

INSTEAD OF WEDNESDAY -

Most to observe Halloween here Saturday

Even though Halloween is officially carried on the calendars at being next Wednesday, most of the Halloween activities in Iowa Park will be observed Saturday.

Most major activities are slated for that evening, and the city council has recommended that all trick or treaters "do their thing" then, instead of Wednesday.

The council's recommendation was in the form of a consensus of members and not a formal action, as has been the case in previous years.

School officials indicated they would prefer the activities not be observed on a school night, and most church officials agreed they would rather not have the activities on a night when many of them normally have meetings.

Two major activities relating to Halloween will be taking place in the 400 block of East Texas, at the Iowa Park Recreational Activities Center and Burnett Field, which is next to it.

The RAC will be featuring a haunted house, while the first annual Iowa Park Police Department's Halloween Carnival will be held on the ball field.

Hours for the Haunted House will be from 8 p.m. until midnight, while the carnival will begin at 6 p.m. and continue "as long as our prizes last."

At least two eating places, Harveys and Ken's, have special events for local "goblins."

Two other places still will observe Halloween Wednesday.

Heritage Manor is inviting trick or treaters to its location on Third Street between 6 and 8 p.m. Wednesday.

Also, Lakeview Assembly of God

Church is holding a Hallelujah Carnival from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m. Wednesday, complete with a costume contest.

Regardless of which night the "Goblins" are out, the Dept. of Public Safety is offering safety hints for everyone.

"If you, as an adult, will be participating in candy give away this Halloween, turn on your porch light to let children know that they are welcome," says Maj. Vernon Cawthon.

"Remove any obstacles that a child might trip over and keep lighted Jack-O-Lanterns or candles away from steps or the front door where a child's costume could be ignited by flame," he continued.

Parents should instruct their children in pedestrian safety rules, insure that everyone carries a flashlight and costumes be reflective to help motorists spot the youngsters.

Painting the child's face is preferable to wearing a mask, and costumes should not be loose fitting and cause the child to trip.

Parents should accompany their children, if possible. If not, the child should be instructed to go with a group and not stop at homes which are dark.

Motorists should drive slowly in residential areas and be especially on the alert for kids darting from between parked cars and walking in the streets, suggested the DPS.

Okayed bid to allow better water service

The city council Monday night approved advertisement for bids to purchase a new trash truck, bids to further improve the Recreational Activities Center, and accepted the low bid for materials to complete the looping of the water line in the northwest part of the city.

Aldermen also confirmed Mayor Wayne House's appointments to two boards, as well as approving the area's representative to the Wichita County Tax Appraisal Board.

Once the materials are received, city crews will install pipe that will complete a "loop" of the water system in Shiloh and Quail Valley additions.

When installed, water pressure not only in the homes but at the fire hydrants will be increased to an acceptable level, it was explained.

Aldermen, after a lengthy discussion on additional work at the RAC, approved plans to complete the electrical wiring, airconditioning and heating of the building.

The plans were developed by the architecture and engineering firm of Daugherty and Glover. Larry Parks represented the firm in the presentation.

During the discussion on the project, former alderman Bud Mercer's offer to do the electrical work, using materials provided by the city, was brought out.

However, after Mercer said his workers would have to be paid by the city, it was decided the better route for the city was to put the project out for bids.

Should the labor of Mercer's employees exceed $5,000, and it was not included in the bidding procedure, it would be in violation of state law, ac-ording to the discussion.

The city is to act as its own contractor on the project, with David Collins, code enforcement officer, overseeing the project.

Parks said the plans call for 24 tons of airconditioning.

Once the work is completed, the building will be turned over to the RAC board to coordinate completion of the project through financial donations, discounted materials and volunteer labor.

Morrison Supply Co. of Wichita Falls was determined the low bidder on the water line materials for the looping project, with a bid of $9,938.17.

The appointments to the Board of Adjustments included five regular members and four alternates, as is provided by state law for all general law charter cities.

Regular members include Linda Merrick, Ronald Robinson, Jerry Robertson, Allan Gilstrap and Gerald Walsh.

Alternates are David Padgett, Jan Clapp and Laverne Owens.

Buddy Wiggins was appointed to the Planning and Zoning board.

The city and school alternate on the responsibility of appointing a representative for the two taxing entities to the tax board, and this year is the city's turn.

Alderman unanimously approved the appointment of Mercer to the board.

A resolution accepting the work of McLain Construction on construction thus far on the RAC was approved, DRAMATIC FINALE - Despite thunder, lightning, wind and a sprinkling of rain, Iowa Park High's Mean Green Matching Machine earned a Division One rating Saturday in the UIL district marching contest, held in Wichita Falls. Graham also received a Division One, and Vernon a Division Two. After the southern zone contest was held in Abilene that afternoon, it was determined both Iowa Park and Graham will advance to the regional contest. Competing in the southern zone were Abilene Wylie, Clyde, Merkel and Colorado City.

Bowie could be problem for Hawks Friday night

When the Bowie Jackrabbits come to Hawk Stadium Friday night, for a 7:30 kickoff, they will present a rare problem for Iowa Park.

The Jackrabbits have, in the previous 11 meetings between the two clubs, been little more than an opportunity for the Hawks to add to their season's victory column.

Only once since the two schools began playing each other in 1970 has Bowie defeated Iowa Park. That was two years ago, when the Hawks suffered a 1-9 season. The Jackrabbits won, 26-21.

But Bowie, based on its record this season, appears to be a definite threat for Iowa Park.

While the Hawks were winning their first Dist. 4-AAA game last week, 13-0 over Bridgeport, the Jackrabbits were defeating a tough Breckenridge club 24-21.

The Rabbits are 4-3 on the season, and having lost their conference opener 36-6 to top-ranked Vernon, are 1-1 in district play, as are the Hawks.

A win Friday will definitely give the victor a leg up toward a place in the state playoff picture.

A major key in Bowie's offense is 170-pound junior tailback Trace Morris, who has gained over 800 yards this season.

In last week's game, he carried the ball 33 times into the Buckaroo defense and gained 216 yards. The other backs carried only 20 times for an additional 75 yards.

Morris loves to run through holes created by guard Doug Andreason, 280, and tackle Eric Dow, 240, both of whom line up to the right of the center.

Senior quarterback Thomas Reed, himself a good runner, has a favorite receiver in speedster Toby Oliver.

But offense wasn't Bowie's only key to last week's win over Breckenridge. The Buckaroos turned over the ball three times to the Rabbits, twice on interceptions and once on a fumble.

Breckenridge also was the victim of 11 penalty flags, nine of them falling in the second half for 115 yards.

In fact, on the winning touchdown drive, which covered 63 yards, the Buckaroos were penalized three times for 45 yards.

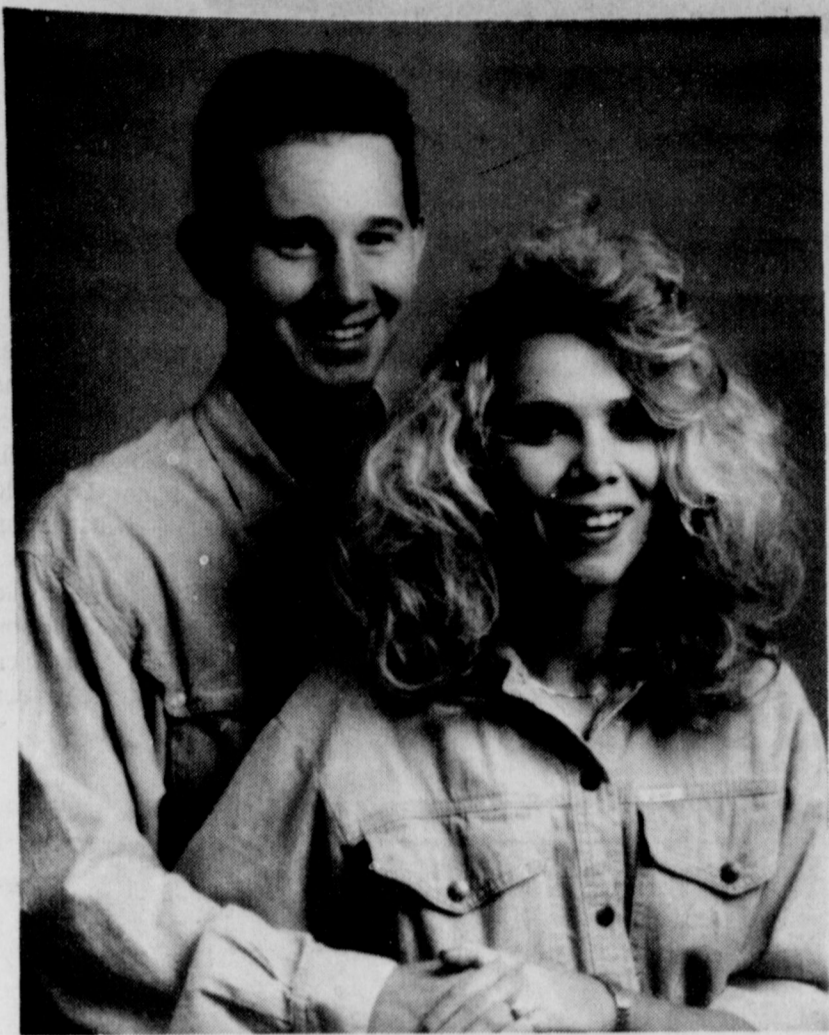

Bowie's defense was vulnerable to Breckenridge's passing attack, allowing 12 of 27 attempts to be completed for 165 yards. The Bucks also gained 151 yards on the ground.

To counter Bowie's Morris, Coach Len Williams introduced Greg Steger to Dist. 4-AAA opponents last week, converting him from end to tailback.

23 Study Club begins new year

23 Study Club members resumed activities for the 1990-1991 club year Thursday afternoon in a meeting at First Presbyterian Church.

Hostesses were Mmes. Charles Harrell, John Clapp, Sam Hill and Miss Frances Park, club president and leader for the meeting. Theme was "Unity in Diversity--A Dream and a Goal."

Pat Raby, executive director of Recreational Activities Center, was guest speaker.

Mrs. D.O James set the mood for the occasion with a meditation, "Be A Candle."

Mrs. Erwin Soell, assisted by Mrs. Harrell, was in charge of initiating two new members, Mrs. Ross

Roberts and Mrs. Raymond Cope. Mrs. Rollin Roberts, also a new member, was out of town attending a district church meeting.

A special guest was Mrs. Earle Denny, who recently was named a life member. Mrs. L.E. Brooks, another life member now living in Hugo, Okla., was remembered for her contribution to the club.

The new members and Mrs. Denny were pinned with corsages of purple and gold. Corsages will be sent to Mrs. Brooks and Mrs. Rollin Roberts.

A brief history of 23 Study Club was given by Mrs. Soell. She showed a newspaper clipping of the club's organizational meeting Oct. 18, 1923.

For the arts number, Mrs. Harrell gave "One Little Candle" as a musical reading. Cecelia House, a guest, provided piano accompaniment.

Mrs. Raby spoke on "Dreams and Goals for RAC." She introduced her talk by reading the mission statement of the organization, and listed some of the ongoing activities it affords the people of the community.

Activities include meeting places for clubs, seasonal parties, aerobics, special and summer activities for children.

Mrs. Raby mentioned the upcoming Halloween party that is planned for children. She said new aerobics for adults and painting classes soon will be offered.

The executive director was enthusiastic about the new facility now under construction and expressed her feelings that it will be something the city can be proud of when completed.

A highlight of the meeting was the president's address on "Share The Vision" that preceded the business meeting.

Miss Parks urged club members to aspire to high visions, lofty dreams and goals and strive to attain them so this year can be successful. She also noted that the membership represents a variety of talents and gifts that can, if used, enhance and widen the "Share the Vision" theme.

The Texas Trivia part of the programs for 1989-90 was so favorably received that the program committee for this year decided to repeat it. The committee is composed of Mmes. Jim Medlinger, John Rentschler and Harrell.

Recognizing the importance of the annual football game between Texas and Oklahoma to Texans, Mrs. Medlinger told "The Legend of the Hat." A hat that was tossed in Red River by an Oklahoma player after his team was defeated is supposed to surface each year just before the clash to indicate what team will be victorious during the hard-fought battle.

Mrs. James gave a report of the recent Santa Rosa District meeting held in Matador and brought back a second place district award in history.

Mrs. Rentschler, federation counselor, used "Did You Know" to find out how knowledgeable members are about the General Federation of Women's Clubs' motto, "emblem, logo, flower, colors, flag" and the official song, "America, the Beautiful," which was sung by members to close the meeting.

On Nov. 12 all three federated clubs in Iowa Park will have a joint meeting at Tom Burnett Memorial Library.

Iowa Parkan on TV show

Local residents will be able to watch a former Iowa Park resident on a nationally-televised television program Wednesday.

Jami Ming Jansa of San Bernadino, Cal., will appear on the tape-delayed program "Price Is Right" at 10 a.m. on KAUZ-Channel 6, according to relatives.

She is the daughter of Kathy Ming of Iowa Park and Steve Ming of Scotland.

The program was taped during the summer.

Approximately 25 guests attended bringing their own idea of a handy man gift.

Refreshments of chips and dips were served with Coca-Cola.

Great-grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Ross Clark, Wichita Falls, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Biddy, Warren, Okla., and Mr. and Mrs. Mack Armstrong of Clinton, Okla.

Mr. and Mrs. Barry Tyler of Kamay are parents of a son born Oct. 22 in Wichita General Hospital, weighing seven pounds, four ounces. He has been named Brady Preston.

Treat Your Child To A Safe Halloween

With Halloween just around the corner, many parents will find themselves preparing costumes for their children. To make sure that the holiday remains more of a "treat" than a "trick," take the following precautions when designing costumes.

- Keep the costume from billowing or hanging loose near the feet. Your child might trip over the extra material. The costume also could catch on fire from a neighborhood jack-o-lantern.
- If your child will be trick-or-treating during the night, make certain you've sewn reflective patches into the garment or have used reflective paint on the costume to alert motorists. Also equip your child with a flashlight.
- If part of the costume must be a wig, purchase a nonflammable hair piece. Hair sprays can often be used to create the same effect as wigs.
- Makeup is much safer than a mask, which can obscure vision.
- Safety is important from head to toe. Everyday shoes are less hazardous than high heels or "costume shoes," which usually don't fit very well.
- Give your child a small bag for collecting treats. A larger bag might block your child's vision or cause him or her to trip.

As I See It . . . By Bob Hamilton

There is a concerted effort afoot in Texas and across the nation to recruit high school dropouts into programs which will prepare them to hold productive employment.

Why? Well it seems that a major portion of dropouts eventually get on the welfare rolls, and the taxpayers have to finance them the rest of their lives.

Texas now has dropout programs to train them, including the Job Corps, Job Training Partnership Act and the 70001 Training and Employment Institute.

Even for those dropouts who don't get on the public dole reportedly face lower lifetime earnings potential.

I guess I was just born a few decades too early. None of that was available to me after I dropped out of high school.

All I had was the fear of not being able to earn a living, not being accepted by those with whom I wanted to associate, and a burning desire to not only go to college, but to become a newspaper reporter.

It may have been that my fear of not being able to earn a desirable living came from having grown up during the Great Depression. I knew what it was like to not have those things I wanted, because they hadn't been given to me.

It was during my four years in the Air Force -- yeah, they were accepting dropouts back then -- that I observed the benefits of an education. I saw guys come into my outfit and being promoted with less time in the service than I had.

The need for education was obvious.

My desire to be a reporter wasn't in my mind when I quit school. But, as I worked in offices in the service, it became painfully obvious my education was lacking.

And, unable to get a full time job during the summers while I was attending junior college, and having to work as a car hop, that desire to get ahead became even more demanding.

So, I accepted my discharge from the Air Force after my contracted four years, with the express purpose of going to college and getting my education.

I took the GED test, which was required before Amarillo Junior College would accept me, and passed it.

My GI education bill, along with working every evening and weekend, financed my education.

And I've never regretted it.

Those who did drop out of school, and have a desire to do something with their lives, should take advantage of the programs available, whether it be one of those job training programs or going back to regular school.

It's never too late, unless the dropout decides it is.

But, I'll guarantee you, if you are considering dropping out of school, it's much easier and better to stay where you are and complete your education.

Criminal mischief cases abound

Most of the entries on the police blotter during the past week were reports of criminal mischief.

However, there was one case of burglary of a habitation which remains under investigation.

An apartment in the 1000 block of Mary Drive reportedly was burglarized and the report filed Monday morning.

Approximately $3,000 worth of belongings, including a stereo, CD player and records, television, answering machine, clothing and a leather jacket, were included in the complaint.

One of the criminal mischief cases reported involved a van owned by the All American Cab Co. of Wichita Falls, while it was parked in the 900 block of East Cash last Thursday evening.

Approximately $2,500 in damage was reportedly inflicted by a woman at that residence.

No charges have yet been filed in the case, which remains under investigation, according to police.

Sometime Sunday night, a large number of vehicles were victims of someone using black shoe polish.

The report indicated the vehicles were parked on Westridge, Vogel, Comelia and Louisa.

One vehicle's paint could have been permanently damaged by the vandal, who apparently made the applications while driving by without stopping.

Steger's number was called 18 times and he responded with 175 yards, many of those on second and third efforts.

The Mean Green line will be healthier than it was last week, with the return of tackles Cory Bridwell and Frank Banks. Both stood throughout Friday's game on the sidelines in their civilian britches, victim of injuries.

The other three victims of Bowie's this season, besides Breckenridge, have been smaller schools.

The Hares opened the season with a 21-0 decision over Electra in a game that was called at halftime when the stadium lights failed.

They bullied Holliday 47-13, and then beat an Addison church school, Trinity Christian, 28-14.

In their previous 11 meetings, the Hawks have scored 364 points to the Jackrabbits' 66. Six of those games were shutouts by the Mean Green defense.

allowing a final payment of $9,910.40. The council recognized Harmon Hughes, sanitation department truck driver, as the city's outstanding employee for September.

During a general discussion period, during which no action was taken, topics covered were the condition of sidewalks in the 100 block of West Park Ave., the floor of the old garage building at the library, and the anticipated completion date of the highway department's project on West Highway.

PFC Williams in Saudi Arabia

PFC Bradley Williams was recently transported with his 24th Ordinance Co. from Savanna, Ga. to Saudi Arabia, according to his mother, Mrs. Gene Williams.

Williams joined the U.S. Army in March 1989.

His wife, the former Carolyn Sidlauskas, and two children have moved back to Iowa Park.

Helpful Facts

The city's Board of Adjustments meetings are at 6:15 p.m. on Mondays when there is an agenda, in Council Chambers, 103 North Wall. Public notices for all Board of Adjustments meetings are published two weeks in the Iowa Park Leader, and are open to the public.

Worth Quoting

It would appear that we're back to square one on equity for school funding in Texas.

Austin Judge F. Scott McCowan has ruled that Senate Bill 1 passed in the 4th special session of the Texas legislature this past summer is still unconstitutional.

Despite $565 million in new taxes on Texans, the judge ruled that the funding plan failed to cure the funding inequities that plague public education in Texas. "It does nothing to eliminate the disparities in local wealth."

We're afraid that when the legislature finally gets down to the nitty-gritty of making all school districts in Texas equal, our legislators will find that the program will call for merging rich districts with poor ones, placing a cap or ceiling on expenditures per pupil, and a Robin Hood approach that will take from those who have and giving it to those who haven't.

And then what? Once the funding or money is equal, what next?

If you carry equality or equity to a logical conclusion, then the next step is the finding that the pupil makeup in the classroom is discriminatory -- and unconstitutional.

True equity in public education demands that each classroom in Texas must have the same number or percentage of blacks, hispanics, Asians, and whites -- and the school district must switch them around to obtain the mandated percentages.

And to carry equality a step further, each classroom should contain a certain percentage of smart kids, dumb kids, and an exact mix of those in-between.

We've gotta sneaking hunch that once we reach that plateau of Eden-like equality, some mother will file suit against the school district and the commissioner of education because her Susie can't afford the kind of shoes that Mary wears to school -- and it's discriminatory.

So to satisfy the judge's mandate, the school district will have to specify the kind of shoes that can be worn to class or else provide them free of charge. To do other wise would be rank discrimination against the poorer students.

Then perhaps another group of mothers will file suit because their children are discriminated against because of dress. The children of those mothers cannot afford to wear stylish clothes to classroom and consequently are made to feel like second-class citizens. The answer is a uniform, provided by the district, for all students.

Logically, there is simply no end to the measures required for true equality in the classroom.

And if we ultimately obtain this Garden of Eden on earth, what then?

Then we graduate the little darlings into the world in which we have the poor and the rich, the haves and the have-nots, the literate and the illiterate, those who can read and those who cannot, those with good paying jobs and those holding down minimum wage earnings.

Have we prepared these students for the real world -- a world that hasn't changed its makeup despite hundreds of attempts at social justice?

Nope! What we've done is to take the first step toward the beginning of the end of public education as we know it in Texas.

When true equality is reached by mandate of the judicial system in Texas, what we'll have is public schools for equality -- and private schools for education.

Ask the parents in Hawaii, Houston, and the District of Columbia!

I have a bone to pick.

Like many of you readers, I don't understand why the city council keeps having this doggoned discussion about whether to stay in the animal-control business.

Without animal control, Pilot Point quickly goes to the dogs, so why is this such a continuing bone of contention?

You'd think the city council would have more important things to talk about. After all, the city does have a leash law on the books, but some council members have a dogged determination to let it be ignored.

I'm not just a-woofin' when I say dogs need to be controlled. They may be our friends, but they'll also hound us to death if we let them.

Some of them need to be put in their place.

Actually, Pilot Point could use a fulltime -- rather than parttime -- animal-control officer. But adding enough money to the budget for that would really cause some howling.

Unfortunately, the council probably will have to gnaw on this issue once again. The 1990-91 city budget will be prepared later this summer, which means we can look forward to some more dopey discussions.

Hopefully, the council members who favor animal control won't stray when the issue rises its head again. If they start barking up the wrong tree, too, we can look forward to some real dog days.

DAVID LEWIS
Pilot Point Post-Signal

Henry Searcy of Ogelsby was cleaning out some things recently, when he happened upon a Sept. 9, 1932 issue of The McGregor Mirror. In it was this piece, entitled, "Deep Rooted":

"Let us not forget the story of the young woman who had a tooth which had to come out. She agreed with the practitioner that it should be drawn, but each time he brought the forceps into view she clenched her jaws tightly together and refused to open them until he put down the forceps to argue with her.

"Finally he had an inspiration. He had his woman assistant get a long hatpin from her hat and station herself just behind where the obdurate patient sat.

"Now, then," he counseled her, "when I get the forceps right close to her lips I'll give you the signal and you jab the hatpin clear up through the seat of the chair. Naturally, she'll open her mouth to say Ouch! and then I'll get that tooth. It's very loose -- it'll come out in a jiffy.

"The scheme worked. As the dentist held up the ousted tooth he said soothingly:

"Now, then, that wasn't so bad after all, was it?"

"No," said the relieved sufferer: "only one sharp darting pain. But, doctor, I had no idea that roots of a tooth went down so deep!"

Mrs. Thomas Wright

Cooking, fishing, swimming, cookouts, and big family gatherings are some of the favorite activities of Lucy (Mrs. Thomas) Wright, this week's featured cook.

Lucy, who grew up in Iowa Park, said that all of her family still lives here with the exception of a brother who lives in Abilene.

Because her mother liked to do all of the cooking and other chores for her family, Lucy didn't learn to cook until after she married. Judging from the recipes that she brought in, she learned well.

Lucy is married to Thomas Wright, owner of A-1 Appliance in Iowa Park. Her children are Melissa Horton, 19 years old, who lives in Irving where she is working toward a degree in accounting, and Mike Horton, a senior at Iowa Park High School. Mike is a member of the Army Reserve, and plans to enter the Army when he graduates next spring.

The family are members of the First Presbyterian Church.

KEEP FIGHTING FOR YOUR MARRIAGE!

Marriage is a difficult task, but it is much easier than other options. Do not give up on your marriage. If you think you are going to solve your problems by trading your current relationship for a new one, stop kidding yourself. When couples choose divorce too quickly, they have not thought through the kinds of headaches, heartaches, and nightmares that come.

Dr. James Kilgore in his book "TRY MARRIAGE BEFORE DIVORCE," made the following observations: "I am convinced that the majority of couples cannot be emotionally committed to each other because they have yet to settle the divorce issue. Few married people have not experienced the question of what being divorced is like. Some envy single people.

Trying in marriage begins with the sense of commitment which says, "I do not have to live with you, but I choose to, happily." That declaration of intent, supported by a disciplined course of seeking mutual supportiveness, bring full joy to a couple. The escape hatch from marriage has been locked down. While it may need to be checked regularly, it will not be opened in the trials under the sea of life's pressure. Its secure fasteners represent the continuing commitment of the couple to seek marital pleasure with each other."

Often it is the subtle pleasure to please others rather than our partner that tempts us to use the escape hatch called divorce. Next week we will look at a timely topic, "YOUR MARRIAGE CAN SURVIVE MID-LIFE CRISIS."

AREA CODE CHANGE

Northeast Texas phone code changing

What would happen if you woke up Sunday, Nov. 4, and found out you and everybody else in 200 cities in North and East Texas had a new first name? Your last name remained the same, but you all had new first names.

This is exactly what will happen to your telephone -- and more than half million others in 200 Texas cities -- when the new area code 903 goes into service on Nov. 4 replacing the old 214.

"No one outside of our business gives it much thought," said Mike Flynn, vice president-network-Texas, "but starting November 4 every telephone switching system in America must recognize a new first name (Area Code 903) and complete calls dialed 1-900-XXX XXXX 0+903, a number they would not have recognized before."

However, the telephone network is also a little smarter than some folks think. It will recognize either the 903 area code or the old 214 area code for a "grace period" before the 903 will be required to reach that part of Texas. This will last about six months.

The addition of the 903 area code was necessitated by growth, and the demand for telephone numbers, in Texas in recent years.

Under existing numbering plan schemes, each area code will accommodate 792 prefixes, and each prefix will accommodate about 10,000 numbers. This means each area code represents about 7.9-million potential numbers.

North and East Texas -- including the metro Dallas area -- would have run out of numbers late next year, thus the reason for the creation of a new area code.

"Texas is not alone," Flynn explained. "Chicago recently added a new area code in Illinois, and New Jersey, San Francisco and Los Angeles will do so in 1991."

Texas will have eight area codes, second among the 50 states, with California (10) and New York (also eight). Illinois has six, and Florida, Michigan, Ohio and Pennsylvania have four each.

When the NANP (North American Numbering Plan) was originated, and area codes were introduced in 1947, it was assumed the number of available area codes would last 100 years.

The rate of growth in the nation, coupled by technological change which produced thousands of new telecommunications devices -- cellular technology, paging, facsimile machines and hundreds of others -- has essentially cut that time frame in half.

One might logically ask when the current plan will use all the available area codes.

"This will probably occur in 1995, but we've planned way beyond that date," Flynn explained. "A new numbering method removes the requirement that the second digit of each area code be a zero or one. This will create 640 additional area codes, a quantity that should carry us well into the 21st century."

When November 4 arrives, the "new first name shouldn't pose any real problems. Changes like this have been accommodated many times in many states, with little or no real inconvenience.

HAPPY HALLOWEEN

The annual Service Unit Halloween Party will be held tonight at Denise Parham's home on FM 367. Denise is the Service Unit Director for Iowa Park. She may be contacted at 438-2344 for further information, if necessary. Please remember, a consent form is required for this event.

UPCOMING TRAINING

Leaders training for the QSP magazine sale will be held on Saturday, Nov. 3, at the Sheraton Hotel in Wichita Falls. Each troop must send a representative. If you have received your invitation, your registration card is due at the council office immediately. If you have not received an invitation, please contact Mary at the council office (723-4336).

THANKS

Thank you to everyone who worked so hard on the float for the Homecoming Parade. The Girl Scout organization was very well represented this year, and well deserved credit is due to everyone who participated. A special thanks is extended to the Ira Hambright family for their extra efforts in constructing the "Top Hawk" and the steer. Special thanks also to Ernie and Laura Landers for providing and painting the float trailer. The efforts and concerns of such willing parents is what makes our troops grow successfully.

Card of Thanks

We would like to thank the Iowa Park EMT's and all others who responded to the accident Tuesday night on FM 367. And to those who called and offered prayers, we are grateful.

A special thanks to Shirley Banks for her help and concern.

Bill and Lillian Cornwell

Card of Thanks

All of the expressions of love and sympathy during our time of sorrow are deeply appreciated.

Region Nine offers reading improvement classes

The Adult Education Department of Region Nine Education Service Center will offer reading improvement classes this fall to adults who can read, but need to be able to read better.

Adults who might be interested in classes include General Education Development (GED) students who are having trouble with the GED material, students who have been through the Wichita Adult Literacy Council Program and want to continue their studies, or any other persons who would like to improve their comprehension skills.

There will be no cost for the program.

Classes will meet for one and a half hours twice a week, at various locations across the region. Many classes will be part of GED classes already formed.

Class size will be kept small, no more than 10, so that individual attention can be given to each student and each student can have time to contribute to the class.

Volunteers are being sought to teach the reading improvement program classes. Anyone who has a love of reading and enjoys the dynamics of a group setting is invited to offer his or her services.

Kaye Broyles, reading coordinator, will provide training and support for volunteers prior to the start of classes and that training and support will continue as the classes proceed.

Persons interested in being a student or a volunteer teacher should call Kaye Broyles at 322-6928.

GREG STEGER MADE HIS DEBUT AT TAILBACK FRIDAY AND GAINED 175 YARDS

Hawks shut out Bridgeport, 13-0

Friday's 13-0 victory over Bridgeport not only elevated the Hawks' season record to 2-5, but also kept their playoff hopes alive, continued their record of having never lost a game to the Bulls, and served as a showcase for the running talents of Greg Steger.

As was the case of their other win this year, Friday's contest was another shutout. The Hawks' earlier victory was 10-0 over Clyde in a non-conference match. Both were road games.

The Hawks are now 7-0 against the Bulls, in a series begun in 1984.

Steger, who had been used as an end and return specialist, was moved to tailback, and the slash-running junior carried 18 times for 175 yards.

But the Hawks had a lot to overcome, including nine penalties for 82 yards, and a disputed call by the officials which not only gave the Bulls a first down on the Hawk 11 that nullified an interception by Steger.

Meanwhile, Bridgeport was flagged only one time, and that was a five-yarder.

Quarterback Robert Denton lit up the scoreboard first, on a 10-yard run with 1:31 remaining in the first period. Todd Pulley kicked the extra point.

The other score was a 38-yard sprint by Steger. But this time, Pulley's kick attempt was blocked.

The Hawks, using all reserves behind Denton in the final 3:45 of the game, easily could have scored once more. But, with the ball at the Bulls' two yard line, Denton took the snap and knelt to run out the final seconds.

Steger carried the ball the first five plays of the game, picking up 55 of his evening's total yards. But the drive stalled and Bridgeport took over on its own 20. But four plays later, the Bulls punted from the 29.

On the next series, a Denton to Johnny Duggins pass for 11 yards was nullified on an illegal receiver penalty. That was followed by a five-yard motion penalty, setting the Hawks back on their own 22.

On the next play, facing third down and needing 12 yards for a first, Denton hit tight end Chad Reis for 34 yards.

In quick order, Duggins bullied his way 27 yards and Steger scampered 12 yards to the Bulls' six. After a five-yard motion penalty took the ball back out to the 11, Duggins ran for one, and then Denton scored on the following play.

Oddly, the Hawks experienced most of their success during the quarters they were facing a stiff southeasterly breeze. Both touchdowns were in those periods. Punter Brian Luney, who suffered a knee injury in the previous week's game, was called on twice in the second quarter, but could send the ball no further than 26 and 16 yards downfield, despite having the wind to his back. Joel McIlroy punted the only other time, in the fourth, and it carried 33 yards with the wind.

Two field goal attempts, one by either team, were missed in the game. Bridgeport attempted one on the final play of the second quarter from the 22, but the ball fell short of the crossbar. Todd Pulley's attempt, also from the 22, was long enough, despite the wind, but was wide to his left.

Besides Steger, five other Hawk backs carried for 21 or more yards in the game. Duggins wound up with 61 yards on 14 carries; Mark de la Rosa, despite a cast on his left arm, carried twice for 27; Denton was seven for 21; Joel McIlroy four for 26, while sophomore Chris Williams carried three times for 26.

Though the Hawks drew nine penalty flags, for the first time this season they did not suffer a fumble loss or intercepted pass. Neither, however, did Bridgeport.

Had the officials ruled the way the Hawk coaches and fans saw the first play of the fourth quarter, however, Steger would have had an interception. It appeared he and the intended receiver both came down on the sideline after leaping into the air, but with Steger holding onto the ball. However, none of the officials waved or gave any type of indication of a ruling for a few seconds, and Steger got up and waved the ball to show his ownership. But then the officials called the chain gang from across the field, measured, and declared the Bulls had indeed completed the fourth-down pass for a first down.

SCHOOL SCENE

Information prepared by Iowa Park School Counselors

The current educational literature refers often to children "at-risk" or "at-risk" youth. Almost every school district has or is planning an "At-Risk" Program. What does "at risk" mean? Who are children "at risk" and why do they matter?

All students have special needs. Through a comprehensive educational program in a caring atmosphere, most students' needs are met. Some, however, because of varied needs and problems, are "at-risk" and experience little success.

A student may be termed "at-risk" if he or she continues to experience little success academically, socially, emotionally, and behaviorally, which might place the student in danger of not completing his or her high school education.

The goal of any "At-Risk" Program is to identify these students and provide the necessary individualized support system to insure success, despite academic, behavioral, environmental, or personal obstacles.

Success of each student is the responsibility of all who serve that child - classroom teacher, counselors, administrators, school staff, parents, with the ultimate responsibility resting with the student.

Recent studies have shown that programs designed with strong parent involvement produce students who perform better than otherwise identical programs that do not involve parents as thoroughly. Schools that relate well to their communities have student bodies that out perform other schools. Children whose parents help them at home and stay in touch with the school score higher than children of similar aptitudes and family background whose parents are not involved.

Parents have always made a difference. We cannot look at the school and home in isolation from one another.

When you, as a parent or guardian, interact with and support your child, your child is more likely to be successful in school.

HOW TO HELP YOUR CHILDREN LEARN MORE EFFECTIVELY AT HOME AND AT SCHOOL!

Your children do not learn everything in school. But what they do learn in school needs reinforcing and rewarding at home. Parents play an important role in children's education. Everyday family activities, cast in an educational light, brighten your children's path through school.

To create the proper atmosphere for learning at home, all you need is a dash of initiative and interest. Learning together can become an enjoyable part of your family's lifestyle. Here are a few tried and true tips:

Set regular times to work with your children daily.

Read and discuss items from the newspaper at breakfast.

Watch the nightly news together.

Put aside 15-30 minutes a night to work together on homework, a challenging game or bedtime reading.

Create a place to work.

When your children start taking work home, choose a time and place for them to work and study; a desk or table in a quiet room with good lighting and no distractions is ideal.

Discourage studying in bed or in front of the TV.

Arrange time to talk with your children.

show an interest in their work and especially their achievements at school.

Applaud their accomplishments, but also let them know mistakes are human. Help your children learn from mistakes.

The dinner table offers a good time for family discussion of current events, school lessons or friends.

Set an example.

Use proper English and grammar when speaking or writing. Review your children's school work and let them review letters you write.

Read a variety of material like magazines, newspapers and books, and share them with your children.

Do your own homework, write letters or read while school work is being done.

Keep good research sources handy and encourage your children to read and investigate.

Dictionary: Give children a word to look up and learn each day. Use the word in conversation as often as you can. Ask them to look up words they misspelled or cannot pronounce.

Maps: Let your children navigate by using maps during trips around town. Plan the shortest route for a vacation.

Encyclopedia: Locate and read about countries mentioned in the news.

Almanac: Use this resource to collect facts and study history.

Cheerleaders' Point of View

This week the Hawks will be working for another victory for district while they play Bowie here. Please come and support us by bringing your pom poms-on-a-stick and yell for the Hawks to win!

The theme for the high school students is to Jingle the Jackrabbits. They are asked to make noise makers for the pep rally. They are also asked to dress up in their favorite Halloween costume at school Friday. There will be prizes given away for the best noise maker and costume so explode with that Hawk Spirit and back the Hawks to another victory.

Boosters to feed fans taco supper

The FFA Booster Club will hold a soft taco dinner for football fans Friday night.

The dinner will consist of soft tacos, beans, picante sauce, chips, tea and dessert.

Serving will be from 5:30 to 7:30 p.m. in the Vocational Agriculture Building, and the fee is $1.50 for children under 12, and $3 for adults.

SPORTS Shorts

Scores from Friday night of importance to Iowa Park Hawk fans include:

- Bowie 24, Breckenridge 21
- Vernon 41, Graham 3
- Abilene Wylie 33, Merkel 0
- Childress 33, Amarillo River Road 7
- Clyde 21, Early 6
- Decatur 41, Lake Dallas 10
- Justin Northwest 19, Burkburnett 7

ss ss ss ss ss

Players recognized by their coaches for outstanding play Friday at Bridgeport included:

- Linebacker - Brian Luney
- Secondary - Mike Brewer
- Defensive Lineman - Jeremy Pruitt
- Offensive Lineman - Gary Green
- Back - Greg Steger
- Receiver - Don McIlroy
- Big Hit - Green and Robert Cargal

Use radio and television wisely.

Monitor the content of radio and television shows and limit the hours of listening and viewing; many TV and radio programs can rob your children of precious learning time at home. Encourage your children to view and listen to educational programs.

Read programming guides. Select and prepare for the shows you want to watch or listen to each week. A special program on whales could be preceded by a book on these mammals of the sea, a trip to an aquarium or a model or drawing of the animal. Public broadcasting stations are good places to check program schedules. Discuss issues raised on radio and TV. Encourage follow-up readings. Ask open-ended questions. And challenge your children to consider the bias in programming and the accuracy of news reporting.

REGIONAL CROSS COUNTRY QUALIFIERS

Runners to regional

Patrick Birk and Jon Hankins led the Hawk cross country team to third place in the Dist. 4-AAA meet Monday at Vernon, and qualified for the regional meet.

Birk placed second in 15.46 and Hankins was fifth, 16.29. Only the top five placers at district qualify to compete in the regional.

Breckenridge won the boys' team title and Bowie was second.

Joel McIlroy placed 15th, Greg Steger 19th and Jeff Kaspar 21st.

The regional will be held Saturday, Nov. 3, at Lubbock.

Frosh shut out Bulls

The first half of Thursday night's freshman football game in Hawk Stadium was the "Don Ellis, Scott Byrd and Tony Lozipone Show."

But the second half the title was changed to the "Mark Tatum Show." And when it was all over, it was the Hawk Freshman Show with a sub title of 41-0.

Ellis scored twice in the first period, on runs of one and three yards, and in the second quarter, racked up his third TD on a 15-yarder.

Lozipone scored the other Hawk touchdown of the second period, on a six-yard scamper.

Byrd got into the act by kicking the extra points after the first two touchdowns, and then caught a pass from Lozipone for a two-point conversion to extend the score to 24-0 at the half.

Tatum showed speed many of the Frosh fans didn't realize existed, on his two touchdowns.

His TD in the third period was a 41-yard scamper. And then, in the final period, he returned an interception 39 yards to the end zone.

Byrd then tacked on his fifth point of the evening.

Byrd actually was the big yardage gainer of the evening. He was credited with 161 yards, while Ellis had 96 and Tatum 89.

The Hawk Frosh are scheduled to hit the road this afternoon. They are to play at Bowie, starting at 5:30 p.m.

Seventh Grade thumps Bowie

Iowa Park Junior High's Seventh Grade Hawks extended their season record to 5-1-1 Tuesday night by edging Bowie 20-18.

But in the nightcap, the Eighth Grade suffered a 40-12 loss to Bowie, dropping the team's record to 2-4.

The teams are not scheduled to play again until Nov. 6, when they will host Vernon for a four-game season closer, using both "B" and "A" teams.

Willie Alvarez scored twice for the Seventh Grade, on runs of six and 75 yards. The other TD was a 17-yard scamper by Robbie Davis.

Scoring the two points that made the difference between the two teams was Robert Klinkerman, who ran for the two-point conversion after the long scoring run of Alvarez.

Corkey Petty caught three passes from Klinkerman during the contest for 115 yards.

Jason Young threw a 15-yard pass to Jeremy McGowan for the Eighth Grade's first touchdown, and Mickey Mayo ran for the other from four yards out.

Dale Lindgreen set up the initial Hawk TD by intercepting a Bowie pass. The scoring drive required only two plays, both passes, to cover the 40 yards.

On the first play, Young hit Jeff Taylor for 25 yards, and the Young-to-McGowan pass followed.
