

Summer school fees hiked

The cost of making up failing grades in summer school has gone up for Iowa Park students.

Acting on a recommendation by Bob Dawson, high school principal, school trustees Tuesday night set a fee for summer school students believed to be high enough that it will make the program self supporting.

Students will be required to pay $45 per quarter, plus a $15 non-refundable registration fee to take either of the courses, English or math, offered on the high school level.

The new fee would cost a student $150 to make up a full three-quarter class. Charge has been $30 for the first quarter and $20 for each of the other quarters, or a total of $70 with no registration fee.

Dawson had told trustees at an earlier meeting that the summer school program being offered was not only unacceptable, but was also costing the school district money. He said one teacher and an aide had been attempting to instruct both math and English on all four grade levels, and the number of students made it impossible for the teacher to do a good job.

The principal's proposal includes at least two teachers, depending on the enrollment load, plus an administrator to assist in maintaining discipline. Costs other than instruction include building custodian and utilities, he told trustees.

Students will be required to attend classes 11 days to make up a quarter. Classes will be five days a week, from 8 a.m. until noon. One absence will be permitted per quarter, and two tardies will constitute a day's absence, under the program.

Students will continue to be permitted to attend summer school in other districts in any academic area needed to insure they can graduate with their class.

GYMNASIUM PROJECT

Trustees, meeting with architect Don Daugherty, decided to take another angle toward building a second gymnasium at the high school campus.

The board received only one bid from a contractor last month, and rejected it because they felt it was considerably higher than the architect's estimates. It was felt the lack of interest from contractors was the result of work created in Wichita Falls by the April 10 tornado.

The new angle the board will attempt will be for the school to be its own general contractor, and advertise for separate sub contracts, which would include one for building and slab, one for plumbing and one for electrical work.

Trustees expect to open bids in June on the project.

In connection with the gymnasium project, Daugherty offered a settlement for his office's work which was considerably less than the bill which has accumulated.

An agreement was reached at the outset of the project that the board would pay a per-hour fee, rather than the usual seven percent of the total bid fee.

Daugherty admitted that the $22,000 bill was much higher than he had anticipated, and offered to take the seven percent fee on the estimated building cost, which came out at approximately $13,000. Board members readily agreed.

The settlement was for the project to date, and a new fee has started for the rest of the work to construction, but Daugherty said most of that has already been paid for.

SELLHOUSE

Trustees approved sale of the Building Trades Class project house at 701 W. Texas, for $49,500, and adopted a resolution required for finalizing the sales contract.

Other business considered by trustees included:

- * To have a two-inch layer of additional soil applied to the high school football field.

- * Delay action on revamping the high school track to meet metric measurements required by the University Interscholastic League next year.

- * Approve use of a school bus by the Student Council to make a May 19 trip to Six Flags amusement center, stipulating such trips probably would not be allowed in future years.

- * Delayed any action on purchasing a pickup for Jimmy Howell, vocational agriculture instructor.

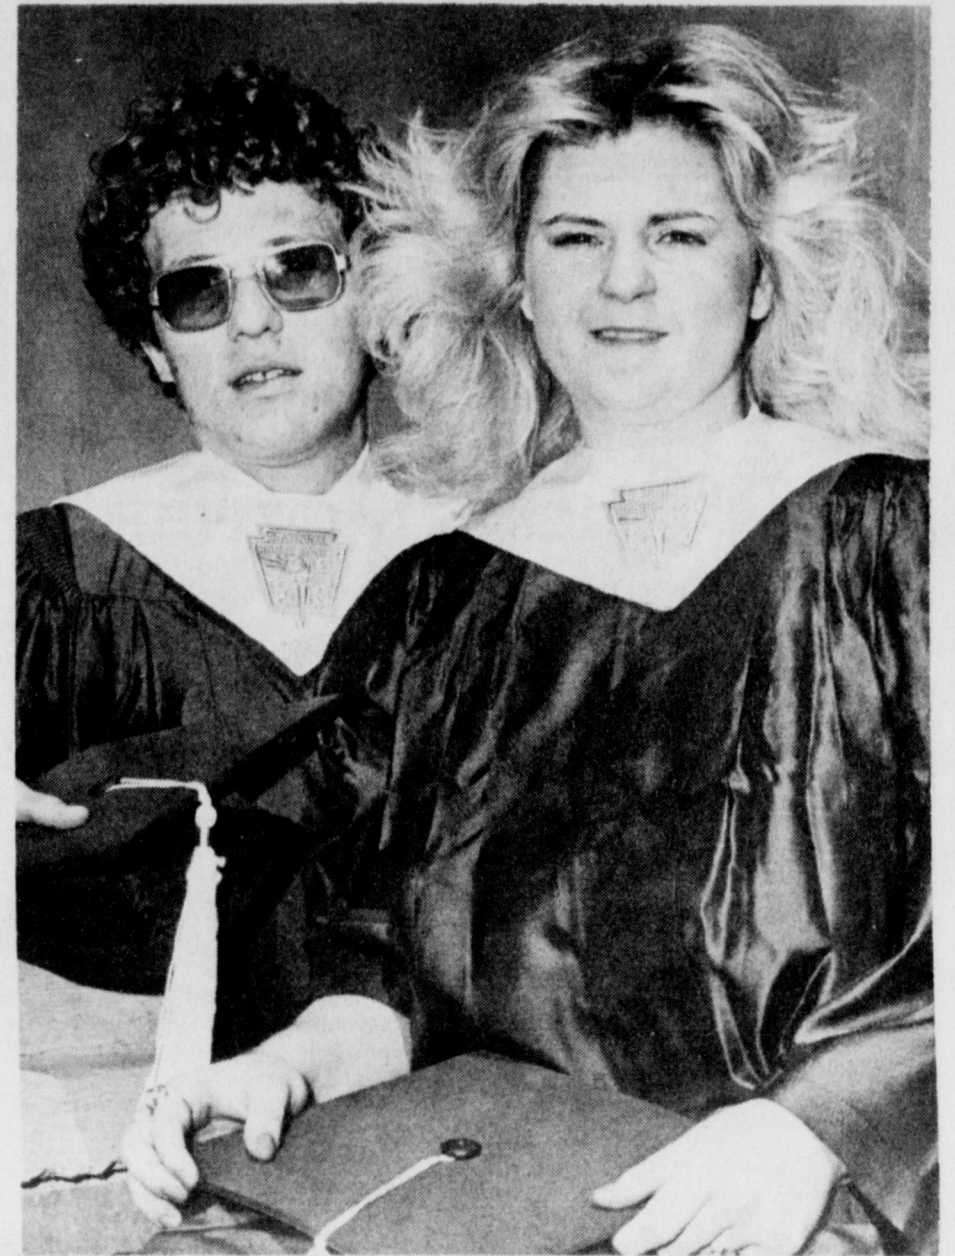

- * Heard a report from Bill Steger that the school's gasoline allocation had been cut 10 percent for May, but he had made a special request for an additional 2,000.

- * Though no action will be taken until the June meeting, Steger told trustees he recommends increasing price for all noon meals in school cafeterias by five cents for students K through 6, and 10 cents for grades 7 through 12.

- * Heard a report from Harold Cowley that $33,985 in damages were inflicted on school buildings by a hail, most of it occurring at the Valley View campus. Cowley said insurance had covered $28,534.

- * Trustees took no action on reconsideration of secretary salary increases, saying they wanted to see what the state salary hikes would amount to in pending legislation.

- * Though the subject of enlarging the school tax office was not on the agenda, Jesse McCullough said the project was needed and should be on the next agenda. He recommended adding onto the building, with a part of the addition to be fire proof for holding of important records.

JILL KOONCE AND TRAVIS LITTLE
...1979 IPHS valedictorian and salutatorian

Jill Koonce, Travis Little named honor graduates

The two Iowa Park High School seniors with the highest scholastic standings, who will deliver the valedictory and salutatory addresses during the 1979 commencement exercises, are the same two who presented the addresses for the Iowa Park Junior High School's Commencement four years ago.

This year, however, Jill Koonce, who was salutatorian of the junior high school, will deliver the valedictory address, and Travis Little, who was the junior high valedictorian, will present the salutatory oration. Both students have a very high grade point average and have excelled not only scholastically but in extracurricular activities throughout high school. They have received many honors by both the school and community, area, district and region, and it is only necessary to mention just a few of their accomplishments to realize that they merit the honor of being valedictorian and salutatorian of the 1979 graduating class of Iowa Park High School.

Jill is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B.W. (Pete) Koonce. She was recently chosen the Outstanding Girl of 1979 in a project sponsored by the 23 Study Club. She has been named to Who's Who Among American High School Students, received Who's Who awards in biology and history. She participated in American Institute for Foreign Study Program and spent a month in Europe studying the cultures.

She was named Student of the Month by the Opti-Mrs. Club and a finalist in the PPG Merit Scholarship Program.

She has been a band member and twirler for three years, in A Cappella Choir three years. She has won numerous awards in U.I.L. competition in band, twirling, clarinet and piano. A member of the National Honor Society, she has also been on the annual staff.

Miss Koonce is a talented pianist and has served as pianist of the First United Methodist Church for a year and a half. She has also taught twirling and piano. She has been accepted to Big University where she plans to major in English.

Travis is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Leon Little. In addition to being the valedictorian of junior high school, he was also drum major. A two-year member of the National Honor Society, he has served as president this year. He has been named finalist for the PPG Community Scholarship Program and in the Merit Scholarship competition. He was named the Rotary Club's Student of the Month and received the Optimist Club Youth Appreciation award.

A three-year member of the high school band, he received the Best Freshman award and competed in U.I.L. solo and ensemble contest three years.

Travis has played basketball four years and received honorable mention in the district this his senior year.

He belonged to Boy Scouts of America earning the rank of Life Scout and went to the Philmont Scout Ranch. He was a member of the Order of the Arrow, the honor Boy Scout society.

Travis is affiliated with the Floral Heights Church of Christ in Wichita Falls where he is a regular song leader. He has worked for Welch Home Builders and the Highland Cemetery Association.

Council approves purchases

Members of the city council Monday evening approved purchase of additional large trash containers and a radio, and also gave the go-ahead to advertise for bids on a new backhoe.

City Administrator Steve Morath explained to aldermen that the meeting was called because of pressure for a decision on the containers by the manufacturer.

Morath proposed the city purchase 60 of the three cubic yard containers since 50 of them were currently in use and 10 more were to be installed this week.

The excess containers were delivered when the manufacturer could not produce a number of one and half yard containers ordered by the city when the new system was initiated. When the smaller units were finally delivered, the manufacturer was to pick up those being replaced.

However, due to continued growth of the city, the extra units have been pressed into service.

Morath said the manufacturer wanted its money now, or the containers, and did not want to wait until the regular meeting next week for a decision from the council.

Council members approved spending $11,070 for the containers, plus an additional $650 for an attachment on one of the collector trucks.

Morath said he would propose that the council budget purchase of 10 more containers each year, based on current growth.

A four-band radio to be used by the civil disaster coordinator, Bud Thompson, was purchased at what was described as a considerable savings to the city.

The radio, initially priced at $1,300, was bought for $500.

It and two other radios were ordered by former Police Chief Charles Beaver, but the purchase was disallowed by council members. The radios have remained in the city's custody, but one was bought by present Chief Jim Voyles for personal use. The other radio has been installed in Sgt. Charles Whittingstall's personal pickup.

Whittingstall explained to council members the radio was used for night calls, saving his response time when called at home. He said he did not have to go to the police station to get a patrol car, since he was radio equipped.

The radio in Whittingstall's vehicle was purchased earlier by the department.

Morath said a backhoe purchased in 1970 for the city's sewer and water department was unusable, due to need of major repairs. Cost estimates for repairs were not feasible, he told council members. He said it would probably cost $2,000 to $3,000.

While members gave Morath authority to advertise for new machine bids, estimated at approximately $27,000 with trade, they also told Morath to seek bids for repairs to the machine so they would have a comparison on which to make a judgement.

The street department has a backhoe, and it is presently being used by both departments. Morath said both departments need a backhoe daily, especially during the current season, or much badly-needed work was not accomplished.

Council members delayed consideration of city hall repairs and a general discussion, both of which were on the agenda, in order to adjourn early to allow a second meeting of the civil disaster committee to be held.

SHORT ON HELP - The entire force of volunteers who showed up Saturday at the Chamber of Commerce to help clean up roadways and parks is shown hard at work. Undaunted by the lack of help, Jake and Andy Jacob and Troy Hrnirnik went ahead and worked like they were three of many. Overall, however, Clean Up Week was termed a success by Keith Aulds, Chairman, because of the number of calls from residents to pick up large items and the way citizens cleaned their yards and vacant lots.

Mischief, fights are headlines

Cases of criminal mischief and fighting headlined Iowa Park police investigations this week.

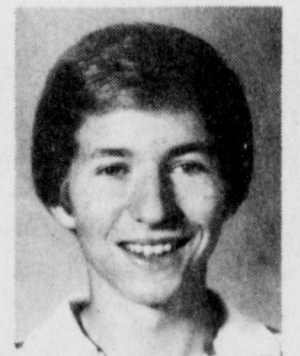

Police received a report Tuesday from Brenda Frye, who saw two boys jumping up and down on the hood and trunk of a car parked along South Texowa.

Later Tuesday afternoon police received a report from Jay Brown, 313 E. Washington, that someone had burglarized his home. A variety of canned and frozen foods had been taken from a cupboard and freezer.

Police received two reports Saturday of tires being punctured. Joe Whitaker, 523 W. Magnolia, reported two tires of an auto parked in his driveway had been punctured.

A similar incident was reported by James McCord, 205 S. Colorado, who found one of his car's tires flattened. What police classified as a family fracas erupted twice Saturday afternoon on Surrey Circle.

In two separate incidents three men received a variety of injuries from the fights.

Cook of the Week

Mrs. James Raley's Dill Bread recipe this week is a reminder that home baked rolls and bread are almost sure to guarantee a meal "fit for a king" anytime of the year.

Dill seeds come from an old world annual of the parsley family referred to anise in the Bible. Like many spices it is surrounded by fascinating history and folklore. A favorite herb of Russia and Scandinavia, it has been used for centuries throughout Europe.

The ancient Babylonians and Assyrians used dill for medicinal purposes. In medieval days the seeds were placed on wounds to promote healing, and it was also popular in love potions for casting spells. Because of its distinctive flavor it has many uses in cooking today, adding a unique touch to a wide variety of dishes. The seeds give salads a special lift and are very complimentary to bread, fish, eggs and cheese.

Peggy and James Raley and two of their daughters have lived in Iowa Park only three weeks, moving here from Clover, S.C. He is regional manager for White Home and Auto Stores. She said that they were very favorably impressed with Iowa Park and the friendly people here and would like to know that they would be permanently located here since they have moved 12 times within the past 20 years.

A native of Houston, Mrs. Raley was graduated from La Porte High School and attended Robert E. Lee Junior College at Baytown. She likes to read and has already checked out a number of books from the Iowa Park Library. She also enjoys sewing, crocheting, doing cross stitch and needlepoint and gardening.

The Raleys attend the St. Paul's Catholic Church at Electra. They have three daughters, Natalie, who is attending business college at Charlotte, N.C., Valerie, a junior and Janna a sophomore at Iowa Park High School.

Included in the slate were David Robnett, president; Mrs. Dick Lunney, vice president; Mrs. Jimmy Banks, secretary; Mrs. Jesse Flick, treasurer; Mrs. Gina Chafin historian; Mrs. Bud Mercer, parliamentarian.

The club voted to pay part of the expenses for four boys from the high school band to go to Austin for state competition in June. It was announced that Mark Cartwright was checking on prices of video tape equipment that the club hopes to purchase for the bands.

Miss Barge, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Don Barge, was named to head public relations for the Center.

HONORED - Ilene McCoy and Betty Lowe were honored in recognition of special service rendered to Friendly Door during the second anniversary celebration of the group. They received certificates signed by the Governor of Texas. Others who received honorable mention were Mmes. Pauline Singleton, Maurice Todd, Margaret Archer, Katherine Ford and Mable Scott.

NBW meets

Twelve members of Night Baptist Women of First Baptist Church attended the meeting Monday in the home of Mrs. V.I. Woodfin. Mrs. W.F. Booher was the presiding officer.

Mrs. Bill Curry, prayer chairman, led the prayer period for missionaries on the birthday calendar for the day to open the meeting.

Mrs. C.L. McKinnon coordinated the program taken from the Royal Service publication which focused attention on Zambia, formerly northern Rhodesia, Africa. "Seeing Is Believing" was the program topic.

She was assisted by Mmes. Curry, Homer Blacklock, E.T. Patterson and S.B. Reaves who contributed topical discussions.

The next meeting will be at Mrs. Booher's May 21 and will be highlighted by the election of officers.

Agape Players here Saturday

A group of Agape Players will present a musical program at First Baptist Church Saturday at 7:30 p.m. The Agape Players are a group of college-age adults who traveled through the United States spreading the gospel through musical drama.

Currently there are four groups of Agape Players traveling both nationally and internationally. There will be five women, five men and a couple with a young child in the group that will present the program here. They will stay in homes of the church members that night and leave for another program early Sunday morning.

Ugly door knobs can be somewhat disguised if they're painted the same color as the door.

MYF slates 'slave day'

The Junior High Methodist Youth Fellowship will sponsor a "Slave Day" Saturday from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.

City residents who have house or yard work to be done may buy a "Slave" for the day by calling the church office at 592-4573 or 592-4969.

Proceeds from the project will be used to further the Fellowship's special programs. Afton Pike Jr. is the UMYF president. Sponsors are Karen Jackson and Wayne House.

Key civil disaster workers named

Most of the unit leaders for Iowa Park's civil disaster program were named Monday night by Bud Thompson, coordinator.

Thompson, while naming the unit leaders and other key officers, explained a general outline of areas of responsibility each was undertaking during a meeting held in city council chambers.

Executive group members will be the mayor, aldermen, city administrator and project coordinator, he told the group.

Unit leaders are: law enforcement, Jim Voyles; fire protection, Danny Skinner; communications and warning, Voyles; water works, city employees; utilities liaison, Bud Mercer; health and medication, Dr. Earl Watson; welfare service, Bob Dawson; transportation, Bill Steger; public information, Ralph Beall; search and rescue, Skinner; legal services, O.N. Newman; heavy equipment, Rollins Woodall; grounds management, Charles Helms; radiological defense, Skinner; and stand-by services, chairman not yet named.

Information sheets, describing responsibilities of each member, are to be printed by city personnel and distributed to all personnel, Thompson said.

Top priority, the coordinator told the audience, was to locate and designate an emergency operations center and alternates. The center would be the focal point of all activities should a disaster occur.

Members of the committee will meet at 7:30 p.m. the first Thursday of each month in council chambers, it was decided.

Pointing out the program was probably 25 years late in being formulated, Thompson said now was the time to get it going and the people involved to assure an orderly effort in case a major incident should ever occur in the community.

Student builders set open house

Open house will be held today between 6-10 p.m. at the fifth house built on Texas Street by the Building Trades class of Iowa Park High School.

The brick structure, at 701 W. Texas, contains 1,609 square feet and features a drive-through carport. It has already been sold, according to Gary Lyles, instructor, who said that the class would move to a new location for the building of homes next year.

As I See It....

Political figures had a field day taking advantage of all the publicity given Gasohol Day at the state capitol last week.

The project was the brainchild of Agriculture Commissioner Reagan Brown, who's promoting the project.

Reagan, one of my favorite people, was doing his job in promoting Texas agricultural products.

It's one thing to talk about gasohol, which is a blend of 10 percent 200 proof anhydrous ethyl alcohol and 90 percent unleaded gasoline," Brown was quoted as saying, "and quite another to be driving around with a tankfull of it."

Gasohol is providing two percent of the auto fuel sold in Iowa. It's nothing new, having been used by some countries during World War II.

I'm trying to get some figures on how much grain is required to produce a gallon of gasohol. It just might be that more fuel is required to produce it than you get.

It certainly wouldn't be the first time we have found such a situation. Figures I've been given was that more BTUs of natural gas are consumed than BTUs of electricity at gas generating plants.

It seems to me that our fuel situation is in such a shape that gasohol would help as much as a tea cup would in emptying a lake which is so full it threatens to burst the dam.

The handwriting is on the wall that we must find some other plentiful source of fuel for future transportation. But in the meantime, we've got to make do with what we have.

I believe we would be in reasonably good shape the government would get out of the business of controlling, immediately, and let oil prices seek their own level.

Obviously, gasoline would rise in price dramatically. But the revenue picture would be so attractive the oil industry would not only have the desire, but the finances, to seek out more sources of crude oil.

With the pressure this would bring from the public, the automobile manufacturers would then dump their stubborn ways and start producing more efficient automobiles.

You think they are efficient today? Well why was it 20 years ago we could get 30 miles per gallon with a full sized sedan, just driving a standard transmission with overdrive. And that was with airconditioning, too.

There's no question in my mind that, if the government would help by aiding those who have new ideas about vehicles and power units for them, and stop trying to control prices to satisfy those who want the free meal, we would be far better off and there would be no shortage of transportation fuel.

But then, I always was an optimist.

Worth Quoting

Some Texas educators are opposing the movement which would require by law all Texas high school graduates to pass a minimum competency examination before getting their diploma. This requirement is an outgrowth of the concern held across the entire nation that too many young people are graduating from high school who cannot read or write well enough to take their place in today's society. There are 33 states which now have such laws or their legislatures are considering such laws to make these basic skills a requirement for graduation. We see nothing wrong with it. We think that a boy or girl who graduates from high school should be able to do far more than sign his or her name with an "X" and should be able to do more than simple arithmetic.

Some educators fear that it will be hard to administer such tests, that it will pull down the entire level of education if the schools have to drop down to the level of the slower students and concentrate upon getting them qualified to pass the minimum competency test. In some parts of the country, critics of this plan say that it is aimed at the blacks and is therefore discriminatory, but of course these laws apply to everybody regardless of race. We doubt if such a state law would have a bit of effect upon Perryton high school graduates but if it should develop that the high school is indeed sending graduates out into the working world who cannot pass the minimum competency test, then their diploma should be withheld until they qualify.

As we went around the country last year visiting various state press associations, journalism schools and political bodies, we found that there is a near universal concern about the quality of public education and that it is obvious that more and more young people are coming out of school without the basic tools we have always taken for granted. This kind of criticism is sometimes taken personally by school people who are quick to point out that the schools cannot be held wholly responsible for this situation. This is true, it is not the fault of the schools, but the blame must be shared by a lot of other groups, including parents and the courts and the government and society in general. The minimum competency test does not require students to be able to conjugate verbs or work algebraic equations, but it does require them to be able to read and write well enough to function in our society and to be able to make change and transact some business.

Humor 'n Whimsey

Joe Riordan

The youngest daughter walked out of the restaurant. Her date for the evening was a few steps behind her.

"Tempus fugit, Mr. Bailey", I said softly.

Mr. Bailey was my high school Latin teacher. He was big. A bear of a man with short wiry hair that gripped his scalp like iron filings cling to a magnet.

His voice was as soft as a mother cooing to her babe when he read Horace or Cicero, aloud. But that same voice could boom out like a Roman orator on the rampage when he thought a student wasn't working to capacity.

"Tempus fugit!" i.e. time flies, he would shout. "Some day you will wake up and find out just how fast time goes by."

Then he would write tempus fugit on the blackboard with the chalk pressed sideways against the surface. The broad, bold letters stood out-like a demon's curse or a message from the eternally damned who repented too late.

I guess what called Mr. Bailey to mind was what the youngest daughter did-just before we left the restaurant.

She leaned over and kissed me on the cheek. Her long brown hair brushed against my face. For a split second I recalled the many times I had held her on my lap with her hair touching my face.

Then she was gone. The Lifetime Helpmate looked at me as I stared at the departing figure.

"Surprised, weren't you?" "Yeah...I thought big girls didn't kiss their fathers in public."

"She's not a 'big girl'. She's a grownup young lady-almost 21 years old.

My body slid into the chair and I rested my arms on the table.

"Tempus fugit, Mr. Bailey. Tempus fugit," I sighed.

The Lifetime Helpmate looked over her coffee cup.

"What did you say?"

"Nothing. I was just thinking about my high school Latin teacher."

Red Cross Bloodmobile scheduled here May 29

On Tuesday, May 29, the Red River Regional Red Cross Bloodmobile will be in Iowa Park at the First Christian Church from 1 through 6 p.m. N.D. Hodson, blood program chairman, announced the visit and pointed that the goal of 75 units has been carefully set to insure the blood and blood product needs of the county are met.

The Red River Regional Red Cross Blood Center is the processing site for 40 regional hospitals. Regular deliveries are made to these hospitals but when a special need arises at a hospital, such as the Wichita General or Bethania Hospital in Wichita Falls, the Red Cross Center sends out the necessary units of blood. Because blood can only be stored for 21 days, donors are always needed to replace the supply. A donor may give blood every 56 days, if they are between the ages of 18 and 65, in good health and weigh at least 110 pounds. Seventeen-year-olds can give with written parental consent.

The actual process of giving blood only takes from seven to ten minutes but with time for registration, the medical history and refreshments, the donor should expect to spend about an hour at the bloodmobile.

A brief medical examination including blood pressure, temperature, pulse and a hemoglobin blood test is given to every potential donor. These are some of the factors that determine if it is safe for the individual to be a blood donor and if the blood being donated is safe for a patient to receive.

MRS. E.E. CLACK of the Wichita County Historical Commission accepts the Texas Historical Commission's Distinguished Service Award for outstanding achievement in the field of historical preservation. THCV Vice chairman Barney Davis (right) made the presentation during the Annual Historic Preservation Conference in Kerrville.

City to install driveway drainage pipe

Holliday City Council Monday night voted to install driveway drainage pipes for homeowners who purchase their own pipe. The council also accepted the resignation of City Secretary Betty Wallace, who has moved to Burk Burnett. Her resignation will become effective May 18. The decision to help homeowners alleviate drainage problems climaxed several weeks of debate after Clarence Whiting and other residents complained of drainage problems. Most of the residents complained of water backing up into their yards during rainy spells.

According to plans aired at Monday night's council meeting, residents will be responsible for purchasing the drainage pipe. A section of 12-inch pipe 18 to 20 feet long apparently will be the average size needed. However, before any pipe is installed it must be inspected by councilman Jimmy Willis to make sure it will meet the drainage needs at that particular location. City crews will dig the ditch, install the pipe and cover it with dirt. Any additional covering, such as gravel or sandstone, will be the financial responsibility of individual homeowners, the council decided.

The council convened in executive session behind closed doors for about 15 minutes Monday night. James Cook, city attorney, joined the council in the closed meeting. When the meeting was re-opened to the public, Cook said the council had discussed possible malfeasance on the part of a former elected city official. The debate was over the job performance of the former official, Cook said. No action resulted from the executive session. Cook also furnished the council with a revised dog ordinance. The council tabled action on the document, and is expected to discuss it further after councilmen have had time to study it. The council tabled action on renewing its contract with Tom Hall for dump ground supervision. They also tabled action on the appointment of a city judge. Hall currently also serves as the judge. Action on the two positions was tabled until after the May 22 special election. Councilmen approved a request by John Hargrill, fire chief, to purchase a radio scanner that will allow the Holliday Volunteer Fire Department to communicate with other fire departments to the north and east in Wichita County. It would expand communication to departments at Kamay, Iowa Park, Wichita West and others. Councilmen allocated $85 to purchase the scanner and crystals. Penny Guthrie approached the council concerning her displeasure with General Telephone Company service. She was wondering what control the city had over the utility, adding she intended to file a complaint with the Federal Communications Commission for invasion of privacy because she has a private line but can hear other people talking and they can hear her in addition to the party she is speaking to. Bill Stegall and Ruby Robertson, representing the Archer County Historical Commission, requested the use of Camp Stonewall Jackson June 6 for a gathering of Archer County and Wichita County historical workers. The council voted to reserve the camp for the meeting June 6. Councilmen also agreed to mow the picnic area, paint and repair benches and tables, and clean the area. Councilmen voted to amend the ordinance on vacant lot and week control. If the city's request to a land owner to have property cleaned and mowed goes unheeded for 10 days, the city will mow the lot. Property owners will be charged $20 per hour with a two hour minimum charge, the council decided.

Katie Williams, Gary McKay top senior class scholars

Katie Williams and Gary McKay emerged as the top two scholars who will be graduated from Holliday High School during commencement ceremonies May 25. Miss Williams maintained a 95.98 grade point average to become valedictorian for the Class of 1979. McKay was close behind with a 95.74 grade point average to earn salutatorian honors. The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Williams, the valedictorian plans to enter West Texas State Univer-

Hodgkins withdraws as candidate

each received 123 votes in the regular election which forced the run-off. Although Hodgkins was in Ardmore and unavailable for comment, Mrs. Hodgkins said she spoke with her husband Tuesday night and confirmed that he wishes to endorse Goforth in the May 22 run-off. Mrs. Hodgkins said her husband had been transferred by his employer

Champion Chemical Company and that they would be moving to Ardmore when school is out for the summer. Despite Hodgkins' withdrawal, his name will remain on the ballot. There is not enough time to have the ballots re-printed before the election to be held in less than two weeks. Holliday residents also will choose a new mayor to serve the year remaining on Ben Ezzell's term. Ezzell resigned about six weeks ago. Candidates in the mayor's race include Tom Hall, Leo Chappell, Mary Denney and Mary Nell Killian. Three persons had voted absentee in the election by yesterday morning. Absentee voting will continue at Holliday City Hall from 8 a.m. until 5 p.m. weekdays through May 16.

Armyworms pose threat to county's wheat crop

Army worms in wheat are all around us, and they are probably headed in this direction. Wheat growers will want to be on the alert to a possible armyworm invasion.

Aerial applicators Ed Pryor, H.L. Abernathy, and Joe Coleman report spraying many wheat fields for armyworms in Archer and Clay counties. They are applying Methyl Parathion, Parathion, Toxaphene, or Dylox. This pest feeds at night and returns to the soil during the day. For this reason, their presence can go unnoticed until heavy damage is inflicted. Growers will want to make daily inspections for their fields during the current spread of the infestation. Eggs are laid in masses on the foliage by the armyworm moth. They hatch in 2-3 days. Their heavy feeding can defoliate the wheat in just a matter of a few days.

Loss of the foliage this early in the season would greatly reduce grain or grazing yields. Most of the wheat is in the early stages of heading and defoliation now would cause serious damage. After the wheat reaches the milk or early dough stage, an armyworm invasion is of little consequence.

We have excellent prospects for a wheat crop, and we sure don't want to lose it now to easy-to-control armyworms. If the cool temperature and favorable moisture continue for just a little longer, we may produce the "best ever" wheat crop in Wichita County.

Clarence Mahler of Iowa Park said, "Some of the wheat has as much as five grains per mash." Wheat makes only two grains per mash (spiklet) in a short crop year.

Frank Morton of Burk Burnett indicates we should not count our eggs before they hatch. He says, "Two or three days of hot, dry winds can change the prospects; the crop isn't in the bin yet.

But, it sure does look good now."

The hard winter has taken a heavy toll on the Coastal bermuda grass pastures, particularly in the Wichita Valley. Fred Daume, Faris Nowell, and Troy Powell of Iowa Park have lost their stands of coastal to winter-kill. Stand-loss is spotty which is probably related to sites where irrigation water tends to stand for longer periods of time.

An inspection of these pastures indicates there was less winter-kill on the south side of the borders, or on areas which had some grass litter protection. The extent of damage will not be known until the grass begins to put out.

Bermuda has both above and below ground runners. Those located near the surface have been killed by the cold weather; however, the deeper stolens probably survived. Regrowth from the deeper stolens will be spotty and slow. This means it may be mid-summer before a solid stand can be reestablished.

Daume is hesitant to go better than half the growing season with little production from his coastal. He is considering the possibility of plowing out the coastal and planting cotton. The severely weakened grass should be easy to kill mechanically in preparation for cotton.

Faris Nowell is looking at reestablishment of his coastal. His plan is to subsoil the pasture with a "big-ox" type plow. This practice will open the soil for better air, moisture, and root penetration. It should stimulate soil microorganism development and help the soil absorb more irrigation water. He plans to let the grass spread back into the dead spots.

The Wichita County Wheat Tour is scheduled for Monday. It will begin with a breakfast at 7:30 a.m. at Big Jim's Restaurant on the Burk Burnett highway across from the Department of Safety.

This year's tour will feature fertility levels, methods of applying fertilizer, variety test, wild oat control with Carbyne and Sincor, and variety susceptibility of herbicides. All wheat growers are invited.

All Realtors have to offer is service. We pledge equal effort, interest and fairness to both buyer and seller.
