Water sample takers unauthorized

The city hall this week has received numerous complaints concerning water samples being taken at homes by an individual residents believed to be from the city water department.

Those taking the samples are believed to be representatives of a commercial operation, and not employees of the city.

Mike Price, public works director, said the tests which are being taken are not in conjunction with tests taken by water plant operators, to meet the Texas Dept. of Health standards.

At least one report was received by the police department during the past week, of an individual soliciting the sale of drinking water at a home on Mary Drive.

The state department requires all water samples to be taken by trained and certified operators, to reduce contamination of the sample by handling.

"The individual or firm taking the samples are having the homeowner pull the sample and then they run a chlorine test," Price said. "At least one time they've told the homeowner the chlorine level is two to three times higher than required for a swimming pool."

Price said there is no maximum level of chlorine yet the Health Dept. requires a 1.0 chlorine level at the point of entry into the water system.

The city is required to submit eight water samples monthly, taken from various points within the city, to determine compliance with health standards.

If any sample does not meet the standards, the city is required to notify all water customers, Price said.

Any customers with questions concerning the tests are urged by Price to contact him at 592-2642, or Bural Yoder, water plant supervisor, at 592-5981.

TOWNHALL MEETING - Cong. Bill Sarpalius was at the Iowa Park city hall Thursday morning to meet with the public. He's shown receiving information on why the weather bureau in Wichita Falls should not be closed as part of a cost-saving program, from Mike Grubbs and George Witherspoon. Both cited early warning of violent storms as their primary reason.

Floodplain workshop Wednesday

A half-day workshop on the National Flood Insurance Program and how it impacts communities in Texas will be held Wednesday at the Tom Burnett Memorial Library.

Sponsored by the Texas Water Commission and city of Iowa Park, the workshop will begin at 9 a.m. in the library's upstairs meeting room.

While the subjects are designed primarily for municipal and county officials, the meeting will be open to the general public, especially those who reside in floodplain areas.

Loyd Blackmon and David Terry of the Texas Water Commission Flood Management Unit will be the speakers.

The representatives will give presentations covering the basic aspects of floodplain management routines, permitting requirements, and the role of local government in implementing the NFIP regulations.

Registration will be held the first 15 minutes, followed by an introduction and welcome.

Theme and objective of the workshop will be to "reduce the financial, fiscal, physical and psychological impact caused by floods within the 100 year floodplain."

The agenda includes:

- 9:30 - Impact of the NFIP on your community.
- 9:45 - Rules relating to construction practices.
- 10:00 - Details of sensible floodplain management.
- 10:30 - break.
- 10:45 - Local floodplain management cycle.

- 11:00 - Developing public awareness
- 11:20 - Questions and answers.
- 11:30 - adjournment.

Contracts to be considered

Iowa Park school trustees will consider contracts for all district auxiliary employees for next year, as well as placement this year of teachers on the second and third levels of the career ladder.

The board is to meet at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in the administration building.

Decisions on both the contracts and career ladder topics are to take place following a possible closed session of the board, according to the agenda.

Trustees will also consider the sale of two pickup trucks.

Two recognitions are also on the agenda.

As has been the board's policy, students who have recently competed in state-level competition will be recognized.

Also to be recognized will be the Chapter One teacher aides.

Reports will be presented on bill paying, taxes, transportation, cafeteria and student enrollment.

Council to set priorities on major street projects

Besides setting major street work priority for the year, the city council Monday night will consider several requests from organizations.

The meeting is to begin at 7 p.m. in council chambers.

At the last meeting, Public Works Director Mike Price was instructed to develop cost estimates on projects that would include West Texas, Ruby, Texowa and the north end of Third Street.

The estimated costs will provide information for aldermen to determine how far the city's funds will stretch. City sales taxes are dedicated for street construction and repairs.

One of the organization requests to be heard will be the Optimist Club, seeking a waiver of fees for use of Burnett Field.

Another will be a bicycle ride route, sought by a group from Burkburnett.

A proposed route of approaching the city from the north on FM 368, turning east on the access road and back north on Bell, would include a rest stop at the Lakeview Church of God grounds.

The Burkburnett request includes Iowa Park providing at least two police officers for traffic control.

The other request is from the local Little League baseball group, asking permission for its annual opening day parade route through the downtown business district.

Also on Monday's agenda, Mayor Tim Hunter is to deliver a proclamation establishing April 17-22 as "Clean-up and Fix-Up Week" in the city.

The annual event is co-sponsored by the city and the Chamber of Commerce.

Chamber officials are already contacting organizations to assume responsibility of picking up trash in designated areas during that week.

Chamber President Kenneth Via is asking that any organization not contacted, but wanting to participate, to notify the Chamber office.

Shoplifters arrested

Police arrested a trio of shoplifters at Wal-Mart Wednesday evening of last week, and two of them were found to already have outstanding warrants out on them from the county sheriff's office.

Officers were informed by phone that the three had left the store to put the items in their car, and were returning, apparently to get more.

In the car were 24 items which had not been paid for at the counter, valued at more than $200.

Arrested and charged with theft over $200 were Sherlynn Sheppard, 36, who was also wanted for theft over $20; Georgia Sheffield, 37, and Howard Sheppard, 44, who was wanted for delivery of a controlled substance.

All three were transported to the county jail later that evening, according to the police blotter.

Four other theft reports were filed with police during the week, but one, a bicycle, was recovered a few hours after the report was received.

Carl Davis told police Thursday that someone had opened a coin box on a drier at his laundry at 309 W. Bank and taken the money from it, apparently Wednesday night.

Gasoline was reportedly taken from a vehicle the same evening while parked in the 1000 block of S. Park.

Monday, a bicycle was reported as being stolen from a home in the 700 block of Park Plaza.

Two complaints of criminal mischief were reported within an hour of each other Saturday.

One was a house window having been broken out in the 100 block of Hope Lane.

The other was newly-planted shrubs being pulled up in the 500 block of Rebecca. A juvenile later admitted to the offense, however, and replanted the shrubs.

Police took Paul Matthew Hooper, 21, into custody at 9:22 p.m. Saturday at Colorado and Loop 370 on a charge of public intoxication.

Pro rodeo coming here

Professional rodeo will make its official debut in the Iowa Park area Tuesday, at the Blackwell Indoor Arena, southwest of town off FM 367.

Cowboy Recreation Inc. Rodeo Company, with headquarters at the arena, will be producing an International Professional Rodeo Assn. (IPRA) rodeo at 8 p.m. every Tuesday following the opening.

The new company is striving to promote quality, professional rodeo in the area.

IPRA is a professional rodeo organization with a home base in Pauls Valley, Okla., and sanctions rodeos virtually over the nation.

IPRA members compete all year to earn points to qualify for the national finals in Tulsa. Several champions are expected to compete here.

Local contestants are eligible to enter, as $50 added money will be in each event in addition to the entry fee.

NO SURVIVOR FOUND - Kamay Volunteer Fire Department member Wayne Kuykendall searches a car found Sunday night in the irrigation ditch by FM 368, just north of Cook's Corner. The driver apparently was able to leave the scene, and the Department of Public Service had received no reports of an accident at that time.

Jennings, Sailor exchange vows in double-ring ceremony recently

Miss Joanni Lin Jennings became the wife of Randy John Sailor in a double ring ceremony Mar. 18 at the Boulevard Church in Claremore, Okla. Dr. Ralph Alexander, pastor, officiated.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Doyce L. Jennings of Iowa Park, and Sailor is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Sailor of Claremore.

The couple exchanged vows before a setting abundantly decorated in the bride's chosen colors of burgandy and pink. Two nine-branch candelabras flanked a floral archway, and arrangements of pink carnations and red roses completed the setting.

The bride was escorted to the altar by her father. She was radiant in an all-white gown featuring a sheer bodice going into a high neck. Rows of ruffles extended into sheer sleeves adorned with appliques to the wrist. The fitted waist went to a cathedral length train complemented with four rows of ruffles down the back.

A two-tiered veil, secured by a headpiece made of white roses, pearls and ruffles, completed her wedding attire.

In keeping with bridal tradition, Miss Jennings carried a white linen handkerchief belonging to her paternal grandmother for "something old;" her wedding attire for "something new;" wore pearl earrings of the groom's mother for "something borrowed;" and carried a small blue butterfly in her bridal bouquet for "something blue." She also wore a penny in her shoe, dated the year of her birth, for good luck.

MRS. RANDY JOHN SAILOR

Sheila Walbrick of Lawton, Okla., served the bride as matron of honor. She wore a pink floor-length gown, and carried a bouquet formed of white carnations and red roses.

Kevin King of Inola, Okla. was best man, and Kyle Walbrick of Lawton was ring bearer. Mark Mercer and Ed Conrad, both of Lawton, assumed ushering duties.

During the ceremony, selections played included "23 Psalm," "I've Waited a Lifetime," "Parents Prayer," and "Only the Beginning."

A reception was held in the Fellowship Hall of the church following the ceremony.

The bride's cake was a four-tiered confection iced in white with an abundance of burgundy and pink flowers for special effect.

Serving refreshments were Mary Ann O'Laughlin, Claudia Schopper and Jan Clausen.

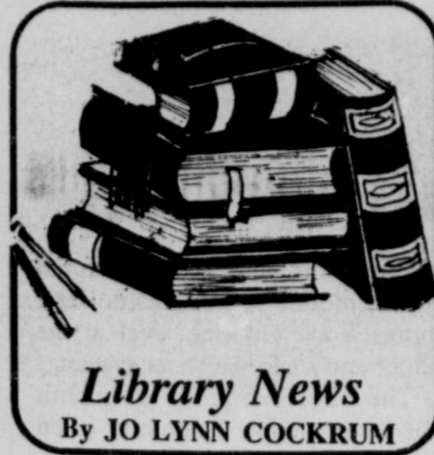

Sonya Johnson presided at the registry table, which held the bride's book and a pink and white plume pen.

When the newlyweds left on a honeymoon trip to the Grand Bahama Island of Freeport, the bride wore a pink and white sweater dress, complimented with a corsage formed of pink carnations and baby's breath.

The couple have made their home in Lawton.

The new Mrs. Sailor is a graduate of Iowa Park High School and Midwestern State Univ., with a master's degree in psychology. The bridegroom is a graduate of Oklahoma State Univ., with a bachelor's degree in electrical engineering.

IS THAT REALLY A COLD? People who always seem to get a cold at the same time of year or whose symptoms continue throughout much of the winter actually may be suffering from an allergy. Dr. Helen F. Krause of the University of Pittsburgh Medical School reported that dust, mites, molds, insects, and pet dander, which can accumulate in a closed-up house, are the most common causes of winter allergies. When the heat is turned on for the first time, allergens that accumulate in heat ducts during the summer are released and circulated. Winter allergies can make an individual more susceptible to other ills, including colds and sinus infections.

CATCHING COLDS: Dr. Elliot C. Dick, professor of preventive medicine, University of Wisconsin Medical School, devised a unique experiment to determine that colds are spread by airborne transmission. He had volunteers with colds induced by an inhalation of rhinovirus play hours of poker with healthy volunteers. Initially, all participants wore collars or arm braces that did not allow them to touch their hands to their faces or noses. Therefore, the only way the virus could be transmitted was by exposure to coughs, sneezes or talking. Slightly more than half of the healthy volunteers came down with colds. In a second game, the collars and braces were removed from new players, who were encouraged to touch their faces between deals, thereby "contaminating" the cards. Again only slightly more than half of the healthy volunteers developed colds. As a final experiment, Dr. Dick collected all of the cards, chips, tables, and chairs from the people who had been playing for 12 hours and moved them into a new room where 12 healthy people began another poker game. The old game continued with a new deck of cards and every hour for another 12 hours the two decks were swapped. Despite playing with "contaminated" materials, the healthy people in the second room never caught a cold.

EXERCISING THE HEART: According to Dr. Philip Greenland, director of cardiac rehabilitation and preventive cardiology, University of Rochester School of Medicine and Dentistry, exercise is important in preventing heart attacks. Scientific evidence shows that exercise reduces low-density lipoproteins (LDL) and increases high-density lipoproteins (HDL), conditions the heart to reduce high blood pressure, can help to control blood sugar levels (diabetics are two to four times more likely to have heart disease than those who do not have diabetes), and can help control obesity. Dr. Greenland noted that exercise, including regular walking, can be as protective as more strenuous activities.

UMW meeting held

A prayer and the lighting of a candle in honor of Evelyn Cain, a missionary in Brazil, and Eli Rivers, opened the meeting of United Methodist Women Tuesday at Tom Burnett Memorial Library.

Betty Dyer, president, conducted the business meeting where plans were made to serve a meal at the Wesley Foundation in Wichita Falls Friday.

The group also discussed plans for the District Quiet Day Apart, to be hosted by the Iowa Park UMW in the Fellowship Hall of First Methodist Church, April 22.

Mrs. Dyer told members she would be attending the Conference Day Apart next Wednesday in Van Alstyne.

In other business, Rowena Miller discussed the Symposium of Effects of Polio that will be at the Hilton Hotel in April; and scissors were given to Jo Gilbert to be sharpened and presented to Ellen Palmer for her trip to Haiti.

Mrs. Dyer closed the meeting with the Spiritual Vitamin and Timely Thoughts.

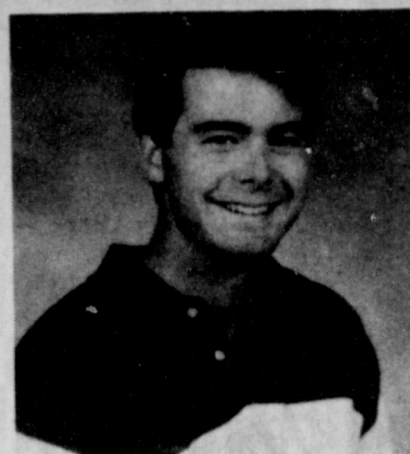

Cooking turkey workshop slated

"Terrific Texas Turkey" will be a "hands on" workshop featuring new ways to prepare and serve precooked turkey products, and will be held the evening of April 17 and morning of April 18, according to Barbara Fangman, county agent.

Extension Service poultry specialist Dr. James Denton will discuss information on the nutritional aspect of turkey, processing techniques, and lead the participants, step by step, in preparation of turkey creole.

All ingredients, cooking utensils and stoves will be provided, but participants should have a knife, cutting board and apron.

Each workshop is limited, and pre-paid registration (by April 12) is $5 per person.

ME DIP IN MUDDY JORDAN?
2 Kings 5:1-14
We, like Naaman, would jump at an opportunity to be involved in some great thing to heal our common, but deadly disease - lack of involvement. Naaman was stunned to think God would ask him to do such a small insignificant thing. After all, he was somebody and anyone could go dip in the muddy Jordan. Naaman was of the opinion dipping in the Jordan was unimportant, even humiliating; he wanted to do something dignified, spectacular. Our pride lets us do big things with gusto; humility lets God take the small things we do and turn them into big things. We forget we are dead or dying without involvement. Naaman came very close to dying a leper because he didn't want to be involved in a seemingly insignificant act. Because he dipped in the Jordan, Naaman went away victoriously clean.
Giving of ourselves as a living sacrifice (Romans 12:1) is not an easy thing to do. This involves letting go of pride. We must empty ourselves of all pride and submit to the Lord's command "repent and be baptized in the name of Jesus Christ for the forgiveness of your sins" (Acts 2:38) in order to be saved (Acts 2:41). One temporary involvement is not enough. Christianity is a life-long commitment. Matthew 7:21-23 is a haunting Scripture. These people did "great things" in the name of Jesus, but were found guilty. It makes me wonder what they failed to do. Could it have been that they failed to let God make their small deeds big? When we commit our lives, God has committed to making our lives important and rewarding.

1979 VETO HAUNTS 1989 LEGISLATURE

Governor Clements' decision in 1979 to veto prison-building legislation is resulting in major headaches for county officials 10 years later.

Lawmakers daily now are receiving reports about the growing number of state prisoners counties are being forced to hold while the Texas Department of Corrections keeps its doors closed due to overcrowding.

To help alleviate jail crowding, the Legislature has put new prison building programs on a fast track and a number of excellent corrections facilities sites are being considered in the 30th District.

Of course, it will take more than just building new prisons to deal with the long-term aspects of this dilemma.

More effort must be made to rid ourselves of the root causes of crime through better education, drop-out prevention, and drug and alcohol treatment.

But not every proposal before the Legislature is sound. One idea floating around the Capitol would "solve" the jail crowding problem by making it larger. That is, to have communities build more and bigger jails using local taxpayer money.

This is yet another excuse for the state to try to force local taxpayers to pick up the state's tab for expenses that belong to the state.

While the Legislature should provide counties with every opportunity to meet their local jail needs, it is in no way fair to property taxpayers to saddle them with additional burdens that are the state's responsibility in the first place.

Hawk rally falls short

A seventh-inning rally by the Hawks fell short here Tuesday, and Iowa Park lost 4-2 to Frederick.

Hurler Danny Tatom, who went the distance on the mound for Iowa Park, had held the Oklahoma team to a lone run through six innings, but gave up three scores in the top of the final frame.

Though the Hawks had several opportunities to score earlier, they went into the final inning without a run. They got two across the plate, but were retired before the rally was complete.

Iowa Park has one more tune-up contest before entering Dist. 5-AAA competition here Tuesday. The Hawks will take their 4-5-1 record to Wichita Falls Saturday to take on Hirschi. That game is to start at 1 p.m.

The district opener will be with Bowie, starting at 4:30 p.m. at the high school field.

Monday, the Hawk Junior Varsity defeated Vernon 7-4.
