 1 and 2. July 1 services will be at 6:30 p.m., followed by an all-day celebration July 2 with food, music, preaching and Christian fellowship, said Rev. Frank Ashby, pastor. "As many former pastors as can attend will help with the services," Rev. Ashby said. "Former members and friends are invited to bring a basket lunch and join us in the celebration."

Attractive mother of three city's water meter reader

Brenda Beavers spends a lot of time on her hands and knees, a seemingly unsavory position for a petite mother of three children. But crawling around on her hands and knees, head down, rump up, is about the only way to read an underground water meter. And you thought this was going to be some sob story about a lonely woman who has to scrub floors to support her brood. Not hardly. A year ago in August Mrs. Beavers signed on as the City of Iowa Park's first woman water meter reader. She also handles the turning on and turning off of water to homes and businesses here. On a hot, sultry afternoon this week the Leader decided to tag along with Mrs. Beavers as she made her rounds reading water meters on the north side of town. Dressed in blue jeans and a tank top, she maneuvered the three-speed pickup truck with no difficulty, searching out a suitable shade tree to park the vehicle under before she bailed out to begin her fast-paced task. "I like it real well ... I like being outside," she said, comparing her current job to previous chores as a discount store cashier and an electrical component inspector-tester. She covers her territory with remarkable speed, her five-foot, two-inch frame setting a pace capable of taxing a long-legged man. With 3,000 meters to reach each month, she has no time to tarry. Having never encountered that type of work before, during her first few weeks on the job she would go straight home and fall asleep.

Even today "if I go home and sit down before I cook supper, that's it," Mrs. Beavers said. Like many working mothers, another job is waiting when she gets off "work." The second job consists of her husband Jimmy and their three children ages 7, 4 and 2, who stay with Mrs. Beavers' sister during her Monday through Friday work week.

Her job with the city is not without its challenges. "There was a snake in one of the meter boxes this morning," she said, taking a swipe at a black widow spider with her water meter lid key. Isn't she scared of spiders and snakes? "I was at first, but I'm not anymore." She works with obvious caution, however. Crawling around on her hands and knees, sometimes having to clean away dirt and grass before lifting out the heavy meter cover was a hassle at first. But a little dirt under her fingernails goes almost unnoticed today. On some of the meters, she must lie flat on her stomach, head and shoulders beneath the surface of the ground, in order to read the meter dial. She must be covered with chiggers, although none show on her well tanned arms and shoulders. "No, I don't have any chigger bites. I don't know why because I'm in the grass all the time," she said, dusting off her jeans, sprinting off to the next meter. And then there are other hardships like people complaining that their meter wasn't read, it was read wrong or the bill was too high. When the Wichita Falls water supply line to here was inoperable recently, the murky water servicing homes and businesses here brought a barrage of complaints. Inclement weather presents its obvious problems. But like the proverbial postman, she must carry on in spite of heat, rain and snow. All the shortcoming aside, Mrs. Beavers enjoys her work. She didn't mention women's lib. But there's one problem she can't escape. She must read her own water meter. "Yep, I read it and I don't even cheat. I left the water running on my yard last night and I sure dread seeing what my water bill is going to be."

McCreary-Ritter wedding ceremony performed

The sanctuary of Faith Baptist Church was beautifully decorated for nuptial ceremonies performed Friday evening uniting Miss Debra Annette McCreary, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth McCreary, and Robert Michael Ritter, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jim Ritter of Vernon.

The altar space was highlighted with the meaningful black pewter unity candelabrum that held the candle lighted by the bride and groom symbolizing that "they were no more twain but one flesh."

Before lighting the candle, the couple exchanged vows of matrimony under the direction of Gary Lyles in the upper altar appointed with two large pedestal arrangements of white gladioli and carnations and black pewter candelabra covered with leather leaf holding white cathedral tapers.

A musical background was provided by Tim Adeock, organist, Miss Julie Davis who sang "Evergreen", and David Morton, cousin of the groom, who sang "Wedding Song" and "The Lord's Prayer".

Escorted by her father who presented her for marriage by both parents, the bride hesitated before proceeding to the altar to express her love for her mother and the groom's mother by giving them lovely red roses.

She was a radiant bride in a formal gown of white organza and Venice lace. A high neckline and sheer yoke trimmed in lace and encrusted with pearls, sheer bishop sleeves cuffed in the lace emphasized the slightly raised bodice. The full A-line skirt that flowed into a chapel train was enhanced with two lace panels down the front.

The bride's lace-trimmed veil of illusion fell softly to fingertip length from a cap of lace. She carried a romantic cascade bouquet of white daisies and button pompons arranged with wedding foliage. Adding sentimental interest to her bridal costume, she wore a yellow double chain diamond bracelet, a gift from the groom, for "something new", her great-grandmother's wedding ring on her right hand for "something old and borrowed", and a garter made by the groom's grandmother for "something blue". For luck, she wore a sixpence in her shoe.

The soft pastel colors of pink, blue, yellow and orchid were emphasized in the identically styled gowns worn by the bridal attendants and in their colonial bouquets.

Miss Julie Davis, taking part in the wedding as maid of honor, wore a long pink double knit gown with a cummerbund clasping the waistline and lace accenting the scooped neckline and puffed sleeves. Her bouquet was fashioned of pink, blue, yellow and orchid silk daisies and poms and pink silk streamers.

Mrs. Mike Carlton, Miss Susie Wilkinson of Wichita Falls, Mrs. Joe Owen served as bridesmaids and were gowned in blue, yellow and orchid, respectively. Each carried silk flowers to match her gown.

Miss Tammy Johnson of Wellington, cousin of the bride, wore a pink frock and carried a basket of pastel mum petals in her role as flower girl. Clint Beavers of Abilene, dressed in a white tux with a pink shirt, was ring bearer.

Lighting the candles to illuminate the nuptial area were Terry McCreary and Mark Ritter, brothers of the bride and groom.

The groom and his attendants wore white tuxedos, the groom choosing a white ruffled shirt and his boutonniere consisted of button poms taken from the bride's bouquet. His attendants wore shirts to match the colors of the gowns worn by the bride's attendants.

The groom's father served as best man for his son. His brother, Thomas Ritter, brother-in-law, Henry Goodrum, both of Vernon and Terry Davis took part as groomsmen. Mike Davis and Dale McCreary, the bride's brother, ushered and seated guests.

The couple departed for a honeymoon trip to Eureka Springs and other points of interest in Arkansas following the postnuptial reception given by the bride's parents in the Fellowship Hall of the church. She wore a light springtime jersey knit dress. They will live at the Villa West Apartments in Wichita Falls.

The new Mrs. Ritter was graduated from Iowa Park High School. The groom, a graduate of Vernon High School, attended Vernon Regional Junior College and is employed at United Supermarket as assistant manager.

At the reception, the bride's table was draped with sheer pink polyester caught up in swags centered with pink bows to afford a full view of the pink taffeta floor length skirt. The appointments, each a perfect complement to the others, were a centerpiece of fresh flowers in the chosen hues, the silver coffee service and cake.

The beautifully-decorated cake, a three-tiered structure, lent itself to a spring garden theme in icing pink, blue, yellow and orchid forget me nots and roses and filigree pillars with garden gate appearance. The Sweet Ceremony ornament on top pictured a bridal couple in a bell trimmed with tulle raised by a dais of cut hearts against a heart background. The bride and groom toasted each other with crystal glasses etched with their names before cutting the cake. Mrs. Preston Morton, aunt of the groom, served the cake.

Included in the reception area were a punch fountain table and registry table, both covered with pink polyester. Miss Carrie Rains presided at the bride's book which had pictures of the bride and groom on front. Further appointing the table were the maid of honor's bouquet and the plume pen.

Reception assistants were Mmes. Charles Maddin and Henry Goodrum, sisters of the groom, and Terry Davis. Rice bags were handed to guests by Miss Tammy Johnson and Miss Becky Lucas, cousins of the bride.

The groom's parents hosted the rehearsal dinner at Howard Duff's Cafeteria. The table where the future bride and groom were seated held a silver candelabrum bedecked with silk flowers and candles in pastel hues. Other tables held vases filled with carnations in the same shades.

At the wedding, the bride's mother wore a formal light green Qiana dress made especially attractive with a lace and sheer capelet bodice. The groom's mother was attired in a full length light blue shirtwaist polyester linen lace dress with long sleeves and pearlized button and buckle trim. Both wore carnations tinted to match their costumes.

Among the out-of-town guests were Messrs. and Mmes. Don Beavers of Abilene, Phil Johnson of Wellington, Kansas, Willie Morris and Lynton McCreary from Dallas.

We'll Be Open
4 Nights A Week

SERVING ALL YOU CAN EAT AT GOOD PRICES!

Four days each week, Tuesday through Friday, we'll be open from 6 A.M. until 8:00 P.M. serving country food at its best. We'll feature a special entree each evening, and we promise you'll like what you get.

Every now and then we'll serve a little more complicated meal just to show we can-something like roast Pekin Duck or Prime Rib or great Jumbo Shrimp from the waters off Bayou la Batre, Alabama.

For now, however, we're sticking with the old standbys-things we've all learned to love, slow cooked roast beef, baked Virginia ham, southern fried chicken and catfish with hush puppies.

Of course, Kathy's Cafe will continue its policy of not letting people leave hungry. All our evening meals are all you can eat for one price, though we'll serve children ten and under all they can eat for a lower price.

And if you don't want so much to eat you can choose a hamburger or one of our steaks or maybe even a vegetable plate. You'll find you can eat very well regardless of what you're in the mood for, and you won't have to pay a king's ransom.

Below are our first week's menus. We hope to see you at Kathy's.

"Salt and pepper to taste"—how frequently that instruction occurs in recipes, particularly in meats, vegetables, soups, etc. Glancing at Mrs. Jack Forbes' recipes for this week, we noticed that salt and pepper were important ingredients in three of her recipes.

Salt is used to season, preserve and purify and considered a must by people who are not on salt free diets. Black pepper is considered the king of all spices by a great number of people.

Pepper was once literally worth its weight in gold, and pepper thieves. In the first Queen Elizabeth day, workers who unloaded pepper cargoes were dressed in "theft-proof" suits, without pockets. The fact that the U.S. consumes over 350,000,000 pounds of pepper each year attests to its wide use.

Mr. and Mrs. Forbes have lived in Kamay since 1938 and he is a self-employed pumper. They are members of Kamay Baptist Church where she teaches the Ruth Sunday School class.

Her hobbies are ceramics, fishing and gardening. Her friends say that she has a "kitchen green thumb" and delights in sharing her delicious dishes with friends and neighbors. They are also quick to confess how much they enjoy the warm hospitality of her home, regardless of the time of day or year.

SPANISH CHICKEN

1 3-lb. fryer
1 T onion, minced
1/4 cup green pepper
1/2 t salt
1/4 t black pepper
1 cup cooking oil
1/2 cup sliced mushrooms
2 1/2 cups canned tomatoes
Place oil and minced onion in covered pan and saute. Cut chicken into serving pieces, sprinkle with salt and pepper, roll in flour and brown chicken in oil. When well browned, add mushrooms and tomatoes. Cover and cook about 1 1/2 hours or until real tender.

MACARONI SALAD

2 stalks celery, chopped
1/2 small onion, chopped
1/2 cup mayonnaise
1 T vinegar
1 T sugar
1 t prepared mustard
1 t each salt and pepper
4 cups cooked macaroni
2 hard boiled eggs, chopped
Mix all ingredients except eggs and macaroni in large bowl. Mix well, then add eggs and macaroni. Mix lightly and chill four hours before serving. Serves 6.

PINEAPPLE MARSHMALLOW PIE

One small can crushed pineapple, drained. Put juice in saucepan, add 20 marshmallows and cook until they dissolve, add pineapple and cool. Whip 1 cup cream; mix with other ingredients and bake in unbaked pie shell until done.

RAISIN CHESS PIE

1 cup sugar
1 T flour
1 t vanilla
2 eggs
1/2 cup oleo
1/2 cup coconut
1/2 cup pecans

1 cup cooked white raisins
1/4 cup of water where raisins were cooked

Cream sugar, butter and egg yolks, add vanilla, flour, raisins, 1/2 cup water where raisins were cooked. Beat egg whites and fold into mixture. Bake in unbaked pie shell at 325° for 40 minutes.

SOUR CREAM CAKE

1 box Duncan Hines butter cake mix
4 eggs
1 t vanilla
1/2 cup Crisco oil
1/2 cup pecans
1/2 cup water

1 can sour cream
Mix all ingredients, and bake in Bundt pan at 350° for 50 to 60 minutes.

Pecans may be omitted and 1-8 oz. pkg. cream cheese may be substituted for the sour cream.

COWBOY DELIGHT

2 lbs. hamburger, made into your favorite meatballs. Cook in skillet until done, browning on both sides. Put in large pan and add:
1 can kidney beans
1 can Jalapeno beans
5 or 6 large potatoes, diced
1 large onion, minced
2 cans tomato soup
1/2 t salt
1/2 t pepper

Simmer until potatoes are done.

Roberts-Blackerby nuptials are recited here Saturday

In an impressive and dignified double-ring ceremony performed Saturday evening in the First Baptist Church, Miss Darla Jean Roberts became the bride of David Wayne Blackerby. The Rev. Kenneth Flowers, pastor, was the officiant for the nuptials performed on the sixth wedding anniversary of the bride's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Wendell Patterson.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank L. Roberts and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Aaron Blackerby Jr.

The altar setting was enhanced with a brass arch lush with lemon leaf accented with blue silk bows and two white feathered doves looking happily down on the scene from the top. On either side were striking pedestal arrangements of large heavenly blue mums, white gladioli and gypsophila. The extremities of the nuptial space were marked by fifteen-branched candelabra emphasizing lemon leaf, jade and blue bow accents with tall white tapers burning to illuminate the setting.

Desiring to stress that marriage was instituted by God and the sacredness of the vows, the bride chose a prominent place in the setting for the trinity candlestick and the V-shaped kneeling bench. She planned the presentation of red roses to honor the mothers so that it would give added significance to the service.

Mrs. Kenneth Via, organist, presented appropriate selections as wedding guests assembled in the sanctuary. These included "A Time For Us", "Evergreen", "Make Us One, Father", "Can't Help Falling in Love", "You Light Up My Life" and "We've Only Just Begun". She accompanied Mrs. Kenneth Flowers, soloist, for her selection, "There Is Love", and Robin Fox who sang "More" and "The Lord's Prayer". Conforming to tradition, she played the wedding marches by Wagner and Mendessohn.

The bride was escorted to the altar by her father who presented her in marriage for both parents. A romantic appeal was created in her formal gown of white organza detailed with rich Venise lace at the high neckline, sheer yoke encrusted with pearls and the long fitted sleeves of the slightly raised bodice. Two rows of the lace extending down the front of the full A-line skirt met to form an inverted V and from that point encircled the lower part of the skirt that swept into a graceful chapel train.

Completing the gown was the bride's fingertip veil of lace-adorned imported illusion that cascaded from a cap covered in lace. She carried a Lace Lovely bouquet fashioned of heavenly blue carnations, baby's breath and puffs of white lace.

Keeping bridal tradition, she carried an heirloom handkerchief that belonged to her late paternal grandmother, borrowed pearl earrings from Mrs. Lonnie Fischer, one of her honor attendants, and completed the sentiments with "something new" and "something blue."

The gowns worn by the bride's attendants emanated an ethereal air. Fashioned of heavenly blue miramist over taffeta, they were designed with gathered empire bodices and square necklines, both trimmed with white lace threaded with narrow heavenly blue ribbon. The delicate trim was repeated at the self-ruffle hemlines. They wore matching silk flowers in their hair and carried Tutti-Fruitti bouquets of white and blue pixie carnations.

Mrs. Lonnie Fischer and

Mrs. Wendell Patterson, sister of the bride, participated in the wedding as honor attendants. The bridesmaids were Miss Tamara Thompson and Miss Dee Lynn Smith.

Walking the aisle immediately ahead of the bride and her father were Michelle Roberts, niece of the bride, the diminutive flower girl, and Brian Patterson, the bride's nephew, who was the ring bearer. The flower girl wore a gown like the attendants scaled to her size and carried a white basket of white daisies and blue pixie carnations. The ring bearer's formal attire was a white jacket and shirt with black pants.

The groom wore an all-white tuxedo. His attendants also wore white with blue shirts. Best man was Lonnie Fischer. Taking part as groomsmen were Morris Dillard of Kamay, Dennis Fisher and Gary Blackerby of Wichita Falls, brother of the groom. Duties of ushering were assumed by Johnny Roberts, the bride's brother, Dan Williams, Brian Catlin of Iowa Park and Frank Andrajack of Burkburnett.

Fathers and mothers of the bride and groom wore formal blue shirts and gowns. Mrs. Roberts wore a blue orchid accented with white with her crepe gown styled with a ruffled V-neck and shirred bodice, and Mrs. Blackerby wore a white orchid trimmed in blue with her chiffon gown featuring a capelet and accordion pleated skirt.

Immediately following the ceremony, guests departed for the reception given by the bride's parents honoring the newlyweds at the ASCS Building. Decorations for the function repeated the colors emphasized in the wedding.

The bride's table was one of the most impressive features of the setting.

MRS. DAVID WAYNE BLACKERBY

Covered with a drape type lustrous white satin cloth, the centerpiece was an eight-branched white candelabrum enriched with heavenly blue candles, white silk daisies, blue silk carnations, gypsophelia and fern. Towering above the appointments in the center were lacy white wedding bells.

The beautifully-decorated cake made the occasion more memorable for the bride and groom when they cut it with a silver knife bedecked with tulle, rosebuds and ribbon streamers. The pettily four-tiered white cake featuring rich icing embellishments was draped with pale blue daisies with darker blue centers and separated with two sets of filigree dividers. The top ornament, which was a bride and groom standing before a heart-shaped background of tulle and orange blossoms, lent a sweet tradition to the cake.

The groom's table was laid with a tailored off-white linen cloth trimmed in brown and orange. It was appointed with antique candelabra holding brown variegated candles, the interlocking rings chocolate cake decorated with white daisies with yellow centers and the rice bag baskets.

Guests signed their names in the bride's book with a blue plume pen at a table covered with white satin overlaid with lace. It held a tall white anniversary candle decorated with lilies of the valley and a basket of wedding scrolls.

Mrs. Andy Perry of Oklahoma and Miss Julia Popejoy of Wichita Falls served at the bride's cake and crystal punch service. Mrs. Bob Aulds and Miss June Bondurant presided at the groom's cake and silver coffee service, and Miss Cheryl Horsky directed signatures of the guests.

The groom's parents hosted the rehearsal dinner Friday evening at Howard Duff's Cafeteria.

The bride and groom were both graduated from Iowa Park High School. She is a student at Midwestern State University and is employed at North Texas Anesthesia Group. He is employed at Cryovac. They will establish residence in Iowa Park following their wedding trip to Red River, N. Mex. She wore a daisy corsage touched with blue with her traveling costume, a three-piece blue poplin suit with a print blouse that tied in front.

Out-of-town guests included Messrs. and Mmes. A.D. Blackerby of Hutchins, Robert Temple of Mesquite, Dennis Rogers of Balch Spring, Jerry Powell of Frederick, Okla., J.H. Powell of Eldorado, Okla., Troy Drury of Altus, Okla., Woodrow Blackerby of Mangum, Okla.; also Lloyd Sharp, Mrs. Mary Pickens, David Pickens and Leslie Brown, all of Dallas, Mrs. Andy Perry of Frederick, Okla., Mrs. Johnny Powell, Meri Kayla and Karla, all of Frederick, and Mr. and Mrs. Alan McCuiston of Garland.

Two girls to vie in state contest

Two Iowa Park girls will be competing for the Texas Cinderella Girl title in the Cinderella Tot Division June 26-July 1, to be held on the campus of North Texas State Univ. at Denton.

They are Peyton Michele Parkerson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Danny Parkerson, and Lana Thrush, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Loy Thrush.

Peyton was fourth alternate in the 1977 state pageant. Lana won the Wichita County Cinderella Tot title this year. Both will be in the same division.

Judging in the week-long event will include competition in interviews, sportswear and party dress.

PEYTON PARKERSON

Friday night is the final competition and an awards breakfast for non-finalists will follow Saturday morning.

You can do it!

Regular maintenance around your house can stop energy leaks.

A dripping hot water faucet can waste 200 gallons a month—plus the energy it took to heat it. But not if you do something about it. Texas Electric's free booklet on maintenance is one of a series we're offering to energy-conscious homeowners who want to make their homes energy efficient. It tells you just what to look for to keep your house in top shape through hot weather, cold weather, year-round. Even unhandy people can follow the checklists to keep their homes comfortable and minimize energy bills.

You may also want the other booklets in the series covering such specific areas as insulation, storm windows, caulking, weatherstripping, and ductwork. Just call us, or ask for the booklets on the comments section of your electric bill. You'll see how easy it is to make your home energy efficient.

Worth Quoting

We hate to use the entire column about personal experiences, but we have had several folks to question us about the atomic bomb blast thing.

Seems that the government is trying to locate all those who were involved in the Atomic Bomb Testing back in the 1950's and guess where we were one day in 1951, yep, out in Frenchman's Flats in Nevada.

Anyway, we were about three quarters of a mile from Ground Zero when the bomb went off. It was something we shall never forget. The resulting shock wave was more than words can describe. We were in foxholes six foot deep, that was one time nobody cheated on the depth of the foxhole, and were allowed to watch the bomb drop out of the plane. As the countdown got down to 10 we dropped down in the bottom of the hole and when it exploded the entire countryside lit up like an arch welding flame.

As the bomb and resulting fireball climbed into the sky we jumped up out of our holes, mouths open and eyes big as saucers.

Then the shock wave hit, tumble weeds and every loose bit of dirt came at us, tumbled us back into the foxholes or sent us rolling like dirt in a Norther!

We had no sooner gotten back on our feet than the shock wave came back like a backlash and knocked us down again!

When all this was over a helicopter flew through the blast area testing for radiation then we went in.

In addition to us human guineapigs, the government had all types of equipment in the area to test the results of atomic blasts and let me tell you what, it was torn from end to end.

There must've been millions of dollars worth of all types of equipment from B-29's on down to the smallest fighters to tanks, trucks, huge artillery pieces and you name it.

We walked along looking at smoking remains of what used to be trucks, and all kinds of other expensive equipment twisted like pretzels. One big 155 mm artillery piece looked like a piece of macaroni with the long barrel twisted all over the place.

From what we can tell today, we had no ill effects as a result of the blast except our hair has all fallen out, but we bet that had more to do with genes than with radiation.

During the decade I lived in Lubbock I traveled a great amount of the time. While most of my trips were within the state, I made several trips as far north as Chicago and even to New York city.

Sooner or later, on most of these junkets out of Texas, someone would ask me where I lived. When I told them I lived in Lubbock, Texas -- I might have well said I lived in Itchy Horse, Alaska.

The reaction was generally, "Oh." Nothing more was said. I could tell the person who asked had no idea at all as to where the city of Lubbock was located.

On a few occasions someone would admit they never heard of Lubbock, "The Hub of the Plains"; and they would ask me where the city was in the state of Texas. When I tried to explain -- I realized I only confused the person more.

So, I developed a couple of quick answers to save embarrassment.

If I knew the person who asked me about the location of my home base was just being polite I would say, "it's between Amarillo and El Paso." The answer to this statement was generally, "Oh, yes, I know now where Lubbock is." Another answer was to say, "Lubbock is in West Texas -- between Fort Worth and the New Mexico state line." That would usually bring a knowing nod and the answer of, "Oh yes."

The Lubbock Chamber of Commerce struggled with the same problem. Despite efforts at advertising programs that told about this West Texas city -- most people north of Oklahoma City had no idea where or what Lubbock, Texas was.

I think it was in 1967 when Johnny Carson struck the crowning blow. He read a story from the newspaper which was date-lined, "Lubbock, Texas."

"Where is Lubbock?" the host of the Tonight Show asked. None of the staff members of the television show had the answer. There was no answer from the audience either.

The following morning, members of the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce, who had watched the Tonight Show the previous evening, got together. How would they reply to Johnny Carson?

But, "Choe" Hutcheson, an ex-newspaperman, oil promoter and resident of Lubbock beat the group to the punch. He fired off a telegram to Johnny Carson that read: "For your information, Mr. Carson, Lubbock, Texas is located 90 miles east of Muleshoe."

The end of an era came for Iowa Park late last week, when Olive Blalock resigned as society editor of the Leader.

Mrs. Blalock had served the citizens of this community and area for a number of years as a reporter, first for the old Iowa Park Herald, then with the Leader, and much of that time as correspondent with the Wichita Falls Times and Record News.

No one could ever ask for a more loyal employee. In the time she was with the Leader, which was approximately eight years, she never was late to work (in fact she was here long before me in the morning), and never complained at any task assigned her.

It's going to be a major change in the office. Though we will do our best with her specialty, wedding stories, they won't be the same. No one, and I read more than 20 papers each week from across the state, does a better job on reporting weddings.

Olive will be sorely missed around the Leader office.

There's been a lot of wolf crying around Iowa Park the past couple of years, and I'm still trying to find the source and reasoning.

You remember the story about wolf crying, don't you? That the childhood story about the little boy who found he could get the attention of the entire community when he hollered the word "wolf", because everybody had sheep and that was the way they sounded the warning alarm.

But he hollered "wolf" once too often, when the real wolf had the boy cornered. Nobody answered his call, and the wolf ate him.

Well, since the city council raised taxes here two years ago, all kinds of stories came out about the doom of our town. Taxes would be our ruin.

No one has paid much attention to the fact that the money was needed to give the citizens of our growing community the very basic services we want, and to rebuild the bond escrow money which had been depleted.

Last week, even one of the city aldermen cried "wolf", when he said taxes here were so high no one would build homes or buy homes here anymore.

Alderman C.A. Hicks was apparently repeating what someone else had said, and just didn't check out the figures before speaking at the council meeting.

According to building permits issued by city hall, we've got a lot more homes in Iowa Park than we did two years ago 86 as I count.

I did a column Jan. 16, 1975, reporting construction in Iowa Park, and the population growth of the community since the 1970 federal census.

In it, I stated building permits had been issued by city hall for the construction of 127 homes from the first of 1971 through 1974. And that did not include the 72-unit Woodbriar Apartments.

Well, from the first of 1975 through May of 1978, there have been 129 building permits issued for construction of new homes in the city. That's two more in a three-year, five-month period than the full four-year period earlier.

There were 43 building permits issued in 1975, 32 in 1976, 36 in 1977 and 18 through May of this year.

During this last count period, taxes were not only raised, but building costs have almost doubled, too.

So, I submit there is no foundation to the argument that our present city taxes are serving as a deterrent to new families moving here.

Neither do I believe that those same taxes are hampering the sale of homes by people wishing to move. Homes may stay on the market a little longer than they did in the past, but I believe it is the high cost of the home, rather than the taxes, that affect the sale period.

It's difficult for me to accept the statement that taxes are affecting either construction or sale of homes in Iowa Park. By my own count, we have some twice as many real estate salespeople here than we did 10 years ago, or even five years ago. And I'll guarantee you, people aren't going to jump into a field like real estate in an area where nothing is going on.

Jewelry, tools reported stolen

More than $1,500 worth of jewelry and tools were reported stolen this week in separate burglaries, according to the Iowa Park Police Department.

Leaving police with cold, if any evidence, Wanzell Duggins, 700 S. Victoria told police $668 worth of jewelry had been stolen in a burglary between April 1 and June 16.

Jewelry reported missing and estimated values include a ladies wedding ring $189, man's wedding ring $149, gold necklace $50, 40 record albums $200 and a necklace valued at $80.

Last Friday police received a report from J.L. Reeves, 1009 S. Jackson, that the carport to a residence had been burglarized of $906 worth of assorted tools.

Peggy Capps, 612 W. Cornelia, told police Tuesday that someone had entered her car and taken the car keys, keys to a trailer home and $88-cents.

Hamilton-Schroeder nuptials exchanged Thursday evening

Beautiful simplicity and dignity keyed the wedding ceremony Thursday evening when Miss Kimberly Ann Hamilton and Richard Wayne Schroeder Jr. exchanged their matrimonial vows.

The Good Shepherd Lutheran Church was the setting for the wedding officiated by the Rev. Ernest Quillen, pastor, to unite the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bob Hamilton and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Schroeder.

The ceremony took place before an altar where "The Old Rugged Cross" was the focal point of interest. A table immediately below was centered with an arrangement of blue, yellow and white daisies, white gladioli and gypsophila flanked by single white candles in dark holders to match the wood in the cross.

The spiritual emphasis of the setting was again noticeable in the brass kneeling bench with white cushions where the couple knelt for prayer and the tall white wrought-iron candelabrum holding the unity candle lighted by the bride and groom to symbolize their oneness.

Seven-branched votive candelabra entwined with gypsophila enhanced the altar setting. Tall palms at the outer extremities, votive candles glowing in crystal cups in each window, and a bouquet of blue daisies and poppies, yellow candy-tuft and white baby's breath arranged in a crystal gold-footed bowl on the piano completed church decorations. Family pews were designated by yellow and blue bows.

The impressive musical setting was provided by Mrs. Don Roy Klinkerman, organist and accompanist, Jim Stevens, guitarist and vocalists, Miss Carrie Cole and Norman Flowers, who were featured in duet numbers, "The Lord's Prayer" and "Doxology" during the service and "We've Only Just Begun" for the recessional. The guitarist furnished accompaniment for his vocal solo, "My Sweet Lady".

Mrs. Klinkerman played a medley of appropriate selections before the ceremony, including "I Love You Truly", "Twelfth of Never" and "Wedding Song", and then played the time-honored processional.

As the bride approached the altar escorted by her father, she presented her mother with a yellow rose as a token of her love, then honored her new mother-in-law in like manner after she and the groom had been pronounced husband and wife.

The bride was radiant in a nostalgic formal gown of white eyelet and Cluny lace with lots of ruffles creating an old-fashioned bridal look. The slightly raised bodice, so popular in bridal gowns this season, featured a scooped neckline with two layers of ruffles trimmed in lace covering the shoulders. The skirt receiving admiring attention was finished in a deep lace-bordered ruffle at floor level that extended into a chapel train.

She chose a wide and flattering white picture hat accented with eyelet and Cluny lace with an eyelet sash extending to waltz length in the back. The bride carried a cascade of yellow roses, white carnations, pixie carnations softly tinted blue, and gypsophila. Remembering the significance of bridal traditions to her costume, she wore her late paternal grandmother's wedding band for "something old"; carried her bouquet on the groom's mother's white Bible for "something borrowed" and further observed "something new" and "something blue."

Miss Kellie Hamilton, sister of the bride, and Miss Wendy Baston participated in the distinctive roles of maid of honor and bridesmaid, respectively. They wore matching yellow sundresses featuring ruffles trimmed in white eyelet lace around the slightly raised waists and at the hemlines. They wore white picture hats banded with yellow satin ribbons decked with fresh yellow and white daisies on the bands and streamers. They carried doud bouquets of blue pixie carnations, yellow and white daisies with trailing ribbons.

Little Miss Candace Heinrich, the flower girl, also wore a yellow sundress trimmed in eyelet lace. She carried blue pixie carnations and yellow and white daisies in a white straw hat-shaped basket.

Entering the altar area with the groom and his attendants was Chad Witherspoon, nephew of the groom, who carried the rings on a white satin pillow. He wore a blue tuxedo.

The groom wore a light blue tuxedo with ruffled shirt and his attendants were attired in light blue jackets with darker blue vests and pants.

Jim Stevens served the groom as best man and Perry Schroeder, the groom's brother, was groomsman. Kevin Hamilton of Wichita Falls, brother of the bride, and Mike Mueller were assigned duties of ushering.

Miss Kari Hamilton, sister of the bride, registered guests at the church, then handed out blue and yellow rice rosebuds to guests at the reception. The bride's book table was draped to the floor with a tasseled white linen cloth and held a white milkglass bud vase filled with yellow silk roses and fern and the feathered pen.

The wedding reception was given by the bride's parents at Texas Electric Reddy Room. The yellow and blue color scheme continued to be stressed.

Guests were received by parents of the couple, the bride and groom, and their grandparents, Mrs. Margaret Cole of Dallas and Mr. and Mrs. Carl Sullivan of Iowa Park.

Mrs. Hamilton was attired in a yellow Qiana gown and Mrs. Schroeder chose a two-piece blue silk dress. Their daisy corsages worn at the shoulders reflected the flowers and colors chosen for the wedding.

The bride's table and groom's table, arranged in a V-shape, were separated by a round table covered with tiered ecru dotted swiss holding an eight-cup votive candelabrum banked with yellow, blue and white carnations, daisies and baby's breath.

The bride's table featured a yellow satin cloth overlaid with white lace. Adding beauty were the crystal punch service and cake at the extremities, the maid of honor's bouquet and white napkins accented with gold bells and the names of the bride and groom and their wedding date imprinted in gold.

The three-tiered cake clearly dominated table decorations on her table. Separated with one set of

Announce engagement

Mr. and Mrs. Barney L. Ray of Gatesville announce the engagement of their daughter Janice to Stephen Greenwood, son of Mr. and Mrs. R.R. Greenwood of San Marcos, Texas, and from John Conally Coban, Guatemala and former residents of Iowa Park and Wichita Falls.

The Greenwoods made their home in Iowa Park in 1975 while on furlough with the Foreign Mission Board of the Southern Baptist Convention.

Miss Ray is a 1976 graduate of Jonesboro High School and Four C Business College at Waco. She is employed by the Perry Company of Waco as a bookkeeper.

Greenwood attended Iowa Park High School in 1975 and was graduated from San Marcos Baptist Academy in 1976 and from John Conally TSTI at Waco this spring. He is employed by George Munos Texaco Station.

Greenwood is the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Odus Mason and the nephew of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Patterson, all of Iowa Park. The young couple selected August 26 for their wedding and will exchange vows at 7 p.m. in the Jonesboro Baptist Church after which they will return to this area to make their home.

PUBLIC NOTICE

Texas Electric Service Company, in accordance with the rules of the Public Utility Commission of Texas, hereby gives notice of its intent to implement new rate schedules for electric service in areas served by the company, effective July 5, 1978, or as soon thereafter as permitted by law.

The new schedules will result in a 24.43 percent increase in the adjusted gross revenue of the company.

A complete copy of the new rate schedules is on file with the Public Utility Commission at Austin, Texas, and with each affected municipality. Copies are also available for inspection in each of the company's public business offices.

Monday bad for drivers

Monday was not a good day for Iowa Park motorists and Wichita Falls drivers.

Two residents received minor injuries in separate accidents, both involving Wichita Falls teenage drivers, taking place within 15 minutes of each other.

Jason Winkler, infant son of Joe Winkler of Iowa Park, was treated and released at Wichita General Hospital. He was injured when the Winkler car was involved in a two-car collision at 4:15 p.m. two miles east of Iowa Park on Old Iowa Park Road. An 18-year-old Wichita Falls woman was driving the other vehicle, both were west bound.

Fifteen minutes later Monty Reaves of Iowa Park was involved in a three-car incident at the intersection of Kemp and Kell. All three vehicles were northbound on Kemp, according to the police report. The driver of the car which reportedly caused the accident was a 17-year-old Wichita Falls woman.

Reaves reportedly was injured but declined immediate treatment.

Cake decorating project meeting will be at 10:00 a.m. Saturday, in the County Extension Office, 1626 Midwestern Parkway. Meeting times and cost of the six week project will be discussed at this time. The project is open to all youth 9-19.

Gold Star Tour will be June 30 for 4-Hers turning in a Gold Star Record Book. Judges for this year's tour will be Mrs. Kay Webster, home economist for Texas Electric Service Company, and Mrs. Marcia Parr, homemaking teacher at Hirschi High School.

4-H Day Camp will be July 8 at Camp Perkins on the Old Burk Burnett Road. This year's camp will have some new activities such as watermelon eating contest, bicycle rodeo, and river hike. 4-Hers should check their letter for more information on the day camp.

All record books and D forms are due in the County Extension Office Monday for those wishing to attend the achievement banquet and be eligible for a county medal.

Stanley Watson, a 4-H member from Iowa Park, has been busy this summer with his farm projects. Stanley was one of the lucky boys from District III who was selected to participate in the Houston Livestock Show calf scramble in March. Stanley caught a calf and received $275 and purchased a shorthorn heifer for his scramble calf. Stanley also bought a crossbred steer which he plans to show at the major shows.

For the last three weeks

he has been grazing his two show calves and his bottle calves on hay grazer and creep feeding them also. Stanley has a small feed grinder and with the help of his father he made his own feed mixer. By grinding and mixing his own feed, he saves a great deal on feed cost.

Tracie Morton, a 4-H member from Burk Burnett, has been making her 4-H horse project pay his own way. Tracie has been entering Jr. and amateur rodeos around the country this summer and has won nearly every barrel race she has entered. Tracie will be representing Wichita County at the district horse show in the barrel race at Vernon on June 30.

Tracie is accustomed to winning at district events since she showed Champion steer at the district show last year and her brother the year before. Tracie said her main goal for this year was to win the barrel race at district and get to go to the State 4-H Horse Show in San Antonio in July.
