

Enrollment up for seventh year

For the seventh consecutive year, first-day enrollment figures in Iowa Park schools continued to climb.

There were 1,919 students in the classrooms here Monday, the first of a 180-day school year.

This year's increase of four was not as significant as the 67-pupil hike reported last year.

The numbers continue to climb, however, as administrators reported an additional 17 students enrolled Tuesday, raising the enrollment total to 1,936.

Part of the increase was a class of prekindergarten pupils that was not enrolled last year. There are 24 in that class at Kidwell Elementary.

Kidwell's first-day enrollment was 481, down from the 491 reported last year.

Bradford Elementary also had slightly fewer in its classes on the first day as were counted last year. There were 462 enrolled Monday, compared with 468 last year.

The junior high and high school both had major first-day increases in enrollment, according to the report.

Junior high enrollment Monday was 435, as compared to 412 last year. That was because of a huge, 41-pupil increase in the sixth grade over 1990.

The high school reported 541 students on the first day, up from the 526 last year.

Students by grade include:

No increase in taxes

City adopts $3-million budget

Iowa Park's city council Monday night approved a $3-million budget that required neither a tax increase nor hikes in fees.

The 80-cent per $100 valuation ad valorem rate includes .6959 for general operating expenses and .1041 for retirement of general obligation bonds.

This is the second annual budget calling for the 80-cent rate, after the 1989-90 rate was lowered from .885.

Described as a "bare bones" budget by Mayor Wayne House, expenditures of $2,999,282 for general operations and utilities are balanced by the same amount in anticipated revenues.

Anticipated revenues produced by the 80-cent tax rate is $747,364.

Though the council voted unanimous approval of the budget, there was disagreement voiced prior to voting.

Alderman Bob Hamilton said he was dissatisfied with the salary increases outlined in the budget, and Alderman Virgil Woodfin offered his suggestions on salary changes in the police department.

However, when it became apparent that if any changes were to be made others would be wanted, and the budget's passage would be delayed, so action to pass the document was approved.

Prior to adopting the budget and tax rate, the required public hearing on the budget was held. Only three citizens other than city personnel and a reporter were in the audience.

Robert Forney commented that the small businesses in the community were beginning to hurt, tax-wise, because of the closing of other businesses such as the two automobile dealerships.

When reminded that no increase in taxes was called for in the 1991-92 rate, Forney indicated satisfaction.

The council approved the sale of property at 610 East Bank to Goldie's Day Care Too, the only bidder, for $691.

Mayor House said action on a tax agreement with Cryovac would be tabled until the next meeting.

An agreement on mutual aid with law enforcement agencies in the county was approved. Action is still pending, requiring approval of Burk Burnett and Electra councils, however.

The agreement would "...provide additional law enforcement officers to protect health, life and property because of disaster, riot, threat of concealed explosives, or unlawful assembly characterized by force and violence or the threat of force and violence by three or more persons acting together or without lawful authority."

Administrator Gary Jones, during his regular reporting phase of the meeting, informed the council he had contacted a major officer with Wal-Mart concerning persistent rumors that the local store was to be closed.

Jones said the man, Dale Neighbors, said the firm had no intentions of closing the Iowa Park store.

Jones reported on progress of the parking lot at the Recreational Activities Center and equipment received for its furnishing; tiles for repairing the roof at the Tom Burnett Memorial Library; organization of a board planning the development of a regional sanitary landfill, and problems at the water treatment plant.

GETTING STUDENTS' ATTENTION - Jan Yeager, fourth grade teacher at Bradford Elementary, greeted her classes Monday, the first day of school, in costume. She started each period off by reading from the book "The Teacher from the Black Lagoon," which related to her garb. Next to her is Kevin Hager.

TONIGHT

School trustees to adopt budget following hearing

A final study of the 1991-92 budget Tuesday night by Iowa Park's school trustees still gave no hint as to what the tax rate will be this year.

The board met in a called session to discuss the budget.

The reason no consensus was reached? They had no idea what the County Education District (CED) board would set as its rate when that group was to meet Wednesday night.

Iowa Park's board has set its required public hearing on the budget this evening. It is to begin at 7 p.m. in the junior high school library.

Supt. Glen Mitchell is encouraging the board to adopt a tax rate of $1.02 per $100 valuation.

Among the increasing costs involved this year are $68,128 that will be held by the CED under the state-mandated "fund sharing" legislation passed recently.

Additionally, the local district has lost more than $100,000 in anticipated revenues for the 1990-91 year that had been withheld by the state on a "prorated" formula.

That meant, the state was not able to fund the amount of money it had indicated it would send to the IPCSD.

Mitchell said the Burk Burnett district would apparently be benefitted by the $68,128 lost locally to the CED. That is to make up for the "freeport tax" exemptions that district approved for its industries.

"They (Burk Burnett) have one industry that pays them $1-million in taxes, and yet we're having to send them $68,128," Mitchell told the board. "I just don't understand that."

While most discussions of the board in recent weeks have centered around a possible 99-cent rate, Mitchell pointed to the rates of several area districts, as one basis for his proposed $1.02 rate.

He listed: Electra, $1.18; Wichita Falls, $1.13; Bowie, $1.12; Graham and Breckenridge, $1.20; Burk Burnett, $1.12; City View, $1.10; Bridgeport, $1.30; Vernon, $1.05, and Decatur, $1.44.

Criminal mischief down; more arrests reported

The number of criminal mischief complaints received by the Iowa Park Police Dept. were down this week, but there was an increase in arrests.

Only one criminal mischief complaint was received, according to the police blotter. That was a marked reduction for the past three months.

Police made four arrests during the week, however, and assisted another agency on one more.

Angela Ray Wright, 22, was taken into custody Wednesday of last week on a charge of issuing a forged check Aug. 16 at King's Food.

She was taken to the Wichita County jail.

Arrested on a public intoxication charge at 12:44 a.m. Thursday was William Lee Rumisek, 25. He was released at 8:07 a.m., according to the blotter entry.

Officers stopped a vehicle in front of the police station at 2 p.m. Thursday on a traffic check, and arrested James Leonard Lawrence, 35, for having no drivers license.

Lawrence was later released to the custody of his wife.

After investigating a one-vehicle accident Monday afternoon at Bell and West Highway, police arrested James Eugene Lee, 64, on a charge of public intoxication. He was released after a cash bond was posted, according to the blotter.

Officers assisted a Clay County constable in serving an arrest warrant to Oscar Riano, 28, Wednesday evening in the 500 block of North Yosemite.

The lone criminal mischief complaint was by the owner of a vehicle in the 500 block of West Aldine, who said someone had apparently used a key to scratch the paint on the side of his car. The complaint was received Thursday afternoon.

A resident in the 400 block of South Jackson told police Tuesday morning someone had taken $100 from a billfold sometime the preceding evening.

HEADACHES

Headaches are the most frequent reason people seek medical care. Pain from headaches ranges from mild to severe to the daily activities of many patients. Causes of headaches are genetics psychological, neurological, vascular, biomechanical, environmental, etc... One of the most commonly over-looked causes of headache is cervicogenic headache or headache related to the neck. Many headaches are caused by irritation to the nerves that exit the spine in the upper neck. These nerves provide most of the sensation to the back and sides of the head and to the forehead over the eyes. When these upper nerves are irritated, headache radiating from the back of the skull to the temple or over the eyes may result. Irritation of these nerves often caused by whiplash injuries, jobs that require one to hold their neck in a fixed posture for long intervals such as a secretary, assembly worker, telephone operator, dentist and factory workers.

The most appropriate treatment for this type of headache is chiropractic manipulation. There have been many studies done on manipulation as a treatment for cervicogenic headaches with the latest being done by researchers at Maribor General Hospital. A group of 100 patients with these headaches were treated with spinal manipulation. Within three weeks of treatment, 75% had a good reduction in the headaches. When questioned after one year, 25% had had no headaches, and 65% had maintained a good improvement in the number and severity of the headaches. These were exceptional results when it is considered that most of these patients had had their headaches on and off for years.

The more that is learned about headaches, the more apparent two facts become. The first is that many headaches are caused by nerve irritation in the upper neck, and the second is that chiropractic manipulation is an effective treatment for this common problem.

As I See It

By Bob Hamilton

I was telling my wife, Dolores, the other day about how glad I am to have almost a full cord of firewood stacked in the back yard.

My feeling is that we're finally going to have a real winter this season.

Oh, we've had some real cold spells the past couple of years, but not extended bone-chilling, early-fall to late-spring cold weather.

No, I've not been measuring the thickness of the growth on backs of caterpillars or anything like that. Nor have I kept track of any extraordinary thickness of bean pods on mesquite trees. And I certainly haven't seen any flights of ducks heading south as yet.

But when you're a rank amateur at weather predictions, you develop a feel. And you also play the odds.

Oh, you remember I made similar predictions the past two years? No one said we amateurs are correct any more often than the pros in the U.S. Weather Bureau.

Don't get me wrong. I didn't miss not having to wear a jacket but for only one football game last fall. And, as I recall, only twice the football season before that.

But, when you're playing the odds, you only have to recall all those falls in the past when you froze attending football games as early as late October.

And you couldn't get warm until the following May.

Besides the odds, didn't you find it rather unusual to have four days during the second week of August when the temperature didn't get as high as 90°?

And, if you watch the national weather maps, have you been observing the increasing frequency of fronts entering the northwest states?

You can do as you wish, but I'm having my anti-freeze checked, as well as our central heating unit. And I guess I'll even have my two heavy jackets cleaned. I like to be prepared.

I'll stick my neck out and predict a season's weather.

And, if you want to know what the score of the Iowa Park vs. Burkburnett football game will be, it's

Dress code problems

To Whom It May Concern!

I have been attending Iowa Park schools for several years. It seems that every year there is some problem with the school dress codes. The same is true of this year. Some of the problems are stemming from the classification of pant leggings as "underwear". Parents and students spend a great deal of time and money shopping for school clothes. If school clothes cannot be worn to school, much of these resources are wasted. It is often an embarrassment for students to be sent home from school to change clothes. More importantly though, it is an inconvenience for parents to come and get their children at school, especially for parents that work in the daytime. Many of these situations could be avoided if the dress codes were to be printed in the Leader a few weeks before school starts. This would have been especially helpful this year at the high school since students were not allowed to get their schedules and meet their teachers early like they have in years of the past. I would greatly appreciate it if this situation could be amended (sic) in the future so that students and parents will know what is acceptable and what is not before the first day of school.

Sincerely,
Tess Goodwin

Trustees

The superintendent also read from an article in the Dallas Morning News that listed the high rates of affluent districts in the Dallas area.

"Are ya'll looking at all the other school districts in the state and their rates, and not going to give me $1? That doesn't make sense," he stated.

As each of the trustees voiced their individual opinions on what they thought might be an acceptable rate, the majority appeared to be receptive to a rate of $1 or more.

Trustee Wendall House said he felt the rate should be no higher than 99 cents, and Denny McCarthy did not mention a figure.

Sheri Kennedy was the most vocal of the group, stating she felt recommendations of administrators should be given more attention, rather than being cut or lowered each year.

Martha Dudley's comment basically was that needs were not being met and pointed to all other costs rising but local funding for education not meeting the trend.

Among the future needs administrators have been hammering on with the board are additional computers at all levels, and inconsistent replacement of school buses.

Prior to tonight's meeting, a brief reception will be held for trustees to meet and become acquainted with teachers who are new on the faculty this year.

ported to police Wednesday of last week that the youth had run away from home. She remains listed in the records as missing.

Following an altercation Tuesday evening in the 300 block of East Diamond, an assault complaint was filed. Police were continuing their investigation into the incident at presstime before deciding whether charges would be filed in the case.

Sefcik arrested

Ray Sefcik Jr. was arrested here Tuesday on a felony charge of indecency with a child.

He was taken before Justice of the Peace Arthur Bea Williams in Wichita Falls, who set his bond at $3,500. He reportedly was released shortly afterward.

A Wichita County sheriff's deputy served the warrant on Sefcik at the Iowa Park school administration building, but the charge had been filed by the Wichita Falls Police Dept.

Sefcik has been suspended with pay from his employment as a teacher and coach, Supt. Glen Mitchell confirmed yesterday.

A confidential source told the Leader the incident in which Sefcik is charged occurred in Wichita Falls in June, but details were not made available.

MEAN GREEN DEFENDERS CONVERGE ON FLYING HOLLIDAY EAGLE

Holliday scrimmage helps find areas needing work

Friday's scrimmage with Holliday was "...very good for us to find areas we need to work on," Head Coach Lucky Gamble told a group Tuesday.

The Head Hawk and his staff will have an opportunity to determine what improvements in those areas have been made this week, when they travel to Olney Friday for their second pre-season scrimmage.

The junior varsity is to scrimmage the Cubs starting at 6:30 p.m., followed by the varsity scrimmage.

Iowa Park's freshmen are to hold a scrimmage here at 6 this evening with Archer City. Olney does not field a freshman club.

Because the freshman scrimmage will be held on the practice field, and not in Hawk Stadium, fans are encouraged to take lawn chairs.

Speaking Tuesday at the weekly luncheon of the Iowa Park Lions Club, Gamble said fans can expect to see an exciting brand of offensive football this season.

He pointed out that the Hawks are making the transition from the wing T formation which has been the traditional formation of Iowa Park clubs over 20 years, to the veer.

He expects to throw the ball about half the offensive plays the Hawks have the ball.

He explained the veer offense lends itself to an aerial offense, he has an excellent passing quarterback and talented runningbacks and receivers, and also doesn't have size in the line to run over anybody.

Gamble named only one player during his 30-minute delivery: Robert Denton. He rated the senior who started at quarterback last year as possibly the "one who may be a major college prospect."

Unlike last season, this year's varsity is composed entirely of seniors and juniors, thus far. There are 17 seniors and 13 juniors listed on the roster.

Due to a small turnout of seniors, as well as numerous injuries and talented sophomores, at least eight players out of the 10th grade started at one time or another during the 1990 season.

Gamble, like most other coaches who are not forced to pull sophomores up onto the varsity, said he wanted to keep those players together this year for junior varsity play.

"The kids are receptive and responsive to what we do," he said of the changes not only in the offense and defense formations, but also to the five new coaches on the staff.

Only three players, thus far, are being called upon to play both offensively and defensively, indicating the depth of the club.

Gamble pointed out that a player can concentrate more on a special position in order to excel, as well as resting when not on the field.

"That can make a lot of difference in the later stages of a game, and season," he said.

Following Friday's scrimmage, Gamble said, "We had our best workout of the season Monday."

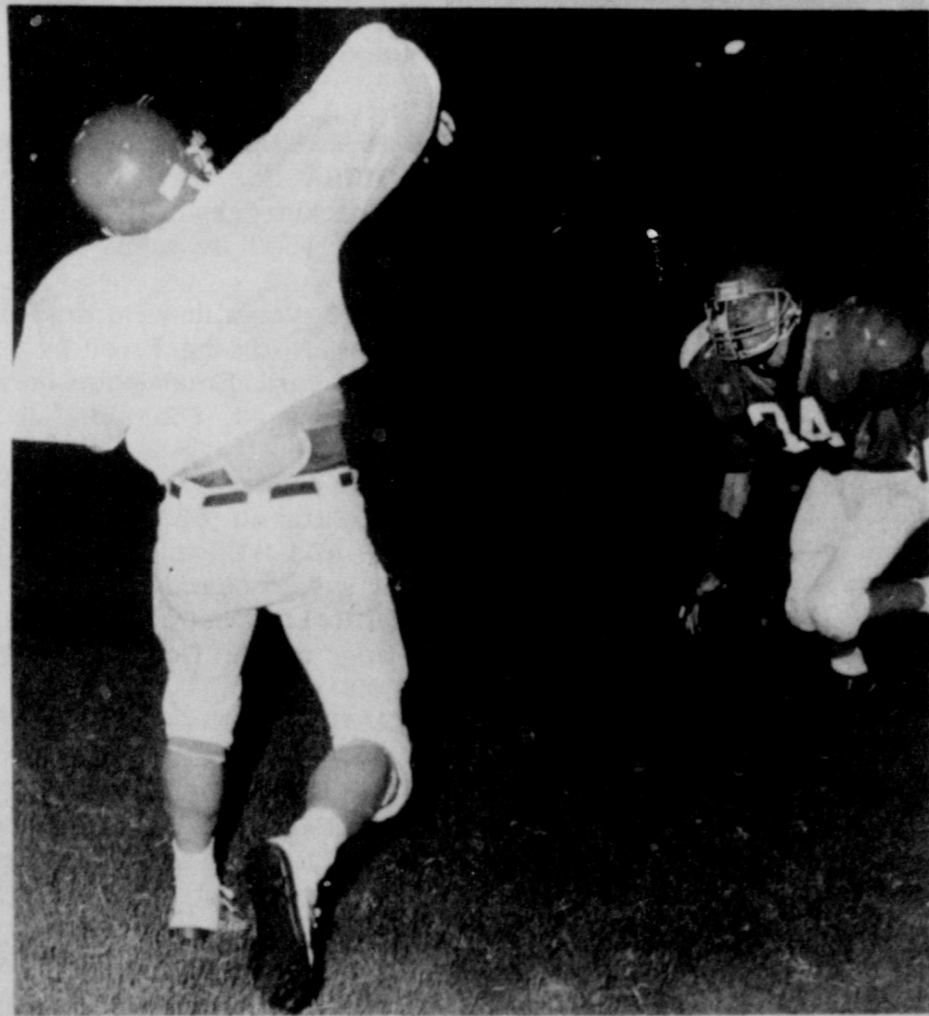

Despite a better-than-expected team of Holliday Eagles, the Hawks outgained their opponents 223-171 on the ground, 172-60 in the air, and 3-1 scoring.

Gamble admitted some disappointment with the number of major penalties the Hawks drew, six. At least four of Holliday's 14 first downs were on those penalties.

With Denton and junior Jason Miller taking turns at quarterback, the pair converted on 10 of 17 pass attempts.

Iowa Park lost possession on two fumbles, while the Eagles coughed up the ball three times.

The coaches also were pleased with the freshman and junior varsity play in their scrimmages.

STATE CAPITAL

HIGHLIGHTS
By Lyndell Williams
TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN - State workers' ardnt hopes for a three percent pay raise next month were dashed last week, when the state's chief revenue estimator said funds for the raise will be unavailable when the new budget year begins Sept. 1.

The Texas Legislature approved a three percent raise for state workers for each of the next two years but made the raise contingent upon Comptroller John Sharp certifying that the money will be available.

Scrambling for Money
Tom Plaut, Sharp's chief revenue estimator, said he and others are scrambling to find enough revenue just to certify the $59.1 billion spending bill without the pay raise.

"We're fresh out of money," Plaut said.

It would cost about $385 million to give workers a three percent raise for the next fiscal year and $584 million to fund the raise for the next two years.

Reacting to the news, spokesmen for employee groups expressed outrage, but pointed their fingers at the Texas Legislature, not at Sharp.

The comptroller does not write the laws and he doesn't pass the taxes," said Lane Zivley, executive director of the Texas Public Employees Association.

Judge Nixes Districts
In a move that could further complicate the current special session, a state district judge ruled last week that recently adopted legislative districts and congressional and board of education districts being mapped by the Texas Legislature are invalid because they are based on inadequate federal census figures.

Judge Mario E. Ramirez Jr. of Edinburg issued a temporary injunction that prevents lawmakers from using 1990 census figures to draw political boundaries. He ordered state officials to develop their own census figures and use them to draw new districts by Sept. 30.

Attorneys for several South Texas residents, who filed a suit against the state because they were not counted in the census, had asked Ramirez to issue the preliminary injunction to force legislators to create new political boundaries. The lawsuit is set for trial Oct. 1.

Attorney General Dan Morales said he will appeal the decision either to the 13th Court of Appeals in Corpus Christi or the Texas Supreme Court. That will stay the court's order while the appeal is pending, Morales said.

House Okays Redistricting
Meanwhile, the House last week narrowly passed a congressional redistricting plan, over the objection of most of its Republican members and a handful of white and black Democrats.

The vote of 74-65 differed only slightly from the 72-63 vote by which the House passed a similar plan Aug. 7, during the first special session. That plan died when the Senate failed to act on it before the 30-day session expired on Aug. 13.

As expected, the plan maintains safe districts for Texas' 27 incumbent congressmen while creating three new districts in the Dallas, Houston and San Antonio areas that are predominately minority residents.

Rep. Tom Uher, D-Bay City, chairman of the House Redistricting Committee, said the preservation of incumbents is necessary to maintain Texas' clout in Congress.

But House Republicans blasted the plan which protects Democrats and ignores population growth in GOP strongholds.

"It looks like the birthmark on Mikhail Gorbachev's scalp," said Rep. Randy Pennington, R-Houston. "Really, this is silly because it's going to the courts."

VOTER REGISTRATION

DO YOU KNOW?
from your Voter Registrar

1. Do most foreign countries have a ratio of 80 to 90 percent of their registered voters voting?
2. Does the Office of the Voter Registrar give tours to school children?
3. Does the Office of the Voter Registrar truly wish you would use them more often than you do?

ANSWERS

1. Yes. Many foreign countries value their freedom of choice and will make sacrifices to vote. For example, some European ballots may be over 40 pages long and have to be completed by hand. In our country, however, we constantly hear about "apathy at the polls." This is a pity because being registered not only allows you to be heard, but it allows you the freedom to choose whether you wish to vote in all elections or just a few. You get no choice at all if you make no effort to register.
2. On more than one occasion, our office has had school children tour the Voter Registrar's office. We tell them to be sure and share what they have learned with their families and to have their parents call us with questions. We are a service department not for the few, but for the entire county.
3. Yes. We feel that more of you would register if you knew how easy it is to use us for the information you deserve in your community. There is just no way that we could list all the things we do for you on your behalf. Hopefully, the preceding weeks of our more frequently asked questions will begin to help. We speak of the peer pressure in the schools, but as adults, we share the same feelings. Why? We don't know the answer and just like our children we are too embarrassed to ask. More importantly, we don't know where to go to ask. Now that you know...REGISTER! More importantly...VOTE!
