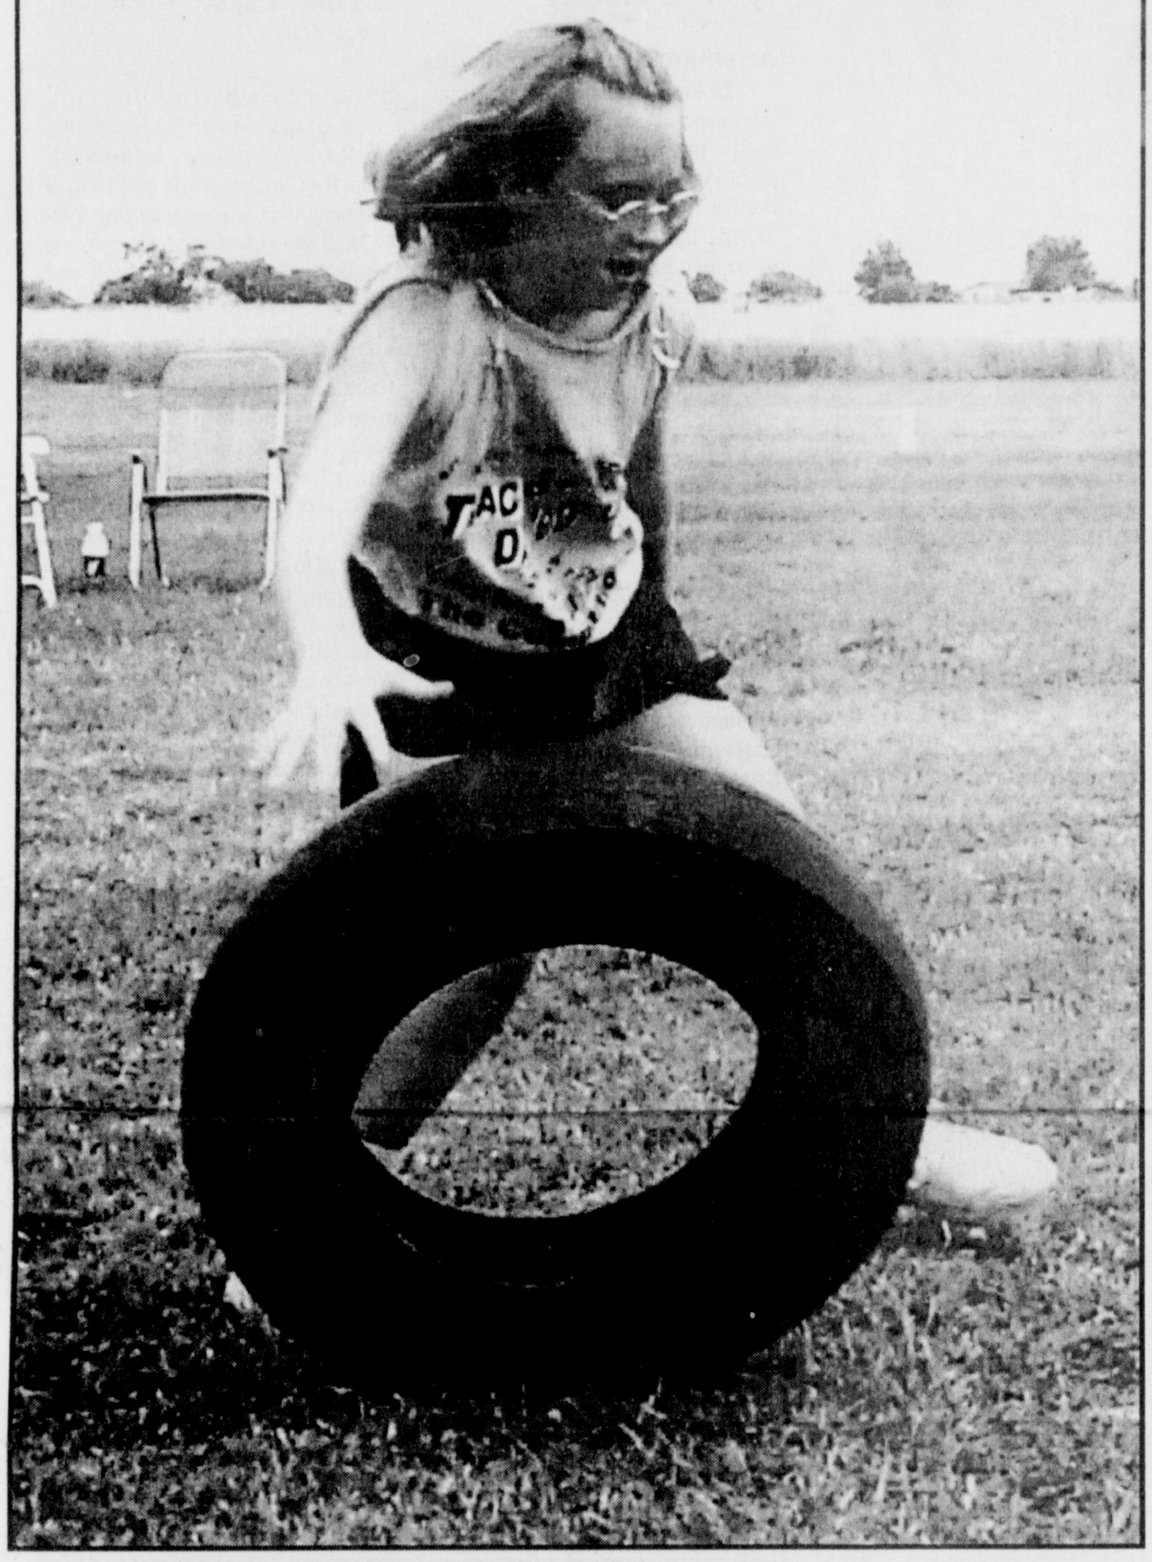
IOWA PARK LEADER 50¢

Vol. 3[illegible] No. 38 | IOWA PARK, WICHITA COUNTY, TEXAS 76367 | Thursday, May 27, 1999



NO CHILD LABOR LAWS WERE BROKEN Friday during Bradford Elementary's annual Track and Field Day. This fifth grader isn't changing a tire, she is simply competing in the tire race, which was the last event of the day. Track and Field Day was devised to give students a break from normal school routine and to compete against other classes for travelling trophies.

IPHS graduation is Friday night

Commencement exercises for Iowa Park High School's Class of '99 will be held at 8 p.m. in Hawk Stadium.

As in the past, the event will be moved into the school's auditorium should weather not permit it to be held out of doors.

There are 141 candidates for graduation this year.

Class Valedictorian Christine Baka is to give the farewell address. This is the first time in a number of years the Valedictorian has spoken during the ceremony.

Principal Alan Seay will present the class to Superintendent Mike Caplinger, and Keith Fisher, President of the school board, will present the diplomas.

The traditional presentation of the symbolic school key will be made by Senior Class Co-Presidents Alisha Clements and Dustin Hicks, to Lacy Wells, next year's Student Council President.

The school song will be sung by Danielle Grant, Bryan Lyons and Lacey Slack, and the pledge of allegiance given by Kelly Williamson, Cari Hogan and Kim Elder.

The Hawk Band is to play both the processional and recessional music.

After a brief period during which the graduates will turn in their caps and gowns, as well as visit with well-wishers in the high school, they and their guests will be voluntarily locked up in the building for the night.

The lock-in will conclude early Saturday with the awarding of prizes earned during the night, and a breakfast prepared and served by the Iowa Park MuleSkinners.

Parkfest evaluated

Plans are already underway for next year's Parkfest, which is coordinated by the Iowa Park Chamber of Commerce.

Chamber President Ken Via told his board of directors Monday that the inaugural event not only was a success, but that all the committee members have asked to serve again, and they have additional ideas.

Windy weather caused two events to be cancelled, Via said. They were the planned hot air balloon takeoff and the skydiving team.

Already being considered for addition next year are events extending into the evening, more activities relating to Lake Gordon, and a cookoff of some type.

Via assured the directors that the

NEWS BRIEFS

Frequent rains yield very little

Those three loud storms that passed through the area this week provided some needed moisture, but not much.

That was the total of Monday's .08, .32 on Tuesday and .27 Wednesday. Other area reports were somewhat higher, however.

Memorial Day holiday Monday

Banks, city hall and most businesses will be closed Monday in observance of Memorial Day, but emergency services will not be affected.

Residents of both Iowa Park and Kamay who normally have their trash picked up on Mondays will have to wait until Tuesday.

Mrs. Lehman recalls her life in Iowa Park

By Sherrie Williams

As Mrs. Ida Stowe Lehman tells of her life in Iowa Park she speaks of some hard times, but mostly of good times.

Mrs. Leham tells of the hot dry winds and high heat that burned the crops and vegetation to a crisp and dried creeks, rivers, lakes and stock tanks, were the scene when she and her family moved to Iowa Park in 1934.

Ida Stowe, her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Stowe, and four siblings moved to the Iowa Park area in 1934. Her father took a job on the J. Lindsey farm. In 1940 her parents bought a farm northeast of Iowa Park.

She recalls it was difficult on her two sisters and brother to start Iowa Park School, because their school and Iowa Park were rivals in school activities.

She recalls in the early days Iowa Park was not much larger than a country village. It was a quite clean town with three doctors, a drug store, two dentists, five churches, a feed store, meat market, three big food stores, three full service filling stations, two lumber yards, two gins, a train depot, ice house, two dry good stores, a hamburger stand, restaurant, car sales and garage, oil business, two dress shops, a picture show, the county fair, and a good football team. Also schools, social activities and clubs.

Mrs. Leham took a job keeping books for the school trustees and when the fall term began she was transferred to the high school as librarian and substitute teacher.

Many people lived North of Iowa Park in oil boom homes. They were suffering from the oil industry collapse and no place to go for employment, as the entire nation had been swallowed up by the great depression.

She said the men would come to W.P.A. office to get help. She listened to their conversations, about their needs and the condition of our country, and about how or when they could supply food and clothing for their families, when they came in for help or to pick up their checks.

Mrs. Leham said the oil boom community had a school but no place to worship. The school was Weeth School. It was a nice brick building and had a large auditorium.

She began to ask questions, to see how many were interested in and if it would be possible to have a Sunday evening worship in the school's auditorium.

Mrs. Leham's husband Rex, her father W. A. Stowe, and a Mr. Beavers were on the Weeth School trustee board when the school was sold to Iowa Park School District and added to the W.F. George Middle School.

Mrs. Ida Lehman

Soon permission was obtained. Though many said it could not happen there were about 100 in attendance for the first meeting. A young preacher from Iowa Park Church of Christ worked with them.

This is where Ida met her husband in 1935.

She described him as the community idol. She says he was loved by the old and youngsters down to the small ones.

In June 1936, Rex and Ida eloped and were married in Jacksboro.

She explained the reason they eloped was at W.P.A. a married woman with a strong husband was not allowed to work. She said she had to work because her father wasn't physically able to work and she had a family of seven to help care for.

Ida finally took her problem to a friend, Mr. Tom Corridon, and he helped her solve the problem. In the fall of 1936 she resigned from the W.P.A. and became a fulltime homemaker and teaching private bookkeeping.

She and Rex sold milk, eggs, turkeys, chickens, and hogs. She added they were blessed with plenty of food to share with widows, the sick and needy folks in their community.

Mrs. Leham recalls that in those days most of the sick was cared for at home. Neighbors and friends took time about to sit up nights with the sick. Before and after she and Rex were married they too set up nights with the ill, took food, and helped with chores or where they were needed. They also visited with shut-in's. She added even when employment increased there were still people in need.

As time passed they became more involved with the youth.

Mrs. Leham says there wasn't much for the youth to do other than go to the movie. She added they would have to stand in long lines waiting for someone to leave so they could have a seat.

A couple had wanted to put in a bowling alley, but it meet so much opposition, the older people felt a bowling alley wasn't a decent place for youth. So, the youngsters didn't get a bowling alley.

She and her husband entertained the youth with parties, picnics, hay rides, egg hunts and other activities.

Cook of the Week

Rosie Flanigan

This week, Rosie Flanigan will be completing her first year as director of the Texoma Education Center Coop, located in Iowa Park.

The center, that opened last fall, provides an Alternate Education Program (AEP) for eligiblé at-risk students in the Iowa Park, Holliday, Electra, and City View school districts.

Rosie, who seems to have a special gift for working with youth, gets along just as well with adults. Those in Iowa Park who have had the opportunity to meet her during the past year feel they have gained a special friend.

Rosie was born and grew up in Grambling, La. Her family moved to Wichita Falls when she was in the eighth grade, and she graduated from Booker T. Washington.

Rosie went back to Louisiana to attend Grambling State University where she received her bachelor's degree in math. She then returned to Wichita Falls to teach and earn a master's degree in math at Midwestern State University. She also holds a management degree from MSU.

Before becoming director of the AEP coop, Rosie was employed 30 years by the Wichita Falls ISD in teaching and administration.

Rosie met her husband, Roosevelt, at Grambling toward the end of her sophomore year, and they were married after her junior year. During his senior year, Roosevelt entered the Army and was sent to Vietnam and Rosie moved back to Wichita Falls. When he returned from his tour of duty, Roosevelt and Rosie decided to remain in Wichita Falls, where he is employed at Delphi.

The couple's two children, Ramon and Rae Lynn, are both graduates of Rider High School.

Ramon played quarterback for the Rider Raiders, and then for the Mustangs at Southern Methodist University in Dallas. Last year he played professional football for the Hamburg Blue Devils in Germany before coming back and accepting a position as assistant football coach at North Texas State University.

Rae Lynn participated in track and basketball while she was a student at Rider. She was a member of a basketball team that went to China and Australia through the International Sports Exchange. Now, she is a junior student at North Texas State Univ. and works at Albertson's in Denton.

The Flanigan's are also proud of their two granddaughters, Brianna and Madelyn, and enjoy spending time with them.

Rosie is an active member of her church and several organizations. She is a member of St. John Baptist Church, where she is church clerk, teaches Sunday School, and sings in the choir. Rosie is a member of the Iowa Park Lions Club, whose members recently elected her Tailtwister; a member of Alpha Kappa Alpha Sorority in Wichita Falls, and was recently presented with an award by the Wichita Falls Area Association of Black Educators.

Her activities don't leave much time for hobbies, but Rosie said she enjoys working in her flower garden. She also likes to read a good book, but doesn't do that too often because, "once I begin, I can't put it down," she said. Canning food, cooking out and entertaining are other activities Rosie mentioned. Included with her favorite recipes is one for canned beans which she says are delicious.

As I See It...

By Bob Hamilton

A special congratulations to all those who will be receiving diplomas tomorrow night from Iowa Park High School.

We've had some outstanding graduating classes in the past, but I'm not sure this one doesn't equal any of them.

Not only is the class composed of outstanding individuals, but as a group, they have accomplished and contributed.

What more can a community ask of it's young folks?

As in the past, I plan to keep up with you people in the years to come. It's one of life's major interests, watching our younger people and what they do with their adult lives.

Mrs. Lehman

While they were at church a big rain came and on the way home they found the creek on a rise and could not drive the car through it. So, Rex told the girls to close their eyes and he took off his pants and waded the creek so he could get to their tractor at home.

He returned with the tractor and pulled the car through the creek and home. The weather was so bad that Rex said, "Kids you all are going to have to spend the night." Ida made pallets in the kitchen floor for the boys and put the girls in their spare bedroom. She added it was not unusual for them to have a sleep over for the youth.

At times they moved their living room furniture out so there would be room for the kids to have a dance or party.

Mrs. Leham said if the youth needed or wanted a place to visit, or needed a place to stay, a place to play, they always had room for them.

They took youth to camps in Oklahoma and Colorado. Ida took girls to A & M University for short courses in agriculture and horticulture. They also took youth to the fair.

Their day-to-day chores took the rest of their time.

Ida said being a farmer and rancher's wife, her days were filled with routine chores and she was happy being a wife and mother and never inspired being in the limelight.

Their community life was filled with helping each other.

When the neighbor men exchanged work, the women would cook the noon meal and quilt or do needle work and visit. She added quilting bees were popular.

The neighbors would gather their vegetables and each would help snap beans and hull peas. The women would go home and can.

In 1944 they had no telephones or electricty in the rural areas. The men tried to get rural electricity, but they refused until a co-op installed a pole at the Lawrance home. Texas Electric got busy and installed electricty in the rural areas.

They hauled their water from town. She said sometime when they got the water hauled, they would have a water fight. With a laugh she said, "We hauled water but then wasted it having a water fight."

Mrs. Leham stated, the city used irrigation water and it was hard and salty. She added that it tasted really bad. "Really there are no words to describe how bad it tasted." she said.

Ida and Rex took their niece, Lynda, into their home when she was four months old to raise.

In 1944, what Ida describes as their greatest joy arrived. They were blessed with a son of their own, Garland.

Mrs. Leham recalls Rex saying, "We thought we were enjoying life, but when our son came along our joy was multiplied by trillions."

Their work with youth continued with more enthusiasm and love since they had two assets to build and mold into future citizens.

Ida stated that she and Rex had helped raise six children before Garland was born.

Garland was born with triple club feet. Ida said he wore a cast and braces, and went through a lot of treatments the first seven years of his life.

She added that the youth from the churches adopted him as their "sunshine child." They played with Garland, helped care for him and did all they could do to help make things easier on Garland and his parents. Ida said the adults were also there for them.

Their activities with youth continued and expanded.

In 1951 Lynda and another niece, Sonja, came home from school enthused about a 4-H meeting they attended. They wanted a 4-H club, but a leader was needed. Ida says she was "captured."

Mrs. Leham was enthused about 4-H. She put her heart into the club as she did everything she was involved in.

She had handicap students in the club and they too were included in the programs and not left to stand by and watch. Ida said, "What a joy I had listing and watching them perform." She added she had local, county, district, and state winners in 4-H and Farmers Union.

Garland and Lynda both grew up being very involved in 4- H.

Mrs. Leham says that Garland's family has carried on with 4-H.

He and his wife Sandra have one daughter, Kellie and two sons Tracy and Dustin, a grandson and two granddaughters. Mrs. Leham calls Sandra her "wonderful guardian angel."

Lynda has three sons, four grandchildren.

In 1953 the Lehman's dream of building a new home became reality. As always they had youth in mind when they made the plans for their dream home. They built the home large enough to entertain the youth.

The new home had a shadow though. Rex's health begin to fail. At that time he was working for the county and he had to retire due to his failing health.

Mrs. Leham says that she and Rex had entertainment for the youth right up until Rex's death. Their last party was just three months before he passed away.

In 1954 Mrs. Leham went to work for Wichita General Hospital. She worked in various areas of record and bookkeeping during her 20 years there.

During her years at the hospital she met a lot of people and was told she had made a differences in their lives. She recalls as one man was being dismissed he stated that because of her smile she had made his stay at the hospital more pleasant. With a big smile she stated, "If a smile makes a difference, they don't cost a thing and I can smile."

She retired in 1974 to care for Rex and her father, whose health was also failing. She also had 100 head of steers to tend to.

Mrs. Leham was reluctant to talk about her accomplishments in life.

She said she and Rex did not do the things they did for the awards, but for "God's Glory."

She said she had much rather talk about "her students" and all the boys and girls that she has been associated with over the years.

However she did tell me a few of her accomplishments and some of her hobbies.

Mrs. Leham was awarded a partial scholarship from Federal School of Commercial Designing with grading of 93 percent, in 1928, a certificate for courses in credit management from the University of Texas at Austin, Cline College in Christian Culture at the University of Texas, and short courses at Texas A&M in 1926 and '27.

She has also received many awards. To name a few, she was awarded Outstanding Senior Citizen by Chamber of Commerce, honored by Altrusa Club as an outstanding citizen of Wichita County, many trophies for 4-H, and the awards of Pearls and Gold Clover.

She also co-authored a book titled "Our Family, Buffalo River Valley."

Mrs. Leham says she just stumbled into most of her hobbies, such as collecting stamps.

She explained that when Garland was little, her sister got him started collecting stamps. Later when he laid them a side, she took up the hobby.

She also stumbled into collecting decorative plates representing each state. When she worked at the hospital her supervisor gave a Christmas party and served the refreshments on state plates, because most of the women's husbands were stationed at Sheppard Air Base and were from different states. This gave Ida the idea to serve refreshments for her 4-H club on state plates. Before she knew it she had over 100 plates. One she really prizes was given by Mr. Pickens, the best man at her parents' wedding.

She also has a bowl given to her parents as a wedding gift by their grocery man, and a counter pin made by her grandmother.

Her grandmother had sheered the sheep, wove the wool into thread, dyed the thread, red, white and blue. On each corner there is a slave on a horse.

She said she has a number of small things that have been passed down generation after generation. However she lost a number of things when their home was hit by a tornado June 3, 1954.

Mrs. Ida Stowe Lehman is ninety years young, and still very active.

She's proud of her age and her abilities to keep up with house work, walk a mile a day, sew, read, correspond and just enjoy day to day life.

Mrs. Leham is still active in many hobbies.

She says on outings she likes to take pictures of unusual mail boxes and old bridges. Also, reading car license plates, seeing how many three letter words she can spell from the letters on the tag. She stated that now there are fewer letters and more numbers in the tags than there use to be, so she can't get as many words from a tag. She also has a collection post cards.

Mrs. Leham still sews and at this time she is making quilts for her great-grandchildren.

She says of her hobbies, all of great interest to her and she enjoys each equally. However, she says she has the most interest in genealogy.

She enjoys the correspondence involved in genealogy. Through genealogy she has worked on, she has visited with people from all walks of life and from all areas of the country.

She said when her mother passed away she was going through pitchers with her father and had ask him to put names on all the pictures. She had also ask him to go with her to Arkansas and Tennessee where their ancestors were from.

After their trip she bought her father a typewriter. At the age of 84 he went to work on their family genealogy with her. They went back through five family names.

"In 1996 my accident and illness that kept me confined in the hospital and nursing home for three months and following months, all the love from everyone and everywhere that was bestowed on me and is still continuing."

She added, "The wonderful love Iowa Park citizens shared with my family and wonderful kindness.

Boys arrested on sex charges

Two male juveniles were arrested Monday afternoon on charges of aggravated sexual assault of a child, according to the Iowa Park police blotter.

One, age 16, was arrested at the high school, and the other, 15, at the Alternative Education building. Both allegedly confessed and were transported to the county juvenile detention center.

The alleged offense reportedly took place last Thursday, when they were involved with two females, both age 14.

Five other arrests were listed on the police blotter, all on outstanding warrants.

Kristy Lee Robison, 33, was taken into custody Wednesday on warrants for displaying a suspended drivers license and failure to provide financial responsibility. She was released after promising to appear in municipal court.

Simona Gonzales, 17, was taken into custody Thursday on two local warrants: smoking tobacco on school property and simple assault. Gonzales was released after promising to appear in municipal court.

On Sunday, police arrested John Paul Houston, 24, after determining he had an outstanding warrant for speeding. He was later released after promising to appear in municipal court.

Marshall Lloyd Tucker, 18, was found to have outstanding warrants for his arrest that were issued by the Wichita County sheriff's office.

Tucker, who was wanted for forfiture/forgery, no bond, was transported to the county jail by a sheriff's deputy.

Jimmy Lee Via, 28, turned himself in at the police station on a warrant for violation of city ordiance, animal at large. He was released after paying a fine of $190, according to the police blotter.

When police responded Saturday afternoon to a reported domestic disturbance at a residence in the 700 block of North Wall, they arrested Leonard Armstrong, 27, and Jessica Jacks, 21, on charges of Class C assault to prevent family violance.

Both were later released after promising to appear in municipal court.

Council delays taking action

The city council tabled action on a request to cover a sidewalk and install handrails onto the city's right-of-way at the Church of Christ, during Monday night's regularly-scheduled meeting.

Should the council approve the proposal, the church would be required to sign a lease that would concern the affected area, as was the case a few years ago at Faith Baptist Church, according to Mayor Tim Hunter.

Hunter then contradicted Alderman Wayne House's comment that the city would be setting policy if the proposal is approved, saying "No, it's already set."

Two issues on the meeting's agenda were approved, however.

Aldermen voted to confirm the mayor's reappointment of four members to the city's electrical board, including Kenneth McCreary, Doug Hill, Mike Reed and Kenneth Via.

Also approved was a request from the Wichita West Co-op to allow 13 to 15 students free access to the Bicentennial Swimming Pool on three occasions during the summer.

Administrator Mike Price explained that the cooperative had used the pool last in 1996, for swimming lessons. At that time, the school district was in charge of the facility's operation.

The city administrator discussed briefly the council's plans to begin its study of next year's budget, beginning Monday, June 7.

WHAT DOES GOD SAY?

By Ross Saunders

About His grace and man's salvation? Please open your Bible with me. In John 1:17, the inspired Word of God says, "For the law came by Moses, but grace and truth came by Jesus Christ." Augustin (354-430 AD) is credited with the doctrine of inherited sin of Adam, affirming that when Adam sinned, we all became guilty of his one sin. Thus the conclusion that salvation had to be by "cheap grace," that is, grace without man's obedience. He could not conceive of conditional salvation by grace. His monergistic view of salvation by grace alone gave birth to other false doctrines: that babies are born totally depraved, that God has already chosen specific individuals to be saved and all others lost, that God took away man's right of choosing salvation, that Christ died only for the elect, and that once saved once can never be lost no matter how many sins or how evil.

True, one is saved by grace, but can God's "salvation by grace" be separated from obedience to God's truth? The fact that one is saved by obeying Christ (Hebrews 5:8-9) does not nullify God's grace, but answers to it. Neither can obedience to God be equated with "earning salvation." Grace is God's reason for sending His Son to die (Ephesians 1:7), His reason for mercy (Titus 3:5), and salvation (Ephesians 2:8-9). Truth reveals God's teaching and method of administering salvation (Titus 2:11-12). Grace and truth are inseparable. "And the Word has made flesh, and dwelt among us, (and we beheld his glory, the glory as of the only begotten of the Father,) full of grace and truth" (John 1:14). Truth informs us of the conditions of freedom from sin, which were given by God's grace. Grace will not save those who do not obey Christ. "But unto them that are contentious, and do not obey the truth, but obey unrighteousness, indignation and wrath,..." (Romans 2:8). "Casting down imaginations, and every high thing that exalteth itself against the knowledge of God, and bringing into captivity every thought to the obedience of Christ;" (2 Corinthians 10:5).

The Bible nowhere says we "inherit" Adam's sin. God says each is accountable for his own sins. "The soul that sinneth, it shall die. The son shall not bear the iniquity of the father, neither shall the father bear the iniquity of the son:" (Ezekiel 18:20). "So then every one of us shall give account of himself to God" (Romans 14:12; 2 Corinthians 5:10). Man did not lose his free moral agency in Adam (Romans 6:15-18). God has not predestined some individuals to be saved and other lost, for He is "no respecter of persons" (Acts 10:34). Salvation is by man's choice. "Whosoever will, let him take of the water of life freely" (Revelation 22:17). "And that he died for all, that they which live should not henceforth live for themselves, but unto him who died for them, and rose again" (2 Corinthians 5:15). Obedience is required by the word of God's grace.
