Toy Project Needs Community Support

"We want to make it the Muleshoe Community Project," said Starla Ellis, in speaking to the Rotary Club about the EMS Toy Project. "We want to change the name of the project, it's getting to big for the EMS. We would like for all of the clubs and organizations to help. It won't be discontinued if they don't. If each club worked one night, possibly two, in December, no one would have to work every night. Toys may still be dropped off at the EMS office. We need to have a meeting so everything can be explained. Last year the EMS Toy Project provided toys for 60 families (over 200 kids)." The club voted to help with the project.

David Tipps opened the Rotary meeting and Gary Montgomery gave the invocation.

With Barry Cowart at the piano, Terry Hutto led the group in singing "Rotary, My Rotary: and "America".

Tipps presented the Paul Harris Award to Charles Marow for his contribution to the Rotary Foundation. Tipps explained the three Emblems of Appreciation: Certificate, Magdalen, and Pin.

Mark Morton talked to the group about the St. Jude's Wheels For Life Bike-A-Thon. He explained that St. Jude's was started in 1962, by Danny Thomas. St. Jude's is a Cancer Research Center for children 18 years of age or younger. St. Jude's not only provides care for the children, they also help with transportation and lodging.

Montgomery gave his qualifications, stating that he was born in 1941, in Clear Creek and moved to Grand, Texas at the age of one year. His dad died when he was five years old and he hewed and picked cotton. There were three boys and a girl in his family. "I didn't have a strong calling to go into preaching," Montgomery said. "I guess it was my upbringing and training. I began preaching in 1964. I attended Arlington State College and Abilene Christian College."

Montgomery stated that he had been involved in farming and ranching and has a background in radio and television.

"I am proud to be a part of the Muleshoe Rotary Club," Montgomery continued.

Ted Barnhill won the Polio Plus drawing.

Area Riders Needed For Bike-A-Thon

Mark Morton has called on all of the Muleshoe residents to join the St. Jude Children's Research Hospital Wheels for Life slated for October 9 at 9 a.m. at the Muleshoe High School parking lot.

Volunteer workers and riders are needed for this Bike-A-Thon to raise funds for the world famous research center in its battle against childhood cancer and other catastrophic childhood diseases.

"We're looking for riders and helpers who will contribute their time and talent to help children live. We really need lots of riders, since they are the ones who can make this Bike-A-Thon successful," Morton said.

In the Wheels For Life Bike-A-Thon, riders ask sponsors to make a donation based on each mile completed. All riders turning in money will receive a certificate. Those who raise $30 or more will receive a certificate and a special St. Jude T-shirt. When $75 or more is raised, the rider receives a sports bag in addition to the certificate and T-shirt.

In the Muleshoe Bike-A-Thon, the rider age 13 or under who completes the most miles will receive a new bike donated by Fry & Cox and First Bank of Muleshoe. The rider age 13 or under who turns in the most money will receive a Stereo-Cassette-Radio-CD player donated by Gordon Wilson Appliance and Muleshoe State Bank.

"The real prize, though, is the pride everyone can take in giving children a chance to live a normal life," Morton said.

Contact Mark Morton at St. Farm Insurance 272-7519 or Mark Liz Tipps at 272-5898.

American Heart Association Announces New Kids' Cookbook

There is general agreement that establishing healthy eating habits early in life may help prevent the development of heart disease and stroke later in life," says Elizabeth Watson, president of the American Heart Association, Bailey Co. Division. "This book helps children prepare healthy foods and offers parents information about healthy eating for children."

The cookbook contains more than 30 recipes representing many types of foods, from soups to desserts, with special attention to microwavable snack foods and party foods. The recipes emphasize substitution and modification, rather than elimination of children's favorites. Some recipes are designed for beginning cooks, and all are simple enough for most children ages 8-12. The book features full-color original art; easy-to-read instructions; kids' favorite recipes; and skill level designations.

"Many of the recipes in this cookbook are children's favorites," Watson said. These include pizza, chili, pasta, cookies, family fare items and snacks, too. There are even some new recipes that may become family favorites."

The "American Heart Association Kids' Cookbook" makes healthy cooking fun for the entire family. The book includes information on shopping, reading labels, substitution tables, menu planning, table setting and kitchen rules on clean-up, and personal safety. "Did You Know" sections explain the ethnic background of foods such as pita bread; "Cook's Note" sections explain how to cut onions without getting teary-eyed, and other valuable hints.

"This cookbook's recipes--all of them kid-tested and kid approved--represent another example of how the AHA develops meaningful educational information in a useful way to help American reduce their risk of cardiovascular diseases and stroke, America's No. 1 cause of death," says Watson.

"The American Heart Association Kids' Cookbook" joins the growing list of AHA nutrition/cookbooks. These publications include the "American Heart Association Cookbook, Fifth Edition," the "American Heart Association Fat and Cholesterol Counter," and the "American Heart Association Low Salt Cookbook" for persons suffering from high blood pressure and requiring a sodium-restricted diet; and the "American Heart Association Low-Fat, Low-Cholesterol Cookbook" for persons requiring fat and cholesterol in their diet. All titles are published by Times Books. These books are available in local bookstores or can be ordered direct from Times Books/Random House by calling toll free 1-800-733-3000.

The American Heart Association, one of the public's leading sources for health information is committed to reducing disability and death from cardiovascular diseases including stroke. A non-profit, voluntary health agency, the AHA spent more than $232 million last year on scientific research, public and professional education and community programs to fulfill its mission.

Wedding Shower Honors Kristi Campbell and Michael Fuqua

The home of Georgette and Charles Issac was the setting for a wedding shower, held Saturday, September 18, 1993 honoring Kristi Campbell and Michael Fuqua.

Guests were greeted by Kristi and Michael, Lynn and Tim Campbell and Georgette and Charles Issac. Special guests included Kristi's aunt and uncle, Tim and Tommie Hatch; her cousins, Alan and Jennie Hatch, and Les and Mindy Hatch; her brother and sister-in-law, Scott and Tricia Campbell; her sister, Stacey Franklin; and her grandparents, Don and Millie May.

A colorful centerpiece of mixed flowers adorned the table from which hostesses served hor d'oeuvres of tortilla rollups, green chile cheese squares, cheese and avocado dips and chips. The hosts and hostesses gift to the couple was a baker's rack.

Kristi is the daughter of Tim and Lynn Campbell of Muleshoe. Business Administration. Michael presently is a consultant for Akzo n.a. in Atlanta, Georgia. The couple will make their home in Atlanta, Georgia after their wedding on November 6.

FAITHFUL NURSING HOME VISITOR-Glenda Jennings has faithfully been coming to the Healthcare Center on Wednesday afternoons to lead a Sing-A-Long and to tell stories of which she has talent for both, for 18 years. (She also helps with memorial services and parties.) Glenda said she started her nursing home ministry when her church, the Methodist Church in Lazbuddie, came as a group. Although many changes have taken place, Glenda remains coming to brighten the day of the residents. She says she will continue to come if there is only one person to come and listen. Glenda's volunteer work is from the heart, not to receive glory or praise for herself.

Even a new broom won't sweep clean unless someone uses it.

Explanation of Conversion from County Education District Taxes

County Education Districts have been abolished. In order to compare school tax rates from last year to this year, it is necessary to compare the combined school tax rate below to the school district's proposed tax rate for this year.

Last year the Three Way Independent School District's tax rate was 0.6020.

Last year the Bailey-Cochran County Education District's tax rate was 0.7400.

The combined School District and County Education District tax rate was 1.3420

The proposed tax rate for Three Way Independent School District for this year is 1.3400.

*The 1991 and 1992 C.E.D. taxes are still due and payable at the Bailey County Appraisal District Office.

This notice is required by the Texas Legislature.

*The percentage increase shown in the first paragraph below may appear unusually high because it does not reflect 1992 taxes levied by the now-abolished county education district (CED). In 1992, the CED levied a portion of the taxes used for school purposes, and the school district levied the remainder of school taxes. In 1993, school districts will levy all school taxes. For an explanation of the increase, attend the public hearing scheduled below or call your school district.

Notice of Public Hearing on Tax Increase

The Three Way I.S.D. will hold a public hearing on a proposal to increase total tax revenues from properties on the tax roll in 1992 by 120.17 percent. Your individual taxes may increase at a greater or lesser rate, or even decrease, depending on the change in the taxable value of your property in relation to the change in taxable value of all other property.

The public hearing will be held on October 5, 1993 at 8:00a.m. at Three Way I.S.D., Maple, TX

FOR the proposal: Robert Kindle, Jr., Jack Lane, Terry Pollard, Mickey Sowder, James Kindle
AGAINST the proposal: none
PRESENT and not voting: none
ABSENT: Jack Reeves

The statement above shows the percentage increase the proposed rate represents over the effective tax rate that the unit published on September 5, 1993. The following table compares taxes on an average home in this taxing unit last year to taxes proposed on the average home this year. Again, your individual taxes may be higher or lower, depending on the taxable value of your property.

	(Optional) Last Year County Education District	Last Year School District	This Year School District
Average home value	$ 40,000	$ 40,000	$ 40,000
General exemptions available (amount available on the average home, not including senior citizen's or disabled person's exemptions)	$ 13,000	$ 5,000	$ 5,000
Average taxable value	$ 27,000	$ 35,000	$ 35,000
Tax rate	$ 0.7400/$100	0.6020/$100	1.3400/$100 (proposed)
Tax	$ 199.80	$ 210.70	$ 469.00 (proposed)
(Optional) Total 1992 School Taxes	$ 410.50	(Optional) Total 1993 School Taxes	$ 469.00 (proposed)

[School districts publishing optional information must publish the following:]

This paragraph compares last year's CED and school district taxes with this year's proposed school district taxes:

Under this proposal taxes on the average home would increase by $ 58.50 or 14.2509 percent compared with last year's total school taxes. Comparing tax rates without adjusting for changes in property value, the tax rate would decrease by $ 0.0020 per $100 of taxable value or 0.1490 percent compared to last year's total school tax rate. These tax rate figures are not adjusted for changes in the taxable value of property.

[All school districts must publish the following:]

This paragraph compares last year's school district tax with this year's proposed school district taxes:

Under this proposal taxes on the average home would increase by $ 258.30 or 122.5913 percent compared with last year's school district taxes. Comparing tax rates without adjusting for changes in property value, the school district tax rate would increase by $ 0.7380 per $100 of taxable value or 122.5913 percent compared to last year's school district tax rate. These tax rate figures are not adjusted for changes in the taxable value of property.

or older. However, 20 percent of prostate cancer cases occur in men under age 65.

What Are The Symptoms of Prostate Cancer?

- Difficulty in urination
- Poor flow of urine
- Frequent urination, especially at night.
- Pain or burning sensation when urinating or ejaculating
- Blood or puss in urine or semen
- Hip or back pain

It is important not to wait until you develop any of these symptoms before being tested for prostate cancer. A digital rectal exam (DRE) and a prostate specific antigen blood test (PSA) should be included in yearly physicals for all men over 50.

What Causes Prostate Cancer?

There is little known cause for the disease, but the following are predisposing factors:

- High fat diet
- Heredity
- Male sex hormones
- Viral and sexual factors
- Environmental toxins

What Treatments Are Available?

Both radiation and surgery offer an excellent chance for cure if the disease is detected early. The type of treatment depends on the stage of the cancer. There are three types of treatments:

- Surgery (radial prostatectomy)
- Radiation
- Drug or hormonal therapy

There are some side effects to all treatments. Some common ones are impotence and incontinence. Early detection and new technologies help to lessen these side effects. The best way to protect yourself from getting prostate cancer is through early detection. A yearly physical with a DRE and PSA is your best defense.

Methodist Hospital gives a free prostate cancer screening yearly. The fourth annual screening will be held from Tuesday, Sept. 21 to Friday, Sept. 24, and Monday, Sept. 27. The times of the screening will be from 7 a.m. to 11:30 a.m. and will be held at the Hodges Cancer center of Methodist Hospital. Appointments must be called in on Monday, Sept. 20. For more information about the screening, call 793-4199.

It Happened at Church

The year was 740 B.C., the year that King Uzziah of Judah died. That doesn't mean a great deal to most of us, but it meant a lot to the people of Judah. Uzziah's death was an event they would remember just as many of us can remember the day and even what we were doing when President John F. Kennedy was killed. King Uzziah had ruled Judah well for over fifty years. He was the only king several generations had known. His death was significant.

Focus On Faith
 Curtis Shelburne

Without the perspective of years, it is often hard to know what events on the world scene will have lasting impact. Uzziah's death was important, but looking back we know now that something even more important happened that same year--the call of one of the greatest prophets of God, Isaiah.

"In the year that King Uzziah died," Isaiah begins his sixth chapter, "I saw the Lord seated on a throne, high and exalted, and the train of his robe filled the temple." As he continues, we learn that not only did he see God in his vision, he saw his own sinfulness, received forgiveness, and was commissioned to begin his prophetic work. And it all happened one day while Isaiah was in the temple, "at church," worshipping his God.

In these powerful verses, we see Isaiah's emotions running the whole gamut from wonder to fear to deep joy to praise and thanksgiving. One thing we don't see is boredom.

Like worshipers in all ages, even Isaiah at times must have gone to the temple and found worship to be lackluster. The great prophet must have gone to worship many other days of his life and experienced nothing even nearly as exciting as what took place on that one special day. Be that as it may, on this day he saw God, and that vision changed the way he saw everything else from that day forward.

Our worship today certainly can become commonplace, sometimes long and dull, sometimes boring. But perhaps we need to remember that even on the days when worship seems dry to us, someone else in the assembly may, in a way that will change the rest of his life, be seeing God.

Curtis Shelburne is the minister of the 16th and Ave. D. Church of Christ in Muleshoe.

News From Methodist Hospital

An injury to your jaw means you'll be sipping your supper through a straw and talking through clenched teeth, right?

Wrong. A new technique to repair jaw injuries or correct deformities being routinely performed at The Methodist Hospital in Houston keeps patients from "Getting Wired".

Rigid Fixation is a precise procedure that requires no wires to repair the jaw. Instead, doctors use small bone plates held with miniature screws to set the jaw in place.

"This is the next step between wiring the jaw and using a viable bone cement to set it," says Dr. John Helfrick, chairman of the Department of Oral and Maxillofacial Surgery at Methodist.

Helfrick says rigid fixation improves dental function and jaw relationships and actually helps maintain a clear airway following surgery. "Keeping the airway clear enhances speech and limits the potential for breathing difficulties and other problems," says Helfrick.

Patients usually go home from the hospital in a day or two following surgery and can usually expect to return to their normal work or school schedule in a week to ten days. "This is a tremendous improvement over the six to eight weeks patients would need to recover if their teeth were wired together," says Helfrick.

Unlike steel wiring, bone plates allow patients to move the jaw which helps the bones heal more rapidly and doesn't limit their diet to liquids. The patient can enjoy more appetizing "soft foods" like scrambled eggs, mashed potatoes, applesauce, and of course, ice cream.

"Overall, the use of bone plates is safer, less costly and more flexible than steel wiring," says Helfrick.

If you are interested in learning more about rigid fixation, you may call the Methodist Hospital Department of Oral Maxillofacial Surgery

Tatiana Vorobyov, Russian mother (Moscow):

"We want our child to have a good education, to be well-fed and well-clothed...we can't afford that now. We don't see any progress in our country."

Breakfast Should Be No. 1

You've heard it before--and it's true. Breakfast is the most important meal of the day, especially for children.

Breakfast supplies one quarter to one half of the recommended daily allowance of vitamins and minerals. If you skip breakfast, it's hard to catch up, said Janice Stuff, a nutritionist at the USDA's Children's Nutrition Research Center at Baylor College of Medicine in Houston.

"Breakfast gives children an energy boost, improving their behavior, attitude and physical and mental performance," Stuff said.

For children who may not like traditional breakfast fare, Stuff suggests peanut butter sandwiches, yogurt and toast with jelly, fresh fruit and cottage cheese and crackers, soup, popcorn or leftovers.

An ill deed cannot bring honor. -George Herbert.

Texas Farmer Stockman Show Boasts Appeal For City Dwellers

by Joe Bryant, Extension Communications Specialist

It's billed as the Southwest's own "working" farm show, but it promises to be an extravaganza which will delight urban dwellers as well as crop and livestock producers.

The 800-acre Texas Farmer Stockman Show here October 12-14 will include an "Info Plaza" with two-and-a-half acres of exhibits and hands-on presentations for families of all backgrounds, another 50 acres of commercial agricultural exhibits and scores of live demonstrations on soil and water conservation, crop production and harvesting, and production of livestock to meet the demands of today's consumers.

The show will be at the City of Lubbock farm, just east of Loop 289 on Farm Road 835 (East 50th Street). Show hours will be from 7:30 a.m. until 5 p.m. Adult admission is $3. Persons under age 18 will be admitted free.

More than just an equipment display, the show will feature daily demonstrations of the newest farm equipment actually harvesting crops of cotton, grain sorghum and corn. There also will be field demonstrations of alternative energy sources such as wind and sun, drought and heat tolerant plants and grasses for lawns and pastures, differences in area soils, and development of habitat for wildlife.

The "Info Plaza" will have seven large tents of displays and exhibits on quality of life, family health and well-being, water quality and conservation, agricultural competitiveness, modern livestock production and information about area universities and agencies which serve urban residents as well as farm families.

In the tent with health and life quality as its theme, visitors will find information and individualized help on such topics as care of dependents, good nutrition and diet, proper food handling and safety, child safety, literacy programs and family finances.

One of these displays is "Figuring Your Finances", by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. At this booth, family management specialists will use computer programs to help visitors analyze their family income and spending patterns, estimate how much they must save for a child's future college education, or determine the benefits and costs of a spouse taking a second job. Each visitor participating will receive printouts tailored to their personal situation.

The Soil Conservation Service, one of the "Info Plaza" exhibitors, will have more than a dozen displays ranging from environmental concerns in agriculture, conservation and development of our resources, and irrigation water management to urban water conservation and an "Earth Team Volunteer" program for all citizens.

Displays in the Agriculture Profitability tent will showcase such things as work to combat wind erosion, ways to operate tractors more efficiently, work to develop better crops for the area, and profitable specialty crops. It also will focus on ways to add value to local products, with exhibits on the grape and wine industry, textile processing and a potential leather industry.

In addition to the Extension Service and SCS, other "Information Plaza" exhibitors include the Texas A&M University, Texas Tech University, West Texas A&M University, Texas Agricultural Experiment Station, High Plains Underground Water Conservation District No. 1, and High Plains Research Foundation.

Also Texas Forest Service, Texas 4-H, Texas State Soil and Water Conservation Board, Texas Water Development Board, Texas Young

Farmers Association, TTU Center for Agricultural Technology Transfer, TTU Textile Research Center, American Cancer Society, Science Spectrum, Volunteer Center of Lubbock, West Texas A&M School of Nursing, Texas Tech Health Sciences Center, USDA-Agricultural Research Service and Texas Parks and Wildlife Department.

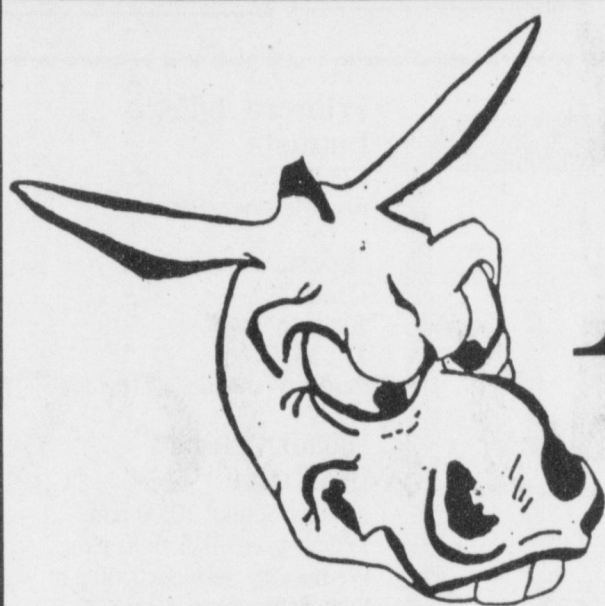

No man can justly aspire to honor but at the hazard of disgrace.

Corbin On BATF
President Robert Corbin of the National Rifle Association has posed disturbing questions about the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms--and it's initial raid on a religious compound at Waco, Texas.
Why, he asks, did a BATF spokesman first say the raid had been tipped by an informant? Later, it was learned the bureau itself alerted television news crews beforehand and brought them along on the raid.
Why, he asks, did the FBI, in charge of the final assault, attack the compound on a Sunday when everyone was sure to be there, instead of a weekday, when many adults and children were away at work or in school?

These and other disturbing questions strongly indicate a major government cover-up, especially since both Senate and House Judiciary committee chairmen now say they won't hold hearings on the massacre, after all. This, with the Justice Department decision not to investigate the decision to make the Final Solution attack that Sunday, is gross and transparent stonewalling.

BETTER BUSINESS BUREAU REPORT

The National Highway Traffic Safety Administration is warning consumers against using WARCO Hi-Performance Brake Fluid because recent test indicate that the product does not meet minimum federal auto safety standards. If a substantial amount of WARCO fluid has been added already, the system should be drained, flushed and refilled with another brand. The WARCO brake fluid exceeds the maximum evaporation rate allowed by the standard, and can also cause rubber components in the brake system to swell which could cause brake failure, according to tests conducted by the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration. In the vast majority of cases, products which do not meet federal standards are recalled by their manufacturer. In this case, the manufacturer of WARCO, Warwick Laboratories Co., Inc. of New Jersey, has gone out of business, so no recall can be conducted. If you have any questions, please call us at 763-0459.

Home remodeling has grown into a $104 billion-a-year business and also happens to be one of the top 10 sources of customer complaints nationwide. When you are thinking about doing a home remodeling project, get at least three bids. You can check the reputability of the contractors through the BBB or the West Texas Home Builders Association or the Remodeler's Council. Ask for references - find out about his work habits - does he show up on time; does he have enough people on the job; does he return phone calls quickly; if his projects look shoddy, take the hint. Ask for all terms of the contract to be written down and you keep a copy as well as the contractor. Most legitimate contractors will not be afraid for you to have a written contract - if he breaks out in hives at the mention of one, you might want to check out another one. If you wish to check them out, call our office at 763-0459.

HEALTH NEWS

Although most fast-food restaurants offer healthier menu choices and provide nutritional information, eating healthy at not-so-fast restaurants is not always easy.

"Selection, preparation and portions are the three main options to remember when ordering at a restaurant," said Sandra Feldman, R.D., dietitian at Methodist Hospital. According to Feldman, you should select foods lower in fat, such as those made with chicken or fish, but always be aware of how these foods are prepared. Broiled or grilled foods are lower in fat than those that are fried. High-fat items to avoid are usually described as prime, parmigiana, stuffed, fried, alfredo, au gratin or creamed. Food items that are dry-boiled or steamed are lowest in fat. Another way to keep your restaurant meal healthy is to plan your portions. Some restaurants offer smaller portions for adults, or you can ask for a lunch portion at dinner.

If criteria is available, there are some hints to help you make the healthiest menu choice. Menu items should contain:
*No more than 500-700 calories
* No more than 20 grams of fat
* No more than 100 milligrams of cholesterol
*No more than 800 milligrams of sodium

A REASON FOR EVERYTHING

The giraffe was given a very long neck and legs so that he could feed on the leafy part of trees. The giraffe is the only animal that can not make a sound. We do not know the reason for this. God has revealed many things to us, but not all things. Men delve deeply into theology and find many things that cannot be answered, but God has given us the answer to all things pertinent to our salvation.
Attend church, study God's word and grow in faith.

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

News From Congressman Larry Combest

In the Chamber of the U.S. House of Representatives, wall panels light up each congressman's name with either a red "no" vote, a green "yes" vote or as yellow "present, not voting" during a roll call vote on legislation. On another panel, the running tally is summarized with the number of votes "yea," "nay," or "present." Most often, the votes split along philosophical lines. However, viewers at home watching the tally on public affairs cable channel C-SPAN, instead get a view of the vote totals divided up among party lines. In fact, that display for home viewers is actually taken closed-circuit from the screen that the party leaders use for counting votes.

Much was made of partisanship in the debate over the Clinton budget. Actually though, there was a coalition of fiscal conservatives who opposed the plan: 41 Democrats joined the 175 Republicans in the House to vote "no." In the narrow 50 to 50 Senate vote, six conservative Democrats joined the 44 Senate Republicans in opposition before Vice President Gore cast the tie-breaking vote.

This fall, much will be made about a seemingly new-found non-partisanship on upcoming legislation such as: the North American Free Trade Agreement (NAFTA), anti-crime legislation and (eventually, once it is introduced) health care reform. Regional concerns will affect NAFTA; crime will be debated on grounds of endless death penalty appeals and gun control; while health care reform must take into account the burden on employers to supply insurance.

Those who narrowly supported the president's budget do not favor his views on those matters, and the president knows he must now include Republicans in his discussions. For those reasons, the president's new approach will probably be cast as non-partisan.

However, the true difference will be the difference in subject matter.

As I have stated often, I keep in mind my West Texas constituents and whether a piece of legislation is good for the nation. I opposed the 1986 tax legislation in the Reagan Administration because I was skeptical of Congress giving Reagan the budget cuts it had promised. Likewise, I opposed the disastrous 1990 so-called budget deal between President Bush and Congress.

Right out of the starting blocks, Bill Clinton proposed lifting the ban on homosexuals in the military, a spending plan disguised as an "economic stimulus," the Btu tax, and the tax-and-spend budget plan that fails to cut spending first. On the second leg of the legislative race this fall, the president might consider running at a different pace--instead of running in a direction away from a conservative point of view.

Bill Clinton, president:
"We think most people will pay less for health care under our new program."
