Livestock Survey

Postmaster R. E. Gilbreath reminds rural patrons of Iowa Park post office to be on the lookout for June Livestock Survey cards. Next week, mail carriers will leave survey cards in a sample of boxes along their routes.

"USDA bases livestock and poultry estimates on replies to the survey," Gilbreath says. "It is important for everyone who gets a card to fill it out and return it to the carrier. This way, USDA gets a representative sample of the area's livestock and poultry holdings."

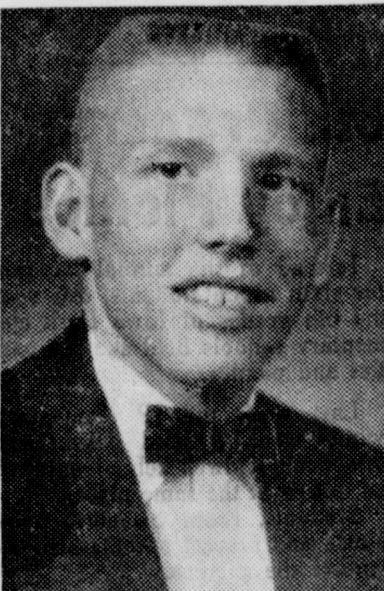

Information from this survey will guide livestock and poultry producers in making important business decisions," Gilbreath concludes.

Carriers assisting with the survey are (Substitute) Taylor George on Route 1 and E. E. Wallis on Route 2.

General Motors Sunmobile Seen by Students

Sunmobile—a model car powered by sunlight—was demonstrated by IP students when General Motors Previews of Progress was presented here Tuesday.

Photoelectric cells on the hood of the 15-inch Sunmobile convert solar energy into electrical power. In the Previews show a 300-watt lamp is used to simulate the sun's rays. As the light strikes the buttonlike cells, the car moves smoothly across the table.

"There are no plans to produce sun-powered cars in the immediate future," GM president John F. Gordon declares, "but the Sunmobile symbolizes the challenges to inquiring minds of scientists and engineers, and hints at the tremendous secrets of power and energy which wait to be unlocked by researchers and technicians."

According to Previews lecturer Jerry Bishop, who appeared here with the show, solar energy falling on one square mile of ground each day is equivalent to the energy in 400,000 gallons of oil. The Sunmobile illustrates one method of utilizing some of this energy.

Among eight other demonstrations were a roaring jet engine, a vivid illustration of the evroscopic principles that guide today's ships, planes and missiles, and a small vehicle that skims over land or water on a cushion of air.

Type 3

Iowa Park will join other area towns and counties in the mass Type 3 Oral Polio Vaccine to be conducted Sunday, May 19.

The clinic will be set up in the high school cafeteria from noon until 6:00 p.m. with Dr. Gordon G. Clark as chairman. He will be assisted by Doctors Erwin Soell and Earl Watson, his associates at Park Clinic.

This is a one-day mass administering of the vaccine. If anyone should care to take it later, he will go to the Health Center in Wichita Falls. Heretofore for Types 1 and 2, two Sundays were used, but remember, this Sunday only for Type 3.

Everyone over three months old is urged to take Type 3 even if they missed the other vaccines.

Type 3 polio accounts for 40 percent of all cases of paralytic polio and is the second most prevalent. Many who have taken the other vaccines are anxious to receive Type 3, particularly those who come in contact with children.

This program is free, but donations of 25c each will help defray the cost of these clinics.

Young and old alike are urged to remember Sunday as Polio Day and go to the school cafeteria for Type 3 oral polio vaccine.

The 1964 Wheat Referendum

by L. J. Lane

During the wheat referendum campaign farmers have been subjected to a host of claims that the government should get out of agriculture and that passage of the program would destroy freedom of individual choice.

What the program's detractors neglect in these charges, is that government has been in agriculture for over 100 years, because agriculture is vital to the nation's welfare.

To talk about leaving agriculture and farm people completely out of government is completely impossible—and if listened to seriously it could result in national disaster.

As to the destruction of freedom of individual choice, such claims against the program are not only incorrect, but the application of freedom of individual choice to almost any activity in our society amounts to a license to do whatever one wants to. That wouldn't be tolerated in our democratic society.

Virtually all our laws limit freedom of choice. They are based on our moral code and our moral code is based on our religion.

The doctrine of freedom to farm will usually be found coming from groups whose existence and profits come from laws created that allow them to expand, merge and sometimes manage supply and demand. Obviously they prefer those to whom they sell and from whom they buy to remain disorganized and competing with each other.

Such talk usually comes from groups that have attained a profitable supply and demand relationship and are now saying in effect, "Let us live comfortably in civilization while you continue to struggle for survival in the jungle."

get a certificate for milling or export would be forced on the market at discount prices. Livestock, dairy, and poultry farmers would get their medicine next as low feed prices always result in greater production of meat.

According to a report in the Congressional Record of April 29, 1963, Vol. 109, Pg. 6850, the McCone county, Mont., ASCS committee and the office manager wrote their congressman Jim Batin on April 22, 1963, complaining that Harry Pipal, state office employee of ASCS, had instructed them to carry out certain activities that would tend to influence a "Yes" vote in the May 21st referendum. The instructions in brief are: (1) The county committee was to select four wheat farmers who favored a "Yes" vote as promotional men, (2) That $900 had been made available and was earmarked for use in McCone county to promote a "Yes" vote, (3) A poll watcher was to be set up at each polling place to appraise the people who are voting and should it come to his attention that certain farmers who are known to favor a "Yes" vote have neglected to appear, he is to contact that farmer and encourage him to vote. United States Department of Agriculture has announced wheat price support levels in 2858 counties. If each county was provided a fund of $900, a total of $2,572,200 in taxpayers' money would be involved in promoting a "Yes" vote.

Fellow Wheat Grower. You should consider this question before making up your mind on how to vote. "If this referendum is only another 'little' wheat referendum as advocated by the proponents and some employees of the USDA, why then is it necessary for all the activity by the ASCS as pointed out by the committee of McCone county, Mont?" A "No" vote would be paving the way and making it possible for sound, sensible, and voluntary legislation such as forecast by the Farm Journal in the May issue, which predicts in event of a "No" vote the Congress would merely include wheat in the feed grain bill with price support to be set by the Secretary of Agriculture at 65-90 per cent of parity. This would mean if the Secretary chose the minimum the price of wheat would be $1.62 per bu. Usually because of political pressure the Secretary uses the high level instead of the low.

Mr. and Mrs. I. R. Monaghan visited in Houston over the weekend with their daughter Mr. and Mrs. James H. Brown.

Mr. and Mrs. Norman Marquart and children returned to San Antonio Sunday after visiting here a week with relatives.

by Loys D. Barbour, Director Wichita County Farm Bureau

On next Tuesday, May 21, the wheat growers will decide whether or not American agriculture will begin a compulsory government control supply management program in the United States for the first time. If a "Yes" vote prevails, then wheat will be the first commodity of agriculture to come under the complicated Cochrane-Freeman government supply management trap. The wheat provision of the Food and Agriculture Act of 1962; which the wheat growers will be voting for or against in next Tuesday's Referendum, is practically identical with the wheat provision in the 1961 proposed compulsory control supply management for all commodities of agriculture that was defeated by the Congress.

If wheat farmers voting in next Tuesday's referendum approve compulsory supply management certificate plan for wheat by two-thirds majority, it will put into effect for the first time a two-price certificate plan for wheat which has never been approved by wheat growers before. This plan could mean that the market price of wheat would seek a level near the minimum support price of feed wheat which is announced by the Secretary of Agriculture to be $1.30 per bu. With this condition prevailing wheat farmers would be dependent on government for any price above the feed wheat price.

The Supply Management Certificate Plan for wheat would automatically wreck the feed grain market as all wheat that did not

Can you find the water heater in this picture?

It's under the counter between the sink and the dishwasher to deliver hot water faster where it's needed most frequently. Because an electric water heater is flameless and needs no flue, it can be installed almost anywhere, close to the point of greatest use. This ends long waits for hot water to reach the faucet and reduces waste due to water cooling in the pipes. An electric water heater with immersed heating elements is fast and efficient, too. It heats the water, not the tank. And because it's flameless, it's clean, safe and completely silent in its operation. See the quick recovery electric water heaters now on display. Your appliance dealer or plumber will gladly help you select the model that best fits your needs.

The three boys selling the most tickets—John King, Roy Cleveland, Gary Terrell—were selected to camp overnight. Grover Cleveland, assistant scoutmaster, stayed with them. John is senior patrol leader; Roy and Gary are the two newest members of the troop.

Iowa Park did not have high enough per cent of its boys present on Friday and was slow getting set up. This cost the troop some points. They did receive a red ribbon and some experience.

Grandma's Rocking Chair

by Mrs. R. E. Van Horn

It's been some three weeks since I've had time to sit and rock and cogitate and I probably would not be writing now except that I've swapped my rocker for an air force C-54 and at this moment am 7000 feet above terra firma on my way to Randolph AFB for three days temporary duty.

It's been some 10 years since I had such an assignment and it's an enjoyable experience after the hectic rush ament the Flower Show just to sit and relax and let our pilot bring us to our destination.

This seat is highly uncomfortable—being the bucket type and besides I am wearing a chute—though I've often wondered if I'd have the presence of mind to pull the cord if it ever became necessary.

As I left home to make our 7:00 a.m. take-off, Smokey crawled into the car with me. He hates to see me leave in the morning and is always sitting atop the piano when I return in the afternoon.

I pulled a stupid blunder—another one. In the rush to get a week's work done in two days I left my new shoes at the office, so here I am going visiting and hobnobbing with all sorts of VIP's in a pair of old shoes and my nice new ones are sitting under my desk awaiting my return!

This morning is as bright as a new dollar and the countryside is spread out below like a patchwork quilt. I like to fly—it always gives me a new perspective. The world is so large—yet from the air it looks so small and all our problems shrink accordingly.

The pilot has promised us a smooth flight with fair weather. Last time I flew in this type plane it was loaded with draftees on their way to Lackland for basic training. None had flown before—the rest of us amused ourselves by relating stories about bailing out. Well, we're almost there—time to fasten belts and prepare to land. I'm sure it will be smooth as cream—as our lives can be if we trust in our Pilot.

Flight home was made in two segments via commercial air. I hope we accomplished what the Boss expected. Arrived home Friday night to find Smokey sitting on the piano.

Animals at our house are in a tailspin. Last fall the No. 1 grandson shot his first deer and had the head mounted and we hung it in our den, to the consternation of all dogs and cats on the place. Every time one of them walks into the den, the deer is looking at them, so they skeddaddle out of there. Red sniffs the air all around each time he comes into the house—hoping that THING has gone while he was away. Smokey refuses to come into the den even to take his regular evening nap on my lap. He sails out of there and doesn't stop until he reaches the south window in the dining room, which is as far away as he can get and stay in the house!

I wonder how many of us rush around being afraid of something or somebody when the object of our fright is totally oblivious to our fear.

Latest bulletin — We hung a sheet over the deer head and all is serene. Those dogs and cats just didn't like the look in that deer's eyes!
