Popular Local Couple Wed in Baptist Church, To Make Home Here

The beauty of simplicity was highlighted in the ceremony read Saturday evening in the First Baptist church here to unite Miss Patsy Ruth Steed, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Dewey Steed, and Oscar Singleton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Singleton. Rev. James N. Easterwood, pastor, directed the young people in recitation of their

The musical setting was provided by Mrs. O. E. Lochridge at the organ and George R. Huckaby jr., vocalist. Mrs. Lochridge offered a medley of appropriate selections as guests arrived. Her renditions also included the traditional weding marches and accompaniment for the vocalist's pre-nuptial numbers "Because" and "I Love You Truly" and the benediction song "The Lord's Prayer."

Focal point of the sanctuary decorations was the greenery-entwined arch before which the couple stood during the ceremony. Through the arch could be seen a tall basket of pink gladiolus duplicating arrangements of the same flowers used in flanking positions to the central decorative feature. Palm trees marked outer extremities of the nuptial space which was comletely overshadowed by pink cathedral candles burning in seven- tions. branched candelabra immediately behind the choir rail. The church pews were decorated with candles uprising from graceful standards.

A dainty ballerina length suit of champagne chanteuse designed with fitted jacket and full skirt complimented the beauty of the bride when given in marriage by her father. The front of the jacket was trimmed with self-covered buttons extending from the rolled collar stone pin. Her shoulder-length veil champagne shantung sandals.

The bridal costume was com- tional bride and groom, and the pleted with a cascade bouque of red crystal punch service.

Popular Local Couple Wed in Baptist Church, To Make Home Here

The beauty of simplicity was highlighted in the ceremony read Saturday evening in the First Baptist church here to unite Miss Patsy Ruth Steed, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Dewey Steed, and Oscar Singleton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Singleton. Rev. James N. Easterwood, pastor, directed the young people in recitation of their

The musical setting was provided by Mrs. O. E. Lochridge at the organ and George R. Huckaby jr., vocalist. Mrs. Lochridge offered a medley of appropriate selections as guests arrived. Her renditions also included the traditional weding marches and accompaniment for the vocalist's pre-nuptial numbers "Because" and "I Love You Truly" and the benediction song "The Lord's Prayer."

Focal point of the sanctuary decorations was the greenery-entwined arch before which the couple stood during the ceremony. Through the arch could be seen a tall basket of pink gladiolus duplicating arrangements of the same flowers used in flanking positions to the central decorative feature. Palm trees marked outer extremities of the nuptial space which was comletely overshadowed by pink cathedral candles burning in sevenbranched candelabra immediately behind the choir rail. The church pews were decorated with candles uprising from graceful standards.

A dainty ballerina length suit of fitted jacket and full skirt complimented the beauty of the bride when given in marriage by her father. The front of the jacket was trimmed with self-covered buttons extending from the rolled collar to the waistline and with a rhinestone pin. Her shoulder-length veil was draped with an imported lace of bridal illusion was attached to a rhinestone-studded bandeau of rangement of blue gladiolus. Exchampagne shantung sandals.
