SPOTLIGHT ON SPORTS

Saturday afternoon the Iowa Park ball club went over to Holliday to help the Archer county boys celebrate an oldtimers reunion. The Independents ruined the celebration before Holliday managed to get a man out. They scored 5 runs before an out was made and then continued to score at well until the fifth inning, when the game was called in order to allow everyone to enjoy the rest of the celebration. Fred Blasingame was the leading hitter, getting four for four, including his second home run of the year. Lee Roy Weiss was the winning pitcher, allowing one unearned run.

Sunday Iowa Park went to Nocona to play an Oilbelt league game with cellar dwelling Nocona. The locals started the scoring in the first on a double by Huckaby and a single by Corbett.

The Nocona boys went ahead in the second with 2 and the Independents roared back in the 3rd to make the score 3 to 2. The score changed hands four times and was tied once.

At the end of 6½ innings the Nocona team sent a city man out to say that no inning should start after 3:00 and refused to continue the game, although they had agreed to play until 5:15. This agreement was reached before the game started and was violated entirely.

Iowa Park will protest to the league president and board for continuance of the game. At the end of 6½ innings Nocona was leading 9 to 8. Weiss started the game and pitched creditably until he tired in the fourth. Corbett relieved and also pitched good ball.

Although Nocona was ahead when they quit the game, the Independents have not considered the game lost for all the boys feel the league board will vote for continuing the game.

Manager Ray Corbett and Business Manager George Huckaby will go to Windthorst Friday night to get a ruling from the league board.

Next Sunday on the local diamond the Independents will take on the undefeated Burk Merchants in another league contest. The Burk boys won the last meeting by a 4-0 score on the Burk diamond.

Game time has been set for 2:30. They can knock off Burk with a All the boys on the local team feel little hometown support—so let's all go down to the ball park and root for the Independents.

Pay Raise Question Discussed by State Teachers Spokesmen

Clark Wilkes, superintendent of Valley View schools, called our attention to the following release from the Texas State Teachers association, which is an attempt to clarify the stand of the teachers and to answer the question of "What happened?"

Officials of the Texas State Teachers Association said this week administration leaders had consistently refused to consider any reasonable solution to the teacher pay problem and had insisted on increasing local property taxes to finance any raise.

TSTA officials advised the organization's 53,000 members that no real compromise was ever offered by those opposing the $600 teacher pay raise bill. Pres. R. L. (Bob) Proffer of Denton, Exec. Sec. Charles H. Tennyson of Austin, and H. W. Stilwell of Texarkana, chairman of the TSTA legislative committee, also outlined several compromise overtures made by supporters of the $600 bill.

They noted that the Legislature apparently felt the $600 recommendation made by TSTA a reasonable figure because both houses passed the $600 bill, Senate Bill 24, by lopsided majorities. Many administration leaders voted for the bill but refused to raise taxes to finance it.

"Soon after Senate Bill 24 passed the House," they said, "it became obvious that administration forces in the legislature would not permit passage of a tax bill which would raise enough money to finance Senate Bill 24, thereby making the legislative act a futile and useless one. We immediately contacted administration leaders in the house and senate to see if something could be done. These conferences were futile."

Proffer said he had called on Gov. Allan Shivers on May 14, in the hope that some solution might be found, but that the "governor flatly refused to co-operate."

TSTA leaders pointed out that they opposed the so-called Kilgore bill, which would have given teachers a $306 raise if and when the natural gas tax is upheld by the U.S. supreme court, because it would have increased local property taxes and would have eliminated some of the services under the Gilmer-Aikin program.

Administration leaders refused to support any pay raise measure which did not include a provision to increase local property taxes. They also insisted on eliminating state financial aid for supervisors and counselors. An attempt by house sponsors of the $600 bill to take those features out of the Kilgore bill was rejected.

"TSTA should not be and has not been in the position of being willing to cripple or sacrifice its school program for the conditional promise of a small salary increase," the organization's members were told, "when the principles involved were so far-reaching."

House sponsors also offered administration forces another compromise which was rejected. It would have given teachers a $306 raise Sept. 1, 1953, plus an additional $90 on Sept. 1, 1954. It also would have put a dedication tax on natural gas reserves to pay for the raise and the tax would have become inoperative if the supreme court upheld the gas gathering tax. Shivers, although he fought the gathering tax and favored this type in 1951, refused in 1953 to consider this tax, which was designed to collect a great deal of revenue from out-of-state consumers of gas from Texas. Administration leaders again insisted on local property tax increases instead of a tax on long-line natural gas pipelines.

The TSTA spokesmen said their cause is not lost because there will be another session of the Legislature. They mentioned the possibility of a special session, which they noted the governor can call "for the express purpose of solving this vital problem at any time he desires."

They added: "We stand ready, now as in the past, to discuss this problem at any time with the governor or members of the Legislature and to help in every way possible to try to solve it."

Reichart is also chairman of the membership committee for Wichita Falls "Keep your dollar at home working for your community where you must make a living" is the admonition of his committee, and it's a good one for Iowa Park, too.

F. E. Hill and A. L. Reed are assisting W. J. Beasley in laying plans for the drive. W. R. Pastussek is chairman of the budget committee and F. M. Wilson is breakfast chairman.

If all organized pressure groups were as wise and reasonable as the American Farm Bureau Federation, the United States would have much more balanced and effective economic legislation and policies.

Many have followed the policy of "get ours" regardless of what happens to the general economy. But a study of resolutions adopted at the Farm Bureau convention in Seattle last month shows that this large farm group has developed a program in which all segments of the economy are given a balanced place.

The Farm Bureau fights for many things of particular advantage to farmers; but it does not, for example, demand economy in government except where agriculture is concerned. One resolution states that "No segment of our economy, including agriculture, (should) be spared participation in efforts to achieve a balanced (federal) budget."

The AFBF supports a continuation of price supports program that will protect the farmer against radical fluctuations in prices. But the resolutions add: "It is not, however, the responsibility of the government to guarantee profitable prices to any economic group."

And the resolutions state: "In order to encourage high production per man in agriculture, the emphasis in farm programs should continue to be on adequate prices in the market place rather than on income subsidies."

The AFBF does not demand anything from the government that is not both advantageous to agriculture and the national economy as a whole. For many years, as an example, some farmers have been paid federal subsidies for conservation practices which any good farmer would use. The Farm Bureau states that "Payment for practices which have become a normal and accepted part of farming operations of the area in which a farm is located should be discontinued."

These are some of the ways in which the "American" part of the Farm Bureau Federation's program is emphasized. It is a sound plan for agriculture but it is also a well rounded economic program for the nation as a whole.

Only relatives and close friends attended the wedding. A reception was held immediately following the ceremony.

The refreshment table was covered with ecru lace over shantung. The centerpiece was an arrangement of white asters flanked by white candles in crystal holders.

The bride's two sisters Mrs. A. D. Horner of Bowie and Mrs. J. M. Honaker of Abilene presided at the cake and punch service. They were assisted by Mrs. Hazel Peterson of Abilene, sister-in-law of the bride.

Mrs. A. L. Ramsey of Kamay, aunt of the bride, presided at the bridesbook.

The history of fishing over the world has followed a uniform pattern in all nations. Since the beginning of time man has been pitting his skill against the wary denizens of the watery depths. The variations in fishing lure; continues without end, but down through the centuries the lowly fish hook has remained almost unchanged.

Archeologists delving into the ruins of Roman and Greek temples have found bronze fish hooks almost identical to those we use today.

Fishing has been the sport of kings and paupers alike. We find mention of Anthony and Cleopatra fishing for sport on the Nile. Legend has it that Cleo had one of her slaves dive under the water and place fish on Tony's line. (Gals, that's one way of helping the guy.)

Every so often someone goes to great lengths to improve the conventional fish hook, but to date none has brought forth anything of lasting value over the primitive bronze hooks of the ancient Greeks.

From where I sit... by Joe Marsh

A Little Headwork Saves a Lot of Footwork

"I don't ever aim to give up fishing," Pappy Hayes said one day—"but the older I get the less I like hiking over to Pike's Creek. Guess I'll have to bring the fish nearer to me."

So Pappy got his nephew to bulldoze down about three acres of bottom land. Then he dammed up the little stream there.

He wrote the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service, in Washington, and got some "blue gills" and bass to stock it—Mrs. Pappy's idea wound up giving him (and us) just about the best fishing pond in the county... right in his own back yard.

From where I sit, Pappy may be older than some of us but his mind is active—and open. He's ready to listen to anybody with an idea. That's why he and I can talk on any subject—sometimes about his preference for buttermilk and mine for beer. And though we disagree, we respect each other's opinion. That's neighborliness without a "catch" to it.
