Ella H. Hay, C.S. of Indianapolis, Indiana

Member of the Board of Lectureship of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Massachu

The lecturer spoke substantially as follows:

A poorly dressed man appeared at a Christian Science lecture in a small town one evening and took a seat in the front row. As the speaker opened the discussion the man leaned forward cupping his hands over his ears in an effort to hear. About midway in the lecture he leaned back comfortably, continuing however in an attitude of rapt attention. After the lecture he stated to a few who sat near him that he had been attracted to the hall by the word free on the lecture hall by the word free on the fecture advertising board. The prospect of an hour in a warm, well-lighted room had been inviting. During the course of the lecture his hear-ing, which had long been impaired, stored? The answer is simple. Health has not been restored because it has been sought where it cannot be found, namely in matter. To look for health in matter is as foolish and effort wasting as to search for orange blossoms in the icelands of Alaska. Health is wholly spiritual and is established through the operation of divine Principle, Love. Health is a whole or holy state of consciousness in which sin and disease have no place.

Recognition of True Selfhood Essential in Healing

Healings accomplished through Christian Science make a distinctive and impressive record both in quantity and quality. What is the method of these healings? How are fear, sin, sickness, and limitations overcome through spiritual means?

Recognition of our true selfhood as children of God is essential in unfoldment of man's true nature healing. In order to know man as he really is and recognize our true selfhood, we must understand God. In defining God Mrs. Eddy makes use of such terms as Mind, Love, Spirit, Principle, Soul, and Truth, all of which are stated or implied in the Bible. Prayerful contemplation of these terms and of the divine attributes enlarges our concept of God as Father-Mother, tenderly cherishing and sustaining His spiritual creation. The various synonyms for God given by Mrs. Eddy are meant to convey the breadth, majesty, amplitude, and perfection of the infinite. One who Contemplation of what she recalled and sorrow in human consciousness with healthy spiritual concepts of of the chapter served to waken the student and open her thought for the healing. The chapter begins with the familiar verse (Hebr.

Quietly she reviewed in thought the experiences of a few of the many Scriptural characters mentioned in this glorious account of the accomplishments through faith of spiritually-minded men of the Old Testament. Enoch, through faith, walked with God and was translated so that he did not see death. By faith Noah prepared an ark and saved his house; by faith Moses led the children of Israel out of Egypt; through faith they passed through the Red Sea on dry land. Through faith the walls of Jericho fell after having been compassed seven days. For a considerable length of time the student contemplated the experiences of these men and of characters of the New Testament as well. She reasoned that faith had sustained Daniel in the lions' den, and that she was facing a lion of disease, and that through faith and spiritual understanding she would remain unhurt. A statement from the textbook challenged her thought (p. 393): "Rise in the strength of Spirit to resist all that is unlike good. God has made man capable of this, and nothing can vitiate the ability and power divinely bestowed on man."

A word in the Glossary worth considering is oil. It was healing ing of Christ Jesus, and it is the teaching of Christian Science. oil for which the prophet cried (Jer. 8:22), "Is there no balm in Gilead?" See how oil in its spiritual meaning is indeed a balm, a healing agency, comforting, re-generating, and bringing health and cure.

ually-minded thinkers. About 1868 Mrs. Eddy healed Mr. Whittier with one visit, at his home in Amesbury, of incipient pulmonary consumption (Pulpit and Press, p. 54:28-30). She was brought up in a Puritan household in an atmos-phere of refinement and culture, where religion was commonly the subject of conversation and clergymen frequent guests.

From early childhood she was a thinker and investigator. She was always ready to help the weak and downtrodden and strove to alleviate suffering wherever it appeared. When a little girl she comforted the farm animals when they seemed distressed, and she was seemed distressed, and she was prone to give her own warm scarves and mittens to schoolmates less warmly clad than she was. After becoming a widow at an early age she chose a limited in-come rather than sell the slaves that had been owned by her husband before his death. One of her biographers states that Mrs. Eddy was "unwilling to accept for her-self the price of a human life" (The Life of Mary Baker Eddy by Sibyl Wilbur, p. 40).

Mrs. Eddy was well fitted by background and unusual spirituality to be the Discoverer and Founder of Christian Science and its beloved Leader. The immediate factor leading to her discovery was her own healing, through spiritual light thrown on the Scripspiritual fight thrown on the Scrip-tures, of an injury pronounced fatal by the attending physician. However, she had long sought to know God's law of healing, and she was convinced that this law was available to all. She states (Retrospection and Introspection, p. 24), "During twenty years prior to my discovery I had been trying to trace all physical effects to a mental cause; and in the latter part of 1866 I gained the scientific certainty that all causation was Mind, and every effect a mental phenomenon.

For nearly a half-century after her discovery this consecrated and unselfed Christian woman devoted time and effort to giving Christian Science to the world so that all might feel the touch of Christ, or Truth, and be awakened and healed. A thorough study of her life and teachings convinces one beyond doubt that she was anointed and appointed of God for the great work of revealing the rule of Christian healing to this age.

In some instances before her discovery of Christian Science she healed herself and others through her prayers. After her discovery her healings were comparable to those of Christ Jesus and his early followers. On Boston Common, a public park in the city, she once passed a cripple who had used a wheel chair for a number of years. As she passed by and noticed his condition she spoke to him, tellin him he was God's perfect child. After talking with her he felt better and looked for her to come again. Several days later she passed that way once more and stopped to speak to him. This time he was healed. He had been so crippled that he could not brush a fly from his face, but with the healing he regained full use of his hands and became a fine penman. He was no longer dependent, but able to earn his own living. (A Child's Life of Mary Baker Eddy by Ella H. Hay, p. 75.) Here was as Peter arity su John dispensed at the gate of the temple, given from the generous heart of that gentle woman, Mary Baker Eddy, who has given the world the great gift of Christian Science. In the words of the Scrip-ture (Prov. 31:31), "Let her own works praise her in the gates." Prayer is characterized by Mrs. Eddy as follows (Science and Health, p. 4): "The habitual strug-gle to be always good is unceasing prayer." The school on prayer in prayer." The chapter on prayer in the textbook from which this quotation is taken is an enlightening and original exposition of the sub-ject in which the author lifts the concept of prayer above mere peti-tion to an unknown God, to the recognition of man's unity with the Father, and letting His will be

Hear the summary of the record of creation given in from the eaves trough. However dirty the water was before a rain, it was fresh and clear afterward. The coming in of the fresh and clean water put out the old and unclean. Mrs. Eddy says (Science and Health, p. 201): "The way to extract error from mortal mind is to pour in truth through floodtides of Love. Christian perfection is won on no other basis." True selfhood is seen proportionably as truth is welcomed into conscious-ness with its flood-tides of love.

Fear Overcome Through Christian Science

the King James Version used com-monly in Protestant churches and studied daily by Christian Scien-tists in connection with the Chris-tian Science textbook. God saw everything, and it was good. Does not this fact preclude the possi-bility of sin, disease, despair, lone-liness, limitation as God-created and real? Denial of all discord incidental to material selfhood opens thought to receive the Christ, Truth, with its healing and re-generation. It was said of the first Christmas Day that there was no room in the inn. We make room Man's inherent perfection as the child of God is the basis from which the Christian Scientist ar-gues against sense testimony in healing disease. He insists that man is the beloved of the Father, C. T. Johnson Visits that he dwells in Love's eternal mansion, cared for, watched over, supplied. Why apostle (II Tim. 1:7), "God hath not given us the spirit of fear; but of power, and of love, and of a sound mind." Christian Scientists claim immunity from fear on the grounds that God made all and made it good, hence there is noth-ing to fear. Man is not, cannot be afraid. Since all is good, there is nothing to fear, no element capable of inciting fear, and no fear. Mrs. Eddy writes of fear (Retrospection and Introspection, p. 61): "You Johnson also destres a $1,000 bo nus for all veterans, and says all veterans should come under the This is his first political race and he says he is definitely not a

"Suffering and weakness are unlike God," reasoned the student. Then came another challenge "You are rising in thought, but how about the body?" "'Mortal mind and body are one," said the student aloud, using Mrs. Eddy's words on page 177 of the textbook. "I am rising in conscious thought above fear and disease, and the body must rise also. I have a right to be about my Father's business, which at this time is making a comfortable home for my family." Meeting the last challenge was an important step in dissolving the fear, and the student arose. Within an hour every ves-tige of the disease had disappeared, and she was preparing a meal for the family.

How was this healing accom-plished? The answer is in the words of the textbook (p. 1): "The prayer that reforms the sinner and heals the sick is an absolute faith that all things are possible to God, -a spiritual understanding of Him an unselfed love." The first element of the healing prayer in the experiences just related is seen to be faith. The student had strengthened her faith through contemplation of Scriptural references and statements of truth from the Christian Science textbook. A measure of spiritual understanding, which Mrs. Eddy names as the second element of healing prayer, was evidenced in the student's clear reasoning, separation of the real from the unreal, and in the rejection of fear. Unselfed love, the third element in healing prayer, was manifested in her desire to be about her Father's business. Faith, spiritual understanding, and un-selfed love are evidences of the Christ-consciousness.

The Christ Wakens the Sick and the Sinner

It is important to understand the Christ and to recognize Jesus, who so fully manifested the Christ, as the Way-shower. Christ is the ideal of God. Spiritual concepts, pure and enlightening, emanating from divine Mind, are evidences of the Christ, conceinences, Spiritual the Christ-consciousness. Spiritual ideals, entertained and demon-strated, are absolute evidence of the power and presence of God. To hold constantly such ideals is

To hold constantly such ideals is to individualize infinite power, which heals the sick. The Christ is manifest in good thoughts, words, and deeds, which draw mankind away from beliefs of life, substance, and intelligence in matter, and which forward the recomption of man's unit with recognition of man's unity with God. Mrs. Eddy defines the Christ as (ibid., p. 583), "The divine manifestation of God, which comes to the flesh to destroy incarnate error." She also states (ibid., p. 316), "Christ illustrates that blend-ing with God, his divine Principle, which gives man dominion over all the earth."

Christian Science Reveals the Naturalness of Good

Christian Science shows that it is natural to be well and happy. Mrs. Eddy writes (Miscellaneous Writings, p. 200), "It was the consummate naturalness of Truth in the mind of Jesus, that made his healing easy and instantaneous.' As natural as for a bird to fly or for light to destroy darkness is it for all to be happy. Joy is spiritual the companion of strength, health, and plenty. Joy is not dependent on material acquisition nor upon person, place, or thing. It is not the sport of circumstance. It is the gift of God.

One may think he would be happy if certain circumstances happy if certain circumstances changed. In reality circumstances are the result of joy and not the cause. Healthy, happy concepts growing out of close communion with the Father and demonstration of divine Principle show forth in joyous experiences. A child skip-ning along hannily was asked "What makes you so happy?" Re-plied the little one, "Does some-thing have to make you happy?" Christian Science says to the blind: "It is natural for man to see blind: "It is natural for man to see. Sight is not in matter but is a faculty of Mind. Sight is in reality spiritual discernment, not a func-tion of the visual organism. The child of God discerns good and hence has good sight." Said the Master (Matt. 5:8), "Blessed are the pure in heart: for they shall see God." They shall see good. They shall have good sight. To the deaf this religion speaks confi-dently and encouragingly, saying: "Hear the word of God. Spirit-ual understanding is hearing, and this is your birthright. God, Mind, imparts understanding, uplifts blind: "It is natural for man to see. imparts understanding, uplifts thought, and leads the way to health and freedom." Separation of the real from the unreal, acceptance of the former and rejection of ance of the former and rejection of the latter, is good hearing. Health, harmony, joy, abun-dance, success—these good gifts are the natural heritage of man. Man, the child of God, is fully aware of his heritage. He is not a weak, vacillating mortal, but is conscious of harminest harmony and success of happiness, harmony, and success

Regeneration Through Change in Basis of Thought

A chapter in the textbook en-titled "Glossary" is devoted to definitions of key Scriptural terms as well as to some words of com-mon usage. Study of these defini-tions helps immeasurably in under-standing the true meaning of the Bible.

let us await calmly and cheerfully the certainty of the triumph of good and of peace on earth, good will to men.

Charity, the second element of oil, is beautifully illustrated in the Scriptural story of the healing of the lame man at the gate of the temple called Beautiful, where he was carried daily to ask alms. It is related that he looked on Peter and John, expecting to receive something of them. Note, he had expectancy! Receptivity also was evident! True, he expected silver and gold, but how readily he ac-cepted the gift of healing when Pater said (Acts 3:6), "Silver and gold have I none; but such as I have give I thee: In the name of Jesus Christ of Nazareth rise up related that he looked on Peter Jesus Christ of Nazareth rise up and walk." The man's thought was roused by Peter's words; truth was accepted and healing acknowl-edged. He not only was physically healed but was a better man. How do we know? Because, according to the account, he (Acts 3:8) "entered with them into the temple, walking, and leaping, and praising God." Again referring to the Glos-sary we find temple defined in part (Science and Health, p. 595), "the superstructure of Truth; the shrine of Lowa" Was activity of Love." Was not giving thanks and entering the temple evidence of a better basis of thought? The Christian Scientist dispenses true charity. He mentally meets discordant conditions within his experience with the thought (Acts 3:6), "Such as I have give I thee." In other words, he insists mentally that error in whatever form prethat error in whatever form presented is unlike God, therefore unreal. He does not intrude on an-other's thought, but faithfully clears his own, rejecting evil and claiming the supremacy of good. The greatest charity is the absolute conviction that in his real selfhood our fellow man is the child of God. Gentleness is the third element of oil. "Thy gentleness hath made me great" (II Sam. 22:36), says Scripture. Mrs. Eddy is often re-ferred to as a "New England gentlewoman." Seldom is so comprehensive a characterization made in so few words. She was gentle and great. In one of her messages and great. In one of her messages to The Mother Church she suggests as a motto for every Christian Scientist (Message for 1902, p. 14),

"Great not like Caesar, stained with star, And following found the Child? Yea, I will watch! Shall I not sing, As angels sang, of peace on earth, Of love, a strain to pierce the gloom We must understand and appre-ciate Mrs. Eddy in order to under-stand her teachings. She was born in New England in a period when the trend of thought was largely along spiritual and idealistic lines. Mrs. Eddy was a recognized writer from her early years. Among her well-known contemporaries were Ralph Waldo Emerson, Bronson Alcott, Henry Thoreau, Abraham Lincoln, and John Greenleaf Whit-tier, and other idealists and spirit-Of sin and pain, of fear and death, To claim the reign of peace in every heart, Each morn a Christmas morn? . Yea, I will sing!

Spiritual inspiration, the last named element of oil, a natural outgrowth of the preceding ele-ments, heals the sick and regenerates the sinner. The dream of sentient matter obstructs satisfaction. But why dream? How important that the world waken from dreams of sensuality, limitation, and fear, and witness the advent of true peace on earth. Overcoming fear and strife in one's own thought is worth-while contribution to world peace.
