CHAMBER BANQUET

Large crowd on hand for award presenting

The third-largest audience ever to attend an Iowa Park Chamber of Commerce banquet was on hand Saturday in the Iowa Park High cafeteria when four citizens were honored for their contributions to the community.

The four included John Sibley, "Educator of the Year"; Charley Metz, "Senior Citizen of the Year"; Loys Barbour, "Agriculturist of the Year"; and Bill Steger, "Citizen of the Steger, outgoing president of the Chamber, commented "I wouldn't have thought any tax collector could ever receive such an award." Among his contributions, the tax collector for both the city and school spearheaded Iowa Park joining the Greater Wichita Falls United Way program, and organization of the "Friendly Door", an organization for senior citizens. When introducing Sibley, Supt. Faris Nowell said the coordinator of the West Wichita Cooperative may well be the most qualified educator in this part of the country. The recipient, after reciving the plaque, asked, "This isn't an Aggie joke, is it?" This is the first year for the award.

Obviously choking back tears, Metz simply told the audience "Thank you very much". Bill Curry, who made the presentation, listed among the many credits of Metz his sponsorship of baseball teams during the depression, and lengthy service as mayor and alderman on the city council.

Barbour was unable to accept his plaque from Don Decker, county agent, as he remains home recovering from injuries sustained in a recent automobile accident. Decker lauded Barbour's cooperation with the Extension Service on demonstration plots, and long-time service as a county and state officer in the Farm

Four thefts are reported

Stolen guns and gasoline headlined investigations this week by the Iowa Park police department.

Police received a report Monday from Lary Asford, 10011/2 S. Wall, that someone had burglarized his pickup and stolen a shotgun valued at $61 and a rifle worth $250.

Two incidents of gasoline theft were reported Saturday night.

Someone entered the school bus yard at 603 E. Washington Saturday night and broke the lock off one of the gasoline pumps. Investigation showed almost 13 gallons were

Manager of the Quickie Food Store at James and FM 368 told police a young man entered the store Saturday night and paid for $2 worth of gasoline. The customer serviced his car with $2.58 worth of gas and drove off, the manager told police.

Jimmy Miller, 411 W. Ruby, told police Monday that someone had taken nine wooden soft drink cases from his backyard.

Presentation of the awards followed a steak dinner, prepared by the Iowa Park MuleSkinners, and a humorous talk by Gil Stricklin, of

The humorist encouraged the audience to smile, pointing out 47 muscles are required for the face to frown, but only 23 are needed to smile. "Life is nothing more than a dash between two dates on tombstone," he commented.

In his introduction of the speaker. Bob Dawson, high school principal and master of ceremonies for the evening, brought the house down by instructing Stricklin to not make jokes about the Baptists, high school principals, and Republicans.

During the introduction of special guests in the audience, one recognized was Dr. Barry Jackson, a native of Iowa Park and graduate of the local school system, who now is a practicing dentist in Burkburnett and was recently installed as president of that community's Chamber of

According to a report provided by the Chamber, 402 persons were in the Contracts are extended; trustee election is called Contracts were extended for 11 through May 27. Iowa Park school administrative During a discussion on transporpersonnel and the trustee election was set when the school board met Tuesday evening.

Receiving one-year contract extensions were Harold Cowley, John Sibley, Bob Dawson, Jimmy Alsup, Bob Cole, George Taylor, James Ward, Kenneth Davis, Karl King, Herman Escue and Coleen Roberts.

In addition, Sibley was elevated to a pay scale of 14, which is the highest a school administrator can reach except for the position of superintendent, which carries a 15 designation. The increase will be $1,248 additional pay for Sibley, not including cost of living increases expected to be extended all school personnel in the state by the state legislature.

Trustees set April 7 for the board election. March 7 will be deadline for candidates to file. Terms expiring this year include Bill Spruiell, board chairman, Martha Dudley and C.E.

The board approved a contract with Killebrew Rucker Associates to have plans and specifications drawn for a second gymnasium to be built at the junior high. The contract calls for an hourly rate to have the work done.

Also approved was increasing daily pay scale for substitute teachers from $20 to $25, and for a substitute who works five days without relief a $30

Supt. Faris Nowell explained other schools in the area were paying $25, and it was virtually impossible to obtain substitutes at the lower rate. On the $30 pay, he said a substitute undertakes more responsibilities after teaching five days and should be paid more.

Approved also was the 1979-80 school calendar, which calls for school to begin Aug. 27 and continue tation, Bill Steger told board members problems supervising students on buses are nearing the point where an adult will be needed to support bus drivers.

Steger said most of the problems are the afternoon runs bringing students home from the Valley View campus. Some students are no longer permitted to ride those buses, and discipline as well as damage to the vehicles are almost more than the drivers alone can maintain.

Board members said if the problem continues, strong action would be taken, including the strongest of actions such as eliminating bus service and requiring parents to deliver and pick up children.

Board members said they probably would not approve installation of an air conditioner at the Kidwell cafeteria after a study indicated the seven-ton unit would cost $135 per month to operate.

The unit has been sought by the Kidwell P-TA, which proposes to pay half the $15,200 purchase price. Trustees indicated the cost of operation plus a large installation cost was more than the district could Supt. Nowell announced Public School Week would be March 5-9. Open houses would be held Monday of that week at Valley View, 6-8 p.m., and high school, 7-9 p.m.; Tuesday at Bradford, 7:30-9 p.m. and junior high, 6-8 p.m.; and Thursday at Kidwell, 7:30-9 p.m.

Trustees approved the use of the junior high football stadium by Notre Dame High next fall. Fee would be $150 for high school games and $60 for junior high games.

Two policy changes were made during the meeting. Both were said to be oversights when the new policy book was printed last year.

One change is eliminating the requirement for personnel to retire when reaching the age of 65, now prohibited by federal law. The other stipulated the high school principal would designate a smoking area on his campus. Board members prohibit student smoking or use of any tobacco Steger said it appeared the school would be able to continue using present charges for lunches in the cafeterias through the rest of the vear, but with costs rising rapidly the past couple of months, an increase next year could be anticipated.

Council considers traffic changes

Lacking a quorum, the city council took no action during its regularly scheduled meeting Monday night, but did hold a discussion on a proposal to eliminate one-way traffic near three school campuses.

Mayor Pro Tem Lita Watson

apologized to the audience for the lack of a quorum, commenting there were more in the audience than on the council stand. She said it was council members than audience. She and Alderman Bud Admas were the only members present.

Bradford Elementary Principal George Taylor said he was opposed to eliminating two-way traffic near his school until some provisions for a walkway for children were made.

Taylor pointed out there are no sidewalks for children to use when walking to and from school. One-way traffic gave the children a certain amount of protection when using the streets to walk on.

The city has marked walk areas on the pavement for pedestrian use, and this is said to be contrary to all safety rules, according to John Gaither, representative of Hunter Associates, a firm hired to conduct a lengthy traffic safety study of the entire city.

Gaither said anything which encourages walkers to use the same area as motorized vehicles was contrary to all safety rules. He recommended strict control of lower traffic speed in schools areas.

A recommendation to remove one-way traffic restrictions by Bradford and Kidwell Elementary campuses, as well as the junior high, was made by the Hunter personnel to the city's citizen's traffic safety council.

The local group approved the recommendation and forwarded the recommendation to the council for action, explaining the one-way traffic was confusing and virtually impossible to enforce, because the restriction applied only to a portion of the day when school was in session.

Police Sergeant Charlie Whittingstall also said he was not in favor of lifting the restriction. He said the Bradford area was used heavily by commuters who created a hazard for students who walked.

Steve Morath, city administrator, said he talked with Bob Cole and Jimmy Alsup, principals at Kidwell and junior high, and both said the one-way restrictions were not being enforced. Morath quoted Cole as not objecting to lifting of the control, but Alsup reportedly said a traffic problem could be created.

Because no action can be taken by the council without a quorum, the two aldermen said they would take the comments under advisement and action on a resolution lifting the controls would be taken at the next

A comprehensive traffic engineering study of the city will be provided to the council after it is studied and approved by state and federal agencies, Gaither pointed out.

Iowa Park swept a three-game series with Burkburnett here Friday. The Hawks won 50-42, the Hawkettes 56-43 and girls' junior varsity 31-25.

With 2:48 remaining in the final period, Ron Taylor slipped through Burk's zone defense twice and gave the Hawks a 42-40 edge. Then Jim Richardson hit a pair of buckets, and Randall Griffith's two free shots with 1:19 made the score 48-40.

From there on the Hawks fought off Burk's attempt to get back into the game.

Griffith had 20 points on the night, after going scorequarter and fouling out in the last minute. Richardson, who went scoreless in the third period and had only two in the second, finished with 15.

Jo Ann McClurg, hitting well from the outside, free shot line and on fast breaks, racked up 27 points to lead the Hawkettes past Burkburnett. Tammie Richardson had 13 and Jill Watts 12.

Cotton meet topic

ning along the cotton production practices will be featured at the Annual County R-PEP Seminar and Wednesday. The first session will begin with a meeting will be in the Reddy Room of Texas Electric Service in Wichita

The first session will feature an exploration of the storage of ginning facilities for the amount of cotton being grown in the area now. We will be looking at the economic feasibility of more ginning facilities being built along with the possibility of modular harvest by growers in this area. The information will be presented by Norman Brints, Extension Economist, and Roy Childers, Extension Cotton Mechanization Specialist (a native of Iowa Park). Representatives from module builders and module movers will show alternatives available in this method of harvest.

Hosts for the dinner will be Lumus Industries, Bush Hog-Continental Gin Company, and Murry Gin Company. An invitation is being mailed to every farmer who grew cotton in 1978. However, prospective growers are also invited to the dinner and program.

A survey is being conducted in conjunction with the R-PEP Seminar in an effort to determine the intentions of farmers on future cotton production.

Cotton harvest and gin- Results of this survey can assist in determining if it is economically feasible to build more ginning facilities and where the facilties scheduled at 7 p.m. Tuesday should be located. Growers are being asked to indicate the amount of cotton grown dinner at Underwoods. Final in 1978 along with their acreage intentions for 1979 and where it will be grown. Producers are asked to bring their questionnaire to the meeting.

The second session will be an emphasis on cotton production practices. Weed and grass control will be presented by Dr. Dave Weaver, Extension Weed Control Specialist. He will show recommended chemicals and practices needed for good results. He will touch lightly on grain sorghum, alfalfa, and pasture weed control.

Keys to profitable cotton production will be given by Dr. Dale Lovelace. His information will cover fertility, land preparation, varieties, planting dates and rates, rotations and cultivation. Experienced growers will be brought up to date on the latest changes while new growers can learn the practices needed to be a successful grower.

This event is under sponsorship of the Wichita County Field Crops Committee headed by Fred Dwyer. The purpose of this event is to assist in finding a solution to the harvest problems and to keep growers informed on new production practices.
