IOWA PARK, TEXAS

Saturday has something for everybody

There's something for everyone this weekend. Try Saturday's menu, for instance.

ELECTION

City voters will elect a mayor and two aldermen. Residents of the school district will name three trustees. City and school polls in Iowa Park are at Kidwell and Bradford buildings, and a third school box will be at Valley View. Polls open at 7 a.m. and close at 7 p.m.

OPEN HOUSE

Iowa Park MuleSkinners are inviting the public to tour their renovated MuleBarn at 111 W. Cash between 10 a.m. and 4 p.m. Besides serving the public during those hours (all you can eat, $4), musical entertainment will be going on starting at noon.

BAZAAR

Just across the street from the MuleBarn, members of the Friendly Door will be holding their annual bazaar. It's an event that has developed a following of repeat buyers.

PLANT SALE

Another event which has developed a tremendous following is the annual sale of bedding plants, potted plants and hanging baskets at Iowa Park High School. Ornamental Horticulture students sell their years' production at prices you'll find only once a year.

TRACK MEET

For the sports buff, in between all the other events the Dist. 3-AAAA girls' track meet will be held at Burkburnett. The Hawkettes will be running for their first conference championship.

City, school voters to polls

Iowa Park voters will elect a mayor and two aldermen Saturday, and school district voters will decide on three trustee positions.

Polls will open at 7 a.m. and close at 7 p.m.

There will be two boxes for city voters, at Kidwell and Bradford Elementary buildings, with the railroad serving as the dividing line for precincts.

School voters will have three voting polls. Two are at the elementary campuses and the third is at Valley View, where the poll will be located in the metal building north of the school house.

There was a considerable increase during the past week in absentee voting. Thirteen ballots were cast in the city election and eight in the school by Tuesday's deadline. Only four ballots had been cast this time last week, all in the city box.

Only one candidate is on the ballot for mayor, as Johnny Crawford decided to step down after three terms. Charlie Lee, completing his first year as alderman, is the lone candidate.

In the event Lee is elected, the new council will name someone to fill the unexpired term. Though it is not a policy, the council usually appoints the unsuccessful candidate for alderman who drew the highest number of votes in the latest election.

Most of the competition in voting Saturday will be for two alderman seats on the council. Seven candidates have tossed their hats into the ring.

Of the two seats to be voted on, one is being vacated by Lita Watson, who has also served three terms on the council and has decided not to seek a fourth term. Bud Thompson is the only city incumbent seeking re-election.

The order in which alderman candidate names will appear on the ballot is: George Hammonds, Ken Thornton, Johnny Coker, Herman Rains, Walter M. Berbee, John Kight and Thompson.

Besides Thompson, Hammonds is the only candidate with previous council experience. He was unsuccessful in his bid for re-election last spring after serving one term.

All three trustee incumbents are seeking re-election, with one candidate, Virginia Klinkerman, challenging.

Terms are expiring for Roy Boutwell, who is serving as board chairman, Martha Dudley and Ray Hicks.

The order in which the candidates' names appear on the ballot is Klinkerman, Hicks, Boutwell and Dudley.

In both the city and school elections, candidates run at-large. Candidates receiving the most votes are declared victors.

Election ballots for the school election will be canvassed next Thursday evening. The board has set its meeting for April that evening, because the second Tuesday conflicts with the school's Easter vacation.

City ballots will be canvassed at the next council meeting, Apr. 12.

IOWA PARK STUDENTS WHO QUALIFIED FOR THE REGION ONE LITERARY MEET

Iowa Park in running for literary trophy

With the one-act play competition to be held today on the campus of Vernon Regional Junior College, Iowa Park High School is still in the running to win the Dist. 3-AAAA literary meet.

All the other contests were held here Saturday. Vernon leads in total points with 155, followed by Iowa Park, 125, Hirschi, 85, Burkburnett, 75, Mineral Wells, 40, and Graham, 14.

According to the University Interscholastic League handbook, points for first, second and third placings in the one-act play contest are 40, 30 and 20. Additionally, individuals are judged and receive three, two and one points.

Iowa Park students have a long string of first and second place finishes in the one-act play contest. This is the first year the play will be directed by John Warnock, but he has already produced two first-place winners, a second and one third place in the other literary contests.

Iowa Park qualified 13 individuals

MuleSkinners to celebrate remodeling with public feed

In observation of their building renovation, the Iowa Park MuleSkinners will hold a community feed from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday.

But there will be a lot more than food available, as musical entertainment will be available beginning at noon.

About a year ago the civic organization purchased the building at 111 W. Cash. It was divided into two rooms, with the front to serve as a meeting area and the rear as the kitchen.

But the MuleSkinners won't be using their kitchen much Saturday. Most of the cooking will take place at the front curb and patrons will have a choice of eating inside or on the sidewalk.

Only a portion of the block will be closed to traffic, but traffic will be allowed between Wall and Yosemite.

The menu includes fish fillets, fried potatoes, cole slaw, chili, beans and ice tea. And the price is only $4 for all you can eat (but no doggie bags, please, according to Billy James, president).

Starting at noon, Judge Pee Wee Stewart and his string band will be entertaining. Following him will be Danny and his Red River Review, a boys' quartet from Iowa Park High consisting of Terry Escue, Brian Fowler, Jay Yeakley and Buddy Mercer, and dance students of Tammie Gann.

A float will be used for their stage, so everyone can see as well as hear.

In addition to their remodeling of the building, the MuleSkinners have recently built and installed a large cooker in the rear of the building which can cook two dozen brisquets at one time.

Organized to do public relations for Iowa Park, the MuleSkinners cook mostly for special events and meetings of other organizations. They will cook for as few as 100, their minimum, but they have served groups of more than 2,000.

Part of their intentions in purchasing the "MuleBarn" was to have a meeting place. But another purpose was to renovate it, to help the appearance of the downtown area, where structures were in sad state of repairs.

Their effort has attracted the praise of both the public and city officials.

Mistrial declared in Boren's case

The prosecution was a long way from convincing an Archer County jury that Iowa Parkan J.W. Boren illegally sold oil tank "bottoms."

After some six hours of deliberation, the jury announced late Friday in Archer City that it was deadlocked, and judge Frank Douthitt declared the trial in his 97th District Court a mistrial.

Judge Douthitt said 10 members of the jury favored acquittal and only two voted for conviction. But the fact that after numerous votes, the count never changed, convinced the judge there would not be a change, regardless of how long deliberations lasted.

District Attorney Jack McGaughey said he plans to have Boren retried on the charges, which are classified as third degree felonies.

The prosecution's chief witness was David Styles of Wichita Falls, who operated Styles Tank Service at Kamay. Styles late last year pleaded guilty to theft of oil and is serving a 10-year sentence in state prison.

In his final argument Friday, Boren's attorney, Cletus Schenk pointed out several "holes" in the prosecution, after he had pointed out the case was a "... special interest case being prosecuted by a special interest group with a special prosecutor."

He was referring to special prosecutor Michael Payne of Wichita Falls, who has been hired by the North Texas Oil and Gas Association in an effort to stop alleged oil field thefts.

It was Payne who handled all the final argument Friday.

The prosecution offered six pieces of physical evidence, five checks allegedly made out by Styles to Boren, and a map. Schenk noted that the prosecution had never ascertained whether the signatures on the backs of the checks were Boren's. He also said three of the checks were noted to be for pipe or sucker rod, two had no notations, and they "don't prove anything."

Schenk said Boren "... had a right to dispose of the bottoms. He was doing what his boss (Latimer) told him to do." The defense's only witness called to the stand was prosecutor Payne.

The bottoms reportedly came from leases owned by Hammond Properties in Archer County, including the Ferguson D Lease. Boren has been a pumper on Hammond Properties some 27 years, it was pointed out, and he had never been accused of any thefts over all those years.

The defense attorney told the jury that the case would have never been brought to trial if it were a civil case in which Hammond Properties were attempting to recover what it had allegedly lost in thefts. "The evidence presented would have never allowed preponderance," he stated.

No date has been set for a retrial of Boren's case. Two other men were indicted in October by the same grand jury as was Boren. A May 4 date has been set in Archer City to try Ed Cornelison of Holliday, but no date has been established to try Clay Witherspoon of Wichita Falls.

Banks, Brown nuptials are solemnized Saturday

Simplicity and beauty were characteristic of altar decorations arranged for the double-ring ceremony at First Baptist Church Saturday afternoon for the double-ring ceremony uniting in marriage Miss Tamela LeeAnn Banks and Steven Scott Brown. Rev. Fred McDowell, Director of Missions of Wichita, Archer, Clay Baptist Association, directed the couple in recitation of their nuptial vows.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Banks, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John C. Brown.

Mrs. Jackie Perkins served at the registration table in the church foyer where the decorations followed a pink and burgundy combination, the colors that governed decorations and appointments for the wedding and reception.

The round table was covered with pink polyester overlaid with flowered pink Chantilly lace featuring drapes caught up with pink silk bows at the top. The adornments were a bouquet of pink, burgundy and white silk roses, baby's breath, white lace-bordered pink ribbon bows accented with a white lace fan, and a pink plume pen.

On a long table nearby, the couple's framed invitation touched with hand-painted wedding symbols and a pink silk bow was placed in front of a floral bouquet in the chosen colors flanked by pink candles burning in single gold candlesticks.

For the recitation of their vows, the bride and groom stood before an archway entwined with boxwood greenery softened with three pink silk bows. The choir rail in the background was swagged with the greenery and bows.

Mrs. Jim Medlinger, organist, presented a concert of prelude music including "Walk Hand in Hand," "Oh Perfect Love," "Savior, Like a Shepherd Lead Us," and "Whither Thou Goest." For the processional, she played Lohengrin's Bridal Chorus and played "Midsummer Night's Dream" by Mendelssohn for the recessional. Mrs. Pat Young of Seymour, pianist, furnished accompaniment for Miss Janie Dickey's vocal solos, "I Love How You Love Me" before the ceremony and "Through the Eyes of Love" at the close.

Following a popular custom of giving a token of love and devotion to mothers, the bride paused to give her mother a long stemmed red rose as she approached the altar with her father who presented her in marriage for her parents, then gave the groom's mother an identical floral token as the newlyweds exited from the church.

The radiant bride wore a formal white organza gown over peau de soie designed with a distinctive look for a spring wedding of a youthful bride. The scoop neckline was edged with narrow Irish lace and bordered with a flowered Chantilly lace off-the-shoulder ruffle. The puffed elbow length sleeves terminated in wide lace ruffles graced with white satin ribbon bows. The hooped skirt falling from a natural waistline was enhanced with two wide lace ruffles that dipped in the back to form a chapel train.

The bride wore a fashionable white lace hat that featured a brim caught up at one side with white silk roses and lilies of the valley, and a large white tulle bow in the back completed the picture. She carried a long cascade bouquet of white silk roses, pink silk rosebuds, gypsophila and net accents on her mother's white Bible that she carried in her wedding.

The Bible was the "something old" tradition. She wore a drop diamond that belonged to her sister, Mrs. Robby Crowover, for "something borrowed". The blue garter, new gown and good luck penny completed the sentimental additions.

Mrs. Bobby Crowover of Munday, sister of the bride, had the role of matron of honor. She wore a pink lace gown distinguished with a chic off-the-shoulder ruffle accented with burgundy bows, a burgundy ribbon sash and a hemline flounce. She carried a white lace fan to which a bouquet of burgundy silk roses, baby's breath and a pink silk bow was attached.

Miss Annette Carahan of Seymour, the bridesmaid, wore an identical gown except for pink bows and sash and the flowers and ribbon on her white lace fan were also pink.

Randy Brown attended his brother as best man, and Kevin Thompson was groomsman. Toby Smith of Electra and Jimmy Banks Jr., brother of the bride, were ushers. Each wore a burgundy tuxedo and fathers of the couple wore the same attire.

The groom wore an all-white tuxedo with tails and a white silk rose boutonniere.

For the wedding, the mother of the bride chose a white voile gown over pink taffeta designed with a high neckline that dipped in the back, short, split sleeves, a lace waistline band and lace panels in the skirt. The groom's mother wore a rose Qiana gown set apart with a sheer blouson bodice featuring a sweetheart neckline and split sleeves. Both wore shoulder corsages consisting of pink silk roses and baby's breath.

Following the wedding, guests assembled in the Fellowship Hall of the church for a reception hosted by the bride's parents. The pink and burgundy color combination reached a peak of exhilaration in table and room decorations.

The bride's table was draped to the floor with pink Chantilly lace over pink polyester, the cloth accented with swags and pink bows around the top. The centerpiece was a creation of pink silk roses and forget me nots, burgundy baby's breath and lace-bordered pink silk ribbon bows and streamers banked around a pink pillar candle.

The antique pink glass serving dishes added interest to the table setting which also included the crystal punch service, pink napkins picturing a youthful bride and groom above "Scott and Tamela, March 27, 1982," pink mints and the cake.

The three-tiered white cake with its storybook look was deftly decorated with deep lace designs, pink drop flowers with burgundy tips and one set of Grecian pillars. The top ornament was a ceramic youthful groom carrying his bride over an imaginary threshold. A large heart touched with pink bows was the romantic background for the couple.

Mrs. Randy Brown and Mrs. Jackie Perkins served at the bride's table during the reception.

A white wicker bird bath standing between the bride's table and the groom's table held the burgundy net rice bags and the couple's pink wedding scrolls.

Mrs. Jackie Perkins and Miss Suzan Brown, sister of the groom, presided at the groom's table covered with a burgundy satin cloth that extended to a border of white polyester just above floor level.

The floral centerpiece of burgundy, pink and white silk roses and baby's breath was centered with a burgundy candle. The table held a German chocolate cake topped with chocolate frosting roses, silver coffee service and nut bowls and napkins.

Houseparty members were Mmes. Tommy Collins, Alton Hunter, Joe Ward and Jack Banks.

The groom's parents gave the rehearsal dinner Friday evening at the church.

Special wedding guests were Mr. and Mrs. C.B. Banks and Mr. and Mrs. W.S. Morgan, grandparents of the bride.

The bride is a senior at Iowa Park High School and works at the Wichita County Tax Office. The groom was graduated from Iowa Park High School and is employed at Cryovac. They will live in Iowa Park.

A number of out-of-town guests attended the wedding from Winters, Seymour, College Station, Denton, North Richhlynn Hills, Waco, Holliday, Graham, Houston, Carrollton, Nocona and Wichita Falls.

At Harvard Univ., they saw the fabulous glass flowers.

Worth Quoting

While on our trip to Washington, we got to observe first hand how the electronic news is manipulated and it reinforces our suspicion of a great many other "news events" which are set up and orchestrated solely for the benefit of television. We were picked up in Washington on Saturday by some friends of ours from Virginia and taken by car to Annapolis, the state capital of Maryland, for some sightseeing. Annapolis is best known as the home of the U.S. Naval Academy, but it is a historic city in its own right, being one of the colonial cities that played a prominent role in the development of our nation.

The city has about 16,000 people and in the downtown area are many delightful shops and restaurants, lots of old buildings, the tall and narrow brick edifices facing narrow streets. Annapolis has a lot of sail boats based in the bay and this is the center of much water sport activity during summer months. One of the landmarks of Annapolis is the state capitol building, built in 1772 and located on top of the highest hill in town, making it a prominent building easily seen for miles around. We visited the capitol building that Saturday, approaching on foot from the rear entrance. When we went up the steps we found three uniformed policemen on duty and asked if the building were closed. We were informed that it was open to visitors and that the policemen were there because of a demonstration scheduled to take place that morning.

We went inside, joining about a half dozen other tourists, and went through the various rooms, including the senate and house chamber, the conference room filled with historical pictures and documents, and enjoyed reliving a bit of U.S. history. After a while we heard music and singing coming from the front entrance and went to take a look. Through the front doors we could see a procession of marchers carrying banners and singing as they marched. The marchers were followed by four or five yellow school buses. It appeared to be about 500 people, all told, and of course we were curious as to what it was all about.

One of the capitol guards told us that it was a "Solidarity March," consisting of the AFL-CIO, the Maryland school teachers union and the Black Caucus organization. They had gotten together to stage this march on the Maryland state capitol to press for shorter hours and higher wages, along with demands for restoration of federal budget cuts. The demonstrators were orderly, marched up to the capitol steps where by some quick process a public address system appeared, people came out of the crowd with their guitars, ready to sing, and several spokesmen stepped up to read prepared statements which spurred the crowd to cheers. The only thing about it was that these people played to an empty house. There was not a single Maryland state official in the capitol building, not the governor, any members of the legislature, no state officials.

This didn't seem to bother the demonstrators, of course, because they had plenty of network television coverage. Camera crews from ABC, CBS and NBC were in place and the demonstrators performed for them at their direction. After about 40 minutes of this, the crowd dispersed and everybody left. That night back in our hotel room, we watched the

Letter to the Editor

The following is a letter written to Mayor Johnny Crawford:

Dear Mayor,

I just wanted to drop you a note to express our gratitude for the courtesy extended to us by your police department. I didn't get the name of the officer, but he was on duty about 10:30 p.m. on March 21.

Our trailer came loose from the van and overturned as we were passing through. The officer saw us and stopped and offered any assistance he could, though no real damage was done, except to the trailer.

I would like you to offer our thanks to him for being so nice to us.

Also, if you would offer thanks for us to the Gulf Quick-Mart on 287 for their help in finding someone to repair the trailer.

Everyone was very helpful to us, which speaks well of your town.

television account of this demonstration. ABC said, rather breathlessly, that a massive demonstration took place in Annapolis where an estimated 9,000 persons met with Maryland state officials to press their demands. The camera angles were low, peering through the crowd, to make it appear that there were a lot of people there. From the ABC report you would think that Annapolis was filled with people demanding their rights and being heard by the Maryland elected officials. Actually nothing like this took place. While it was not actually a fake, it was certainly manipulated. How many such news events do we see daily?

As I See It...

By BOB HAMILTON

Have you ever looked around you, at the most common things we have today, and wondered what life was like before they were invented.

Try the common ballpoint pen, for instance.

The ballpoint hasn't been in use but about 35 years. When first introduced, they were expensive, as writing instruments were concerned. Now they cost as little as 19 cents, and you can usually collect enough free ones given out as advertising gifts you never need to purchase one.

Before the ballpoint, it was either pencil or ink pen. But primarily pencils, or what we called "eversharps."

To carry a pencil around was a problem. You always had to sharpen them. And when they were sharp, you were always threatened to gouge yourself with the unprotected point.

For an advertising gimmick, there was a short pencil encased in a two-piece metal container, and it usually had a pocket clip on it. This was handy, because of the threat of self-puncture was taken away.

The mechanical pencil, or ever-sharp, is still in use. They are commonly available, but few people ever use them. They are always given or sold as a companion with a ballpoint, and then usually stored away in a drawer forever.

Writing with ink, before the ballpoint, was always a problem. You had a choice of using an ink pen staff, with a bottle of ink, or the more expensive fountain pen.

All desks at school had a special hole in them, called an ink well. That was where your special bottle fit and wouldn't slide, crashing to the floor. But there was always the mess of filling your ink bottle from the commercial ink bottle. The commercial bottle would never do, because it didn't fit in the ink well and would slide off the desk.

Fountain pens were always a headache. They were expensive for students, in the first place. We weren't even allowed to use them in school until we reached the seventh grade!

But they were always running out of ink at the wrong time, when a supply bottle wasn't available. And the points were always snagging on paper.

Because you had to wait until you were at least a seventh grader to use a fountain pen, it was a badge of maturity to have shirts with a big ink splotch on the pocket. Fountain pens always leaked.

The early ballpoints always leaked. In fact, one of the leading brands of the pens today still leaks. It gets a glob of ink on the point and makes a big, smeary mess when it is put to paper.

For years, ballpoints were a problem because they would work only on certain, non-slick paper surfaces. That's why one manufacturer made a big deal about its pen would write on paper where butter had sat. Another made just as big a deal promoting its pen would write underwater.

I was grateful those two promotions came out after I became a man. As a child, I would have made a heck of a mess in our bath tub, trying to write on butter wrapper, while splashing water all over the floor!

Like our liberties as Americans, the common things shouldn't be taken for granted. They should be appreciated.

Police search for pickup

Police are on the lookout for a pickup with a lot of fresh dents and scratches.

Shortly after midnight Tuesday, a dark colored pickup crashed through a fence at 300 W. Crystal, ran over a rotary tiller, and left the scene.

The vehicle was believed to be a Chevrolet or GMC according to James R. Hembree, who reported the incident.

Approximately $250 in damage was estimated to the fence, and the tiller, valued at $495, was destroyed.

Sometime last Thursday night a tape deck, CB radio and air tank were reportedly taken from a car at 309 E. Washington. Linda Gibbons initiated the complaint.

Wheat top-dressing study near Kamay

A demonstration on top-dressing wheat is being conducted by Robert Hinkle near Kamay. Part of his wheat will be cut for grain with the remainder to be grazed out. He is top-dressing plots in both fields to measure the response to top-dressing, according to Don Decker.

He is applying 100 pounds of 33-0-0 as a top-dressing. His wheat was fertilized at planting time with 85-46-0.

Billy James in his unique mechanic's office

Cook of the Week

Some people become known by terms which combine their hobbies and vocations, such as the fishing pharmacist, the flying farmer or the singing waiter.

Well, Iowa Park's Billy James might be known as the cooking mechanic, and he's this issue's "Cook of the Week."

James has served almost two terms as president of the Iowa Park MuleSkinners, a 40-member organization dedicated to carrying on public relations for the community by cooking for meetings and various activities.

The cooking began back about summer of 1938, James recalls. Every summer vacation from school, he had to undergo surgery on one of his legs at a Dallas hospital. The rest of the summer he would be wearing a cast on the leg, so he was detailed to use his days in the house by cooking for the rest of the D.O. James family, who were all out chopping cotton in the fields.

He's one of the few mechanics who doesn't have to carry his lunch to work with him, or go elsewhere to eat at noon. His office is half parts storage and half kitchen, complete with oven, cooktop, microwave, refrigerator, two freezers, coffee maker, cabinets and sink, table and chairs.

Lunch is a happening at Billy James' Garage on South Wall. He is just as likely to be serving a roast, stew or chili as he is to have prepared fried fish fillets or even crab legs with sauce. He sometimes feeds lunch to a dozen friends.

Born and reared in Iowa Park, he was graduated from Iowa Park High School in 1947 and attended Midwestern State Univ. two years. After college he became a mechanic and has owned and operated his own garage since 1953.

He married his wife, Jean, in 1951. The couple has three children, Karen, Billy and Jo Ellen, and four grandchildren.

His recipes include:

Korean trip recalled

Mrs. N.D. Hodson presented the program for the Iowa Park Garden Club in a meeting held Friday morning in Texas Electric Reddy Room. She described South Korea today as she and Mr. Hodson, who was a pilot there during the "conflict," saw it during a recent trip to visit their son.

The trip was sponsored by the Korean Tourism Group, and the 250 people who made the trip from the U.S.A. left from Portland Ore. She said that anyone working for the government may sponsor a relative. When they arrived in Seoul, they were met by a V.I.P. group including generals, other officers and civilians and received a red carpet treatment.

She said that one of Mr. Hodson's first impressions was how South Korea had rebuilt since the devastation during the conflict. They noticed the absence of trees which makes wood very scarce - so scarce that the telephone poles are made of concrete.

Leaving Seoul, the tourists went by train to Kyongju where they stayed at Tokug, a 303-room hotel. At this place, they were taken through some of the factories. Mrs. Hodson was impressed with the cleanliness everywhere and the industrious people, who start their work at seven in the morning and work until dark. She said that rice and chimsie were their main foods.

The Hodsons brought back several items that were inexpensive in Korea, but most of them would be expensive, some priceless, in the U.S. Included in these were brass pieces, suits for the grandchildren, jackets monogrammed with their names in English and Korean, a full length leather coat, and a white jade necklace.

Returning home from Oregon, the couple went by Grand Canyon and Las Vegas.

Hostesses for the meeting were Mmes. Raymond Good, Myrl Cabe, Kathleen Hatten.

Mrs. Frank Harlin gave the thought for the day on Faith from the book "Ginger Snaps."

Mrs. W.A. George presided during the business. The carnival that is being planned by all the clubs in town to make money for the Iowa Park Library remodeling fund was discussed. The club voted to have a general store and Mrs. George asked members to start gathering things for the store.

Members signed hours to work at the annual flower show which will be held at United Savings building April 23. Mrs. Thurman Reitz is the flower show chairman.

Mrs. Cabe won the door prize. Nineteen members were present.

July date selected

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Saunders of Aspen, Colorado announce the engagement of their daughter, Stacy and Thomas Fenton Woods, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Woods of Colorado Springs, and the grandson of the late Mr. and Mrs. Fenton Dale of Iowa Park.

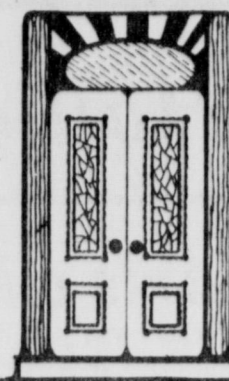

The wedding is planned for July 3 at the Prince of Peace Church in Aspen.

The engaged couple are on the staff of The Myron Stratton Home in Colorado Springs where they are counselors for the emotionally disturbed and abused children.

TOPS meets

Seventeen weighed in at the TOPS Club meeting Monday night. Faye Hobbs was the Tops queen and Mrs. A.O. Beall the ideal KOPS for the week.

For the program, Mmes. Gene Young, Pauline Steele, Dewayne Williams and E.T. Wells pantomimed the Oak Ridge Boys singing Elvira and Mrs. Young read one of Irma Bombeck's articles on dieting.

Girls win in district

Susan Parker won her third district championship in a row and the doubles team of Carla Cottrell and Melissa Parish captured their first district title in the Dist. 13-AA girls tennis tournament Monday and Tuesday at Midwestern State Univ.

The three will advance to the April 21-22 regional meet in Stephenville in hopes of qualifying for the state tournament.

Parker handily won all three of her matches in the district meet, dominating Petrolia's Stephanie McCurdy in the finals 6-2, 6-1.

Cottrell and Parish had to fight for their title, overcoming a 3-6 first set to beat Petrolia's Mayo-McDonald team 7-5, 6-1.

Kristi Haney was the only other Lady Eagle to make it to the quarterfinals before losing to McCurdy 6-4, 6-2.

Salad supper this evening

The Holiday Band Club's annual

Activities will include a presentation of the Texas state flag which has flown over the capital in Austin. Birthday cakes and refreshments will be served and various contests between the Girl Scout troops.

Big turnout of voters is expected

A strong turnout is expected Saturday for the Holiday city and school elections, with voters facing impressive ballots in both cases.

The polls will be open from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m. at the Holiday High School gymnasium, where ballots will be cast for both elections.

Four absentee votes were cast at city hall by Tuesday's deadline, while six were recorded at the school.

The following is a list of each

Rathman in national meet

University of Texas at Arlington's debate team will participate in the National Debate Tournament at Florida State Univ. this week, and half of the competing duo is a graduate of Holiday High School.

Chris Rathman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Mike Rathman, Old Scymour Highway, will team up with Bryan French of San Angelo in their quest for a national title.

Sixty-two teams are entered from around the country, and the closest a UTA team has come to winning the national title was 16th in 1978.

Rathman and French finished second in the district tournament Mar. 6, with teams from Texas, Louisiana, Oklahoma, Arkansas, Kansas and Missouri competing.

Coach Carroll Hickey, a communication assistant professor, said he expects Rathman and French to place in the top 20 because of their experience. "They have defeated several teams that will participate in this tournament," Hickey said.

Eagles post 3rd victory

Holiday Eagles' baseball team went over the .500 mark for the season with a 10-9 victory over Rider's junior varsity Monday in Holiday.

Jeff Belcher was the workhorse for Holiday, teaming with Joe Chase for the game's only home runs, while going four for four at the plate and knocking in three RBIs.

The win avenged an earlier loss to Rider, and increases Holiday's record to 3-2 for the season.

Finnell makes formal announcement

State Rep. Charles Finnell has formally announced his candidacy for re-election to the Texas House of Representatives 80th District, subject to the May 1st Democratic primary. Finnell paid his filing fee and authorized the Iowa Park Leader to list his candidacy earlier this year.

"The opportunity for meaningful public service in our state government is greater today than ever before," Finnell stated. Approximately one-third of the members of the Texas House of Representatives, including some influential rural legislators, are not seeking re-election this year. Others will be eliminated due to the reapportionment process. In order for our state government to maintain stability and for our non-metropolitan areas of Texas to be effectively represented, I offer my best efforts for the next two years."

As a result of the expected legislative turnover, Rep. Finnell, who currently ranks seventh in seniority of the 150 state representatives, will rank fourth in seniority if re-elected to the 68th Legislature. In Texas, seniority governs committee appointments and many other aspects of administration in the House of Representatives.

"I want to keep this seniority and experience at work for the people of this vast and productive 80th House District," Finnell declared.

Rep. Finnell is a lifelong resident of Holliday, in Archer County. He is the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Leslie B. Finnell of Holliday. He is married to the former Kay Fitzpatrick, and is associated with his brother, Leslie B. Finnell Jr., in the oil field service and production business.

Finnell observed: "The people of the nine counties comprising the 80th District have much in common, including a tradition of hard work for attainment of personal and community goals; loyalty to the schools and churches in which community life is largely centered; and acceptance of their fair share of the cost of state government. In return, our people deserve effective and responsible representation.

"Our district's concerns in state government are many and include: the current plight of agriculture and small business in general; the need for water development and conservation; the desire to provide quality public education for our children and youth, at reasonable cost to the taxpayer; the necessity of caring for, and providing options for, our senior citizens; the need for adequate health care in our rural areas; the need for strong law enforcement, especially Texas' War on Drugs; the protection of property rights and freedom of choice; defending the rights of local government to address local problems; and adequate transportation, especially a sound farm-to-market program."

In the area of water development, Rep. Finnell sponsored the bill which ratified and implemented the Red River Compact, apportioning the waters of the Red River among the four affected states and avoiding federal court intervention.

In transportation legislation, Finnell is the recognized state leader in railroad-crossing safety.

"Whether the legislature is in session or not, you will find us in your corner when you need us," Finnell concluded.

With prior service on the House Agriculture and Livestock, Business and Industry, Appropriations, and Transportation committees, Rep. Finnell is currently chairman of the House General Investigating Committee.

He is active in community and civic affairs, a member of the United Methodist Church of Holliday, and a director of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce.

Co-op employers honored

Approximately 80 people attended an appreciation banquet Thursday evening to honor the employers of the co-op students belonging to the local high school chapters of Home Economics Related Occupations and Office Education Association. The affair was held in the Wichita Falls Activity Center, with "Reach for the Stars" the theme. The banquet room was tastefully and cleverly decorated with stars.

The program was conducted as a radio broadcast from Station IPHS at 1982 on the radio dial. Mark Williams, master of ceremonies, played the role of a disc jockey. Throughout the evening, "requests were phoned in" for musical numbers by Alisa Cain, Buddy Mercer, Terry Escue, Kent Roberts and Eric Birk.

The highlight of the show was the News Break when the "Big Dipper" award was announced. The honor went to Carl King, vocational counselor, in recognition of his many contributions to Vocational Education at Iowa Park High School.

Gifts were presented to the employers and supervisors, and a drawing was held for several door prizes.

Chapter sponsors for HERO and OEA are Mrs. Cindy Mannas and Mrs. Bonnie Medlinger, respectively.

Companies who participate in the cooperative program are: City of Iowa Park, Cryovac, Fieldson's Dental lab, Gibson Discount Center, House of Nuts, Iowa Park Florist, Iowa Park Schools, June's Interiors, King's Kids, North Texas School of Performing Arts, Olan Mills Studio, Petal Pushers, Theresa's Tiny Tots, Texhoma Christian Care, TG&Y, The Velfree Shop, and Wichita County Tax Office.

roll, a student must have maintained at least a 12-hour course load throughout the semester, passing all courses with a minimum grade-point average of 3.25.

IPHS senior is recipient

Miss Watkins, the daughter of Pat Watkins of Iowa Park and Tommy Watkins of Uvalde, was chosen by a committee of the Wichita County Association of Legal Secretaries, sponsors of the scholarship.

Tennis tourney finals here this afternoon

Several I.P.H.S. tennis players will play their final matches from the rained-out Burkburnett tennis tournament when the two teams square off in a dual meet here today.

The Hawks and Hawkettes fared well in the Boomtown tourney, finishing second overall in the boys and girls divisions. But rain forced the postponement of all finals matches, and coach Dick Wineinger said Monday most of those matches will be made up today.

Steve Davis and Wayne Watson will play in the boys "A" doubles against the Burk team of Curry-Deutsch. Kent Roberts will play Curry in the "B" boys singles, and the girls "B" singles final will be decided between Iowa Park's Loretta Bartow and Burk's Patty Deutsch.

Chuck Gilstrap and Keith Starr finished third in the "B" boys doubles, losing to a team from Hirschi in a narrow 9-8, 5-3 tiebreaker. Jodi Corless of Iowa Park reached the quarterfinals of the "A" girls singles before losing to eventual champion Cindy Costillo of Hirschi.

It will be an all-Iowa Park affair in the girls "B" doubles final with Tracy Lawson and Tracey Hall pitted against Pam Barr and Charla Edwards for the championship.

Teams entered in the Burk tourney included Iowa Park, Burk, Hirschi, Vernon, Bowie, Petrolia, Electra, Graham, Breckenridge, Quanah, Olney, Haskell, Holliday, Mineral Wells and Archer City.

Hirschi won the boys' division, while Vernon, Iowa Park and Hirschi placed one-two-three in the girls' division.

Female netters ready to host district meet

Iowa Park netters won three of 11 matches with Hirschi Tuesday, as they make final preparations for next week's girls' Dist. 3-AAAA championships.

The conference tournament will be held Monday and Tuesday at the high school tennis courts. The boys' tournament will also be here, Apr. 19-20.

All three of the matches won Tuesday were by local girls.

Loretta Bartow defeated Cindy Castillo 7-5, 6-0; and Jody Corless beat Mary Ann McGregor 8-3 and Lawanna Riddle 8-6, in girls' singles. Tracy Hall lost 6-4, 6-2 to Brenda Seale.

In girls' doubles, Ann Kelly and Delaine Davis lost 6-2, 6-0, and Pam Barr and Charla Edwards lost 6-2, 6-2.

Kent Roberts, in boys' singles, lost 4-6, 7-6, 7-4, 6-4; James Cowley 6-1, 6-2; and Jimmy Elms 6-0, 6-0.

In boys' doubles, Wayne Watson and Steve Davis lost 6-2, 5-7, 7-5; and Keith Starr and Chuck Gilstrap 4-6, 6-0, 6-2.

Hawkettes ready for district meet

In their final meet before Saturday's Dist. 3-AAAA track championships, the Hawkettes made a strong showing last weekend at Vernon.

Preliminary and finals times were not available at presstime, because district officials were not to meet until late yesterday afternoon to make plans for the meet.

Eventhough Iowa Park is the district host this year, the meet will be held at Burkburnett. Iowa Park's track has not been converted to metrics, and Burk's has.

The region meet will be Apr. 23-24 at Odessa.

Hirschi won the Vernon meet with 130 points and Vernon was runner up with 125. The Hawkettes finished with 50½ points and Burkburnett, the only other conference team competing, would up with 40.

Also competing were Wichita Falls High, Rider and Altus.

Hawkettes results included:

3200 meter run - Jan Hale, 1st, 13:01.98; Cindy Wells, 6th.
 Long jump - Becky Roberts, 6th tie.
 Triple jump - Lisa Sefcik, 2nd.
 Discus - Shelly Untalon, 3rd.
 Hurdles - Sefcik, 2nd.
 1600 meter run - Lisa Yeakley, 2nd; Hale, 5th.
 800 meter run - Yeakley, 3rd.

A TAD TOO TALL - Workers moving a home west on the Iowa Park Highway encountered a bit of resistance last week when the roof caught a signal light at the intersection of Iowa Park Highway and Yosemite. A little maneuvering took care of the problem, and the home eventually found its place near Lake Gordon on Jackson St.
