Hawks must beat Bulls for share of crown

When the Hawks host Bridgeport's Bulls here tomorrow night, they will be fighting for a share of the Dist. 5-AAA title.

A win could put them in the playoffs for the first time since 1970, the last time an Iowa Park team "shared" a title. But that year it was a share of the state's Class AA crown, with Refugio.

Should the Hawks defeat the Bulls, Vernon beat Decatur and Springtown beat Bowie, the three teams will share the championship.

In that event, representatives of the three schools are to meet at 10 a.m. Saturday in the Graham school administration building, where numbers will be drawn to determine which teams represent the district in the playoffs and which one stays home.

Coach David Baugh says the Dist. 5-AAA rules provide, in the case of a three-way tie, for numbers to be drawn from a hat. The team drawing "one" will represent the conference as the champion, the one drawing "two" will go into the playoffs as the runner-up, and the one drawing "three" stays at home and starts making plans for the 1986 season.

As things now stand, the team representing 5-AAA as the winner will likely play Graham and the runner-up team probably will face Breckenridge.

Abilene Wylie is still in the thick of things, but must beat Breckenridge by at least 17 points to knock Graham out of the playoffs.

Should Springtown or Vernon lose tomorrow night, the remaining team that beat the other would be the champion. In other words, should Vernon lose to Decatur, Springtown would represent the district as the champion and Iowa Park as the runner-up, by virtue of last week's Springtown win over Iowa Park.

But, when the Hawks take the field at Hawk Stadium for tomorrow's 8 p.m. kickoff, a win over Bridgeport isn't a sure thing, despite the Bulls' 1-8 season and 0-4 district record.

In their 49-21 loss to Vernon last week, the Bulls matched the highest point production of any other Lion opponent all season. Vernon lost 21-6 to Altus in the season opener.

The fact that two of Bridgeport's touchdowns came against Lion reserves doesn't mean the Bulls don't have an offense.

Bridgeport goes to the air, a lot. The Bulls attempted 30 passes Friday against Vernon, completing eight for 103 yards.

Probably the major reason for Bridgeport's improvement Friday was the return of senior starting quarterback Tommy Fambrough, son of head coach Tom Fambrough, who returned to play after suffering a broken jaw early in the season. It was his first action since the third game injury.

And it's been the passing of opponents that has given the Hawks their biggest trouble. Springtown's winning points last week was via the airways. The other two losses this year were to passing teams: Breckenridge gained 180 yards passing and Stamford 136.

The Hawks lost another player via the injury route Friday. Senior end David Dietrichson suffered a triple fracture to his left collar bone in the first quarter when he made a spectacular diving catch for a 39-yard gain. But the play was nullified by a five-yard penalty.

Dietrichson, out for the season, has caught passes in all but the Burk Burnett game. In all, his 10 receptions have been good for 100 yards.

Junior tailback Scott Weaver had his best night ever against the Porkys, besides being the first back to gain more than 100 yards this year.

He carried the ball 22 times and gained a whopping 233 of his team's 260 yards rushing.

Bridgeport's lone victory was its season opener, 14-12 over touted Olney. Since then they've lost 8-14 to Jacksboro, 13-33 to Azle, 0-13 to Graham, and 7-33 to Wills Point.

Against conference teams, the Bulls lost 0-22 to Decatur, 0-16 to Springtown, 0-13 to Bowie and 21-49 to Vernon.

Iowa Park closed out the 1984 season with a 35-13 win over the Bulls at Bridgeport. In that game, Bridgeport gained only 79 yards rushing, but completed nine of 27 passes for 143 yards.

But the Bulls weren't trying to upset the district standings that year. They will be, tomorrow night.

Local woman abducted, refuses to press charges

An Iowa Park woman was reportedly forced into a vehicle here Friday, but when they were stopped in Burk Burnett, she refused to press charges against the man who allegedly abducted her.

Police received a telephone call at 2:34 p.m. from a woman who said a man, identified as Matt Matthews, had broken into a home at 410 W. Washington, forced Becky Gilmore into his vehicle, and left the city.

An officer attempted to overtake the vehicle on FM 368, but failed, and a notice was put out to area law enforcement offices.

A few minutes later, Burk Burnett Police Department notified Iowa

Park that the vehicle had been stopped and they were awaiting action by Iowa Park lawmen.

The man was released, however, when Gilmore refused to press charges against him both for forcing entry into the home and kidnapping.

Tuesday afternoon, a 1975 Buick was found abandoned on the service road, east of Victoria. A check of its license plates determined that the vehicle had been reported stolen from Wichita Falls. It was impounded and the owner notified.

The police dispatcher was notified by telephone at 1:06 a.m. that a

Antique Auto Club and Wichita County Mounted Patrol will participate in the event.

Charter apparently turned down

A "handfull" of local residents voted Tuesday in the local, county and state referendums, and they were apparently against almost everything. The Home Rule Charter was defeated by a scant eight votes, 303 for to 311 against. Because the count was so close, a re-count may be ordered Monday by the city council.

The count was more decisive against a pay raise for deputies of the Sheriff's Department, 278 for and 418 against.

And of the 14 amendments to the state constitution, local voters turned down three and approved another by only one vote.

Only 18 percent (614) of the registered voters (3,300) cast ballots on the Home Rule Charter issue. If the count holds, this will be the fourth time a charter has been turned down.

The Charter carried in Precinct 32, 253 to 218. But Precinct 33 proved to be the deciding factor, percentage-wise. Only 143 ballots were cast at Faith Baptist Church, but they had 93 against the Charter and only 50 for it.

Both boxes were against the deputy pay raise. It failed in Precinct 32, 308-213, and Precinct 33, 110-65.

Both boxes voted against Amendment 3 "... to authorize the legislature to enact laws permitting a city or town to spend public funds and levy assessments for the relocation or replacement of water laterals on private property."

Precinct 32 voted 258-228 against it and Precinct 33 turned it down 87-65.

The two boxes also turned down Amendment 5 "... to authorize the legislature to regulate the provision of health care by hospital districts."

Precinct 32 voted 297-176 against it and Precinct 33 was 81-67 against it.

The two precincts split on their votes on Amendments 10 and 13.

Amendment 10 "... authorizing the issuance of general obligation bonds to provide financing assistance for the purchase of farm and ranch land," was turned down by Precinct 32, 253-232, but Precinct 33 voted for it 87-65. The two boxes combined, the amendment carried 319-318.

Amendment 13 "... providing for the reappointment of the judicial districts of the state by the judicial districts board or by the legislative redistricting board, and providing for the administration and jurisdiction of constitutional courts," failed locally, though Precinct 32 was for it.

Precinct 32 was for the proposition, 236-221, but Precinct 33 voted against it, 83-58, making the issue fail locally, 304-294.

The county-wide vote on the deputy pay issue was reportedly against the increase, 4,164-3,660.

State-wide counts on the amendments were not available at presstime.

Precinct 32 had the greatest turnout of any precinct in the county Tuesday by more than 200. It reported 525 voters, and 175 turned out at Precinct 33. Not all those voting in the two precincts are resident voters of the city, providing the difference in those counts and the turnout for the Charter election.

Experiment station to be closed

The agricultural experiment station, a facility that has operated here since 1924, will be closed Feb. 1, 1986, according to Neville P. Clarke, director of Texas Agricultural Experiment Station (TAES).

Two other stations, at Montague and Spur, are to close the same date.

The closures are part of an overall plan to consolidate research at the small stations to the larger centers. Thirteen other small stations have already been closed "... to improve efficiency and save resources," a release stated.

A mandate by the governor and legislature "... to make the best possible use" of resources was prompted by a shortage of state general revenues. The Texas A&M board of regents has approved the closings as part of its response to the need to conserve resources.

"This action in no way reflects negatively on the employees at these locations or on the fine support provided by the communities involved, but is rather the result of changing methods in scientific research, where teams of people rather than individuals are needed today. With the present need for resource conservation, we have no choice but to close these smaller units and consolidate at the centers," Clarke said.

While the TAES says it was stressed well in light of the budget pressures faced by the legislature in the last session, projected increases in cost of operations over the biennium will lead to a loss of research capacity of some 15 percent of the appropriated budget.

Research at the Iowa Park station has been conducted by scientists at the Chillicothe-Vernon Center for several years and will be transferred to that location.

Fruit research at Montague will be conducted at Stephenville and stocker cattle research at Spur, which is one of the oldest stations in the state, will be transferred to the Amarillo Center.

"It is difficult to end the very special relationships that the Texas A&M University System has had over the years in these communities," Clarke said.

He stated the TAES would continue to support the agriculture in these areas from the regional centers.

Employees at the stations will have the opportunity to apply for similar positions at other locations. Final decisions have not been made on disposition of land and buildings at the three locations, according to the press release.

Local station manager Tim Hunter indicated he likely would not move. "I'll be very surprised if I'll move, because I don't think they can offer me anything (I'd like well enough) to get me to move," he said.

Hunter, who also holds the office of mayor of Iowa Park, is a lifetime resident of the area. His parents, Mr.

Cook of the Week

At this season of the year, which has so many important holidays, most cooks are going through their recipes to pull out their favorites, particularly the ones for desserts. Nearly all cooks will do a considerable amount of baking, a satisfying way of self-expression as well as a relaxing pastime. The sights, pleasures and aromas of cakes, pies and cookies make for wonderful eating anytime of the year.

Most of the dessert recipes call for sugar, a product that is so easily obtained now that it is hard to realize that in the 18th century it was included in a list of pearls and precious gems and presented as a wedding gift to Maria Theresa, the future Queen of Hungary and Bohemia.

Hundreds of years before the birth of Christ, the people of India learned how to make sugar from sugar cane. Not until the time of the Crusades was sugar introduced into Europe. At first it was considered a rarity and even used for medicine.

Shelia (Mrs. Jackie) Gholson will probably use her share of sugar in baking during the holidays, but her gift for cooking is not limited to baking as her recipes this week clearly indicate.

The daughter of Mrs. Hoyt Watson, and the late Mr. Watson, she was graduated from Iowa Park High School and received a B.S. degree in criminal justice from Midwestern State Univ. She worked for several years at the Wichita County Family Court Services where she still works occasionally. A member of the Faith Baptist Church, she is the Sunday School teacher for the college and career young people and the Acteens leader.

She and Jackie, who is an agricultural chemical salesman for Estes Chemical Co., have two children, Jamie, five years old, and Heath, one year old.

CALCIUM OVERDOSES

Too much of a good thing — calcium in this case — can be quite painful. Ingestion of calcium (dietary and supplemental) is recommended as a preventative for the development of osteoporosis in women.

But overdoing it, taking megadoses of more than 2,000 mg daily, can increase the risk for painful kidney stones in susceptible women, according to Dr. Marjorie M. Luckey of the Mount Sinai Medical Center in New York.

She advises women with a personal or family history of kidney stones to consult a doctor before taking calcium pills. She recommends these limits on premenopausal women: 1,500 mg a day for post menopausal women; and 1,200 mg a day for pregnant women.

She also recommends that the person taking calcium supplements should drink four to eight glasses of fluid each day to reduce stone formation risk.
