In God We Trust

The statement is often made by well-meaning people, "It doesn't atter what a man believes so long as he is sincere in it." A little earnest thought would quickly reveal the faisity of that statement. It matters very much what a man believes! The way he acts depends almost entirely on what he believes! The Nazis believed implicitly in the Fuchrer and the superiority of their race. It was that belief which started them out to be world conquerors and which made their ultimate defeat such a difficult task. The Communists believe, sincerely, that the only road to world peace is by a world revolution of the masses and the resultant overthrow of the "capitalistic" state. It is this belief which causes them to act as they do and makes them so difficult to get along with. As Americans, it is our belief in the democratic principles and the individual worth of man that has led us, as a nation, to think and act as we do. It matters very much what you believe!

What you believe about yourself and your ability can make you a success or a failure in life. If you believe in yourself, you have a confidence that makes for success. If you doubt yourself, you limit by that much your ability to succeed.

What you believe about your fellowmen will be reflected in your attitudes toward them and will determine your relationships with them. And all of this, what you believe about yourself and what you believe about others, is pretty much determined by what you believe about God. If you believe in the goodness and justice and love of God, then you believe that good is more powerful than evil, that justice is better than injustice and that love is stronger than hate, such a belief will definitely influence how you act.

It does matter what a man believes!

TIME

The subject of time is interesting. Our whole makeup and constitution of life is reckoned by and dependent upon our concept of time, We measure the length of the day by the sun as the earth rotates every twenty-four hours. We time the months and the years by the course of the earth in its relation to the other planets of the universe. Time is the measuring unit of our life span.

Time is also the limitation we place upon the activities which constitute our span of life. As we become involved in our work we come to the place where it is necessary to evaluate and allocate our time. There are often so many things we would like to do and certain things we must do that we need to evaluate our time and give priority accordingly. The measure of our efficiency is in direct proportion to the manner in which we plan and make the best use of our time.

The old adage "Time and tide walt for no man" emphasizes the fact that there is more to time than the clock indicates. Shakespeare's Hamlet felt his inadequacy as he said, "The time is out of joint, O cursed spite, that ever I was born to set it right." We may sometimes wonder what we can do to set the world right.

We must remember we are a part of the time in which we live. Therefore, while there is a destiny which shapes our ends, God had endowed us with the intelligence to make choices and decisions wisely, to grasp time by the forelocks and make the most of our opportunities.

As a pilot heads his plane into the wind for additional lifting power, the same winds of time which beat some people down to earth are used by others to lift them up. Time marches on . . . , our attitude and determined purpose make the difference.

Alhambra, California-It's things like this that make a thief lose faith n human nature and want to take up the straight and narrow.

A local service station attendant had arranged 20 tires in a fancy display outside his station. They were paper wrapped and tied with bright red ribbons. Overnight a thief made off with all twenty tires.

There's only one catch. If he hasn't already discovered by now, he will when he unwraps the beautiful wrappings and finds it's only paper thin. The tires were junk, total value, $1.25.

STARTS TUESDAY "Younger Brothers"  Sat. Only!

Next to a stack of golden grain in the fields or a tree loaded with fruit, a farmer's proudest posses-sion is his stack of U. S. Savings Bonds. These Bonds enable him to oil up his financial machinery and maintain a reserve which insures his home, land, livestock and equipment. His future is secure. The wise farmer builds his financial reserve in Savings Bonds from profits when his crops are good. That reserve is the windbreak against a stormy pe-riod. And it grows, $4 for every $3 invested in ten years. U.S. Treasury Department
