Navajo teaching Choctaw the art of silversmithing

By MYRNA SMITH

It is legendary that elders of the American Indian tribes want to keep alive the art, traditions, language, legends and folk myths that have been handed down through thousands of years, by passing them on to their younger ones.

That is precisely why Hosgood Brown has been in the area the past month--to teach the art of Navajo silversmithing to Mila Capes-Altom.

Although she is of Chickasaw and Choctaw lineage, she was interested in learning the art of Navajo silversmithing. And, Hosgood will teach anyone who wants to learn.

For someone who quit school in the sixth grade "because I thought I was wasting my time and I couldn't see how I was making any money going to school," Hosgood has done a lot of learning, and a lot of teaching, in his 72 years.

He was born in March, 1922 at Shiprock, N.M., near the Four Corners area of New Mexico, Utah, Arizona and Colorado. He saw the first light of day on a reservation in a traditional home of the Navajos--a hogan. The hogan is a low, dome shaped structure of mud-covered logs, with a smoke hole at the top.

Hosgood acquired his name early in life. It was given to him by members of his tribe when a warring tribe ambushed the Navajos and he managed to get away and climb to the top of a high, almost inaccessible mesa. The name means "got to the top".

He started to school at San Juan Indian School on the reservation near Shiprock. There, they taught the children a trade. They were going to teach Hosgood to be a farmer. He thought that is what he wanted to do.

"They had big, big horses to farm with," he related, adding, "the teacher would have me stand on something high so I could reach the horse to harness it."

Grinning, Hosgood said, "That was when I decided that wasn't what I wanted to do, those horses could step on me."

He and a friend decided they were going to quit school and make some money. "Times were a lot different then," Hosgood remembered, "so when I told my mother what I wanted to do she told me to go ahead."

His first job when he got out on his own, paid him $1.25 every Friday, plus his room and board. Since he hadn't learned to write well, he had to hire someone for a quarter to write to his mother. He soon moved on.

In the 1930s during the time of the CCC camps, Hosgood began work with the CCC. An incident that stands out in his memory, in addition to the fact he was then making $45 a month, was the time he got very ill.

"I was really feeling bad and didn't really feel like working. The guys called me a "lazy Indian". One night I was with a couple of boys who were drunk, but I hadn't been drinking.

"I got really sick and they got me to a hospital. The doctors and nurses at first weren't very attentive, they passed it off as "just another drunk Indian". But after a while they decided that I was sick, very sick," he related.

"I decided the Lord must be saving me for a reason," Hosgood commented. He said, "I call myself a miracle man, when I think about all the things that have happened to me."

Continuing, he said, very seriously, "I died one time." Then he told about a time when he was a small boy that he fell in a lake and "drowned".

Two ordinances on agenda

The city council is to consider amending two ordinances, one concerning what can be dumped at the convenience center and the other concerning fees for impounding dogs and cats, at a meeting Monday night.

The meeting is to begin at 7 p.m. in council chambers.

The proposed change in what can be dumped at the convenience center is to prohibit any construction debris. If approved, such materials would have to be hauled to a commercial landfill, or a commercial container rented.

City Administrator Mike Price, in an earlier meeting, told the council the large container into which residents are permitted to dump their tree and shrub trimmings as well as large household items, was being overloaded with construction materials, primarily by building contractors.

On the proposed amendment to the ordinance concerning impounding of dogs and cats, a fee for employee overtime, should it occur, would be added, is approved Monday.

Also on the tentative meeting agenda, the second of three required public hearings concerning the proposed annexation of a 21-acre tract of land north of the city will be held.

Following that, a resident is to request approval to plat 9.4 acres of land located in the southwest part of the city.

Action on an ordinance proposed by TU Electric, which concerns a rate change, could be taken. The council discussed the proposal at its June 13 meeting, but postponed any action until this meeting.

A resolution will be considered which would approve "... the Contractor Local Opportunity Plan for the 1993 Texas Community Development Program Project."

Aldermen also will discuss future workshops to be held on the 1994-95 city budget. Two have already been held, including one this past Monday, and another is already tentatively scheduled for July 18.

CONFISCATED LOOT FROM BURGLARY IN OKLAHOMA

Two Iowa Park men arrested for burglary

Two Iowa Park men were jailed Monday after being charged with burglarizing a home in Frederick, Okla.

Ronald Henderson Teague, 27, and Ryan Andrew Hoffman, 18, were taken into custody at 206 East Garden by Iowa Park police for theft over $750, and transported to the Wichita County jail.

Hoffman lives at that address, and Teague lives at 307 East Garden.

Police were alerted via a telephone call from the Vernon police, who relayed a message to be on the lookout for the men in a pickup. Vernon had been informed by a Tillman County sheriff's deputy that the two might pass through there enroute here.

The East Garden address was well known to local lawmen, who had received numerous complaints of noise and suspicious activities during the past few weeks.

When officers arrived at the home, they found the pickup which had been described sitting in the carport, and some of the items which had been reported were still in the truck's bed.

The other reportedly stolen items had already been carried into the house, police said. They were found after having received permission to conduct a search.

Leader to print early next week

The June 30 issue of the Iowa Park Leader will be printed a day early, to enable staff members to attend the summer convention of the Texas Press Association.

In order to print the issue on Tuesday evening instead of the usual Wednesday, all news and advertising deadlines will be moved up one day, Bob Hamilton, publisher, said.

All news and display advertising deadlines will be 4 p.m. Monday, and classified advertising deadline will be 12-noon Tuesday.

Eventhough the issue will carry its regular Thursday dateline, it will be printed Tuesday evening and mailed Wednesday to subscribers, as well as being put out on the regular newsstands that same day.

After next week, all regular news and advertising deadlines will resume.

were a Nintendo machine, six Nintendo games, a cash box containing $50, a plastic bottle with $88 in change, and packaged fireworks said to have a wholesale value of $1,205.60.

The total value of the items were reported at around $1,800.

The property was taken from the home of Randy Hanes, Teague's uncle. Hanes also is the brother of Tillman County Sheriff Bill Hanes.

The pickup was impounded.

Teague and Hoffman were to be picked up Wednesday for extradition to Oklahoma, where they will be charged with burglary.

Hoffman also has an outstanding warrant issued locally for his arrest, capias pro fine for speeding.

Police have not made any connection with another theft that was reported earlier Monday from a resident in the 300 block of East Garden, who said gasoline had been siphoned from a vehicle sometime Sunday night.

Five other arrests were reported during the past week, three for public intoxication, one for possession of marijuana and drug paraphanelia, and the other for various violations while driving a motorcycle.

When an officer made a traffic stop at 8:23 p.m. Sunday in the 800 block of Vogel, Billy Gene Morrow Jr., 24, was arrested for having drug paraphanelia in his possession.

After the arrest, Morrow was taken to the police station for booking, and there officers found in his possession a clear plastic bag containing what is believed to be less than two ounces of marijuana.

Trustees delay action after grievance hearing

Following a closed grievance hearing during a called special meeting of the Iowa Park School Board Monday night, trustees said they would "take under advisement" judgement on a grievance brought about recently involving Kidwell Elementary personnel.

The grievance, filed by Kidwell personnel against a Kidwell administrator, is closed record, according to Glen Mitchell, school superintendent.

The session began in the administration building, but due to a seating shortage, was moved to the junior high library. The session was titled a "Level Three Grievance Hearing" on the agenda.

All personnel named in the grievance, along with each sides' legal representative, stayed in the room during part of the closed session. Following board discussion, the meeting was reopened.

He was transported at 10:45 p.m. to the county jail, where he was held under a $200 bond, according to the police blotter entry.

An officer stopped a motorcycle operator in the 300 block of east Garden at 3:20 p.m. Wednesday of last week.

The driver, John Houston, 19, did not have ownership registration papers, no proof of insurance, no safety inspection sticker nor drivers license for a motorcycle.

The vehicle was impounded and Houston was issued traffic citations on the four charges.

The first public intoxication arrest was reported at 8:35 p.m. Friday, when an officer stopped James Charles Hawkins, 50, in the 1200 block of North Bell. He was later released after posting a $81.50 cash bond.

The other two public intoxication arrests were made within a two-hour period Saturday night.

Robert Allen Amburn, 30, was taken into custody in the 400 block of South Wall at 11:51 p.m., and at 1:48 a.m., Robert Shawn Kaufhold, 20, was arrested in the 400 block of West Aldine.

Both men were later released after posting cash bonds of $280 each.

Police investigated an attempted burglary of a concession stand at Hawk Stadium Thursday evening. Force was used to gain entry, but nothing was determined to have been taken.

Board president Keith Fisher announced that there would be no comment. He said the board would take the matter under advisement and answer in a timely manner.

The matter will apparently be discussed again in a called special meeting at 7 p.m. Friday in the administration building. The main agenda item is titled "Discussion of Personnel Assignments" and will be held in closed session as well.

According to an unidentified teacher, the grievance was initiated in April. Following procedure, the plaintiffs filed a written grievance to the person named, and had a time frame of 15 days in which to receive a written response. The plaintiffs then filed a written grievance with the Glen Mitchell, who had seven days to respond.

Meeting with the full board of trustees is the final phase provided by the school district's written policy.

Mrs. Michael Bean

Lisa (Mrs. Michael) Bean enjoys cooking, and considers it more a hobby than a chore. She collects recipes and recipe books and likes to share them with others.

Lisa's father was in the Navy, and the family lived in several states before settling in Wichita Falls when he retired from the military in 1973. She is a graduate of Hirschi High School, and attended Midwestern State University before going to work in 1986 for Bank of America in Iowa Park.

Her husband, Michael, a graduate of Iowa Park High School and Midwestern State University, is a third grade teacher at Bradford. He is attending classes at MSU this summer, working toward his Masters degree.

They are the parents of an eight-month-old son, Caleb.

Lisa said that she has always enjoyed working in Iowa Park, and since she and Michael married and bought a home here, she has come to love the town.

They attend services at Faith Baptist Church, but other than Michael's involvement in school oriented projects, the couple's busy schedules make it difficult to belong to clubs or organizations.

Lisa and Michael enjoy spending time together and with their son. They are also sports fans and like to watch different sporting events. In addition to cooking, Lisa's favorite pastimes include sewing and reading.

Lisa began cooking when she was about nine years old, and said that her mother was good about teaching her. "If I had time, I would cook all the time," she said.

Lisa likes to prepare both difficult and easy recipes. The recipes she is sharing this week are some of her favorites. "They are good year-around, and don't take a lot of time to prepare," she said. Five Spice Casserole and Chocolate Sheet Cake are two of her husband's favorites. The sheet cake recipes came from her grandmother, and was always a family favorite.

Brubaker, Rogers vows read June 11 in Star

Friends and family gathered Saturday, June 11, at 6 p.m. in the Baptist Church at Star to celebrate the marriage of Lydia Christain Brubaker and Michael Alan Rogers.

Parents of the couple are J. S. and Beverly Archer of Star, and Martin Brubaker of Lampasas, and Henry and Bernadene Rogers of Star.

J. T. Lily directed the exchange of double ring wedding vows. Two single candelabra, a large white magnolia arrangement and the unity candle were used as altar decorations. Pews were marked with cream ribbon bows.

The traditional wedding march was played by Mrs. Jean Mayes.

The bride was escorted to the altar by her stepfather, who presented her for marriage.

The bride's formal bridal gown of chiffon over satin was styled with a Victorian neckline and long chiffon and lace sleeves. The skirt was gathered in the back and caught to a rosette of lace.

Her shoulder length veil was attached to a lace and floral bandeau. She carried a cascading bouquet of white roses and Indian fern intermingled with ribbon and lace and centered with a single lavender rose.

Stephanie Rogers, sister of the groom, was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Andrea Brubaker, sister of the bride, and Tommie O'Neil.

They wore spring print knee length dresses. They each carried a single stem of lavender lilacs accented with net and ribbons.

Stephanie Wirmel was ring bearer. She carried the rings on a white pillow of satin and lace.

Mrs. Michael Alan Rogers
(Lydia Christain Brubaker)

Stacie Wirmel was flower girl. She carried a small basket of lavender flowers. They wore identical dresses of lavender floral print with deeper lavender accents. The girls are cousins of the bride.

Best man was Walt Smith, and groomsmen were Darren Clary and Noah Brown. The bridegroom and male attendants wore white tuxedos and boutonnières of lavender rosebuds and baby's breath.

Corsages presented to the bride and groom's mothers were purple iris with white baby's breath and fern tied with dark purple ribbon.

The bride's parents hosted the reception on the lawn of their home.

Lavender chiffon draped the bride's table. A large ceramic swan held an arrangement of lilacs, and greenery.

Her three-tiered cake was trimmed with purple and lavender gumpaste confection. A large silver punch bowl was filled with pink punch and a two-tiered silver container held mixed nuts and mints.

The groom's cake was in the shape of a horse shoe with chocolate icing.

Food tables were covered with red checked cloths. Balloons and lights decorated the yard.

Both the bride and groom are graduates of Star High School. The groom will be going into the Air Force in August. The couple will make their home in Star.

Special guests for the wedding included Robert and Lydia Horton of Iowa Park, and Maggie Jewel Archer, grandparents of the bride, Lillie Sahn, the groom's grandmother, also Bennie and Jan Horton, and Sean and Cody of Iowa Park. The bride is also the granddaughter of the late Gibbons and Doris Brubaker.

As I See It

By Bob Hamilton

With the growing number of residents who are walking for either exercise or health reasons, or both, I'm surprised a group hasn't gotten together as yet to ask the city council to construct a walking track.

I have no idea how many people are walking, but I suspect, from those I see, it is a sizeable percentage of our population.

Most walk along the roadways, and some use either the track at the high school or the small walking path on the west side of Gordon Lake, just north of the pavilion.

Walking along the sides of the streets, as I've learned since I began going on strolls after my stroke, can get a little touchy.

The walker must keep a watchful eye out for vehicles. It's kinda like walking a tightrope when attempting to stay on the extreme side of a paved roadway.

And, as narrow as many of our streets are in residential areas, drivers already have to take turns with oncoming traffic, when they converge on an area where other vehicles are parked at the curb.

Also, most walkers prefer to take their jaunts in the early morning or late afternoon, because of summer heat. That makes visibility difficult for the drivers also.

From talking with walkers who have used the high school track, that can become extremely boring. Especially when there's no activity going on such as football workout or something like that.

The walker soon finds the berms of the stadium can become like the walls of a room, and though a blue sky is beautiful, the walker can keep his eyes off the path for just so long before beginning to wander.

And for those who want to walk multiple miles on the quarter-mile oval, just keeping track of how many laps they've gone can become confusing.

By the way, walkers using the track are urged by the school to walk on the outside lane, so the inside won't be overused. And doing that, the walker actually covers a greater distance, especially walking multiple miles, because the length measurement is on the inside curb.

The little oval track at Oscar Park, which was a gift provided several years ago by Bethania Hospital, is extremely short in distance and not always in the best state of repair.

Several have mentioned to me, however, their surprise of the number of walkers who use it.

All this is leading up to a proposal that was seriously considered eight or 10 years ago by the city council, to build a walking track all the way around Gordon Lake.

That same proposal is now being promoted by the year-old Iowa Park Clean & Green organization.

Besides the cost -- and it wouldn't be inexpensive -- the city government initially dropped the idea because the only route on the north end appeared to be walking on the access road.

Even though lots and lots of walkers now use the access road, the council felt the city might be held responsible should any vehicle-walker accident occur.

Well, a possible solution to that might possibly be using a couple of discarded railroad flatcars, which Burlington very likely would donate.

A preliminary contact with one official produced an indication the company might be willing.

Like I said, paving a walking track around the lake would be expensive, not only because of the cost of asphalt, but also establishing a proper base to insure the surface lasting.

A fair portion of the expense might very well be covered by a grant from the Texas Parks and Wildlife Dept. A lot of communities have been getting grants for such projects the last couple of years.

There are adequate parking areas on either side of the lake, where walkers could drive up, leave their cars, and head out on their trip.

So, it all comes down to what the public wants, what the taxpayers are willing to pay, and how much of a demand exists.

We'll just have to wait and see.

Worth Quoting

Four high school boys, afflicted with spring fever, skipped morning classes. After lunch, they reported to the principal that the car had a flat tire on the way to school.

Much to their relief, he just smiled and said, "Well, you missed a test this morning, so take seats apart from one another and get out your notebooks."

Still smiling, he waited for them to settle down. Then he said:

"First question: which tire was flat?"

The dump ground is a busy place on Saturdays.

Of course, we don't call it the "dump ground" anymore. In fact, the more modern title of "sanitary landfill" has even fallen victim to the times. Nowadays we call it the "convenience center" which is somewhat of a misnomer.

It's open only on Saturdays. That's not too convenient since some folks need to haul off trash on other days of the week.

Things really have changed over the years. Back in the "dump ground" days, there were little roads between mountain after mountain of trash and treasures. Nowadays, we dump our trash in a big steel box to be trucked off to the big regional landfill. There aren't any more mountains of trash to sift through while looking for treasures which has taken away much of the appeal of making a run to the dump.

One thing that hasn't changed is that people continue throwing away lots of good stuff. I almost never go to the dump ground (make that "convenience center") without finding something useful.

Peering over into the big steel box, I recently noticed a large amount of building materials and carpet that had been discarded. I thought to myself: there are people in third world countries who could build houses out of the stuff we throw away.

Registration still required

Responding to a recent decision by the President, the U.S. House of Representatives voted on May 23 to continue the requirement for all men to register with Selective Service upon reaching age 18.

The members considered a proposed amendment to the Defense Authorization Bill, H.R. 4301, that would have ended registration. The amendment was rejected 125 to 273.

Five days before the vote, President Clinton notified Congress that continuing draft registration and providing funding to operate the Selective Service System is "essential to our national security."

In letters to the leadership of the House and Senate on May 18, the President based his decision on a recently completed review of the program by a National Security Council working group.

He concluded that the Selective Service System and peacetime registration must be retained as a prudent military preparedness measure in an uncertain world, as a link between American society and the volunteer military, and as a symbol of national resolve.

Although there has been no need to draft men for military service during the past 21 years, the nation has maintained the capability to reinstate a draft in a major crisis.

Men who don't register are in violation of Federal law. Non-registrants can be prosecuted, and they are ineligible for Federal student financial aid, most Federal jobs, and job training.

The law applies to mail immigrant aliens, 18 through 25 years old, as well as male citizens.

Letter to the Editor

Reader 'truly disgusted'

Dear Mr. Hamilton,

In your column "As I See It" June 16, 1994 you really "rattled my cage". I feel I can't let it go without letting you know "How I See It". You made the statement that people misusing their handicap parking privileges was one of your 'complaints'. First let me ask, are you gifted with x-ray vision that you can see through clothing and are able to see where a bullet from a Vict-Cong gun entered the stomach and exited the back, tearing up quite a bit on the way through or can you see scars from a triple by-pass that would have been more if the system could have handled it? Could you see the hours of physical therapy necessary to make it possible to walk from a car inside a store to a store furnished wheelchair after two total knee replacements?

"As I See It" if you are any of your readers follow your advice and give me a dirty look for using the handicap parking that I have a right to use, I promise to give back as good as I get. In fact I'm seeing red right now!!!!

I wonder how many people who have to use the handicap parking hate to go to the businesses anywhere near Iowa Park now. Knowing people like you are out there making rash judgments.

Truly disgusted,

Louis Briley
507 W 3rd St.
Burkburnett, TX. 76354

(Editor's note: Obviously this shoe doesn't fit your foot. It was intended for those who do abuse the parking places, that I personally know, taking up the parking places you rightfully deserve. I'm sorry if I offended you, or anyone else in your position. But, as you have so well pointed out, there are two sides to every story.)

Iowa Parkan reflects on Russian trip

An Iowa Park man's observation of the people of the former Soviet Russia is that they want religion, medical supplies, and whatever else help Americans might be able to share with them.

Chuck Seets returned last week from a missionary and humanitarian trip to Minsk, Belarus, which is south-east of Moscow. It wasn't his first such trip there, nor will it be his last, he indicated.

His travels to that country are coordinated with the Common Wealth Independent States, a church-development foundation with headquarters in Amarillo. Participants of CWIS activities represent all denominations.

On each trip, participants are to carry a 65-pound box of medical supplies. Their needs are assessed prior to each group's departure.

"Medically, they have nothing," Seets, a retired education administrator, said. He told of requests from doctors for such basic items as thermometers.

The organization sent a group of American doctors to Russia in September, to work with their physicians who have no updating literature and seek technical lecturing.

Russians are starved for religion, something they've longed for since Lenin took over the country in 1917.

Chuck Seets

They know of religion, but seek more knowledge, both through reading and church services.

In the last three years, CWIS has had more than a quarter of a million Bibles printed in Russia, for distribution by Americans traveling there.

Of the Bibles printed, about a third each have been full Bibles, New Testament and Children's Bibles.

The Americans hold church services in existing churches, they go to parks and other public areas to spread the word of religion, and visit in the homes of the people.

An interpreter is provided for every two persons during their visit.

There were 19 Americans on the most recent trip Seets took, and a different group leaves every two weeks throughout the summer, each paying his/her own way.

The cost is $2,100, which includes round trip from Amarillo and pays for everything except the lunches.

Seets said he would like to go again in August, but is concerned if he will be able to finance a second trip in such a short time.

Concerning finances, inflation is running rampant throughout the former Communist country.

As an example, Seets said an American dollar exchanged for $1,900 roubles on his trip in 1993. The rate two weeks ago had risen to $22,000, and one publication forecast it would leap as high as $24,000 before the end of June.

But, despite the personal cost, the opportunity to help people who are in such need, and so willing to hear and discuss religion, makes the effort well worth while.

GARDENING HINTS

By MARK TERNING, COUNTY AGENT - HORTICULTURE

Heat tolerance, disease resistance, and summer-long landscape color are qualities which make Lantana a top choice for Texoma landscapes.

Few bedding plants will survive the searing heat of summer as effectively as Lantana. Lantana is also an excellent alternative to the disease-prone periwinkle. In full sun, high heat areas you can count on Lantana to perform well.

Lantana, of the vervain family Verbenaceae, consists of more than 150 species of shrubs and herbaceous perennials. Lantanas are mostly natives of the tropics and sub-tropics of the Americas.

Their name is an ancient one used for the quiet unrelated genus Viburnum. In North Texas and Southern Oklahoma, most Lantana species will perform as an annual plant.

In recent years, strains of dwarf varieties have become popular as bedding plants. The Lantanas are free-flowering from spring until frost. All types can be used in containers and the trailing types make excellent hanging basket specimens.

Lantana has been improved in its usefulness largely through the efforts of French hybridists.

The older varieties are tall and lanky and set a heavy crop of berry clusters, but are showy in hot weather. The newer varieties are more dwarf, spreading, and bush in habit, early blooming, and are available in a much wider color range.

Colors available are white, yellow, orange, deep red, pink, and purple. Often the older outer flowers of each cluster are of a different hue than the younger, inner flowers.

The number one improvement which has been made is sterilization. Several new varieties bloom profusely, but never form berries which normally have to be removed before more blooms will be produced.

This sterilization in some Lantanas insures that the plant will be in bloom for a longer period of time. Sterile varieties include New Gold, Lemon Swirl, Trailing Lavender, and Trailing White among others.

Lantana is a great landscape plant which is very adapted to the Texoma area as a colorful annual bedding plant.

Plant Lantana transplants in well-prepared bed areas or in containers in full-sun landscape locations.

Some of the attractive varieties which are available from local nurseries and garden centers are Dallas Red, New Gold, Radiation, Confetti, Training Lavender, and Trailing White.

Obituaries

Leota Wigley Weseman

Services for Leota Wigley Weseman, 90, longtime resident of Iowa Park, will be at 2 p.m. today at First Christian Church.

Rev. Dale Harter, interim pastor of the church, will officiate. Burial will be Highland Cemetery under direction of Dutton Funeral Home.

Mrs. Weseman died Monday in a Wichita Falls hospital.

She was born Jan. 1, 1904, in Clay County on what is now known as the Scaling Ranch, to Dr. and Mrs. V.R. Wigley. The Wigley name has been a familiar one in this area almost nine decades. Her father was a veterinarian. She was married to Hubert N. Weseman March 3, 1957, in El Paso. He died Nov. 9, 1976.

Mrs. Weseman was next to the oldest living graduate of Iowa Park High School, graduating with the class of 1923.

After one year at Texas Christian University she went to work as one of the original employees for Levine's Department Store in Iowa Park, the founding store of the Levine's Department Store chain.

She always said she was bookkeeper, clerk, janitor, window trimmer and chauffeur at first. She remained with the stores 45 years until her retirement in 1969.

When Levine's bought out a firm in Lubbock, Mrs. Weseman was sent to the firm's store in Colorado City to close it out for Levine's and then to Lubbock where she worked for them until they bought out a store in Wichita Falls. They sent her to the Wichita Falls store so she could live with her parents in Iowa Park.

For many years Mrs. Weseman had made her home in the old Wigley 15-room house on East Cash, an Iowa Park landmark that was built before the turn of the century and purchased by her father in the late 1920s.

She and her sister, Ruth Robertson, were well known for the large amounts of fresh vegetables and fruits they canned or froze, or gave to family and friends each year.

Mrs. Weseman was a member of the Friendly Door Senior Citizens and a former member of the Iowa Park Organ Club.

Survivors include one brother, Alonzo Wigley of Whitesboro; three sisters, Mrs. Robertson of Iowa Park, Erschell Davis and Wynogene Mann, both of San Diego, Calif.

The family suggests memorials may be made to First Christian Church of Iowa Park.

Lula Mae Minyard

Services for Lula Mae Minyard, 94, of Holliday, will be at 10 a.m. today at Dutton Funeral Home with Rev. Randy Potter, pastor of First Baptist Church of Holliday, officiating. Burial will be in Holliday Cemetery.

She died Tuesday in an Iowa Park nursing home.

Mrs. Minyard was born Dec. 9, 1899, in Hall County. She had lived in Holliday since 1973, moving from Lubbock. She was a homemaker and a member of First Baptist Church of Holliday. She and Lee Roy Minyard were married Feb. 27, 1916, in Estelline. He died Feb. 5, 1981. She and her husband farmed in Collingsworth County for many years. Her daughter, Cybil, died in 1928, and her son, Weldon, died in 1972.

Survivors include a daughter, Jo Daume of Holliday; five grandchildren; 10 great-grandchildren; and two great-great-grandchildren.

Memorials may be made to First Baptist Church of Holliday or First Baptist Church of Iowa Park.

Jessie Teeter

Services for Jessie Teeter, 84, of Henrietta were Wednesday at 2 p.m. at Owens & Brumley Funeral Home of Burkburnett.

Rev. Johnny Dowell, pastor of Calvary Baptist Church of Burkburnett, officiated. Burial was in Burkburnett Cemetery.

Mrs. Teeter, sister of Elmer Skinner of Iowa Park, died Sunday in a Henrietta hospital.

Born July 2, 1909, in Gainesville, she was married to Dudley B. Teeter, Sr., Dec. 3, 1931, in Walters, Okla. He died in 1988. Her sons, Walter H. Teeter died in 1978, Dudley B. Teeter Jr., died in 1960, and Delton L. Teeter, died in 1964.

Mrs. Teeter had lived in Henrietta since 1984, and was a longtime resident of Wichita County and Burkburnett. She was a retired homemaker and a Baptist.

In addition to Skinner, survivors include two sons, Lloyd of Cache, Okla., and Albert E. of Byers; three daughters, Mary Brummett of Burnet, Louis Snyder of Jay, Okla., and Carolyn Wallace of Temple; 30 grandchildren; 54 great-grandchildren, and one great-great-grandchild.

Debby Kaye Sanderson

Services for Debby Kaye Sanderson, 39, of Electra, were at 2 p.m. Tuesday at First Baptist Church in Electra.

Rev. Bruce Frank, pastor, officiated. Burial was in Electra Memorial Park under direction of Totten-Day Funeral Home.

Mrs. Sanderson, sister of Susie Williams of Iowa Park, died Saturday at her home in Electra.

Born Feb. 21, 1955 in Oklahoma City, she was married to David Sanderson March 3, 1972, in Iowa Park. She had lived in Electra since 1981. She was a Baptist.

Other survivors include her husband; two sons, Spencer David of San Francisco, and Wesley Wade of Electra; one daughter, Mistee Dawn Sanderson of Electra; her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Bell of Electra; two brothers, John Smith and Ronnie Bell, both of Electra, and another sister, Rhonda McLaughlin of Oklahoma.

Growing Up Girls Clinic

Several girls attended the Growing Up Girls Clinic held at the RAC last week, and had a good time. Information on hair care, nail care, and skin care was presented to the girls, as well as important info on basic hygiene, posture, and manners. We would like to thank the girls who attended and all of those who volunteered to help with the clinic. Special thanks to PJ's Fashions and Brandi Swanson for their assistance with the style show.

The Iowa Park Police Department and the RAC will sponsor a Home Alone course to offer safety tips to children staying home alone during the summer. The course will be offered free of charge, however pre-registration is requested. Following a brief discussion with Officer Laura Perkins, the students will be entertained by role-playing skits and a showing of the movie Home Alone. The course is scheduled to be held on Wednesday, July 6, at 9 a.m. Please call the RAC office to pre-register.

Health Tips

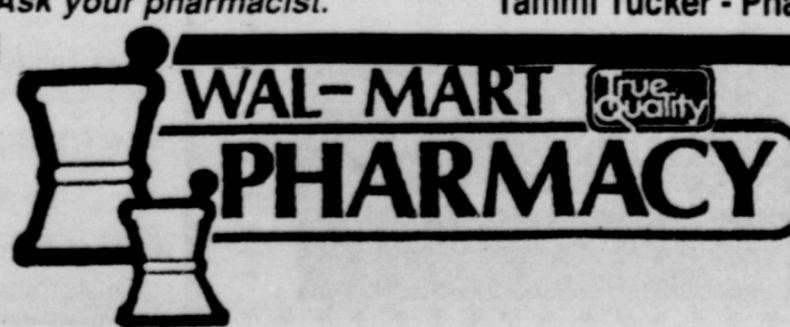

Living with Asthma

- Asthma is a chronic, obstructive disease of the bronchial tubes which supply air to the lungs. It is believed to be hereditary.
- More than four million children now have, or have had, asthma.
- In some parts of the country, asthma affects nearly 10 percent of all school-age children.
- Asthma can be triggered by allergic and nonallergic substances.
- Nonallergic triggers include: exercise, viral infections, cigarette smoke, noxious odors, cold air, weather changes, hair sprays, perfume, air pollution, and extreme stress.
- Allergic triggers include: pollen, mold, animal dander, certain foods, and dust mites.
- Symptoms of asthma include: a dry cough, shortness of breath, a tight feeling in the chest, wheezing, apprehension, restlessness, and fatigue.
- If asthma is caused by allergic triggers, the simplest and most successful strategy is to remove the allergens from the immediate environment.
- If removal of the allergen is not possible, medications may be prescribed to control the symptoms of asthma.
- Allergy shots are used together with avoidance and medication. They are used primarily in cases of respiratory asthma and allergies. They are not effective with food allergies.
- The primary goal in treating someone with allergies is to help them have as normal a life as possible.
- With proper treatment, those who suffer from asthma should be able to participate in normal daily activities, including sports, with few restrictions.

Navajo silversmith

He said, "I remember I had on a red shirt. I couldn't swim--I remember at first seeing under the water and my lungs filling up. The only eye witness was my aunt, about 15 years old. She ran to my grandfather's house to get him. He took the time to saddle his horse to ride to the lake. He saw me on the other side from him and came and pulled me out of the water and laid me on the bank on my stomach."

"He didn't give me resuscitation, just let me stay in that position. About two hours later that is where I finally came back to life."

The Indian elders have a legend for everything, and coyotes play a big part in the legends of all tribes.

The elders told Hosgood he fell in the water and drowned because his body was hungry for prairie dogs, so the coyotes pushed him in the water so he would not want to eat the prairie dogs. "That was their way of explaining the incident to a child," Hosgood said.

Eventually he settled in Roosevelt, Utah, southeast of Salt Lake City, working for a Ute tribe on a reservation. "That was where I learned carpentry work," Hosgood said. It seems he learned something new everywhere he went and after learning a trade he taught others.

While working with the Ute tribe he met the woman who became his first wife. She died eight years later. After her death he returned to the Navajo reservation. When he married the second time, he married within his own tribe. She died about two years ago.

Hosgood learned the technique of silversmithing from the Pima tribe on a reservation near Scottsdale, Ariz. After learning he began teaching the basic technique and style of the Navajos, and the intricate designs that can be fashioned in sterling silver.

Brown uses nothing but sterling silver in the rings and bracelets that he makes. All of his work is done by hand. He has one hand-held electric torch. The lace design that he does on a lot of rings takes seven or more hours to make. He cuts each tiny piece of silver and solders the pieces in the design he wants with sterling silver.

He buys all of his silver from an Indian Supply Company in New Mexico because he hasn't found one in Texas or Oklahoma.

After learning silversmithing, next came learning the art of stone cutting and shaping which he was taught by the Peyotes near Tucson.

He does all of his own cutting, shaping and polishing of the stones which he uses in the rings and bracelets he makes. For doing this work, he uses all hand-held tools, except for an electric buffer to polish the stones. After learning the art of stone work he began to teach others. He also has been teaching Mrs. Capes-Alton to make rings.

Hosgood says the only tribes who do silversmithing are the Hopi, Zuni and Navajo. He wants to teach as many as he can the Navajo techniques "before I die."

Each of the tribes have their own techniques of silversmithing. The Hopis do not use turquoise in their rings or bracelets, the Zunis do what is called needlepoint with their silver work, and the Navajos use big stones in most of their work. The other tribes usually engrave or etch their work. Brown can do all three, but prefers the Navajo style.

Brown's wife was a beader. He still has some beautiful strings of beads she made, and several pairs of earrings, all hand beaded. They used to travel all over the United States making the arts and crafts shows and displaying their work.

At the shows, Brown had his tools set up and always put a sign that read, "Jewelry repaired while you wait." He has not made any of the arts and crafts shows since the death of his wife, but he is working on some things now and plans in the future to start making the shows again.

Add Baptist mission work to the Indians in the repertoire of his many-faceted experiences. He did mission work in most of the United States.

He laughed as he recalled that he was doing mission work in the San Francisco and thought he was preaching to a group of Japanese, until someone told him they were Eskimos.

It was there that an evangelist taught Hosgood the art of sandpainting.

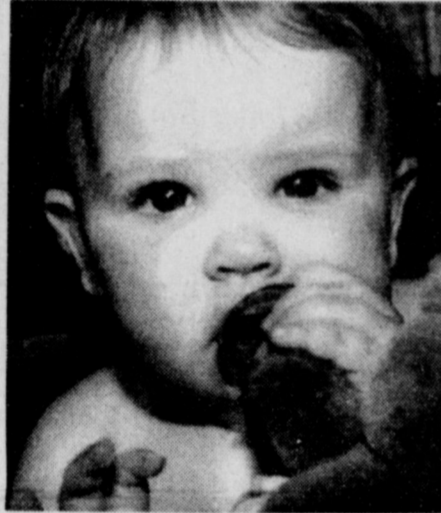

After he began doing carpentry work, he learned the basics of an electrician's work on his own, later going to an electrician school so he could get his license.

And he was a miner for a while. He mined uranium until he became very ill with a lung problem and almost died--again, after having surgery.

When the couple lived in Arizona Hosgood worked as a maintenance man for the City of Phoenix.

He has a daughter in Olney and a son in New Mexico. He will return to New Mexico for a while soon and hopes to be back in this area before long.

If as he says, he believes the Lord saved him for a reason, perhaps he tried to learn so many different occupations in order to teach others as he learned. At any rate he seems to have given the Lord a choice of reasons, but he has settled on being an artisan.
