Senior, Eighth Grade graduations are set

Weather permitting, commencement exercises for Iowa Park High School's graduating seniors will be held at 8 p.m. Friday in Hawk Stadium. Should the weather not permit the use of the outdoor facility, everything will be moved into the school auditorium, and each senior will be issued eight tickets for relatives and friends. This year's commencement address promises to be both challenging and humorous, because the speaker will be long-time principal Bob Dawson, who retires this month.

Counselor Herman Escue will make both the presentation of honors and the presentation of the class to Superintendent Harold Cowley. Diplomas will be handed to class members by Dr. Roy Boutwell, Rex Wells and Ray Hicks, members of the board of trustees.

Class President Sergio Arrendondo will make the traditional class key presentation to the Class of '86. Invocation will be given by Dale Allen and benediction by David Pike.

Special music, the processional and recessional will be provided by the Hawk Band, under direction of Greg Miller.

Should the commencement exercise be held out of doors, it will be the first public function since new lights were installed at Hawk Stadium.

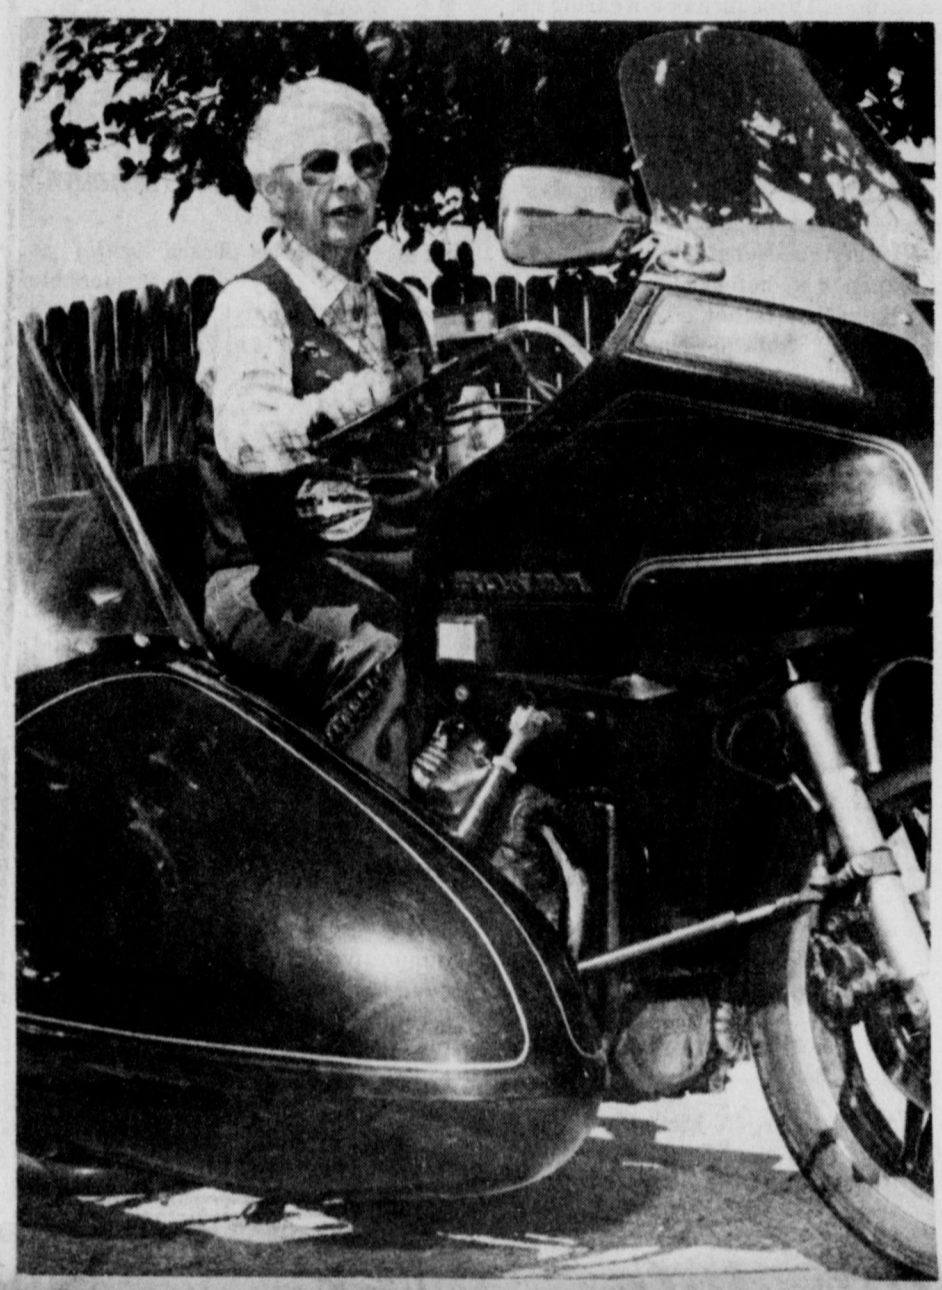

JUNIOR HIGH GRADUATION

Eighth Grade graduation ceremony will be held at 8 tonight in the high school auditorium, with IPHS valedictorian Melissa Hatcher as guest speaker.

Principal Jimmy Alsop will introduce the top 10 students in the class, as well as make the presentation of the class to Richard Davis, who will be IPHS principal next year.

Invocation will be given by Peter Armstrong and benediction by Steve Catlin. Special music will be provided by the Eighth Grade Choir, and Allan Andrews will play the processional and recessional.

Council postpones action on dirt road project

The city council Monday night tabled a proposal to assess property owners for street improvements in the southeast part of town, following a public hearing.

Aldermen also named the city's first public works director, and promised Andy Arrington he would have a response at the next meeting on his request for water and sewer service to a site outside the city limits.

A proposal to charge property owners for street improvements in the 500, 600 and 700 blocks of East Lafayette and 400 blocks of Hawthorne, Penn and Alcott.

Mark Bottles, who instigated the proposal several weeks earlier, said he had contacted the owners and that eight were for the assessment, three against, two did not answer and two more said they were for it but could not pay at the present time.

Bottles had asked the city to improve the unpaved streets, adding a gravel cover, and improve ditches. He told the council that most of those who opposed the project owned property in the area, but did not live there.

Glenn Sampley, who lives on Jefferson, said he probably owned more land in the area than anyone else. He told the council he didn't believe a gravel surface would last more than three to five years, and then it would have to be done all over again, commenting it would be quite an expense.

Freddie Simmons said he was against it, and he also didn't believe the work would hold up.

A long-time resident at Lafayette and Alcorn, Mrs. Hubert Lyons said she can't keep her house or car clean because of dust. She said she believes any type project in that area must include water drainage from Jefferson, or the project wouldn't work.

David Bottles, who lives at Ruby and Alcott, agreed with others, saying drainage was a problem that must be corrected, or whatever work is done would be washed out by rains.

Water from the area is already flowing and silting too much for Junior Jenkins, who farms the land to the south.

Mayor Tim Hunter received agreement from the rest of the council, to have the city engineer study the drainage problem both to determine how the water can be handled, and where it goes after it leaves the housing area.

The mayor promised the property owners that no action would be taken by the council until after another hearing, and all property owners would again be notified by mail.

The council unanimously approved Mike Price as the city's public works director, a newly-created position. Price is now in charge of the street and water departments, and will also do inspections on construction where permits have been issued.

No action was taken by the council on Arrington's request, because it was listed on the agenda for discussion only, Hunter explained to the audience.

Arrington, several weeks ago, requested water and sewer to a tract he purchased between Emerald and Crystal, and between Victoria and Texowa.

The council took no action on the request initially, because the city's policy for several years has been to deny service to areas adjoining the city limits, unless the owner annexes into the city.

The issue was turned over to the Planning and Zoning Commission, which referred it back with the recommendation to not annex because of alignment problems with streets in the area.

A house has been constructed in the middle of what would be Victoria, but to estimate the size, the house is where Arrington has already placed two mobile homes he says he plans to rent.

Arrington told the council he is agreeable to annex into the city.

In his effort to acquire water service, he told the council he has contacted an official with the state water department who said he should receive service, he couldn't get service from the Wichita Valley Water Cooperative because he didn't have two acres of land, and he has contacted his attorney to consider suing the city for service.

OTHER BUSINESS

Other business taken up during the meeting included:

* Aldermen approved replating of two lots into one in Block C of Manes Subdivision;

* The council approved Hunter's appointment of Mark Newman, Rip Smith and Johnny Crawford to the Board of Adjustments, and also to increase the number of members from five to six, leaving one more appointment to be made;

80-YEAR-OLD OREGONIAN ★★★★★★★★★★★★★★★★★★★★★★★★★★★

She prefers her motorcycle

by OLIVE BLALOCK

The writer of Hebrews said "Be not forgetful to entertain strangers; for thereby some have entertained angels unawares."

Miss Irene M. Kennedy, who will be 78 years old July 5, does not claim to be an angel, but she is indeed one of the most interesting visitors (strangers) Iowa Park has had in a long time.

The house guest of Mr. and Mrs. Mike Negri and Brandon for several days during the past week, she rode her GL 500 Interstate Honda motorcycle from Talent, Oregon, her home since 1965, to Iowa Park on her way to Granbury to attend the North Texas state rally of the Christian Motorcyclists Association.

Travelling by motorcycle is her way of life now. "Wheeling for Jesus" is her motto as she keeps her eye on the road, sings and talks to the Lord. She has travelled more than 57,000 miles by motorcycle during the past three years.

Chamber votes to pursue welcoming signs

Signs to welcome people to Iowa Park are a project the Chamber of Commerce board of directors are interested in undertaking.

Several times over past years, signs have been the subject of Chamber discussions. But financing has always been the deterrent.

However, Dr. Erwin Soell, Chamber president, said some civic and service organizations have indicated an interest in participating with the financing, possibly making them feasible.

Robert Palmer made a study about materials and costs of signs, and told directors they can cost "whatever you want to spend." He said they could run as high as $5,000, but could be acquired for much less.

Locating of the signs is also a problem, in that law passed 1972, requiring licensing, annual bonds and

As one talks to Miss Kennedy, he notices immediately that she has no fear of travelling alone in all kinds of weather because she has committed her life in faithful response to the Lord. This gives her a satisfying sense of freedom from the chaotic uncertainties and instabilities of life, and brings real happiness to her.

She loves life with an expansive warmth that seems to be contagious. She is very independent and pays her own way wherever she goes, and gives of herself instead of asking. She remembers and tries to live by the advice that her grandfather gave her, "Don't accept anything you do not earn."

Miss Kennedy will leave Granbury to go to Joplin, Mo., then on to Charlotte, N.C. to attend state meetings of the Christian Motorcyclists Association. At the latter place, she will be five miles from Jim Bakker's PTL, which she supports wholeheartedly. She was on his show two years ago, and during her visit, Bakker rode with her in the side car of her motorcycle.

She has already attended a CMA meeting in Hemet, Calif. this year, and she expects to make eight state meetings before she goes back to Oregon about the middle of August. She lives in a senior citizens complex. She will go through all of the New England states, and when she goes to Bismarek, N.D., she will have touched every state on her motorcycle.

Miss Kennedy, who was born in Michigan, has lived a full and rewarding life that most people just dream about. Asked about her work experience, she said "You name it, and I have done it." A retired registered nurse and member of the Air Force where she drove a staff car and bus in motor pools at a Detroit Air Force Base, she has worked as a plumber, electrician, inspector on engine heads that were being built by Buick for the Air Force, office manager for a trucking company, teacher of practical home nursing classes, and many more too numerous to mention.

Miss Kennedy didn't say how long she had been in love with the motorcycle, but she did say that she took her first ride on one in New York state in 1932. It was that year that she traded her 1927 Chevy convertible for a 1926 Indian Chief with a side car. She went back to Michigan and took her mother for a ride. "We had a ball," she recalled. Needing money, she later traded her first motorcycle for a cow and "let it out to double."

She met and became friends with the Negris several years ago at a CMA meeting in Hatfield, Ark., and they have kept in touch since that time. She is a supporting member of the Christian Motorcyclists Association, and her jacket is covered with buttons from chapters in different states.

As for cars, Miss Kennedy doesn't really have an aversion for them. She has one that she uses to go to the grocery store and short distances. But she thinks to travel a long distance by car would be one of the most boring experiences that one could have.

Rowell, Hipol wedding held in Wichita Falls

A double-ring ceremony was performed Friday evening by Rev. Gene Bond at the University Methodist Church in Wichita Falls to unite Miss Linda Kay Rowell and Randolph Austin Hipol.

The couple's parents are Mr. and Mrs. C.W. Rowell of Wichita Falls and Mr. and Mrs. Coleman Scott of Byers.

Two large silk arrangements of weeping willow, parrot lilies, single orchids, forget me nots, stephanotis and baby's breath in the spring colors of white, pink, lavender and yellow stood out prominently in altar decorations, which were completed with two heart-shaped brass candelabra traced with wedding greenery filled with tapers that provided soft lighting for the service. The altar rail was trimmed with garlands of lilies of the valley.

The wedding music was provided by Jeanette Bell, organist, Miss Kristi Knowles who sang "Evergreen," and Tony Silva who sang "One in a Million." The two vocalists were featured in a duet number "Nobody Loves You Like I Do." They were accompanied by the organist who included the prelude music and wedding marches in her offerings.

The bride glowed with happiness in her white Chantilly lace gown embellished with Venise lace, seed pearls and sequins. The bodice was designed with a high neckline outlined with a wide ruffle that dipped to a V in both front and back, and long sheer sleeves terminating in points at the wrists. The distinction of the full skirt was noted in floor-level ruffles and a train that extended from the waist to cathedral length.

The bride's Chantilly lace-trimmed veil of fingertip length was gathered to a cap sparkling with seed pearls. She carried an airy cascade bouquet of white rosebuds and lavender forget me nots with matching streamers.

She added sentiment to her costume by observing bridal traditions. These included wearing an amethyst ring that belonged to her grandmother, Mrs. Ernest Ward of Dallas, for "something old," and pearl earrings, a gift from the groom, for "something new." She carried a lace handkerchief, the "something borrowed" from Miss Kristi Knowles; wore the traditional blue garter; and a sixpence in her shoe.

The bride's father escorted her to the altar and presented her in marriage for her parents.

The bride was attended by her sister, Mrs. Jeff Smyers, as matron of honor, and Miss Traci Griffin as bridesmaid. They wore fashionable lavender taffeta strapless, tea length dresses styled with fitted bodices, shaped waistlines and gathered skirts. They wore pearl necklaces and white shoes. Mrs. Smyers carried a bouquet of light lavender morning glories and white stephanotis, and Miss Griffin carried a duplicate bouquet except for dark lilac morning glories.

Lisa Tanner, the junior bridesmaid, was dressed like the bridal attendants and carried flowers to match those carried by the bridesmaid. David Scott, the junior groomsmen, was dressed like the groom and male members of the wedding party. They also served as candlelighters.

Kay Cee Blackerby of Del Rio, the diminutive flower girl, wore a white eyelet sundress trimmed with lavender ribbon and accented with a lavender jacket. She carried a white basket of white daisies, lavender carnations and forget me nots.

Stephen Tanner served as ring bearer and wore a white tuxedo with lavender cummerbund.

The groom, best man, groomsmen and ushers wore charcoal grey cut-away coats, silver grey vests, white shirts with wing-tipped collars, black and white striped ascots and striped pants. The groom wore a white rose boutonniere and the best man and groomsmen wore boutonnieres to match the flowers in the bridal attendants' bouquets.

The fathers of the bride and groom wore black classic tuxedos with white pleated shirts, black cummerbunds and bow ties.

Jim Hall of Lawton served as best man, and Jeff Smyers, the bride's brother-in-law, was groomsmen. Guests were ushered by Jim Rowell, the bride's brother.

Mothers of the couple wore corsages of white carnations trimmed in lavender to complement the dresses that they chose for the wedding. Mrs. Rowell wore a two-piece fuchsia chiffon dress featuring a ruffled front and long sleeves. Mrs. Scott wore a bone-colored silk dress designed with large shoulder pads and a slimming waist.

Following a trip to California, the couple will live in Lawton, Okla.

For her traveling costume, the bride chose a red and white silk jacket and skirt and red accessories. The bride attended Iowa Park High School and was graduated from Rider High School. She attended Midwestern State Univ. as did her husband, who was graduated from Hirschi High School, and is presently employed as an industrial plumber.

The bride's parents hosted the wedding reception in the octangle of the church. The beauty of the cloths used to cover the tables commanded extraordinary interest in the setting.

The registry table that held the wedding book and lavender plume pen, where Miss Kathy Martinez directed signatures of the guests, was covered with white silk polyester embossed satin accented with raised hearts.

The bride's table was draped with white embossed poly-linen which formed a perfect background for bouquets of lavender and deep purple spring flowers, the cake, silver punch bowl, and silver trays filled with lavender-colored chocolate hearts.

The three-tiered cake was decorated with refreshing sprays of lavender violets and topped with a small gazebo, a perfect "love nest" for the kissing bride and groom.

The groom's table was covered with a grey box-pleated linen cloth trimmed with charcoal grey silk cord. The eye-catching appointments included a chocolate sheet cake decorated with figurines depicting a bride pulling the groom away from a baseball field, silver coffee service, silver trays filled with chocolates in the shapes of baseball caps, bats and gloves, nuts and mints.

Refreshments were served by Misses Sharon Miller, Beth Phillips and Arlene Alvarado, and the houseparty members were Misses Robin Needham, Traci Griffin and Diana Molina.

The groom's parents hosted a barbecue rehearsal dinner at the home of the bride's parents Thursday evening.

Mrs. Ernest Ware of Dallas, grandmother of the bride, was a special wedding guest. Others from out-of-town were Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Rowell of Fort Worth, Robin Needham, of Del Rio.

Cook of the Week

"My mother and grandmother taught me to cook and I am trying to do the same thing for my girls," said Sherry (Mrs. Vernon) Tepfer. In fact, she had little girls in mind when she selected her recipes for this week's paper. Her small girls at home, Robin Lane, a second grader, Sandy Lane, five years of age, and Kelley Tepfer, two, are delighted to have a part in preparing the "sweets" in her selection.

The former Sherry/Maness, her father was in the Air Force and the family lived in many different places while she was growing up. She was born in Calif. and attended 13 different schools before graduating from Papillion, Neb. High School. While the family lived in Spain, she went to school at Zarzonoz, Madrid, Seville AFB, and Cadiz. She also attended school at Austin and Colorado Springs, Colo.

She has worked in automobile dealerships for Ron Roberts, C.O. Morgan, and Longhorn Chevrolet in Wichita Falls and Bates Chevrolet in Iowa Park. She is a member of Faith Baptist Church and will be helping with Vacation Bible School this year. Her hobbies include cross stitching, sewing, cooking and square dancing.

Sherry and her husband, who works for West Oil Co., both enjoy square dancing, and will serve as treasurers of the Wichita Falls Roadrunners next year.

The couple's other children are Donna Jett of Little Rock, Ark., Curtis Tepfer of Blue Springs, Mo. and Gary Tepfer of Iowa Park. They also have one grandchild.

As I See It....

By BOB HAMILTON

Congratulations to our graduating seniors, and we wish them the best of luck and a successful future.

Having followed most of them through their public school years... they were all in diapers when we moved here in 1969. . . I feel very close to this group.

I look forward to future years to watch their development in the adult world. This has been a major interest to me, watching all our graduates and following their lives and families.

Hardly a week goes by without someone asking us to publicize some fund-raising project they're planning or completing. And in virtually every case, our hands are tied because the projects are, by legal interpretation, lotteries.

I try to explain our position, that we can't write about the cost of tickets, whose ticket was drawn for whatever the prize, and that sort of thing.

Most of the time, my word is taken. But some times, I'm reminded that some other publication wrote about the same type of project, or a radio or television station had the story.

Well, the fact of the matter is, lotteries violate state and Postal Service laws. And to report them, other than saying that so-and-so was given a prize of some kind, makes the Leader just as guilty as whoever ran the lottery.

True, you never hear about some civic, church, social or other type of organization being charged with violating the laws governing lottery. But this does not mean I'm willing to put my business on the block, to pay a big fine, to report something like that.

Radio and television stations aren't affected by Section 1302 of Title 18, U.S. Code, because they don't use the mail. Some newspapers just ignore the laws. But we count heavily on distribution of the Leader through the mail to reach our subscribers. Therefore, we are subject to that particular law.

But then, there's Section 47.01 of the Texas Penal Code, which reads: "(5) 'Gambling paraphernalia' means any book, instrument, or apparatus by means of which bets have been or may be recorded or registered; any record, ticket, certificate, bill, slip, token, writing, scratch sheet, or other means of carrying on bookkeeping, wagering pools, lotteries, numbers, policy, or similar games.

"(6) 'Lottery' means any scheme or procedure whereby one or more prizes are distributed by chance among persons who have paid or promised consideration for a chance to win anything of value, whether such scheme or procedure is called a pool, lottery, raffle, gift, gift enterprise, sale, policy game, or some other name.

"(7) 'Private place' means a place which the public does not have access, and excludes, among other places, streets, highways, restaurants, taverns, nightclubs, schools, hospitals, and the common areas of apartment houses, hotels, motels, office buildings, transportation facilities, and shops."

This newspaper's intention and primary purpose is to support any worthy project in the community and to keep informed all readers of whatever is going on.

But we cannot, and will not, violate the law to do it.

I hope you understand and continue to be as forgiving as you've been, when we shake our heads in the future and explain why we can't report your next organization's fund-raiser if it is a lottery.

The May 16 issue of the Leader was a "traveler's issue," because the stories were written in Iowa Park, the type set in Electra and it was printed in Wichita Falls.

Only the type setting in Electra was really new, however.

Our machine broke down, and despite my efforts to coax it back into functioning, it wasn't fixed until Thursday, and by an expert.

Fellow publisher Joe Thompson was nice enough to turn his equipment over to my wife, Dolores, Tuesday night and all day Wednesday, so she could set the stories into type.

Joe's the kind of guy good publisher friends are made of (excuse my grammar).

Balloon found in Oklahoma

Response of the balloon lift-off held recently at the Heritage Manor Nursing Home in Iowa Park came by way of a letter from a woman in Oklahoma, nursing home officials said Wednesday.

Audrey Johnson of Tahlequah, in northeastern Oklahoma, wrote to the nursing home, saying she found the balloon in an open field outside of the city.

Local sorority wins honors

The Epsilon Eta Chapter received considerable attention and recognition at last week's Epsilon Sigma Alpha state convention in Houston.

Honors received included: Atta-Girl, for participation in all phases of sorority functions; Easter Seals Project and the North Texas Rehab Center; second place in state for the year's history; second place for rush outline (membership growth); top 10 in scrapbooks; perfect content for yearbook; gold link award for educational programs, and top 10 category for outstanding chapter in the state.

"There are 120 chapters of Epsilon Sigma Alpha in Texas, so the fact that Iowa Park Chapter was recognized in so many areas of service is a tribute not only to the members for their work, but to the citizens of our area that promote and contribute to the endeavors of our organization," commented Mrs. Luther Shaw, 1984-85 Epsilon Eta president who attended the convention.

Other members of the chapter are Mrs. Doreen Gunderson, 1985-86 president, and Mrs. D.W. Mercer, and their husbands. Mrs. Mercer was also named state scrapbook chairman for the coming year.

Senior honored

Lisa Walker, a senior at Iowa Park High School, was honored at a luncheon Saturday at the home of an aunt, Mrs. Mike Kingeade. Other aunts who served as co-hostesses were Mmes. Larry Ashford, Lynn Greene, Dan Kingeade and Jimmy Wood.

The serving table was trimmed in green and white, the school colors, and appointed with a centerpiece of spring flowers arranged in a basket, graduation cap and gown, and the decor was completed with trays of colorful fruits and vegetables.

Miss Walker is a member of the Hawk band and the jazz ensemble and she has received her cosmetology license from the State of Texas.

Special guests were the honoree's mother, Mrs. Jimmy Walker, and her grandmother, Mrs. Truman Kingeade.

Tips On Dental Health

RICHARD CARVER, D.D.S.

LEARNING TO BRUSH

The parents must teach and help the child to learn to properly brush their own teeth. Because parents are so big and children so little it's hard to see in the mouth unless you know how. One of the best ways is to sit on the commode or the side of the bathtub with legs spread and the child standing between them facing out. The head is tilted upward while the child leans backward against you. Tilting the face upward tends to open the mouth and you can see directly in.

You should use a small brush such as the Oral B B 20, a small amount of paste and with short strokes (jiggle back and forth) brush all sides of the teeth. Then have them rinse thoroughly. You must teach them how to "SWISH" vigorously. I find that those patients who do not know how to swish almost in all cases have much more decay than those that do know how.

After you have done your part then it is time to allow the child to take the brush and attempt to brush for themselves. As they become a little older and a little better, you can begin to correct their technique.

Properly done -- and in the right spirit -- you can help create a habit that will help them all their life.

Prepared in the interest of better dental health. DR. RICHARD CARVER, Phone 592-5141.

KRAZY GLUE: HOW TO SEPARATE TISSUE

Cyanoacrylate adhesives, sold under a variety of trade names such as Instant Magic, Super Glue, Krazy Glue, Miracle Glue and Nail Glue, will firmly bond almost anything to anything, including human tissues, in just seconds. So strongly may a user's fingers become glued together, the journal Custis [35 #1:18, 1985] reports, that skin may be ripped off if one tries to pull them apart. To get them separated without damaging the skin, they should be soaked in warm soapy water for several minutes and then peeled or rolled apart.

Another danger, reports Custis, is that some of the little plastic bottles in which these glues are sold greatly resemble the containers used for eyedrops. This has resulted in people sticking their eyelids together and, because of the lashes, the bond is very firm. No attempt should be made to force the lids apart in these cases, but the eye should be rinsed with warm water and then covered with a gauze pad. The lids will separate spontaneously after one to four days, and usually there is no damage to the eye.

Many stores now sell an acetone-like liquid for removing cyanoacrylate glues. Although it can be used for unsticking fingers, it must never be applied near the eyes.
