Council action varies on requests for water

The city council approved one request for water service outside the city, but tabled another request during Monday night's meeting.

The actions took place following the canvassing of Saturday's election results, declaration of winners who were administered the oath of office, and re-appointment of Johnny Coker as mayor pro tem.

Mayor Tim Hunter presented out-going alderman Lita Watson a plaque for her many years service to the city. An hour-long reception had preceded the meeting, honoring Mrs. Watson.

Oath of office was administered to Coker and George Hammonds. However, newly-elected alderman Diane Robnett had to wait until Tuesday morning because she was unable to attend the Monday meeting.

After having been told the City of Wichita Falls had no objection to a tap being made on the water transmission line between here and there, aldermen approved a tap requested by Bill Spruiell.

Spruiell explained his firm, Spruiell

"The residents of Iowa Park

the last Bloodmobile's visit by donating 54 units of blood," said Jim

Grove, blood service chairman for the Optimist Club. "It is just possible that they can answer their own challenge."

Drilling, would pay all expenses to make the tap, run a six-inch line to the Grozier Farm and also install a fire hydrant in the area where homes are to be built.

The Grozier Farm is north of the Old Wichita Falls Highway, across from Spruiell Dairy. Only a few homes are expected to be built on the farm, for members of the drilling firm's corporate members, Spruiell told the council.

Aldermen tabled a motion to approve a water and sewer tap in the 400 block of East Emerald that was requested by Andy Arrington.

A motion to table action for further study was made after Leader Publisher Bob Hamilton asked the council if it were abandoning a long-standing policy of the city's, to refuse service to property that touches the city unless it is annexed.

The property Arrington proposed for service is surrounded by the city, but has never been annexed. Arrington explained he only owned part of the property and he doubted the other owners would rannexation.

The council voted to permit developer Ray Townsend to pave East Garden Drive with asphalt, instead of the now required concrete. because negotiations concerning the street were begun before the city amended its street paving policy.

However, council members will require Townsend to provide a five-year, 100-percent warranty bond on the work, because the area is low-lying and often stands in water.

Townsend said he didn't feel his bondsman would go for the proposal, which is significantly more stringent than the former requirement of two years and 50 percent.

He was told that if the bondsman would not go along with the five-year warranty, the council possibly would negotiate for a lesser requirement.

Administrator James Barrington told the council the city had won its suit against Mike Knox and Jim Clarkson concerning removal of the Overbey house at Fourth and West Highway.

He said neither man appeared in favor Friday cary, thesessing wio, boo against Knox and $3,900 against Knox and Clarkson. The larger amount is for moving of the house and the smaller for incidental costs.

The two men now have 30 days to appeal, or the judgement becomes final, Barrington said.

Travel expenses were approved for Barrington to attend the Texas City Management Association conference this summer in Austin, and also for council members who plan to attend the Mayor and Councilmembers Institute June 20-23 at Galveston.

Mayor Hunter announced three proclamations he has signed: May 1-7 "Progress for the Law Week," May 5-11 "Drinking Water Week in Iowa Park," and April 4-10 "Epsilon Sigma Alpha Sorority Week in Iowa Park."

Aldermen voted to authorize Barrington to negotiate arrangements for making payments on a new truck for the fire department.

Richard Davis named high school principal

Richard Davis, whose entire 17-year career in education has been spent in Iowa Park, was named principal of Iowa Park High School during Tuesday's trustee meeting.

Davis will succeed Bob Dawson, who will retire at the end of this school year.

The school board selected Davis from a field of seven applicants.

Davis received his Bachelor's Degree in the spring of 1968 from East Texas State Univ., and joined the two-man vocational agriculture department here that fall. He completed his Master's Degree in

Though he has completed all required work for secondary school administration certification, his application for the certificate has not yet been received. However, he is permitted to work in that capacity a maximum of five years under a temporary certificate, according to school administration.

Davis left the teaching field in the fall of 1978 to become student job placement officer. His duties were expanded when vocational counselor Carl King died in late 1982, and has since served as vocations coordinator, in addition to his placement duties.

The new principal thanked the board for its "vote of confidence" and said "I won't let you down." He pointed out that following Dawson will be a difficult task, but indicated he, with the help of assistant principal Don Ickles, would strive to continue improvement at the high school.

Ickles, who himself was among the candidates for the position, told the board he felt it had made "a very wise

The major portion of the meeting was consumed with discussions about improvements to the football stadium and track, and also on a proposal to acquire a computer for the tax collector's office.

Trustees approved the lowest of four bids submitted for new lighting at Hawk Stadium. It was submitted by Marvin Groves Electric Co., for $27,944. The spread between the lowest and highest bids received was only $2,716.

Board members approved a proposal to advertise for bids to add dirt and re-shape the playing field, do repair work on the east berm, patch work on the track, subsoil drainage around the track, and metal stands for the junior high football field.

Members of the board are not decided on whether to repair the old track at Hawk Stadium, or build a new track there or to the south of the stadium. Costs are the major concern, and no decision is expected on the project soon.

Bids will also be sought for a computer system for the tax office.

Tax Collector Allen Shewmake estimated the hardware and software would cost $32,000, but said it would pay for itself in two and a half years with staff savings.

Two representatives of CPS Computers in Wichita Falls, the same equipment purchased by the City of Iowa Park, were on hand to answer questions posed by the board.

After accepting the resignation of Perry Allen, Bradford social studies teacher and member of the local faculty the past 16 years, the board hired five new teachers to begin next year.

Hired were: Olivia Andrada, high school business; Jeannie Wilson, high school science and speech teacher and also junior high coach; Donna Novak, junior high science; Connie Heard, second grade, and Sally Franklin, lishment of positions for a part-time nurse, library aide for elementary schools, and a physical education instructor for Kidwell who will also be a tennis coach at the junior high. Contracts and pay scales were approved for all teacher aides, cafeteria staffs and custodians. A proposal to place four surplus school buses in a sale slated in May was approved by the board, pending required state approval.

Election results were canvassed and oaths of office were administered to the three successful incumbents. Martha Dudley, Roy Boutwell and Ray Hicks.

Following that activity, the board elected Boutwell to again serve as chairman, Jimmy Howell as vice chairman and Rusty Rusk as

asleep in city park

Iowa Park police continue their investigation of a hit and run incident that took place early Sunday morning that sent a woman to the hospital and killed her dog.

The incident took place shortly after 2 a.m. in the northeast area of Lake Gordon.

Mr. and Mrs. Steve Timms, ages 31 and 26 respectively, were asleep on the ground next to their car, when an automobile drove over them, made a U-turn and drove back to the access road. It never returned.

The couple had a small puppy tied to the car. It was killed by the vehicle.

Timms took his wife to Wichita General Hospital where she was admitted for treatment of a broken arm and pelvis. He reportedly did not submit to an examination, but complains of possible rib injuries.

The couple had made a pallet in the roadway next to their car, which was parked in the area of the covered picnic bench.

Police were notified of the incident by Timms over the telephone, at 2:52 a.m., from the hospital.

He gave a description of the vehicle as being a white car, medium size such as a Camero or TransAm, with a spoiler on the rear. He said there possibly would be blood on the front of the driver's side, which struck the

PLAQUE OF APPRECIATION GIVEN LITA WATSON ... for nine years service on city council.

SATURDAY VOTING

Only one new face chosen by voters

Voters Saturday replaced the city's first female alderman with another woman, and returned the two incumbents to the city council as well as returning all three school board incumbents.

City residents who voted also approved a $3,000 property tax deduction for the disabled.

As had been indicated by the lack of absentee votes cast, eight in both city and school elections, Saturday was one of the lightest turnouts at the polls in a number of years, 405.

Diane Robnett was successful in her first political venture and was elected to the city council, as were incumbents Johnny Coker and George Hammonds. All three received more votes than the fourth at-large candidate, Andy Arrington. Robnett now becomes the second female on the city council, replacing Lita Watson, who chose not to seek re-election.

The newest council member received 214 votes in Precinct 32 and 38 in Precinct 33 to emerge the second highest vote receiver in the city race with 262.

Coker topped all candidates with 269. He drew 225 in Precinct 32 and 14 in the south box. Hammonds received 198 at Kidwell and 39 at Bradford, totaling 239.

Arrington's count of 118 and 32 amounted to 150.

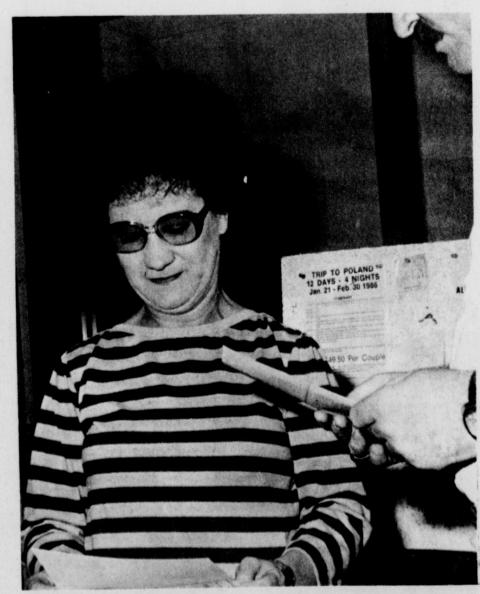

The tax deduction referendum was approved 228-79. Voters at the Kidwell box gave it a 186-65 approval, and Bradford box voters okayed the issue 65-14.

In the school election, Ray Hicks defeated challenger James Richter for place one, 223-179; Martha Dudley won over Bob Goodknight for place three, 242-159, and Roy Boutwell was unchallenged for place two, receiving 292 votes.

Votes for each candidate, in the order of Kidwell, Bradford and Valley

Ford, Browning wedding held at Lakeside church

Miss Pamela Elizabeth Ford, became the bride of Eddie Ray Browning in a double-ring ceremony performed Saturday afternoon by Rev. Ed Lane at Lakeside City First Baptist Church.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bob Ford of Wichita Falls and Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Cox of Irving, and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Willie Browning of Iowa Park.

The couple stood before a white brass archway entwined with garlands of greenery dotted with white and lavender flowers for recitation of their vows. Arrangements of white mums atop the piano and organ completed altar decorations. White bows accented with lavender flowers marked the church pews.

Shawn Loftiss, the pianist, accompanied Lannie Browning, brother of the groom, for a prelude vocal number "I Can't Help Falling in Love With You," and played the traditional marches.

Bob Ford escorted and presented his daughter in marriage. For her wedding, she chose a white chiffon gown worn over taffeta fashioned with a Queen Anne neckline accented

Her Venise lace-edged fingertip veil and blusher were gathered to a Juliet cap of lace and pearls. The silk bridal bouquet was arranged in shades of lavender orchids, stephanotis, Freesia tiger lilies, baby's breath complemented with a white lace border and matching streamers.

She completed her wedding costume with the bridal traditions which included her mother's pearls that had belonged to the bride's grandmother, Mrs. Jewell Reed, for "something old and something borrowed." A handkerchief tucked underneath her bouquet was the "something blue" accessory and she

Their bouquets were composed of white enchantment and Alstromeria lilies, an assortment of mixed spring flowers backed with lace and finished with orchid and white sating threamers.

Lannie Lee Browning, brother of the groom, was the best man. Matthew Ford, brother of the bride, and Bill Wilson were the groomsmen, and the ushers were Ron Heathcott and Ronald Heathcott, both of Arlington. Each attendant was dressed like the groom in a silver classic tuxedo with white shirt and bow tie.

The corsages worn by the mothers of the bride and groom with their long gowns were white silk orchids accented with white satin bows.

Mrs. Ford wore an orchid polyester knit dress styled with a surplice raised bodice with spaghetti straps and full pleated skirt. She chose a chiffon jacket featuring a lace stand-up collar, lace shoulder trim and elasticized waist peplum to wear over the bodice.

Mrs. Browning was attired in a sleeveless mauve polyester knit crepe dress with lace trim, slightly raised waist, V-neck, flared skirt worn with a long sleeve jacket.

The bride's parents were hosts for the wedding reception held at the church. Miss Princess Myracle and Mrs. Richard Cox assisted with duties of serving and Mrs. Alfred Gensler registered the guests.

The wedding cake stood out beautifully on the refreshment table covered with white lace over lilac. A four-tiered structure divided with two sets of Grecian pillars decorated with refreshing lavender silk flowers, it featured staircases on either side where replicas of members of the wedding party stood that led to small heart-shaped cakes on either side of the large cake. The top ornament was a gazebo made attractive with lavender and white lilies of the valley and net with a kissing youthful bride and groom inside.

The crystal table appointments that blended with the cake were the punch service and trays of lavender heart and bell-shaped mints.

Miss Edythe Whisenant was hostess for a bridesmaid luncheon, and Miss Debbie Tipps handled arrangements for the reception.

As I See It....

Every once in a while, column writers back off their regular formats for columns and dump a series of brief items that are too short for an entire article, but usually felt strong enough to warrant publication.

This is that week for me.

If the state's school reform bill is so great, why is it Gov. Mark "Whoo-e-e-e" White is spending millions of dollars in political advertising with radio and television stations across the state to tell us

There's no question in my mind that White won't survive another election, and I think he sees the handwriting on the wall.

Apparently he believes if you tell someone often enough and long enough about something, they'll believe it.

The Texas Department of Human Resources is a pretty big outfit in this part of the country. This region has 44 counties and a 1985 budget of $19,911,313 to be spent on income assistance, child protective services. services to the aged and disabled, family self support, day care licensing and regional administration.

To supply food stamps in 1984 to 35,297 recipients, the department spent $1,374,260. And last year the department licensed 1,725 child day care facilities.

Iowa Park tax collector Allen Shewmake is proposing purchase of a computer for an estimated $32,000.

But up at Wilbarger County, that tax group wants to buy one that will do the same thing for $103,000.

I'll bet Allen eats hamburgers and some of those neighboring county people eat steaks.

I've talked a lot about the business district improvement project underway, you may remember.

To the business people themselves, I'd like to pass along a suggestion that I've already put into play here at the

We need to return to the old days, and sweep our sidewalks. Not too many years ago, a businessman had a routine each morning of turning on the lights, setting up his cash register, and then going out front and sweeping his sidewalk.

My routine hasn't reached that point daily, but I am sweeping at least once a week. And I'm adding the cleaning of my curb and gutter.

You might be surprised how much cleaner the inside of your place can be, without customers tracking in dirt and grime on their shoes that they picked on your own sidewalk.

State information program tells how to get tax relief

A statewide effort is underway to inform Texas property owners of their rights, remedies and responsibilities as taxpayers, according to Ron Patterson, executive director of the State Property Tax Board

Patterson says SPTB is working with appraisal districts and local news media to help make taxpayers aware of rendition and exemption filing deadlines and methods to obtain exemptions or other forms of tax

"The first priority for property owners is to file renditions and apply for tax relief before May 1 this year,' Patterson said. Taxpayers should file all exemption applications and property rendition forms with the central appraisal district office.

A rendition is a report a property owner makes which lists the taxable property he owned or managed on January 1, 1985. A rendition also gives a taxpayer the opportunity to record his own opinion of his property's value. "By rendering a value for his property, the owner makes the appraisal district responsible for notifying him is the district places a higher value on the property," Patterson pointed out.

Certain property owners must render their property. "Anyone who owns or manages income-producing personal property on January 1 is required by state law to file a rendition statement with the appropriate appraisal district," Patterson said.

Special rendition procedures exist for property on which an exemption applicable on Jan. 1 ends during the tax year. In such a case, the person who owns or acquires the property when the exemption ends must render the property for taxation within 30 days.

The chief appraiser may also require rendition of other taxable property upon notice to the property owner or manager. Rendition forms are available from appraisal district

For homeowners, tax relief is usually in the form of exemptions. "An exemption lowers tax payments by deducting part of a property's value from taxation," Patterson explained. Homestead exemptions are available for all qualified homeowners, and additional exemptions are available for disabled veterans and for thosse aged 65 or over. Elderly homeowners who apply for the over-65 homestead exemption also get a cap, or ceiling, on taxes they pay to the school district.

Worth Quoting

Industrial development of one's community has taken on a new meaning for this writer after attending the Texas Industrial Planning Seminar in Austin this past weekend. Hosted by the Texas Economic Development Commission, seminar speakers tried to pack a lifetime of smarts concerning industrial development into two days of classes.

It was the most beneficial two days spent away from home in my life. Visions of what Electra could become have been popping through this feeble brain ever since.

I'm excited about what can be done in Electra. . . it's being done in other communities across this state and there's no reason it can't be done

Gone, however, is the idea of getting on the telephone to Mr. Industrial Prospect who wants to open a plant and hire 200 people telling him that you have a wonderful city with good people, good churches and schools. "That's great," he says. "We'll move in tommorrow."

That's a dream and it "ain't gonna happen."

Industrial Development has taken on a new look. . . let's call it "community development." It's taking care of what you've got first, from the downtown district to the Widget Manufactory that employs three people. It's promoting growth in your community with planned development to meet the needs of current businesses and industries and then branching out to secure new industries suitable to your community and ones which will provide a long-range, steady growth.

The bottom line on industrial development is jobs and if that can be reached one, two or three jobs at a time. . . that's far more successful than getting a 100-employee industry one year and watching him leave the next year.

Industrial Development begins, however, with a city's downtown district. We were told to look at our downtown as an industry in itself. . . and we were told over and over that other industries are "looking at your downtown industry" as part of their site selection process.

"We take over

Appearance of one's community reflects the attitudes of the people who live and work there and industry is looking at that to help them project the profitability of locating there.

We have a beginning with the Chamber of Commerce Beautifiction Committee and its downtown project. What we need now is a dedicated commitment from City Government to branch out in areas of street and sidewalk renovation, a tough policy on negligent owners of dilapidated buildings and zoning laws that would protect the residential owner while promoting areas condusive to industrial growth.

We need a commitment from business owners to further stake their interests in Electra by increasing investments in their and Electra's future. And, we need commitments from our people to work and support these changes with an open-mindness.
Electra is not the only City in Texas which has fallen on hard times. I met representatives from many such cities this past week.

But, like Electra, they are attempting to follow the proven guidelines to assure a future for their

Anyone who doubts that we have moved into a disposable economy, a way of life where you throw usable things away rather than fix them, should take a look at our city landfill in the east side of town. I had occasion the other day to visit the landfill, the place where city trash trucks unload their cargo, and it is amazing how much stuff is put into this hole. The trash is covered with dirt and packed down by the bulldozer and eventually the hole is filled up. Landfills are fairly new on the trash disposal scene, having taken the place of the old dump ground, and these are sanitary landfills in that all of the trash and garbage is covered and packed down so that the stuff does not get scattered out.

The people who live around the landfill area complain that there is too much trash that does not get away and is blown into their yard but generally speaking the city people do their best to keep from making a mess. Others who haul trash to the landfill may not be quite as careful, of which our "throw away" generation demands. Young mothers do not wash messy diapers any more, they use disposable ones that eventually find their way into the trash can and the

COSMETIC DENTISTRY

-ADVERTISEMENT-

You might be surprised how many men today are concerned about the appearance of their teeth. More and more they are appearing in the dental office saying "I never did like the looks of my front teeth -- I hear you can do something about it now - is that right?" It is really nice to have so many new tchniques and materials to work with.

There is a new white ceramic material that can be cast to cover the broken front tooth and strong enough to use on the back teeth, then there are the new families of composites that can be used to cover over brown or black stains, and strong enough to replace the corner of the front tooth. With the new type of titanium and other allow threaded posts, many times when a tooth has been broken off at the gum it can still be treated, the top rebuilt and nobody know the difference but you and your dentist -- and the nice thing about it is that you can chew on them just like a normal tooth. Not too long ago the patient might say "Fix it so it will work - I dont care what it looks like." Today the dentist must be concerned not only that it "works," but that it looks nice too.

COSMETICS -- it's nice to be able to help people look nice. Prepared in the interest of better dental health. DR. RICHARD CARVER, Phone 592-5141.

Travel tips are program topic castles that had been turned into

The April meeting of the Philia Study Club was held Monday evening in the home of Mrs. Helen Burrell with Mrs. Raydean Mattis serving as co-hostess.

Mrs. James Rinehart presided over the business meeting when it was voted to hold the May meeting at the Steak and Ale Restaurant in Wichita Falls to honor Mrs. Thomas Johnson and Mrs. Harold Cowley, who will be leaving the Iowa Park area.

Mrs. Burrell presented the program for the evening on "Growth through Travel." Having made several European tours, she shared her personal journals and a colorful slide show with the 13 members

She began with helpful tips for those considering a tour. She cautioned "tours are not for everyone because they are regimented schedules. If you take one, consider it an additive to your education instead of a vacation." She said that she found it very helpful to keep a daily personal journal to reflect and remember what happened since every waking moment is planned. She told how the members of a tour group became almost like one family because of living and sharing with them for an entire trip. Mrs. Burrell said that visitors going to western European countries would need a passport and those going to eastern Europe would need a visa. As she discussed hotel accomocations she remarked about the beauty and quaintness of the old hotels, and said that Americans find the plumbing facilities to be very different from those in America.

She gave helpful information about the luggage that tourists are allowed to carry, and the wisdom in mailing gifts back home to avoid the hassle of checking them through custom at each border crossing.

Mrs. Burrell remarked that serving food in Europe is a special show time. She told the specialties of several countries which included: rich ice cream served generously in the British Isles; open-faced sandwiches and breads in the Scandinavian countries; pasta in Italy; and Danish pastry in Denmark. She told about attending a medieval banquet in Ireland and being served a meal of five courses that lasted two and a half hours sailing down the Seine River.

She said the modes of travel for tourists in Europe include the bus, fast trains, ferry boats, water-taxi and gondola. For the people of the countries, bicycles are very popular, their cars are small and the buses are called coaches. There are special signs and paths for bicycle traffic, and there are many streets, usually beautifully landscaped and lined with colorful flowers, for walking.

The slide show that climaxed the program featured Ireland and England, placing particular emphasis on the Emerald Isle and its people, houses, yards, beautiful flowers and hotels. She described a tour of the Waterford Crystal Works. In closing she remarked, "when you travel, you may discover as I did that it is really a small world. One morning in London, I looked up and saw a family from Iowa Park - one of their sons had been my student in second grade."

A springtime theme was carried out in refreshments and table

Two German farmers will be visiting Wichita County tomorrow. They being brought to the county by former resident Roy Childers.

Childers grew up in Iowa Park and is now an agricultural engineer with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. He and his two guests will be looking at wheat and cotton land in the county. The purpose of this tour is to familiarize the Germans with Texas agriculture.

Barry Mahler, wheat and cotton farmer, will be touring with the group while in the county. Those wishing to meet with the farmers may do so between 9 and 10 a.m. at the home of Clarence Mahler located on Bell Road. 4 miles north of U.S. 287.

Girls' team shares district title

The girls' tennis team was tied by two other teams for the Dist. 5-AAA championship Saturday at Bowie.

The doubles team of Charla Blackerby and Tracey Hall won first place.

Those points, added with the third-place finish points in singles by Jenny Bowerman, gave Iowa Park the same number of points Springtown and Vernon had, hence the tie.

Mark Cooke and Joe Slack won second in boys' doubles.

So, under the UIL rules permitting both first and second place finishers on the district level to advance to the regional tournament, both the doubles teams are qualified. Also, Bowerman is the girls' singles alternate.

Blackerby and Hall are both seniors, Cooke and Slack are juniors, and Bowerman is a freshman.

The regional tournament will be held May 1-2 at Odessa.

Vernon took second in the girls' doubles. Springtown won the boys' doubles and Springtown and Vernon placed first and second in girls' singles. Vernon boys won the district team title.

The teams are coached by Dick Wineinger.

Cook of the Week

Planning family meals has always been a special job for the homemaker. It requires a lot of thought to serve meals each day that have a healthful balance of the "Big Four" food group.

A very personal responsibility lies in the hands of young mothers because they are educating their children to eat for a long, healthful lifetime, and to learn that early food habits begin at their own tables every mealtime.

Amber (Mrs. Terry) Davis, the cook for this week, gives a lot of thought to planning nutritious meals for her husband, who coaches seventh grade athletics, teaches seventh grade health, and seventh and eighth grade physical education, and their children, Chad, four years of age, and Jessica, 18 months.

The former Amber Reed, she was graduated from Iowa Park High School, attended Midwestern State Univ. Her work experience has included five years as a child care

Farnsworth, Yeakley are outstanding

The 23 Study Club will hold the last meeting of the current club year Sunday afternoon at a tea in the Fellowship Hall of the First Baptist Church. The purpose of the meeting will be to honor the young people who have been chosen the Outstanding Senior Girl and Boy for 1985 and each one who was nominated for the honor.

Holly farnsworth, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. Howell Farnsworth of Floydada, and Jay Yeakley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alton Yeakley, were named the Outstanding Girl and Boy of Iowa Park High School for 1985 by three judges, all well known educators in Wichita Falls who judged the nomination forms given to

The other seniors nominated were Becky Brown, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Brown, Tracey Hall, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Larry Hall, Cindy Harper, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Harper, Misty Hicks, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Hicks, Becky Roberts, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Roberts, Kristi Wynn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Don Wynn, Phillip Clements, son of Francine and Gerald Clements, Phillip Davis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Davis and Kendell Hill, son of Mr. and Mrs. Kendell Hill.

The club initiated the project of recognizing outstanding students in 1963 under the direction of the late Mrs. T.M. Clark. Most of the recipients since that time have achieved success in their fields, some as doctors, dentists, lawyers, ministers, educators or professional men and women, and have brought honor to their school and community.

The 23 Study Club does not as a club nominate any student for the honor. It is the responsibility of the members of the youth committee to prepare nominations forms, distribute them to churches, clubs, civic organizations and any interested person, collect the forms and get them into the hands of the judges.

Dr. Arthur Beyer of Midwestern State Univ. has been the key judge for several years. He has been assisted by Mrs. Merle Anthony and Mrs. D.C. Copelin, retired teachers of the Wichita Falls schools. Mrs. Sam Hunter and Mrs. Travis Smith are members of the 23 Study Club's youth Holly Farnsworth's goal is to attend Baylor Univ. and enter the pre-med program. She has moved steadily toward the goal by taking the necessary preparatory courses and maintaining high grades in high school.

During high school, her scholastic awards have included being selected as the Daughters of the American

Former resident bullish on pork

EDITOR'S NOTE: The following article about John Sykes, a 1973 Iowa Park High School graduate, was published Feb. 17 in the Bryan-College Station Eagle.

> By MARILYN BROWN Staff Writer

Now a lot of people would say that Hardy Weedon Road is a dead end.

But what those people don't know is that the gate where the pavement ends on Hardy Weedon opens upon one of the best run farms in the state of Texas.

Weedon Swine is managed by John Sykes, a progressive business man recently chosen as the Outstanding Young Farmer in Texas by the Texas Jaycees.

Sykes is one of only three Brazos County farmers to be chosen best in the state. Now he's got a shot at the national title. He will leave Feb. 21 for a national competition in Great Falls, Mont.

Sykes, 29, was honored for turning things completely around at Weedon Swine; when he arrived in 1977 "things were in a turmoil," he says.

The farm was losing money, the hogs had the scours, the sows were open. His employer, Travis Weedon, needed some help.

Travis Weedon is now Sykes' father-in-law and grandpa to his 3-year-old son. And Weedon still owns the farm, but since a heart operation in 1979, he has turned management over to Sykes.

Sykes' first priority was to update breeding, and he designed and constructed a hand-mating system that improved conception rates dramatically - from 65 percent to 93 percent. He organized a schedule to keep three buildings of 22 sows each farrowing regularly.

There are no open sows at Weedon

"Out of a year's time - a calendar year - there will be 14-20 days when a sow will not have a pig inside her or beside her. And that's when they're being bred," Sykes said.

That keeps the boars at Weedon Swine busy, too. They have a rough life, Sykes says, doing their duty twice a day five days a week. But they are given a rest now and then.

Sykes' system is labor-intensive but effective. So effective, in fact, that Progressive Farmer magazine recently paid him a visit to do a story

Hogs are turned out now as if on a conveyor belt - farrowed, weaned after four weeks, finished and marketed. With the construction of three confinement finishing barns, he increased the number of hogs sold from 2,000 to 5,000 annually without an increase in sow facilities.

Most of the farm's hogs go to Roeglein in San Antonio after about 6 months of age, weighing in at 200-240 pounds. But some of them meet an earlier fate - Sykes has tapped into the Oriental market in Houston. Oriental chefs prefer younger, leaner pork and will pay a premium price for it. But they will buy only white pigs, because they believe the dark skin on black and brown pigs makes them dirty, Sykes Progressive Farmer was interested in that market too, Sykes said. Such markets are good for farmers because they don't have to feed the animals as long, and they get a higher price than they would at market.

Aside from the breeding program, Sykes has made other improvements on the farm, most of them designed to save either money or labor. Besides himself, Sykes has only three other hired hands for the 400-sow operation, not counting two border collies who help keep the swine in

He designed an on-the-farm feedmill that he says saves about $10,000 per month. His hogs are finished on a ration full of rich ingredients - milk powder, grains and cocoa · designed to stimulate a pig's appetite so that he can grow big enough to be called a hog.

A labor-saver is the watering system; the hogs must punch a button to turn the water on. The system saves water, prevents a lot of mess and speaks for the hogs' intelligence not many domesticated animals could learn to use it, Sykes said.

Another improvement is a system of fans to help keep down the odor inherent to pigs. To an uninitiated nose, the system may not smell of success, but such a nose should visit a smelly hog farm.

Sykes is far from through with the farm - he has visions of a new gestation barn and breeding pens. But he needs a good year to get them

"We had a good year in '82, and we haven't have a good one since," Sykes said. A glutted market has made things tough for hog producers in the past two years, but Sykes said the optimistic: Feed is cheap and the numbers of hogs going to market are

Sykes said farmers who want to stay around learn to ride the low spots, unlike the "inners and outers" who go into the business when the market cycle is good and who bail out when it bottoms out.

The problem with hogs, he said, is that it is so easy to get into the business. Give a guy a boar and five sows and in a few months he's got 40

But the bust year of 1980 wiped out a lot of producers, and a lot of the inners and outers got out and stayed out, Sykes said.

"In 1980 I had a 44-cent breakeven price, and the market dropped to 28 cents," he said.

Sykes is hopeful for a good year, but he is gloomy about the future of agriculture; he said he believes that farming and ranching are in a worse position even than during the Great Depression.

"I really believe what (Sen. Lloyd) Bentsen said: that if agriculture falls, it will have a domino effect across the country," he said. "Agriculture is the backbone of this country and the entire world."

Sykes said he is worried about the proposed bills circulating Washington as Congress gears up to pass a 1985 Farm Bill. Many of them would tighten up federal farm credit. That would spell the end for many farmers because local banks don't want to lend to them, he said.

Sykes said he doesn't favor maintaining the status quo in farm programs. He said he thinks certain subsidies should be monitored more closely and he wishes that politics the use of food as a foreign policy tool would be removed from the industry.

"We don't export like we should," he said. "And nothing against Canada but one of the worse things for hog producers is the pork we import from Canada. And that's nothing but Sykes is active in the Farm Bureau, and he said he will continue to be. He wants his voice to be heard by lawmakers.

"Government programs have caused farmers to dig a deeper grave," he said. "But you can't jerk the rug from under them now.

"Don't throw them in the ocean and expect them to swim, because they're gonna sink," he said.

Pecan trees need attention now By DAVID FINLEY going on shortly, when his tree County Agent reaches bud break. A critical time in the life of a pecan Bud break on pecans really has two tree is upon us. That time is bud stages. Stage one is when the outer break, and it not only signals the dried capsule covering the bud comes beginning of spring but also the time off due to the swelling of the bud to begin spraying pecan trees.

pecan trees really require only two nutritional elements to grow and produce pecans. These two are nitrogen and zinc. Nitrogen can be applied to the ground under the drip line of the tree, but zinc must be applied to the foliage.

Many home owners and commercial

Home owners must remember that growers are gearing up to apply zinc to their trees. One of these is Wesley Davis of Iowa Park. Wesley has several trees, and he starts them out right each spring with an application of zinc. His first application will be itself. Do not spray trees at this stage because there are no leaves present to take up the zinc.

Stage two is what home owners need to be concerned with. This stage of bud break can be identified easily as there will be a small mass of leaves and some terminal or end growth occurring. This growth will shoot out quickly and will reach an inch or so in a couple of days. When home owners see this, they should spray. Zinc does several things for the pecan tree. Number one is that it promotes terminal growth by causing elongation of the internodes. What this means is that if zinc is applied on schedule, terminal growth of the trees will be from 12 to 14 inches, depending on moisture levels.

Zinc will also prevent rosette. Rosetting is caused by zinc deficiency and can be identified on the terminal growth of trees. Leaves will be smaller than normal, yellow in appearance, and most of the time will be crinkled and shriveled.

There are two types of zinc I would recommend for pecan trees. These two are NZN and zinc sulfate.

The two most popular nitrogen fertilizers being used are 21-0-0 (ammonium sulfate) or 33-0-0 (ammonium nitrate). Both of these are good sources. They are granular and should be put out around the drip line of the tree with a spreader.

TAXPAYERS CAN EXTEND THEIR FILING DEADLINES

The Internal Revenue Service says you may receive an automatic 4-month extension of time to file your 1984 federal tax return. The application for the extension, Form 4868, must be filed by April 15.

The IRS stresses that this is an extension of time to file your return-not an extension of time for payment of taxes due. When filing for the extension, the taxpayer must estimate their tax owed for 1984 and send that amount with the Form 4868 to avoid interest and late payment penalties.

The IRS notes that a deduction for an IRA contribution can be claimed on a 1984 tax return only if the contribution is made on or before April 15, even for those electing an extension to file.

ESTIMATED TAXES DUE APRIL 15, 1985

Some wage earners and other individuals who have income other than wages may be required to file estimated tax payments, the Internal Revenue Service says. The due date for the first quarterly estimated tax payment for 1985 is April 15.

You are liable for filing a declaration of estimated tax if you have income not subject to withholding of more than $500 and you expect to owe at least $400 on next year's return. The IRS states that you are also liable if you expect to owe at least $400 and your gross income is more than:

$20,000 if you file as single, head of household, or qualifying widow or widower;

$10,000 if you are married, can file a joint declaration, and both of you have received wages for 1985;

BENCH-PRESSING DEPRESSION

Strenuous exercise can do more than firm up flabby muscles. It also can lift you out of the blues.

A study conducted at the University of Kansas found that regular exercise reduced depression for 47 female undergraduate students after 10 weeks. Student volunteers were divided into three groups -- one which participated in an exercise 2-4 times a week, one which did relaxation exercises, and one which did nothing.

According to psychologists I. Lisa McCann and David S. Holmes of the University of Kansas, students who participated in the vigorous exercise program gained the most benefits -- in terms of reducing depression. The least improvement was seen in those students who did nothing at all.

Strenuous exercise increases the production of norepinephrine, which has been associated with the reduction of depression. In addition, a certain pyschosocial factors, such as feelings of camaraderie and achievement of goals, also may lower depression in individuals participating in group workouts.
