Houston Enchiladas

Sauce:
2 tall cans evaporated milk
2 cans Rotel tomatoes & green chilies
2 cans cream of chicken soup
Heat to slow boil. Add 2 lbs. Velveeta cheese. Stir until sauce is smooth and cheese is thoroughly melted. Remove from heat and stir in 1 pint sour cream.
Filling:
3 lbs. ground beef
1 finely chopped onion
Saute until meat starts to brown. Remove from heat and place in metal colander. Run hot water over meat until grease has been removed. Return to pan. Season with 1 package taco seasoning and a small amount of salt. Re-brown meat; cool.
Grate 2 lbs. Cheddar-Mac cheese. Blend cheese and meat.
Roll enchiladas in either corn or flour tortillas. (If using corn tortillas, soften by using a small amount of oil on one side of tortilla and stacking 6-8 high in microwave and heating 1-2 minutes.) Spoon small amount of filling in each tortilla and roll tightly. Place into dishes. Cover with sauce. Heat in 300 degree oven until bubbly.
This freezes well. Make up several casserole dishes at a time. Makes 40-65 enchiladas.
These are the enchiladas I send to the Houston Stock Show every year. The kids prefer the ones in flour tortillas, and the adults like the corn tortillas best.

State Capital
HIGHLIGHTS
By Lyndell Williams
TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN — Texas Land Commissioner Garry Mauro rocked the State Capitol last week by announcing that he had filed for personal bankruptcy, listing debts of more than $4 million.

A second Republican Congressman, Jack Fields of Houston, filed as a candidate in the yet-to-be-announced special election to replace U.S. Sen. Lloyd Bentsen.

Texas Democrats continued urging Gov. Ann Richards to appoint herself as Bentsen's interim successor and run as their party's choice in the election sometime this spring.

Meanwhile, Richards visited with six more men about the senate seat: Congressmen John Bryant, Jim Chapman and Mike Andrews; Railroad Commissioner Robert Krueger, former Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby and Travis County District Attorney Ronnie Earle.

However, the governor told reporters she is not close to a decision on Bentsen's successor.

Many Capitol insiders are prone to consider Richards as the inevitable choice, particularly since speculation about Richards as the new senator has been making the Capitol rounds since August, well before the election.

Mauro's Real Estate Busts
Mauro told reporters he blamed the 1986 real estate bust for the devaluation of his trust fortune once worth almost $10 million.

He said he now has no checking account, his $77,000 state salary and a homestead worth more than $300,000, after spending all other assets to pay creditors.

By filing Chapter 7, Mauro is walking away from payment of the remaining debts.

Mauro to Washington?
Ironically, Mauro manages the state's public lands trusts and the Permanent School Fund; now that his own trust is bankrupt, he is certain to relive his bankruptcy past if he seeks re-election in 1994.

Mauro, now beginning his 11th year as land commissioner, served as Texas campaign manager for President-elect Bill Clinton, and a protege of Lt. Gov. Bob Bullock.

He declined to press for a Washington appointment to keep his financial troubles out of the headlines, particularly any linking him to Clinton.

But Mauro's political fortunes in Texas are viewed as in a nosedive; many think he may soon resign for a post in Washington, D.C., or use his connections to build a new beginning as a lobbyist there.

State Children in Poverty
One in every four Texas children is born into poverty, the state Health Commissioner David Smith said last week, calling for investment in youngsters' well-being.

Smith cited statistics that were part of an annual report by the Children's Defense Fund. The report said that nationally, one in every five children lives in poverty.

Smith said that for black and Hispanic children, the number born into poverty is one out of two. One in every four Texas children has no medical insurance.

Citing figures from other recent studies, Smith said 30 percent of Texas' 2-year-olds are fully immunized against childhood diseases, compared to a national average of 60 percent.

He challenged the state to invest in children's health. Childhood immunizations should be free and available to all Texas children, Smith said.

That would cost about $50 million a year in state and federal funds — $15 million more in state money than the Texas Department of Health's current budget for vaccine and immunizations.

Other Highlights

Resumes have already begun pouring into Henry Cisneros' San Antonio offices from Democrats eager for a position with the Department of Housing and Urban Development. Effective Dec. 21, Cisneros took a leave of absence from his assets management company, which manages $525 million in pension funds and other assets.

A South Texas University regent has called for an audit of the marching band after some members stole $22,000 worth of electronic equipment during a recent visit to Japan, and revelations that 28 of the 120-member band on the trip were not TSU students.

Colds and Flu — Tis the Season

- The cold season lasts from early fall through the spring. The flu typically strikes in epidemics in January or February.
- The common cold and the flu are both caused by viruses.
- The symptoms of colds and flu are similar — nasal congestion, a sore throat, runny eyes and a cough, but flu symptoms are more intense and last longer.
- A high fever may accompany flu symptoms. Fevers are not common with colds, but if they are present they are usually low-grade.
- The viruses that cause cold or flu are transmitted through direct contact or through the air.
- To lessen your chances of catching a cold or the flu, get enough exercise, eat properly and get plenty of rest.
- A flu vaccine is available to prevent or minimize the severity of influenza.
- The vaccine should be administered early in the flu season to people in the high risk group — those over the age of 65, or with lung or heart disease, or with any disease that interferes with the body's ability to fight infection.
- Most people must wait out the symptoms of a cold or flu. But if you are in a high risk group, see a doctor if you have flu symptoms and a high fever.
- The incidence of serious complications, including death, is much higher with the flu than it is with the common cold.

The next afternoon, police were told that three young boys with BB guns were under the Johnson Road overpass, shooting a passing vehicles.

Thursday afternoon, a man told police that someone had shot out the windshield of his pickup while it was parked in the 300 block of East Highway. The breakage was said to have been caused by a pellet gun.

A resident called police Monday afternoon to report that several juvenile boys were endangering themselves by running across US 287, about the 500 block. Officers counseled with the youths.

A 15-year-old female from Wichita Falls, said to be a runaway, was picked up in the 1100 block of Louisa Monday afternoon and returned to her parents.

Three men were arrested during the past week, two of them Saturday on public intoxication charges.

Max Roger Althide, 39, was taken into custody at 12:45 a.m. near the intersection of US 287 and FM 368, and William Hursel Wiswell, 40, was picked up in the 100 block of James at 8:27 that evening.

As I See It... By Bob Hamilton

Unlike all the sources we're hearing from in the national media about optimism of economic improvement since the general election, I was aware of our local situation months earlier.

It was all right here in the Leader. All one had to do was read the stories each week, and remember.

Going back through the issues of 1992 for our year's review story only enforced my feeling of optimism.

Things are looking up, folks.

First of all, we had six new businesses to open their doors, and remain open. They included Iowa Park Athletic Center, Park Tire and Battery, Pizza Hut, Subway, The CarSmith, Total Image and J&J Craft Mall.

And more's coming. Such as the restaurant Paul Arrington plans to build after having acquired property on the Access Road from the city and Lakeview

Church of God, in the northeast part of Gordon Lake.

Even Park Clinic has felt the need for growth. That facility has remained virtually the same since it was built, but is now in the middle of an expansion program.

Also to be built is a new county annex building, at the corner of Wall and Bank, where the two agriculture offices and county tax office facility will be located.

And while we were about to have an unoccupied business building in the 200 block of West Park, where TU Electric was to be closed -- the company has yet to make a formal announcement -- Parker Square Bank will establish a branch about March.

Building permits issued by city hall haven't broken any records, with only $724,198, but that will be just a drop in the bucket if another project comes to pass.

A 110-lot housing development is on the drawing board. It will be in the northeast part of the city, an area that has long been potential but not getting much attention through the years.

To go along with all that is a major quality of life project that also is in the planning stage: an 18-hole golf course at Lake Iowa Park. When completed, it will not only serve local residents with something that hasn't been available here the past 50 years, but also will be a major attraction for folks to travel or move here.

And business hasn't been lacking in Iowa Park through the year, according to the sales taxes collected. If you missed the story two weeks ago, Iowa Park is the leader among all cities in Wichita County, in terms of increase over 1991: 21.11 percent. That has generated $205,499 to the city coffers for the calendar year.

I have the feeling one will have to look long and hard to find an empty home in this city, by the end of 1993.

Why? Besides being on the grow already -- just try to find an available rental -- people are coming to the area who will be involved with Sheppard Air Force Base, as well as the new maximum security prison.

And with an increase in population, there always is an increase in business activity. Increased numbers of businesses will give local residents more selection and availability of merchandise and services not now here.

No. My optimism wasn't born in November. Really, I've always been optimistic about Iowa Park and its future. It's just considerably greater, as I look toward 1993.

racial and religious lines with a gospel of reconciliation and love for all people. It spells out the message many times in the Gospels... that we should love the Lord our God with all our heart, and with all our mind, and with all our soul... and our neighbors as ourselves.

The simple demand may make the gospel of Christ unique among the religions of the world. It was revolutionary in its time, and it still is in ours.

Jesus was not a conventional man. And for bringing an unconventional gospel, He was rejected by the leaders of the Church and the powers of the Government, the Priests and Pharisees, who brought Him before Pilate and urged His crucifixion. These were the right-wing extremists of their day.

If Christ were to return to our world today in modern dress and preaching the same gospel, I am convinced that He would be rejected again by the same elements of society, the right-wing extremists of both Church and State, that rejected Him then; and I believe that was the point of that controversial political cartoon. It wasn't funny... it's a sad thought that we haven't really changed that much in two thousand years.

And I don't believe that is really true. I think the world has changed greatly under the influence of the Christian gospel, and is continuing to change. There are elements of our society that have not, but they are minorities not peculiar to any political party or religious group, but are occasionally in control because they are vocal and activist and wield their prejudices like a deadly weapon.

That is a personal statement of faith. If that is offensive to some of you, I am sorry, but I offer no apologies for it.

WORTH QUOTING

We don't suppose it matters a hoot and holler to anyone buying Texas Lotto tickets, but something about the payoff by the state bothers us.

According to the pitch, 50 percent of the winnings are supposed to be paid to the winners.

Texas took in $38.6 million in Lotto sales before Janie Kallus, 65-year-old retired nurse from Schulenburg won the jackpot. She supposedly won $21,760,794.

Did State Comptroller John Sharp write her a check for that amount? Nope! She got the first of 20 installments, payable over 20 years, of $1,088,000. The state had the money up front so why schedule the payments over the next 20 years?

Is the state going to pay interest on the unpaid balance due the nurse? Nope! $21 million, paid over 20 years, at a minimum of 6% interest, should yield an annual payment of roughly $1.5 million per year.

And in reading the fine print, we notice that Uncle Sam is going to skim off 20% or $217,600 from each of those 20 annual payments -- in advance!

We don't suppose the Schulenburg nurse is complaining, but for the benefit of future winners she might consider using some of those funds to hire a good lawyer. She's getting ripped off!

Wonder why that is?

Worth Quoting

I am frequently astounded, even after more than half a century in this business, at what people sometimes read into the written word... either between the lines, behind the lines, or instead of the lines. All writers, I suppose, especially those of us who deal in opinion, encounter this phenomenon at times, and learn to expect it... but we never learn to anticipate the strange interpretations sometimes applied by our readers. This goes double for our cartoonists who have a genius for condensing complex ideas to simple line drawings.

A cartoon drawn by Pulitzer Prize-winning Mike Peters, printed in these columns a couple of weeks ago, is a case in point. It depicted a Christ-like figure being interviewed for membership in the Republican Party and being rejected for not meeting the criteria for "family values"... the current watch-word of the political campaign. The reason: the application described "a single male, unemployed, in his thirties, living with a group of guys."

The artist intended this as political satire. The editor also saw in it a sharp commentary on the social and political prejudices of our time in which non-conformism of all kinds are seen as threats to the established order. Some of our readers read into it anti-religious heresies never envisioned or intended... but it's the way it is sometimes.

But the historical Christ was certainly a non-conformist in his day, and He still is to many of us who believe in his teaching and to His philosophy and try to live by His creeds in our modern world. He brought a gospel of love and compassion which broke all racial and political and geographic bounds and was offered to all the people of the world. It still is, and we are grateful for it.

Christianity is a radical religion, because it cuts across so many cultural,

Christmas Dream for a Fisherman

Twas the night after Christmas and down at our house, Father was starting to grumble and grouse. Santa had brought him some new fishing gear, And he just couldn't wait to get to the pier. Ma in her kerchief and I in my camp, Had just settled down for a long winter's nap. When out on the lawn there arose such a clatter, I sprang from my bed to see what's the matter. And what to my wondering eyes should appear, But Father with all of his new fishing gear. He was dressed in pajamas, his eyes were shut tight, And, soundly asleep, he walked through the night. Visions of fishes danced in his brain, And he mumbled and muttered and called them by name. "Now, halibut, tuna, and yellowtail, too! On founder! On, bass! On my new hook with you." I followed him down to the end of the pier, And he walked right off without any fear. I heard him exclaim ere he dove out of sight. "Merry Christmas to all, and I sure hope they bite!"

BAPTISM -- A BEGINNING!
Why is there rejoicing when one is baptized? One of the reasons is that it means a new beginning. "Therefore, if any man is in Christ, he is a new creature, the old things passed away; behold, new things have come. (2 Cor. 5:17).
Baptism is a new birth. When one is begotten by the Word of God and is born of water and of the Spirit, he becomes a citizen of the kingdom of God. Jesus said, "truly, truly, I say to you, unless one is born of water and the Spirit, he cannot enter into the kingdom of God." (John 3:5).
As a child, he can call God, "Abba, Father." He has family care and becomes an heir. (Galatians 3:26, 27; Romans 8:15-17).
Baptism is a resurrection. It is an event in which one dies to his old self and is buried in baptism after which he is raised to walk in "newness of life." (Romans 6:3-6). Baptism is that act which makes all things new. As Jesus was resurrected from physical death, so we are resurrected from a spiritual death.
Baptism is a salvation event. Following the analogy of Noah's salvation when the world was destroyed by water, Peter said, "and corresponding to that, baptism now saves you." (1 Peter 3:21). Just as Noah's obedience saved him and his family when the world was destroyed by water, so shall one's obedience in baptism bring salvation when the world is destroyed by fire.
Baptism is a new beginning!

the RAC. Todd Pulley signed a letter of intent to play baseball for Hardin-Simmons Univ. Faced with lower-than-usual sales of water, caused by the abnormally wet year, the city council increased water prices by 10 percent, but held the line on property taxes (80 cents). School tax rate, including local and CED, was set at $1.12 per $100 valuation. Heavy rains continued to plague the city and area, often causing the temporary closing of streets and roads.

SEPTEMBER

A home's burglary was solved when the suspect was caught in a Rio Grande city with a car taken during the theft. Rachel Thompson was crowned IPHS Homecoming Queen and 272 attended the annual Ex-Student Association banquet during homecoming weekend. A storm that passed west to east, north of the city, damaged several homes and structures. Ray Smock was selected from a field of 17 applicants as police chief. Tess Goodwin was named a Commended Student in the 1993 National Merit Scholarship Program. A contract worker survived a fall of some 26 feet onto a concrete floor, during construction of a building at the city's water treatment plant.

OCTOBER

A combination of 60 years experience was lost in the local post office, when Robert Wilcox and Steve Lowe took advantage of an early retirement program. Strict mandates by the Texas Water Commission concerning septic tank regulations were announced by the county health department. Clay Williamson was named a bronze award winner in the national FFA cereal grain proficiency program. Police recovered within a week two vehicles that were stolen, including a four-wheel ATV and an automobile. School trustees entered into an agreement with a firm that guarantees savings of thousands of dollars in energy bills. An ordinance was approved by the city council which provides for mutual aid with the county, Wichita Falls, Burkburnett and Electra, in case of a disaster. The Hawk Band earned a Division One in the marching contest for the 11th consecutive year.

NOVEMBER

Voters at four area boxes, precincts 32, 33, 34 and 35, turned out in record numbers (2,417) for the general election. The city's sewer treatment plant underwent its first complete renovation since it was built some 20 years earlier. Thirty seven Chamber of Commerce members participated in giving away free Thanksgiving turkeys. Iowa Park native Eddie Watson was promoted to vice chairman of TU Electric. Michael Dozier was elected president of Iowa Park Little League. Mr. and Mrs. Carmen Lozopone became the new owners of Video Library. The Fina service station at Johnson Road and US 287 was renamed Brown's Fina & Automotive Center. The city council voted to sell land in the northeast corner at Lake Gordon to Paul Arrington, where he said he plans to build a restaurant. The Hawks closed out their football season with a 38-23 win over Henrietta, giving them a 2-8 record. A program to serve "latchkey" children was launched by the Recreational Activities Center, as leaders began exploring what services were needed and how they can be implemented and financed. Larry Dutton was elected 1993 president of the Chamber of Commerce at the organization's annual membership business luncheon. J&J Craft Mall was opened for business. Two high school playoff games were held here, one between Graham and Childress and the other between Goldwithe and Canadian. Faith Baptist Church held a note-burning service to commemorate the payoff of a $545,000 financing of its main structure in 1987. After an extended dry spell which had frustrated wheat farmers wanting to plant their 1993 crop, the area received more than four inches of rainfall in a week's time.

DECEMBER

Thousands of dollars worth of possessions were stolen when burglars forced open stalls at Mini-Con Storage, and police later solved the case with arrests in Wichita Falls. Three football Hawks, Scott McNeely, Brent Brown and Patric Kennedy, were named to the All-District team. Christy Kenyon placed first in the FFA District Talent Show. After hearing a proposal from Iowa Parkan Mike Negri that a development firm in Oklahoma City was interested in developing a golf course at Lake Iowa Park, the city council approved leasing the property for that purpose. Considering the Thanksgiving turkey give-away program was a major success to businesses, Chamber members then gave hams to lucky winners for Christmas. Long-time restaurateur, civic leader and baseball supporter Charles Lawson Metz was buried. The city council voted to open West Park through the 400 block, which passes through Park West Shopping Center. School trustees received a report that the third and seventh graders exceeded the state level on almost all aspects of TAAS testing. Quick action by police led to the arrest of a Wichita Falls couple while they were stealing tools from pickups and items from a storage building. Parker Square Bank announced plans to open a branch in the TU Electric building, which is to be closed some time in the near future.

Lady Hawks, Hawks in 3-day tournament

The Lady Hawks and Hawks will play today in the first round of the annual Archer City basketball tournament.

First game for the Lady Hawks will be at 9 this morning, against Electra. The Hawks will not see action until 4:30 this afternoon against Crowell.

A win by the girls would send them into action at 3 p.m. Friday, against the winner of the Bowie-Holiday contest.

The Hawks would play the winner of the Windthorst-Archer City game at 7:30 p.m. Friday, if they win today's game. A loss would be at 1:30 Friday.

Jacksboro girls and boys also are entered in the tournament.

The Lady Hawks earned a 73-54 victory over Wichita Falls Rider Tuesday night to raise their season record to 12-7. Christie Welch led scorers with 15, followed by Gina Inman, 14, and Misty Cook, 13.

Iowa Park had jumped out to a 45-22 lead before the teams took their mid-game break.

Monday, the girls' Freshman club will travel to Jacksboro.

Coach John Hoelter will take his varsity and junior varsity to Wellington Tuesday, in their final non-conference scheduled game. They host Graham in their Dist. 4-AAA opener Friday of next week.

The Hawks suffered a one-point loss on the road Tuesday, 39-38 to Haskell. Jason Young was high for Iowa Park with 11. It was their ninth loss against six wins.

The boys' JV also lost, 51-36, but the Freshmen posted a 41-28 victory.

Coach Tim Clark still has two more non-conference games scheduled for his Hawks before they open their district schedule Jan. 15 at Vernon.

They will travel Tuesday to Seymour and then host Hirschi the following Friday.

The JV and Frosh are entered in a one-day tournament at Graham Saturday.

BROWN-CAVETT BACK & NECK CHIROPRACTIC

Dr. Dan Broom

LOW BACK PAIN

Low back pain is one of the most common disorders affecting American adults. It is estimated that 75 million Americans will have it each year, and that 80% of the adult population will have low back pain at some time.

Low back pain is the most common cause of disability among the 30 to 50 year age group.

Because these age groups are usually the most productive in the work force, the economic impact of low back pain is enormous.

Low back pain patients comprise the second largest diagnostic group seen by medical family practitioners, yet the common treatments recommended by these practitioners are being found to be ineffective. A prominent medical low back pain researcher has suggested that family physicians consider referring these patients for chiropractic care, as it has proven helpful for this disorder.

Low back pain generally is a mechanical disorder which needs suitable treatment. Chiropractic manipulation is just such a method. In the 1985 volume of the medical journal "Canadian Family Physician," Dr. William Kirkaldy-Willis, professor of orthopedic surgery at the University of Saskatchewan, reported on a study of chronic low back pain patients. The results of treatment with chiropractic manipulation were so favorable that Dr. Kirkaldy-Willis summarized that those medical doctors who refer their patients for this treatment will provide relief for many who would not otherwise be helped.

Indeed, growing numbers of low back pain sufferers are turning to chiropractic each year and are finding relief. Many people who were frustrated before seeking chiropractic treatment, return to an active lifestyle, not restricted by disabling pain. The latest statistics show that about one in three low back pain patients now see a chiropractor, and the percentage should be much greater. Chiropractic is both a safe and effective way to deal with low back pain, the unwanted American tradition.
