Hawks open '95 season Friday at Burkburnett

IOWA PARK, WICHITA COUNTY, TEXAS 76367

Some things never seem to change, like Iowa Park's opponent in the season opener Friday night.

For the 10th consecutive year, the Hawks will open the football season against Burkburnett and will be looking to snap a three-game losing streak against the Bulldogs.

In last year's contest, Burk took advantage of four scoring plays of over 35 yards to up end the Hawks 36-0. But don't look for the same results in tomorrow night's game.

Iowa Park is coming off a very impressive outing against Childress, ranked No. 8 in the pre-season polls, in which the Hawks held the Bobcats to only one first down and two total yards in the first 20 plays of their final scrimmage. That, added to the tie against the Wichita Falls High School Coyotes in their first scrimmage, has everyone excited about the season

Head coach Weldon Nelms, in his second year as the Head Hawk, has his team ready to play and is looking forward to the challenge of the upcoming season. After finishing the '94 campaign 0-10, the year of experience in the new offense and defense is

"We're leaps and bounds ahead of where we were this time last year heading into the opener," Nelms said. "Last year we were predictable offensively and Burk realized that and played an eight man line against us and used their speed to keep us in check. But this year, we've got a much bigger arsenal and we feel like we will be able to dictate what they have to do defensively against us with our multiple formations and our passing game.

"I think our kids may still have that 0-10 in the back of their minds," Nelms added. "But they realize how much they've improved and now they expect to win ball games where last year, they hoped to win. This year they seem to take it personal. Everyone of them felt like they should have beaten Childress in our last scrimmage and it wasn't enough that they had given the No. 8 team in the state all they could handle. They feel like they can line up and play with anybody."

Sophomore Todd Yeager will get the start at quarterback for Iowa Park Friday night with Brandon Campbell expected to see some playing time as

The Bulldogs are coming off a 2-8 season last year with one of their wins coming in week one against Iowa Park, but Burk head coach Jerry Watson's team won't be taking the Hawks lightly when the two teams square off tomorrow night.

"I think Iowa Park is going to be a very much improved ball club from the one we faced last year," Watson said. "Last year coach Nelms was putting in a new offense and getting used to his players, but they've looked good in both of their scrimmages against some quality teams and we expect a tough game against them."

Burkburnett played in only one scrimmage this year and lost to Altus two weeks ago.

"We're going to see two of the best running backs we'll probally see all year long," Nelms added. " One of the kids is a 4.3 sprinter and the other isn't far behind him so we'll have to guard against the big plays that hurt us last year. They're real strong at the linebacker position as well. But the fact that we've had a couple of chances to look at all our kids in a scrimmage situation to their one will, I think be a big plus for us. They still have some decisions to make, I'm not saying we don't, but we've gotten a better look at the kids in our two scrimmages.

"I think the key to the game will be whether or not we can keep them from the big play," Nelms said. "That's where they hurt us last year but if we can limit their big play style and make them drive the ball on us we'll be alright. I'll hang my hat on the fact that this team won't get discouraged. It will take more than a set back or two to stop this group. They want to put last year behind them and prove that they can line up and play. And from a coach's standpoint, you can't ask for anything approve $1.16 tax rate The Iowa Park school board needed only half an hour Thursday afternoon to adopt the district's 1995-96 budget and set the tax rate.

The called meeting was held in the administration building. And though it was the second required public hearing on the budget, no one was present except trustees, school personnel and press.

A tax rate of $1.16 per $100 valuation was adopted. That is the same rate as last year. Of that, $1.0634 will fund general operating, and $.0966 will be used for bonded indebtedness.

The board's final budget, which underwent four revisions, was set at $8,945,128.

Total revenues from local, state and federal sources are expected to be $8,898,325. Added to that will be $910,000 carryover from 1994-95, $15,000 carryover from bond and debt service, making $9,823,325 available for the year.

Anticipated expenditures were set at $8,945,128, which anticipates $878,197 carryover to start the 1996-97 school year.

Prior to voting on the new tax rate, Supt. Glen Mitchell pointed out that additional personnel and increased expenditures were set in some areas, after the expenditures had been dis-

Golf course on agenda

The city council will consider entering into a contract with a firm to design a layout plan for an 18-hole golf course, during Monday night's regularly-scheduled meeting.

The meeting will begin at 7 p.m. in council chambers. A tentative agenda for the meeting was released Wednesday.

Aldermen will consider authorizing administrator Mike Price to enter into a contract with Finger Dye Spann, Inc., to do a preliminary layout plan.

The city has taken a 90-day option to purchase the acreage west of the city, surrounded by Johnson Road, railroad, US 287 and Dennis Brooks property, for the purpose of having a golf course built there.

Price also will ask the council to consider closing the 200 block of West Park on Friday, Sept. 29.

Action could be taken on two issues: authorizing a contract to rent uniforms for public works and public utilities employees, and authorizing Price to advertise for bids to purchase a street sweeper.

Aldermen are expected to support a resolution which would authorize the mayor to secure financing through Parker Square Bank to purchase a new dump truck.

NEWS OF THE IOWA PARK GENEALOGICAL & HISTORICAL SOCIETY

For the best return on the investment of your genealogical dollars join a genealogical society. The local group, although small, is the door to research material about your family's history.

You should join not only the local society but also join genealogical societies or clubs in the localities where your family has lived. The memberships are usually quite reasonable and gives access to newsletters and research services.

The value of belonging to your local genealogical society lies in meeting others interested in this fascinating hobby, hearing lectures on research tips, participating in workshops and seminars and discovering the genealogical sources in our own back yards.

Genealogical Societies, and there are over 3000 of them in the United States, collect and publish records of their counties, cities and states. If you are looking for cemetery or marriage records, it is usually the local society that has done the research and published it. Some of the groups publish periodicals that contain information from records not available anywhere

When the Iowa Park Genealogical and Historical Society compiled "Happy Birthday Iowa Park" from the Centennial Edition of the Iowa Park Leader, this made a valuable and convenient source for research. The genealogical and historical societies keep ongoing records of vital statistics in their area, and continue the search for local history.

The Iowa Park Genealogical and Historical Society is looking for new members---come share your expertise, learn and grow with the Society. The more members, the more fun we'll have in sharing our searching experi-

The 1995-96 year promises to be full of new information, interesting programs, helpful workshops and yes, we will have fund raising activities to enable the Society to increase our resource library.

Come and join with us Saturday (Sept. 9) at 2 p.m. at Tom Burnett Memorial Library for the first meeting of the second year of Iowa Park Genealogical and Historical Society.

The Often Chronic Discomfort of Allergies

Each year, more than 40 millions Americans suffer from allergic rhinitis, also know as hay fever.

These "allergic bouts" of a stuffy head and watery eyes can occur one or more times year, or they last practically all year round.

Three million work days and two million school days are lost each year to allergy attacks.

Normally harmless substances can cause allergic reactions in sensitive people. These substances commonly include: pollen from plants, dust mold, foods and dander (skin particles) from animals.

 American spend an estimated $500 million each year on allergy treatments. Although there is no cure, there are a number of ways to fight allergies.

·Over-the-counter medications and prescription medicines are the most common forms of treatment. Immunotherapy, or injection therapy, is both expensive and time-consuming, so it is generally used only in severe or chronic situations.

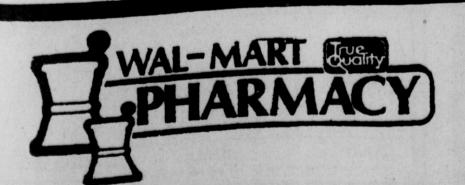

· Avoidance, in principle, is the simplest therapy. Once the allergen has been identified, the sufferer can try to avoid it.

· Some of the most common allergy symptoms are: Eyes - itching, tearing, reddening, or swelling Nose - Sneezing (often repetitive), itching, congestion, or runniness Skin - a rash develops that is almost always itchy and consists of spots that are raised, flat, red, or white, hive-like, or raw and oozing. Digestive tract - nausea, vomiting, cramps, loose stools, or diarrhea from eating a particular food.

Pharmacists to protest To the Editor:

Driven by concern for my patients' health -- and fear for the survival of independent pharmacies -- on September 20 this pharmacy and thousands of others will stage a national day of protest. Called "High Noon for Your Local Pharmacy," this dramatic step reflects my deep concern about the impact of many health insurance companies' ill conceived practices on my patients and on my neighborhood pharmacy.

In just the past year, about four million consumers have lost their local pharmacies -- put out of business by the unfair practices of health insurers. Millions of other patients have been forced to forsake the local pharmacy that served them for years and to take their prescriptions to pharmacies not of their choosing. Worse, many patients are being directed to obtain medications for serious ailments such as diabetes or hypertension from unregulated mail order companies hundreds of miles away. The mail order giants often do not comply with the pharmacy health and safety regulations that our state has enacted to protect consumers.

Although some patients may not know it, independent pharmacists routinely make interventions on their behalf, such as when patients are given the wrong dosage or are given prescriptions by two different doctors that will interact and harm the patient, possibly fatally. Beyond these concerns, most patients value highly the professional attention they receive from their local independent pharmacist.

For years, independent pharmacies have been protesting the growing practice of health insurance plans that takes away patients' right to choose their pharmacy. The insurance companies have turned a deaf ear to our legitimate concerns, so we are taking our case directly to the people. "High Noon for Your Local Pharmacy" is an invitation to consumers to demand that they be allowed to continue to receive convenient, high-quality care from their local pharmacist.

If they do not, soon there may be no independent pharmacies to patronize. Sincerely,

Jack Martin

Questions golf course Dear Mr. Hamilton,

I thought I lived in Iowa Park, but after reading "The Leader" yesterday, I think I may be back in Wichita Falls. It seems that our city fathers are taking lessons from the leaders of Wichita Falls. With one hand they show us how they have lowered our taxes and that sounds great. But with the other hand they raise our property values. That's about the same thing as raising our taxes, isn't it? A tax, but not a tax. Now they are determined that this city needs a golf course. If I read last weeks paper correctly they paid $5,000 down to obtain the option on the "Van Horn" place. This week I read that they are going to pay out $7,500 more of our tax dollars to do a study on the feasibility of a golf course.

Don't the tax payers get a vote on an issue such as this? It sounds like Wichita Falls, a Multi Purpose Entertainment Center or bust. What will it cost the tax payers if the golf course can't support itself? Will the city fathers come back in a year or two and raise taxes on our increased property values to support the golf course? Does Iowa Park need a golf course? Or better yet, can Iowa Park afford a white elephant like the "MPEC", whose cost has already gone above the maintenance and construction costs. Maybe the citizens would like to see their tax dollars spent on street repairs, pay increases for city employees, additional police officers, more parks or recreational areas that would benefit the whole and not the few.

Norman Walker

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Norman, tax values are set by the Wichita County Tax Appraisal District, not by the city council. This is state law. As to the council's actions concerning the golf course, maybe you should attend one or more council meetings. They're open to the public. More parks? Iowa Park has more parks, per capita, than any city in this part of the country. Also, wouldn't a golf course qualify as a recreational area?)

Helpful Hints

It is unlawful for any person to keep a swine within the city.

Probably the most detectable change will be our masthead and folio lines. The masthead hasn't changed since our first issue on Sept. 17, 1969. It's distinctive, but some times it causes makeup problems. The standing heads, such as those which call attention to the library news, Friendly Door news, etc., also will undergo change.

We've timed the changes to coinside with our anniversary. Next week will be issue one, volume 27, which means we'll begin our 27th year of publishing the paper.

Effective October 1, some other changes also will take place. Of these, I'm nottoo pleased. They also are caused by rising costs.

One change will be the increase in advertising rates, both display and classified. Our last rate increase was in August of 1993, so it's time. I sure can't buy anything at the same price I paid two years ago. Can you?

Most of this increase is to pay for our higher prices of newsprint and printing. We've already absorbed all we could over the past two years.

The other change will be an increase in subscription prices. This is because of ever-increasing postage costs. Our newsstand price of 50 cents will remain the same.

A year's subscription will increase $2. That means subscriptions in Wichita County will go to $15, anywhere else in Texas to $17, and all outof-state subs will be $20.

Again, those increases won't take place until October 1.

I know that may sound high to many of you, and it is. But our's is not the only newspaper with price in-

Bomb scare proves harmless

It was an unusually-quiet week, despite having a holiday, Labor Day, included, but Iowa Park police weren't complaining.

In fact, Chief Ray Smith said he and his staff were relieved.

But it looked like the long weekend might get started with a big bang -- literally.

An attendant discovered what he believed to be a bomb Friday morning in a trash bin at the north-bound rest stop west of town.

The local radio dispatcher was notified by telephone at 8:09 a.m., and notification was immediately directed to the Department of Public Safety and county sheriff's department.

Their investigation determined that the "bomb" was actually two elongated batteries, wrapped together with tape, and a length of wire petruding.

Authorities believe the batteries were used by a trucker to power his portable television, and had been thrown away after becoming useless.

Also listed on the week's police blotter were three arrests, an attempted suicide and one case of criminal mischief.

Police arrested Paul Matthew Hooper, 27, at 9:21 p.m. while walking in the 800 block of West Highway, and charged him with public intoxication.

Hooper was released at 2:03 a.m. the next day, after signing a promise to appear in municipal court.

When officers responded to a report of a domestic disturbance in the 200 block of Hope Lane at 8:45 a.m. Sunday, they arrested Carla Depremo, 35, on a Class C assault to prevent family violence charge.

Depremo was released at 12:10 p.m. after promising to appear in municipal court.

Francisco Lopez, 47, was taken into custody at 11:31 p.m. Sunday in the 100 block of North Yosemite, and

By Lyndell Williams & Ed Sterling TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN - State lawmakers have approved a compromise plan that would provide health care to about half of the adults expected to receive coverage under the Legislature's Medicaid revision plan.

Gov. George W. Bush told lawmakers earlier that the state could not afford all the changes included in the Legislature's plan.

One senator said the compromise would simply shift the burden to local health care providers.

"The local entities have a tremendous concern about what this is going to dump in their lap and how much we're going to expect them to pay that they're not paying right now," said Sen. Mike Moncrief, D-Fort Worth.

An earlier proposal which Gov. Bush backed, was rejected by the House and Senate health care committees. It would have expanded Medicaid rolls by 255,000 adults next year.

The plan would not have reinvested savings from managed care into the Medicaid program - a key provision in the Legislature's reform package. Lawmakers had planned to use the savings from managed care to expand Medicaid rolls by 486,000 adults.

The compromise proposal, which was unanimously approved by the committees, would add 255,000 adults to the Medicaid rolls by limiting eligibility to single adults who have no children and earn no more than $3,000 a year, or 45 percent of the poverty level.

Coverage would not be guaranteed, but the proposal includes a target of guaranteed coverage for 12 months.

The new plan still must be approved by the federal government, which must give the state permission to waive certain federal rules to implement the changes.

Karen Hughes, Gov. Bush's press secretary, called the compromise a "more conservative and cautious approach."

"The governor wanted to make sure that as people are transferred from county indigent care to Medicaid that we put children and families first, and this clearly does that," Hughes said.

But Moncrief said the plan would make the situation worse for hospitals because it concentrates on children, who face less risk of contacting serious illnesses.

"It's going to increase the burden, and it's going to reduce their enthusiasm over participation," he

Judge's Comments Blasted

Attorney General Dan Morales and a Hispanic lawmaker from West Texas last week criticized comments by a judge who ordered a Mexican native to speak English to her 5-year-old daughter.

State District Judge Samuel Kiser of Amarillo says he is standing firm on his order, but said he will meet this week with anyone in the community who is concerned by his ruling.

"I do feel it is necessary for parents to facilitate their children's education, and thereby stand by my ruling that this child be truly bilingual," he said in a written statement.

Kiser's statement came in response to news reports that, at a summer hearing, he told Marta Laureano she was abusing her daughter by speaking only Spanish to her. He ordered her to begin speaking English to the girl, as well as Spanish.

"I think the judge was way off base," Morales said. "One danger that I can see here is in the prospect of trivializing real child abuse." Meanwhile, Rep. Pete Gallego, D-Alpine, promised to "take whatever steps necessary next legislative

Consider planned grazing

By BRAD TEPLICEK, RMS Natural Resources Conservation Service

Planned grazing systems are one aspect of range management that few people take into consideration when wanting to improve their rangeland.

This management practice, when accompanied with proper grazing use and deferred grazing will restore grassland to full production.

The correct grazing system must be initiated according to the needs or condition of your grass plants. Rangeland that is in poor condition or consists of plants showing low vigor need to be deferred from grazing an entire growing season.

When the situation requires the reproduction of desirable species already present, the rangeland should not be grazed heavily until after the seed is set. This type of deferment is generally not detrimental to the plants and will eventually improve the rangeland.

One of the most important times of the year to defer grazing is during the spring following the dispersion of the seed. This allows the establishment of young desirable plants to occur.

The careful selection of an adequate grazing system must meet the needs of the rangeland to be successful. Thus allowing the producer to improve his range without having to spend additional money for reseeding.

In planning a grazing system, the key to success is to graze and rest all pastures in a planned sequence, especially during the growing season. The degree of difficulty of resting different pastures at different times, increases with the number of pastures being involved.

However, regardless of the size of the operation, each pasture should regularly be deferred during different seasons of the year in order to achieve the most improvement.

Various types of grazing systems have been designed to accomodate different operations. Some of the most common types include a two-pasture, one-herd system; a four-pasture, threeherd system; a short duration system; a high intensity, low-frequency system and a cell system.

The use of a planned grazing system and proper grazing, when applied with good management increases forage production, decreases erosion, slows down the invasion of woody species and reduces feed bills. In the long run it will allow increases in the stocking rates as well.

An example of a well-managed planned grazing system can be seen on the Floyd Styles ranch located northwest of Iowa Park. This system consists of a one-herd, five-pasture rotation on 70 acres of WW B. Dahl Bluestem.

Wheat crop threatened

By DAVID FINLEY County Agent

As we continue to fight the beet armworm, bollworm, aphid, and boll weevil, I thought it might be appropriate to talk about the current situation and what we could expect in the near

First of all, it does appear that we are controlling a lot of the beet armyworm and other armyworm complex in cotton. Dimilin has been applied with success in several fields. It is a slower acting material, but is easy on the beneficials that are necessary to control aphids and small bollworms.

There are some bollworms popping up in treated fields. They are currently being sprayed with success with pyrethroid insecticides. We can probably look for another spotting of bollworms as we get closer to a full moon in September.

Aphids are still a problem in some fields and they are being controlled extremely successfully with Furadan. The residual of Furadan has done great as far as limiting further outbreaks in Boll weevils are present in fields, but numbers for the most part are not at damaging levels. You can expect counts and damage to increase on the late developing squares in the upper portion of the plant. However, the likelihood of these squares making cotton before the first frost is remote.

Now, the real reason for this column. The armyworm complex is ready and waiting for us to plant wheat. If we do our regular thing and start planting the first week of September, you can probably get ready to plant again in a couple of weeks because the armyworms are extremely likely to do a number on that young wheat.

I talked to an agent in the Knox County area where the armyworms are really bad. He said that they do not have a problem with volunteer wheat because the armworms have already eliminated it.

Ladies and gentlemen, this can only be a signal for us. I would strongly suggest that you consider planting wheat later this year and give the armyworms a chance to leave us. They can totally destroy a young developing wheat crop overnight.

If you have problems with this scenario, go back and look at your bills and see what you paid for seed wheat. I think this figure might go a long way in determining what you will do with wheat planting.

I'm available to talk to you individually about this "very possible" situation. My number is 766-0131.

BRADFORD

Only time being a loser is good

Several staff members at Bradford are participating in "Weight Watchers at Work," a fitness program designed to encourage weight loss support among participants.

Principal Pat Cravens said the staff is very excited about the new program. Fitness equipment is available at the campus for staff to use, and has been offered to the staff at other Iowa Park campuses, she said.

All in a name

Third graders are reading the story, "The Gathering of the David Bernsteins."

The story is about a boy who does not like the fact that so many people share his first name. The story is being used to show students what about each of them makes them special.

The third grade students just completed the story "Johnny Appleseed."

Fourth graders explore planets

Fourth graders are now part of an interplanetary research mission in their science classes.

In a matter of speaking, anyway. During science classes, students travelled through the Milky Way, they approached an unexplored planet, unlike any they had ever seen.

The surface was covered by 2 distinctly different substances, called Gop Yuck, and students were given the task to decide which substance would make a better landing area.

Groups of students took the two different substances and conducted tests, recorded the results, then shared the information with other groups.

Among the tests conducted were the conformity test, pour test, bounce test, shatter test, shape test, heat test and cool test.

To conclude the story, all first grade classes are making tacos this week. Each student is being asked to bring taco ingredients for their fiesta.

Learning about manners

Kidwell counselor Vicki Adams was in the classrooms this week giving lessons on manners.

The lessons coincide with what teachers have working with the students on in the classrooms, hallways and cafeteria.

Mrs. Adams talked to kindergarten, first and second grade classes, and each class received a poster for the room and an activity sheet.

more ecstatic with the results."

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the second in a three-part series of articles on Saxon Math, which is now being taught in Iowa Park schools to students in grades kindergarten through eight.)

Saxon math is a success oriented program - it enables all children in a heterogeneous class to develop a solid foundation in the language and basic concepts of all areas of mathematics. It is the Saxon philosophy that mathematics builds on prior learning. New learning is presented in increments, with time provided between increments for practice. This is similar to spreading each unit throughout the year.

In Math 3 each day children participate in a beginning-of-the-day math activity call "The Meeting." Here they practice skills related to calender, counting, patterning, weather, reading a graph, time and money.

"The Lesson" occurs later in the day. During "The Lesson" a new objective, or increment, is introduced through a carefully selected group activity. Children use materials, engage in discussions, work in cooperative groups, and work together to help each other learn. "The Lesson" also includes individual written practice and number fact practice.

The individual written practice includes a short practice of the new objective and a review of previous concepts. Children complete the first side of the written practice in class with the teacher's assistance. The other side, which mirrors the examples completed in class, is done at home. Children are encouraged to ask parents for help and to check their work.

Strategies are presented to help children learn the number facts. Children are encouraged to recall the facts through the use of pattern recognition. They practice the facts orally and monitor their progress on fact sheets. Automatic fact recall is expected by Oral and cumulative written assessments are built into the program. Oral assessments occur after every ten lessons and written assessments after every five lessons. All assessments occur after children have practiced a skill for at least five days.

Fourth and fifth grade Saxon Math is basically the same without "The Meeting," and the students do have textbooks. Daily classwork and homework consists of about 25 problems from "The Lesson" of the day, but also from lessons previously taught.

written assessments are routine. Teachers love Saxon Math because the students love it, and it is a sensible approach to teaching and learning math. The students are successful and have a better feeling about their abilities. Some of the things Bradford teachers had to say about Saxon Math include: successful by learning new material in such small bites and allowing practice time for the new material until every-way we have a Student of the Day each day. Math is fun!" - Ben Bowling

"I like the pattern blocks on the overhead and not having to carry a book home for homework." - Ben

In the school year 1992-93, Saxon Math was piloted in Mrs. Willa Mitchell's class. The teachers who observed the program were so enthusiastic about it that in 1993-94, all of the third and fourth grade teachers implemented it and a year later fifth grade adopted it as well.

Our belief in the success of this math program has not faltered, and we continue to teach it with excitement and anticipation each year.

Hawks give state-ranked Bobcats fits

If Childress is the No. 8 team in Texas in Class 3A, then Iowa Park should have been ranked two or three notches ahead of the Bobcats following Friday's final scrimmage for both

The Hawks held the Bobcats to only one first down and two total yards of offense in the first 20 plays as Iowa Park looked like a team on a mission.

Iowa Park opened the scrimmage on offense and picked up four first downs and 93 total yards of offense while moving ball inside the Childress 40 on two different occasions, the deepest being the 28 yard line.

"We were real pleased with the scrimmage overall," head coach Weldon Nelms said. "We script our first 20 plays and didn't try to change things up when we got in certain situations. One time we were looking at a third and two and we were scheduled to bring in a cold quarterback and throw a pass and we did. Where in a game, we would have moved the ball better in using our whole package.

"We were a little bit interested to see how our kids would do against Childress," Nelms added. We didn't know if we'd play up to their level or be intimidated. We didn't want the kids to go up there and not look good at all and lose all the momentum we'd gained against the Coyotes. But what we saw looked good. Especially our defense. Any time you can hold a team with the talent they have to only two total yards, that says a lot."

After the Iowa Park offense finished their 20 plays, the Hawk defense took over and completely shut down the Bobcats.

On Childress' first possession, Dusty Owen picked off a batted pass to end a drive that saw the Bobcats lose two yards on two carries. Jeremiah Love ended the Bobcats second drive when he sacked the Childress quarterback for a 12-yard loss on thirdand-13. Iowa Park's Jackie Miller got into the sack action on the next drive as he dropped the QB for a 3-yard loss to stop a drive. On Childress' next possession, Jed Taylor pounced on a fumble as the Hawk defense proved to be too much for the Bobcats to handle.

"Probally the best news to come out of the scrimmage besides how well we played defensively, was the fact we came out healthy," Nelms added. "We didn't get anyone hurt on any level and we are heading into the Burk game in pretty good shape as far as injuries go."

After getting a good look at his players both offensively and defensively, Nelms substituted freely on both sides of the ball on the Hawks' next possession.

But Childress hadn't seen what they wanted to see and their first team offense played the final 20 plays against some of Iowa Park's back up players and some others playing out of position. That resulted in the Bobcats' only score of the scrimmage as they scored on a 3-yard run on their 13th play.

"This was a much better performance than our second scrimmage last year," Nelms added. "The kids are starting to feel comfortable with our system and we are able to add some things that will make us a better football team. We as a coaching staff were real pleased with the effort our kids showed against Childress, but after the scrimmage, all the kids had their heads down because they felt like they should have beaten them. That's what you want. You want to go into every game expecting to win and this year these kids expect to win."

The Hawks will get their chance to put their first 'W' in the win column tomorrow night at 7:30 p.m. when they take on Burkburnett in the season opener at Bulldog Stadium.

reasons why you should maintain and increase your newspaper advertising when business is slow.

- Whether business is good or slow, you have to get your share of whatever business is around.

 Cutting back your advertising puts you at a disadvantage at the very moment when you need an edge. Increasing your advertising gives you the edge.
- In times of uncertainty, consumers are careful and a little reluctant to spend. They want to be sure before they buy; they want information about products, services, prices and values from newspapers. Yours-or somebody elses'.
- Maybe you figure other retailers in your line are going to cut back their advertising, so it's safe for you, too. Right? Wrong. You're in competition for the customer's dollar with every other retailer in town, no matter what he or she sells. People have only so many dollards to spend and if they don't spend them for what you sell they'll spend them for something else.
- There are more people working now than ever before. More women working too, adding to the family income. People still need and want goods and services and will spend for them. There is plenty of business out there. Your competitors will be bidding for their share and yours.
- You can't do much about most factors in the marketplace rent, labor costs, price of merchandise, what the competition will. But one thing you do control is your own promotion. Remember that newspaper advertising is not just a cost of doing business. It's a proven sales tool that returns many times your investment in store traffic and sales.

- Remember how long it took you to get started?

 Once you build up a business you can keep it going with a moderate, consistent advertising program. But if you cut your advertising and lose your hold on the public's awareness you'll find it's much harder to build it up again. It's sort of like starting all over.
- Your advertising is a part of your sales force.

 Newspaper ads help to pre-sell customers and help you close the sale faster. What saves you time saves your money.

- You say your customers know you and for a while, at least, they'll keep coming in even if you don't promote? That's partly true, but shortsighted. Remember, one out of five Americans moves every year. So there's a steady flow of your customers out of your market, and a corresponding influx of new folks who don't know you at all. Tell them about yourself.
- Here's hard fact to chew on. Over any given period, a business that advertises below the industry average has sales that are below the industry average.
- Advertising is "news" about products and services. Your customers look for this kind of news in the pages of this newspaper. In plush times, retailers often experiment with other media, but when the going gets tough, they concentrate their efforts in the weekly newspaper because it provides and immediate payoff at the cash register.

Give us a call. We can help you plan a professional advertising program that will increase store traffic while helping increase sales.

READY TO OPEN SEASONS - The Hawk Junior Varsity, above, and Freshmen will open their 1995 seasons today in Hawk Stadium against teams from Burkburnett. The Freshman game is scheduled to get underway at 5:30, with the JV following at 7:00.

He has worked on Leadership Teams, along with the Dairy Cattle Judging Team, and Range and Pasture Judging Team.

Gary's project program this year consisted of raising horses and working for the Crumpler Corporation. While for Crumpler he was given the opportunity to earn a new horse by accumulating extra hours.

Gary hopes to some day have his own business where he can break and train cutting horses.

Wichita County to receive assistance

Wichita County is listed among several Texas counties that will benefit from an agriculture assistance request which the Consolidated Farm Service Agency (CFSA) granted for the state of Oklahoma.

The requests were based on a lack of moisture, an early hard freeze, and lack of moisture.

Nine Texas counties were included in the request based on damages and losses caused by a severe lack of moisture which occurred since Sept. 1, 1994, and for a hard freeze which occurred on April 11.

The other Texas counties included Childress, Clay, Collingsworth, Hardeman, Hemphill, Lipscomb, Wheeler and Wilbarger. Twenty six Oklahoma counties, six in Kansas and one each in New Mexico and Colorado also were among those included in that request.

A Presidential Disaster Declaration was based on flooding which occurred May 26.

Other Texas counties involved in that request were Childress, Collingsworth, Hardeman, Wheeler and Wilbarger, as well as 10 in Oklahoma. The CFSA allows tht contiguous counties in adjacent states can be included for assistance where eligible family farmers may qualify for emergency loan assistance for physical and production losses.

The designation allows familysize farm operators in the designated counties to be considered for low-interest emergency loans from CFSA.
