

Oplin Observations
By Daphne Floyd

One of the nicest compliments a young couple can receive is to be honored like our newly weds, Mr. and Mrs. Lowell Johnson, were Saturday night at the community center. There were at least 150 guests registered by Mrs. Leon Barr, who is the former Sue Pierce. Friends came from near and far and kinfolks showed up by the dozen bringing gifts. But what greater tribute could a couple pay to their community than for them to choose to make their home in the community where the groom was born and raised. Refreshments of sandwiches, cake and punch were served by hostesses; Mmes. Tommie Johnson, Meril Eaton, Howard Chatham, Earl Durham, Charley Tom Straley, Marvin Rutland, Joe Rutland, Tommie Windham, Frank Windham, Herbert Rogers, Clarence Breeding, Lucien Pierce, and Mamie Johnson.

Mrs. Edith Likens has been confined to bed due to a heart condition.

Mrs. Jim McIntyre is moving to Clyde to a new home she has bought there. All I have to say is 'Clyde's gain is Oplin's loss'.

Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Harville spent Sunday in Big Lake visiting with their daughters, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Settle and children and Mrs. Flora Mae McIntyre.

Darrel (Fibber) Pierce has joined the army and will start his basic training at Ft. Carson, Colo. Darrel is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Pierce.

The ladies of the community met at the community center last Thursday and had their needles flying to quilt for Mrs. Amelia Poindexter and Mrs. Edith Likens. A covered dish luncheon was shared at noon by Mmes. Amelia Poindexter, B. G. Poindexter, L. E. Turner, A. O. Clare, Albert Betcher, Sebe Monroe, Lela Reed, Tommie Windham, W. R. Johnson, Ray Floyd, Lucien Pierce and M. C. Miller. Mrs. Sidney Harville and Mrs. Mallie Johnson joined the quilting party in the afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Turner had their little grandson, David Turner of Abilene visiting with them last week.

Rural and small town residents will have an advantage over their city cousins when the new auto insurance rating plan goes into effect Jan. 1.

Under the new system worked out by the State Board of Insurance, a driver's auto insurance premiums will be raised or lowered according to his driving record. Each accident or ticket for a moving traffic violation puts a "black mark" on the driver's record and moves his insurance premiums up a notch.

In the congested streets of the larger cities, one wrong move, even if unintentional, often brings a ticket or a crumpled fender or both. In most small towns, the local lawman is not usually too exercised if one of his friends and neighbors makes a U-turn on the main street.

Purpose of the plan is to put the biggest part of the burden for insurance payments on the people who bring on the most damage and expense. People who have a history of numerous traffic violations, according to Department of Public Safety statistics, are the ones who have the most accidents.

It is also hoped, of course, that the plan will encourage careful driving with its cash incentive. Drivers with no record of an accident or violation for the past three years will get a 20 per cent reduction in their insurance rates. Drivers with one point against them will pay current rates.

Those with from one to five points against them will pay increased rates on a sliding scale, and those with six or more points will pay through the nose --- double rates.

Some activities will be very expensive, point-wise. Drunken driving, hit and run driving and negligent homicide will cost four points. An accident with damage over $25 brings two points; running a red light, only one point.

In most cases, the effect of a violation on insurance premiums will hurt the pocketbook more than the usual fines.

STILL AT IT -- For the umpteenth time, Texas, high-powered legal talent has gone to Washington to do battle for the state's tidelands before the United States Supreme Court.

Gov. Price Daniel and Atty. Gen. Will Wilson head the team presenting Texas' claim that it owns the submerged lands for three leagues -- or nearly 10 miles -- into the Gulf. Federal attorneys argue that the state owns the land only three miles out.

Former Supreme Court Justice James P. Hart and J. Chrys Dougherty, a former assistant attorney general, also went to Washington to join in the presentation.

Other Gulf Coast states are "in the same boat" with Texas on the tidelands issue are also participating in the now historic struggle.

SAUNDERS ASKS RE-TRIAL--Former Insurance Commissioner J. Bryon Saunders is asking for a new trial of the perjury charges against him.

Saunders was convicted in an Austin district court and sentenced to two years in prison. He was accused of having lied to a legislative investigating committee as to why the now bankrupt ICT Insurance Co. paid him $7,000 while he was insurance commissioner. Saunders contended the money was payment for his interest in oil royalties on a piece of property he sold the company.

It is the first time in the history of the state that a person has been charged with perjury as a result of statements to a legislative committee. Saunders' attorneys have vowed to take it all the way to the U. S. Supreme Court if necessary.

HOSPITALS, COLLEGES A-BUILDING -- With a new fiscal year begun, state boards and agencies are busy making plans for building programs.

State Board for Hospitals and Special Schools announced that a 1,000-bed nursing hospital for mentally retarded patients will be built at Denton. Construction of new cottages to house mental patients at Denton is already underway.

University of Texas Board of Regents is beginning a $17,895,000 building program spread over the various branches of the huge system. Most recently approved by the regents are three buildings for Texas Western University, El Paso. They will include a classroom office building a warehouse building and gymnasium-field house. Other UT projects, either begun or being planned, include improvements at the Medical Branch at Galveston and at McDonald Observatory, a new headquarters at the Institute for Marine Science, Port Aransas, and five buildings for the main campus at Austin.

J. H. Mitchell of Medford, Oregon, is here visiting his mother, Mrs. Felix Mitchell and other relatives.

"Where Quality Makes The Difference"

What is a Newspaper?

With so many elements necessary to print a newspaper, the question has many answers.

Here Are A Few Answers

IT'S A PUBLIC SERVICE....

It serves the community with news, advertising, comments and entertainment.

It promotes civic and humanitarian projects.

IT'S A MANUFACTURING PLANT....

It converts raw materials, ink, paper, metal and power into finished product.

It gives employment to members of a number of families.

IT'S A BUSINESS....

It enjoys full status as a wholesaler (of paper and printing) and retailer. It plays its part in commercial clubs and other civic enterprises.

IT'S A SERVICE ESTABLISHMENT....

It gives information, advice and guidance through its columns and various departments. It gives help through its reading notices, classified columns and news columns.

IT'S A HOME INSTITUTION....

Its payroll remains at home; its taxes help support schools and government; it is a large consumer of power, fuel and other items supplied locally.

IT'S A BULWARK OF THE REPUBLIC....

It is the exemplification of the American way of life. Truly your newspaper is the voice of freedom and a guardian of the republic.

SWEET AND SOUR

Maude and Fred Hart were happy about their house guests this week - Buddy and Joyce were here from Midland, also Mrs. E. P. Miller and Mary Murphy - then Bill and Linda came down from Lubbock, so it was a pleasant visiting time for the Harts.

October birthdays are coming thick 'n fast - David Walls and Ross Odell celebrate 16th one this month - Driver's License Dept. next stop, you can lay to that, because that goes with being 16. Two more October birthdays we want to yell special wishes about - Saille Eastham will have on Oct. 29th and Essie

Ford (way out in Torrance, Calif.) has one Oct. 11th. Happy birthday, both of ya'.

And speaking of birthdays, Mike Hart had a 12th birthday Oct. 8th, but that being a school day the young buckaroo celebrated Saturday, 10th and had the gang in for a trip for skating and bowling, then back home for a hamburger round-up. Adding to the festive spirit was a visit from family friend, Bob Moore of Amarillo, who helped ride herd on the party.

Happy note at our house this week was a birthday greeting card from dear, dear friend, Edna Yonge, who is residing in Waco, but who will always be a Bairdite no matter what the return address on an envelope may claim. Edna reads the Star and keeps up with friends, and she has plenty of those! at home that way. We hope Edna will drop another card soon so we can pass news from that lady on to you.

Have you seen the snazzy blue and gold FFA jackets our Ag boys are sporting? Then maybe you've seen the sterling silver Chapter rings the boys are also wearing - they're full fledged Future Farmers now and just how much more important can a guy be?

Glen Green, County Agent, is planning a chartered bus to the State Fair Saturday, October 24th for Area 4-H Clubbers and any interested people. Contact Glen for details.
