Office of Price Stabilization. "Inflation cost the consumer nearly 7 billion dollars during the last six months of 1950, exclusive of defense expenditures," said Ellis H. Boyd, district director.

During the past year price increases cost almost 17 billion dollars, excluding military spending. This amounts to about $448 a family of four, or $112 for every man woman and child in the U.S. After the removal of price regulations in June 1946, the value of the consumer's dollar had declined to 76.4 cents by August 1948-a 25 per cent cut in pay if an individual's ncome remained the same. Inflation has caused considerable increase in the price of defense goods. For example, before Korea an M-1 rifle cost $41, now it costs $64. Combat boots for infantrymen have doubled in price.

Price increases have leveled off some since the institution of price stabilization. Prices have been held to fractions of previous rises since the General Ceiling Price Regulation was issued in January, 1951. "The OPS does not claim all the credit for stopping the inflationary spiral; other factors such as high inventories and credit restriction certainly helped," said Boyd. However he predicted terrific pressure to increase prices when government defense spending is translated into increased consume ncome this fall and winter.

ast week when I wrote the news he was working on a farm. But then he started digging holes for a gas company. Now he has quit that. He went to East Texas on his vacation on Sunday and will be back before the week is over.

Last I heard, Kenneth was driving a truck for a lumber company. He has to load the truck too, but it is building up his muscles, so he doesn't mind. Maybe someday he will be able to whip Marjorie.

Clifton is working with his dad. His mother told me she thought he had found life was easier in school than it is working. School was a lot of fun in spite of home work, wasn't it, Clifton?

Clifton is still going with Peggy, but she is out of town. She has been in Houston visiting. She may be back soon.

Bobbie Ruth is another telephone operator from our class. I bet when she and Ola Mae and Eva Jane get together they do things their own way

Caroline Sue is still working at Zales. I saw her driving around last Saturday night. Where was Jimmy? We are all real proud of Garland and Page. They won first place in the range conservation contest at A and M college. Good work, boys! Wanda Ann just sits around at home all the time, when she isn't unning around with Charles.

Sandra has been running around so much even her twin can't keep up with what she is doing. She went to San Antonio for a visit with one of our ex classmates. Remember Mickey Swinburn in the eighth grade. He is her latest now. She has been to Nocona to visit her aunt. She and Lucille write letters to each other every once in a while but they haven't seen each other in two weeks. Lucille has been chopping cotton for almost three weeks. She will be through this week, I hope. I hope, J. A. TANNER & SON I hope. You can probably see her around Reaves grocery.
