AUTO DEALERSHIPS: One for sale, other is sold

Iowa Park has two automobile dealerships. One is for sale and the other is the process of changing ownership.

Leon Stevenson confirmed last week he had sold his stock in Park Ford to Ford Motor Co., and is in the process of attempting to purchase a dealership in East Texas.

Stevenson told his employees Monday, Sept. 17, of his actions and said the repair shop and parts department would be shut down effective the end of this month.

Sales of new and used vehicles in inventory, as well as those ordered but not yet received, will continue "for several months" or until completely cleared.

Herb Easley, Nisson dealer in Wichita Falls, told the Leader Wednesday he would close his deal to purchase Bob Ritchie Chevrolet in mid October.

The purchase would include the 16-acre tract of land now used for sales on US 287, he said.

With the closing of the repair department at Park Ford, all service will be picked up by dealers in Burkburnett and Wichtia Falls, Stevenson said.

Stevenson, the first black businessman in Iowa Park's history, purchased the Ford dealership in July of 1986 from Luther Shaw.

Shaw opened his dealership in 1955, and was the first Ford dealer in Iowa Park.

Shaw leased the building and grounds to Stevenson when he sold, and the current lease extends until September 1991. Stevenson said Ford would honor the lease period.

Stevenson would not say where the dealership is located that he is attempting to purchase, but rumors are common around the community that it is in Henderson.

After giving his shop and parts employees a two-week notice, some personnel indicated they wanted to make the move with Stevenson, he said. One who confirmed he would go with him is sales manager Mike McClure.

Stevenson said he intends to stay company, Stevenson explained.

"until the (inventory) is sold out or until my deal comes through (in East Texas); at least until the close of '90."

He predicted he would "still be here several months."

Stevenson said Ford intends to close the dealership here, unless it is sold.

Easley confirmed Wednesday that he also was talking with Ford about the possibility of also purchasing that dealership.

He said, however, his offer was dependent upon Ford's approval that the dealership would also be located on his property he is acquiring from Ritchie.

Ritchie moved his sales area to the highway location, but has continued to lease the repair shop and business office on Yosemite.

Easley said he plans to build a sales, service and office building on the highway property.

Inventory of parts, tools and other equipment will go with the sale of the Ford dealership, or be liquidated by the MAYOR WAYNE HOUSE DISCUSSES NEEDS TO FINISH NEW RAC BUILDING ... during Monday's tour of new facility by council and RAC board members.

RAC, streets, parks top council subjects

Dominating Monday's meeting of the city council were the Recreational Activities Center, streets and parks.

Aldermen decided to fund a partial completion of the new RAC building, recommended changes in ordinances concerning streets, and seek educated recommendations on improvements to be made to the city's 10 parks.

Prior to the meeting, a 30-minute tour of the new RAC structure located between Third and Fourth Streets was One estimate made by a contractor was for $149,072, with an additional $147,700 for the parking lot. But many in the room scoffed at the figures.

Opinions during the discussion on the building ranged from leaving the structure as it is, to completely finishing it.

The decision to do additional work on the building was not unanimous among council members. Aldermen Diane Robnett, Johnny Coker and Virgil

However, aldermen agreed to seek the educated planning for development from departments specializing in that type of work, such as Texas Tech Univ., the University of Texas at Austin, and Texas A&M Univ.

Tech already has responded with information that its fee would be $500 plus expenses, the council was told.

Establishing priorities of which parks will receive attention was tabled until the next council meeting, while

Hawks continue search for first win of season

Except for the fact that the Clyde Bulldogs have won one of their three games this season, they look a lot like the Hawks, on paper.

Iowa Park makes its first appearance against the Bulldogs at 8 Friday evening, at Clyde.

The Bulldogs lost most of their regulars, who were 10-2 last year, and start only three seniors offensively and defensively.

Size-wise, the two teams appear to be about the same, also.

Where the two possibly differ the most might be in their current offensive philosophies. Clyde's passing game is almost non-existent, and goes almost exclusively with the run.

offensive plays have been passes, 57 of 164, and have accounted for 263 of their 528 total yards gained.

Hawk fans who will be driving Friday to Clyde to see the Hawk-Bulldog game should exit off Interstate 20 at the Cherry Lane Exit.

the ball for 281 yards thus far.

Leading Bulldog rusher, however, is junior tailback Jeff Roberts, a speedy 156-pounder who has gained 292 yards.

Fullback Johnny Duggins is atop the list of Hawk carriers, averaging 4.1 yards on each of his 38 carries. He has gained 158 yards.

Clyde defeated Stamford 25-14 in the season opener, and then was shut out 40-0 by Snyder, now coached by former Head Hawk David Baugh.

In their 15-14 loss last week to San Angelo Lakeview, the Bulldogs were leading by a touchdown, and had a first down on the Indian one-yard line, and failed to score.

Late in the game, Clyde fumbled away the ball on its own five yard line, and Lakeview, which finished with only 15 yards rushing, scored and won.

Clyde had almost 300 yards rushing in that loss.

The Hawks will still be seeking their first win of the 1990 season. They've had opportunities to win all three games, but lost: 15-3 to Burkburnett; 29-21 to Abilene Wylie, and 27-15 to Decatur.

made along with members of the RAC board of directors.

The structure's construction, funded by the city thus far, includes a metal building, and unpainted partitions for the restrooms and office areas. The restrooms also are partially furnished. with one commode and lavatory each.

The outcome of the discussion on what more the city might do toward the structure's completion was that the city will fund purchase and installation of heating and air conditioning, electrical service and lights.

The city will act as the general contractor for the work to be done.

Representatives of the RAC said they would solicit support from local residents, businesses and organizations to gradually complete the interior.

Woodfin voted for the action, while Johnny Crawford and Charlie Helms voted against it.

Crawford had proposed any further costs to the city for the building be put into a bond issue, along with pending improvements on the sewer and water treatment plants, and put before the voters.

Council members approved an application to the state for a grant to develop Hammonds Park at Lake Iowa Park.

While Hammonds Park would be the first priority for parks improvement, it likely will take a year for approval of the grant and the required study to be made.

Work during this coming year will be centered on improving Oscar Park. which is at Gordon Lake.

members have an opportunity to visit each.

City Administrator James Barrington was instructed to have proposals for changes which could be made to the city's ordinances concerning streets.

One change would include written definitions of street surfacing, as well as defining the difference between new street construction and repairs made.

While Alderman Helms said he would like to see the street ordinances thrown out, Mayor Wayne House said he would like to see one section dropped. That portion refers to "streets opened before 1985."

The council recognized David Collins as the Employee of the Month, and also approved travel expenses to a Texas Municipal League seminar for the mayor and administrators.

Thefts numerous this week

Five thefts, one burglary and three arrests dominated activities listed during the week on the Iowa Park Police Department's blotter.

Officers, directors elected at annual membership meeting

Teacher's work to be published

A new slate of officers and five board members were elected at the annual membership meeting of the Iowa Park Recreational Activity Center Tuesday evening.

New officers and board members include: Billy Gilmore, president; Ron Barnes, vice president; Dolores Hamilton, secretary; Phil Johnson, treasurer, and new board members Mike Grubbs, Carolyn McCullough, Gail McIlroy, Jerry Thurlo and Maryann Crowley.

Alyce Bondurant, Tim Hunter, Bud Burch and Ray Copening were chosen to serve on the newly-formed advisory board.

In giving the financial report, Maryann Crowley pointed out that United Way funding covers 60 percent of the expenses, with the RAC making up the difference by charging membership fees, class fees, building rental, and having fund-raisers.

The total revenue for the past year was $27,099, with expenses totaling $22,924.

Director Pat Raby, reporting on the status of the new building, said that the city council had voted to have heating, cooling, electricity and lighting installed in the new building, and it should be ready for occupancy around the first of the year. Further improvements on the structure would be made through the efforts of members and community participation.

In giving the director's report, Raby said that 4,310 people have received services at the Iowa Park RAC in 1989.

Activities includeseasonal parties and craft activities for children ages 2-14, summer activites for children ages 4-15, a volleyball league with 16-20 teams, gymnastic classes, clogging classes, bridge club, Optimist Club meetings and Girl Scout meetings. In addition, the RAC is used for reunions and private parties throughout the year.

Future events include a float in the homecoming parade, booth at Whoop-T-Do, Halloween party and haunted house, RAC Craft Show, and the Christmas Tour of Homes.

Dee Decker, vice president, presided over the business portion of the meeting.

Mrs. Claude Boles

The recipes this week are favorites of the family of Glenda (Mrs. Claude) Boles. She said that even her husband, who doesn't care for Oriental food, likes "Stir-Fry Sweet & Sour Chicken," and the "Split Pea Soup" is great during cold weather.

Glenda, a graduate of W.F. George High School, moved here with her family in 1958. She met her husband, Claude, while he was stationed at Sheppard Air Force Base.

They moved around some after their marriage, then moved back to Iowa Park in 1971.

Claude is a design draftsman at Tranter Inc. of Texas in Wichita Falls. He is an avid golfer, rides in the Hotter 'n Hell Bicycle Race, and back packs in the Colorado mountains every year.

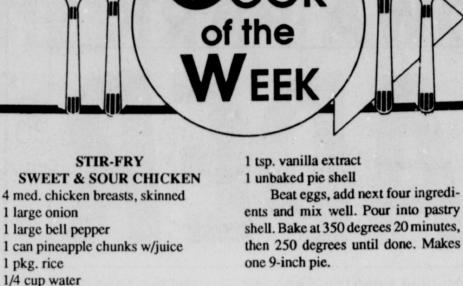

Glenda said she used to enjoy going to the mountains with her husband, but can't any more because of a back injury.

Instead, she enjoys shirt painting, ceramics, making Indian jewelry, oil painting and sewing, all crafts in which she is quite talented.

Glenda has worked at various jobs over the years, but recently she completed training to become a nail technician and is working at Bangs & Thangs, a beauty shop owned by her sister, Joan Hankins. She said this is something that she has always wanted to do, and is thoroughly enjoying her work.

Glenda and Claude have two 3 eggs daughters, Tana and Debbie, who live in Wichita Falls, and four grandchildren.

Members of the Texas legislature threw up their hands after State District Judge Scott McCowan ruled their school reform bill unconstitutional, and started predicting marathon sessions to meet the court's criteria.

The Austin judge, to no one's surprise Wednesday, ruled that "reform" package that took three special legislative sessions to develop, did not meet his criteria to be constitutional.

This small-town editor with no training in law, especially constitutional law, has a very simple solution.

All the legislature has to do is to require equal funding, from the state, on a per-pupil base, and pay a certain amount for each mile a school bus is driven.

Now that's equal.

My point is this: if my neighbor has more money than I, that is not a violation of the constitution; if he spends his own money to build a carport onto his house, and it does not cost me money, that is constitutional.

There's nothing in the constitution that says each school district must have the same value for taxation, nor is there anything in there that prohibits the

And, while Judge McCowan is making judgements on constitutionality, I'd like him to show me where it states in the Texas constitution that he has the authority to take over the state public school financing, if the legislature fails to come up with a program he likes.

It's just flat not there, folks. There

To say the residents of a school district do not have the right to spend as their locally-elected school trustees decide can lead to some ridiculous conclusions.

We might find a judge who decides that if all students can't ride to campus in a 1990 pickup, then none of them can, because it does not afford "an equal opportunity" for an education.

Those of us who have been plead-

He knows what it's like to meet a payroll. He knows what it's like to pay taxes. He knows what it's like to pay insurance premiums. He's been there and he knows the problems faced by business owners. His current business involvements include: owner and commodity broker with Washita Investments; co-owner of Woodlands Millwork, a firm near Houston that imports viola wood and manufactures molding for cabinets; owner of oil and gas well production interests in six counties; co-owner of a race horse boarding farm in Kentucky; owner of a restaurant near the campus of Texas A&M University; and owner of a ranch near Canadian. He is former owner of Canadian Feedyards and is a past president of the Texas Cattle Feeders Association. Waterfield has some good ideas about ways to reduce government intervention in business, ways to expand opportunities for business growth, ways to cut government spending, ways to reduce the federal deficit and ways to fight the war on drugs. Waterfield has served two terms in the Texas House of Representatives, and he has served on the city council and school board at Canadian. He's a member of the United Methodist Church, the Lions Club and the Masonic Lodge. He and his wife, Gail, have been married 29 years and they have two children.

Another admirable trait of Waterfield, his wife and their campaign team is that they don't have much to say about his opponent in the race for the 13th Congressional District. At a time when mudslinging is the popular modus operandi for many political candidates, the Waterfield camp takes a refreshing route by concentrating on Waterfield.

Allergy causes vary greatly

First it's tree pollen. Then grass pollen. Then ragweed.

What it all adds up to is sneezing, itching and congestion for a lot of people. And, in temperate climates, people can experience allergyirritating substances almost yeararound.

In a temperate area, Huston said, tree pollens start heavily in March and are succeeded in the coming months by a series of other pollens. January and February can be relatively irritant-free for many areas.

According to Huston, people who suffer from seasonal allergies are not helped by the air pollution that plagues metropolitan areas.

Another group of people who suffer from allergies linked to temperate climate are those afflicted with perennial allergies.

"These are the people allergic to things which, unlike a specific pollen, are present in their environments year-round," Huston said.

Topping this list of irritants are pets, dust-borne contaminants and molds.

Many people are allergic to the dander of animals they keep in their homes, Huston said.

Others have what is commonly called a dust allergy but is in fact a reaction to contaminants found in dust. Roaches and mites contribute heavily to this.

Molds are also common causes of allergic reactions, Huston said. Air conditioning systems and air ducts frequently harbor these allergy villains.

The federal government is now in the brothel business. Yes, you read right. The United States government is the owner and operator of a full fledged house of ill repute.

This sorry state of affairs came about when the U.S. Bankruptcy court in Nevada took possession of the infamous Mustang Ranch brothel. Prostitution is legal in the part of Nevada outside of Reno and the owner of the Mustang Ranch, Joe Conforte, owed about $1.3 million in back taxes to the Internal Revenue Service.

Rather than pay the taxes, Conforte filed for bankruptcy protection under the federal court. The court worked out a deal with the brothel operator to pay $75,000 on the back bill.

When this month's payment came due, Conforte skipped town with all the money in the till. The bankruptcy court took over the business and appointed Every government employee has a GS rating. File clerks are rated at GS-1 and top level officials are rated at GS-12. Every other federal employee falls somewhere in between.

What GS rating will the prostitutes at the Mustang Ranch receive? Are their services at the file clerk level or higher?

Some insight to the problem is given by Choppa. She said that the government would deduct FICA and withholding from the pay checks of the women, but that they would not lose money because the house would take a smaller cut of their earnings.

Already the new federal employees are finding the benefits of government service. JIM HUDSON Perryton Herald.

Church to kick off renewal program

Christ the King Catholic Church is making final plans to kick off a parish wide renewal program Sunday, according to Rev. Patrick Burke, pastor.

The program, known as "RE-NEW" is designed as a three-year effort to guide "the spiritual growth of the people as a vibrant faith community."

Adopted by the Diocese of Fort Worth, the program will begin in each Catholic parish throughout the area Sunday.

The local Catholic church will initiate the program with a 10 a.m. Mass, followed by a pot-luck dinner.

During the afternoon, children of the parish will celebrate with a balloon launch, and activities will continue with a special service Sunday evening.

Rev. Burke explained that RE-NEW is "aimed at renewed Christian living through teaching and witnessing to the Word of God, developing vibrant faith communities, and establishing justice formation and action."

Focus of the program has been placed on four areas of parish activity. They are the Sunday Mass celebration and a prayer network, large group events that involve the entire membership, take home activities for families and shut-ins, and weekly meetings of Bible study in small sharing groups.

Sharing duties as co-coordinators of the program are Ken and Jeni Schlaud, and Jimmy and Eloisa Estrada.

Sheri Heidrich and Linda Burke are leading the Sunday liturgy committee.

Pelz speaks on economy to Evening Lions Club

Lee Pelz, a member of the Evening Lions and owner of Square One Data Base Programming in Wichita Falls, gave the program for the Tuesday meeting of the club on "Economy."

As he spoke of the present recession, he sounded an optimistic note that within about two years things would be looking up for the local area. He said that there would be a shortage of oil and the oil business had been improving since mid year. He predicted that oil prices would continue to go up and that there would be an increase in real estate sales.

Pelz said now is the time for the local area to concentrate on effective long range planning and getting new industries into the area. He said that prison should warrant planning ahead for new industries. "I feel that the recession means opportunities for us

Kenneth Via spoke to the members about participating with the Noon Lions to have an entry in the homecoming parade Oct. 12. It was agreed that Gordon Callahan from the evening Lions, and a representative from the Evening Lioness Club would work with Via to assure an entry in the parade.

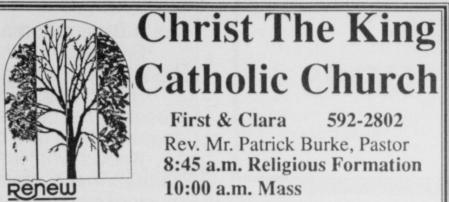

Other visitors were Dewey Nicholson and Tim Bryant, members of the Wichita Falls Founder Lions Club, and Walt Cummins also from Wichita Falls.

NINE MYTHS ABOUT GRIEF

Many people feel inadequate and uncomfortable when rying to help a bereaved family member, friend, or loved one. Because of the lack of grief education program in our schools and communities, we are often forced to rely on 'common sense" in responding appropriately. However, to the grieving person, common sense is often the lease helpful tact to take and can often irreparably damage relationships. Following are the nine most common myths associated with the grieving process and the bereaved individual.

Asking what happened and talking about the deceased will increase the pain of the bereaved. On the contrary, telling their story over and over again and talking about the deceased are the most important prescriptions for grief recovery.

People (husbands, wives, children, babies) can be replaced. Each person is unique and cannot be replaced. Having a baby will not replace a child that died. Getting married again will not replace the other spouse. To suggest replacement suggests the deceased was exchangeable.

Most people want to grieve alone. No. They want and need the support of family and friends who will listen and not try to rescue them from their pain.

Normal grief takes one to three months. Normal grief usually takes one to five years depending on the intensity and duration of the relationship, the type of death and social support.

You can reduce pain by offering platitudes. You increase their anger with platitudes. Phrases like "She's in heaven with God; at least you have another child; he lived a full life; you're young, you can remarry," minimize their loss and increase their pain.

It is strange for the bereaved to laugh. They cannot and should not grieve all the time. It is no disrespect to the dead to have a good laugh; in fact, it shows healing has begun.

You are bothering them by calling to see how they are, especially on anniversaries, birthdays, and holidays. Your are not bothering them. They feel very alone on those days and knowing someone is thinking about them is of tremendous help.

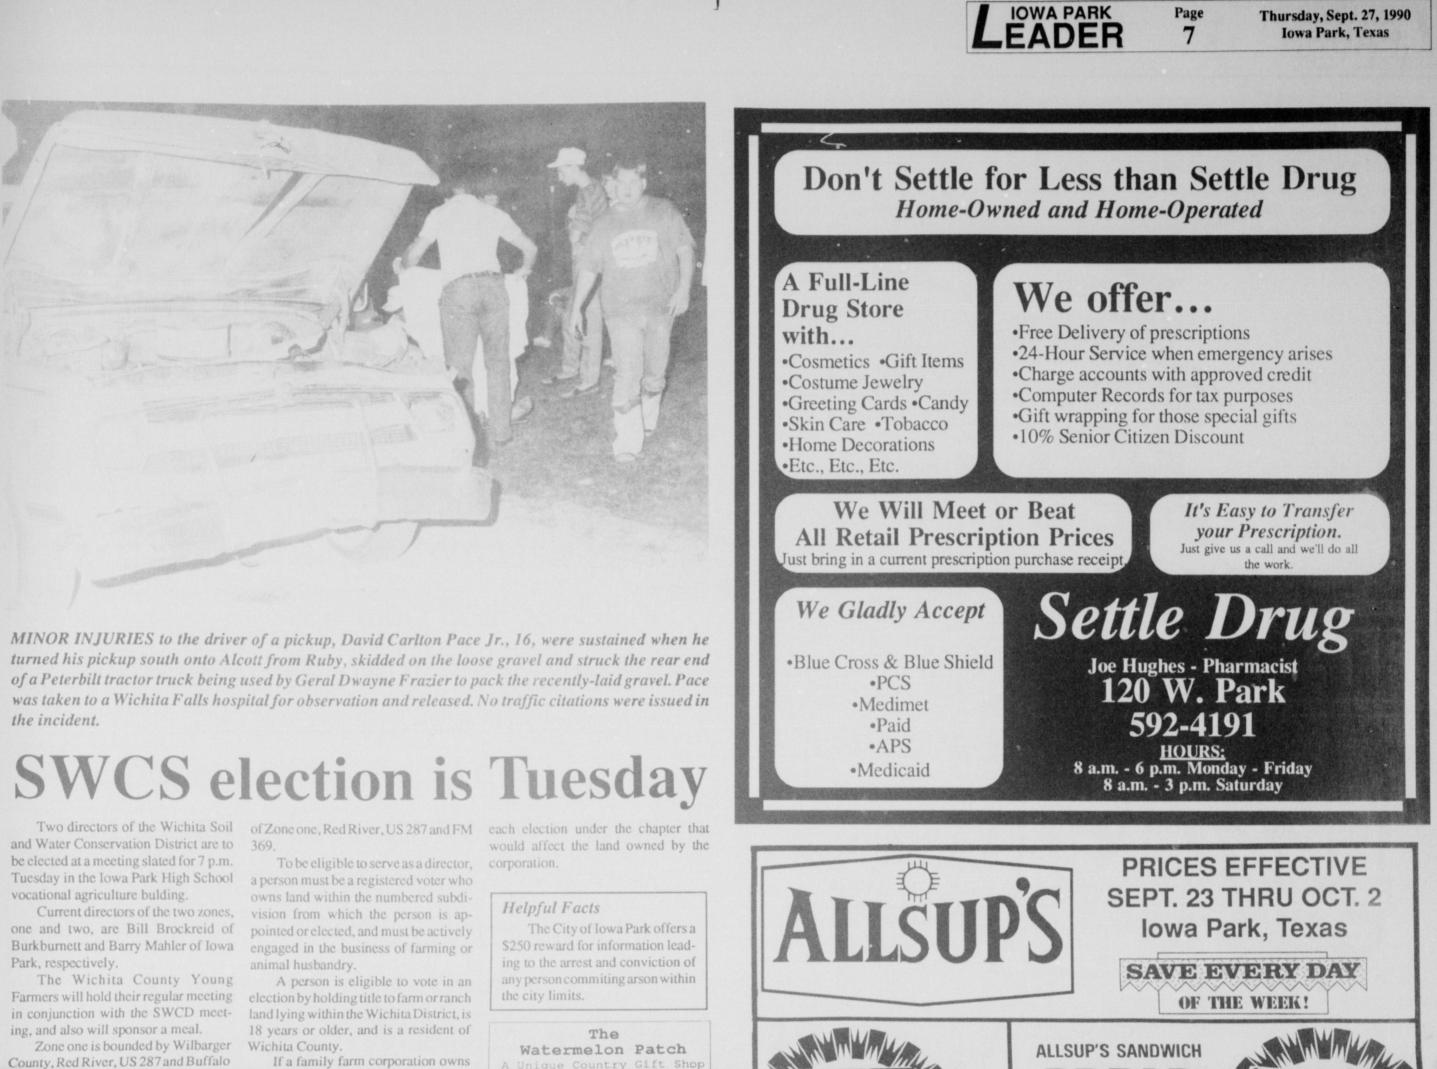

Your friend or relative is crazy and needs help if they think they hear or see the deceased, occasionally. To hear to see the deceased, is common, especially among widows and widowers. You never get over the pain of a loss. Most people believe this because they were not allowed to grieve; the would was not allowed to heal. But to remember without pain is the goal of grief recovery and is obtainable.

Why is it?

A man wakes up in the morning after sleeping on an advertised bed, in advertised pajamas. He will bathe in an advertised tub, wash with advertised soap, shave with an advertised razor, have a breakfast of advertised juice, cereal and toast (toasted in an advertised toaster), put on advertised clothes and glance at his advertised watch.

Effective schools research defines parents and community members as key participants who play significant roles in school effectiveness. The literature shows that when parents and communities are involved, children do better in school, student attendance improves, dropout rates decrease, parent-child communication and student attitudes and behavior improve. When parents and community members support schools, students stay in school.

A primary obstacle to parent and community involvement in the school is a lack of communication. A new program is being initiated in our local schools. In an effort to establish greater trust in each other, the schools will attempt to communicate more frequently and effectively with parents and community members. Future articles in this section will offer ideas for parents to help their children.

Parents can make the difference! You can help your child have a successful school year. Here are some ideas to get you started:

1. Get to know your child's teacher. As a parent, you know your child best. Share what you know with the teacher. Does your child have a special interest? A favorite book? Are there subjects in which your childs needs special help? You don't have to wait for a special parent conference.

2. Talk with your child's teacher about problems, too. What goes on at home affects how a child does in school. Separation, family illness, a new baby, or even a move can all affect a child's school work. You don't have to tell the teacher all your personal business, but make sure your child's teacher knows important facts.

3. Make sure your child gets enough sleep. Tired children can't do their best work. So set a bedtime - and stick to it.

4. Learn what is expected of your child. Are there class projects? What about homework? Are there important deadlines?

5. Limit TV. Studies show that the kids who do best in school watch the least television. But remember when you first turn off the set, you'll have to help your child find other things to do. Read a book or magazine. Take a walk. Visit the library, or try playing a game.

Just a little help and guidance from you can help make the entire school year successful for your child.

Hawk mistakes cost third loss

Two blocked punts, an intercepted pass, some ill-timed penalty calls and some penalties not called, led to Iowa Park's third loss of the young season Friday at Decatur.

The 27-10 score fails to tell the story of how really close the game should have been.

Blocking broke down on punts in the first and fourth quarters, and Decatur scored on both of them

Also in the first period, quarterback Robert Denton suffered the only interception of his 31 pass attempts, setting the Eagles up on the Hawk 17. Two plays later, Decatur had its first touchdown of the evening.

And while the Hawks were flagged nine times, only two more than the Eagles, the situations during which some of them were called either killed drives or had a direct impact on the game's outcome. Three of Decatur's penalties were for delays and one was for having 12 players on the field.

"We had our problems on offense in the first game (Burkburnett), and defense in the second (Abilene Wylie)," commented Head Coach Len Williams. "This time it was our specialty team (referring to the blocked punts)."

The Hawks gained almost 100 more yards than did the Eagles, 230-139. They also held a big margin in first downs, 14-8.

Johnny Duggins, Mark de la Rosa, Todd Pulley and Denton racked up 92 yards rushing to Decatur's

99. Denton completed 16 of his 31 attempted passes gaining 138 yards. Decatur turned over the ball twice, once on a fumble and an interception, and middle linebacker Gary Green claimed them both.

The Hawks took the opening kickoff, but were forced to punt. Starting from the 50, the Eagles drove to the four yard line. But two consecutive tackles by Green put the ball back on the seven, and Decatur was forced to settle for a 23-yard field goal.

A clipping penalty on the ensuing kickoff put the ball back on Iowa Park's eight. Three plays later, Denton's first throw of the night was tipped and then intercepted on the 17. Two plays later, Decatur made the score 9-0 after the extra point try failed.

A minute and five seconds of playing time later, an Eagle rushed past Hawk blockers and blocked the punt of Brian Luney. Another Eagle picked up the ball on the 11 and crossed the goal line.

Again the extra point kick failed, but Decatur led 15-0 with 1:54 remaining in the first period.

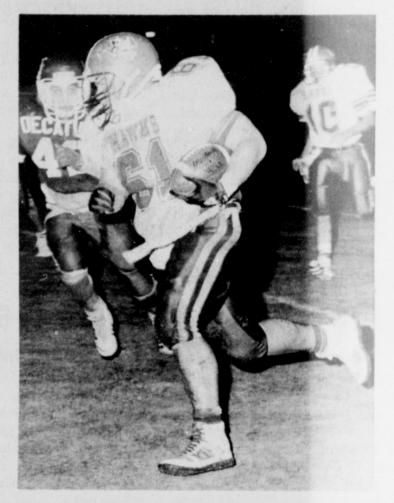

The Hawks scored all 10 of their points in the final 2:22 of the second quarter.

Greg Steger returned a punt 15 yards to the Eagle 35, setting up the first touchdown. After a fiveyard motion penalty placed the ball on the 40, Denton ran eight yards, and then passed twice to tight end Chad Reis, to advance the ball to the four.

On the next play, Mark de la Rosa skirted right end for the touchdown, and Pulley split the uprights for Iowa Park's seven points.

Decatur was forced to punt after tackles by Green and Johnny Duggins accounted for a minus seven yards. The kick was shanked out of bounds on the Eagle 38.

Denton completed a pass to Chad Witherspoon and then a pair to Jason Young to advance the ball to the 20, and Decatur was penalized five yards to the 15 where, with 20 seconds remaining, the officials said Iowa Park used up its third and last time out. Hawk coaches were incensed, but failed to win the argument.

GARY GREEN INTERCEPTS PASS

Denton tried one pass, and then Pulley booted a -yard field goal, narrowing the score to 10-15.

GREG STEGER RETURNS OPENING KICKOFF 33 YARDS AGAINST DECATUR

During their last possession, the Hawks were in their two-minute drill, and did not use a huddle.

Late in the third quarter, a holding penalty killed a Hawk drive. When Luney punted, Decatur was charged 15 yards for having too many players on the field. Then, on fourth and one from the Eagle 46, the ball was handed to Pulley, who broke out of a large cluster of players to the 42. But the officials had blown their whistles, saying his forward progress had been halted. And the ball was turned over to Denton.

An 18-yard run and 27-yard pass keyed the hosts' drive, and they scored from the one on the first play of the fourth period. Again the kick for extra point was wide.

Unable to pick up a first down after the kickoff, Luney again was thwarted on his punt attempt. The kick was blocked, the ball picked up by an Eagle, and Decatur had 27 points.

Frustrated because none of their extra point kicks had been good so far, the Eagles attempted a fake kick and pass, but Green picked off the aerial, returning it to the Hawk 22.

The Hawks had the ball three more times in the balance of the game, but could not sustain a drive.

Frosh beat Decatur

Perry, Parks off team

The Hawk Freshmen dominated Decatur here Thursday night, but the undermaned Junior Varsity was edged by a two-point margin.

In the Freshman game, Decatur couldn't cross the goal line until the final 14 seconds of the contest, and Iowa Park won, 24-6.

Despite having only 15 players suited out, the Hawk JV almost pulled their game out of the fire in the final minute, but lost 18-16.

But Iowa Park narrowed the margin to 12-6 before the end of the third period.

The Hawk varsity football team was already short in numbers, going into the season, has now lost two seniors.

They are Nathan Perry, who was a co-captain, and Charlie Parks.

Perry, 188, was a starting linebacker and reserve tackle, and Parks was a 230pound tackle.

Perry was forced to turn in his equipment after doctors told him a shoulder injury he suffered during the preseason scrimmages could not be repaired without surgery. That would have knocked him out for the season.

Parks recently moved to Petrolia with his father, where he is eligible to play after a 15-day waiting period, according to Coach Len Williams.
