'One of those weeks' for police department

This past week was one of those police hate to have.

Among their cases was an attempted suicide, a domestic disturbance in which three family members were arrested, a traffic stop in which a couple was arrested and a suspected narcotic found, and five reports of criminal mischief.

Officers responded to 620 W. Washington Friday afternoon, where a woman had reportedly shot herself.

They found Deanna Kay Brittain, 43, with a bullet wound in her abdomen and were told she had inflicted the wound while walking in an open field north of the house.

The wound was said to have been inflicted by a .25 caliber automatic pistol.

She was transported by ambulance to Bethania Hospital where she reportedly remains under care.

At 8:51 p.m. Monday, according to the police blotter, officers responded to a domestic disturbance call at 505 E. Washington, where they arrested a woman and two sons.

Charges were filed against Ann M. Andrews, 61, for assault (Class C); Terry Lynn Andrews, 34, for disorderly conduct, and Toby Michael Andrews, 29, also for disorderly conduct.

A man and woman were arrested after the vehicle in which they were driving was stopped at 2:08 a.m. Sunday near Park Plaza and West Highway.

Theodore Lee Turner, 24, was charged with public intoxication, driving. He was transported to county jail and later released after posting a $5,000 bond.

Annette Barker, 20, was charged with public intoxication and released at 7 a.m. on bond.

While inventoring the vehicle in which they were riding, a small quantity of material suspected to be amphetamine was found. No charges have yet been filed on that, until a laboratory report is received.

Everitt Louis Brookout, 46, was arrested on a Class C assault charge after officers responded to a 9-1-1 call Sunday evening to 124 Westview. He was later released after signing an order to appear in municipal court.

Michael Robert Sisk, 27, was taken into custody at 8:52 p.m. Saturday on an outstanding warrant issued by the Department of Public Safety. He was released to a trooper at 9:42 for transporting to county jail, according to the blotter.

Arrested on a local warrant at 12:01 a.m. Sunday was Tommie Jean Taylor, 18. The warrant was for a violation of driving without a seat belt. She was released within the hour after paying a fine.

Marvin Deems Cogdell, 69, was arrested at 1:16 a.m. Monday in the 1800 block of Johnson Road on a charge of public intoxication. He was released at 6:20 a.m., according to the blotter.

Lower water, sewer rates face aldermen

Two ordinances will be considered by the city council Monday night, both of which were called for by Mayor Wayne House when he laid out his agenda after being elected.

One would reduce the rate for water and the other the rate for sewer service.

They will be considered when the council meets at 7 p.m. in council chambers.

House said he wanted to see the rates for water and sewer cut by 10 percent. He is also seeking to cut the tax rate from 88-cents to 80-cents, and the council has already started its study of the 1990-91 budget.

He added, "I'm telling you (now)

The first criminal mischief report listed on the blotter for the week was Saturday. Someone had apparently attempted for force an entry into one of the apartments in the 300 block of E. Diamond. Though unsuccessful, the door and facing was damaged.

Two juveniles are being investigated on a charge of climbing atop Bradford Elementary over the weekend and breaking out a skylight.

A patrolling officer found the pay telephone at Expressway Texaco had been damaged. The discovery was made at 3:39 a.m. Wednesday.

so when we go into budget we'll be in the right frame of mind."

A third ordinance is on the tentative agenda that has been released by Administrator James Barrington. It calls for permitting trains to pass through the city at a higher speed than is presently allowed.

Three items are listed on the agenda under the administrators' report: consider authorizing drainage work on Lincoln Street; consider delaying Buffalo Lake pump station upgrade, and report on landfill operations and regional concept.

A second canvassing of the May 5 election results is also on the agenda, to correct errors.

Bradford bid accepted

Iowa Park school trustees accepted a bid for construction work at Bradford Elementary.

Action was taken at a called meeting Wednesday morning.

Lowest of seven bids submitted was $254,215 from Jim Marshall Construction of Wichita Falls.

The Bradford work was initially offered jointly with work at Kidwell Elementary, but the bid was rejected and resubmitted separately.

The Kidwell bid is yet to be acted on.

Also considered at Wednesday's meeting was the addition of a teachers' workroom at the high school. It was not added to the work plan.

The work room was in the original bidding, but cut out in order to meet budget.

Sales tax picture brighter

Though very slight, Iowa Park's sales tax picture continues to show improvement, according to this month's report from the state comptroller's office.

The city this month received a rebate check for $15,965.47, which makes a total of $68,326.45 for the year.

While the year's total remains in the minus column, down 4.41 percent for the year, the margin of minus continues to decrease.

The comptroller's report in March had Iowa Park a minus 5.95 percent for the year. Last month it was minus 4.94.

Burkburnett is a minus 5.54 in comparison with 1989. Electra has jumped up to a plus 8.32 ahead of this same time last year, and Wichita Falls is a plus 0.48 percent.

Holliday, with $22,588.44 for the year, is a minus 34.71 percent.

This month's check includes taxes collected on March sales and reported in April by businesses filing monthly returns, and also includes taxes reported by those filing quarterly returns for the first three months of the year.

Principles of xeriscape explained to Garden Club

Mark Tering, with the Wichita County Agriculture Extension Service, presented a slide presentation on Xeriscape for members of the Iowa Park Garden Club who met Friday morning at TU Electric Reddy Room. He was introduced by Mrs. Deryl James.

Tering explained that xeriscape is the practice of conserving water and energy through creative landscaping. Xeriscape, which was originally developed for Denver, Colorado, is based on seven principles that can be applied to any landscape. These principles are: develop a good landscape design; limit lawn areas; irrigate efficiently; improve soils; use mulches; choose low water use plants, and practice good maintenance.

He said that many people are rediscovering the beauty and practicality of using native and adapted plants around their home. Native and adapted plants require much less water and fertilizer than most imported species, and generally have fewer problems with pests, disease and weather extremes.

Tering displayed a bedding plant, new to this area, called Fire Bush. He said that this colorful plant will grow well in our area because it is drought tolerant, grows best in full sun, and has no disease or pest problems.

Before closing, Tering gave each member a directory of water saving plants and trees for Texas and a booklet on xeriscape.

Mrs. Gladys James conducted the business session in which 15 members answered roll call with a way to conserve water in their landscape. Mrs. B.J. Gilmore gave the thought for the day.

Mrs. Norma Fortner announced that the Yard of the Month had been presented to Glen Reaves, 704 Rebecca.

Mrs. Deryl James reported that the club yearbook received a score of 98 out of a possible 100 points at the state convention held recently in San Antonio.

Mmes. Billy C. Gilmore and Dorwin Wooten were hostesses for the meeting. The serving table was centered with a large basket filled with a beautiful mixture of bedding plants.

The final meeting before summer break will be held at 11:25 a.m., May 25, at the home of Mrs. W.A. George.

Cook of the Week

Life is anything but dull around the household of Gary and Kathy Crawford. With the activities of son, Dusty, who is 10 years old, and six-year-old twin daughters, Jenna and Tori, the couple is kept busy.

Dusty is a fifth grader at Bradford and the twins are in kindergarten at Kidwell. All three children are playing Little League baseball, and Kathy is assistant leader of a Girl Scout Daisy troop. When there is time, the family likes to go to the lake and fish. They are members of the Seventh Day Adventist Church in Wichita Falls.

Kathy and Gary, who owns a backhoe service, are both graduates of Iowa Park High School.

If there is any spare time, Kathy likes to read. But she said what she enjoys most is cooking, especially sweets. She said that most of her recipes were given to her by family members and friends. The recipe for "Glen's Fish Casserole," a family favorite, was given to her by her brother, Glen Jameson.

As I See It...

By BOB HAMILTON

If you want to ease your fears and take real pride in the younger generation, make plans now to attend next year's honors recognition banquet at Iowa Park High School.

But you better get your order in early for tickets, because that cafeteria is beginning to fill. A few months ago, we printed a letter that started out something like this, "You never read any good news about our younger people..."

Well, frankly, I take exception to that statement. Look at all those names in my story about the banquet on this week's front page. You'll find that most of those names have appeared in our pages repeatedly.

Take, for instance, that list of the top 10 scholastic students in this year's graduating class. They've been busy people. No, they haven't exactly been living with their noses in books. But they've earned exceptionally high grades, along with numerous school and community related activities.

The list also dispels a stereotype about "dumb jocks" or athletes.

Salutarian Chris Blalack was extremely active in tennis. Active and successful, being the district singles champion.

Shonna Weaver, fifth ranked, was an exceptional athlete in track and basketball.

Sixth-ranked graduate is Bruce Palmer. While he was earning a 96.06 average throughout his four years in high school, he was involved in almost every form of athletics the school offers, and was outstanding.

Danny Tatom, eighth among the top 10, is probably the most feared pitcher in the district's baseball camps and has been a key player in the Hawks winning the conference title.

The others have been no less active.

Nope, I'm not worried about our nation's future. Unlike what many others say, I feel secure in our future.

Worth Quoting

This week Texans were treated to the sight of seeing the state's top elected officials go hat in hand to plead with a judge to give the legislature more time to work out a school funding bill. The judge has the power of approval or disapproval over these elected officials even though this is only a state district judge, one elected by voters in one Texas county. The judge, after scolding the officials, agreed to give them one more month to come up with a plan to his liking. If the legislature does not come up with an acceptable plan, the judge will impose his own plan on the people of Texas.

Who gave this judge the authority to stick his hand into the pocketbook of ever taxpayer in Texas?

How about that for a judicial dictatorship? This judge in Austin with all the power is no more exalted than our own district judge, J.E. Blackburn, who presumably could tell the entire state of Texas to jump through a hoop if he so desired. This is the situation we find ourselves in due to gradual encroachments by the judiciary upon the legislative branch of government.

Who gave judges so much power? More importantly, how can we as citizens curb this power?

This nation was founded on democratic principles and the framers of the Constitution wisely divided the responsibility and limited the authority of each branch. The legislative branch, with members elected by the people, makes the laws. The executive branch, with both elected and appointed officials, administers the laws. The judiciary, with both elected and appointed members, interprets the laws according to the Constitution. Somehow our train has jumped the track. We find Congress passing laws restricting the authority of the Presidency and imposing penalties upon the executive branch for violating laws made without any attention to the Constitution.

By far the biggest threat to our freedom in a democracy is the arrogant seizure of power by our judges, both on the state and federal level. It was a state judge who first ruled that the way Texas funds its school system is wrong and must be changed. The Texas Supreme Court agreed and demanded immediate change, ordering the legislature to come up with a plan acceptable, not to the people, but to the court.

When Dallas Carter High School went into the state football playoffs with ineligible players, the University Interscholastic League cancelled the victories and ordered a forfeit. It stepped a district judge and issued an injunction against the UIL to allow Dallas Carter to keep playing in the playoffs. The court managed to throttle the UIL through the end of the season and Dallas Carter won the state championship. Never mind that the UIL is an association of Texas high schools and makes its own rules by majority vote of its members. The district judge can overrule those who organize and operate the UIL.

Where did he get that authority?

Our federal judges, secure in a lifetime appointment, are the worst of all. A federal judge ruled that taxpayers in Texas counties had to increase their local taxes to educate children of illegal aliens. Never mind the fact that anything illegal should not have these rights. The Texas taxpayers have to pay for their education. A federal judge has turned our prison system upside down and ordered the spending of millions of dollars to build new prisons. The taxpayers and voting citizens have absolutely nothing to say about this intrusion upon their rights.

The worst case of all was when a federal judge ordered local taxpayers in Kansas City to double their taxes in order to build a magnet school with luxury items in order to carry out what a judge deemed a satisfactory desegregation plan. Another federal judge ordered the city of Yonkers, New York, to build 1,000 units of public housing and make local taxpayers pay for it. A federal judge in Oklahoma City ordered the school district to spend millions on a desegregation plan of his choosing, only to be ordered to dismantle it and spend more money on another simply because the judge changed his mind.

We are being strangled by a group of mortal men who think that the donning of judicial robe gives them kingly and dictatorial powers. America should worry more about this judicial dictatorship than the Soviet Union.

HAROLD HUDSON
Perryton Herald

Another great piece of Americana is vanishing and I, for one, am sad to see it go. But sure enough it's going to be gone soon, just like spit 'n whittle corners, passenger trains and ice houses.

Although government managers have sanitized its title with the term "sanitary landfill," back in simpler times we just called it "the dump."

Every little town used to have a dump operated by an old man who inhabited a dirty little shack near the entrance gate. He generated his livelihood by salvaging and selling what other people threw away. It amazes me what some people will throw away.

Whenever I go to the dump I can't resist the temptation to rummage through the rubble in search of some treasure that someone has discarded. I enjoy poking around in the mounds of trash, and seldom have I ever gone to the dump when I didn't return with at least one useful item. . . . a clay flowerpot, a football, a fishing rod, a folding chair, scrap lumber, a wrench, a length of rope, some magazines, etc.

The idea of poking around in piles of trash may seem disgusting to some people; however, I imagine lots of people who make a run to the dump on Saturdays are like me and enjoy prowling around for something useful to take back home.

Going to the dump is a sort of adventure that pricks the same emotions as shopping at garage sales and flea markets.

Unfortunately, it's soon to be a thing of the past because Henrietta and most other little towns in the country are being forced to close their dumps due to expensive new regulations being imposed by the Environmental Protection Agency.

It's sad.

Letters to the Editor

Teachers concerned

To Whom It May Concern:

After reading the editorial in the May 3rd edition of The Iowa Park Leader, some teachers felt additional information should be shared with the public. Texas ranks 32nd in teacher's salaries in the United States with $27,502 per year. The national average is $32,304 per year. Iowa Park's average teacher's salary is $24,529 per year. A first year teacher's base salary in Texas is $17,200.

We do not know if you were referring to teachers in Iowa Park or Texas teachers in general when you made the statement, "a great number of our public school teachers perceive the current school reform situation as another means of increasing their salaries." In either case, we would like to state that if our top priority had been money, many of us would have chosen another "profession" to begin with.

However, we do have families to support and even a local $1500 cut would cause an unexpected financial burden for us. We know that our local school board is working hard to be able to maintain our current pay scale, but we felt your readers should know we expect to be treated as professionals who are concerned about both quality education and reasonable salaries.

Sincerely,
Concerned teachers

Text of teacher's report to board is reproduced

Mary Helen Schell, the teacher who spoke before the Iowa Park school board last week, has asked that the notes from which she spoke be printed.

Mrs. Schell explained that she had agreed to represent the Texas State Teachers Association (TSTA), but only if she could deviate from the text which came from a meeting of the organization.

She said she disagreed with some of the text, which was in the packet of each trustee and which also was printed in its entirety last week in the Leader.

Not all of Mrs. Schell's presentation could be heard in the audience, so it was presumed by the reporter that the TSTA text had been followed.

The actual text of her speech was:

"I am here as a representative of the TSTA, a professional teacher's organization. I am not representing all teachers, but TSTA. The following are concerns that came out of our last meeting.

"1. We are concerned about the cut in salary for teachers. If any cuts are made. We do understand that our school board is between a rock and hard place and that your hands are tied until (the) legislature decides something concerning salaries. We know our administrators are 100% in support of teachers and we appreciate this very much. However we wanted our concerns to be voiced by us as well as our administration. Therefore we would like to go on record as opposing any salary cuts for our personnel.

"2. Career ladder: a) We would like to receive a separate check for our career ladder payments. The reason being that we would have more (cash) in our possession because of higher tax brackets when it is combined with our monthly pay check.

"b) Is it a policy to always fund Level II before Level III?"

"3. Residential bonus is discriminating and obsolete. The new appraisal instrument was designed to objectively evaluate teachers on merit and scores alone. The $300 given on place of residence is unfair and discriminatory. We feel that all employees should be treated equitably.

"4. We would like to have our TSTA dues as a payroll deduction. TSTA members would like to have their dues set up on a payroll deduction for the next school year."

Rangeland needs rest to be productive

By BRAD K. TEPLICEK
SCS Iowa Park

Rest is a law of nature. Each of us can work so long during the day, then we must have rest to be able to work the following day. Most everyone enjoys taking one or two weeks off during the year to vacation or just to relax.

The same is true of our range grasses. They, too, must have a rest if we expect them to provide forage for our wildlife and livestock the next year and year after year. This is especially true of the recently seeded rangeland.

Newly seeded rangeland always needs to be rested or deferred the first growing season or longer until the stand is well established. This allows the plants to establish and develop sufficient root systems which allow the grass to reach moisture in dry times during the future. Further deferrals during succeeding growing

Callaway graduates

Iowa Parkan Debbie Callaway was among students from 163 communities in Oklahoma, 37 other states and 30 countries who received degrees this spring on the University of Oklahoma's Norman campus.

Commencement ceremonies were held Saturday in the Lloyd Noble Center.

Callaway was graduated with a Bachelor of Arts degree in journalism.

seasons may also be necessary to further establish or thicken the stand.

Without deferment, the livestock will graze on the fresh green seedlings and pull them out of the ground, thus defeating your sole purpose of seeding the rangeland. Also grazing the young grass plants too short inhibit the root development.

So it is vitally important to defer seeded rangeland for at least the first full growing season and possible the next, depending on how well the stand has established.

It has been proven that our range grasses must have at least three to four months of rest at least once every three years following the first growing season. This rest is required to keep the grasses vigorous, allow root establishment, produce seed and thicken as a stand and thus provide more and higher quality grazing.

Michael Isbell, District Conservationist, states that there are several kinds of rest-graze techniques that are being used by ranchers to manage and improve rangeland at little expense.

Another factor in managing recently seeded rangeland is weed control. Weeds are always present on disturbed rangeland and need to be controlled as soon as possible and there after as needed to allow the new grass seedlings to develop into an established stand.

Weeds should be controlled either by shredding or spraying during establishment and there after as needed in the following years.

Where Jesus is Lord

"CALLING UPON THE NAME OF THE LORD"

Peter preached on Pentecost, "whosoever shall call upon the name of the Lord shall be saved" (Acts 2:21). Paul penned a letter to the Christians at Rome, "whosoever shall call upon the name of the Lord shall be saved" (Romans 10:13). What does it mean to "call upon the name of the Lord"? It is important because it has universal application.

From the context of some verses (Psalm 105:1; Proverbs 1:28;...), Zephaniah 3:9;... it is seen to be much more than prayer. Calling upon the name of the Lord includes doing God's will, obeying God. To limit this phrase to prayer only is to misapply the Scriptures.

Paul links calling upon the name of the Lord in Romans 10:13 with obeying the gospel in verse 16. When Peter used the phrase in Acts 2:21, it was with the thought of obeying God. When those who heard him use the phrase asked "what shall we do", Peter told them to "repent and be baptized in the name of Jesus Christ for the forgiveness of your sins" (Acts 2:37,38). Peter did not tell them to "pray through" to be saved. Calling upon the name of the Lord is obeying the Lord's requirements of salvation.

Saul of Tarsus had been praying and fasting after he had seen the Lord (Acts 9:9-11), but when Ananias came to him, he told him to "arise and be baptized, and wash away thy sins, calling on the name of the Lord" (Acts 22:16). Calling on the name of the Lord includes baptism. To believe and teach otherwise is to do violence to the structure of this sentence. To say that "calling on the name of the Lord" means telling God "I accept Jesus as my Savior and I want to turn my life from sin to you to be saved" is not what the phrase teaches. Prayer is good, but it is not a substitute in obeying God's will for salvation. Read Luke 6:46 and Matthew 7:21 to see the importance of obeying God. If you have further questions about calling on the name of the Lord, let us know. We will be happy to study with you from the Word of God that you may know and obey the Lord's will for your life.

She died Thursday in Wichita Falls.

Mrs. Brown was born Jan. 14, 1923. She and Virgil Brown were married Oct. 14, 1953. She had lived in Burkburnett since 1960, and was a Lutheran.

She is survived by her husband; a daughter, Marian Gary of Kamay; three brothers, Edmund Brost of New Rockford, N.D., Arthur Brost of Steele, N.D., and Clayton Brost of Neenah, Wis.; two sisters, Rachel Segerstram of Aberdeen, S.D., and Ruth Glass of Leslie, Ark.; and two grandchildren.

Southwest Parkway road resurfacing is underway

Motorists who normally drive Southwest Parkway in Wichita Falls may want to allow some extra time or find an alternate route as work to improve the roadway continues. Although work is being done from 7 p.m. to 7 a.m., the "wavy" road surface where the top layer has been "milled" gives a less than comfortable ride.

The Zack Burkett Company of Graham has the $603 thousand contract for the work which extends from just west of Rhea Road to east of Professional Drive. Speed limits have been lowered to 35 miles per hour throughout the work zone.

District Construction Engineer Rodger Clements says the project will be completed in July but much work will be done between now and then. Workers will continue to remove one and one-half inches of the present surface until all lanes, in both directions, are "stripped." Then, about the first of June, a rubberized seal coat will be laid with aggregate on top of that. The new surface will be allowed to cure 30 days before a one and one-half inch topping of hot mix is applied. The end result will be a smoother, safer surface.

With some 24 thousand vehicles per day using the road, Clements said hopes were that the new surface would last at least 10 years. The surface that is being removed now is about 12 years old.

Until July, motorists using the road will need to exercise caution and patience. . . the highway department says the new surface should make the inconvenience worthwhile.

Boy Scouts learn many important skills

One of the many things taught to Boy Scouts is first aid and snake recognition. Recently this training came in handy for Scott Neeb, a 13-year-old Boy Scout from Windhorst. He spotted a rattlesnake near a four-year-old child while she was feeding their horses, oblivious to the danger. He immediately jumped between her and the rattler and quickly got her safely away. Scott was awarded a meritorious award by the Boy Scout National Council. First aid and snake recognition is only one of many useful things that the Boy Scouts teach.

The Northwest Texas Council is the Boy Scout headquarters for a 13-county area extending from Montague County all the way west to Childress and King Counties. The

Homemakers plan covered dish dinner

HOLIDAY- The Young Homemakers Club of Holliday is planning a Mother-Daughter Covered Dish Dinner at 7 p.m. Monday in the homemaking room at Holliday High School.

A tropical theme will be used.

Boy Scouts is actually made up of three programs: Cub Scouts, Boy Scouts, and Exploring. Cub Scouts is a program focusing on family centered and neighborhood activities for boys in the first through the fifth grades. Boy Scouts is more outdoors oriented with an emphasis on hiking and camping. It is for boys from the sixth grade through junior high. Exploring is a co-ed program for high-school-aged young adults that centers around vocational, social, and outdoor activities. Explorers are able to gain career insight through various special interest posts.

Altogether they serve over 5,200 kids annually, this is only limited by the number of adult volunteers that they have. "We always have more boys than leaders available," said Mr. Chad Gaffin, the Council Scout Executive. "If we had more leaders we could serve a lot more boys. . . we could double the number of kids we serve now."

Presently the Boy Scouts are actively gearing up for their summer programs, which include several summer camps. There are three Cub Camp sessions (June 20-23, June 25-28, July 11-14) that will be held at Camp Perkins near Burkburnett. A Family and Friends Weekend is scheduled for July 20-22. This is open to families or youth groups and everyone is welcome regardless of age. This camp, also at Camp Perkins, is being co-sponsored by the United Way, Big Brothers and Sisters, and Children's Home.

A number of other camps for various skill and age levels are offered through local packs, dens, and troops. More advanced camps are held at Camp Horizon Wilderness near Bowie on Amon Carter Lake.

The themes at most of the camps this year are Pirates and Swashbuckling. Swimming, boating, archery, rifle shooting, crafts, Indian lore, leatherwork, wood-carving, fishing, hiking, survival, astronomy, campfires, lifesaving, and animal study (including snake identification) are just a few of the many activities planned. For further information on Boy Scout camps or programs, call 696-2735.

"One of the most important things the Boy Scouts do," said

Judge Temple Driver of Wichita Falls, "is teach good citizenship and to get along with other people. This can make the difference as to whether or not a person is successful in life." Major General Michael Nelson, Sheppard's Center Commander and Boy Scouts Executive Board Member, said, "The Boy Scouts play a vital role in our society. Our children have to build good character and leadership qualities if they are to survive all the problems that they will face in today's society."

Worth Quoting

We're making too much hulla-balloo about cholesterol.

That's the opinion of a group of critics who are convinced that the sweeping National Cholesterol Education Program, begun in 1985, is a waste of both time and money.

Now, after years of advising many Americans to lower their blood cholesterol levels to prevent heart attacks, federal health officials are about to begin a major study to determine whether that advice holds true for women and the elderly of both sexes.

The clinical trial is planned by the National Heart, Lung, and Blood Institute against a backdrop of rising debate over the wisdom of the educational program.

Critics claim that the costs and benefits of lowering cholesterol for all but middle-aged men with extremely high cholesterol levels are sketchy, and evidence that it extends life is rare or non-existent.

The movement to lower cholesterol in the diets of Americans has about the same acceptance nationwide as motherhood, apple pie and the American flag. So who are the critics who dare to criticize the necessity for lowering cholesterol?

Read these examples:

1. A group of medical experts convened by the Congressional Office of Technology Assessment recently recommended that Medicare not pay for cholesterol screening in people over age 54. The group said it hasn't been established that cholesterol reduction in older people saved lives or reduced the chances of having a heart attack.

2. In a report this month in the New England Journal of Medicine, Dr. Allan Brett of New England Deaconess Hospital in Boston said studies of people who lowered blood cholesterol levels with drugs indicate the benefits are much less than portrayed.

3. An article by Thomas Moore in the Atlantic Monthly, argues that the dangers of high blood cholesterol have frequently been exaggerated and that the national campaign to reduce cholesterol levels in more than a quarter of the adult population will be expensive and misguided.

4. Prominent individuals, including heart surgeon Dr. Michael DeBakey and Dr. Thomas James continue to question the recommendation that old people with high cholesterol levels try vigorously to lower them. Dr. James questions the basis for recommending cholesterol-lowering diets for children and others not at high risk of heart disease.

They point to puzzling results in some studies suggesting that cholesterol reduction might cause health problems, and they worry about the long-term side effects if patients resort to a lifetime of cholesterol-lowering drugs.

So what else is new?

First it was artificial sweeteners, then Alar, then radon, global warming, ozone depletion, dirt beneath gasoline storage tanks, non-hazardous municipal waste.

What this country needs is not a five-cent cigar as one of our elder statesmen declared a few decades ago, but a worry scale.

We have scales for the intensity of earthquakes, hurricane, and wind chill. We have ratings from one to 10 for the beautiful women, race horses, and the kick of whiskey, beer and wine.

Why can't we have a worry scale from one to 100 for the anxiety factor in new pronouncements to the general public about a just-discovered new worry.

And we need a group to assign the risk factor on the scale that is not seeking a new market for a new drug, not seeking a couple of million dollars out of the federal or state governments in the form of grants to study a newly-discovered peril or danger, or an author that is hyping the assumed risk in order to peddle a new book.

For example, since there is no scientific evidence that Alar on red apples is harmful to health and that most apples and apple derivatives are never touched by Alar, a risk factor of perhaps two could have been assigned.

Take those alarm stories about artificial sweetener and those laboratory rats coming down with cancer. The translation to a human could have been made to show that a 200-pound man would have to drink two bathtubs full of soft drinks with such sweeteners each day for 30 years in order to run the same risk as the rats. An assignment of one could have been made on the scale of one to 100.

Radon exposure in the home might rate an eight or nine on the worry scale -- if you lived in one of the states where the earth gave up such exposure.

If scientists are going to continue to scare the bejibbers out of us with all these hazards and dangers, the least they could do is design a scale to tell us how much sleep to lose over the dire possibilities.

JAMES ROBERTS
Andrews County News

Our 17-year-old daughter has been fascinated by all the Woodstock stories that have been on television and in the newspapers lately.

Most commentators have been saying Woodstock "defined" the 1960s generation, and since her parents grew up in the '60s, Kim has shown a natural curiosity about such an event.

Woodstock was a three-day music festival held on a New York farm in August, 1969. The festival drew some 500,000 people -- most sporting long hair and ratty clothes and apparently stoned on drugs.

The way the thing has been glorified by the national news media, you'd think everybody who wasn't at Woodstock sure wanted to have been.

Of course, that's not the case. The 500,000 at Woodstock got a lot of press, but they weren't representative of all young people in those days.

"Were you at Woodstock?" Kim innocently asked her mother the other day.

"Why, no!" Pam answered in disgust. "Even if I had wanted to go, my parents wouldn't have let me!"

"Well, I don't see why you didn't go," Kim said. "Everybody did what they wanted to do in the '60s."

Somebody forgot to tell our parents that. The '60s slogan, Do your own thing, didn't hold much truck with either set.

My mother ran our house by two rules: 1) Mom is always right; 2) If Mom is wrong, see Rule 1.

Pam's parents followed pretty much the same rules.

During my growing-up years, one thing was constant. My siblings and I were expected to do what our mother told us to do.

We were afraid not to. The penalty was a good spanking -- and sometimes two (one from each parent).

My mother also encouraged my teachers to lay on the paddle if necessary, so there were times when we stood to get three lickings if we decided to do our own thing to excess.

I remember with great clarity the last maternal spanking I received. At the age of 13, I was bigger than her 5 foot-2. I was a starting lineman on the junior high football team, and, of course, I thought I was a lot smarter than she was. I spent an entire day one weekend doing my own thing, ignoring both Rule 1 and Rule 2. At the end of the day, Mom quietly took out her belt, instructed me to bend over the bed in my room and proceeded to cut me down to size.

After that, I never thought much about doing my own thing again.

Today, I hold to the old-fashioned belief that young people need to understand the rules and know they will be punished if they don't follow them. That's the only way they will learn right from wrong.

No matter how much people want to glorify Woodstock and the loose attitudes of the 1960s, I'm glad my mother chose to tan my hide periodically instead of letting me do my own thing.

And, seeing some of the problems we have today, I wish some other members of my generation had gotten the same.

Weight Loss
Pill 'Baffles'
Scientists

WASHINGTON - Scientists are baffled by a new weight loss formula that causes people to lose weight even though they don't change the way they normally eat.

Studies published in respected scientific journals such as The British Journal of Nutrition say that cyamopsis tetragonolobus, an ingredient often used to thicken ice cream, can cause permanent weight loss without dieting or exercise. Although several explanations for the weight loss are suggested, the most likely according to scientists, is that the ingredient seems to "trap" high calorie fat particles, decreasing their absorption in the intestines.

Scientists at National Dietary Research, an organization committed to the research and development of nutritional solutions to world-wide health problems, have successfully isolated and incorporated cyamopsis tetragonolobus into an improved formula that greatly enhances the potential for weight loss over the ingredient alone. Called Food Source One, the revolutionary new formula provides a three-way scientifically designed process to help prevent calorie absorption.

The mechanism by which Food Source One works to decrease body weight is a complicated process called nutri-bonding. When chewed and swallowed immediately before meals, high calorie fats are replaced with lower calorie nutrients, thereby providing optimum nutrition and a minimum number of fat calories as explained in an instruction sheet that accompanies the tablets. The instruction sheet should be followed for optimum results.

Food Source One is unlike any other product on the market and is available immediately because it is not a drug and only contains natural ingredients already known to be safe. Physicians and pharmacists are praising Food Source One as a natural, drug free alternative for the treatment of obesity.

Food Source One is available at:

Council begins budget study

The newly-organized city council held its first of a series on studying the needs of the next fiscal year's budget needs, and, prior to launching their study, each member was given an opportunity to express what they would like to see happen.

Prior to the regular portion of the evening, however, aldermen confirmed the re-appointment of former alderman Bud Burch to serve on the 9-1-1 district board as the community's representative.

There was general agreement among the council that the sewer study was most pressing of all public works the city should undertake this year, with an eye on improving the drainage in areas constantly hit by flooding.

Price was the first of the department heads to make presentations in the series of budget workshops. In their presentations, major needs in equipment and personnel are explained and justified.

Prior to his presentation, however, Barrington told the council of the new figures released by the Wichita Appraisal District.

The District indicated tax values are down in the city. Last year's appraised value was $98,309,621, and new value is $97,160,946.

He explained, "Applying the 80-cent tax rate (called for by Mayor House) to this appraised value and applying the 97-percent collection rate we usually budget, our projected revenue is $753,969. That is $89,970 less than the 1990 figure of $843,939."

Among the major capital items Price listed were a "stand alone" computer, build a kennel for animals; upgrading of maps; truck; mesquite sprayer; storage building; finish lighting for softball field; hydraulic water pump; replacing chemical feed pumps at water plant; repairs on ground storage water tanks; larger line and pumps at Lake Buffalo; expand sewer treatment plant; motorized sludge waste retriever, and street sweeper.

Price was unable to complete his presentation, as the meeting had already extended past the two-hour limit set at the beginning.

The council agreed to hold its next workshop Tuesday, May 29.

A heartwarming show of real family love.

Hawks district champs; bi-district game Monday

After claiming the Dist. 5-AAA baseball championship, the Hawks will travel Monday to Stephenville to take on Abilene Wylie in a one-game bi-district battle.

The contest, to begin at 6 p.m., will be played on the Tarleton State Univ. diamond. Admission will be $3 for adults and $2 for students.

Iowa Park will play a warmup game with Holliday at 5 p.m. Friday at Hoskins Field in Wichita Falls.

Wylie, runner-up to Clyde, will likely start Matt Teten on the mound against the Hawks. He was 2-0 in district play, but 2-2 on the season.

Coach Daryl Frazier said earlier this week his starting pitcher would be Danny Tatom, but only if he is fully recovered from a mild illness that was bothering him. Otherwise he would likely start Jimmy Duggins.

The Hawks closed out their regular season with three games during the past week, defeating Graham 16-5 Thursday, losing 2-1 to Bridgeport Friday, and dumping Decatur 12-7 Monday. All three were on the road.

The Bridgeport loss was the only defeat in district play for the Hawks, who closed out conference play with a 9-1 record. They will carry a season record of 16-4 with them into the bi-district clash.

Sophomore Robert Denton had the biggest of the bats at Graham. He had three hits in five trips to the plate, but his first two at-bats were both home runs. The second homer was the only grand slam of the season for Iowa Park.

Jimmy Nicholson was three-for-three, while Duggins and Kelly McClure were 2x4. The Hawks had 15 hits in all.

Tatom went the distance on the mound, striking out four and giving up three bases on balls.

The win over Graham actually was all the Hawks needed for their district title, as none of the other clubs had a chance to overtake them.

With the knowledge that they had the title wrapped up, the Hawks admitted that they were not sharp in their loss to Bridgeport.

Bridgeport took the lead, 1-0, in the third inning, but the Hawks tied the score in the top of the seventh.

In the extra inning, Iowa Park had the bases loaded, and no outs, but didn't push a run across. Bridgeport scored in the bottom of the frame to hand the Hawks their only conference loss.

Iowa Park's five hits were credited to Denton, McClure, Nicholson, Bunkie Imboden and J'Bill Merrick.

Duggins suffered the loss, giving up five hits.

The Decatur win was not easy, nor pretty, according to Coach Frazier. Eventhough the Hawks had 12 hits, they also committed seven errors.

The game was knotted at 3-3 going into the fourth inning. That's when the Hawks took command, scoring six times. They added the other three in the fifth.

Leading batters who accounted for Iowa Park's 12 hits were: Dug-gins, Nicholson and Jeremy Carroll, 2x4; Tatom, 2x3; McClure, with a home run in the fifth.

All but four of the hits were singles. Duggins, Carroll and Ken Schlaud each had doubles.

Leave some for wildlife

"Don't forget wildlife when harvesting wheat and oats. Quail, pheasant, mourning dove, turkey, and other birds find food and cover in fields of small grains," states Donald Lewis of the Soil Conservation Service in Iowa Park.

Strips of unharvested grain around fields edges near brush or tall grasses provide excellent food for quail and turkey. Mourning Dove will feed on shattered seed where soils are shallow and the stand of grain is thin.

"Even if the entire field is harvested, these same areas can be left untilled until next planting season to benefit wildlife" said Lewis. Without tillage, waste grain is available to the birds and an eight inch stubble provides suitable cover until it deteriorates.

Do not burn the small grain stubble, as the wildlife benefits are lost as well as organic matter; it also exposes the soil to erosion. Crop Residue Use is one way of giving the soil some protection against erosion.

Conservation tillage leaves crop residues on the surface and lowers the chances of destroying the food and cover. "While leaving cover and food for the wildlife, it also helps in preventing erosion," said Lewis.

For more information on Wildlife Management, feel free to call the local Soil Conservation Service in Iowa Park at (817)592-4176 or come by at 303A North Jackson St.

Knight wins medals in 2 events at state

Erica Knight wasn't the champion in either of her events at the state track and field meet last weekend in Austin, but she competed as one.

A champion athlete wants to improve every time competition is held. And that's what the Iowa Park High School freshman did.

In her first visit to the giant meet, she "medaled" in both her events, the triple jump and 100-meter hurdles.

She placed third in both. And in both events, she exceeded her personal records.

Following presentation of her first medal, Saturday afternoon before several thousands of fans seated in Memorial Stadium of the University of Texas, she admitted "I'm just going to freak out. I want to scream!"

Her first competition was Friday afternoon, in the triple jump. Using the "south pit," which is just below the giant concrete scoreboard, she improved on each attempt.

Each competitor gets six jumps. On the first three jumps, competitors are called in the order of their respective qualifying jumps at region. Erica was seventh.

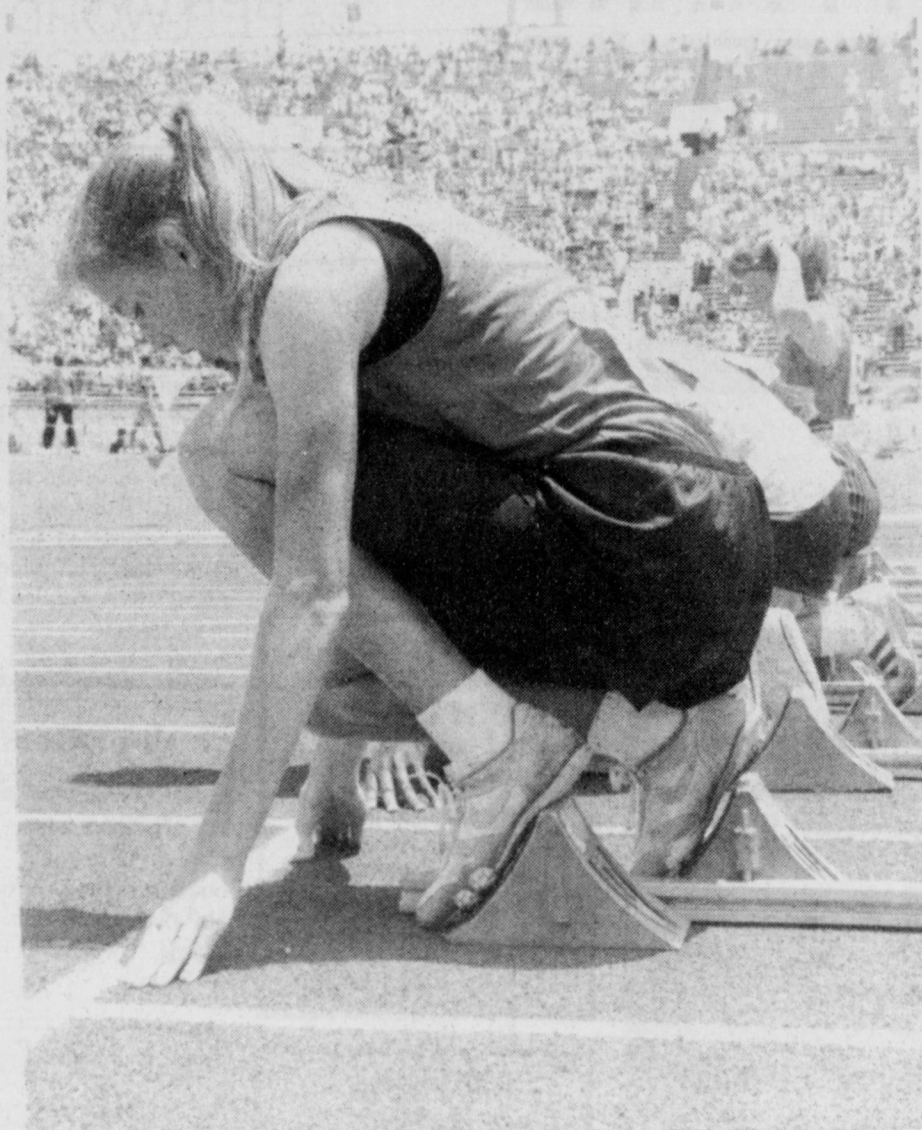

The order is changed for the final three jumps, with the shorter jumpers leading off. Erica was fifth among the eight competitors.

On her first jump she had a leap of 35-0 3/4, followed by 36-4 1/4 and 36-7. In the finals she went 36-7 3/4, 36-8, and scratched on the final attempt in an all-out effort.

That fifth leap elevated her into third place, half an inch ahead of Wanda White of Carter-Riverside.

The winner was Carla Spears of Luling, 38-3 1/2. Second place went to Shelly George of Winnie East Chambers, 37-2.

Despite running a personal best of 15.3 in the hurdles, she had little chance Saturday afternoon of winning against the defending champion from Lampasas, Chelsa Lancaster.

STATE MEDAL WINNER ERICA KNIGHT ... in starting blocks for 100-meter hurdle event.

Lancaster broke a three-year-old Class AAA state record with 14.1. Second place went to Janet Meaux, East Chambers, 15.0.

Even after finishing the race, she was unsure of where she had placed until told by an official.

"I could see the other girl out of the corner of my eye," she said, "but I couldn't tell if I had beaten her or not."

The "other girl" was picked in fourth place. She was Nikki Altman of Tulia, who was timed in 15.4. Altman had defeated Knight at Odessa by running the event in 15.14.

And Erica had her second medal. Knight had qualified for state by leaping 36-1 1/2 in the triple jump, and running the hurdles in 15.58, at the regional meet two weeks earlier.

Seated in the stands to watch her team mate was junior Kerri Dorner, who competed in two events at the state meet last year. Dorner is still recovering from mononucleosis, an illness that struck some four weeks ago and apparently kept her from qualifying again this year.

With Dorner was their coach, Loma Klinkerman.

Bill Chandler in national tourney

Former Hawk tennis standout Bill Chandler will be competing with his Collin County Community College men's team next week for the national title.

Collin County qualified for the tournament by winning the regional recently by defeating Weatherford Junior College, Brookhaven College and Eastfield College.

Chandler competes both in singles, and teams with Stanton Foster of Canyon in doubles.

The national tournament will begin Tuesday and wind up next Friday, at Tyler.
