A project of the Iowa Park Ministerial Alliance benefitted 104 local families Saturday afternoon.

Sacks of food, including baking chicken hens, and presents were made available to all families which have been qualified for USDA commodities. Larger families received more than one chicken.

Gifts for the children were provided by 10 churches: Faith Baptist, First Baptist, First Christian, First United Methodist, First Presbyterian, Cornerstone Pentecostal, Assembly of God, Church of God, Lakeview Church of God and Christ the King

The city council Monday night decided to not pursue the demolition of one structure that reportedly did not meet city codes, but gave the goahead on a second structure's razing.

Linda Manry, listed as the owner of a house that had been moved onto the lot at 506 E. Lafayette, said she plans to complete the structure as a residence.

Video film made the day of the meeting showed workers' improvements on the structure, though it had sat untouched several months, still on its hauling skids.

Aldermen assured the owner that they were not anxious to do away with the house, if it is to be brought up to required standards. A followup report will be made to the council in February on progress.

However, the other structure, at 314 E. Crystal, is to be demolished by work crews, aldermen decided.

The owner, Charles E. Salmon of Richland Hills, received a certified letter notifying him of the hearing and city's intentions, but did not respond, aldermen were told.

The second of three required public hearings on the annexation of Lake Iowa Park was held, without comment from the audience. The third hearing is slated to be held in Barrington discussed letters from the Texas Water Commission and Corps of Engineers, concerning a plan to decrease the floodplain in the northeast part of town.

Evans, McCoy recite wedding vows Saturday evening

As the organ and piano sounded the strains of "Trumpet Voluntary" for the wedding processional, Miss Jerri Michelle Evans entered the sanctuary of Faith Baptist Church Saturday evening to stand by Monte Alan McCoy for the recitation of their traditional marriage lines.

Rev. Jerry Miller officiated the double-ring ceremony to unite the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Evans of Iowa Park and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lee McCoy of Wichita Falls.

Mrs. Doug Burgoyne, organist, and Miss Cindy Harper, pianist, presented the processional and the prenuptial concert. Their selections included "Hymn to Joy," "Savior Like a Shepherd Lead Us," "He Leadeth Me" and "Sheep May Safely Graze." Mrs. Burgoyne played "Wedding Prayer," and both instrumentalists played "Jesu, Joy of Man's Desiring" while mothers of the bride and groom were being seated.

Miss Harper provided accompaniment for the vocal music before and during the service. A male quartet composed of Phil Boss, Jerry Evans, Dan Allen and Buddy Mercer sang "Oh Perfect Love" and "The Lord's Prayer," and Mercer gave a vocal rendition of "Song of Ruth." The recessional, "Prelude in Classic Style,"was played for members of the wedding party to exit from the

The focal point of interest in the tasteful wedding decorations was a floral deluxe arrangement of fresh red gladiolas, white mums, lemon leaf and jade placed just under the cross above the baptistry, yet high above two fifteen-branched candelabras flankedbyseven-branchedcandelabras holding glowing cathedral candles to illuminate the setting at floor level. The altar extremities were marked with tall brass columns topped and based with large ferns.

The prayer bench where the couple knelt at the close of the ceremony was trimmed with leatherleaf and white silk bows and the baptistry rail was outlined with red poinsettias. The church pews were decorated with white taffeta who asked them to sign the bride's book covered with white moire taffeta accented with white Chantilly lace and pearls, the handi-work of the bride's aunt, Mrs. Sommerville, of Wichita Falls.

The table was covered with white Chantilly lace and held a fivebranched silver candelabra centered with a bouquet of fresh red roses, and a white plume pen.

The bride was radiant as she entered the sanctuary with her father who escorted her to the altar to present her in marriage for both her life, she chose an exquisitely styled gown of white taffeta, its loveliness enhanced with a tight the church, they were greeted by bodice and long sleeves heavily and Miss Sheila Wallace of Big Lake completely embroidered with sequins and pearls. The long bodice dipped in front and revealed an illusion yoke accented with self-covered taffeta buttons in the back. The full skirt fell gracefully to a chapel train from beneath an eye-catching bustle belt in the back.

The bride wore a complimentary tulle veil that drifted to fingertip length from a caplet of seed pearls and sequins. She carried a bridal bouquet of fresh red roses, lemonleaf, jade and leatherleaf on her mother's pearled Bible, which lent itself to the "something old" and "something borrowed traditions. She completed the rhyme with her wedding dress for "something new" and the popular "something blue" garter.

The bride's attendants were smartly dressed in ballerina length gowns fashioned with Christmas plaid taffeta skirts and short puffed sleeves and black velveteen bodices. They carried arm bouquets of fresh white roses and leatherleaf.

The charming quartet of attendants included Miss Betsy House, maid of honor, Mrs. Sonny Cook, Mrs. Randy Case, sisters of the bride, and Mrs. Phil Farnsworth, bridesmaids.

Jacalyn Cook, niece of the bride, the flower girl, wore a long white taffeta frock overlaid with white chiffon accented with white embroidered designs and styled with puffed sleeves and a sash that tied at the back. She wore an organdy bow touched with pearls and roses in her hair, and white lace gloves. She carried a white basket filled with rose petals for her to scatter in the path of the bride as she walked to the altar.

The bridegroom and all male members of the wedding party wore traditional black tuxedos with black cummerbunds and ties and white shirts. The groom wore a fresh red rose boutonniere and the others wore white rose boutonnieres.

Randal McCoy of Arlington served his brother as best man. The groomsmen were Bob Tidrow of Fort Worth, Woodie Huffman of Tyler and Ben Kirkland of Austin. The guests wre ushered and seated by Will Lunn and Dwight Ross of Wichita Falls, Kelly Martin of Austin and Phil Sommerville of Rhome.

For the wedding, the bride's mother chose a street length dress of emerald green silk trimmed with black velvet and styled with the popular dropped waistline and selfcovered buttons on the back of the bodice. The groom's mother wore a street length champagne lace dress featuring a chiffon tunic overblouse accented with pearl buttons in the back, and a circle skirt.

Following the wedding, guests went immediately to Tom Burnett Memorial Library for the reception hosted by the bride's parents. The bride's chosen colors of Christmas plaid and white were tastefully and meticulously combined in room decorations and appointments to bring rare charm to the setting and to express the spirit of the season.

The round registry and gift table was covered with a white eyelet embroidered cloth and appointed with red poinsettias.

The elegance of the bride's cake table, covered with Christmas plaid taffeta, was captured in the four-tiered white cake separated by two sets of sugar posts covered with icing lattice and placed on white bridal lace. The rich and romatic embellishments on the cake featured cascades of roses, petunias, bridal trumpets, forget me nots, stephanotis and accents of red poinsettias for color. The floral top piece completed the ornate picture.

The glass-topped groom's table held a brass coffee service, a brass plate that held a three layer chocolate cake frosted with chocolate cut with garlands on the sides. Chocolate mints and white napkins with names of the bride and groom and their wedding date in black completed the setting.

The food table was covered with a white linen cloth featuring a pleated skirt and centered with a fivebranched silver candelabrum decorated with fresh red roses. It held the silver punch service, meat and cheese trays, fruit bowl and chocolatecovered pretzels.

The reception assistants were Mmes. Sammie Jay Askins of Wichita Falls, Glen Davoult of Ardmore, Okla., Don Riddles of Wichita Falls, Richard Selby of Denton and David Tomlison of Midland.

Mr. and Mrs. Lee McCoy, parents of the groom, hosted the rehearsal dinner Friday evening at the University Club in Wichita Falls.

Special wedding guests were Ira Evans of Iowa Park and J.Y. Riddles of Wichita Falls, the bride's grandparents.

The bride was graduated from Iowa Park High School, attended Texas Tech at Lubbock and received a degree from Midwestern State Univ. She is employed by Sunshine National Foods. The groom was graduated from Wichita Falls High School and MSU and works for Uarco Business Forms.

Following a wedding trip to San Francisco, Calif., the couple will live in Wichita Falls.

Mr. and Mrs. Darin Whitman of Iowa Park are the parents of a son, Kendall Alan, born Dec. 9 at Wichita General Hospital. He weighed eight pounds, 10 ounces, and is the couple's first child.

Mrs. Whitman is the former Deanna Mashburn of Iowa Park.

Grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Whitman, Dr. and Mrs. Earl Watson, and Mr. and Mrs. Billy Mashburn, all of Iowa Park. Greatgrandmothers are Loree Dunegan of Iowa Park and Maudie Whitman of Muskogee, Ok.

Each member brought a favorite Christmas salad and a gift for her secret pal.

Holiday decorations were tastefully displayed throughout the home. Candles, burning in crystal votive cups nestled among greenery, lined the mantel and reflected from a mirror that hung above the fireplace.

While I sometimes enjoy sitting down for an evening with absolutely nothing to do, I've got to admit I feel sorry for those who have little or nothing to do, and even those who work strictly 9-5 jobs.

This time of year is much like the end of school in May. Everything's going on. And when it's like that, people in the newspaper business are extremely busy.

The work isn't too bad. It's those domestic things that make things

Like, for instance, trying to do all the extra work, the planning and everything is sometimes confused by such things as doing one's Christmas

But if all that's not bad enough, try adjusting the work, the planning, the shopping and everything else around a planned birth in the family!

Our youngest daughter, Kari Collins, is to have her second child next week.

My gosh! Getting out what is usually one of the largest editions of the year is tough enough, along with the planning, the shopping, the covering of activities, the selling of the advertisements and all that.

But when your ace reporter decides to have a child during all this

So, if I seem a little more disoriented through the Christmas season, forgive me.

It's all Kari's fault.

Dear Bob:

On behalf of the United Way Board, staff and member agencies, we want to thank you and all your staff for your support during our campaign.

The Iowa park Leader gave us considerable Public Service space. There is no question that the support and publicity from the media make a great difference in our annual campaign.

Thank you for your commitment to the United Way and the community.

I've taken tests in public school that could depress a hyena, make a fish perspire and force an oyster to lose its grip. But what kind of a test has the power to move first graders to tears?

TEAMS! reports a first grade teacher, whose students, wilting at the test's demands, have bowed over their desks, crying.

Imagine a seven-year-old tangling with TEAMS. With the shapelessness of an amoeba, TEAMS is a worrisome creature covered with armies of answer "bubbles." Jack and Jill must conquer it with scratch paper and sharp pencils.

How can the Texas Education Assessment of Minimum Skills be so effective as a depressant that the FDA should consider it for a medicine patent?

"While we're studying for TEAMS, they're cranky and we have more discipline problems," explains Rex Reeves first grade teacher Judy Cummins.

"It's much too difficult," adds Cummins, now in her sixth year of teaching first grade. "The reading secthat the children have not had, and so they can't prove their skill.

"The first grade test is not a test of minimum skills. The pressure to pass it is so great that it exhausts my students. And when it's over, they don't want to work the last five weeks of school. Neither do the teachers," she revealed.

Now then, let's dissect the first grader's test by object-

MATH contains - geometric shapes, time-telling, simple word problems, addition and subtraction, place value, number sequence and number comparison.

WRITING contains - capitalization, punctuation, spelling, and subject-verb agreement.

READING contains - main ideas, word recognition, compound words, context clues, root words and phonic analysis. Also, specific details, sequence of events and outcome prediction.

Vocabulary areas of TEAMS challenges and frustrates students most, Cummins said, "But the worst of it is that we use only one reader of the five from which TEAMS vocabulary is taken. So we teach our students extra vocabulary. Our scores are good, but it isn't worth it."

Not worth it? Why?

"It's a waste of a good month," Cummins continues. "From the beginning of school, I spend one or ing for TEAMS. That's four weeks of class time that I use to teach testtaking."

Students must answer correctly three out of four questions in any particular section to achieve "mastery," which is the vernacular of "passing."

Cummins says she has received little TEAMS feedback from parents. But it is unanimous among Rex Reeves' 10 first grade teachers that TEAMS should be eliminated at first grade level.

The state board of education, recognizing problems with first grade TEAMS, is "seriously considering" moving the test from April to October, Cummins says.

"That way TEAMS could be more of a readiness test. If we could give it in October, we'd take pressure off teachers and students. As it is, we don't get the test results until June. If we can move it to October, we'd get the results in time to make some use Bumping up the date of the test may help, but Cummins says she and her colleagues would opt to eliminate first grade TEAMS.

ED STERLING Canyon News

The fallout continues from the recent grand jury indictment of three county commissioners and the county judge. A group of the elected officials' constituents felt strongly enough that the officials were not following the law that they should be charged with an offense. The indictment does not express guilt or innocence. That's up to a district court jury to decide. The changes in the county's method of doing business have been drastic in recent weeks. That alone indicates that methods being used prior to the indictments were not up to snuff.

The law says the county must bid its business if that business amounts to more than $5,000 a year. Whether it's $5,000 worth of fuel, $5,000 worth of rubble rock or $5,000 worth of bullet proof vests, the law says bid it. No ifs, ands or ways around it. Bid it.

Some of the bids opened and awarded recently for services have been considerably lower than the price the county had been paying. Others have been considerably higher. And it is those higher prices that have the commissioners frustrated.

They feel they have been working to save the taxpayers money by "horse trading" with suppliers.

And they are no doubt right. But the days of haggling between buyer and seller are over for big county busi-

The lessons of complying with state law have been painful and expensive in the past. It wasn't that long ago commissioners agonized over their options to solve crowding at the old county jail. The law told them they had to do something and that something cost them a bundle. The sheriff's department, with a new jail, amounts to a $1.2 million chunk out of this year's county budget.

No sooner had they got the foundation poured on the new jail than commissioners were faced with another state law, that of regulating septic tank systems in the county. The septic tank regulation department in the new budget costs taxpayers $35,355.

The state-mandated indigent health care program has been part of the county budget for three years now. In the 1985-86 budget, commissioners alloted $50,000 for indigent health care. This year, that amount is up to $350,000.

Experience has shown commissioners that complying with the law can be expensive. But the price to pay for not complying could be a lot DENNY DEADY

The Singers took two small groups on a tour of their beautifully decorated home, giving explanations and demonstrations with many of the antique tools and household items in their extensive collections.

Of special interest was their collection of more than 300 Santa Clauses. On the trip back to school the classes enjoyed seeing the Christmas decorations adorning Iowa park and the Christmas cookies given by the Singers.

Pass the Fiber, Please

· Fiber is the part of the plant than humans cannot · Fiber can be found in fruits, vegetables, grains, cereals, nuts, seeds and legumes.

· Soluble and insoluble fibers, the two main types of fiber, have different functions in the body. So, it is important to eat a wide variety of high-fiber plant foods every day, in order to get both types.

· Wheat bran, whole grains and some vegetables contain high levels of insoluble fiber.

• Insoluble fibers aid in elimination and regularity.

· Soluble fibers are found in beans, some fruit and vegetables, oats and barley.

• The National Cancer Institute believes that eating the right foods may reduce the risk of getting some kinds of cancer. They recommend a balanced diet high in fiber, fresh fruits and vegetables, and low in fat.

• The average American consumes only 10-20 grams of fiber daily.

 The National Caner Institute recommends that we eat foods which provide 25-35 grams of fiber several servings of fiber-rich foods ---- each day.

Tips for handling mail-order food

Mail-order food companies typically freeze perishable food solid so that overnight delivery in cold weather guarantees that it will arrive still cold. But what can't be guaranteed is having someone at home to receive the food and refrigerate it," says Barbara Fangmann, Wichita County Extension Agent.

In Texas, you can't count on cold weather either and perishables that sit in a delivery truck, mail box

Fire prevention topic of Optimist meeting

Fire prevention was the topic of a program given recently for a meeting of the Iowa Park Optimist Club.

Bob Evans, president of Iowa Park Volunteer Fire Department, gave the program, stressing the importance of owning and maintaining a smoke detector.

Evans told members that most house fires occur at night, while people are asleep. A smoke alarm works as a first defense, he said, and would enable the occupants to wake up in time to escape.

Evans stated that a smoke detector cannot saves lives unless it is installed correctly and maintained. He recommended testing a detector every Tuesday and changing the batteries on one certain holiday each year.

Fire departments in Texas reported 93,580 fires during 1987, killing 228 people, injuring 2,467 and destroying more than $342million in property.

or on the front porch on a warm December afternoon may quickly thaw and become hazardous.

A tabulation of calls received by the U.S. Department of Agriculture's national Meat and Poultry Hotline during the 1987 holiday season showed that the greatest number of calls about mail-order foods concerned smoked or smoked and vacuum-packed hams and turkeys.

Many consumers don't understand that just because meat has been smoked, doesn't automatically mean it's cooked. In addition, all meat -cooked or uncooked -- should be shipped with an ice source to keep it at a below 40-degrees Farenheit, just like a refrigerator. Consumers should also check the label to see if the product contains preservatives. When a product is cured, such as a cured ham, the preservatives will aid in protection against spoilage if it is left out for a short length of time.

Thorough re-heating before serving is an added safeguard, but no guarantee against the bacteria that cause food-borne illness. If you have any doubt about a fresh or a cured food. discard it.

Fangmann says consumers should look for the following before eating mail-order food products:

* Fresh or cooked meat, poultry or fish should arrive frozen or still hard in the middle. If never frozen, it should be cold to the touch.

* With the exception of drycured hams, baked hams and most canned hams need refrigeration and should arrive cold.

* Hard, dry sausages, such as pepperoni and hard salamis don't require refrigeration. Thuringer, summer sausage and others do. If the label says "keep refrigerated," the sausage should be cold.

* Cheese should not contain mold, unless the mold is part of the product, such as a blue cheese.

* Cheesecake should be frozen

If the food product requires refrigeration and isn't frozen or cold, don't serve it. The food could give your family the unwanted "gift" of the flulike symptoms that come from a food-borne illness.

Land Bank reported financially sound

The president of the Red River Federal Land Bank Association said this week that local operations remain sound.

Clifton Smith said local borrowers continue to benefit from the collective action taken by all 44 of the state's associations earlier in the year to help provide lower interest rates.

Retroactive to Jan. 1 this year, associations agreed to forgo interest on their investment in the Farm Credit Bank of Texas.

"Adequate credit is available to qualified borrowers," Smith said.

Evening Lions pay tribute to Waters

Wayne House, a charter member of the Evening Lions, gave a brief history of the club and its accomplishments since it was organized and chartered in Dec., 1955, at a meeting Tuesday. He was assisted by R.E. Waters and V.I. Woodfin, two other charter members.

House paid tribute to Waters for his efforts in getting the club organized and serving as the first president. He said membership had fluctuated during the years, the highest number being 35 and the lowest, nine.

He mentioned numerous projects the club had sponsored, the first of which was the Camp Fire Girls which is still a project. He said the first meeting place for the club was in the bank's annex, and mentioned nine other places that the club had met before purchasing the present building at Wall and Cash Streets.

House stated the Evening Lions started Little League baseball in Iowa Park, had a booth at the Texas-

Oklahoma Fair, sold mail boxes for a money-making project, started the Iowa Park Library, sponsored broom sales, delivered flyers supporting a city bond issue, delivered Christmas boxes to the needy, sponsored donkey basketball games and participated in a variety show for the Bicentennial celebration.

He said their present projects include participating in the Wichita County Fair, Whoop-T-Do, and annual auction sales.

Roberta Louise Hill

Last rites were held Friday afternoon at Faith Baptist Church for Roberta Louise Hill, 72.

Officiating were Rev. Jackie Newton, pastor of First Baptist Church of Kaufman, and Rev. Jerry Miller, Faith Baptist Church pastor. Interment was in Highland Cemetery under direction of Tanner-Aulds Funeral Home.

Born Feb. 13, 1916 in Muldrow, Okla., she moved here with her family in 1930 and was graduated from W.F. George High School.

After graduation, she attended Byrnes Business School in Dallas, and worked briefly for John C. Murphree, a local attorney, before beginning her career with State National Bank, where she was employed more than 50 years. She advanced to the position of vice president and cashier.

Miss Hill was known as one whom elderly residents counted on to assist them not only in their banking business, but also with other efforts requiring paperwork. Though not a member of the Chamber of Commerce, she volunteered her help many years in ticket sales at the organization's annual banquet.

A charter member of Faith Baptist Church, she served more than 40 years as secretary of the Highland Cemetery Association, and was a member of the American Institute of Banking and Notary Association.

She is survived by her brother, Virgil, of Iowa Park, and two sisters, Wilma Pittman of Wichita Falls and Betty Hall of Lake Arrowhead.

Pallbearers for the funeral were Bill Robinson, Stanley Williamson, Hershel Nipper, Vernon Lewis, Odis Mayo and Bud Patterson.

The family suggests memorials be made to the building fund of Faith Baptist Church.

Hawks take third in tourney

The Hawks captured third place Saturday in the Holliday tournament, but in an unusual fashion.

In winning only their third game of the young season, they did it in a triple overtime with Seymour.

Iowa Park trailed thoughout the entire game, right up to the final three seconds of regulation time. The Hawks were down 15-10 at the end of the first quarter, 30-21 at the half and 42-39 going into the final period.

Seymour had the ball with three seconds showing on the scoreboard clock. And a lot took place after that.

The Panthers attempted an inbound pass, against the pressing Hawks, to the far end of the floor. But the Seymour player walked when he caught it.

Iowa Park's first inbound pass was blocked out of bounds.

The second inbound pass was to Jimmy Duggins, who immediately fired the ball from about five feet of the center stripe.

The ball hit only net, and the score was tied at 53-53.

Iowa Park finally prevailed in the third overtime period, 73-68.

Duggins finished with 29 points and Gary Green, who was moved up to the varsity only last week, had 13. Of their three wins this year, two have been in overtime.

The Hawks advanced in the tournament with a 60-56 first-round win over Chillicothe.

An extremely tight contest all the way, the Hawks outscored their opponents in the last two quarters 14-12 and 14-12 to earn the four-point

Duggins was high point with 26 and Wayne Chitwood canned 12.

The Hawks were knocked into the third-place contest by the host Eagles, who won 63-45, holding Duggins to 18 points.

Holliday went on to win the final game, 39-37 over Munday, in overtime.

The Hawks will host Holliday at 6 p.m. Friday and travel to Wichita Falls High Monday, before taking a break for Christmas.
